"THE NEWS" WILL SEND BOTH MEN TO CHICAGO.

The Contest for the World's Fair Trip Ended—The Two Leaders Heartily Congratulate Each Other and All are Happy.—They are to be Insured for $6,000.

THE NEWS a few weeks ago offered to furnish free to our most popular fireman a railroad ticket to Chicago and return, one week's admission to the World's Fair, and good accommodations while there, including board and lodging for six days, during his stay, besides sundry other things in the form of entertainments specified.

The question as to who was the most popular fireman was to be decided by News' readers, who were to send in on a News coupon, cut from the paper, the name of the one they considered the most popular.

The names of thirty-five good firemen were sent in, at the contest, and the vote for each one was recorded and published day after day as received.

Last evening at six o'clock was the time set to close the polls, and so begin counting all votes received since the reading of the hour, leaving those published as received yesterday morning up to noon.

A committee of firemen was selected, at our request, by the two leading candidates, to count the votes. They chose:

Mr. Guillermo Thorn, member of the Firemen's Relief Association (exempt) of Gazelle Engine No. 1, Plainfield.

Mr. Thomas Lyness (exempt) of Plainfield Engine No. 2, Plainfield.

Mr. Julius Stahl, foreman Warren Engine No. 1, North Plainfield.

Mr. Eugene Marcile, a brother in-law of ex Chief Saltzman, also assisted.

The counting was begun soon after six o'clock and conducted in such a business-like manner that it was completed within an hour, and the result for the two leaders declared, which made the total vote as follows:

H. J. Martin. Warren Engine Co....	20757
A. Saltzman. Alert Hose No. 1.....	16700
Chas. W. Smith, Engine Co., No. 3.	3724
H. B. Rogers, Engine Co. No. 2.....	1194

Jacob Schenck, Engine Co. No. 3.....	2
J. L. Blackford Gazelle Engine Co....	1
W. N. Tier, Gazelle Engine Co.....	1
A. Low, Sr., Gazelle Engine Co.....	1
E. McCann, Zephyr H. & L. No. 1.....	1
G. Conover, Warren Engine Co.....	1
S. B. Joseph, Warren Engine Co.....	1
Grand total.....	45789

The committee declared Mr. Martin the winner by a majority of 4,057 over Mr. Saltzman, whose friends had enabled him to so far distance all other competitors that their friends had practically given up some time ago.

When the result was declared, ex Chief Saltzman approached and, shaking hands with ex-Chief Martin, congratulating him most cordially, and in a manner that did him great credit, endeavoring to conceal his own disappointment. It was generally believed Mr. Saltzman's friends would surely land him a winner.

Mr. Martin then received congratulations from all present, and acknowledged them most gracefully, in a few remarks.

Mr. T. W. Morrison, for The News, then presented Mr. Martin with the kind contribution of Mr. Jacob Miles of $10 in cash.

A $36 railroad ticket from New York to Chicago and return, entitling the holder to the best accommodation the company has, and to go and return when he pleases and on any train, and allowing him to stop over as long as he desires at Niagara Falls, each way, and by the Erie road, so noted for its picturesque scenery, was also presented Mr. Martin by Mr. Morrison, who stated that he could furnish the winner with an $18 excursion ticket on day coaches, good for only ten days, and comply with the terms of his agreement, but he preferred to do more than he promised, and the best that could be done.

Mr. Morrison next handed Mr. Martin the contract of the Columbian Tourist Co., which is backed by $450,000 capital, and has the reputation of doing more than it promises. The Company will have a uniformed employe meet Mr. Martin on the train within 100 miles of Chicago, give him his choice of hotels or private houses, take charge of his baggage, and provide him with good accommodations, and with ad missions to the Fair for six days, and with other entertainment, all free of expense to him.

Mr. Morrison then turning to ex-Chief Saltzman, said that he had been planning for weeks to arrange so that neither of the leading contestants or their friends would be disappointed and to that end took great pleasure in presenting Mr. Saltzman with a $36 ticket precisely the same in all respects as that received by Mr. Martin, and with accommodations as an excellent hotel for one week.

Mr. Saltzman was most agreeably surprised, and acknowledged the gift in a happy manner.

On account of the illness of a member of the firm with which Mr. Saltzman is connected he is not sure that he can get away, but hopes to, as we are sure will also his host of friends.

All the community will join THE NEWS in wishing both Mr. Martin and Mr. Saltzman a jolly good time.

A Card of Thanks from Mr. Martin.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—I wish to thank all who have in any way assisted me in your "World's Fair Contest." It is gratifying indeed to know even one has so many friends, and I fully realize that the single votes are what have counted in this test and resulted in this handsome total of over 20,000. I would particularly thank those friends, unknown to me, in the Second ward, and Mr. Dandelet, who have continued to send coupons by mail and cannot from me their identity. I would be glad to take each by the hand and personally thank them, as well as all others who have handed me their votes, collected by them from neighbors and friends. I shall ever remember them all, as well as the members of Warren Engine Co., who so nobly helped me.

Respectfully,
HORACE J. MARTIN.

A Card of Thanks from Mr. Saltzman.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—Please allow me space in the columns of your paper to express my thanks to the many friends who have so generously and zealously aided in placing to my credit, in the "Fireman's contest," such a large vote. I am reminded, in this connection that a very few only of the members of Alert Hose Company are actively faithful and deserve my grateful appreciation.

Very respectfully,
A. SALTZMAN.

The Firemen to be Given a $6,000 Life Insurance.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS: We have been very much interested in your Fireman's contest, and now that it is over, we will give to the winner a $6,000 accident policy covering him for the week that he is on his trip. The writer has heard it his opinion that you think of giving the two highest men each a ticket. If that is the case our offer will hold good for both. If our offer is accepted, please ask the winners to call at our office before leaving and we will give them their policies.

Yours very truly,
VAN BUREN & THOMSON, Agts.

The best time, 15 minutes and 31 seconds, was made by V. Green. A leather medal was awarded the last one in, bearing the inscription: "Last. Five mile bicycle race, P. A. C."

Three standing broad jumps, G. Smith won with 34 ft. 11 in. to his credit. N. Probasco second, 22 ft. 6 in. J. La Boyteaux, third, 22 ft. and 11 in.

One mile bicycle race won by V. Green, scratch, in 2 min. 56 sec. A Crane, scratch, time 3 min. 1 sec. W. Cornwell, 30 yards, third, time 3 min. 4 sec.

Putting the shot — twelve pounds—Smith cut-distanced a large list of competitors in by a toss of 36 feet. N. Probasco, second, 31 ft. 10; B. Honeyman, third, 19 ft. 8 in.

330 yards dash, won by F. Shroder. Time 1 min. 15¼ sec., J. LaBoyteaux, second, B. Honeyman, third.

High jump—Won by V. Green who cleared 4 ft. 7 in., G. Smith, 4 wood, 4 ft. 6 in., J. LaBoyteaux, third, 4 ft. 5 in.

Two-mile handicap bicycle race. Four starters.—V. Green, scratch, won in 6 min. 3 sec. and T. Smith 7 min. 36 sec.

Running broad jump won by T. Smith. Distance, 15 ft. 1¼ in. J. La Boyteaux, second, with 14 ft. 11¼ in.; G. Smith, third, 14 ft. 7¾ in.

Half-mile run—Easily won by F. S. Shroder, 2 min. 30 sec.

V. Green won 7 prizes.

The values of the events were as follows: Scorers—W. West, E. Serrell, V. Christoferson. Timers—D. Stevens and C. Morse. Judges—T. Cummings. C. Morse, and S. C. Crane. Starter—N. Titsworth.

The points were as follows: V. Green, 26; G. Smith, 13; F. Shroder, 9; F. Smith, 8; J. LaBoyteaux, 8; N. Probasco, 5; B. Honeyman, 4; A. B. Crane, 3; J. Keefe, 2; E. Orington, 1; W. Cornwell, 1; W. Kitchen, 1.

The prizes donated by merchants were: One dozen tooth powder by J. C. Allen; catching mitten by Harper; one dozen ice cream soda at Randolph's; silk handkerchief by Sebring; vase by Gavett; Reading glass by Estil; penknife by Hoffdorf; souvenir spoon by Van Emburgh; gold headed cane by Doane; luggage carrier by Magee & Co; pair of suspenders by U. R. Crane; bicycle lamp by Rogers; seven dozen safety pins, two napkin rings, two spoons and a sweater were Mr. White's contribution. The engraving on the different prizes was donated by Wm. Watters.

No More Racing Through Cranford.

An ordinance has been passed by Cranford which provides that a wheelman shall be fined $5 if he rides through that township in any costume except one which covers all of his body but his arms. No more short stockings and short breeches while riding through Cranford. This destroys the Elizabeth-Cranford ten-mile race course, one of the best in the country. The Century runs too, hereafter, must be so arranged as to slow up at Cranford or pass around the outside of that township, for the rate of speed for bicycles is ten miles per hour.

Daley Will Pitch To-Morrow.

William Daley, the Poughkeepsie's crack pitcher, will pitch for the Crescents to-morrow in the game against the New Jersey Athletic Club team.

SEPTEMBER WEATHER.

NOT WHAT IT WILL BE BUT WHAT IT HAS BEEN

For the Month of September for 28 Years—The Warmest September in 1881, with an Average Temperature of 75 Degrees.

OT weather has prevailed during August, and as to-day is the first of September, proportionately wonder what the weather, which is a subject more discussed perhaps than any other is apt to be during the month. No one can tell positively what it will be, but the following tells what kind of weather we have had for September for the last 29 years:

Mean or normal temperature, 67 degrees.

The warmest September was that of 1881, with an average of 75 degrees.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

Hurricane No. 3 coming.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1. (Special.)—Hurricane, No. 3 is slowing coming this way.

CUT HER THROAT WITH A KNIFE.

Mrs. Buchman of Linden Commits Suicide While Temporarily Insane.

Mrs. Emma E. Buchman, twenty-nine years old, wife of John Buchman, a farmer of Linden, cut her throat with a butcher's knife Wednesday night. She was alone in the house with her three children at the time.

Her dead body was discovered later by her oldest daughter, seven years old, and the child ran screaming into the field, where her father was at work, and told him what had happened. Mr. Buchman was overcome at the terrible sight.

His wife has been ill since the birth of her last child, and her death is supposed to have been prompted by temporary insanity.

Literary Note.

As an illustration of the money paid to writers as soon as they acquire a reputation, the September Cosmopolitan contains three short stories, the literary work for which the sum of sixteen hundred and sixty six dollars was paid. Ex-President Harrison, Mark Twain and William Dean Howells are the three whose work commands such a price.

The September number has more than one hundred illustrations, giving the chief notables of interest in the Columbian Exposition, and the Fair is treated by more than a dozen authors, including the Director General, Walter Besant, the Midway Plaisance, by Julian Hawthorne; Electricity, by Murat Halstead; the Liberal Arts Building, by Kuns, the famous gem expert of Tiffany & Company; the Department of Mines, by the chief of that department, etcetera.

A feature of this number is a story by Mark Twain entitled "Is He Living or Is He Dead?"

In consideration of the vast volume of travel, from the former resorts and to the World's Fair, which is sure to take place in September, Bonner issues a "Second Travel Number" for this month. Not only are accounts and incidents of travel made a feature of it, but all of the stories are of a character peculiarly suited to the needs of the traveler. They are sparkling, short, and of remarkable variety. This magazine is issued by Romance Publishing Company, Clinton Hall, Astor Place, New York, at 25 cents a number, or $2.50 a year.

How Were His Horses Poisoned?

Three horses belonging to Dwight Bigrs, farmer of Millburn, were found dead in a pasture field on Thursday. Another horse was ill and its head was frightfully swollen. Briggs claims that the horses were poisoned with paris green. His neighbors, however, say his animals died as a result of eating garbage. Briggs removes refuse from residences at Short Hills. It is claimed that his horses were allowed to pick out what they wished to eat. His place is at present under the ban of the Millburn Health Board.

Veteran Zouaves Rejected.

The Veteran Zouaves of Elizabeth will not be again taken into the New Jersey National Guard. The members are indignant at the manner in which they have been treated by the State military authorities, and especially by Major Gen. Plume, toward whom their anger seems to be principally directed.

Gen. Drake, commander of the Veteran Zouaves, threatens to prefer charges against somebody in connection with the matter, as he alleges his command has been shamefully treated.

The Coffin and Willis Race Postponed.

The Race between Messrs. Coffin and Willis to decide who is entitled to the time prize for which both the men finished the in the recent twenty-five mile handicap road race of the Plainfield Lyceum Cyclers has been postponed from to-morrow to Saturday, Sept. 9, because Coffin's bicycle, which was broken in the original race, has not yet been returned to him by the manufacturers to whom it was sent for repairs.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Vacation Is Over.

Soon the sound of the schoolbell will be heard in the land. Towheaded young ones, sun tanned and freckled in the long, happy respite from prison walls and lessons, will cast one regretful look back at the scene of their freedom and turn to the old tasks. They will throng the doors and besiege the halls of learning. It is to be hoped that this fall there will be room for them. Our population, though it disappointed some of the people at the time of the last census in not being large enough, has outgrown its schoolhouse room. In all the large cities children run wild in the streets and grow into villainy because there is not school room to house them and train them to be useful citizens.

One cause of lack of room is that the course of instruction in America has become top heavy, and too much money has been lavished on the high schools and ornamental branches. If a child is thoroughly well grounded in arithmetic, reading, writing, geography and United States history, all in the English language, no other, it is enough for the state to do, unless there is plenty of funds. The rest of the education the ambitious young student can get for himself.

The foundation in the English branches thoroughly laid is what every state government in this country owes to its children of school age. It is better that there should be not one pupil educated in the high school branches than that ten, or even one, should be deprived of the perfect training in the common branches. This truth will be recognized in the future at any rate. Let us have room, room for the little ones, the forlorn children of foreign parentage who come trooping into the schoolhouses every autumn, unwashed, unkempt, it may be, and not knowing a word of English sometimes. Let every one of them be received and taught morality, English and cleanliness. They have the future greatness of this republic in their hands.

Doubtless in time, too, manual training will more and more take the place of the merely curious and ornamental branches of which our study courses have been partly composed hitherto. American youths of both sexes must have their hands and eyes educated. Most of them need to earn their living in occupations that require the use of the hands.

The Most Enlightened Country.

A recent writer, Mr. King, makes the assertion that Switzerland today is the most enlightened country in civilization. It has employed the referendum for many years, while other nations have not yet even tried this method of ascertaining the popular will in regard to legislative measures. On questions of reform and human progress Switzerland has taken the most advanced ground and leads the world. Mr. King mentions some of the reforms the little republic among the hills is accomplishing:

As far as human eye can judge and human reason can, the tricks appear not only to have developed the political virtues and realized Christian brotherhood more completely than any other nations, but to have better hopes of withstanding the dangers which are now threatening society at large. The evils of drink they have already attacked by placing the manufacture and wholesale trade in spirits in the hands of a government monopoly, and thus have largely reduced the average consumption of spirits per head of the population. The evils of impurity and crimes connected with sexual vice are comparatively light and never the numbers or illegitimate births of divorces are proportionately few and decreasing in face of an increase of the population. Suicide, intemperance, the spirit of cruelty and lawlessness are severely felt than in other lands the rate of interest is low, and the rate of wages is high, at least compared with the surrounding lands. The political leaders of progressive and democratic views are in vote not always equal to that Christian faith nor contemptuous of Christian morality, as is so generally the case in the countries of Europe. A remarkable feature of the times is the Swiss political annual, in which a more earnest and deeply Christian spirit breathes than in any other European political work of the same importance.

The international socialist congress that recently met in Zurich, Switzerland, distinguished itself by its nullities and peaceful counsels. It emphasized more strongly than ever the gradual parting of the ways between the socialists and anarchists. The anarchists were practically excluded from the deliberations of the socialist convention. They will probably have nothing left now but to come to America and rave. The congress passed a resolution favoring universal suffrage, including woman suffrage. It likewise passed an urgent resolutions demanding that the work of women should be limited in factories and other establishments outside their own homes to 10 hours a day, that of girls to 6 hours a day. The resolution was aimed especially at such places as sweaters' shops.

Three young ladies of noble birth and great beauty in Vienna all took the sun's vows on the same day lately because of disappointment in love. The dispatches do not inform us whether they were all in love with the same fellow or not. But if a girl has no other motive for turning religious than that she has been disappointed in love, then she has very poor reason.

"How can 4,000,000 infinitesimal microorganisms, with their psychic idiosyncrasies, their perfect sensory and motor systems, their wondrous digestive, assimilative and circulatory organs, occupy a space no larger than a grain of sand?" Well, we give it up.

ROTTEN TIMBERS BROKE

A Train Crashes Through a Flimsy Structure.

FIFTEEN BODIES ARE RECOVERED.

The Chicago Express on the Boston and Albany Wrecked Near Springfield, Mass., and Perhaps Twenty Persons Killed. Thirty or More Injured.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 1.—The Chicago limited express train for Boston broke through a frail bridge on the Boston and Albany railroad 1½ miles east of Chester, and four Wagner cars were crushed, killing at least 15 persons, fatally injuring several others, while at least a score are badly hurt. The wreck is the worst ever known on the road.

The bridge was being strengthened for big locomotives, and the workingmen who were putting on the plates were at dinner when the crash came. The locomotive passed over the structure, but was smashed, the water tank being thrown a long distance. The buffet, two sleepers and a dining car were smashed to kindling when they struck the stream 20 feet below, but two day coaches and a smoker in the rear did not leave the track.

There have been 15 dead bodies taken out, and the majority of them have been identified.

List of the Dead.

The list of the dead is as follows:
Miss Emma Doherty, Columbus, O.
H. C. Ives, Chicago.
T. Everett Sedgewick, Palmer, express messenger.
James McMasters, Springfield, brakeman.
J. H. Murray, Greenbush, N. Y., baggage master.
George H. Morse, Boston, Wagner car conductor.
J. C. Stackpole, Hartford.
R. C. Hitchcock, Bellows Falls, Vt.
J. E. DeWitt, Portland, Me., president of the Union Mutual Life Insurance company.
Thomas Kelly, Boston, blanket manufacturer.
Miss Susie Cottine, Boston.
Mrs. C. Bishpam, Philadelphia.
Mrs. J. S. Wheeler, Dedham, N. Y.
An unknown woman, plainly dressed, apparently about 25 years of age.

List of the Injured.

The injured are:
Mrs. Rev. Dr. Lewellins Pratt, Norwich, Conn.; cut head; right thigh sprained.
Robert Carpenter, Boston, Wagner car porter; badly scalded.
Murray Graves, Boston; fracture of right thigh and broken forearm.
Ethel Carson, Dalton; shoulder sprained.
John R. Carson, Dalton; bruised.
Louis Buchanan, Boston; badly bruised.
Rose Stephane, Springfield, Italian; fractured ribs.
Mary Sadie, Springfield, Italian; bruised.
John Piatt, Riverton, N. J.; bruised.
John Main Piatt, Riverton, N. J.; bruised.
Mrs. Dr. Alice Littel, Brooklyn; bad scalp wound.
M. F. Losch, Rutsfall; fractured left thigh.
Mrs. James T. Eldridge, Boston; broken hip; fractured shoulder.
Wellesley Porter, buffet porter, Boston; fractured thigh.
Arthur Williams, Lenox; bad scalp wound.
Frank Long, Chicago; bruised chest and back.
Winthrop Wade, Boston; fracture of left thigh.
Mrs. Helen Rich, Pittsfield; cut face.
Walter Hawkins, Pittsfield; bad scalp wound and serious contusion of mouth and nose.
Lewis Mitchell, Albany; badly bruised and fractured ribs.
William Horton, Albany, locomotive engineer; badly bruised; left hip broken and internal injuries feared.
J. Waldron Johnson, Boston, porter; bad scalp wound.

There were about 15 seriously injured and five or six may die.

The train was seven minutes late at Chester, and the railroad hands say it was going at the rate of 20 miles an hour when it struck the first of the two spans across the Westfield river. The locomotive seemed to leap across the bridge, as the trusses collapsed and fell over to the south. The conductor was taking tickets in a day coach, and although thrown violently down escaped serious injury. A man driving by gave the alarm through the village street.

In a few minutes hundreds were on the scene. The shrieks of the imprisoned were terrible, and those of people looked on completely unnerved. The heroes of the hour were Dr. George L. Wood of Collinsville, who went to the train to meet his wife, and the colored porter, red waiters in the dining car. Although their faces were bruised and cut and covered with blood, they did splendid work.

The Dead as a Morgue.

The hospital was a group of apple trees in an adjoining orchard, where scores were taken. Ox teams arrived with loads of straw, cushions, bedding and food. The wounded were soon removed to houses, and all that remained on the apple strewn ground were a few covered with red blankets from an adjoining stable.

The dead were many of them horribly mutilated—heads crushed in, limbs torn and often only recognizable from the clothing. Mr. Scull of Philadelphia was with his sister, Mrs. Bishpam, in a Wagner car. She was instantly killed, and he was pinned down, but finally extricated.

The body of Miss Susie Cotting of Boston was identified by Miss Andrews, daughter of Edward Andrews, president of the Security Safe Deposit Company of Boston. Mr. Andrews was unable to get a seat in the Wagner cars and so went into a day coach with his daughter and Miss Deal of Boston. They were not injured.

Mrs. John J. Howard of Boston, whose stage name is Hattie Blanchard, was one of the five saved in the sleeper next in front of the dining car, which was the worst wrecked. She left Albany, where the John L. Sullivan company had appeared the night before.

She says that she felt the car going down and reached for her hat in the seat in front. In an instant she was pinned down by a beam across her waist. She extricated herself and turned to Mrs. Bishpam, who was crying for help. Her head was wedged under a car seat arm. When she saw that it was impossible to extricate the woman, the poor victim squeezed her hand with a "God bless you! Goodby!"

R. F. Hawkins, whose employees were at work on the bridge, and the railroad officials are confident that the bridge did not fall from weakness, and there is no evidence that any carelessness of the men, such as leaving tools around, helped to derail the train.

Mr. Hawkins has a tentative theory, which agrees with the supposition that the locomotive, a heavy six wheeled one, struck the bridge a heavier blow than it could bear. The bridge was built about 20 years ago by the Lehigh & Hudson company and had been rebuilt once or twice.

TWO ULCERATED TEETH.

Stepfather-in-law Perrine Talks About Mr. Cleveland's Condition.

BUFFALO, Sept. 1.—Henry E. Perrine President Cleveland's stepfather-in-law says that he and his wife have been considerably annoyed and worried over the reports indicating that Mr. Cleveland's health was so badly shattered that the worst fears for the future were entertained. Speaking of these reports, Mr. Perrine said to a reporter:

"They are terribly exaggerated and sensational. Through Mrs. Cleveland we learn of the president's case in a week, and nothing has come to us to justify the reports which have been sent out. We received a telegram Wednesday stating that the president was perfectly well and that he and his wife left Gray Gables that day.

"The president was worn out and needed a perfect rest. This he has obtained and is thoroughly enjoying it. He was also suffering from an ulcerated tooth, which had not been properly attended to, and the ulceration, spreading, had affected a neighboring tooth and a portion of the jawbone. Both teeth were extracted, and the diseased portions of the bone were removed. The operation was successful and produced the desired relief. This has been the extent of the president's illness, and, as I said, he is now thoroughly recovered and is as well as ever."

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The World says today: "A surgical operation was performed on President Cleveland. It was performed on board the yacht Oneida, July 1, while the president was aboard Mr. Benedict's steam yacht Oneida, just off Sag Harbor, L. I. Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of New York was the operating surgeon, and he was assisted by Dr. Erdmann, his partner; Dr. Keen, an eminent Philadelphia specialist, and Dr. Hasbrouck, a New York dentist, who was taken along to administer the gas."

This statement is followed by two columns of details of the operation, by which two ulcerated teeth and a piece of the jaw bone were removed.

FALL RIVER BANKS CAUGHT.

$3 In Charged That a Number Falsified Bills of Lading.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 1.—A big sensation was caused here by the publication of the following article:

"Several of our banks which have discounted notes secured by bills of lading for Cotton Broker Welcome H. Hathaway, who for a score of years had been one of the largest factors in this city, have failed to find the cotton represented by many of the bills of lading. Investigation into the affair is now in progress. The amount involved by the several banks is $107,000. How much collateral behind these bills is good is yet to be ascertained, but it is feared that the amount will prove to be very small."

Five banks are concerned, about as follows: First National bank, $25,000; B. M. C. Durfee Trust company, $25,000; Massasoit National bank, $14,000; Union National bank, $19,000; Pocasset National bank, $14,000. The B. M. C. Durfee company is reported to hold warehouse receipts for about $21,000, and the First National collateral supposed to be worth $1,900. The Metacomet, Fall River National and Second National banks are believed to have escaped.

Bankers here are unable to explain as yet just how they reached their present condition.

Mr. Hathaway refused positively to make any statement. An examination into Mr. Hathaway's affairs began some weeks ago, when his peculiar actions began to attract general attention in the banking community.

This is probably the first time serious trouble has arisen from the use of bills of lading as collateral. It is feared in banking circles that some of them have been used before, but as yet nothing criminal is charged, nor is there a disposition on the part of the bankers to push Mr. Hathaway to the wall.

Charge Against Bank Officials.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The Times today says: "Superintendent Charles M. Preston of the state department of banking said to a reporter that the last quarterly report of the Commercial bank is large. The report made on the 1st of June, contained a false declaration as to the amount of overdrafts. An examination shows that the Commercial bank was insolvent some time before it closed its doors. The officers and directors of the bank may have to answer to charges of criminal mismanagement and perjury."

President and Family In Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—President Cleveland, Mrs. Baby Ruth and the baby nurse, Dr. Bryant, Secretary Lamont and Mrs. Cleveland's maid arrived here this morning. The party came in car No. 60, Wm. Vilas' private car, attached to a regular coach. Mr. Cleveland certainly did not look like a sick man as he stepped from the car. Mrs. Cleveland wore a pearly gray cut long, of dark blue serge and a hat of black straw trimmed with the same quiet color.

A British Captain's Wrath.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Captain Watson, whose schooner Pearl was fouled by the mail of war Kearsarge, claims he was insulted by the seamen of the latter and that the officer on deck refused to order his sailors to help clear away the wreckage. He threatens to lay the matter before the British government.

Thompson Is $19,000 Short.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—A. A. Thompson, who is connected with the Perry Stove company of Albany and manager of their store at 105 Beekman street, is charged with embezzlement to the extent of $19,000 and is held for trial.

VOORHEES' TIGHT REIN.

He Will Allow No Filibustering In the Senate.

PEFFER'S MOTION SIDESTRACKED.

There May Be Debate Without End, but the Repeal Bill Must Not Be Dropped. Wolcott's Eloquent Speech—Ex-Speaker Reed Kept Busy.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The speech of Mr. Wolcott of Colorado against the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act was delivered in the presence of almost all the senators and of a large audience in the galleries. The most telling parts of it and those that aroused and interested the hearers most were some humorous and sarcastic touches, in which he depicted the conversion of Democratic statesmen from their belief in silver and their devotion to bimetallism to the gold monometallism faith of the president.

The next speech was on the opposite side of the question and was made by Mr. Colquitt, the successor of Mr. Gibson of Louisiana. It was his first appearance in the senate as a speechmaker, but the speech was remarkable as a pronounced declaration in favor of unconditional repeal of the Sherman law, although he admitted that the position so taken by him might not meet the approval of his state and might put a bar to his further political career.

Peffer's Resolution Referred.

A motion was made by Mr. Peffer to take up the resolution heretofore offered by him as to national banks refusing to pay depositors checks in currency. Mr. Voorhees said that if senators were not prepared to go on with the discussion he had no objection to other minor matters being taken up, provided the repeal bill was not displaced. He gave notice, however, that if he found at any time that discussion on the repeal bill was exhausted he should ask for a vote.

Mr. Cullom said that he should be glad to aid the senator from Indiana in securing a vote at any time, whether he had made a speech on the bill or not.

Mr. Voorhees said he was aware that it was the intention of senators to indulge in a good deal more debate. He trusted that there would be a liberal allowance for full debate and for full, intelligent discussion, and said that after it was manifest that discussion was exhausted and that it was only kept up in order to consume time he would insist on a vote at every opportunity that presented itself.

There would be no interference with senators who wished to discuss the bill, but there would be interference with the purpose of senators to delay action.

After a colloquy, from which it appeared that if Mr. Peffer's motion was agreed to in the form in which it was made it would displace the repeal bill, the form of the motion was changed so that the repeal bill should be informally laid aside and the resolution as to national banks taken up. The motion was agreed to, and then the motion heretofore made by Mr. Voorhees that the resolution be referred to the committee on finance was carried—yeas, 35, nays, 31.

The resolutions of the house on the death of Representative Mutchler of Pennsylvania were laid before the senate, and resolutions expressive of the sorrow of the senate were offered by Mr. Cameron and Mr. Voorhees, and then adjourned as a further evidence of respect to the memory of the deceased.

In the House.

Thrashing over old straw was the amusement which the house indulged in. The rules of the fifty-third congress were reignited to the background, and the rules of the fifty-first congress came in for the chief part of the discussion.

No new changes were made, and no new answers were interjected, but Mr. Reed was kept upon his feet almost continuously justifying the propriety of his course when he occupied the chair.

The banking and currency and the coinage, weights and measures committees were granted leave to report at any time, and these were the only noteworthy changes made in the new code.

But there is an amendment still pending which, if adopted, may be found to be far-reaching in its effects. It was offered by Mr. Boatner of Louisiana and provides for a practical closure whenever a member is in charge of a measure on the floor sees fit to ask for it. So says Gleason on this amendment before adjournment.

HUNDREDS OF DEAD.

Nearly Four Hundred Bodies Recovered on the Carolina Coast.

BEAUFORT, S. C., Sept. 1.—Over 350 dead bodies have been found on the islands about Beaufort and Port Royal. Over $2,000,000 of property has been wrecked near the same points. Both are the direct results of severe storms which swept along the Atlantic coast Sunday night.

Every one of the 15 or 20 islands lying around Port Royal and Beaufort are in mourning. The beaches, the undergrowth trees and shrubbery, the marshes and the inlets are revealing dead bodies every time an investigation is made.

It is believed that the death roll will run as high as 500. Some of the best people of this section of the state place the loss at more than 1,000. There has not been an hour of any day since the early hours of Monday morning that a dead body has not been found at some point on one of the many islands. So frequent are these discoveries that the finding of a single body attracts no attention at all. It takes the discovery of at least half a dozen or more to induce the people to show any feelings whatever.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Sept. 1.—Further and more distressing news of the disastrous work of the hurricane at Port Royal was received. The number of the dead has been increased from 100 to 600. The people are now suffering for food, and 7,000 negroes, who have been driven to Port Royal by the storm from the surrounding islands and the rice and cotton plantations, are starving. They are in destitute and so badly in need of something to eat that they have resorted to fighting among themselves for food. Several were killed in a fight for provisions.

EMMA GOLDMAN ARRESTED.

Taken by New York Detectives at an Anarchists' Meeting In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—A meeting of unemployed people, at which Emma Goldman was to have been the star attraction, was held at Buffalo hall. It had been advertised as being under the auspices of several unemployed workingmen, and the hall was packed with about 300 people, mostly Germans, Russians and Poles. While the assemblage was being addressed by a man named Langdon, a German rushed in and shouted in his native tongue: "Miss Goldman has been arrested. Arouse!" The effect of this announcement was electrical. Every man in the hall rushed for the door.

Here they were met by a squad of detectives and policemen armed with revolvers and clubs and were driven back into the hall, where they were quieted by a speech by the chairman.

Miss Goldman was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Detective Sergeant Jacobs of New York on the charge of inciting riot in that city. Her arrest was accomplished just as she was entering the hall. Otto Lethe, a Prussian, who was escorting her, attempted to pull her away from the detectives and was locked up on a charge of assisting an officer. Albert Hanson, the man who sounded the alarm in the hall, was also arrested charged with inciting riot.

HOWLAND'S BODY FOUND.

Discovered In a Pool In a Marl Pit at Poplar, N. J.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 1.—The mystery surrounding the strange disappearance of Eden Howland, who has been missing since Sunday night last, when he left the home of Mandlin Black, his fiancee, was partially cleared up by the finding of the body of the aged man in a pool of water in a marl pit at Poplar, N. J., a small hamlet about six miles west of this place.

The body was greatly decomposed, showing that it had been in the water for several days. With the exception of a slight bruise on the dead man's face, no marks were visible. While many people are of the belief that the aged man committed suicide, there are plenty of others who hint at murder.

Mrs. Anna M. Woolley, the proprietress of the boarding house at which Mr. Howland had been a guest for many years, openly charges murder and even charges a man with it.

Tried to Kill Mr. Ridley.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Three men made a deliberate attempt to murder Arthur J. Ridley, a member of the dry goods firm of Edward Ridley & Sons, of Grand street, this city, at Bayport, L. I. A shot was fired at him at close range, but the bullet failed to take effect and lodged in the window casing at which he stood. The attempt was made at the residence of Theodore Allen, where he was visiting. The only motive that can be assigned is robbery.

Honolulu Affairs.

HONOLULU, Sept. 1.—Since the last riot-ing there has been more or less agitation and excitement here. An attempt has been made to unseat the provisional government. The United States consulate was broken into, and documents and papers in Consul General Severance's room were overhauled. Nothing was taken. It is the belief that Hawaii is now practically under a United States protectorate.

The Astoria's Crew Saved.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 1.—A shipwrecked crew arrived in port on the passenger steamer D. H. Miller of Baltimore. It was the crew of the British ship Astoria. The vessel was caught in the hurricane off the coast of South Carolina. For 12 hours the members of the crew were lashed to the yards.

New Haven Negotiates a Big Loan.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 1.—Mayor Sargent has just returned from New York, where he negotiated a loan of $150,000 at 6 per cent to meet the running expenses of the city until the payment of taxes Sept. 1.

DRUNK ON THE BENCH.

Ex-Judge Moran Says Judge Goggin Was Tipsy.

A SCENE IN A CHICAGO COURTROOM

Judge Goggin Overrides the Decision of His Associates and Declares That the World's Fair Must Be Kept Open on Sunday—Two Other Judges Leave In Disgust.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—After a session in court unparalleled in the history of Cook county the famous Clingman injunction suit against the World's Columbian exposition was decided in a most arbitrary manner. Judges Dunne and Brentano, who were called into conference with Judge Goggin to sit on banc and hear the arguments regarding the dissolving of the injunction, rendered a joint opinion in favor of the exposition, and the dissenting judge announced that because the decision was contrary to his views he proposed to disregard it. The many spectators who had thronged the courtroom were scarcely prepared for the startling remarks from the bench which followed this announcement.

"To defeat the majority report of the court I propose to continue this case until the snow flies," said Judge Goggin slowly and distinctly. To make his manner more determined and stubborn he added, by way of emphasis, that it was his only way to defeat the purposes of Attorney Walker, who represented the World's fair.

Shook His Fist at Them.

The decision was given in a wildly incoherent and stammering way and was enforced by a threatening shake of the fist. It resulted in the court's two associates—Judges Brentano and Dunne—leaving the bench in disgust and in the openly expressed sentiment by Judge Moran that Judge Goggin should resign or be removed from office.

Admitting that he was going outside the limits of his evidence, Judge Goggin declared that he was glad to do so. The expression of amazement and shame depicted on the faces of Judges Dunne and Brentano was pitiful. It was reflected in the faces of the listeners.

"The majority of this court is agreed and is ready to give its decision," came from Judge Dunne. "We have been called into this case, and it is due to ourselves that I read our opinion."

"There is only one judge presiding here, and that is Judge Goggin," said Judge Brentano. "If he chooses to make such an unheard of order, I do not wish to be considered as in the case."

"Let us have the decision of the court," demanded Judge Moran, counsel for the fair.

"You can't close the fair!" shouted Judge Goggin. "The only way to beat you is to continue this case."

"You can't do it," answered Judge Moran.

Judge Goggin then delivered the most remarkable harangue ever heard from the lips of a jurist. He railed bitterly against the code borrowed from English laws, reviled Coke, Hallam and a score of names held sacred by bench and bar, called Sir Matthew Hale a "common creature" and Coke a "common mother," said that English judges were always ready to hang people, maintained that Georgia was filled with people transported for sheep stealing and read a touching extract from Lord Coleridge's public park decision.

Associate Judges Retire.

While this talk was going on Judges Dunne and Brentano made repeated efforts to induce Judge Goggin to leave the bench. At each renewed request he angrily brushed them aside.

The combined efforts of the judges and bailiffs finally prevailed upon Judge Goggin to consent to retire for a conference. Arguments to dissuade him from his course, however, proved futile. He went back to the bench. It was then that Judges Dunne and Brentano announced that they would retire from the case. They did so, leaving Judge Goggin boss of the situation.

Judge Goggin said that no one dare abuse him off the bench and then entered the order to continue the case 60 days.

As the case stands now the Clingman injunction is in full force and the gates must remain open. At the elevator Judge Goggin remarked to Captain Black:

"I will catch — for this day's work." He also said that he intended to resign anyway at the end of his first year's office.

Ex-Judge Moran said: "It is the most deeply disgraceful affair ever witnessed in a court of justice. Judge Goggin was simply so intoxicated that he didn't know what he was about. Maudlin drunk is the only expression that fits his case. The disgraceful aspect of a judge drunk on the bench and sitting to decide a deeply important matter can never be wiped out. Judge Goggin should resign or be removed. The Cook county bench has received a disgrace which will put a blot on the city and county that will be hard to wipe out."

Three Lives Lost In a Mine Fire.

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Sept. 1.—Fire was discovered in mine No. 6 of the Berwind White Coal company at Horatio. Twenty-two men were at work at the time, and 19 of them escaped. Moses Hughes, aged 45, and his two sons—Haron, aged 21, and John, aged 19—were overcome, and their bodies now lie in the mine, 600 feet from the entrance.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

To Elizabeth Mary Whelan and Patrick Whelan, husband of Elizabeth, and Alice Comfort, his wife, Salma Mahlstedt and George W. Mahlstedt, her husband, and John Allan and Mrs. John Allan, his wife.

By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein John R. Marsh is complainant and you are defendants, you, the said, are required to appear and plead, answer or demur, on or before the first Monday in October next, or the second day of October next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you.

The said bill is filed to foreclose a mortgage given by Elizabeth Mary Whelan and Patrick Whelan, her husband, to John R. Marsh on lands in the Townships of Westfield and Fanwood in the County of Union, dated the 15th day of September, dated November 1868 A. D. 1868, and you Elizabeth Mary Whelan, Virgil Comfort, Salma Mahlstedt and John Allan are made defendants because you each own or claim to own some interest in some portion of said lands, and you Patrick Whelan and George W. Mahlstedt are made defendants because you each claim or may claim to have an interest in some portion of said lands as tenant by the curtesy initiate; and you Alice Comfort and Mrs. John Allan are made defendants because you each claim or may claim to have an inchoate right of dower in some portion of said lands.

A WORD OF PROTEST.

A PESSIMISTIC VIEW OF THE BUSINESS WOMAN'S DILEMMA.

The Chief Fault With Woman's Work, According to One Writer, Is Its Flimsiness and Indirectly—How Woman's Dress Influences Her Success.

By direct statement, written and oral, and by implication, I have been made to feel guilty during the past seven days.

It has been pointed out, gently but firmly, that even if one does not believe in the capitalization of woman it is common prudence to pretend to do so in order not to lay one's self open to the charge of lack of consideration for the sex.

In the humble opinion of a hard working woman, women would succeed better in all branches of industry if less consideration were extended to them.

About six years ago I rejoiced in my first newspaper "assignment." I was sent to interview a woman—she is now dead—whom for her character, talent and achievements I had long worshiped afar off. This idol was about to entitle herself to a new pedestal. My paper wanted a pedestal story. The idol refused to give it to me. She sent me away shamed, humiliated, that I should have dared to think a really, truly, absolutely genuine—no tinsel—no sham—no imitation idol would talk about her throne seat or the chances of getting more and higher steps to it.

I lay awake and adored the idol that night.

Next morning in my mail I found a check for money to pay for several hundred copies of the edition that should contain the story the idol assured I would have the common sense to write, she having taken it for granted that I had the wisdom to see she was talking for "humanity" and meant not one word of the fine things about hating newspaper publicity she had so glibly rattled off to me.

This was a dash of cold water upon the warm enthusiasm of a woman who had begun newspaper work with the single purpose of putting into print the progress of women.

Nevertheless I persevered. For four or five years I knew myself to have been the most industrious collector in the city of items about women's work, especially in new lines. I believe myself to have been the best informed woman in the city about women's industries, not in detail in any one branch, but in general, overlooking the whole field.

I have substantial grounds for an opinion when I say a second time that, always reckoning out exceptional individuals, woman's work in its more conspicuous phases is apt to be flimsy—myself to have been the most industrious collector in the city of items about women's work, especially in new lines. I believe myself to have been the best informed woman in the city about women's industries, not in detail in any one branch, but in general, overlooking the whole field.

ABDUCTORS CAUGHT.

THEY ENTICE A THIRTEEN-YEAR-OLD GIRL AWAY.

And are Caught by Marshal Pangborn After a Long and Tedious Search—Both Brutes in Jail.

In Washington Valley, a respectable farmer, Mr. Jacob Kliner, and his wife and family reside. Annie is the name of one of his children. She will not be fourteen years old until next February. She was just budding into womanhood, and has been carefully brought up. She was an active member of the Sunday school and of the Christian Endeavor Society. Between her and Arthur Randolph of South Plainfield, a farm hand in Mr. Kliner's employ an intimacy sprung up, which when the girls father noticed resulted in Randolph two weeks ago being discharged.

Between eleven o'clock last Monday night and five o'clock Tuesday morning he managed to entice the girl away from her home. He was assisted by Adam Stutts also of South Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Kliner were in great distress of mind over this loss of their child. They searched but could find no trace of her. They sought Marshal Pangborn's assistance, and although it was out of his jurisdiction he freely, in such a time as ordered, used his best efforts to their behalf.

The Marshal found Adam Stutts, who had helped Randolph take the child. He promised to show the Marshal where they were, but led him off a false scent to Newark, knowing that Randolph was going in an opposite direction with his victim. His object was to give Randolph time to get out of the State.

When the Marshal discovered the trick he looked up Stutts's jail. Then Stutts, realizing his danger, told where the fugitive was.

The Marshal started on a search through the southern portion of the State, going night and day from house to house among the farmers, and after a closer and closer until he finally at two o'clock this morning located them at Hughes Hotel, Phillipsburg, where they had registered last night as husband and wife. He broke open the door of their bedroom, and completely surprised them.

The little girl burst into tears and sitting up in bed put out her arms pleadingly and said, "Oh, Mr. Pangborn: Won't you take me home to my mamma?"

He traveled all night with them, and reached Plainfield this forenoon, lodging Randolph in jail, and restoring the child to her parents, who were overjoyed at her recovery, as was also the poor girl at getting home.

The offense is a very serious one, and will cost Stutts and Randolph many years in the State Prison upon their conviction.

Randolph said he would have got out of the State with the girl this morning, as he only had to cross the river to reach Easton, Pa.

He had a watch in his possession when captured belonging to the child, which he had taken from her with other of her belongings.

Mr. Kliner intends to prosecute both men to the full extent of the law.

AN IMPORTANT CASE.

A Suit Over a Promissory Note Tried Yesterday.

KNOWLEDGE of little points of the law would save many the expense of going to court.

Yesterday perhaps the first case of its kind ever tried in Plainfield came up before Justice Nash.

It seems that about three months ago Mr. James Mullen was given a promissory note for $100 by his mother. The note was drawn without consideration. Mr. Mullen sold the note to Mrs. Dreier for $75. This was $25 less than the face value of the note.

Recently Mrs. Dreier sued Mrs. Mullen for the full value of the note, or $100.

Lawyer Ridley appeared for the defendant and raised the point that Mrs. Dreier could not receive the face value of the note, and was only entitled to the amount she paid for the note. The note only became incorporeal when she bought it, and the "life" was such as she gave it by purchase. In support of his position Mr. Ridley cited a Supreme Court case.

Justice Nash reserved his decision until next Tuesday.

PERSONAL.

Dr. Endicott of La Grande avenue has returned from the World's Fair.

Mr. Baynum of Indiana is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Frank Huff of Park avenue.

Mrs. Edward White and son of Park avenue have returned from Asbury Park.

Mr. Rugg of Netherwood is seriously ill at his home with inflammatory rheumatism.

Mr. J. W. Jackson of Crescent avenue is home from the Thousand Islands. His family is still there.

Messrs. Horace, Walter and Eugene Moore of East Fifth street, who have been on a yachting cruise, are home.

Judge William A. Coddington and Lawyer Charles A. Reed started yesterday for a few days' trip to Barnegat Bay.

Chairmaster W. H. Miner of the Holy Cross Church has resigned. He just returned from a month's vacation this morning.

Mrs. Voorhees and daughter Nellie, who have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Johnson of Somerset street, returned to Brooklyn to-day.

The United States Senate has confirmed the appointments by President Cleveland of Mr. J. A. Dimarest as consul to Brockville, Canada.

The Misses May and Mattie Rourke, after a delightful sojourn of six weeks at Asbury Park as their cousins, the Misses Jacot of Somerset street, have returned home to Brooklyn.

Mr. William Moore and family of New York, who are visiting at Mr. and Mrs. Cruikshank's on Belvidere avenue, have returned from a cruise in Mr. Moore's yacht "Kanapahen."

The funeral of the late Francis Bernard, who died yesterday morning, will take place to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock, at his late residence, No. 29 Harmony street, North Plainfield. The Rev. Edward Kionka will officiate.

The Rev. Mr. Richardson, pastor of Park Avenue Baptist church, returned yesterday with his family from a Summer outing in Connecticut. Mr. Richardson looks much improved in health and will enter into his work with more vigor than ever. He will shortly begin a series of sermons of much interest, the subject of which he will soon make known.

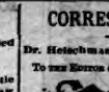
Mr. Charles B. Brown, formerly of this city, now of Minneapolis, where he is assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A., will have charge of the young men's Bible class, at the First Baptist church, to-morrow, at 9.30 a. m. All members and also all former members of his class are earnestly requested to be present. Mr. Brown will also lead the 4.15 o'clock meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

In a letter received by Mr. Robert Wyckoff from Mr. Frank L. C. Martin, who has been enjoying a month's trip, he states that on August 30th, he rode from St. Louis to De Sota, a distance of 45 miles, climbing all the hills between the places with ease. This is considered a great feat in that part of the country, as some of the hills are a mile and a half long. He rode through Port Bresse, Manville, Ballton, Hillsborough and Victoria, following the Mississippi River and crossing the Merrimac. Since Mr. Martin left Plainfield he has visited Niagara Falls, London, Ontario, Chicago, St. Louis, Kansas City and other points.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Dr. Heischmann Replies to "F. K."

To the Editor of The News:—



MY ATTENTION has been directed to a correspondence in The News of August 28, in which "F. K." takes umbrage at some portions of the address I delivered in connection with the corner-stone laying of our new German Evangelical Lutheran church in Plainfield. Permit me to state, Mr. Editor, that "F. K." most thoroughly misunderstood my position. There was certainly no desire on my part to slight the brethren of another church, but the fact is, that at the time when I prepared the address, I had no more idea of the existence of another German church in Plainfield, than Adam ever had. Had I been fully cognizant that there was a German church of young and "leading" in the place, and but three blocks" from where I stood, I should certainly have given them credit for their enterprise and scored the Lutheran side of the house for not emulating the good example before this. As it was, I had no knowledge of any other religious movement among the German element of Plainfield until I arrived in the city. Even then the information which I received, casually and in the course of a conversation with a gentleman—himself a stranger in Plainfield—was so vague and indefinite, that I certainly might have been excused for not embodying it in my address. Nevertheless, after learning from "F. K's" communication the true state of affairs, I take pleasure in correcting so far as in me and the church he represents my sincere regrets for the unhappy omission and tender him the assurances of fraternal regard and distinguished consideration.

However, I would most earnestly protest against the unjustifiable way in which "F. K. substitutes motives for my action. The remark that I represent "that branch of the Lutheran Church which considers itself to be the only legitimate evangelical church on earth" is calculated to convey to the public at large a totally erroneous view of the Lutheran Church and to prejudice, as it seems to me, the Plainfield Americans against their German Lutheran fellow-citizens. There is no branch of the church holding that view and had "F. K" been present when I spoke, he would have found that great stress was laid upon the word "Evangelical" which we place before "Lutheran." Our church is most liberal in her views and cultus. Never did she condemn the sects.

In conclusion permit me to say that to the undersigned—a stranger within the gates—one who fully recognizes and admires the grass twin-church of the Reformation, the church of a Zwingli and Calvin, and whose sympathies are in America's favor in every side, "F. K." might at least have extended the benefit of a doubt before he uncharitably attempts to brand him as the exponent of "a corner in religion."

Very truly yours,
JOHN J. HEISCHMANN.

THE BOYS CLUB OPEN.

86 Boys Attend the First Night.

The Boys' Club opened last night for the year. The Club is now in new quarters, smaller and cooler rooms having been arranged for the boys in the Stowe's Building, on the second floor. The club was formerly on the third floor. Under the excellent supervision of Mr. Bond the boys will have everything homelike and cheerful. There are three rooms all opening into each other. If Mr. Bond has any kind assistance in the evening only one room will be opened.

Tickets were given out last night to each boy as he entered and registered—a careful record is kept of each boy's age, address, and his parents occupation. Three tickets contain the holder's name. As a boy enters each night he is given his ticket which entitles him a book from the library which is in one corner of the room.

The ticket must be given for the book. When the book is returned the ticket is given back. When ready for home the ticket is handed to Superintendent Bond, who is thereby able to keep a record of the attendance. 86 boys attended last night.

'Twas Held in the Parish Building.

The sociable at the new parish building of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Evoca, Thursday night, briefly mentioned in yesterday's News, was in charge of the Women's Friendly Society, referred to as follows: Mrs. C. S. Lewis, President; Mrs. J. Marston, Vice President; Mrs. J. T. Vezlard, Secretary, and Mrs. C. Graves, Treasurer.

The Sunday school room occupies the greater part of the building. It is commodious, bright and cheerful and is finished in hard wood, and the seats for the scholars consist of handsome chairs, which when not in use can be folded up.

A raised platform at the eastern end of the room on either side of which are two smaller rooms. The room on the south side is to be used as the reading room and library and the room on the other side is to be the Assemble room to be used for society meetings.

The piano used was kindly loaned by Mr. J. E. Townsend.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

Praises and Curses for Gladstone.

Dundee, Sept. 7, (Special.)—When the news of the Home Rule bill reached this morning there was great rejoicing. Processions were formed, and marched through the streets, with Irish flags floating above them.

At Belfast Gladstone was denounced by orangemen in counter demonstrations as a traitor to his country.

Base Ball Notes.

Umpire Daley is sick in Brooklyn hospital.

The base ball game on the Crescent oval will be called at 10 o'clock Monday morning. Gentlemen should remember that the reserved grand stand is for the ladies.

Pitcher Tom Daley pitched for the Jersey City in 1889 and 1890 and for the Boston league team in 1891. Hefford was his catcher in Jersey City. Plainfield's old favorite, Washington Borriman, will umpire the game Labor Day morning.

The Cuban Giants have been beaten but three times since their appearance here early in the season. Their batting order for Monday morning's game will be as follows: A. Jones, 2b.; White, 3b.; F. Jackson, 1b.; Williams, c.; Grant, s.s.; Patterson, l.f.; W. Jackson, r.f.; Catto, c.f.; Nelson and Meeller pitchers.

The 100 yard foot race between the players will be run at 2.45, in order to start the game at 10 o'clock.

A large delegation will accompany the team to Elizabeth, Monday afternoon to see them battle with the E. A. C.

At Hotel Netherwood.

One of the most brilliant and enjoyable Summer seasons in the annals of Hotel Netherwood, closed on Thursday. Yesterday inaugurated the Fall season under most favorable auspices, the hotel being largely filled with prominent families and others from New York, Brooklyn and other localities. The incoming visitors from the seaside and mountain resorts will overbalance those leaving for other points, so that from present indications September, the queen month of the Fall season, bids fair to outrival former seasons.

Base Ball at Boynton Beach.

EDITORIAL NOTES

French Leaders.

In France it is the custom to have elections on Sunday, so as to save time for the workingman. The custom would break up this republic speedily if an attempt were made to introduce it here. Sunday or no Sunday, however, the French republic has been placed by the recent August parliamentary elections on a firmer basis than any republic in France ever was before. Royalism is dead, imperialism is dead, forever, and there are not enough mourners left for either to give them a funeral. The imperialists only elected three members.

The principal parties in the coming chamber of deputies will be three—Moderate Republicans, Radical Republicans and Socialists. With the Moderate Republicans will act a large number of so called "Rallied Conservatives," original royalists who have given up the error of their ways and accepted the republic because a majority of their fellow countrymen pronounced for it. That they have done this must be attributed in no small measure to the influence of brave Pope Leo.

The Moderate Republican party will have an overwhelming majority. Under its wing will gather all the former factions of Republicans except the Radicals. The leader will be Constans —"white haired and leonine Constans," a picturesque writer calls him. He is the most powerful and determined public man in the Moderate Republican party, but not so popular as the polished, politic and even tempered President Carnot. Constans was minister of the interior under President Grevy. He is the one rival for the presidency that Carnot has to fear. If Carnot should be elected president for another six years, with Constans for his prime minister, the triumphant success of the French republic at home and abroad would be assured. The other leaders under Constans of the Moderate Republicans will be the ex-cabinet ministers De Freycinet, Rouvier, Ribot and Leon Say. Say is of Jewish descent. Ribot, as minister of foreign affairs, conducted the interchange of communication with the pope, which resulted in bringing the Catholic royalists to the support of the republic.

The leader of the Radical Republicans is of course Clemenceau, fearless, fighting Clemenceau, who by mere force of his personality beat down the enemies that howled forth to the world his compromising connection with Dr. Herz of Panama scandal notoriety. With Clemenceau in the Radical party are Goblet and Floquet. In case of Goblet, Floquet and Clemenceau, all three, reballots are necessary to make them secure of election.

The Radical Republicans, as they call themselves, are more socialistic in their ideas than the Moderate Republicans, and the three leaders, Clemenceau, Floquet and Goblet, are endeavoring to entice to their support the votes of the out and out Socialist party, whose chief strength lies in the manufacturing cities and mining districts of France. The small farmers are almost to a man with the Moderate Republicans.

One fact which shows the utter deadness of imperialism is that the Bonapartist braggadocio, Paul de Cassagnac, who has represented the district in the chamber since 1876, failed of election on the first ballot. Jules Le Pansez, a provincial, except in the memory of the poor peasants who lost their money, it is a hollow phantom—nothing more. It seemed to have even a contrary influence in the elections. Delahaye, who made the accusation in the chamber of deputies, is beaten. So has fallen dead the last great bomb of the enemies of France, the republic.

We have had and have permanently in America eminent Russian artists. We are now to have permanently also a famous Russian novelist, Vladimir Korolenko, who has declared his intention to live hereafter in the United States. Korolenko in his own land is second only in reputation to Tolstoi himself. He writes along the same lines in many respects and is an ardent enthusiast for liberty and the uplifting of the people. For this offense he has been three times banished to Siberia. Perhaps these repeated banishments have at length become somewhat monotonous to the gifted writer, and for that reason he comes to America. He married a Russian woman physician of noble character and abilities,

BUGABOO TILLMAN.

He Predicts Ruin and Says Some Capitalists Should Be Hung.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 2.—The State publishes an interview with Governor Tillman on the money question, in which the governor says:

"The condition of things only shows the viciousness of the financial policy adopted by the Republicans and now being perpetuated by the Democrats. The currency of the country will have to be decentralized and put out of the control of a few hundred capitalists and bankers in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, with power to contract and expand the currency at will. The only way I see to accomplish it is by issuing fiat money, so called.

"They are now fighting to reduce the metallic currency by one-half by making a gold standard. It's the most gigantic scheme of robbery ever attempted, and the people ought to rise in their might and put a stop to it, hanging some of the men who are causing it all if it is necessary.

"They destroy the debt paying power of one-half the coin for the benefit of the debtholders, the bankers and capitalists, and then kill the bankrupt people who contracted these obligations under the bimetallic standard that this country is entitled to as much as any other country. The panic crisis is serious, and I cannot foretell the future.

"I now make the prediction that a crisis is approaching in national affairs, and the floodgates of the people's wrath will be raised and the present conspirators against the people's liberties will be swept from the face of the earth in the next presidential election.

THE LUCANIA STARTS.

The Cunarder Liner's New Floating Palace on Her Maiden Trip.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—The Lucania, sister ship of the Campania, leaves today on her initial trip for America. She was launched in the Clyde Feb. 2 last and made her trial trip Aug. 9, recording a speed of 23½ miles without vibration.

Just after her trial trip the Lucania was in collision with a barge in the Clyde river. Several of her plates were bent and she was put in the dry dock at Birkenhead, opposite Liverpool. Her repairs have progressed satisfactorily, and she is expected to sail on schedule time.

The Lucania's length is 620 feet, breadth 65 feet 3 inches and depth 45 feet. Her tonnage is 12,900; horsepower, 30,000. She has accommodations for 1,400 passengers. The engines are each five cylinder, triple expansion—two high pressure, one intermediate and two low pressure—working three cranks. Of the new Cunarder's accommodations for first class, second class and steerage passengers one can only say that except in the case of the Campania nothing like it exists. Not a single detail to add to the comfort and safety of her passengers and crew, who number 486 men all told, has been omitted on this floating palace.

Receiver For a Big Mortgage Company.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Charles M. Fowler and James M. Gifford have been appointed receivers of the Equitable Mortgage company by Judge Shipman of the United States circuit court. The application was made by James O. Bloss and George K. Gilully, representing the New York Security and Trust company, who are the holders of debentures. It is said that the liabilities of the company will amount to about $1,000,000.

He Had Killed Four Persons.

SPARTANSBURG, S. C., Sept. 2.—George Turner was hanged here. This is probably the most notable hanging that has lately taken place in South Carolina. Turner was the owner of a cotton factory and was worth $50,000. Several years ago he killed two men at different times, but got clear through false witnesses. He killed his sister-in-law and her brother. For three years he spent his wealth trying to evade the death penalty.

German Army Maneuvers Begin.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—The army maneuvers were begun today at Treves with a review by the emperor of the Eighth army corps. The final encounter will occur at Metz. Emperor William, the crown prince of Italy and the other royal personages who are attending the maneuvers as the guests of the emperor are at the Chateau d'Urville, 13 miles from Metz.

A Big Legal Fight On.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—President Abbott of the Wisconsin Central railroad took steps to secure possession of that company's roads, which have been held under a 99 year lease by the Northern Pacific. A big legal fight will be the only outcome of the action.

Howland Was Drowned.

LONG BRANCH, Sept. 2.—Dr. George W. Brown of this city performed an autopsy on the body of Eden Howland, who was found drowned in a marl pit at Poplar. The lungs were full of water, showing that the deceased came to his death by drowning.

Milk Trains Crash Together.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 2.—A train coming from the west ran into a train at the Market street crossing of the Erie railroad. Both were milk trains. There were six male passengers in the car. All escaped by jumping from the windows.

Kidnaped Her Child.

PUTNAM, Conn., Sept. 2.—Mrs. William A. Lee of this place went to Worcester, Mass., and kidnaped Lee child from husband. The couple has separated. There is no clew to her whereabouts.

Young Rawle Sent Himself.

BAY HEAD, N. J., Sept. 2.—Arthur, son of Francis Rawle, a well known Philadelphia lawyer, committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a revolver in his father's cottage here.

The Elmira Reformatory Investigation.

ALBANY, Sept. 2.—President Craig of the state board of charities designated Tuesday, Oct. 3, as the date for the commencement of the investigation of the state reformatory at Elmira.

City of Savannah Heavily Insured.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—The insurance on the wrecked steamer City of Savannah amounted to $200,000.

Bismarck's Rheumatism.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Prince Bismarck's rheumatism still confines him to Kissingen.

MAKE WAY FOR REPEAL.

Senate's Calendar to Be Kept Cleared For Silver Action.

ANOTHER DAY OF USELESS DEBATE

Mr. Cockrell, a Democrat From the West, Speaks Serenely of the Eastern Democrats—The House Bill Debating Ahead Its New Rules.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The house bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act is now fairly under way in the senate. It was taken up early in the morning hour in order to give an opportunity to Mr. Vance to make a speech against it. Mr. Vance is one of the Democratic minority members of the finance committee, and for an hour and 40 minutes he kept his interlocutor and his house and sarcasm playing upon the measure and upon the members of his own party who support and advocate it.

When he got through his entertaining speech, an effort was made to simplify the further parliamentary line of procedure in the consideration of the bill by having the committee's substitute adopted pro forma, so that all amendments to be offered might be amendments in the first degree instead of in the second degree, which would tend to smooth and simplify matters.

Mr. Cockrell Objected.

That proposition did not, however, suit the ideas or plans of Mr. Cockrell, who objected to it, and as it required unanimous consent it failed of course to be adopted.

At this point a confused, rambling colloquy was begun between Mr. Cockrell and some Republican senators involving the question of adhesion to or repudiation of the Chicago Democratic platform.

The discussion was precipitated by the course of one of Mr. Cockrell's speeches he was advised sarcastically by Mr. Aldrich that he ought to try to stand upon some part of the Democratic platform. This advice was resented by Mr. Cockrell, who suggested sneeringly that Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Sherman were constituting themselves leaders of the Democratic party. They were heading the procession, he said, for the express purpose of bringing the Democratic party back to the place where the Republicans had left the country in 1875—a single gold standard.

Partisan Sarcasm.

It would be a glorious achievement, he continued, for the distinguished statesman from Ohio to be able to say, after the lapse of 20 years and after one of the fiercest struggles that the world ever beheld, that he had brought the Democratic party down on its knees and made it reshoot the platform which he had established in 1873. It would be a plume in his crown. He (continued to be the champion of the Republican party and its leader in the next contest if he succeeds now in what he has undertaken. "The question whether we are Democrats or not," he said, "and whether we stand by our platform or not is not to be determined by the protectionist and gold monopolist of Rhode Island." [Laughter.] After much of this style of declamation Mr. Cockrell yielded to Mr. Voorhees to move to proceed to executive business.

Notice was given by Mr. White of California that on Wednesday, Sept. 13, he would offer appropriate resolutions touching the death of Senator Stanford.

The rules which will govern the present house were again discussed without attracting much attention, although at times the house was on the verge of a partisan debate. But in each instance good humor took the place of bad blood, and the clash of parties was averted. No change of importance was made in the new code, and without concluding its consideration the house adjourned.

Silver Purchase Statistics.

WASHINGTON, S pt. 2.—Secretary Carlisle states that the silver purchased by the treasury department during the month of August was 2,869,021 fine ounces, costing $2,980,532. The total purchased under the act of July 14, 1890, up to Aug. 31 has been 162,047,684 fine ounces, costing $161,804,170. Of this silver bullion purchased 36,087,183 silver dollars have been coined, the billion-therein contained costing $29,502,117.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

Mr. Floquet Mobbed.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—M. Floquet, on leaving a stormy political meeting in the Rue Angouleme, was stoned by a mob of 6,000 persons. Two revolver shots were fired into his carriage, but he escaped without injury. Many persons were hurt in the scuffle.

More Poles Coming.

BERLIN, Sept. 2.—Thousands of Poles have left the Warsaw district in the last two weeks with the intention of going to America.

A Glimpse of Sunshine.

DANBURY, Conn., Sept. 2.—Business is picking up slowly in this city in the manufacturing circles, and the outlook is much brighter.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

Between Wm. Charles Wolff, Ellen Wolff, Mary A. Irons and William Irons, her husband; by virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Wm. Charles Wolff, wife of James H. Line, Isaac N. Line, and the following defendants, to wit: James H. Line, Isaac Line and testament of said Isaac Line, deceased, namely: Sadie J. Line, Arthur D. Line, Chauncey Line and Mary E. Line are complainants, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the bill of complaint filed in said cause on the 22nd day of September next, or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. The said bill is to have certain lands situate in the City of Plainfield charged with the value of the interest of the said Isaac Line, deceased, in the said lands, and the said will and testament of said Isaac Line, deceased, may be proved, and the children, and the representatives of the said forty-five acre tract from the use of the said forty-five acre tract from the use of the said Thirteenth April, 1893, the date of final decree in this cause; or that said Samuel A. Hiller, solicitor of complainants, or the master of this court be compelled to make sale of the said Plainfield lands, or so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose, and from the proceeds thereof pay the value of the said interest of the said Isaac Line, deceased, calculated from the death of said Isaac Line in May, 1892, to date of transfer of title to the purchaser, and that from the residue of the proceeds of sale he may be ordered to invest a sum equal to the said value of forty-five acres of said land, and pay the income thereof during the lifetime of the said James H. Line to the said Line, the present owner of said life estate, and to divide the principal among the children of said Isaac Line at the death of the said James H. Line, you are required to appear, and if it is required in the bill that you have any answer thereto you have answer in said cause before the said William Hunt, Esq., Chancellor, at Trenton, N. J., on the 22nd day of September next, or the said bill will be taken pro confesso against you.

Dated, July 1st, 1893.

Lard has always had very objectionable features, causing indigestion and many other dietetic troubles. Science has come to the assistance of the cook, and of weak stomachs, with the new shortening,

Cottolene

It is composed of the choicest beef suet and highly refined cottonseed oil, in many respects as good as the finest imported olive oil. Physicians endorse it, cooking experts recommend it, and thousands are now using it in preference to any other shortening. Refuse all substitutes.

A Fifth Storm Predicted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The predicted storm still rises steadily in the gulf of Mexico. According to the weather people the storm is a sure thing. The course of a few days will see it moving forward, but at present no forecast can be made of its probable direction. The hydrographic office issued a bulletin yesterday warning mariners of gales south of the thirty-fifth parallel. Tropical hurricanes are also predicted and a fog off the New England coast.

ROCKS OF THE WISSAHICKON.

Singular Beauty of the Stratification of the Gneiss Rock.

Who has not heard of the attractiveness of Wissahickon? One of the foremost artists of the United States is quoted as having said that he could not concede it to be one of the most beautiful bits of scenery in the United States; but it certainly was the prettiest. The reader is left to draw the line between these two interpretations.

THE HERMIT'S CAVE.

In a recent issue of Meehan's Monthly we are told that among the chief of Wissahickon's charms is the singular beauty of the stratification of the gneiss rock. In many cases large blocks have fallen out, so as to give the rocks a cavelike appearance. This only occurs where there is a peculiar twisting in the formation. Of course caves to any great extent only exist in limestone regions. The action of strong acid would sweep the limestone, and in this way miles of subterranean passage ways are formed by the dissolving of rocks.

However, as in the case illustrated, hollows or caves of considerable size occur on the Wissahickon. The one illustrated is of considerable depth and is known as the Hermit's cave. It is said that a famous astronomer of very eccentric habits many years ago made his home there. The figure standing at the mouth of the cave represents one of the arctic explorers who was on the relief expedition in the interest of Lieutenant Peary. The cut here presented is reproduced from the paper quoted.

What Is Electricity?

Mr. S. F. Walker answers this question as follows in an electrical journal:

"As far as the writer is able to understand the matter now, electricity is simply the motion of the molecules of the different substances which are the subjects of electrical action, just as heat, light and sound are, and the only difference between these forces is the rate of the motion. The motion of sound, as we all know, is comparatively slow. That of heat and light is very rapid. That of electricity would appear to be somewhere between the slow motion of sound and rapid motion of the heat waves, whose motion is slowest—that is slower than that of light.

"And it would appear that the wonderful adaptability which electricity shows for every kind of work is due entirely to the position which its rate of motion occupies in the scale of the energies. It would also appear that the reason this wonderful agent

A Blue Earth.

"If you could stand on the moon," so an astronomer is quoted, "the earth would appear to you to be 64 times larger than the sun appears to the residents of this mundane sphere—this because the earth has eight times the diameter of the moon, therefore she must necessarily show the moonites 64 times as much surface as the moon shows us. The sun, on the other hand, would appear no larger to you from your observatory on the moon than it does from our globe. The earth's atmosphere being blue, it has been decided that the earth must appear as a blue ball to the outside onlookers. What a glorious sight it must be to our lunarian neighbors to look upon a bright blue, swift revolving ball 64 times larger than the sun!

Telephoning From Under the Water.

The telephone has lately been arranged for the use of divers. A sheet of copper is fitted in place of one of the glasses in the helmet, and to this a telephone is fixed, so that the diver, when at the sea or river bottom, has only to slightly turn his head in order to report what he sees, or receive instructions from above, says The Industrial World.

An Experiment In Physics.

When we look at any submerged object we all know that, in consequence of the phenomenon of refraction, it appears above the place it really occupies. This is the reason why a walking stick plunged into water looks as though it were broken.

PHENOMENON OF REFRACTION.

Here is a corresponding experiment: Place a bright coin at the bottom of an earthenware basin, or any other convenient receptacle (a gold 20p piece will do), and get your spectator to lower his head until his eyes have struck a line that runs from the nearest edge of the coin to the rim of the vessel. At this moment it is not the coin itself that the observer beholds, but its image, created by refraction. The looker on not surring from this position, you may announce to him that you will cause the piece to disappear by sucking it up through a syringe.

You have only now to extract the water from the vase, either drawing it off by a siphon or syringe. The liquid once gone, the spectator will no longer see the coin, which is hidden by the wall of the receptacle. Pour water in again and the coin will reappear.

Boring wells by electricity is now in order.

The Origin of Custom.

Foreign exchanges of recent date have contained a correspondence between two French surgeons who entertain the theory that the use of pork as food is the origin of cancer. Two general facts they state thoroughly: "Cancer is the result of the animal origin of a number of diseases and the harmful action on man of some of the most ordinary forms of food taken from the animal kingdom—particularly those eaten by shrimps, crabs and lobsters, and intestinal disorders, produced by the use of damaged meat. It should also be mentioned that the writers of this letter claim that leprosy was caused by the use of pork.

Codeine For the Morphine Habit.

The virtues of codeine in the treatment of the morphine habit are continued by a writer in the New York Medical Journal. He warns his readers, however, not to expect that the use of this drug will lead to the abandonment of morphia without some help from the patient also. It simply makes the effort easy. When paid, for which the morphia had previously been taken, comes on, codeine is given, the dose varying according to the extent of the previous use of morphia.

ETIQUETTE

GOOD BREEDING.

Simplicity and the Want of It—The Essence of Vulgarity.

The essence of good breeding is simplicity—not the simplicity of the peasant, although that is good in its way, but the simplicity of the really civilized man who has arrived at a kind of artificial naturalness. The natural man has been fitly described as "a noisy, sensual savage." Civilization teaches him to be quiet, to mind his own business, to refrain from offending or disgusting his neighbors, to respect himself, to stand on his own basis.

Now, if the essence of good breeding is simplicity, it may be said that the essence of vulgarity is a want of simplicity. To be vulgar is to be unquiet, to have no taste of one's own, to be in continual disturbance about one's neighbor either by way of truckling to him, which is the manner of the snob, or of hating him, which is the vice of the radical, or of competing with him, which is the weakness of the parvenu. To be vulgar is to adopt other people's language, to use their cant phrases, to copy the inflections of their voices, to espouse their ideas—in fine, to think and do and say not what comes naturally to one, but what is supposed to be considered proper by other people. There is no vulgarity so lack simplicity, says a writer in The Atlantic Monthly.

The Advice of a Book Lover.

Never borrow a book unless it can be returned within a few days. Take great care of the binding and never mark pages with a pencil. Treat it as a friend—with loving care and consideration.

When paying a visit, never take any book from the library to your own room without permission from your hostess. Magazine reviews, novels, all light literature, are on the library table and are expected to remain there for the benefit of all guests.

GOOD HEALTH

LIGHT IN THE SICKROOM.

Sunshine Clarifies the Air and Cheers the Mind of the Patient.

A custom still prevails, despite all our sanitary teachings, that the occupants of a sickroom in the private house should be kept at all times in a darkened room. Not one time in ten do we enter a sickroom in the daytime to find it blessed with the light of the sun.

Almost invariably, before we can get a look at the face of the patient, we are obliged to request that the blinds be drawn up, in order that the rays of a much greater healer than the most able physician can hope to be may be admitted. Too often the compliance with this request reveals a condition of the room which, in the state of darkness, is almost inevitably one of disorder everywhere. Foods, medicines, furniture, bedding, misplaced. Dust, stray leavings, in all directions.

In belief, there is nothing so bad as a dark sickroom. It is as if the attendants were expecting the death of the patient. And if the nurse is to be asked the answer is as inconsistent as the act. The reason usually offered is that the patient cannot bear the light, as though the light could not be cut off from the patient by a curtain or screen, and as though to darken one portion of the room it were necessary to darken the whole of it.

A most injurious practice really could not be maintained than that of darkness in a sickroom. It is not only that dirt and disorder are the results of darkness—a great remedy is lost, and the loss is momentous. Sunlight diffused through a room warms and clarifies the air. It has a direct influence on the mingled gases and poisons—a distinctive influence which is most precious—and it has a cheerful effect on the mind.

The sick should never be gloomy, and in the presence of the light the shadows of gloom fly away. Happily the hospital ward, notwithstanding its many defects—and it has many—long ago favored that it is blessed with the light of the sun whenever the sun shines. In private practice the same remedy ought to be extended to the patients of the household, says Dr. B. W. Richardson.

Simple Treatment For Headache.

Percussion of the cranium, just as is done for the chest to ascertain whether there is any approximal material lesion, is recommended by M. Doutdouki of Moscow for headache. The percussion must be made lightly, says the European edition of the New York Herald, and without producing any disagreeable sensation, but increasing gradually the intensity of the taps. In this way a sort of vibratory massage is administrated which removes the distressing symptom. It is evident that this relief can only be momentary and that the cause must be discovered in order to be sure to cure the headache. The same means is efficacious in muscular pain in nervous, impressionable people. It is at any rate easy to try, and, according to the old saying, can't do any harm, even if it don't cure. This method of treatment has succeeded in Dr. Doutdouki's hands where cure there was no material cause for headache.

A FEW HONEST SUGGESTIONS!

WHICH SHOULD BE APPRECIATED.

All tooth powders practically contain the same ingredients, namely: chalk, Castile soap, etc., with some flavoring. We use in the manufacture of Royal Tooth Powder the best English prepared chalk, the finest English Castile soap, delicious flavoring. Your dentist will tell you these substances are perfectly harmless and accomplish all that is to be expected from a tooth powder. A full two-ounce package of this unexcelled article, same as is usually sold for 25c., and under other names for ten cents will be given with each one dollar purchase and upwards. People of correct ideas will appreciate this offer, but some will say, "We never use tooth powder." Those who do use it, however, can be distinguished from those who don't, as the nose can be distinguished from the dandelion. This will seem cruel to some, but duty compels us to speak plainly. The "Royal" is being received everywhere, and jobbers compliment us with their duplicate orders.

POSTAGE STAMPS.

From the Date of Their Introduction Up to the Present Time.

Postage stamps in the form of stamped envelopes were first used by M. de Velayer, who owned a private post in the city of Paris in the reign of Louis XIV. Over a century later, in 1758, M. de Chamousset, also the proprietor of a post, issued printed paper slips to be attached to letters. In Spain in 1716 and in Italy also, stamped covers for mail matter were tried, but it was not until 1840 that stamps, as we know them now, were put in use. This was in England, the government adopting the system devised by Rowland Hill. Brazil was the first country to take up the new invention.

Russia adopted the postage stamp next, in 1843; then Switzerland in 1850, and March 3, 1847, the congress of the United States authorized the issue of postage stamps. These were at first a 5 cent stamp and a 10 cent stamp. The reduction of rates in 1851 gave a new set of stamps, valued at 1, 3 and 12 cents respectively. Other stamps of different values were added from time to time to meet the exigencies of postal arrangements, reduction of postage to foreign countries, etc.

Before 1845 the postal rates on letters in the United States ranged from 6 cents for carrying a distance of 30 miles to 25 cents for over 400 miles. By the reduction of that year the postage was made 5 cents for 300 miles or less and 10 cents for any greater distance within the United States. In 1863 the postage was reduced to 2 cents for half an ounce for letters sent less than 3,000 miles, and in 1885 to 2 cents an ounce.

The Insect World.

An English scientist is quoted as authority for the statement that there are five times as many species of insects as there are species of all other living things put together. The oak tree alone supports 450 species of insects, and 240 kinds make their home in the pine. Forty years ago Humboldt estimated that the number of species preserved in collections was between 130,000 and 170,000, but scientific men now say that there must be more than 750,000, without taking into account the parasite creatures. Of the 20,000 species in Europe, however, not more than 3,500 are noxious or destructive. There are more than 100,000 kinds of beetles.

Recipes Against Melancholy.

Sidney Smith once gave a lady of two and twenty recipes against melancholy. One was a bright fire, another to remember all the pleasant things said to her, another to keep a box of sugar plums on the chimneypiece and a kettle simmering on the hob. In commenting on it afterward he said: "I thought this mere trifling at the moment, but have in after life discovered how true it is that these little pleasures often banish melancholy better than higher and more exalted objects, and that no means ought to be thought too trifling which can oppose it in ourselves or in others."

Silent Machinery.

The Safety Valve calls attention to the fact that the problem of silent machinery has been solved by a firm in Vienna. This firm is manufacturing cogwheels of pressed rawhide. The new wheels have, it is claimed, great strength, and they do not require lubricating; on the other hand they are very expensive, and are consequently unlikely to come into general use.

The Eyebrows.

Highly arched eyebrows are said to denote vivacity and brilliancy; level brows, strength and intellect; regularly curved eyebrows express cheerfulness; square ones, deep thought; irregular, fickleness, versatility, excitability; raised at the inner corner, melancholy; joined over the nose, an unsettled mind; thick and bushy eyebrows denote physical strength.

The Snail In Time of Drought.

Extensive drought will cause the snail to close its doors to prevent the evaporation of its bodily moisture and drying up. These little animals are possessed of astonishing vitality, regaining activity after having been frozen in solid blocks of ice, and enduring a degree of heat for weeks which daily cripe vegetation.

Average Height of Men.

According to Topinard, the average heights of Laplanders is 60.7 inches; of Bushmen, 60; of Celtes, 66; of Frenchmen, 65; of Russians, 65.4; of Germans, 66.2; of Danes, 66.9; of Irishmen, 67; of Englishmen, Scotchmen and Swedes, 67.4; of American Indians, 68.3; of Patagonians, 70.3.

Marriage Customs In Russia.

Russia has still many old and curious marriage customs. One is for the bride and bridegroom to race madly down the aisle soon as the ceremony enters the church because of the belief that whoever places a first foot on the cloth in front of the altar will be master in the household.

A Weird Chant.

The coranach, or mourning for the dead, is still heard in many parts of Scotland as well as in Ireland. It is a weird chant, cries of lamentation being mingled with remonstrances addressed to the departed for leaving his friends and relatives.

Honest Bostonians.

The Bostonian is honest. Not more than one book in 50,000 of those taken from the public libraries is lost. And he wants books, the librarian says, in almost every language of the civilized world.

Bits of Wisdom.

People find fault without looking for it.

A man is only as rich as he is contented.

An obtuse angle—fishing for complaints.

If there is honor among thieves, they stole it.

Only human beauty is spoiled by admiration.

What is one man's ecland is another man's sunshine.

Don't give the devil his due if you can prevent it.

Some hearts are like flint—it takes a blow before the fire out.

Judge a man by the clothes he pays for rather than those he wears.

In spite of all news items to the contrary, the oldest inhabitant is never dead.

The glazier is not necessarily a tiresome man because he "gives you a pane."

Oddly enough, it is the conversation with no point to it that bores the quickest.

Why He Was Married.

Fifty years ago "Uncle Harry" was a well known resident of a village in the Old Colony, writes a correspondent. Slow of speech and action, he was reputed to be "very going." He had lived to the age of seventy without a wife, and it was openly said that he was "too lazy to go courting," which of course marked him as a very lazy man indeed.

One day the village was startled by the news of Uncle Harry's marriage. Shortly afterward the squire, as the one lawyer of the place was called, happened to be driving past Uncle Harry's farm, and seeing the old man in the yard, stopped for a little gossip. The bridegroom, visibly "smartened up," was resplendent with happiness.

"You seem so well contented, how did it happen you never married before?" asked the squire.

"I dunno," drawled Uncle Harry. "I've had marriage feelings come over me lots of times, but they never lasted long 'nough for me to get up my courage."

"But this time they lasted?"

"Wall, no, not eggsactly; you see, Eunice come along and stald!"—Youth's Companion.

Stood by Him.

Fiddleback—Willie, did your sister say anything about the suit I had on yesterday?

Willie—Yes. She told ma that clothes didn't always make the man.—New York Herald.

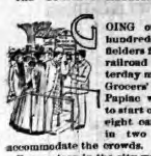
LABOR DAY EXCURSIONS

HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE ACCOMPANY THE GROCERS TO PAPIAC.

The Grove Crowded all Day. — Many go to Mauch Chunk on the Central's Excursion.



GOING on excursions hundreds of Plainfielders flocked to the railroad station yesterday morning. The Grocers' Excursion to Papiac was the first to start out. Twenty-eight cars were run in two sections to accommodate the crowds.

Every store in the city was closed and many of the merchants, accompanied by their wives and children, went on the excursion either to Papiac or Mauch Chunk. The grove was packed with people and the fields adjoining the grove being had to be used to accommodate the conveyances. Almost every tree had a horse tied to it.

It was the grocers' third annual excursion. They have been growing in favor each year with increasing patronage.

The grocers say the clam bake was not given by them.

The excursion committee was composed of Messrs. G. W. Rockfellow, J. A. Smith, Thos. F. Randolph, H. A. Weber, Fred. W. Dunn, J. F. MacDonald and B. D. Newell.

It is estimated that between thirteen and fourteen hundred people were on the excursion.

There was an abundance of the elements of out-of-doors time. There was bathing, fishing, base ball, bowling and dancing. There was plenty of amusement for the children, such as swings and merry-go-rounds.

THE EXCURSION TO MAUCH CHUNK.

Sixty-six Plainfielders joined the General's popular excursion to Mauch Chunk. Glen Onoko and the famed Switchback, which left here shortly after nine o'clock. The train was in charge of "Joe." Ross, piloted by one of the company's speedy compound engines, No. 288, run by Engineer Frank Miller and Fireman Harvey Opdyke. The train left Plainfield with nine cars, but when Somerville was reached another car had to be taken to accommodate the excursionists.

After that place was left behind no stop was made until Easton was reached. Then 388 "took water."

The railroad passes through a beautiful section of the country and the views along the line are grand, and are much enjoyed by the excursionists.

The route follows the winding Lehigh river for miles and miles. Lofty, green mountains on one side and the flowing river on the other.

The pure mountain air laden with ozone was luscious and invigorating. The station reached, the crowds rushed for the switchback, which has become justly famous. Hundreds of passengers were taken around this trip, which is eighteen miles long and from which can be seen the beautiful valley below in all its glory. The excursionists arrived home at nine o'clock last night.

BOROUGH BOARD OF HEALTH.

Regular Monthly Meeting Held Last Night.

The Borough Board of Health held a regular monthly meeting last night at the home of President Honeyman on Somerset street. Messrs. Currie and Love were the only absentees.

The sewerage matter was discussed but no action taken further than to let David Drake was appointed garbage collector for the east side of Somerset street.

They Wanted Fight and Got It.

The details of a fist fight were arranged yesterday afternoon in a barber shop on Somerset street, between two loafers named Tom Dowd and Jack Mocraft. The party left the shop in a body and proceeded to the apple orchard, north of Somerset street, where the principals proceeded to batter each other in vigorous style. Marshal Pangborn had suspected their purpose, when they started out, and arrived at the orchard by a roundabout way. He was not in time to stop the fight, and when the fighters and their backers saw him approaching, they fled, but he succeeded in capturing Mocraft, who was covered with blood, and was bleeding as if he had got the worst of the set-to. He lodged Mocraft in jail. He also arranged for warrants for the arrest of the others, that he recognized. He proposes furthermore to break up the rendezvous of the gang, by having the owners of the shop arrested on the charge of keeping a disorderly house. He says he has been trying for some time to secure evidence, on account of complaints made to him by the neighbors and by pedestrians, and thinks he now has it.

Caught His Fingers in the Sprocket Wheel.

Yesterday, as William Gerhold of this city, was riding his bicycle near Springfield, he met a fellow wheelman in distress, his bicycle being out of order. Mr. Gerhold stopped to help him. He had hold of the sprocket wheel, when [the other cyclist suddenly turned the pedals, catching Mr. Gerhold's fingers and tearing the nails off. He may lose one of his fingers.

AN ossified CAT.

Found Under Warren Chapel Last Week.

IX or seven years ago those who attended the Warren chapel Sunday school and meetings were annoyed by a very offensive smell as of some thing dead under the building. The janitor was complained to of the matter, but he failed to find the cause of it.

The cellar does not run under the entire building, but only under one end in which is the furnace. Between the furnace and the coal bin, which is under the other end of the building there is just a narrow passage-way to wheel coal to the furnace. Every time complaint was made to the janitor of the offensive odor he would search along this passage-way to see if such a thing as a dead rat or cat was there.

Under the Berean Class room there is a space of probably two feet between the floor and the ground. In this place last week the cause of that odor of years ago was discovered when men, in digging a larger coal bin, came across the ossified body of a cat. The nails are still perfect and the animal is as perfect as the day it died, only it has turned to bone. Mr. Lees, 33 Pearl street, has it.

BREVITIES.

—The City Common Council will meet to-night.

—To-night the Camera Club will hold its regular meeting.

—The handicap foot race on the Crescent Oval yesterday morning was won by Heckman.

—Pierson & Gale, of this city have received the contract for a $33,000 house near Cranford.

Night-watchman Benjamin Wright has been confined to the house for several days, suffering from rheumatism.

—Saturday milk went up to eight cents a quart. Some of the milkmen objected to the increase but the majority were in favor of it.

—A false alarm of fire was sounded in the borough at about 9:30 o'clock last night caused by one of the wires getting out of order.

—A drunken man lying in the gutter on Watchung avenue, last night, was run over by three wheelmen, who had turned out for a wagon. It sobered him up a little, but didn't seem to hurt him.

—The old bridge over the Passaic River, near Union Village is being repaired. In the place of wooden beams, iron girders are being substituted. The contract calls for its completion by September 10.

—About three o'clock yesterday afternoon a driver for a Newark tobacco concern had his leg fractured by being thrown from the wagon, while the horses were running away, the king bolt having broken and frightened them.

—Miss Fawcett's new school-rooms on Washington avenue are large, well lighted and ventilated. Special accommodations for kindergarten games and calisthenic exercises are offered. Miss Fawcett will be at home during the afternoon of the fifth inst.

—Last Friday Mr. White says he bought a thousand pair of ladies oxford ties, manufacturers' samples, for just half what they cost to make. To-day he places them on sale at 85 cents a pair. The lot contains all the latest styles advertisement elsewhere, hundreds of pairs of fine goods that you can't buy anywhere for less than 200.

—The Borough Council met Friday night and Mr. Fountain was sworn in as Councilman. Street Committee reported that Chatham street had been macadamized at a cost $641 to the Borough and $250 to the subscribers. The same committee also reported that Somerset street had been repaired at an expense of $200 over the appropriation.

—"The Country Squire" will be in Music Hall next Monday evening. The acting manager of Music Hall says: "Archie Boyd, who for the past four seasons played and made popular the character of Joshua Whitcomb in "The Old Homestead," is the bright particular star, and he is surrounded by a most capable company. Judging from their past business, it would be quite as well to secure seats well in advance. The scenic displays are said to be true to nature."

A HOLE IN HIS SKULL

PATRICK BRENNAN KILLED SATURDAY NIGHT AT ELMORA.

It is Supposed he Stepped from the Train while it was in Motion, and was Knocked Down by the Next Car.

WITH a hole in his skull Patrick Brennan, a coachman employed by Mr. Samuel Bruno of Elmora was brought to this city Saturday night. He was dead before he reached the Hospital. He was killed in peculiar manner.

It seems that his employer had sent him to Elizabeth to buy some bolts and postage stamps. That was the last seen of him alive by Mr. Bruno. He had been to Elizabeth and procured the bolts, as they were found in his pocket.

As the train pulled out of Elmora a man was seen by one of the brakeman to fall. He signalled the engineer and the train was stopped. It was thought the man was only slightly injured, so he was taken aboard and brought to Muhlenberg Hospital. He died before he reached here however. Sunday Policeman Corsa went to Elizabeth to ascertain how the man was killed and who he was. There he met Detective Morris and Mr. Bruno of Elmora. Both accompanied Mr. Corsa to the Hospital, where the dead man was identified as Patrick Brennan, Mr. Bruno's coachman.

It is supposed Brennan jumped from one car and was struck by the next one, as there was a hole in his skull. He must have stepped from the train before it stopped.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Conklin of East Front street is home from her Summer outing.

Mr. James Clawson and Mrs. Edgerton have returned from the White Mountains.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Crane of West Eighth street started to-day for California.

Mr. Roland Thompson of La Grande avenue has returned from a Summer outing.

Miss Lida Smith of West Third street, has gone on a visit to her grandparents, at Trenton.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Penton of Rockview avenue are home from their season at Newport.

Mrs. Raymond and daughter of Kensington avenue have returned from their Canadian tour.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Howland of Rockview avenue started Saturday for a two weeks' trip to the World's Fair.

Mr. Andrew McCardel, the foreman in the foundry at Fonds, has returned from Budd's Lake, much improved in health.

Mrs. J. W. Reinhart and family of Netherwood have returned to their beautiful home after a sojourn in Massachusetts.

Mr. William P. Smith's mother and sister returned from Portland, Me., Sunday, where they have been spending the Summer.

After a pleasant three-day trip to Rockaway Beach, Mrs. Leo Smith and daughter Lillian, of West Third street are home again.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, formerly of Carlton avenue, this city, now of New York, spent yesterday with Mr. and Mrs. Wilcox of West Eighth street.

William Stewart was released from the Hospital Friday after a confinement there for three weeks. He was suffering from pneumonia and pleurisy.

At the Hillside Tennis Club Saturday afternoon, tea was in charge of Mrs. D. M. Van Vliet, assisted by Mrs. John G. Foster, Miss Murphy, Miss Walz, and Miss Guion.

Miss Alice Crowther of Cincinnati is visiting her aunt, Mrs. James L. Slevin. Miss Anne Slevin who has been Summering at "The Pettaquamscutt," Narragansett Pier," is expected to return soon.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh and wife are home from a Summer outing in Europe. Mrs. Marsh entirely recovered from her nervous illness, and greatly enjoyed the trip, which her husband had planned for her recuperation.

Charles W. Buckelew, the 30-year-old son of Charles Buckelew of West Fifth street, returned last week from a month's trip by water in 30-foot sail boat. He cruised down the Delaware to Baltimore and went thence to Annapolis, returning inland through the Delaware and Raritan canal to Amboy. He escaped the hurricane by getting into a creek off of Chesapeake bay, where he got safely in behind a bluff, which effectually shielded him, and his two companions, sons of David M. Moore of West Fifth street. They anchored one night on the ocean because they were becalmed. There is no doubt but that they would never have returned alive had the hurricane caught them on the sea. They certainly had a narrow escape.

T. A. Cuming Won Two Prizes.

At the races of the Union County Roadsters at Ash bay yesterday, T. A. Cuming of the High School Athletic Association, won the one mile novice race; time 2.40½. He also won the one mile race for the three minute class; time 2.37½. The prizes were a gold watch and gold medal.

THE N. J. A. C. DEFEATED.

A FINE EXHIBITION IN WHICH THE CRESCENTS CAME OUT AHEAD.

Saturday's Ball Game was Very Close and Exciting—The Finest Game of the Season—Score: Crescents, 4; N. J. A. C., 3.

THE finest game of ball played on the Crescent Oval this season was that of Saturday with the New Jersey Athletic Club team. The teams were evenly matched, making it a brilliant contest. The New Jerseys are the same amateur champions and claim to have no superiors in the State, while on the other hand the Crescents are the champion semi-professionals of New Jersey.

Manager Kellner would have had this team here before but they couldn't play outside games until their championship games were ended. Recently this team made a trip through the West, playing games with the best teams of the country. The Crescents have done equally as well, if not better, on their trips. A large crowd was present Saturday to witness the first meeting of the champions.

In the absence of Umpire Daly, Mr. Van Volenburg, formerly manager of the Paterson team, umpired. His decisions on balls and strikes were very bad, although he did not favor either side. There was much fault found with him.

The visitors were as gentlemanly a lot of players as can be found on the base ball field.

The game was very close and exciting, the Crescents winning by the score of 4 to 3. The following is the score:

OPENING THE WAVERLY FAIR.

The Entries Larger than in Any Previous Year.

The opening of the State Fair at Waverly on Labor Day was an innovation which, with 25 cent admissions, attracted a larger first-day attendance than ever before. Exhibits were received Saturday in large numbers. The entries, it is said, exceed any previous year, particularly those of horses and cattle. The exhibits of fruits will also be larger.

Tranquility Farm, in Warren County, shows a herd of Galloway cattle imported for the purpose of breeding with the American steers. They are shaggy and wild looking. They were received from Scotland last Spring.

The management has introduced a programme of running races for every day except to-day. It will be conducted without pool-selling.

Randolph and Stutts Taken to Somerville.

Justice Crossley gave a hearing Saturday afternoon in the case of Randolph and Stutts, who, as told in Saturday's News, were arrested and lodged in jail, for abducting the thirteen-year-old daughter of Farmer Kliner of Washington Valley.

It transpired that Randolph was a married man, with a daughter seventeen years old. Both his wife and daughter long ago refused to have anything to do with him, because of his generally bad character.

The Justice promptly committed him to the county jail in default of $1000 bail, and Stutts was treated likewise in default of $500 bail to await the action of the Grand Jury of Somerset county.

Both men were shackled together, and marched through the streets ahead of the Marshal to the depot. They hung their faces, as if in shame, but it is doubtful if such brutes have any shame.

Randolph is held on a charge of seduction and abduction, and Stutts as an accessory.

Dance of the C. Y. M. L.

The C. Y. M. L. gave a dance in their hall, on East Sixth street, last night. It was well attended and proved a success. Mr. W. H. Kiely was floor manager, and Messrs. D. White and J. Hibbitts were assistants. Mr. Samuel Frazee furnished the music.

FIVE MILE RACE FOR BOYS.

Time Prize Won by J. Gluck, Jr., of Westfield.

There were quite a number present Saturday afternoon to witness the five-mile bicycle race for boys between the ages of 12 and 15, in North Plainfield. The start was made at 4.05. The racers finished in the following order.

	Handicap.	Time.
Henry Augerbauer	4min	16¼min.
Chas. Westerfield	2 "	18 "
A. Murphy	4 "	19½ "
J. Gluck	scratch	18¾ "
Jos. Feytel	scratch	19 30 "

The course was from Washington avenue to Willow, to Sycamore, to Mercer, to Washington, ten times around, but by a mistake some only went around nine times. W. J. Smith would undoubtedly have won the time prize, but owing to being misinformed went around eleven times, thereby loosing his position. John Gluck, Jr., of Westfield, was awarded time prize, the time being 15.34 minutes. Augerbauer, won first prize; Chas. Westerfield, second; and A. Murphy third prize.

Plainfielders at the World's Fair.

Elsewhere is an advertisement of the "Omaha," a hotel which seems to have sprung into popularity with Plainfielders, some of whom have taken the trouble to write to Plainfield friends of it in terms of highest praise. A list of recent guests sent us by the proprietor with a request for publication is as follows: J. Frank Hubbard and wife, T. W. Morrison, wife and daughter, Postmaster R. R. Pope and wife, Charles Potter, J. R. Stanton and two sisters, D. E. Tiesworth, J. R. Truell and wife, and Miss Violet T. Truell.

Among others from Plainfield and vicinity who have been registered at the New Jersey State building, on the Fair grounds are the following:

Prof. Maxson, Principal Plainfield Public schools, and wife, Miss Luella Clawson Miss Maude Bowers, Mrs. George H. Frost, David B. Rushmore, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hyde, Miss Hyde, Thomas J. Dugdale, Dexter, Mr. and Mrs. James W. De Graff, Edith H. Smalley, Nethercwood; Miss E. V. W. Horton, Miss A. H. James, J. F. Allin, C. B. Clifton and wife, J. Louise Jenkins, John R. Harding, Josie Demorest, Edwin C. Lloyd, George E. Byers, Lillian C. Radford, Gertrude W. Endicott and son, A. T. Gallup, Mrs. A. Keyser, A. J. Miller and family.

The Spider and Fly Show.

In Stillman Music Hall last evening there was given what was undoubtedly the most elaborate production of its kind ever presented in this city, which, considering what has been given, is saying much. It was known as "M. B. Leavitt's superb spectacular comedy combination," and the title, "The Spider and the Fly," gave no indication that it was to be anything more than many another of the spectacular order which seem not to lengthen or cease all over the country. The company, very large in number, had in it an unusually large proportion of very talented people, from the gifted Miss Della Jackson, with her marvelous voice, down to the clown. The fine appearance of the company simply accentuated their talent in voice and action, and encore after encore showed how heartily they had won the audience. It was evident to all that no money had been spared either in the selection of the talent, the costumes or the scenery, which were all very fine. The company appear in Trenton this evening, and in Wilmington, Del., to-morrow.

The Acting Manager Don't Wish to be Blamed for It.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—Acting for Mr. M. B. Leavitt, manager of Leavitt's Spider and Fly, for the performance of the "Spider and Fly," last night, Mr. Leavitt's agent, Mr. Hall, made a contract for work done and favors shown to the company, in advance and that Mr. Hall supplied and sanctioned by the advance agent of the company, Mr. Hall, who represents himself as M. B. Leavitt, owner of the "Spider and Fly." Last night Mr. Leavitt not only refused to pay the bills, but also refused to pay the ball fiends who took other passes from Mr. Leavitt's own advance agent. This is a matter of town, but had Manager Dennerst or any authorized agent been present, Mr. Leavitt would have been prevented from committing such a gross outrage as he has done. Make this explanation so that it may not be blamed for what was not my fault.

WALTER IRVING CLARKE.

His Head Proof against Wagon Wheels.

Yesterday about a dozen colored people spent yesterday in the mountain. About half past eleven last night as they were returning home, by way of Somerset street, in Denis Sutton's farm wagon, one of the party fell out of the wagon, between the wheel. The hind wheel passed over his head, but only cut his scalp a little. Sutton refused to take them any further so the party walked the remainder of the way home.

Crescents Lose and Win.

The Crescents were defeated by the Cuban Giants on the Crescent oval yesterday morning by the following score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Cuban Giants	0	0	1	0	0	0	1	2	0	—4

In the afternoon the Crescents played at Elizabeth and won as follows:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9

The Weather.

On Wednesday still warmer, fair to partly cloudy weather and south westerly winds will continue, followed by slightly cooler conditions near the lakes; and on Thursday sultry, fair weather, followed by local rain.

Carrying a "Dickey Bird."

A small bird was used by the letter carriers Thursday in carrying out a joke on several of the carriers. They called it a "dickey bird." It was dead. One of the men would place it in another's pocket, who would carry it all around his route, before discovering it. To the victim of the joke passed it along to the next man, so nearly all of them had a hand in carrying the "Dickey bird."

—The Plainfield public schools opened to-day.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Another American Poet.

A small volume of poems, called "The Flaming Meteor," recently published, stamps its author, Will Hubert Kernan, as a poet of rare genius. One writer has likened him to Edgar Allan Poe, whom perhaps he most resembles in the type of his poetic imagination and somewhat in character as well. Mr. Kernan's book is fifty nine d, for it is all fire and flame and passion. Some of the strange themes that inspire his muse are classified under headings like the following: "Poems of Pessimism," "Melodies of Misogamy," "Poems of Passing Moods" and "Agnostic Arguments." From these headings can be gathered the thoughts that occupy the poet's mind. He is not a hater of women apparently, but he seems to have somehow an unquenchable spite against matrimony. He blames it with bringing untold evils upon the world. He writes:

The King Curse of curses that walk through the world!

In this collection we find "Kenneth, My King!" an exquisite piece of verse that drifted through the newspapers several years ago. A poem of weird, terrible intensity is entitled "In the Jungle:"

Tigerl tiger, in the lair,
Then hast for Oh, the wrath hones lying there!
Oh, the red half-eaten heart!
Oh, the yellow bones beside thee
That I often kissed a I curled—
Yet no hell fire will betide thee
In the realms beyond the world.

In some of his verses Mr. Kernan shows a power and fire not excelled by any living poet who writes in the English language on either side of the water, and as time goes on this will become more and more manifest to the public. A passionate love of liberty, a mournful consciousness that things are out of joint both with the world and himself, are the motive of many of the poems, but at times the writer bursts into a grand swinging march of music that fills all the air and inspires the soul. Some of the poems of this sort would make admirable elocutionary recitations. Such a rhythmic melody is "Progress of the Peoples," from which we extract a few stanzas:

Upward, upward press the peoples to that pure, exalted plane
Where no throne shall cast a shadow and no shackle shall rust again.

They have trampled on the fagots, on the cruel cross and wheel,
Banished black and thong and hemlock and the warder's baleful zeal.

They are lighting lamps of freedom on a million altar stones
With the torches they have kindled at the blaze of burning thrones.

And this light will sweep and circle to the very ends of earth
Touching with immortal beauty every heart and every hearth.

What Constitutes a Journalist?

In an address not long since an English editor gave it as his opinion that the real test of a good journalist was the extent to which he was interested in reading newspapers. A man who desired to be a journalist should be universal in his desire for knowledge. Further, the purposes of the modern newspaper would best be served if the young man should fit himself for duty in one particular branch or department of journalism and then learn all he could about all the other departments.

The editor was right in both suggestions. The person who is fit to be a journalist will toil enthusiastically to lay up a store of knowledge on all subjects. Then he will gradually single out one or two departments in which he will make himself an expert, for specialization is the order of the day in journalism as elsewhere. The journalist cannot possibly know too much.

One other suggestion the British editor should have added. It is that nobody is fitted to be a journalist unless he can write so clearly that he can make the most abstruse subject plain to the understanding of the average laborer. That may be said to be another test of a good journalist.

The sunlight and skies of America, where they have not been dimmed by soft coal smoke, are the clearest and brightest on the globe. Professor E. E. Barnard of Lick observatory, California, says so. He has been making the tour of the great observatories of the world. In Italy, where he expected to find "perfection in atmosphere," Schiaparelli told him there were difficulties in taking observations on account of the hazy air. Talk no more of Italian skies and sunsets.

Suspend silver coinage altogether for the present and make gold even harder to get than it is now, and thus squeeze other nations into adopting the double standard, is the advice some of the bimetallists in congress give after thinking about the question carefully.

"Spiritualistic phenomena are not extraneous," remarks a learned writer. "When perspicuously elucidated, they will be found to fit in nature like the component and homogeneous molecules of an apple." So glad to know it!

The first, whale-back freight steamer on the American plan has been launched in Europe, at Sunderland, England. It is 320 feet long, with a triple expansion engine.

VETERANS IN PARADE.

Many Thousands In Line Today at Indianapolis.

SALUTED BY THUNDERING GUNS.

The Twenty-seventh Annual Encampment of the Grand Army In a Big Success—General Morrison Speaks to His Comrades. Candidates For Commander In Chief.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 5.—Thousands of grizzled veterans were in line today, and the great parade is, as it was expected to be, one of the most notable in the history of the Grand Army. With the beginning of today's parade the encampment was in full blast.

It was an inspiring sight, and the throngs who viewed the long line shouted themselves hoarse in their enthusiasm.

Commander in Chief Weissert had appointed 2,000 aids for this parade, who rode on horseback.

The men marched in platoons of 12, four paces apart, and it required almost seven hours for the procession to pass a given point.

A feature of the parade were salutes from artillery along the line, which was in charge of the German Veterans' association and the Indianapolis Light Artillery.

Camp Wilder Dedicated.

Ex-President Harrison dedicated Camp Wilder, the name bestowed upon some 300 tents in which reunions of regiments and old soldiers' societies will be in full blast for the remainder of the week. About 1,000 persons participated in the exercises, which included addresses by W. A. Ketcham, General John T. Wilder, for whom the camp is named, and General Harrison, and patriotic business and the raising of the Stars and Stripes. When the ex-president was introduced, he was greeted with a volley of cheers that was thrice repeated.

He apologized to his fellow citizens for having remained so long at the seashore, indulged in some interesting reminiscences regarding the park and surrounding neighborhood in the days of the war and eulogized the bravery and devotion to their country of the Indiana troops.

"No Indiana soldier," said the ex-president, "need be ashamed to open to the world, in friendly competition with the records of the sister states, the story of Indiana's part in the great rebellion. But the beauty of it all was that these regiments from Indiana, and these from Illinois, and these from Ohio were all one. They were not Indiana's soldiers, Ohio's or Illinois' soldiers, but soldiers of the United States.

"The cause was one, the glory is one, and visiting comrades from other states are not here to exalt ourselves, but to take your hands as comrades and share with you the glory of the greatest result that was ever achieved by war in human history. My comrades, these tents about us are pitched many days' march nearer home than those in which you dwelt here in 1861. They will stand but for a day and vanish. You go to your homes, to the shelter of those roof trees and to the companionship of those families from which you separated yourself in time of war and to which you returned with an increased love and consecration.

"You will go back to pick up the duties of your citizenship with a higher sense of these duties, with a deeper reverence of this flag, than you had before you came here to mingle with these comrades, to listen to these stirring songs and to stir each other by the remembrances of those bloody days."

Commander In Chief Candidates.

Now that a goodly proportion of the men who make and unmake the rules of the organization are on the ground, the woods are full of available candidates for the office of commander in chief. The list comprises the following:

General S. N. Hurst, Ohio; Captain J. G. B. Adams, Massachusetts; General H. Burd Grubb, New Jersey; Edgar Allen, Virginia; Charles P. Lincoln, Washington, and James A. Sexton, Chicago. While, however, the friends of the different candidates would best be served if the young man should fit himself for duty in one particular branch or department of journalism and then learn all he could about all the other departments.

The Farnham Post Affair.

It is probable that the encampment will indorse the action of Commander Weissert in suspending Farnham Post of New York for its action in objecting to Hirschhaim's resolutions approving the pension policy of the present national administration. The question will be referred to in the commander's report, and the indorsement of approval has already been drafted by a Philadelphia delegate. Report has it that representatives of the suspended post were in the city for the purpose of protesting against the summary treatment it had experienced, but efforts to locate them were not successful. The New York delegation say that the efforts would be useless, as they would be denied admission to the floor of the convention.

Ten thousand people packed Monument place and the adjacent blocks to witness the inaugural electrical illumination of the soldiers' monument.

A Theosophist In the Steerage.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Theosophists are discussing the parsimony of the world's fair managers, who they claim paid for the passage of Hevavitarama Dharmapahla, the invited delegate to the world's congress of religions from the Southern Baptist church, in the steerage, and obliged the Londoner theosophist to pay for his passage in the Paris in the first cabin.

Work For Idle Men.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 5.—McKee, Fuller & Co. have received an order for 5,000 freight and box cars for Cuba. Their mills and carshops at Fullerton will be started up to fill the order, giving employment to 800 men. The rod department of the Consolidated Steel and Wire company will start up on Wednesday, giving work to 140 men.

Have In a Fish Story.

TACOMA, Sept. 5.—A whale weighing 57 tons was washed ashore near South Bend on the Pacific coast. Scientists say it was 200 years old, which is within 10 years of the extreme allotment of whale life. It measured 174 feet 8 inches in length and is estimated to be worth $10,973.

New York Republican League.

SARATOGA, Sept. 5.—The executive committee of the state League of Republican Clubs will be called together by the president in syracuse about the date of the Republican state convention.

Lumber Port Again.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 5.—Nearly 300 looms in the Valley Falls mill were started, and the rest of the mills of the same owners today. Lumber is known as Valley Falls shirting.

SOME MYSTERIOUS POISON.

Just What Drug Killed Dr. Graves Will Probably Never Be Known.

DENVER, Sept. 5.—The attorneys and personal friends of Dr. T. Thacher Graves, the famous poisoner, who killed himself in his cell in the county jail by taking some subtle, unknown poison, are opposing the effort to hold an autopsy and inquest. It is hinted that Dr. Graves ended his own life with some mysterious drug or combination of drugs which could only have been prepared by an expert chemist, and those who believe him guilty of the murder of Mrs. Barnaby are said to be complaining connecting the poison by which the doctor ended his own troubles with that contained in the mysterious bottle of whisky sent to Mrs. Barnaby from "her friends in the woods." It is hinted that the strange poison was very likely the same in both cases.

Everybody except Mrs. Graves is satisfied as to the fact of suicide, but her friends will not attempt to change her opinion at present, as they believe it would only be a useless blow to her. The county commissioners have decided not to bear the expense of an autopsy, and therefore none will be held.

Mr. Graves left a letter for the board of county commissioners, asking the county of Arapahoe to defray his burial expenses of Thomson, Conn.; also the expenses of his wife and mother and a female escort. He said he would not ask it, but all of his funds were exhausted. The commissioners discussed the request briefly, but arrived at no conclusion.

"Under the Shadow of the Gallows" is the name of Dr. Graves' book, which he has asked his wife to complete. In his letter to her he states the hope that the sale of this book to sympathetic friends will provide a fund to keep her and his mother comfortably during the remainder of their lives.

JEROME BONAPARTE DEAD.

He Was a Grandnephew of the Great Napoleon and a Gallant Soldier.

BEVERLY, Mass., Sept. 5.—Jerome Bonaparte died at his summer home, Pride's Crossing, here, where he has been ill for some time.

Colonel Jerome Bonaparte was the eldest son of Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte and grandnephew of Napoleon I. He was born in Baltimore on Nov. 7, 1830, and was the son of Jerome Bonaparte, who was the only son of Prince Jerome, king of Wurtemburg, and his wife, the late Elizabeth Patterson Bonaparte of Baltimore.

Colonel Bonaparte graduated at West Point in 1852, and until his resignation of his lieutenancy in the United States army he served on the staff of General Scott during the nonsectional riflemen. He entered the imperial French army on Sept. 5, 1854, as second lieutenant of the Seventh dragoons.

He served in the Crimean war against Russia in 1854-5 as engineer at Balaklava, Inkermann, Tchorala and the siege of Sebastapol, for all of which distinguished active service he was decorated by the Sultan of Turkey with the Medjidie order, made Knight of the Legion of Honor of France and received the Crimean medal from the queen of England.

He was in the Algerian campaign and in the Italian campaign against Austria in 1859. He was also engaged at Montebello, Solferino and various outpost affairs, receiving for his gallantry the French medal-lie d'Italie and the decoration of military valor from the king of Sardinia.

On the fall of the empire he escaped with his life with difficulty from the commune in Paris. At the close of the war in 1871 he returned to this country and married the same year at Newport, R. I., Mrs. Caroline Reloy Edgar, formerly Miss Appleton, granddaughter of Daniel Webster.

There Was No Fight at Roby.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—The Lake Shore special train for Roby was not run, as the management of the Columbian Athletic club announced that the contests between Jimmy Barry and Johnny Connors and George Lavigne and Young Griffo would not take place as scheduled. In view of the action taken by Governor Matthews and the Indiana authorities it was deemed prudent by the club management to postpone exhibitions for three weeks, and thus avoid trouble of a serious nature.

ROBY, Ind., Sept. 5.—Seven hundred officers and men of the Indiana national guard, fortified with swords, bayonets and rifles, a gatling gun and many pounds of ammunition, bivouacked here outside the arena of the Columbian Athletic club. There was no fight and no attempt at one.

Bartholdi Visits His Statue.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Auguste Bartholdi, the sculptor, who designed the Statue of Liberty, accompanied by Secretary Richard Butler of the Statue of Liberty committee, went to the Battery and sailed over to Liberty island. He climbed up to the torch, examining critically every part of the structure. M. Bartholdi said he had not succeeded. The New York delegation say that the efforts would be useless, as they would be denied admission to the floor of the convention.

Ten thousand people packed Monument place and the adjacent blocks to witness the inaugural electrical illumination of the soldiers' monument.

Died Beside the Corpse.

YORK, Sept. 5.—Simon Seckles, a schoolteacher, 71 years old, of 321 East Fifty-first street, went down to the Fifth street to take a last look at the remains of his life long friend, Jacob Smeadaris, who died suddenly on Sunday evening, and when he got into the death chamber he died suddenly himself.

Run Over By a Fat Woman.

CONEY ISLAND, N. Y., Sept. 5.—A fat woman dressed in a blue Eton suit and wearing a jeak cap, who was riding a bicycle, ran over 5-year-old Thomas Gilkerson, Jr., on the Ocean Parkway. The child received injuries from which he is likely to die.

Kept Bound to a Bed.

EASTON, Conn., Sept. 5.—William Ackerman, a young man of this place, was attacked by hydrophobia. He becomes so violent at times that his friends are compelled to keep him bound to a bed with ropes.

Mr. Lumpkin Gets a Judgeship.

ATLANTA, Sept. 5.—Governor Northen appointed J. H. Lumpkin judge of the superior court.

FINANCIAL REVISION.

That Is to Be the Work of the Present Congress.

THE ARGUMENTS FOR STATE BANKS

After the Repeal of the Sherman Law by the Senate Both Houses Will Be Plunged Still Deeper Into the Financial Problem. The Plan of Mr. Voorhees.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The question of repealing the tax on state banks, as called for in the Chicago platform, is already before the senate in the shape of a bill introduced some days ago; also in the Butler amendment to the Voorhees bill just offered in the shape of another amendment to Mr. Voorhees' bill providing for the extension of the circulation of national banks.

The latter bill has been effectually sidetracked, and there appears to be little hope of resuscitating it, as that the last named amendment will go the way of all amendments to bills that have been killed by the process of slow strangulation.

It is predicted, however, that as soon as the repeal of the Sherman bill has been effected—should that ever be—the proposition to repeal the tax on banks will come to the front at once, and when it does it is probable a discussion will be begun looking to a thorough revision of the financial legislation of the country.

Senator Gray, speaking of this matter, thought the day was not far distant when this whole subject would have to be considered and acted upon by the congress of the United States. He said the conditions today and those of the year 1837, when the state banks were in vogue, were as widely different as possible. There was no more danger now of the banks using them there would be, of attempting to enforce the fugitive slave law. He believed that the wisdom of congress would evolve some plan by which the circulation of the people could be based and given a stability that could never be questioned.

The substitution of state banks would aid in the currency of the people and increase the circulation in small communities, where it was so often needed. In the minds of other senators the idea of issuing more bonds finds favor, while in those of others it is a nightmare that causes unrest and uneasiness. Whether such a proposition would receive favorable attention from some of the strong men of the senate are on either side.

Mr. Voorhees' Plan.

Senator Voorhees is perhaps the most outspoken champion of state banks on the floor of the senate. What he means by a state bank is not known. He is commonly remembered and associated with ideas repugnant to good banking principles, but the chartered state banks which have a circulation of gold and silver—gold and silver. This plan also contemplates governmental supervision and inspection—a combination which will, he believes, offer a safe banking system. Mr. Voorhees' plan is simple and give them a system of banking as firm and reliable as any ever devised by man.

There is no gainsaying the fact that a bill with this end in view will be one of the first to be introduced when the house has adopted its rules, and the Democrats in the senate are thus early discussing the probability of its passage. In the senate it is unlikely that the Democrats will have the support of the sound money republicans they now have in the attempt to repeal the Sherman act. Whatever may be the bill of the action taken by Senator Harris, it will be carefully amended and guarded so that in no sense can it be charged against the Democratic party that it is seeking to return to the days of so called wildcat banking.

The Senate's Session.

The senate had a long and wearisome session, with little of interest to enliven the proceedings. The house bill for the repeal of a portion of the Sherman act was kept steadily before the senate, but was not up, and it was still before the senate at the time of adjournment.

Speeches were made upon it by Senators Cullom, Coke and Peffer. Mr. Cullom's speech was in favor of unconditional repeal. Mr. Coke's was against it and for the coinage of silver at the present ratio of 16 to 1. Mr. Peffer's was for the restoration of the coinage act of 1837 and at the present ratio of 16 to 1.

Among the minor incidents of the session were the passage of the house joint resolution inviting Sept. 18, the two hundredth anniversary of laying the cornerstone of the capitol, a holiday in the District of Columbia, and the defeat of a resolution (8 to 41) offered by Mr. Allen for an adjournment of the senate in recognition of Labor day.

BODIES IN THE BARN.

The Mysterious Murder of Two Unknown Women.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 5.—A discovery of what has all the appearances of a double murder and may prove to be a triple assassination has just been made at Burlingham, at the foot of the Shawangunk mountains.

The events leading up to the supposed murders date some time back. Paul Holliday, a widower, who resided near Burlingham, recently married a young woman who had been working for him. Soon after the marriage Holliday's house and barn were burned, and his crippled son was burned to death in the house. Mrs. Holliday was arrested for arson and held in the Orange county jail, where she showed evidence of insanity. She was sent to the State hospital, and subsequently being released she returned home.

The latter part of last week Holliday was missed. He had not been seen by his neighbors since last Thursday. A watch was set on Holliday's premises and Mrs. Holliday questioned as to her husband's whereabouts.

She said he had gone to Bloomingburg to work on a mason, but an investigation proved her statements false. Mrs. Holliday made some inquiries as to what would remove blood stains, and her actions becoming mysterious she was arrested. A searching party was made up to look for Holliday. In the barn at Holliday's place they found under a lot of hay the bodies of two women. One was that of a fleshy woman about 45 years of age and the other that of a young girl aged about 19 years.

In the body of the older woman there were eight bullet wounds. Death had evidently taken place in both cases about four days ago.

While the names of the dead women are unknown, it is thought that they were summer boarders from New York city. Coroner Roesch of Wawboro has summoned a jury, and local physicians are making a post mortem examination. The inquest will be held this afternoon. The search for Holliday continues.

CHOLERA SCARE OVER.

Only the Case of Martin Crowe Now Remains to Pass It On.

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 5.—The bottom is not only dropping out of the cholera scare in this city, but the cases themselves are dropping out one by one. The only one now remaining is that of Martin Crowe, who died at the City hospital. It was assumed that he had contracted the disease from Mrs. Crowe, of No. 5 State street, who died 20 hours before Crowe and whose symptoms were somewhat similar.

County Physician Converse caused Mrs. Smith's body to be exhumed on Saturday, and portions of the viscera were removed for the purposes of a bacteriological examination by Dr. Biggs and Dr. Jenkins.

The test was concluded, and Dr. Biggs at once transmitted the result to Health Inspector Benjamin. It is to the effect that no indications of cholera were found in Mrs. Smith's case. Her death was caused by cholera morbus.

This satisfies the authorities that William Morton, Mrs. Smith's brother-in-law, who lived in the same house with her, also died of cholera morbus, and therefore Crowe's case stands alone. The quarantine at State street was raised at midnight. This was the only place remaining under quarantine, but the sanitary supervision both of State street and Culver avenue will be maintained until the end of the week. Today Health Inspector Benjamin is endeavoring to trace the movements of Crowe with a view to ascertaining where he contracted the disease.

SHOT TWO BOYS.

Farmer Barrett Narrowly Escaped Being Lynched.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—William Barrett, a dairy farmer, shot and killed John Egan, 10 years old, of 79 Greenpoint avenue, and probably mortally wounded David Crawford, 12 years old, of 76 Greenpoint avenue, at his farm in Blissville. He claims that a crowd of boys were annoying him and that he fired both barrels of a shotgun into the air to frighten them away and had no intention of shooting any of them. Spectators declare that he fired directly into the crowd of boys. Led by the dead boy's father, a great crowd of neighbors caught Barrett, beat him almost into insensibility and would have probably lynched him but for the arrival of Policeman Haggerty, who rescued him and took him into custody. The Egan boy died 15 minutes after being shot, and 45 buckshot were taken from his chest by a doctor.

Urged at a Cemetery.

PITTSBURG, O., Sept. 5. — Nicholas Van attended the cremation of his brother John. He insisted upon seeing the corpse put in the retort. He was greatly agitated, and when the cold form of the dead was brought out and shoved into the retort over the fiery furnace he gave way entirely. He was carried into the open air and laid upon the grass. In a short time he retained partial consciousness and began to rave violently. Physicians report his condition as very serious.

Trouble With Tramp Hop Pickers.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The country hereabouts is overrun with tramp hop pickers. At Sprout brook a number of them became ill soon after being denied more pay and stoned the farmers and broke windows in the houses. At length a number of villagers armed themselves and drove the hop pickers from the locality.

Jack the Ripper to Holland.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 5.—Four women have been murdered and mutilated within the last four days in Oestburg, a small village on the island of Cadsand, in the Netherlands. All were of the poorer class. The murders were committed at night, and the bodies were dissected in the manner practiced by Jack the Ripper.

Forced a Boy Under the Car.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 5.—Leslie Murray, 9 years old, was forced in front of an electric car by a crowd and was crushed under the wheels. His left leg was cut off, and both arms were broken. He is in a dying condition at the General hospital.

Shot by a Jealous Husband.

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 5.—Dominick Bartholomew shot his wife and then shot himself twice in the temple. Jealousy was the cause of the act. The wife will recover.

More Mills Resume.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 5.—The two mills of the Quidnick company at Quidnick started up. Several Burrillville mills will resume next Monday.

Knitting Mills Start Up.

LITTLE FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The Riverside knitting mills at Little Falls started up today.

MR. BENEDICT EXPLAINS

The President's Friend Tells About the Tooth Pulling.

WAS NO THIRTY-SIX HOUR NAP.

While the Dentists Were at Work the Yacht Was Steaming Up and Down the Sound, and After the Operation Mr. Cleveland Played Croquet.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The World prints the following today: Banker E. C. Benedict, the close personal friend of President Cleveland, made a statement to a reporter regarding the occurrences aboard the steam yacht Oneida July 1 last.

"The matter was discussed," said Mr. Benedict, "and since it was necessary to pull one of the president's teeth we concluded to have it done aboard the yacht, where there was perfect quiet and where there were fresh air and good light in plenty. Rather than [illegible] in a dentist's chair in a little [illegible] in town on a hot summer day, the president came aboard my boat, and there's all about that."

"How was the operation performed?" inquired the reporter.

He Had Not See It.

"I don't know," said Mr. Benedict, his face becoming very stern all of a sudden. "I wasn't there."

"Was the operation performed while the Oneida was cruising in the sound at a moderate speed and while directly off this point?"

"Yes," said Mr. Benedict, who explained that the yacht was cruising up and down the sound off Greenpoint, apparently trolling for fish. "The water at that time was perfectly quiet. Ah, there they pulled one tooth. That's all, I think, they wanted to pull. Then, I think, a piece of jawbone came away, and the second tooth had to be extracted. Mr. Cleveland stood the operation very well."

"It has been printed," said the reporter, "that the president was put to bed after the operation had been performed and that he slept for 36 hours. Is that true?"

"All bosh!" replied Mr. Benedict. "Not a word of truth in that. Why, let me tell you this, and you can judge for yourself whether there can be any truth in such a report. I played cribbage with the president the same evening. I have the record of every day's games we played aboard my yacht now. We played every day, and the president never missed a meal.

"Why," continued Mr. Benedict, "that this will set everybody at ease. I want to say that the president never was in better health than he is today. The talk about his having Bright's disease, cancer and goodness knows what, is all rot.

Fishing All Day Long.

"You should see that man as I saw him since that time you speak of, standing in the boat two hours before sunrise, with a fishing rod in his hand and with that powerful right arm of his casting a line. I have seen the president stand in the boat all day long and fish to his heart's content.

"And the people say that he is a sick man. I hope your health or my own health is as perfect today as is the health of the president. Could a sick man go through all this exercise in an open boat all day long? We went fishing, and we hauled out the big weakfish by one of them weighed less than five pounds, and the president personally caught half of the lot."

Mr. Benedict said that the false reports concerning the president and his health had been of the greatest annoyance both to the president and to his friends.

Charles Peterson is the steward aboard the Oneida. He was seen by a reporter and asked about the operation that had been performed on board the Oneida July 1, when President Cleveland was a passenger. Peterson expressed utter ignorance. All he knew, he said, was that the president had a couple of teeth pulled. He laughed at the reports printed that the president had been confined to his bed aboard the Oneida for 36 hours, as printed in some of the reports.

"I know that this is not true," said Peterson. "The president was on deck every day. I saw him there myself."

Bill Dalton Fatally Shot.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 5.—The posse of officers in pursuit of the Dalton gang returned empty handed. A courier from Sullivan brought the news that a doctor of that town, who has been missing several days, has just returned and tells a startling story. He was called out of his office Sun day night, taken in charge by two armed men and escorted to the outlaws' camp and compelled to dress their wounds. He says that all are wounded, and positively two, and possibly three, will die. One of those nearest death is Bill Dalton, the outlaw leader, who has two bullets in his body and a broken arm.

The Suicide Not Recorder Smyth's Son.

DENVER, Sept. 5.—The unknown man who shot himself in Lincoln park Sunday morning was W. H. Smyth, a son of Recorder Smyth of New York city. Smyth was 34 years of age and had been a paymaster in the United States army. He was in destitute circumstances. Recorder Smyth has been notified.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Recorder Smyth says he has no son.

Almost Mobbed a Bank.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Many depositors in the banking house of Bernard Weinberger, 20 Essex street, learning that it had closed its doors, gathered in front of the doors and demanded their money. The neighbors becoming alarmed at the noise and excitement notified the police, and several policemen drove the crowd away.

Fears For the Valkyrie.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—While Lord Dunraven's yacht Valkyrie, which sailed for America on the morning of Aug. 23, is not overdue, there is a little anxiety among yachtsmen concerning the races. Since the departure from the other side the Valkyrie has not once been reported.

Carnegie's Plant Resumes.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 5.—Every department of the Carnegie steel plant at Homestead was started up, giving employment to about 3,000 men. About 300 men were given employment in the Bedford wire works, which resumed operations.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS

SPIDERS.

Entertaining Facts Concerning These Much Abused Insects.

A spider's web is a curious and beautiful thing. The spinning organs are tiny tubes, and the threads are a white sticky liquid which hardens at once as it is forced out. When the spider begins to make a thread, it presses the end of its tubes against some object, to which the liquid sticks. Then it moves away, and the thread is formed—just as you form a rope when you pull molasses candy. Different kinds of spiders make different kinds of webs.

THE CROSS SPIDER—NATURAL SIZE.

The gossamer or spider silk is useful to the owner in various ways. It may be a rope to swing by when the spider wishes to drop from a great height without hurting itself. One can build a "flying bridge" of it, and another can almost "fly"—that is, be so buoyed up in the air and wafted along by the breeze that it seems to fly. Astronomers have found it useful, too, for it takes the place of a wire in some of their most delicate observations, where even the finest wire would be too coarse.

The cross spider is so called on account of the white cross on its body. The name has nothing to do with its disposition. There is a spider that spins a web under water, but this is for a nest and not for a net in which to catch other insects, as are most spider's webs. The nest is made on the principle of a diving bell, and in order to get air for its home the spider carries down a bubble at a time and sets it free beneath the bell. Other spiders live in holes in the ground and make clever little trapdoors over their nests.

The sting of the tarantula (a name derived from Taranto, a town of southern Italy), the most venomous of spiders, was popularly supposed to produce a disease called "tarantism," which could be cured only by music or dancing, and the dance which cured it was called the "tarantella." You can see this peasants dance the tarantella now, but without waiting for spider bites, says a St. Nicholas correspondent, authority for the foregoing observations.

Words to Be Avoided.

A teacher at the Wellesley college has prepared for the benefit of her pupils a list of words to be avoided, among which the following appear:

"Expect" for "suspect."
"First rate" as an adverb.
"Nice" indiscriminately.
"Had" rather for "would" rather.
"Had" better for "would" better.
"Right away" for "immediately."
"Party" for "person."
"Promise" for "assure."
"Posted" for "informed."
"Postgraduate" for "graduate."
"Depot" for "station."
"Stopping" for "staying."
"Canning" for "smart." "dainty."
"Cute" for "acute."
"Funny" for "odd" or "unusual."
"Above" for "foregoing," "more than" or "beyond."
"These" kind for "this" kind.
"Nicely" in response to an inquiry.
"Healthy" for "wholesome."

An Old Song and a Variation.

"Little Miss Mary, quite contrary,
What does your garden grow?"
"Silver bells and cockleshells
And cowslips all a-row."

"Oh, little Miss Mary, so sweet and so cheery,
What does your garden grow?"
"Crimson phlox and hollyhocks
And sweet peas all a-row."

Hop o' My Thumb.

An ingenious, homemade toy is made with a roll of cardboard covered with white linen on which a grotesque face has been drawn with india ink. A large marble is dropped inside after a loose body of red cloth has been glued to the lower end. Arms and legs are attached which are merely rolls of the cloth. A cap, very pointed, is for the upper part of the face. The marble is now secure and serves as a ballast when the so made Hop o' My Thumb is balanced at the top of an inclined board, whence it rolls down at a lively pace. —Philadelphia Press.

Bedtime.

Eight times the clock has struck,
The stars peep out o'erhead,
Across the air there comes
A sound of marching tread.
In city and village and town
The children are going to bed.

With footsteps swift or slow,
With faces grave or bright,
By twos and threes they go.
All robed in gowns of white,
And each with a backward glance
Calls cheerily out: "Good night!"

CANNING AND PRESERVING.

The American Housekeeper's Popular Methods of Preserving Fruit.

Canning appears a most simple process. Nevertheless to be successfully done certain points must be observed, and these are stated with unusual clearness as follows in a little manual on "Canning and Preserving" issued by the Rural Publishing company:

"The utensils necessary for canning and preserving are a porcelain kettle, a wooden spoon and a can filler, all of which should be kept exclusively for this purpose. The kettle should be large and never filled more than one-third full of fruit. This allows of more rapid evaporation and causes the fruit to retain its color and flavor.

"Be sure that every can used is airtight. Test by filling the jar with water and sealing as for fruit. Turn the top of the can downward and shake vigorously. If the slightest moisture escapes, reject the can. Experience has shown that at least one out of every dozen of new cans will prove defective. Thus, if the jars were used without testing, all other conditions being perfect, one among every dozen jars of fruit would spoil. It is economy to buy new rubbers for the jars each year; the cost is but trifling.

"Many people have the idea that fruit in the first stages of decay is as good for preserving as that in perfect condition. This is a mistake. Sound, firm fruit should be used for all preserves.

"If small fruits must be washed, dip them, a few at a time, into cold water and quickly place in a colander to drain. Never pour water over the fruit in a colander, as this will not free it from grit. Fruit loses its freshness and shrinks rapidly if kept in a warm room long before using. For pairing fruits use a silver or silver-plated knife—steel discolors and gives a disagreeable taste to all kinds of fruits. After paring place gently in a dish of fresh water to keep the air from discoloring it until ready for use.

"Before filling the jars with fruit rinse them carefully in hot water and place them in vessels containing water which will keep them hot until ready for filling. This will prevent the jars from cracking when filled with boiling fruits, for all fruit must be boiling hot when canned.

"Fill each jar to overflowing to exclude air and prevent fermentation; seal instantly. Then let the jar stand upside down until cold. If airtight, no moisture will escape; if not, the fruit may be reheated and put into another jar. Before placing in the dark fruit closet—and all preserves and canned fruits should be kept in a cool, dark place—see that each jar is firmly sealed. After they are placed in the closet do not move the jars as little as possible. In storing away canned fruits place those of the same kind together and fasten dated label on each jar. This will save much time and trouble in handling afterward."

The New Ribbon Work.

One of the latest and most fascinating things in decorative work is ribbon plaiting, which can be adapted to many purposes, such as the making up of sachets of all kinds, cardcases, picture frames, book covers, etc. The work recalls the paper plaiting of kindergarten teaching. A simple form of it is here illustrated. Baby ribbon of two light colors should be used, such as pale pink and heliotrope, green or blue. The easiest way of managing the work is explained as follows by The Decorator and Furnisher, to which our cut is due:

RIBBON WEAVING IN TWO COLORS.

Take a drawing board and arrange upon it a number of pieces of ribbon, all of one color and the length required for the work, with about two inches over. Set these bands side by side longitudinally and hold them down at each end with a drawing pin, tin tack or ordinary pin. Now begin the weaving, drawing the second set horizontally over and under the front set of ribbons, taking the bands over certain hues and under others, according to the requirements of the pattern. If possible, the wrong side of the ribbons should set uppermost while the work is being executed, the right side resting against the board. As each band of ribbon is threaded it should be pushed up so that it rests evenly by the side of that which was laid last, and should be held down at each end with a pin

When all are placed, they must be secured in one of two ways, the former being the best when the plaiting is to be laid upon a second material and held down by embroidery stitches. The first plan is to take a brush and a very little paste—it is scarcely possible to get too little—and spread this over the ribbon. Then lay a piece of tissue paper over the work inside the row of pins, which are removed when this is dry, and the plaiting is thereby released from the board. The second way of managing the finishing off is to take some strips of gummed paper and to stick them all around the edges of the work only.

To Remove Ink From Polished Wood.

If the stain is on mahogany or oil polished wood, mix a few drops of nitre in half an ounce of water and use a feather to apply this mixture to the ink. As soon as it disappears rub it quickly with a cloth wrung out in cold water, and then polish with an old silk rag sprinkled with sweet oil or the customary furniture cream in use in the household. If this process is not carried out in full and immediately after the application of the nitre and water, there will be a white mark in place of the ink.

A MODERN INSTANCE.

An Idiotic Dialogue Illustrating One Side of Human Nature.

He—How much nicer it is to sit on the stairs out here where it's cool than to roast one's self in that blessed ballroom.

She (demurely)—Do you think so?

He (looking at her lovingly)—Indeed I do.

She—How people's tastes differ.

He (frecsingly)—Thanks. I was not aware my company was disagreeable.

She (languidly)—Oh, that's especially. Only Jack said, not half an hour ago, that he thought it slow in the halls and much preferred dancing.

He (savagely)—Oh, Jack's a fool.

She (quickly)—I don't think so.

He (nettled)—Probably you think I'm one?

She (calmly)—Oh, they're some things we had better keep to ourselves.

He (bristling)—What, for instance?

She (coolly)—Tempers.

(Silence for fifteen seconds.)

She (absently)—What's that the orchestra's playing?

He (mopping his face)—"Love's Dreamland," I think. Pretty thing, isn't it?

She—What? Love? No, I don't believe in it. "It's made up of sighs, a tissue of lies," and so on. (Slightly animated.) Do you think you ever loved?

He (hesitatingly)—Oh—I—I—er think not. Did you?

She (airily)—About fifty or sixty times.

He—But you said just now that you didn't believe in love.

She—Either I do—or—now.

He—What do you believe in then?

She (repressing a yawn)—I believe we'd better go back to the ballroom.

He (rising)—You evidently also believe in making yourself as uncompanionable as possible.

She (laconically)—Fools and children speak the truth.

He (coloring)—And to which class, Miss De Puyk, do you relegate me?

She (languidly)—Oh, the children. You're so eminently naive and artless, you know. So charmingly simple and free from guile.

He (angrily)—And do you know what I think of you?

She (fastening a curl back)—I'm not overly anxious.

He (bowing)—Then I'll reserve my opinion. (Moving away.) Good night.

She (calling after him)—Mr. Saunders, are you not forgetting your politeness? Please escort me to the ballroom.

He (coming back)—I did not forget my politeness (sarcastically). I left it behind me.

She (petulantly)—If you'd only leave your unaccountable, freakish, touching little ways behind you, I'd like you much better.

He (looking at her squarely)—It's force of association; this "freakishness" of mine.

She (coldly)—That can easily be remedied. In the future see that it is.

He (bowing)—The age of miracles is not yet passed. I can at least try.

She (biting her lip)—I can't understand why you want to be disagreeable to me so to night.

He (surprised)—Why, I'm not disagreeable. It's you who say the mean and uncalled for things. (Warmly)—You know that I care for you too much to say anything to hurt you.

She (toying with her fan)—How am I to know that you care for me?

He (excitedly)—Why, I left the Evans ax in the middle of the floor as soon as I saw you.

She (severely, though secretly pleased)—I don't think that proves you care for me. It only shows how rude you can be.

He (coloring)—All right. (Resignedly)—Let's go back to the ballroom.

She (slowly)—I should want a man that he—that cared for me to do some thing heroic to prove his regard.

He (quickly)—What shall I do to prove it?

She (thinking she hears some one approaching, and not wishing to be caught receiving a proposal)—Please tie my slipper.

He (thoroughly incensed)—You're a flirt and are making games of me. I'm not going to stand it any more and be made a fool.

She (teasingly)—You can't gild refined gold any more than you can make a fool of—of (Changing her tone)—Why, I only told you to tie my slipper because I thought I heard some one coming.

He (tauntingly)—And then I'm to tie your slipper every time you imagine you hear some one coming? How gracious you are.

She (conciliatingly)—Come now and don't be a foolish boy. Tell me what you'd do to prove thas you care for me?

He (boldly)—I'd marry you.

She (blushing and painfully embarrassed)—Why—why—you impudent fellow. I—I—

(A blissful silence intervenes.)

He (regretfully)—And what will you do to prove that you care for me?

She (slowly)—I'll marry you.—Philadelphia Music and Drama.

Why?

"Papa," said Willie, as he and his father roamed over the fields together, "I like to go walking with you. And what he was about. Then he asked, catching sight of the cattle grazing in the next field, "Papa, what is cows?"

"Cows," returned Mr. Brousou, after a moment of thought, "cows—er—are animals with horns that give milk and eat grass."

"Do cows like grass better than they do apple pie and custard?" asked Willie.

"Very much better," said Mr. Bronson.

"Why do they, papa?" asked the boy.

"Oh, because they were born that way."

"Why do cows give milk, papa. Can't they sell it?"

"No. Cows don't know anything about money, you know; and even if they did, they wouldn't know where to keep it."

"Couldn't they keep it in their horns?"

"Oh, my, no!"

"What are cows horns anyhow? Do they make that funny 'moo' sound with their horns?"

"What a goose you are, Willie! They don't blow with their throats."

"What do they do it with their horns?"

"They can't."

"Can't anybody blow horns?"

"Oh, yes. Tin horns and—er—brass horns, but not cows' horns."

"Papa, why don't cows have tin horns?"

"Oh—because! Oh—er—because they are cows, I suppose."

Willie thought deeply for a long time about this, and that night he tdrned to his father and said, "Why are cows cows anyways?"—Harper's Bazar.

A FEW HONEST SUGGESTIONS!

WHICH SHOULD BE APPRECIATED.

All tooth powders practically contain the same ingredients, namely: chalk, Castile soap, etc., with some flavoring. We use in the manufacture of Royal Tooth Powder, the best English prepared chalk, the finest English Castile soap, delicately flavored. Your dentist will tell you these substances are perfectly harmless and accomplish all that is to be expected from a tooth powder. A full two-ounce package of this unscrolled article, (same as is usually sold for 25c., under label) will be sent for 15 cents will be given with each one dollar purchase and upwards. People of correct ideas will appreciate this offer, but some will say, "We never use tooth powder." Those who do use it, however, can be distinguished from those who don't, as the rose can be distinguished from the dandelion. This will seem cruel to some, but duty compels us to speak plainly. The "Royal" is being received everywhere, and jobbers compliment us with their duplicate orders.

Into the Blue Empyrean.

Algernon was whispering low to the girl in the grassy glimmer of love and talks. She had bent her lovely swanlike neck to catch his words.

Murmurously they floated outward and fell upon the pearly, pink-white ear, as crystal drops touch silver cords and wakes sweetest music sleeping there.

"You are so much to me," he said. "In all the golden years since first my heart responsive grew to woman's sweet solicitude, there has been none whose fingers spanned the octave of my soul and wrought the manly harmonies as does she who is to be my life theme. No face but yours has brought to me the face of angels, fair and pure, beyond the skies that bend above the earth, far, far removed from all its sordid thoughts, its groveling cares, its motiveless materialism. In you concentered all my dreams are realized, my hopes to full fruition come, my dearest wishes made my own."

Slowly she lifted that fair, sweet face until her soft, rich eyes looked into his.

Then she laid her little hand upon his arm.

"Algernon," she murmured, "won't you please cut the grass for me?"

And as Algernon clambered down he recalled the fact that he had tackled a Chicago girl.—Detroit Free Press.

25 per Year in Advance. T. W. Morrison, Editor and Proprietor. Office, No. 21 Somerset street. Printing of All Kinds. 10 Cents per Week. Delivered.

ESTABLISHED 1884. PLAINFIELD, N. J., "THE COLORADO OF THE EAST," WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 6 1893. PRICE TWO CENTS.

TWO HORSES BURNED.

MR. EGBERT SCRIBNER'S BARN CONSUMED LAST NIGHT.

A Delay in Sending in the Alarm Gave the Flames a Good Headway.—The Barn Partly Insured.

FIRE last night consumed Mr. Egbert Scribner's barn, on Duer street, together with its contents, including two horses. The alarm was sounded and Warren Engine Company responded. The flames had such a start before the alarm was given that it was impossible to save the building or the horses.

The delay was caused in the sending in of the alarm and not with the firemen, who were promptly on hand, twenty-one of the thirty members responding.

Water was taken from a hydrant and two streams were thrown upon the blazing mass.

There is a difference of opinion as to the cause of the fire. Some are of the opinion that it was caused by spontaneous combustion among the piles of rags stored in the barn.

Special Marshal Whitely, who lives back of the burned building, about a block away, says he had not yet retired when his wife called to him that there was a fire close by. She also told him there were two men running over the bank back of the burning barn. They were apparently hastening away from the fire. Mr. Whitely hurried out to see if he could stop them, but when he got out doors they were gone. He says he thinks these men were fire bugs.

Mr. Scribner places his loss at $1,500, partly covered by insurance.

Mr. Whitely and several of the neighbors succeeded in saving several of Mr. Scribner's wagons.

A BRUTE ARRESTED.

Eugene Shaw Brutally Beats and Cuts His Wife.

Eugene Shaw of Arlington avenue was arrested this morning for brutally beating his wife. He also cut her on the hands and face with a knife. Policeman Kiely made the arrest. Shaw was fined $100 and sentenced to sixty days in the county jail.

BREVITIES.

—Justice Nash this morning issued an execution in the case of Blackford, assignee, vs. Burnett.

—The Ladies' Relief Corps will hold a lawn sociable at the corner of Front and Church streets to-morrow night.

—Plainfield has only one Mr. J. C. Allen. He is an enterprising merchant. Have you read his new advertisement to-day.

—The new 36 foot flag pole which is to be placed on the top of the North Plainfield school building arrived this forenoon.

—A horse belonging to I. W. Pangborn, the mason, and kept at Mr. William Pangborn's place on Chatham street, died yesterday.

—Charles Williams was arrested yesterday afternoon for drunkenness by Marshal Pangborn. He was sentenced to the county jail for 20 days.

—The two quartettes with "The Country Squire" have been with "The Old Homestead" for several seasons past. Those who love music will have a chance to hear them in Music Hall Sept. 11.

—Charles Keading, who keeps a barber shop on the bridge, was arrested this morning by Marshal Pangborn, charged with keeping a disorderly house. His hearing was set down for next Monday night.

—Three new windows have been cut in the rear of Sassenbrand Hall for the temporary class rooms of North Plainfield public school pupils while work is progressing on the large extension to the school.

—Warren Engine Company No. 1 held a meeting last night in their parlors on Somerset street. The matter of procuring pictures for the room was discussed; and it was decided to celebrate the occupancy of their new room some time in the future.

—The New York Herald of this morning contains a three quarter of a column report of the troubles of organist and and choirmaster Wm. H. Miner with the Church of the Holy Cross. The subject was not considered of enough importance by the local papers to deserve more than brief mention. The rector, Rev. T. Logan Murphy, fearing that stories might be circulated to the injury of the church also requested that no extended reference be made of the matter. He made a similar request of the Herald reporter who submitted to him yesterday a ty[illegible]tten report of what appeared [illegible] Miner asked for an increase [illegible]e church refused it. He then [illegible]d. That's all there was to it.

In the City Court.

Edward Stevens was arraigned in the city court this morning, charged with being drunk and disorderly last night. He was fined $5.

James Matthews and Charles McCann were tried for fighting on Third street. They were both adjudged guilty and fined $5 each.

CITY COMMON COUNCIL.

A SPECIAL MEETING HELD LAST EVENING.

Not Much Business Transacted.—The Ordinance Relating to the North Avenue Sewer Passed.—Money Transferred.—Other Business.

The City Common Council held a special meeting last night. President Ginna and Councilmen Bird, Erickson, Frost, Frazee, Marsh, Millington, See and Weber, were present. Absent, Councilmen Fisk and Johnston.

The minutes of the two previous meetings were read and approved.

The reports of the City Treasurer and Collector were read and placed on file.

The Fire and Buildings Committee reported that a communication had been received by the committee from Mr. F. A. Dunham, offering to pave the ground in front of the new engine house.

The communication was read and referred to the Committee on Fire and Buildings, with power.

On motion of Mr. Marsh $100 was ordered transferred from the general fund to the poor fund; a note falling due September 8th, was ordered renewed by the Mayor and City Treasurer; the Mayor and City Treasurer were authorized to borrow for the city $3,950 to be charged to the credit of the general fund; also $1,475 for the fire department fund.

On motion action on the ordinance relating to the peace and morals of the city, and to Madison avenue ordinance, was deferred.

It was decided, on motion, to meet again September 19th.

Mr. Frost, of the Water and Sewerage Committee, reported that the committee had received a communication from the Borough Board of Health, complaining of the sewerage discharge into Green brook. He stated that the city was anticipating a system of sewerage and nothing could be done at present.

Mr. Frost also reported that no action could be taken on the petition of Mr. Charles Hand for permission to connect his two buildings on Watchung avenue, with the North avenue sewer, as an ordinance refusing any more connections had been drawn and would probably be adopted.

The bill of Mr. F. W. Runyon for publishing the maps of the proposed sewerage system, Mr. Frost reported back, stating that the city papers had been furnished copies of the maps and were at liberty to use them the same as any other matter. If they didn't want to publish them they were at liberty to have said so. The committee decided not to pay for the publishing of the maps as they were considered free.

The following bills were ordered paid and Council adjourned:

NUPTIALS.

Preimer—Mehl.

THERE was a quiet family wedding last Sunday evening, at six o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Mehl, on West Second street, where their daughter, Miss Louise, was married to Mr. Bruno F. Preimer of Hoboken. Mr. George Schlereth acting as best man and Miss Carrie Mehl was bridesmaid. Rev. F. Koechli performed the ceremonies. The young couple will live in Hoboken where Mr. Preimer is engaged in business.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Bigelow of Central avenue have returned home from Asbury Park.

Miss V. Doremus of Prospect place is spending two weeks visiting friends in Brooklyn.

Mr. John H. Carney and family of Craig place, North Plainfield, started to-day for Highland, N. Y.

Mr. J. M. Whiton and family of Central avenue returned home yesterday from their Summer outing.

Letter Carrier Peter Weaver is enjoying his vacation. He started to-day for Copper Hill, Hunterdon County.

Mrs. Bowen and her daughter, Miss Maggie, of Vine street, are spending a week with friends at Sergeantsville.

Mr. John H. Carney of Craig place was bitten in the left arm by a savage dog last Friday. He had the wound cauterized.

Mr. Moses H. French, father of Messrs. N. W. French and C. Frank French died this morning at his home on Craig place aged 83 years.

Word was received to-day by Mr. A. M. Griffen of the death of his brother, Charles H. Griffen, who left for the West some time ago. No particulars have been received in regard to the cause of death.

Dr. O. L. Jenkins and wife returned yesterday from an extended trip among the Thousand Islands and thereabouts. The doctor looks as though he enjoyed himself but says he has no fish stories.

Janitor Hope of the Bryant School was happy yesterday morning, for school opened once more, with Miss Emma Thurlock as principal, and Misses Tickner, Lowe, Cadmus, Runyon, Case, Owen, Jones and Marsh as teachers. The latter took the place of Miss Lewis, now Mrs. George Babcock.

Twelve Dollars For Bread.

An entertainment was given last evening at the home of Mrs. E. P. Stevens of Grandview avenue. The receipts, amounting to twelve dollars, were devoted to The World's bread fund. The following programme was rendered:

Piano Solo	Ida Randolph
Recitation	"The Dog Under the Wagon"
	Travers Stevens

Piano Solo	"Dreams of Heaven" Sadie Gardner

Rally of the Royal Temperance Legion.

A Labor Day rally of the Loyal Temperance Legion of Union county was held at Elizabeth, Monday, at Library Hall. The children marched in procession from their hall on Elizabeth avenue with banners flying, making a fine display on some of the principal streets to the hall, which was beautifully decorated.

County Superintendent, Miss Keron, presided. Songs and recitations were rendered by the children. Mrs. Dr. Tomlinson of this city and others made addresses.

Kicked by a Horse.

Mr. Lewis C. Randolph, a farmer living adjacent Pleasant, was kicked by a horse and severely injured, Monday night. His son, Mr. F. B. Randolph of this city, and his wife were visiting Mr. Randolph. The son's horse was placed in the stable with Mr. Randolph's horses. In the evening the father went into the stable to get his son's horses. As he was on his way out he was kicked in the side and arm by one of his own horses. He was knocked down and had to be helped into the house by his sons.

For the Benefit of the German Reformed Church.

An entertainment for the benefit of the German Reformed Church took place last evening in Reform Hall. The place was comfortably filled with an appreciative audience which applauded the worthy portion of the extended programme throughout the evening. The characters in the several acts executed their parts admirably, while the vocal selections of Miss Josephine Schaffer "brought down the house."

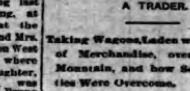
Camera Club Meeting.

The Camera Club held a regular monthly meeting last night in their room over the post office. The regular routine business was transacted. A committee was appointed to draft a set of resolutions on the death of Mr. Gotheil.

A HARD JOURNEY.

A PLAINFIELDER'S EXPERIENCE AS A TRADER.

Taking Wagons Laden with a Variety of Merchandise, over a Rocky Mountain, and how Some Difficulties Were Overcome.



THAT one of Plainfield's citizens, in years past, was a pioneer of the West is not well-known, but Mr. Bigelow, of Richmond street, occasionally regales his friends with highly interesting accounts of incidents experienced by him during several years roughing it as a venturesome trader in the West, in 1873-4.

One of these experiences was enough to make the more advanced civilization and comfort of the "effete East" appreciated.

With a cousin and an interpreter, Mr. Bigelow, with two wagons, heavy "prairie schooners," (much as adorn the initial letter of this article,) started on a trip across 300 miles of rough country to a Mexican village.

The wagons were laden with dry goods, mostly flaming colors, apt to attract the natives, canned goods, oranges etc. Oranges, by the way, sold at about $1.50 per dozen. That price was cheap, however when the difficulties to overcome are considered.

On the way to the village referred to a herdsman suggested that they drive over by Red River, stating that there was a "Government trail" over the mountain and away on the opposite side. The mountain was a spur of the Rockies. After great exertions the wagons, by "doubling up", were hauled to the summit. "Doubling up" translated means putting both the team of mules and the team of horses that were used, to one wagon, moving that up and then going back after the other.

Then came the descent. To appreciate the difficulties to be overcome, imagine a heavily laden, cumbersome wagon, going down a mountain "like the side of a house" and this mountain-side covered with loose boulders as big as watermelons and barrels. Mr. Bigelow, in telling of his experience, said he thought he had been over rough roads, but when coming down the mountain-side he vowed that beat anything yet. If anything broke, the nearest blacksmith, or repair shop, was fifty miles away. Finally the foot of the mountain was reached and the traders camped until morning.

In the morning a hunt was made for that "Government trail," which, in such cases, consisted of a course taken by cavalry or infantry spads when traveling between two forts. No "trail" was found and a start was made anyhow. The "road" on the mountain had been bad, the "road" down, worse, but, Mr. Bigelow said, the "road" on the level was something awful. They traveled half-a-mile, with their wagons after six hours of exhausting labor, and then they gave it up. A half hour's journey ahead, on horse back, revealed no better prospect, so nothing remained but to go back over the road just passed. The foot of the mountain was reached by night-fall.

Bright and early next morning the "doubling up" process was resumed, and, by desperate scrambles of a few feet each time, one wagon was started up. As the ascent increased in steepness and roughness, the rolling men, by piece-meal process, lightened the wagon.

No stop was made for dinner but the work went on. Finally, toward nightfall, the exhausted horses and mules "tockered out" just at the start of a desperate pull and backed with the wagon. It knocked Mr. Bigelow over, but snagged itself securely against an embankment and stopped. The horses were unharnessed and allowed to crop the herbage. The men, without waiting for the meal they were too exhausted to eat, rolled up in their blankets and lay down on the ground. No trouble was experienced in getting to sleep that night.

By another early start, and more lightening of the wagon, the summit of the mountain was reached by noon. Only half a barrel of sugar remained in the wagon. The road for miles down the the mountain side was lined with the rest of the load.

The other wagon, empty, was got up that day and camp made on the summit. The next day the goods were got up by an ingenious device. By experiments it was found that two of the animals, a mule and a horse, would carry packs on their backs. The water proof coverings of the wagons were taken off and one thrown over each animal. In these the packs were rolled and the whole mass tied securely. By the next night the entire loads were on the summit.

As the next stood looking over the country they had just come across a signpost, near at hand, attracted their attention.

It bore this legend: "Captain Lawrence's trail to Fort Greene." The men looked at it. Then they looked at each other and their remark might well be excused. It was brief, but expressive:

"D——n Captain Lawrence's trail to Fort Greene, any how."

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

The Murdered Girl Identified.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y. Sept. 6, (Special.)—The mystery connected with the murder of two women at Burlingham is beginning to unravel. The younger woman found murdered under the barn is Robert Halliday's daughter and granddaughter of old Paul, the missing husband.

She came from Providence, R. I., last week, and was met at the Pine Bush depot on Thursday or Friday last by the suspected step grandmother, Mrs. Halliday.

Emma Foldman, the Female Anarchist, Indicted.

New York, Sept. 6, (Special.)—Emma Goldman, the female Anarchist, was indicted by the Grand Jury this morning.

Superintendent Byrnes will probably send detectives to Albany to-night with the indictment to secure requisition papers on which to bring the prisoner from Philadelphia where she is now in jail.

A $150 000 Fire in New York.

New York, Sept. 6. (Special.)—A seven story building, known as a "sweat shop," at 47, 49, and 51 Pike street, was discovered burning about five o'clock this morning. The flames spread rapidly and five alarms were sent out. There were several narrow escapes from loss of life. The estimated damage is $150,000.

In Operation Again.

The Westfield Standard says: "The Steel Wheel Works at Garwood are again in operation under the management of Mr. H. L. Gantt, recently of the Midvale Steel Works, Philadelphia. Mr. Gantt is well known in the metal world and is recognized as an expert in steel. He will be assisted by Mr. Barnard, brother of the General Superintendent of the Lackawana Steel Company, of Scranton. Mr. Barnard is an expert in metal making, having been in charge of that department at Scranton. Mr. Edwards, a rising young man in the steel line, will have care of the foundry. He has had experience in the first steel works in the country. With the aggregation of skill, with ample means at command, and the favorable turn in the financial situation, and with Receiver, Major J. C. Paul of Plainfield in command of the forces, the prospect is most encouraging for this important enterprise."

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Dime Novel Heroine.

If Mrs. Mundis, otherwise "Tom King," the desperately wicked and devilish but pretty and reckless cowboy girl horse thief of Oklahoma territory, were only a boy in reality now, as she pretends to be, undoubtedly there would be scores of half baked young idiots of boys who read dime novels that would run away and try to be horse thieves and mail riders too. But being a girl, or rather a young woman, it is not likely that even in these woman's rights days many of her own sex can be found that will try to imitate her.

She seems to be an illustration of how far pure native born "cussedness" will take a woman who otherwise has every inducement to carry herself straight. It is true she was half Cherokee Indian, but her red father was wealthy and educated her well, and he was a man of aristocratic blood, as Indian aristocracy goes. At the age of 17 she married a white man—a livery stable keeper and horse dealer of Guthrie, O. T.—and then her mad career began. At first she was content merely to ride at full gallop the wildest and most savage horses she could find, but that did not content her ambition, and the next step from riding them was to steal them, which she has been doing successfully for several years. She is a dead shot and stole dozens of animals before she was caught. After they did capture her she gave more trouble than six men would have done. She escaped again and again. Now they seem to have her safe, however, and the prospect is that she will go to the penitentiary. While she is in prison she can reform, and when she comes out she can lecture. As a penitent woman horse thief she would be a great card.

How Peace Might Come.

If war is ever to cease, it will come about not by the action of governments, but through the common people themselves—the soldiers who are food for powder when kings quarrel. There is some sign that at length the common man may refuse to be a soldier. At an American trades congress not long ago a resolution was adopted recommending workingmen not to join the national guard. This was a great mistake on the part of the congress, for in this republic every citizen should drill and hold himself in readiness to fight, not for a master, but for himself and his own rights as a freeman. It would be a great blunder to leave the national guard in the hands of the dudes and millionaires' sons in this country. Then it might indeed be used in time against the laborer. Still more significant than the American resolution, however, was a proposition introduced by Norwegian delegates into the international socialist congress at Zurich. It was to the effect that in the event of war being declared an international strike against fighting should be ordered. If the soldiers of the armies should refuse to fight, if all the laboring men should refuse to manufacture clothing, arms and munitions of war for armies, there would speedily be an end of fighting. It would be hard work to shoot a million or so of soldiers for mutiny.

Experiment's point to a time when we shall not only feel the vibrations of the electric current, but actually see them. Electric action, like light, is caused by the vibrations of an ether, and the length of the vibratory waves can be measured. The rapid rotation or vibration of a magnet produces electro magnetic waves that have an effect at a great distance. The faster the vibration or rotation of the magnet the shorter the waves, and the shorter the waves the more intense and palpable to the senses they become. Electromagnetic waves have already been produced that are only a foot in length. Light waves that make an effect on the eye are one fifty-thousandth of an inch long. When scientists can produce an electromagnetic wave as short as that, then we shall see these waves. It is certain that this will be done.

We are going to make the most of our World's fair while we have it. The proposition now is to turn it into something like a traveling circus, and after it closes in Chicago reopen it in San Francisco under the name of the California Midwinter International exposition. To that end the United States senate passed the bill permitting European workmen and dutiable goods to be transferred from Chicago to the Pacific coast city.

The United States is the center of interest to the world financially now. Our action in regard to the silver question will be taken either as precedent or an awful example, according as it works well or ill. And whatever action we take nobody can tell beforehand how it will work. That makes the question of yet more absorbing interest.

In view of the new inventions and discoveries, splendid advances in civilization, science, literature and refinement which will gradually better the circumstances and its condition in the next century, one might well be glad to live till 1992 so as to see it all.

South Carolina used to be politically the liveliest state in the Union. Now it is Kansas. Scarcely a week passes that she does not furnish some surprise on an

EVEN TO THE VERY POLE

Lieutenant Peary Plans Another Daring Trip.

SAFELY LANDED IN GREENLAND.

The Falcon Returns After a Successful Voyage For Into Northern Waters—Peary Has Plenty of Dogs and Walrus Meat. Mrs. Peary In Winter Quarters.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 6.—The steamer Falcon returned to this port from Bowdoin bay, West Greenland, having successfully accomplished the landing of the Peary expedition at that place. The Falcon left here July 15, bound for Labrador to purchase the dogs necessary for the success of the expedition. Altogether the party got 67 dogs. At Cape Yorke Peary got five native Eskimos to assist in caring for the dogs and to do general work. The Falcon arrived at her destination on Aug. 3. The voyage was fairly pleasant, as little ice and no bergs were encountered. She made the passage across Melville bay in 24 hours and 30 minutes. This is the quickest trip ever made across the bay by 11 hours.

Tons of Walrus Meat.

Arriving at her destination, the Falcon came anchor in an harbor selected and christened by Peary Falcon harbor, 30 miles north of his former headquarters. The party immediately began landing the stores and the house. The house was immediately set up, after which the stores were packed in and about it. On Aug. 12 the ship started north on a walrus hunt, Peary, Entrekin and Vincent accompanying her to get enough walrus to supply the dogs with winter food.

They spent four days on the ship and got beyond Littleton island, 80 miles north, and then went within 15 miles of Cape Sabine, when an ice pack was met with, and being impenetrable the ship was forced to return. Thirty-one walrus were killed, their edible meat weighing 35 tons.

The Falcon started on her return here on the 20th. Then the house was nearly completed, and the party was living in it. There were several men employed daily in carrying the stores from the headquarters to an interior ice camp, where they were cached in readiness for the great inland expedition next spring. The work was very difficult, and only one trip could be made daily even with the burros and dogs. It was found that the house used by the last expedition had been torn down and used for various purposes by the natives. A whole colony of natives living on Ingledell gulf moved near Peary to remain with him during his stay.

Peary proposes to occupy the time till winter in exploring the adjacent country, and immediately upon the opening of spring will start on his great overland journey across Greenland to the northern point reached by him last year on Independence bay, and thence will proceed as far north as it is possible to get, even to the pole itself, though this part of the plan is likely to be abandoned, as he has decided to return next summer and not to remain until 1895 as was his original intention. It has been definitely settled that the Falcon will return for him next year.

No Trace of Verhoeff.

Exhaustive inquiries concerning Verhoeff, who was supposed to have been killed last year by falling into a crevasse, were made by the party, but nothing could be learned of him and now no doubt remains as to his fate.

Search was also made for the two Norwegian scientists, Kolderrupus and Bjorling, who left here early last year in the schooner Ripple to explore Smith's sound. Nothing is known of them at any of the points touched, so it is probable that they and the crew of four men are all drowned.

The Falcon made a good passage and arrived here without injury. Her northern passage was unaccompanied by any special incident. All the party were well and in good spirits at the time she left Falcon harbor.

The party staying in Greenland until next year is as follows: Lieutenant R. E. Peary and Mrs. Josephine Peary; Mrs. Cross, Mrs. Peary's maid; Dr. E. Vincent, surgeon; Messrs. S. J. Entrekin, second in command; W. S. Swanson, secretary; George H. Clarke, taxidermist; E. B. Baldwin, meteorologist; F. W. Stokes, artist; George H. Carr, Hugh Lee and J. W. Davidson. Mrs. Hedges, Peary's stenographer, returned on the Falcon.

Found a Woman's Body on the Beach.

RIVERHEAD, L. I., Sept. 6.—Willis Corwin and his family, who had a picnic at the beach, found the headless and armless body of a young woman upon the sand. It had evidently just been washed ashore from Long Island sound. There was no clothing upon the body and nothing to lead to identification.

Accident on the Big Four.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 6.—In a railroad accident on the Big Four road one man was killed, and several were injured. The collision occurred on the first curve west of Batesville through a misunderstanding of orders. The Chicago express going east met a freight train going west.

The German Army Maneuvers.

METZ, Sept. 6.—The feature of the maneuvers was the storming and capture of Colligny by the Ridgefield club. The fighting was very severe. Emperor William with the Prince of Naples, witnessed the engagement from a height to the westward.

His Life Saved by a Button.

MILFORD, Mass., Sept. 6.—Jessie Daniels, while crazy with liquor, tried to kill his brother. The bullet glanced from a suspender button, and the brother's life was saved. Daniels then sent a bullet crashing through his brain and died instantly.

A New York Doctor Crippled For Life.

DANBURY, Conn., Sept. 6.—Dr. W. F. Cushman of New York, who is summering at Ridgefield, was struck with a ball while bowling at the Ridgefield club. His knee was shattered, and he will be a cripple for life.

DIED DOING HIS DUTY.

One of the Famous Broadway Squad Killed by a Cable Car.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Policeman Thomas Gleason of the famous Broadway squad was run over by a cab and killed while on duty at the crossing at the corner of Tenth street and Broadway. For 20 years Gleason had served the city, and for five years he had been on duty at that dangerous crossing.

Four girls going west from their work wished to cross Broadway, and Gleason took them in charge. He brought them safely over and had almost gained the curb himself. At that moment a cab came along at a rattling pace, and Gleason turned to stop it from colliding with an express wagon. He was struck by a cable car. He lifted his hand in warning to the driver. The latter, however, paid no attention, but drove on. Gleason clutched at the horse's head and succeeded in getting hold of the lines, but only momentarily, for he fell under the horse's hoofs.

The hoofs of the horse crushed his skull and body. The outer wheel of the vehicle completed the work.

Officer Patrick Sullivan, who is of the Broadway squad, was in the crowd. He instantly arrested the driver, White, a small man, who was dressed in plum colored livery. When he saw the officer trying to stop the fagged out horse he fled, leaving in the arms of his captor. He soon revived and was taken to the Mercer street police station. An ambulance was speedily summoned, but Gleason was beyond human aid.

Brother officers kept the vast crowd in check, so only a few of his comrades and two or three ladies stood around him when the end came.

A FOREMAN'S SUIT.

Claims Damages of a Labor Union For Publishing Him as a "Scab."

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 6.—Attorney Carney has filed the papers in a suit for $20,000 damages for libel in the United States circuit court against P. M. Arthur of Cleveland, grand chief engineer of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers; A. B. Youngson, grand assistant chief; T. S. and D. Everett, publishers of The Journal, the official organ of the order; J. G. Owston, chief engineer, and R. M. Rhodes and H. B. Schafer, officials of the Keystone lodge of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of Alleghany. The plaintiff is Jeremiah Evans, who is now employed as foreman in the Elba iron works.

Evans was formerly employed on the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad as an engineer and was a member of Keystone lodge, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. He withdrew from the organization to accept a position of foreman. When a strike was declared at the Elba works, it was declared closed to union men by the Amalgamated association.

Because Evans went there to work the officers of Keystone lodge caused to be published in The Journal a notice that Evans had been expelled for "scabbing." Evans claims that as he had withdrawn from the lodge he could not be expelled; that for the reason that no labor organization makes a pretense of controlling the position or regulating wages of foreman he could not be guilty of "scabbing."

A Mystery From the Sea.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Mystery hangs about the old wooden Austrian bark Vila of Ragusa, now lying in the Erie basin, Brooklyn. She was picked up at sea Aug. 31 by the Norwegian steamer Breidablik. The bark was in very good order except for the wreckage aloft. The only thing to explain the absence of the crew is the complete lack of food. From one end of the craft to the other everything edible was gone. The Vila left Alexandria May 31 with a cargo of rags and bones.

Trolley Car Wrecked a Hearse.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—A trolley car of the Flatbush Avenue line ran into and wrecked a hearse on Flatbush avenue, Brooklyn. The hearse contained the body of an infant, which was being taken to the Hebrew cemetery at Parkville. The collision dashed the coffin into the road and it burst open, exposing the body. Undertakers Moses Bernstein and Solomon Goodman were badly bruised.

Forty-four Bodies In One Grave.

CHARLESTON, Sept. 6.—Dr. J. W. Babcock, physician at the State Lunatic asylum at Columbia, who was sent to Beaufort to investigate the condition of the cyclone sufferers, reports that previous reports have not been exaggerated. At Edisto, on Ladies' Island, 51 lives were lost. Forty-four were buried in one grave.

Many Hurt In a Mine Explosion.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Sept. 6.—At Shelburn a force of men went into a coal mine to resume work after weeks of idleness. There was a gas explosion, and the mine was wrecked. Eleven men have been taken out badly injured and mutilated. Four will die and probably more.

STEWART'S LONG TALK.

He Wearied the Senate and Himself as Well.

VOTES FAVORABLE TO SILVER MEN

The Western Senator Speaks For Three Hours and a Half and Did Not Finish. Senator Peffer's Reconciliable Proposition. New Public Buildings.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—If any particle of interest existed in the mind of any senator in connection with the legislation of 1873 by which the silver dollar was dropped out of coinage, remaining so till the passage of the Bland-Allison act, he has had an opportunity of learning from Mr. Stewart every incident bearing upon it before, since and at the time of its enactment.

Mr. Stewart's version of that old history differed from the version given by Mr. Sherman last week. Little attention was paid to Mr. Stewart's speech, and at one point in it he complained that senators were in the cloakrooms and not in the chamber. A call of the roll, however, quickly secured a quorum. At other points he declined to permit Mr. Hoar to interpose some remarks, designating them as "a list of names." Mr. Aldrich met similar treatment, his interference being called aggravating.

Mr. Stewart occupied the floor over 3½ hours, delivering his speech from typewritten sheets and not having finished when the senate went into executive session by a vote of 35 to 28.

Two Victories For the Silver Men.

The executive session was the result of a desire on the part of the friends of silver to give Mr. Stewart, who had been speaking 3½ hours, a rest, so that he might go on with his speech today refreshed. The vote was a triumph for the silver men. All of the doors were closed in consideration of John J. S. Hassler of Forest City, S. D., to be receiver of public moneys at Enid, O. T., was favorably acted upon. Then Mr. Morgan moved that the senate adjourn. This was antagonized by the re-publican forces, who stated that they thought Mr. Stewart should continue for another hour at least. The yeas and nays were taken, showing 30 votes for adjournment and 27 against.

It was a close victory for those fighting for time, and when the doors opened the silver men emerged from the chamber smiling over the second victory they had scored within an hour.

The resolution changing the hour of meeting from noon to 11 a. m. was offered by Mr. Voorhees and is to be pushed up for action today.

A concurrent resolution for a joint select committee on finance—seven senators and seven representatives—was introduced by Mr. Morgan and is also to be called up by him today.

The most remarkable proposition of the day was a bill introduced (by request) by Mr. Peffer for a department of education and for an appropriation in aluminium coins of $800,000,000.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

Pennsylvania—Harbison Kintaing, Huntingdon Valley; Charles G. Brumbaugh, New Enterprise; Mrs. Catharine McCue, Port Perry; G. C. Hartwell, Richardsville; Jacob Hipp, Shohola.

The Philadelphia's Fast Run.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Officials of the navy department are thoroughly well gratified over the recent performance of the cruiser Philadelphia, which made the run from Rio de Janeiro to Callao, a distance of 3,00 miles, in 20 days and 18 hours, without stopping anywhere for coal. This is at the rate of 342 miles a day for a continuous run of 21 da s with at coaling and is regarded by naval officers here as a most remarkable performance.

THEY USED DYNAMITE.

Train Robbers Blow Up an Express Car, but Are Driven Off.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 6.—Another train was held up on the St. Louis and San Francisco road, this time with the unique accompaniment of a captured robber. Express train No. 3, on the Texas, west bound, was flagged with a red light a few miles east of Pacific, which is about 40 miles west of St. Louis. The train came to a standstill, and two men held the engine crew at bay while a third went to the express car and demanded admittance. The messenger refused to open the door. The demand then came from one of the engine guards to "blow her open."

This demand was almost instantly followed by a deafening report, and the woodwork of the car was wrecked. Then the three highwaymen joined forces and tried to enter the car, but were impeded by the wreckage. The conductor and a brakeman rushed up to the robbers with pistols drawn and commanded them to surrender. The robbers answered with a poorly directed fusillade, which left the two brave trainmen save back with interest.

Two of the robbers took to their heels. The third was overpowered and made a prisoner. So far as known no one was hurt. When the train pulled into Pacific, the express car presented a sorry sight.

Dynamite had torn the woodwork of the sides and floor, but the messenger was unharmed. The prisoner was placed under guard in the station, and the train proceeded on its journey. Excited villagers to the number of 500 gathered at the depot, and it was only by the determined action of cooler heads that a lynching was prevented. The prisoner is far from being a desperado in looks and was too badly scared to talk. A pursuing party is already in the saddle, and the escape of the remaining robbers is almost impossible.

BRECKINRIDGE'S DEFENSE.

Technical Points Made In His Answer to the Breach of Promise Suit.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Representative William C. P. Breckinridge of Kentucky, by his attorneys, Phil B. Thompson and Enoch Totten of this city, filed his demurrer to the declaration of Madeline V. Pollard, filed in the supreme court of the District of Columbia on Aug. 12, which charged him with breach of promise of marriage and asked damages in the sum of $50,000. The demurrer is exceptionally brief and avers that the declaration of the plaintiff was bad in substance, particularly as to the third count. The demurrer is based on the three following points of law, which will be argued in its support:

First—The said declaration consists of three separate counts which improperly allege three separate contracts of marriage and allege that said three contracts to marry were existing at one and the same time.

Second—Not more than one contract to marry can exist at the same time between two persons.

Third—The third count of said declaration is bad because it alleges matters and things which cannot in law be considered "substantive facts necessary to constitute a cause of action," thereby violating rule 26 of the common law rules of the court.

Pirates on the Sound.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—While the excursion boat Rosa lay at Strider's dock at College Point four men in a small boat came over from North Beach, boarded the vessel and inaugurated a reign of terror on board. The captain of the Rosa, the mate and several excursionists made an attack upon the pirates, three of whom beat a hasty retreat, while the fourth, a powerful man, held the pursuers in check with a revolver.

An Iron Mine Trust.

DULUTH, Sept. 6.—There has been completed here the organization of the Lake Superior Consolidated Iron Mines, a corporation which will have much the same relation to the Bessemer iron ore trade of America that the Standard Oil company has to the oil trade. It will control fully nine-tenths of the productive mining capacity for Bessemer ores of the United States.

There Will Be No Duel.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 6.—General Horatio C. King and Adolph Simis, Jr., nearly came to blows in the special term of the supreme court, and there were subsequent reports that General King intended to challenge Mr. Simis to fight a duel. But the general denied to a reporter that he had any such intention. Mr. Simis called Mr. King a "baby general."

Dr. Carver's Indians Destitute.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—A young white woman, wife of Big Horse, a Sioux Indian, whose Christian name is Amos Grant, went to police headquarters and told Sergeant O'Toole that her husband and three other Indians are in the city almost starving. According to Mrs. Grant, the four Indians took part in Dr. Carver's recent border drama.

Three Buckshot In His Heart.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The autopsy upon the body of 30-year-old John Eagan, who was shot and killed in Blissville by William Barrett, the dairy farmer, was held. Thirty-seven buckshot were found in the body, three of which had penetrated his heart. Coroner Mulners held Barrett without bail.

Iowa Populists' State Convention.

DES MOINES, Sept. 6.—The Populist state convention held here was entirely harmonious. A full state ticket was nominated. The platform says there are only two parties—the People's and the corporations. J. M. Joseph of Creston was nominated for governor.

MIDDLETOWN MYSTERY

Little Is Known About Those Two Murders.

THE VICTIMS YET UNIDENTIFIED.

Mrs. Halliday Raved When She Was Arrested—Blood and Bones Found in the House—The Husband Is Missing, and His Wife Is Suspected of Having Killed Him.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 6.—The coroner commenced an inquest on the bodies of the two women supposed to have been murdered here. Before adjourning Mrs. Halliday was taken to the courtroom, where she raved and tore her clothing to shreds. Previously an attempt to photograph her was made, but she prevented the photographer getting a negative of her by moving her head, arms and feet. Crowds are gathering, and threats of lynching are frequently heard.

The identity of the victims remains unknown. Where found, their feet were tied and hands crossed and tied. The post mortem examination revealed eight bullets in the woman and seven in the girl in the region of the heart. The women had been dead a week, but the girl not over 48 hours. The bodies have been given to Undertaker Van Tweger of Bloomingburg, who will have the features photographed before burial.

Men who were detailed to watch the premises on Sunday night state that Mrs. Halliday was up all night washing. The terror of the neighbors was that she would set fire to the barn that night, but she knew she was being watched and did not leave the house.

Two shovels and a crowbar in the house had fresh earth upon them, which gave rise to the impression that Halliday's body had been buried.

Another theory is that Mrs. Halliday killed her husband and burned his body in the kitchen stove. There were found pieces of charred bones and a mass of ashes believed to have been made from burning flesh.

Blood on the Mattress.

The Halliday woman is supposed to have been an emigrant from Ireland. She was engaged by Halliday at an intelligence office. She took her to his home and fell in love with her. They came to Middletown years ago and were married.

It is supposed that the women were summer boarders somewhere in the locality where the murders were committed. If such they were, it appears strange that the disappearance of a couple of women boarders has not yet been reported from any of the boarding houses in the vicinity of Paul Halliday's farm.

Blood has been found on a mattress and on a carpet in the Halliday house. In the bedroom in which was discovered the mattress there were bullet holes. A partition showed where a bullet had struck the partition and glanced. From a cursory examination there was everything to indicate that the woman had been murdered in the bed, probably while sleeping, for so far as can be learned no evidences of a struggle were noticed.

Very little clothing was on the bodies when they were found. The feet of each woman had been tied together, and the hands had been folded and then tied.

Bones, supposed to be human bones, were found in the kitchen stove, and it was concluded that they were all that was left of Halliday; that his wife had killed him and then burned the body. On the other hand, some of the neighbors pronounced the bones beef bones.

Statements have been made which will be used as evidence against Mrs. Halliday. Once a friend of a domestic in the locality. She says that Mrs. Halliday told her there were two women whom she (Mrs. Halliday) was going to kill and that after that she would be ready to swing herself.

Wanted to Remove Blood Stains.

Another is the statement of a neighbor, who says that about a year ago Mrs. Halliday told her husband that she, his wife, had killed her first husband. Mrs. Canfield, a neighbor, says that Mrs. Halliday within a week asked her what would remove blood stains. Halliday was a member of Company K, One Hundred and Twenty-fourth regiment, and his comrades speak in the highest terms of him as a soldier.

His second wife, the woman under arrest, is supposed to have been an immigrant from Ireland. After her marriage to Halliday she manifested a violent temper, and the burning of their house, with the crippled son of Halliday in it, followed. She was arrested, not for that crime, but for biting a team from a liveryman at Newburg and disposing of it. After lying in Goshen jail for some months, tearing her clothes and her bed and using vile and obscene language, she was committed to the Middletown State Insane hospital. Halliday secured her release last spring.

Arrested the Actress.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—A woman who is said to be Mrs. Benjamin Tuthill and whose stage name is Sylvia Thorne is accused by Mrs. E. J. McCormack, a boarding house keeper at Sea Cliff, N. Y., and also by a number of boarders, of having stolen dresses and other articles from them. Her arrest followed, but she was discharged upon payment of the court costs.

Home Rule Bill Before the Lords.

LONDON, Sept. 6.—The debate on the home rule bill was opened in the house of lords. The opposition had in attendance five members to every one on the Liberal side. The gallery was filled with peeresses. The strangers' gallery was packed to suffocation. Earl Spencer, first lord of the admiralty, moved the second reading of the home rule bill. He made a tame speech.

Veterans Hang "Hang Hoke Smith."

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 6.—During the Grand Army parade here the Mattoon (Ills.) post kept up an almost continuous chant from the time it fell into line until it disbanded. The refrain intimated the willingness of the members to "Hang Hoke Smith on a sour apple tree," and the sentiments were repeatedly rewarded with cheers from the spectators.

A RUDE AWAKENING.

Reggy Tries a New Coat with Disastrous Results.

Reggy Westend's figure was built on the symmetrical lines of the young Apollo.

At least that was Reggy's idea of his shape.

The faultless frock coats and cut-aways which his tailor turned out gave him the appearance of such graceful proportions that he had gained the impression that the symmetry was in the man and not in the garments.

He used to tell Shearer that it was "no trouble to fit him," at which Shearer would sigh to himself and say nothing, for Reggy was a cash customer.

The other day, however, Reggy got it into his head that he could save money by buying a fall overcoat ready made. He was "so easy to fit, you know!"

So he walked into a celebrated clothing store and cast a critical eye over their stock.

The overcoat that pleased his exacting taste was marked twenty-five dollars, and Reggy chuckled to himself, for this was less than half the price that Shearer would have charged him for apparently the same article.

But when he put on the coat and stood in front of the double mirrors he noticed that when it came to a question of fit Shearer had very much the best of it.

"Er—what's the matter with this coat?" he demanded.

"It needs a little pressing out, that's all. It hangs beautifully," replied the salesman.

"But it wrinkles in front of the shoulders."

"Yes, you fall in there; you're a little hollow chested, you know."

Reggy looked at the man in supreme astonishment. Could he have understood him?

"Er—what's that?" he asked.

"You see you're hollow chested, and the overcoat is built for a normally developed person. But a couple of pieces of hair cloth inserted on each side under the lining will remedy that."

"Ah, I have no doubt," said Reggy politely, "but how about the collar?"

"That's a small matter," replied the man cheerfully. "It can be raised and shrunk in. Your neck is set so far forward on your shoulders that it makes the collar stand out. And then you stoop a little."

"Perhaps one of my shoulders is a trifle higher than the other, too," said Reggy sarcastically; "or is it the coat?"

"No, the coat is all right; we have the best cutter in New York and pay him $20,000. But we can put some padding under that lower shoulder."

"U-m," said Reggy reflectively.

Then as he glanced down and noticed his lapse he remarked in a dangerous tone of voice:

"There is one thing more I'd like to know. Are you making your fall overcoats with elbow sleeves this year?"

"Those sleeves are too short," admitted the salesman; "but they can be let out. You have the longest arms of any man I ever saw. And I noticed it draws a little on the third button, where your stomach sticks out. We'll fix that, too. Will you take the coat, sir? It is a beautiful garment!"

By this time Reggy was the maddest man south of Canal street.

"It may be a 'beautiful garment,' but you can keep it," he said disgustedly, as he tore off the coat and threw it on the pile. "By Jove, I wouldn't take it as a gift!"

Roll a Pumpkin.

Rev. Mr. Haynes, one of the pioneer ministers of Rutland, Vt., was famous for his pithy sayings. At one time, according to Royal Tyler, he overheard his daughter and some young friends criticising certain neighbors more severely than was pleasing to him, whereupon he proceeded to read them a lecture on the sinfulness of scandal. "But, father," remonstrated his daughter "we must say something."

"If you can do nothing better," retorted Mr. Haynes dryly, "go a pumpkin and roll it about. That will be at least innocent diversion."

Not long afterward a conference of ministers met at his house. During the evening an earnest discussion of certain points of doctrine arose, and from the lofty pitch of some of the voices it seemed as if a part of the disputants, at least, were in danger of losing their temper.

At that juncture Mr. Haynes' daughter quietly entered the room, bearing a huge yellow pumpkin. She put it down in front of her father and said:

"There, father, roll it about; roll it about."

Mr. Haynes was called upon for an explanation and good humor was restored.

At another time a revival was in progress in the parish, and some of the young zealots were ridiculed. They went to Mr Haynes and complained of certain scandalous reports which had been circulated.

"I knew all this before," said Mr. Haynes.

"Why did you not tell us?" cried one of the young persons in an injured tone.

"Why? My dear friends," said the old minister, his eyes twinkling, "because it is best to let some exercise his own mail and pay his own postage."—Youth's Companion.

Too Exclusive.

"Oh, Mamie, I've found a lovely place for a tennis court. It's just 'round the corner."

"Do you mean that lot with a high board fence all around it?"

"Yes."

"Humph. I don't think that would do. Why nobody could see our tennis costumes from the street."—Washington Star.

HIS GREAT DESIRE.

If He Could Only Be Denounced, He Would Be Happy.

As he shot into the editorial arena, he wiped his bald head with a gaudy silk handkerchief.

"I want to be attacked," he said, and he winked at the answers to correspondents editor.

"A man who attacks people, and who sheds the innocent gore of indignant readers who have had their names spelled wrong in the paper, can be found down that passage, second door to the left," said the mild young person who was indicting an answer to Julia B's request for a recipe to remove freckles from her ear.

"You misunderstand my meaning, young man," said the stranger, as he dived into the side pocket of his duster and produced a 6 by 8 business card, on which was printed:

B. H. PULKERHAM,
DEALER IN
Choice Teas, Unparalleled Coffee, Cheapest Sugars and all Kinds of Family Groceries.
Domestic and Imported.
at the
GREAT CONTINENTAL EMPORIUM AND HOME SUPPLY EMPORIUM.
16 Washington Avenue.

"Well, Mr. Pulkerham, what can we do for you?" said the editor.

"You see, mister, it's just this way," said the grocer, as he took a chair.

"I understand that's what it ought to be, and ordinary advertising don't seem to draw trade worth a cent. Now, ever since Scheldeboff, who keeps the tea store on the corner above, was accused in the papers of having two wives living—one in the penitentiary and t'other hawking fruit in St. Louis—the women flock to his store to buy their groceries, and he is doing a blazing business. Now I was thinking if one of your smart young men would just write up a column or two about me and say as how I had eloped with the two beautiful daughters of one of our leading citizens—need not mention names, you know—and that my wife, for the sake of the family, has kept the horrid secret to herself, it might draw. And you might say—to give the thing snap, as it were—that I had been converted to the Mormon faith. I tell you if you work it right all of Scheeldeboff's customers will just pour around to my store. I'll go away fishing for a few days to make the thing look feasible like, and the sympathy that my wife will get and the trade she'll do will give my business a boom that will tide us over these dull times."

"You are not half as much of a fool as you look," said the editor.

"Well, that's neither here nor there. You send up one of your young men to take the bearings of my place and to get some points as to my life character from the neighbors. Give me a whole column; don't spare me; say that I keep my old mother chained in the cellar. Pile it on as thickness you have a mind to, I'll pay the bill—full rates. A whole column, remember, on the first page, with big head lines. So long!"—Texas Siftings.

HE KNEW ABOUT IT.

An Anecdote Illustrating the Scope of Gladstone's Knowledge.

An anecdote is told of Mr. Gladstone which illustrates strikingly the versatility and breadth of knowledge of that remarkable man. Two personal friends of Mr. Gladstone once laid a plan to amuse themselves, and play a joke upon him.

They were lodging as in his presence some subject of which he might be presumed to be ignorant, and then, having pretended to disagree decidedly, to appeal to Mr. Gladstone to settle the point. The fun was to consist in the latter's having to confess that there was one subject which he had not studied.

This plan they carried out, but it was not an easy to find the topic on which Mr. Gladstone must confess himself "stumped." At last there was discovered in an old newspaper an article on Chinese shoes. The description of the game had been copied from a well known magazine. This seemed promising.

The conspirators studied the article assiduously until they had become thoroughly familiar with it. Then they waited for their opportunity. It came when they were invited to a dinner where Mr. Gladstone was to be present. Seated on each side of their intended victim by arrangement with the host, they began to put their scheme in operation.

Mr. Gladstone had maintained his reputation throughout the evening for being thoroughly acquainted with not only the leading questions of the day, but every subject which had been thus far introduced by those around him. His neighbors on either side began to discuss games of skill and chance generally.

Every few minutes one or the other would appeal to Mr. Gladstone to clear up some particularly complicated point or disputed question. Between them, they skillfully led the conversation up to Chinese shoes, and soon found their opportunity to argue somewhat warmly in regard to a certain matter connected with the game.

They had studied the article so closely that they repeated much of it almost verbatim. Mr. Gladstone seemed interested but said nothing. The two jokers, inwardly congratulating themselves for their success, continued the conversation with more animation than ever.

The host, who had been taken into the secret, was an amused spectator of what he thought was his honored guest's embarrassment.

When they had finished their mock battle, Mr. Gladstone, who had not uttered a word, took a sip of coffee, replaced the cup in the saucer, and remarked pleasantly:

"Gentlemen, I observe that you have been reading an article on Chinese chess in The ——Review, which I wrote!"—Youth's Companion.

Willie's Prayer.

Willie is the son of a clergyman, and participates in all the functions of church and prayer meeting. Notwithstanding he is very tardy in getting dressed in the morning, and detains his mother much annoyance. One morning, her patience being more tried than usual, she said, "Willie, if you don't stop dawdling while you are getting on your clothes I will punish you." Willie accordingly made haste, and when he had finished dressing fell upon his knees to say his morning prayer, to which he added these petitions: "And, O Lord, keep me from dawdling. But if, Lord, it should be thy will that I should dawdle, grant that mother may be reconciled."—New York Sun.

Cure of Human Plants.

Not only do the plants which are ready to grow need fresh soil, but they are in a condition which makes it much easier to repot them than it will be later on. They have not made that vigorous and tender growth which is easily damaged by handling. And another reason for early repotting is that the check which a disturbance of the roots always gives in a greater or less degree, according to the care or lack of it, which governs this operation is slighter at this period than it will be later on, because the plant is only beginning its season's work, therefore is not seriously interfered with, while a late repotting, after active growth is under way, will always give it a check, from which it takes it a long time to recover, and such checks ought always to be avoided if possible, and especially at a time when they are likely to tell disastrously on the development of the plant.

It is like checking the development of a child at the time when we ought to do all in our power to assist that development, rather than interfere with or retard it in the slightest degree. So repot your plants now if possible. If it cannot be done, furnish them nutriment by giving liquid manure at least once a week. Those making a strong growth should have it twice a week in liberal quantities, but not very strong. If liquid manure is not obtainable, apply "Food For Flowers" according to the directions which accompany each package.

How Jerry Escaped Punishment.

A true Celt does not need to kiss the "blarney stone" in order to gain a flattering tongue. It is his as part of his birthright.

A little eight-year-old Irish boy in one of our public schools was reproved by his teacher for some mischief. He was about to deny his fault when she said:

"I saw you, Jerry."

"Yes," he replied, as quick as a flash, "I belle there there ain't much yous don't see wid them purty black eyes of yours."

That was the soft answer that turned away wrath.—Exchange.

VAN RIPER-PIKE CASE.

LAWYER ANGLEMAN OF THE DEFENSE FILES AN APPEAL.

The Case Will Now be Tried Over at Elizabeth.—A Warrant Issued for Mr. Joseph Pike's Arrest on a Charge of Stealing.

After Justice Mosher rendered his decision yesterday in the Van Riper-Pike case, Lawyer Angleman, of the firm of Jackson & Angleman, who represented Mr. Pike, filed an appeal, and the matter will now be tried in a higher court.

The particulars of the case are about as follows, according to the evidence brought out at the trial yesterday:

During the Summer of 1891 Mr. Joseph Pike, son of Mr. Noah W. Pike, of East Front street, was stopping at "The Pierfront," at Ocean Grove. While there he met Miss Mary Van Riper of Paterson, a niece of Judge Van Cleef of that place. She loaned him her diamond ring which she values at about $150. He pawned it in New York for $40, and afterwards got the ticket to his father. Mr. Pike returned the ticket to Miss Van Riper and she secured her ring by paying the $40 besides $12 interest claimed by the pawnbroker.

Much correspondence passed between Miss Van Riper and Mr. Noah Pike in regard to the money she had paid to the pawnbroker for the ring. Mr. Pike, at first, offered to pay it and then refused. He said he offered to pay the money at first to shield his son from arrest, but later he thought he would let the law take its course, as he thought it appeared like a criminal matter.

Judge Van Cleef, the young lady's uncle, then took a hand and threatened to bring suit unless the money was paid. He said it was not their intention to bring suit until Mr. Pike admitted to him that he merely kept up the correspondence until his son got out of the jurisdiction of New Jersey law. Mr. Pike, on the stand, denied having made such a confession.

Lawyer DeHora represented Miss Van Riper, and at the conclusion of the trial had a warrant issued for the arrest of Mr. Joseph Pike for stealing.

COAL TRAINS IN COLLISION.

All Traffic Blocked Until a Late Hour this Morning.

Two coal trains collided at Finderne about midnight. The wrecked cars were strewn over the track so that all traffic was blocked until late hour this morning. Local trains to and from Somerville and beyond were stopped in consequence.

PERSONAL.

Miss Daly of New Brunswick returned home to-day after a pleasant visit as a guest of Miss Keegan of Manning avenue.

Miss Doyle of Thompsonville, Conn., who has been visiting her brother, Mr. Reynolds, of Fifth street, has returned home.

The family of Mr. Walter McGee have returned from Windham, N. Y., and are now located at their home on Rockview avenue.

Mrs Marion Ackerman of West Seventh street, and her brothers, Harold and James Wills of La Grande, have returned home from a Summer outing.

The malarial fever with which Mr. Charles Schermerhorn, Jr., was taken in the South, has developed into pneumonia since his removal to his home in this city. He is in a very precarious condition.

Another Promissory Note Case.

Another promissory note case was tried before Justice Nash yesterday afternoon. The interested parties were Cawley vs. Anderson, both of Somerville. The suit was brought by Mr. Cawley to recover $80 he held a promissory note for, with interest. Judgment was rendered in his favor for the full amount.

100 DAYS ON A SHIP.

THE FIRST OF A SERIES OF LETTERS.

A Landsman's Experience—Letter No. 1 tells of the Start; the Pilot; Arranging the Watches and Portrays a "Real Handy Sailor-man." Other Letters will tell of Adventures.

Letter No. I.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—

HOSE only who have experienced the delights of a sea voyage can really appreciate the pleasures derived from such a trip.

I had read many tales of the sea and felt that nothing more could impress me. Before my voyage was ended, however, which lasted over 100 days, I was aware of the meagreness of the descriptions I had perused. One bright sunshiny afternoon I went aboard the ship. I stood aft and looked forward. It seemed to me as if the vessel was a block long. The ship was a full-rigged one with double top gallant sails, and of about 1400 tons burden. The ship was towed out to the harbor before supper and we dropped anchor for the night a hundred yards East of Liberty Statue.

THE START.

We were astir early in the morning to watch the tug tow us through the narrows. A dense fog enveloped the ship, but by ten o'clock it cleared away.

Passing through the narrows we soon came in view of the lightships "Sandy Hook" and "Scotland." The pilot, a jolly fellow, was very entertaining, giving bits of his experiences and many funny anecdotes. A few minutes past noon, we gave the pilot our letters. Orders were given to spread sail, which was soon done, and, with a hearty handshake and a "Bon Voyage," our pilot bade us farewell.

The white canvasses as they floated out in the breeze one by one soon caught the wind and before long we lost sight of the pilot's boat, which returned to the harbor.

Land was still in sight when night came. To attempt a daily account of this most charming trip would prove too lengthy so I shall only speak of those events which are the most interesting.

LIFE ON SHIP-BOARD.

Of course, on ship board, many little things occur which are laughable only at the time, the hilarity of which wears away as time progresses.

The Jack-of-Tars life is truly a busy one, in every sense of the word. He is constantly at work at something or other, and is a veritable jack-of-all trades, especially the ships carpenter, or "chips," as his associates term him.

The cook bears the synonym of "doctor" and his correct name is rarely heard during the whole voyage. It is such a common practice for sailors to have nicknames that they always accept them with good grace.

The sailor's work is chiefly repairing and cleaning the ship. During our trip the old paint was entirely scraped off and a fresh coat applied and when we entered the harbor of our destination our ship fairly shone with her polished brass and glittering coat.

This work, when weather permits, is done during the "watches," or the sailors time on duty, which lasts four hours and then they are relieved by another watch as their places.

This period is only broken once during the twenty four hours, that is when the regular watches are replaced by the "dog-watches" which last two hours each, i.e. from four to six p. m. and from six to eight p. m. But for this arrangement one watch would be on duty eight hours during the night and the other only four.

When the ship first sets sail the first and second mates call the crew aft. Then each alternate in selecting the sailors until they are equally divided, they are then known as the "Starboard watch" and "Port watch" each under the immediate supervision of the first and second mates respectively. The work of the crew reminded me forcibly of a miniature village.

"A REAL HANDY SAILOR MAN."

The ship's carpenter is always a man that can turn his hand at anything, always a practical shoemaker and house carpenter besides, turns in to help the crew stow a sail, is the blacksmith, smooths out a kink in a rope and sets it, in fact is the best utility man aboard ship. The sail maker helps the crew trim sails but does little else excepting to make the new sails stronger by putting in extra stitches and making over the old ones. His time is fully occupied for it is nothing uncommon to have two or three sails carried away during a squall or blow.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Rev. Mr. Koechli Respecting Rev. Dr. Heischmann.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—Permit me to say a few words in regard to the Easter which Dr. Heischmann has given to my "correspondence from the 191. m."

I acknowledge Dr. H's confession of partial ignorance of the circumstances.

2. I have had no intention whatever to prejudice the American against our Lutheran citizens. What I said, I have said about Dr. Heischmann and not about them. We never take laymen as true representatives of the creed of churches and their consequences, but ministers who have subscribed to them.

3. In spite of the assurance of Dr. Heischmann, we say again that there is more than one branch of the Lutheran church, even in this country, which consider themselves to be the only true evangelical church on earth, and will give sufficient proof of this at another opportunity, as the discussion about this point might be too long for this paper.

4. If the heart of Dr. Heischmann is more liberal and fraternal than the creed of the church to which he belongs, we accept it willingly and say "Welcome, brother."

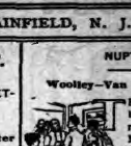
NUPTIALS.

Woolley—Van Middlesworth.



HERE was a pretty home wedding at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Van Middlesworth, on Elmwood place, at seven o'clock, last evening, when their youngest daughter, Miss Mary Estelle, and Mr. Lindsley Woolley of Westfield were united in wedlock. The Rev. Dr. Barnes, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ceremony. About fifty of the most intimate friends and relatives of the contracting parties were present. The groom was Mr. Charles Van Middlesworth, a brother of the bride. Miss Madeline Bridge of this city was maid of honor, and Miss Emma Woolley of Westfield, a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. The happy couple received many handsome gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Woolley left on the 5.48 train for New York. They will spend their honeymoon at Saratoga, returning on Monday to Westfield, where a reception will be held. They will make Westfield their home.

Hanbaling—O'Brien.

At four o'clock, this afternoon, Mr. Henry Banbaling of Newark and Miss Mamie O'Brien of West Fourth street were married at St. Mary's church, on Liberty street. Miss Annie Finley was bridesmaid and Mr. Edward Banbaling, a brother of the groom, was best man. The bride was the only daughter of Mr. Dennis O'Brien. The wedding gifts including many beautiful articles. After a reception at the home of the bride's parents the newly married couple will leave for Philadelphia. They will reside in Newark.

BREVITIES.

There will be speaking and singing in the different tongues.

—"The Country Squire" which is booked to appear in Music Hall September 11, is said by a Philadelphia dramatic critic to be a quaint domestic character picture, of every day life, rich in simple pathos and humor. "It appeals directly to the human heart and its noblest sentiments, thereby indirectly conveying a moral lesson in a manner that cannot but be delightful and instructive."

—Bradstreet's reports 260 failures in the United States during the week, against 456 in the preceding week, and 158, 178, 141, and 143 in the corresponding weeks of 1892, 1891, 1890, and 1889. The Middle States had 89, New England 56, the Southern States 47, the Western States 58, the Northwestern States 8, and the Pacific coast 20, and the Territories 3. Canada had 30, against 47 for the previous week. Of the failing enterprises 77 per cent. were of those employing capital of $5,000 or less, and 13 per cent. of those were $5,000 to 20,000 capital, the failures are reported with capital each in excess of $20,000.

Scared by the Cars.

This morning a team of horses belonging to Mr. P. M. French became frightened at the cars at the freight house, and ran down into Fourth street. They were stopped before any damage resulted.

The Weather.

On Friday warmer, fair to partly cloudy weather and light southeasterly winds will probably prevail; and similar conditions on Saturday.

HER 105TH BIRTHDAY.

The Event Celebrated by Mrs. Van Nostrand Yesterday.

BIRTHDAYS to the number of 105 Mrs. Van Nostrand of Millstone has had. She celebrated the 105th anniversary of her birth yesterday at her little old-fashioned house where she has lived for years. Few of the neighbors pass through the street on which the house faces without stopping to congratulate Mrs. Van Nostrand. Seated in a rocking chair in the hall Mrs Van Nostrand had a cheery word for every one who entered.

Less than a mile distant from the house in which she now lives, Mrs. Van Nostrand was born in 1788, and her long life has been passed entirely within the neighborhood of Millstone.

Mrs. Van Nostrand has twelve grandchildren, thirteen great-grandchildren, and one great-great-grandchild. The last is two years old. She has five children living, and her age with theirs aggregates 461 years.

HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY.

The Thieves who Robbed Mrs. Morris are Now in Jail.

About a month ago Mrs. Morris of East Third street was robbed of some silver spoons, a gold ring and a pair of silver cuff buttons. Chief Grant succeeded in locating the thieves in Newark a few days ago. There were two of them. They gave their names as Eddie and William Banks.

Yesterday he went to Newark and took the thieves to Elizabeth, where he was met by Justice Nash. The Justice held court there and committed both Banks to the county jail to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Property Required by the Central.

Willard P. Voorhees, J. Bayard Kirkpatrick, and I. S. Snedeker, the Commissioners appointed to condemn the Florida Grove property for the use of the Central Railroad in running its branch from Round Brook to Perth Amboy, handed down their report yesterday.

The Commissioners in making their award give the owners $1,183.71 per the figures submitted by Chief Engineer Hall.

The Commissioners in making their award give the owners $1,183.71 per the figures submitted by Chief Engineer Hall. The owners wanted $12,000, and the original offer of the company was the only $1,000. The property contains valuable clay, and the water front will be so obstructed that it will very much interfere to ship it, besides the grove is a popular Summer resort and brings a large rental. It is owned by Sheriff Ackers of New Brunswick, Mr. Veil, of Rahway, and A. Q. Qureby of Newark. An appeal may be taken.

A MYSTERIOUS BOMBARDMENT.

Showers of Stones Thrown at a House from an Unknown Source.

FAST two nights W. J. Keeler, of Dudley avenue, Westfield, has been annoyed by showers of stones thrown against his house. The stones came from all directions. Last night a big stone narrowly missed Mrs. Keeler's head.

This aroused Mr. Keeler. He emptied his revolver in the direction whence the stones seemed to come, and then went downtown for Constable Marsh. On the way back they met a lot of W. A. C. members out for a stroll. They got clubs and joined in the search. Their arrival at the house was the signal for a shower of stones.

Constable Marsh, with fifteen men and boys, began a search of the adjoining grounds. No one could be found, and yet the stones appeared to fly as regularly as ever. One grazed the constable's head.

Suddenly the bombardment ceased. The watchers waited a long time afterwards, but not a stone was thrown.

CROWDS AT THE FAIR.

Thousands of Visitors at Waverly Park.

There were thousands of visitors at the New Jersey State Fair at Waverly Park yesterday, and they came from all the New Jersey counties. An exhibition of all the fancy coach, carriage, saddle and matched horses was given in front of the grand stand in the morning. The judges completed the awards in all the departments, and the spectators in the afternoon knew the prize-winners by the blue and red ribbons. More than one thousand carriages and family coaches passed through the gates in the course of the day, and from two to four persons in each vehicle.

The Celebrated

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS.

Report for the Week Ending Monday, September 4th.

OR the week ending Monday, September 4th, the observers and crop correspondents of the New Jersey Weather Service report that the temperature has been about the average, the rainfall was rather unevenly distributed, being below the average in some sections and above in others. The heavy wind storm of the 29th and 30th did much damage to fruit trees, corn and some of the tall varieties of vegetables, such as lima beans, peppers and tomatoes. Corn that was already prostrated by the storm of the previous week, was twisted and torn and many of the leaves blown away, making it almost worthless for fodder. In the extreme northwestern part of the State corn will be a better crop than was at first expected as there it was not so badly injured by the winds.

In the peach districts the destruction is great. Many baskets of peaches are on the ground, both ripe and unripe fruit, while branches were broken and trees twisted off and uprooted. Apples were also blown off in great quantities, especially the Winter variety; and this crop, thus promises a larger yield in the early part of the season, will be small.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Gold Mines.

Reports from several gold mining districts are somewhat encouraging. The "clean up" for two weeks in the Homestake and Associate mines, South Dakota, amounts to $300,000. Eastern capitalists are preparing to work other mines already known more carefully and economically. Gold-bearing moderately valuable veins and placers would pay to be closely worked in the present condition of things.

The most cheerful reports, however, come from parts of the Americas not yet belonging to the United States. In Dutch Guiana there are great goldfields, said to equal in richness any yet discovered. Now is the time to cultivate them. Nearer home, in southeastern British Columbia, have been located in the past two years some mines of which a newspaper on the ground, the Kaslo Examiner, says, "Within 18 miles of Kaslo are now discovered more rich mines than there are within 200 miles of Denver."

The Kootenai river, a tributary of the Upper Columbia, is the crookedest stream in North America probably. It is the shape of the letter "S." It crosses the line between the United States and British Colmbia twice, once on the northern edge of Montana, once on the Idaho border and finally pours into the Upper Columbia almost on an exact line west of its source. It is navigable by small steamboats, and these are now loaded down every trip with prospectors old and new from the states and elsewhere. The Kootenai flows through the Selkirk mountains, a spur of the Rockies as crooked as the river is. In the mountain guiches of the Selkirk range is found the mineral wealth, which if it were on our side of the line would raise a greater excitement than the Creede mine did a couple of years ago, for the Selkirk mines are richer. Gold, lead and silver have been found in immense ly paying quantity.

The point of departure where miners secure their outfit for the mountains is Kaslo, a little new town on the Kootenai, a short distance north of the Montana line. Kaslo has been created by the mines. An assayer there says he has a quarts specimen which would run $50,000 of gold to the ton. Lead and silver ores are proportionally rich.

Our British brethren prefer to go slower than we do, thinking it an evidence of superior mind. But when it comes to opening up gold mines, we can tell them this policy is dead wrong.

A Week of Terror.

Two fearful railroad accidents—one on Long Island, the other in Massachusetts—a labor riot in Chicago and two of the most frightful cyclones ever known along the Atlantic coast within a heap in memory the action of the summer of 1893. Perhaps the sun spots had something to do with causing the storms—who knows? We only know that man's science counts for nothing when nature unchains her tremendous forces even for a few moments. The sage is as ignorant and helpless as the savage.

The atmospheric of the week of disaster hung dense and murky along the Atlantic coast states for days before each of the great storms, as if heavy with coming doom. When the West India cyclones came, they struck the southeastern states with appalling fury, especially the second one. Charleston and the South Carolina coast got it the worst. Charleston has indeed been stricken. A destructive storm in 1833, the earthquake in 1886, and now a cyclone, which has annihilated millions of dollars worth of property, have one after another wrecked her. Sixty per cent of the rice crop for 1893 is gone and a third of the rich sea island cotton crop. How many were drowned, most of them hapless negro laborers and their families, will probably never be definitely ascertained, as they were scattered through the islands along the coast. But the number will not fall far if any short of 700.

A strange mix of mankind took place at the world's labor congress in Chicago. There was Miss Grace Dodge of the New York blueblonds. There was socialless Jerry Simpson of Kansas. There, too, was Dr. Zacher of Berlin, a learned German professor, while here and there were scattered Carroll Wright, United States labor commissioner, Henry George, Felix Adler, Tom Mann, the London labor agitator; Victor Delahaye of Paris; Walter Besant, the novelist; Anne L. Diggs, one of the Kansas farmer brotherhood; the Catholic Archbishop Ireland of St. Paul and finally the president of the Tuskegee Industrial institute for black pupils at Tuskegee, Ala., Booker T. Washington. Mr. Washington has the reputation of being the ablest colored man in the south. Probably there were at once more brains and more ignorance in representation together than at any other one of the world's Chicago congresses.

A very pretty paper gets confusion upon one of its enemies in the following virgorous language, "A billygoat's knowledge of astronomy is scientific and accurate compared with Rank's knowledge of the national banking system."

The silver scare has invaded Russia. After Sept. 15 no foreign silver coins are to be allowed to enter the empire. The United States is frightening European nations by the talk that she may drop silver anyhow.

FIGHTING OFF REPEAL.

Silver Senators Indulge In Some Mild Filibustering.

THE HOUSE ADOPTS ITS RULES.

Teachers Says the Date of a Vote on the Wilson Bill Has Not Yet Been Fixed—No Change In the Meeting Time Will Be Made—A Flood of Bills In the House.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—It has been said that it was decided to bring the repeal bill to a vote on the 18th of this month, but Mr. Voorhees denies that there has been any discussion upon that proposition or that any day has ever been suggested. It is known, however, that just as soon as the leaders on the administration side believe that legitimate debate has been exhausted and that discussion has degenerated into a species of oratorical filibustering they will endeavor to force a vote by passing a resolution providing for continuous sessions of the senate day and night until a vote is reached.

The silver men, however, meet this programme with one of their own, which even thus early in the proceedings brings to the front the question of endurance. They began it Tuesday and have kept it up. It is simply demanding a call of the senate and the attendance of a quorum whenever during the debate on the part of the silver men it becomes apparent there is no quorum present in the chamber.

Silver's Right of Way Respected.

The action of the various committees, or rather their non-action, indicates that there is to be no general legislation until repeal has been acted upon. Every committee has before it important bills bearing upon every conceivable subject, and yet, save a few bills for private relief, not a report has been made to the senate. This is understood to be by accordance with the programme that nothing shall be permitted to get in the way of the measure the senate is now debating.

The indications in the senate did not point to speedy action on the house bill to repeal the purchasing clauses of the Sherman law. The first two hours were occupied by Mr. Morgan in advocacy of the resolution which he had offered on Thursday to provide for a joint select committee on finance, and which, he avowed, was intended to supersede the finance committees of both the senate and the house.

There were 40 minutes to spare after he took his seat before the repeal bill would come up as the unfinished business, and that interval was occupied in a somewhat acrimonious colloquy between senators and in a yea and nay vote on a motion to take up the repeal bill. The bill was taken up by a vote of 35 to 24, and Mr. Morgan's resolution went to the calendar, from which it can only be taken on a motion and by a majority vote.

The remainder of the day was consumed by Mr. Stewart in a continuation of the speech on which he had spent four hours of Tuesday's session.

The House Agrees on Its Rules.

The house has finally adopted the code of rules which will govern it during the fifty-third congress, subject to the decision of the committee on rules, which under the rules has always the power to direct the business of the body.

The rules vary but little from those that controlled the fifty-second congress. When first reported, they contained one radical change and re-enacted the clause which permits 100 members to constitute a quorum in committee of the whole. This clause was borrowed from the rules of the fifty-first congress, and although every member of the committee on rules was in favor of it the proposition against it on the Democratic side proved too powerful, and the committee gracefully surrendered their point, and the clause was stricken out.

A Flood of Bills.

After the adoption of the rules by the house Speaker Crisp announced that it would be in order for members to send bills and resolutions to the speaker's desk for printing and reference, and petitions to the box for reference only. Immediately every page on the floor was converted into a messenger and loaded with bills. Many members did not wait the services of a page, but themselves took the precious load to the desk and delivered them.

The clerks were almost overwhelmed by the mass, there being several hundred bills presented. The mere work of numbering and sorting them for reference will occupy the file clerk and his assistants for a day or two. Most of the bills of a general character bear the same titles as those of the striking miners, passed through here all armed with winchesters.

PENNSYLVANIA'S DAY.

Governor Pattison and Staff Attend the Exercises Today.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Pennsylvania's day at the World's fair was celebrated today with much ceremony and great success. Governor Pattison is present, with his entire state staff, attended by the famous City Troop of Philadelphia and the Philadelphia naval battalion.

A number of excursion trains were run from all parts of the state, and there was a big outpouring of former Pennsylvanians now resident in Chicago and the western states. There will be four set pieces—the Pennsylvania coat of arms, the keystone, the name Pennsylvania in letters 10 feet high and a picture of William Penn.

The ceremonies took place this morning in the state building, speeches being made by the governor, Colonel A. K. McClure of Philadelphia, Chief Justice Sterrett of the supreme court, Lieutenant Governor Watres, Attorney General William U. Hensel and James Beck of Philadelphia.

The invocation was by Bishop I. D. Foss of the Methodist Episcopal church of Philadelphia.

After the reception of Governor Pattison and Lieutenant Governor Louis A. Watres by the national committee was cordial. They then came in with National Commissioners Woodside and State Commissioners Thomas Bradley, Bigler, Whitman and Searle who came with the governor to help in the celebration of Pennsylvania day.

Governor Pattison said he had come with the Pennsylvania commissioners to celebrate their state day, and he was pleased to pay his respects to the national commission. He had no doubt as to the importance of Pennsylvania's exhibit at the exposition. At first he had some doubts whether the work of the Centennial could be excelled, but he was now satisfied that Chicago had set an example for all time and all nations to follow.

Arrested Inspector Williams.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Inspector Williams was arrested by one of his own policemen and was taken to a station house as a prisoner. Then he was set free. The man who made the arrest is one of the most recent additions to the force and is attached to a down town precinct which includes the approaches to a busy ferry. The new policeman had been specially instructed to look out for green goods men, confidence men and suspicious persons, who are often to be found about crowded ferry houses, and thought the inspector looked like one.

Counterfeiters Arrested.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 7.—Counterfeiters have taken advantage of the prevailing scarcity of currency to float a large number of spurious $2 and $5 silver certificates. Two arrests have been made, the prisoners giving their names as Victor Farrell and Gerces Gieti. Fifty-nine dollars in counterfeit bills was found on them and $34.98 in good money. From papers found in their pockets it is believed that they are a part of an organized gang of counterfeiters having headquarters on Mulberry street, New York.

Wreckers Weakened the Bridge.

RUTLAND, Vt., Sept. 7.—An attempt was made to wreck the New York sleeper on the Bennington and Rutland railroad near Wallingford. The nuts which fasten the needle beams to the track chords on what is called the Child's bridge were all removed, leaving nothing to support the bridge but the lateral rods. Only the last car, an empty sleeper, was wrecked, and no one was injured. About 60 feet of the bridge is wrecked and lies in the stream 15 feet below.

MOTHER AND DAUGHTER

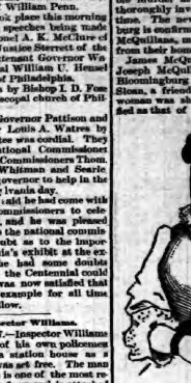
Both Met Their Death on the Halliday Farm.

IDENTIFIED BEYOND A DOUBT.

The Two Victims Were Mrs. McQuillan and Her Daughter—Mrs. Halliday Still Appears to Be Insane—Her Husband Not Thought to Be Dead Now.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 7.—The double murder at Burlingham has been so thoroughly investigated as possible at this time. The news from Walden and Newburg is confirmatory of the theory that the McQuillans, mother and daughter, started from their home with Mrs. Halliday.

James McQuillan, a fourth cousin of Joseph McQuillan of Newburg, reached Bloomingburg in company with Adam Sloan, a friend. The body of the young woman was shown them and fully identified as that of the daughter of Joseph Mc-



MRS. HALLIDAY.

Quillan. The body of the elder woman being buried at Port Jervis, descriptions given by Joseph McQuillan left perfectly satisfied that the victims were his relatives. The undertaker advised that the body of the mother should not be disinterred on account of its condition.

Two Pistols Found.

The rumor that Mrs. McQuillan had $400 with her when she left home is not thought to be true, but that the girl had a gold watch and two rings, which are missing, is known.

Two pistols were found in a vault in an outhouse on Justice Thayer's place, where the suspected woman was first taken when arrested. The pistols are of 32 caliber. This caliber corresponds with the bullet found near the bed in the house and with the bullets in the murdered women.

In the same vault where the pistols were found later there was dug out an ounce vial without a label containing chloroform and two boxes of cartridges, one full and the other partially emptied. Mrs. Halliday, on her return from Bloomingburg with Constable Scott on Monday, went to the outhouse while the party stopped at Justice Thayer's. It is thought she dropped pistols and chloroform and cartridges while there.

The inquest was continued, but nothing of interest was brought out. The suspected murderess is still in Constable Scott's care at his home. She continues to greet her callers to the same disconnected, visionary speech and natural or assumed crazy actions. Many of the neighbors are inclined to believe that Paul Halliday, the husband of the woman under arrest, is not dead, but has decamped.

Assistant Prosecutor Bowen conducted the inquest with vigor. As soon as the manacled woman had been brought in from his house by Constable Scott and seated the hearing began.

"Are you guilty or not guilty?" asked Mr. Bowen. For answer the woman plucked at the imaginary vermin which overrun her and cried wildly:

"Take them off! Take them off!"

"Did you kill those two women or not?" insisted Mr. Bowen peremptorily.

"Oh, my bones, my poor bones!" cried the wild creature, swaying her body violently.

"Bother your bones!" answered the prosecutor.

Justice Thayer set it down that she declined to plead. After a similar category in regard to the right of counsel the prosecutor instructed the justice to set it down that she waived the right of counsel.

George Gravelin is employed by the Providence Tool company as a mechanic. He blames his father-in-law for taking his wife back after the burning of the house. Mr. Gravelin says the stove in the Halliday residence is a most expensive affair, and a body could easily be cremated therein. He believes that Mrs. Halliday committed the triple murder and is of the opinion that she is insane. Mrs. Gravelin, his wife nee daughter ever saw the gypsy wife of Paul Halliday, who is accused of his murder.

VETERANS CHOSE ADAMS.

They Elected Him as Their Commander In Chief.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 7.—The Grand Army people will probably finish their business and leave for home this evening. Already the jam at the Union station of people leaving has begun.

The encampment proper shows a disposition to rush through with its business rapidly. The election of officers was short, and the three following were elected, practically without opposition:

John J. B. Adams of Massachusetts, commander in chief; Colonel I. N. Walker of Indiana, senior vice commander, and J. C. Biggers of Texas, junior vice commander.

The new commander in chief, John J. B. Adams, or Jack Adams, as he is called at home, is one of the most popular veterans in New England. For years he has been identified with the Grand Army as one of the most active and influential members of the Department of Massachusetts. The only report of interest during the session was that of the commander in chief, Weissert, which was devoted almost entirely to pensions.

An episode occurred which is likely to cause a whole lot of trouble. The Ladies of the G. A. R. are at swords' points with the Relief Corps and have never been recognized as a body by the G. A. R. Commander Blodget of a Chicago post appeared at the door with four ladies, and Mr. Weissert invited them up, supposing they were Relief Corps women, and one of them, Mrs. Sherliff, president of the Ladies of the G. A. R., made a bitter speech against the Relief Corps.

The next encampment goes to Pittsburg. There was no other applicant.

REVOLT IN BRAZIL.

The Navy Makes a Bold Move and Blockades Rio Janeiro.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Anglo-American Telegraph company, 8 Broad street, sent out notice that the Brazilian government has suspended all telegraphic service to and from that country. Until further advices are received messages for Brazil will not be accepted.

The Herald's correspondent in Montevideo telegraphs that the officers of the naval fleet now at Rio Janeiro intimated to President Peixoto that he should resign. The fleet consists of the cruisers Aquidaban, Republica and Trajano and three torpedo boats. The demand of the officers was made by Admiral Custodio Jose Mello.

In the fortress of Santa Cruz is stationed a garrison loyal to the Peixoto administration. They are under fighting orders and are awaiting an attack on the fort by the squadron. The port of Rio Janeiro has been blockaded. News has been received officially confirming the reports of the revolt.

Peixoto vetoed a bill which made it impossible for the vice president to become president. This enraged the naval officers, and to this is attributed the revolt.

Impaled on a Sulky Shaft.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Mrs. Josephine Lindner, a widow, 60 years old, of 1396 Avenue A, was run down and killed by a horse and sulky, driven by 19-year-old William Condon of 350 East Seventy-second street. Mrs. Lindner was walking across the avenue. One shaft of the sulky struck her in the right breast, and the pole pierced her lung and fractured several ribs. She was carried into the house, where she died in a few minutes.

Carnot Has Gastritis.

PARIS, Sept. 7.—Carnot has been suffering from gastritis since March and has undergone an operation which is often resorted to in such cases. His condition has been more serious than these about him would have it understood, and he is now evidently far from strong, but he goes out frequently at Fontainebleau, taking carriage exercise and even walking.

BIG YACHTS OFF TODAY.

A Trial Race of the New Cup Defenders.

THE FOUR BIG SLOOPS ARE IN IT.

The Winner of This Race Is to Meet the Valkyrie, the Crack English Yacht, in a Struggle For the America's Cup and International Supremacy.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Today is the first of the series of most eventful days in the history of American yachting. The trial races are run today which are to decide which of all the speedy American yachts is to be selected to defend the America's cup against the English Valkyrie. Today's race consists of a run 15 miles to leeward or windward and return and will be sailed down the New Jersey or up the Long Island shore if the wind continues in the northwest, the race will probably be along the New Jersey coast.

The anchoring ground for the yachts will be off Bay Ridge. Ready yesterday afternoon many a trim sail floated proudly on the waves between Staten Island and the Ridge, but today the scene there is one such as is never witnessed except during an international contest.

The Four Big Sloops.

When Lord Dunraven challenged, through the Royal Yacht squadron, for a race for the cup, yachtsmen in New York and Boston at once set to work to get all the boats built they could to defend the cup. They realized that the Valkyrie would be a smart kind of a craft, and to make no slip up in the defense of the cup four yachts were built of different types.

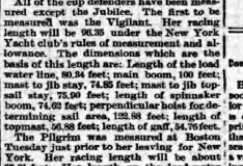
Two were constructed by the Herreshoffs at Bristol and two in Boston. Of the two Herreshoff yachts, one is a centerboard and the other is a keel boat. The Boston boats were by different designers. One was from the board of Stewart & Binney. This is a deep fin keel craft, and the other was from design of Mr. J. B. Paine and is a combination fin keel and centerboard.

Much of the interest in the coming trial events centers around the four big sloops—the Jubilee, Colonia, Vigilant and Pilgrim. On all four the last finishing touches have been made, and they should be now as fit for the forthcoming struggle as were Dobbins and Dominy when they galloped proudly out at Sheepshead for their famous match race.

The Measurements.

All of the cup defenders have been measured except the Jubilee. The first to be measured was the Vigilant. Her racing length will be 96.35 under the New York Yacht club's rules of measurement and allowance. The dimensions which are the basis of this length are: Length of the load water line, 89.34 feet; main boom, 100 feet; mast to jib stay, 74.85 feet; mast to jib topsail stay, 75.90 feet; length of spinnaker boom, 74.03 feet; perpendicular hoist for determining sail area, 125.88 feet; length of topmast, 56.88 feet; length of gaff, 54.76 feet.

The Pilgrim was measured at Boston Tuesday just prior to her leaving for New York. Her racing length will be about 99.31 feet. Her length on the load water line is 85.28 feet; length of main boom, 99.84 feet; distance from mast to jib stay,



THE VIGILANT.

73.14 feet; mast to jib topsail stay, 75.13 feet; length of spinnaker boom, 74.13 feet; perpendicular hoist, 111.38 feet; length of topmast, 47.68 feet; length of gaff, 54.55 feet.

The Colonia was officially measured yesterday morning after leaving the drydock at Erie basin.

Her length on the load water line is 85.48 feet; length of main boom, 100.15 feet; distance from mast to jib stay, 74.62 feet; distance from mast to jib topsail stay, 76.27 feet; length of spinnaker boom, 73 feet; perpendicular hoist, 122.75 feet; length of topmast, 56.88 feet; length of gaff, 55.22 feet.

General Paine In the Race.

The Colonia's racing length has not been estimated, but her dimensions, save only that of water line, are so close to the Vigilant's that she will probably come not far short of her centerboard sister.

General Paine announced his intention of being on the Jubilee. He will lend his valuable services to assist his son in sailing the boat in the trial races. As the general is admitted to be one of the finest amateurs in the country, this fact will give the Jubilee chances quite a boom.

MIDSUMMER STYLES.

Comfortable Shirt, Blouse and Other Independent Waists In Order.

Belted waists and blouses have proved a boon for the long sultry days. The fancy for these exceedingly comfortable garments is carried out in all fabrics from 6 cent prints to chiffons and monsselines de sole that have heretofore been reserved for elaborate toilets. Chiffon waists are worn with a variety of skirts of the same or contrasting colors. Exceedingly useful is the black chiffon waist, which may properly be worn with any closed skirt. The serpentine waist is a popular one for wash dresses. These independent waists in a word are attractive and convenient of whatever material made. While having an appearance of negligee quite charming when worn indoors on a sultry day, these are readily made proper for street wear by the addition of a jacket which can be easily removed on entering the house.

The furore for jackets continues, and almost all dresses are made either with a full or simulated one. The sonave and Eton jackets are still worn, but the very newest jacket now falls a little below the waist line.

Skirts appear to have settled down to the moderately extended style easily adjusted on the hips and gathered full at the back. Popular materials for midsummer dresses are the mousseline de sole or silk muslins, crepons, batistes, taffetas and lenos. Lace still retains its position and is very much used for trimming the delicate muslins and gauzes now in favor.

In our cut is illustrated a charming little French bodice of pongee silk, with ruffs and deep cuffs of guipure lace with bebe ribbon inserted in close lines. A frill of the same lace is set around the yoke. Little rosettes of ribbon placed at intervals on yoke, neck and sleeves impart a pleasing finish to the whole.

WOMAN AND HOME.

THE KNOWLEDGE WHICH ASSISTS IN HOUSEHOLD MANAGEMENT.

A Word For the Babies—The Freedom of Modern Women—Homeless Matrimony. A Suggestion About Gasoline Stoves. Household Disinfection.

It is a woman's province to control and manage the household. Whether she does it wisely or unwisely rests with herself. No one else can absolutely fill her place, either. Therefore, whatever the problem of home affairs with the same application and assiduity that she would give to a difficult problem which may require weeks, months, even years, to work out, but which in the end must be solved.

A man enters the arena of business with the full purpose of being master of what ever he undertakes. He knows that he must succeed. Reputation, social position, comfort, progress, the happiness of his family, even life itself, may depend upon his efforts. If woman would feel the same responsibility in regard to her home—that she must succeed in making it a peaceable, health giving, moral giving abode, and would never waver until she had accomplished it—we should reach a state of advancement, in the understanding of life which, except among some in the cultured classes, is not general today.

I do not maintain that the study of household science will enable women to do all this, but such study will help greatly, perhaps more than anything else, toward that end. It is one of the important factors in that result, and if for no other reason than that it will make life for women in the performance of their household duties pleasanter, more satisfactory, evening, easier, it is more than worth trying. To work in the dark is ever perplexing; to work in the light of intelligent understanding is one form of happiness.

The study of household science, taken in its full and broad sense, leads into boundless fields of research. The phenomenon of heat, the currents of the air, the life and chemical nature of the products of the earth, the mysterious and complex processes of nutrition, fall almost without exception into such work. The sciences of chemistry, physiology and bacteriology are its foundation stones. In fact whatever bears upon the physical life of man is included in it.—Miss M. A. Boland in Popular Science Monthly

A Word For the Babies.

The baby, bathed and powdered and dressed in the finest and daintiest robes which a mother's love and taste can procure, is tucked into its luxurious little carriage and sent out with the nurse for an airing. The nearest park, if the baby lives in town, is the selected spot, and thither the nurse trundles her charge, to find other babies and other nurses awaiting her, the babies asleep and blinking on their pillows, the nurses cheerfully hobnobbing together or flirting contentedly with the uniformed policemen who stroll in leisurely fashion up and down the walks, warning children and vagrants to "keep off the grass."

At home the mother is busy with her sewing, or her book, or her correspondence. The baby is off her mind for the moment, and her hands are free for other duties. How she sees a right to this breathless spell, and does she not need it, since no hard day's work done by laboring man or woman ever quite equals in strain on vitality and drain on strength the exclusive care for hours upon hours of a little creature whose helplessness and whose preciousness alike lay it as a burden in one's arms and on one's heart?

But dear mother! If she could see her baby in the park as the baby is often seen and pitied by compassionate strangers! The sun beats down on the little face, blinding it, parching its tender skin, drying the delicate eyes. The flies crawl over it. It frets and fusses and fidgets, and the nurse bounces and jostles it up and down or allows it to fret undisturbed. If old enough to assert its will and show its temper, the nurse perhaps loses her temper and asserts her will and ill treats the little creature, though to do justice to the women who usually officiate in our nurseries they are seldom actively unkind. Ignorance and indifference may be charged upon them, not deliberate cruelty nor brutality.—Harper's Bazar.

The Freedom of Modern Women.

In view of all the women's congresses and things one is tempted to ask the cynic's question What signifies? Isn't the woman question, with a big W, being just a trifle overdone? Now is trying to hinder woman from being as many doctors and lawyers and ministers and fishing authorities and undertakers and professional embalmers as she pleases? No one. Ask any of the energetic women who have made a success in these or a hundred other so called men's professions if she will. She will frankly tell you that the men with whom she has worked or studied side by side have willingly helped, not hindered, her progress.

To what and is all this placing of women on an exhibition stage, as it were, and pointing them out with pride and explaining? It will be a sensible state of affairs when we get through marveling at women, because in spite of their sex they are doing something, and come to regard them as human beings, with the powers and limitations natural to their race.

It was a notable fact that when at the press congress Susan B. Anthony declared that not until women could own and run a big daily newspaper entirely by themselves would they be free, every working, active newspaper woman present dissented. The sensible woman does not want to be set off in a cage by herself. She wants to work side by side with men as human beings. She does not want to be looked upon as the nineteenth century phenomenon. She wants to be let alone and allowed to work out her own salvation, so she is doing now—that's much of her! Now let somebody start a man question.—Domestic Monthly

Homeless Matrimony.

We learn from a newspaper published up on the Hudson that the Troy collar girls, of whom there are thousands, do not as a rule get upon a house life after marriage. Says one:

There are many married women who work in our shop, and I know of many others who work in other shops. Their husbands work also, and each clothes himself or herself and carries his or her own living. The men in Troy actually expect when they marry that their wives after a short period will return to work, which they rarely fail to do.

This is an unfortunate condition of affairs, bordering on the serious. It is agreed that the object of matrimony is the rearing of a family, and the Troy plan discourages that; or at least robs the children and parents as well of the helpful and ennobling influence of home. There can be no true home life where the mother's life and work are apart from it.

There is an assault on the American home all along the line. Between the omnipresent saloon, the prevalence of childless, the distractions of city life, the cruel exactions of real poverty and the temptations of pride and social ambition, should fashioned home suffers severely, and the effect on citizenship, character and national aims and traits is farreaching. The sociologists might well devote themselves to the conservation of this basal institution. The French have no word in their language for "home;" our word must undergo a change unless checks are instituted.

It is unnatural that a wife and mother's sphere should be outside the activities and interests of her own home, and it must be disastrous when necessary individual cases of such life give way to the introduction of a system of homeless matrimony.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Suggestion About Gasoline Stoves.

The persistency of the gasoline stove in exploding, no matter how great the care employed in its use, has caused housewives no end of worry and annoyance. Mrs. Mary E. Henry of this city, who has had some practical experience with them in dealing gasoline stoves, has found what she considers an explanation of the mysterious explosions that are of almost daily occurrence.

She reads very rarely accounts of exploding gasoline stoves due to filling the tank while the stove is lighted. That piece of carelessness is of rare occurrence nowadays. Most of the explosions have been from heretofore inexplicable causes.

Not long ago Mrs. Henry filled her supply tank by hand-pump with coal oil instead of gasoline. It was a fortunate error, as the coal oil, being more penetrating than gasoline, soon disclosed the presence of a small leak in the bottom of the tank. A man was called in to mend it, and he said if the tank were used for a month longer without repairing there would have been an explosion, as the gasoline vapor would have escaped and caused an explosion.

Mrs. Henry infers from her experience that most of the mysterious explosions of gasoline stoves are due to the defective material employed in making the supply tanks. She thinks that there should be an inspector to examine the material put in gasoline tanks and that every housewife should have her supply tanks painted occasionally while the stove is in use. In this way the source of danger would be reduced to a minimum.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Household Disinfection.

One of the commonest household disinfectants is probably that sold under the name of crude carbolic acid, which consists of a mixture of pure carbolic and cresylic acids, and is of a reddish brown color. Its sanitary qualities therefore are not disagreeable deodorant, but its solubility in ordinary water, which is in inverse ratio to the amount of cresylic acid present in it, is a considerable drawback; it mixes, however, much more freely with hot water, and for all practical purposes the solution thus produced is sufficiently useful.

Patients in some cases object to the smell, and in these instances some other disinfectant must of course be resorted to, but this is not the fact with the majority, while its inexpensiveness renders it acceptable in public institutions, offices, railway stations and dwellings, where economy is an object. A refined preparation of the article known as crystalline carbolic acid is more expensive, but not much more powerful in application. It mixes readily with warm water, so that a saturated solution is easily made.—New York Tribune.

Dear Food Not the Most Nutritious.

The maxim that "the best is the cheapest" does not apply to food. The best food in the sense of that which is sold at the highest price is rarely the most economical for people in health. The food that is best fitted to the real wants of the user may be the very kind which supplies the need for nutriment at the lowest cost. Round steak at 15 cents a pound contains as much protein and energy, is just as digestible and is fully as nutritious as tenderloin at 30. Mackerel has as high nutritive value as salmon and costs from an eighth to half as much.

Oysters are a delicacy. If one can afford them, there is no objection to their eating them, but 25 cents invested in a pint would bring only 25 grams—about an ounce—of protein and 200 calories of energy. The same 25 cents spent for flour at $6 a barrel, or 3 cents a pound, would pay for 420 grams of protein and 13,700 calories of energy. Where a laboring man's bread at 3½ cents a pound, the actually nutritive material costs him three times as much as it does his employer, who buys it in flour at $6 a barrel.—Professor W. O. Atwater in Forum.

Inculcating Consideration.

Teach a young child to wait upon itself and upon its parents. Let it bring father his slippers, cane, hat or gloves and mother her workbasket, fetch, bring or hook. Encourage it to perform any little offices that come within its powers as a tiny child. It will be proud to execute these small commissions, and as it grows older it will form a fixed habit of considering the wants of others. Improvement of the character is likely to make the body more beautiful. Mind and physique are closely allied. Noble impulses, high aspirations and unselfish character are indicated by a high chest, well poised head and elastic footstep.

Let us therefore cultivate in our children beauty of mind and physique. The young mother, whose interest in the topic is most keen, must study the movements and tendencies of her children and take pains to teach them to be polite and orderly in their habits, while their natures have the pliableness of youth. Let her do this and her reward will be both great and certain.—Housekeeper

Beauty Requires Plenty of Sleep.

Plenty of sleep is essential to one who would preserve her beauty to old age. The sleeping room should always be well ventilated, and no article of clothing should ever be worn at night which has been worn during the day-time. Sleep is nature's restorative for weary nerves and broken down tissues. Children should always retire early and be permitted to sleep until they awake naturally and entirely refreshed. It is positive cruelty to force a child out of bed when it begs for a few minutes longer to sleep. Bodily growth may be greatly retarded by failure to get the requisite sleep during the growing years.

When troubled with insomnia, one can often entirely overcome the trouble by getting up as soon as the wakefulness comes on and thoroughly airing the bed clothing. Then, standing at an open window, practice breathing a half hour by inhaling through the nose all of the air that the lungs will hold at each respiration and exhaling slowly through the mouth.—Exchange.

A Use For Old Linen Handkerchiefs.

Your oldest linen kerchief should be used as a toilet rag. If in tatters, all the better. You want something in the way of a cream which has long ago parted with every vestige of newness. Dip it in your cream pot and gently rub across the forehead, over the cheeks from the mouth line to temples, under the eyes, out toward the hair and as far down as the exposure of the neck line goes.

When you find that every pore is cream soaked, you can begin to dry your face. This must be done gently, but effectively, because if slack about it you will find when you use your powder puff that it will stick plastered with a sort of paste that is maddening. This is especially true when your lotion is not of the very finest quality.—Philadelphia Times.

Petroleum to Cure Diphtheria.

Paris medical men continue to give their opinions vaguely on the treatment of diphtheria by petroleum as carried out by Dr. Flahout, a provincial physician. All unite in testimony as to the fact that such a treatment is by no means original. Dr. Fauvel, a celebrated throat specialist, says that in pulmonary maladies the application of pure petroleum has produced splendid results. Moreover, during the American war of secession wounds were dressed with the oil. The doctor, however, counsels mothers whose children are affected by the dreadful malady of diphtheria or croup to put their trust for the present in pure lemon juice, which should be sponged or brushed over the throats of the sufferers.—Paris Cor. London Telegraph.

Breadmaking.

In an article on "Breadmaking as an Accomplishment" an English contemporary refers to the scarcity of breadmakers among cooks. Says the writer: "It is astonishing how many of the mistresses of small houses will nowadays undertake domestic baking. I was staying with some friends in a fashionable house at one of the very place where the village bread was so sour and bad as to be pronounced uneatable, and they were obliged to have a supply twice a week by train from a town 40 miles away, their cook having to go seven miles to the station to fetch it, and this because their London cook—as expensive and otherwise excellent as her employer—did not understand the mystery of setting the dough to rise."

A Black and White Morning Dress.

Small checks are coming in. A small black and white check is one of the nicest, neatest things for morning wear. A middle aged lady the other day wore a tweed of the smallest black and white check. A little black and white bonnet to match, surmounted by a carefully dressed head, completed a costume of which the whole effect was delightful. How is it that the well dressed woman of 50 often looks so much nicer than the girl of 20? Principally because she has an idea that it doesn't matter how she puts on her clothes, but the girl has no appreciation entirely upon her youth and freshness. This is a mistake. An ill dressed girl has no chance by the side of a carefully dressed woman.

The Working Girls of Boston.

The following facts are taken from an address given by Mr. Bicknell at the Mount Bowdoin Library, Boston:

The number of working women and girls in Boston, not domestics, is 25,000. The average weekly earnings of each girl for a year is $4.97—the average yearly income $259.67. Seventy per cent live at home with parents or relatives. Ninety per cent are single. The average age is 25 years, the average age at which they begin work 17 years and the average term of service 7 6-10 years. They are employed on an average 49 weeks in a year. A small percentage have regular vacations, but the most suffer from periods of enforced idleness.

Mrs. Ureo's Praise of Women Musicians.

Mrs. Camille Urso says that women play the violin in better tune than the men and with more expression and certainty than the average orchestral performer. In Dublin and Melbourne she employed women violinists for her orchestra and declares that they were quick to understand, prompt at rehearsal, attentive to the conductor's remarks and never failing when the rehearsals were long. They were anxious to give full returns for the money paid them, and Mrs. Urso believes it would be to public advantage were women oftener employed in orchestras and paid the wages that the same grade of musician of the other sex receives.

Schools of Household Science.

Mrs. Ewing, the noted authority on household affairs, says: The remedy for the present condition of things is the establishment of a training school in household science in all your cities and towns. You can begin by opening such a school in the first year. You can organize those classes and go into them yourselves and learn the best methods of doing housework, and you can then encourage your daughters to attend them also. If you do this, the cook and the girls who do the housework will follow. You cannot open them in any of you in the schools, but you can lead them in every line, and they will be grateful for the opportunity.

Ironing With the Clothes Wringer.

An authority on domestic economy advises all housekeepers who have by means to save her fire and strength and do so much ironing with the clothes wringer as possible. Plain pieces, like towels, pillowcases, sheets, aprons and stockings put through the wringer will be smooth enough for all practical purposes if the roller is tight. Be sure to run pockets to be wasted sprinkling, folding, unfolding, ironing, refolding and airing a lot of white goods.

Piper Polish.

A mixture of equal parts of beeswax and castile soap melted in turpentine will keep polished floors in admirable order if well rubbed in and not too thickly. Where there is much traffic the polish will have to be applied every week, but ordinarily once in three or four weeks. Only a thin layer should be put on, and it must be thoroughly rubbed in or it will attract much dust.

"Running cars" should never be neglected. Such a condition makes the child a disagreeable neighbor in a school. The disease is always a source of danger to the child itself and may be a source of danger to its companions.

Mme. Modjeska carries in "Henry VIII" a handkerchief which is said to have been the property of Queen Isabella. This handkerchief is one of the rarest pieces of old Spanish lace in existence.

To successfully wash chamois gloves make a lather of white soap and tepid water, to which has been added a small quantity of ammonia. Rinse in warm water and dry gently.

A child who is old enough to understand what is said to him is not too young to learn that he must do his share in the fight for recovery when sickness assails him.

A towel rack made with several arms fastened to a half circular center, which in turn fastens to the wall, is a convenient place for drying dish towels.

When He "Knew It All."

Some old people who have strong and decided views as to the intense egotism of youth are apt to speak of it as if possessing a good share of that quality, which years do not always eliminate.

One old gentleman who is well past the "threescore years and ten" allotted to mortal man was reasoning not long ago with a youthful friend who has yet to see his twenty-fifth year.

"Why, my boy," remarked the sage in a tone of infinite condescension, "when I was your age I thought I knew everything—everything! But did I? Not by a long shot from it. Why, it was not until five years ago, my young friend, that I got to where I then thought I was!"—Youth's Companion.

—A stranger hired a bicycle at Mr. Martin's on Park avenue, Wednesday to take a ride. He failed to return and it is supposed he has stolen it.

—The annual meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union will be held in their rooms, No. 347 Watchung avenue, Monday, September 11th, at 10 a. m.

—Bonner, the old Crescent short stop, who has been playing with the Wilkesbarre team this season, fell down, during a recent game and fractured his collar bone.

—Preparations were made, it is said, at a Sixth street house last evening for a wedding. When the appointed hour arrived the bride to be, it seems, changed her mind.

—As Coffin has not been heard from in regard to the race between him and Wells for the Plainfield Lyceum cyclers' road race time medal, it will not take place to-morrow as formerly announced.

—The Dunellen Presbyterian Y. P. S. C. E. meeting next Sunday evening will be conducted by Mr. Manning, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., of this city, assisted by Mr. Moon, who will lead the singing.

—John Wilson of Rahway was arrested in this city last night by Policeman Frederickson for drunkenness. Judge Coddington sentenced him to pay a fine of $3, or spend 10 days in the county jail. He will probably take the latter.

—The latest in sardine cans, (besides the fish) may be seen in the imported stock of Mr. Jules Bovey. The top of the can has a sort of lip, or extension. On this a key, which comes with the box fits, and the cover is rolled off. See adv.

—Mr. H. T. Williams, as manager for the Pacific Tea and Grocery Company, will open a first class grocery store at No. 106 East Front street next Saturday. Read his advertisement in another column. It is to be a thoroughly reliable concern.

—Mr. Honeyman's next, and perhaps last, private excursion to the World's Fair, will be Sept. 18. The accommodations are delightful throughout and ladies can go on them without any special attention or companion. Children are also looked after. The office is at 181 North avenue.

—A full assortment of "the world renowned" Priestley & Co's silk warp Henriettas" are advertised at Edsall's. He says he will guarantee the prices just as low as the goods are sold for in New York, and keeps a good variety of other makes of black goods in plain and fancy weaves. Don't go to New York when you can buy at Edsall's to just as good advantage.

—An international meeting was held at the Salvation Army hall, on West Second street, last night. Twelve of the Perth Amboy warriors were in attendance. The meeting was in charge of Captain Greenlade, who opened the meeting, after a march through the pouring rain, by singing "Thou God of Every Nation." Prayers, singing and speeches followed each other alternately throughout the evening.

—A new woodchuck exterminator consists of a cylinder in which sulphur can be burned and a bellows to force the fumes of the sulphur down the woodchuck's hole, where the chuck is expected to do the rest—breathe the sulphur smoke and cough himself to death. This may be effective as far as it goes, but it will not sell in townships where there is a bounty on the scalps or tails of the pests.—Ex.

—Manager Clapham states that when "The Country Squire was performed in Peekskill lately, he spent an afternoon quieting two farmers who tried by all means to force an entrance into Archie Boyd's room. They were bound to see the Squire, to get a warrant of arrest for two trespassing neighbors, and Manager Clapham had a very pleasant time trying to convince the farmers that Archie was not the Squire of the county, but merely represented a squire on the stage, and for laughing purposes only." The Squire will develop his humor on Music Hall stage next Monday night.

—One of the finest military displays ever seen in this country is the English Military Tournament, opening in Madison Square Garden, on Monday evening, September 11. Two hundred picked veterans, representing the crack corps of the British army, with one hundred horses, take part in the evolutions and competitions, which are of the most brilliant description. Besides illustrating the perfection of drill by horse artillery, cavalry, including the Lancers, and infantry, the whole brigade participates in military sports, such as gun driving between obstacles, feats of horsemanship, fencing by mounted men and infantry (with lance, sabre and bayonet), tent pegging, etc. The programme also includes a charge by lancers, the "musical ride" of the First Life Guards, the Victoria Cross race over obstacles, a melee on horseback, and a realistic representation of actual warfare in the field.

TOWNSHIP COMMITTEE MEETING.

Mr. Van Horn Sworn in as Overseer of the Poor.

The North Plainfield Township Committee held a meeting in Spencer's Hall, on Somerset street last night. All the members were present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

The bond of Overseer-of-the-Poor Van Horn, with Messrs. George Rilling and Henry Demott as sureties, was received and filed. As Mr. Van Horn was present he was sworn in by Township Clerk Martin, who was instructed to turn over to him all the property of the overseer.

The following bills were ordered paid:

Plainfield's attractiveness as a place of residence has added another permanent family to its list of commuting residents in the person of Mr. J. H. Sheldon of New York, who with his wife has taken a house on East Sixth street. Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon came to Plainfield as boarders for the Summer, and were so delighted with the "Colorado of the East" that they decided to move here. Their household effects were transferred to their new home last Friday.

ADVENTURES AT SEA.

CATCHING CAPE PIGEONS AND ALBATROSS.

Letter No. 2 from "A Plainfielder"—The Interesting Side of Life on Shipboard—Various Ways of Killing Time—Still More of Interest in Letter No. 3.

Letter No. II.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—

S THE steward is usually the baker, he makes the pies, cakes, pudding, bread, etc., of which we had a plenty. Our live stock consisted of three dozen chickens, which gave us plenty of fresh eggs until we devoured the fowls; and three big hogs which were killed when we came into cold weather. No food prepared as "a feast for the gods" ever tasted more delicious than that pork did after being without fresh meat for two months.

We were not without vegetables, either, for we had a considerable number of potted plants. They were so placed that we could look over the tops of them, and this gave us a mountainous view, rather imaginative, no doubt, but suggestive all the same. Two cats completed the lot; these were prime favorites with the crew. Before the trip ended there were plenty of gamboling kittens.

SQUALLY WEATHER.

On the second or third day out we encountered our first squall. It did little damage, excepting the loss of a couple of sails. This came to be such a common occurrence that it lost its novelty except on one of two occasions.

One Tuesday evening, while we were comfortably eating our supper, and the crew was busy furling sails in anticipation of a squall, we were suddenly startled by hearing the second mate's clear bass voice calling through the companion way to the captain: "The weather leach rope of the mainsail is fearried away, sir!" [For the benefit of non-sailors, the "leach ropes" are the ones which bind the mainsail, one on either end, and are of immense importance, as they give support and keep the sail from ripping.]

We rushed on deck. All hands were called out. It was very exciting to us passengers, a squall in view and this big sail flattering and tearing in the wind at every gust. I was ordered with one or one set in its place. The men worked hard, and, in an hour's time, and before the squall and the rain struck us, the mainsail was set and everything snug.

Frequently during a blow huge waves would sweep over the ship's side and harass the decks, washing all before them. Several would follow in rapid succession before the previous ones had time to drain away through the scuppers, and soon water would be knee deep on deck.

During the latter part of our voyage when we were running what is called the "Eastern down" (that is, in a direct easterly course after we had passed below the Cape of Good Hope) this waterin the deck was quite constant.

A LOST DENIZEN.

The steward, one day afforded us a special treat. He was bringing our dinner from the galley. A monstrous wave came over amidships. The ship was rolling heavily at the time, and the water, rushing with such force from side to side, made it a difficult matter for one to keep his footing. The steward found it so. He saved himself, but we lost our dinner, and were compelled to wait an hour for another. We were thankful however, that our good steward was still with us.

MUSIC ON BOARD

Among the apprentice boys on board was one little Irish lad, named "Tody," about fifteen years old, as mild mannered as a girl and possessing a sweet soprano voice. Often his melodious voice could be distinctly heard above the others when singing in chorus, evenings when the crew gathered about the main hatch. This was a common occurence, and as we had a long spell of moonlight this made the evenings pass very quickly. Games would be played, acrobatic feats tried and pranks played upon many an unsuspecting sailor by his wily comrades.

The Lawn Social Postponed.

Owing to the rain last night the miniature camp life, tea and lawn party of the Wesley Relief Corps, was postponed until to-night. Coffee will be served in the old war-like times, in tin cups. Ex-Mayor Randolph and others will speak. Admission to the grounds, corner Church and East Front streets, will be free.

To Formerly Open Their Rooms.

The Board of Trade will formally open their rooms, on East Second street, next Thursday evening, September 14, at eight o'clock. Addresses will be made by Mayor Alexander Gilbert, Mr. Edward C. Hill, President of the Board of Trade; Ex-Senator Abram S. McC. Quinn, Secretary of the New York Board of Trade.

Seven New Members.

The Board of Directors of the Board of Trade held a meeting last night. The following gentlemen were elected to membership: Mayor Alexander Gilbert, and Messrs. H. G. Runkle, W. P. Arnold, W. J. Stephenson, John DeLaney, D. W. Rogers, and John Chandler.

The Weather.

On Saturday clear, warmer weather will prevail, with fresh westerly and southerly winds, and on Sunday warmer, fair weather and southerly winds.

PANES OF GLASS BROKEN.

A South Avenue House Bombarded with Stones.

A house belonging to Edward Willis, on South avenue, was recently bombarded with stones by unknown persons. Forty-one panes of glass were broken and were also some of the stones and shutters. The house was unoccupied. Mr. Willis says he doesn't know how to account for it unless the stone throwing was done by two German peddlers whom he caught putting up their goods one night. He ordered them away at the point of a double barrelled shot gun. This he thinks may have been their mode of revenge.

MILLIONAIRE ACKERMAN'S WILL.

He Remembers Both Nephews Handsomely—$3,000,000 to be Divided.

The will of Mr. Warren Ackerman, of Scotch Plains, was probated at Newark, yesterday. Mr. Ackerman leaves real estate, personal property, stocks and cash, estimated at $6,000,000.

He bequeaths to his wife, Lydia Pratt Ackerman, all his real estate, household effects, &c., for her lifetime; to his nephew, Ernest R. Ackerman, of this city, $1,000,000 in cash and all shares of stock in the Lawrence Cement Company, of New York; to his nephew, Marion R. Ackerman also of this city, $500,000 in cash and his stock in the Cumberland Hydraulic Cement and Manufacturing Company, of Maryland.

Hunting's Circus and Menagerie.

Notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather this forenoon, the country people flocked to town in great numbers to take in the Hunting circus, taking good care to have hoss feed and the chores done in time to get in and see the parade at 10 a. m. Bigger parades there have been, but that of this morning is hardly excelled. The open dens of wild animals were wide open, the two bands blew as vigorously as they were expected to, and the elephants, camels, ponies, etc., deported themselves with becoming dignity.

The open air exhibition after the parade was about what is usually seen, and the sideshow was particularly interesting and attractive.

A good sized audience witnessed the afternoon show and said it was good. It is a clean show. Everybody can see all there is to be seen, and every act from first of the show to the last is well staged and specially is well worth seeing.

Careful observations failed to reveal anything but the most irreproachable conduct on the part of all employes. We all like to be well treated, whether it is at a hotel or circus, and polite attention and an evident desire to please will assure success in any undertaking that deserves public patronage. There will probably be a full house—or full tent, rather this evening.—Providence, R. I. Bulletin.

Hunting's circus will be here Thursday, September 14.

A VIOLENT RAIN STORM.

The Milk Train Has Into a Tree Lodged Across the Track.

A violent rain-storm, accompanied by wind of great velocity and by lightning, visited this city last night. Streets were submerged in a very short time.

The milk train on the South Branch Railroad ran into a big oak tree which had fallen across the tracks between Neshanic and Flagtown. The front of the engine was smashed. The train was delayed one hour.

The rain was swished through the streets in blinding waves. The wind whisked hats and umbrellas away like feathers. Frequent flashes of lightning were of a dazzling brilliancy.

Miller-Trust Case Postponed.

The case of Miller vs. Trust, on contract, which was to have been tried before Justice Mosher at ten o'clock, this morning, was postponed to September 18, The suit was brought by Mr. Miller to recover $104 borrowed money which he claims he loaned to Mr. Trust, and which has never been payed back by defendant. Mr. Trust says he has receipts showing that he has paid all the loans.

Don't Want Them to Hold Their "Shoots" There.

Residents of South avenue are signing a petition circulated by Joseph Brick, to be presented to the Fanwood Town Committee, asking that the Climax Gun Club be made to stop holding their "shoots" at their present grounds. Mr. Brick, it seems, recently received three stray shots in the face while a shooting match was in progress.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Garner's Gorillas.

The first installment of R. L. Garner's adventures since he planted his wire cage down in the forests of mid-Africa and prepared to make a stay of it till he charmed monkey and gorilla talk is entertaining enough. One always contends in his secret thought, though, that if Garner had really wanted to study monkeys he need not have gone so far from home to do it. The missing link is more numerous than has been suspected, it really is.

What Mr. Garner has learned thus far is not hard to sum up. We may hope he will find out much more before he comes back. In Fernan Vaz, on the Jimbo-gombi, he has found that both the gorilla and the chimpanzee frequently utter just the same sound that the negro tribe thereabouts articulate when they say yes. He judges therefore that the monkey tribe and a man tribe have the same word for yes. He finds also that the gorilla is like Artemus Ward's hyena, that "went off into the wilderness by himself and laffed."

The gorilla is not fond of company. A big male usually has a harem, as is fitting oriental and African monarchs. At night he does not protect his wives and children, but lets them all find their own trees to sleep in, he taking the best one for himself. In the morning he makes them all get up on time, however. By a series of cat splitting yells which do not stop until the wives and their young are marshaled for the day's journey. The mothers carry the young ones upon their backs. So far as can be found, there is no such thing as a home or fixed locality for the gorillas. They climb trees and sleep wherever darkness overtakes them. This must be very nice indeed when it comes rent day.

Mr. Garner does not think much of the gorilla intellectually, but the chimpanzee is really a good deal of a fellow.

The strangest thing of all and the hardest to believe, though Mr. Garner asserts it on the honor of a gentleman and a scholar, is that the chimpanzee tribe make or find mysterious chunks of musical earth, which one of them beats upon, causing it to give forth rhythmic sounds like drum beats, while all the rest dance round like demons. When they have finished the hoedown, the dancers utter one long, unspeakable howl of satisfaction and break up the meeting. If this weird tale be true, then it is not hard to account for the origin of dancing.

Reminiscences of Lincoln.

In these days when every memory of Lincoln is fading out except that he was a great statesman, a shrewd manager and a relator of anecdotes, the little personal recollections that still lie in the minds of those who knew him ought to be carefully preserved to give a fair character in its completeness. It is pleasant, therefore, to find some fresh reminiscences of him given to a correspondent of the Kansas City Times by Senator Voorhees.

The Indiana senator knew Lincoln when he himself was a young country lawyer just beginning practice. Lincoln was very kind to him and won his heart in such a way that even differences in politics never alienated it. Mr. Voorhees emphasizes especially certain traits of Lincoln not generally considered. He says: "He gave you an impression of greatness at every moment. He answered every requirement of his great life and rose to meet every emergency with an ease which spoke of unlimited power in reserve." "He had a great laugh—a high, musical tenor—and he used to make things ring with laughter." "Lincoln's personal courage had no limit. He was afraid of nothing on earth." "What we call big politicians are in a general way a dwarfed and mindless generation compared to Abe Lincoln." Finally Mr. Voorhees says that even Lincoln's fame as a story teller has not had justice done to it.

Mrs. Emma Moseman, Mrs. Rayner and 15-year-old Jennie Rhodes deserve to go on record with Grace Darling and Ida Lewis. The life saving stations on the Atlantic coast are not occupied by their crews in the summer until Sept. 1. At the time of the two terrific August cyclones they were there no more except the captains at the stations. At Point Lookout, on Long Island, a bark was driven on the sands and was fast going to pieces when the ladies named heroically volunteered as a life saving crew, and aided by three men and a youth of 19 worked the ropes of the apparatus and brought ashore the seamen, who would otherwise certainly have been drowned.

Hayward A. Harvey, who died at Orange, N. J., aged 70, achieved the greatest triumph of his life during the past three years. He invented the Harvey-hoed steel armor plate for warships, the best that has ever been made, thus giving the navy of his country an advantage over that of any other nation. This was a sufficient bequest to leave to the American people, only second in value to that of a man who should leave them an invention giving a great impetus to the arts and industries of peace.

The most expensive shears in the world are probably those in the Carnegie iron mills. They cost $21,760 a pair.

WATCHING HER CLOSELY

Middletown Authorities Fearful of Losing Their Prisoner.

MRS. HALLIDAY TRIES SUICIDE

Citizens Want to Lynch the Alleged Triple Murderess, and a Band of Gypsies Is Reported as Being Ready to Attempt a Rescue—Another Murder Suspected.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The latest and the chief event here has been the finding of Paul Halliday's body beneath the floor of the house where the two Newburg women, Margaret McQuillen and her daughter Sarah, were murdered. This makes three persons Mrs. Halliday stands charged with murdering within four days.

The authorities are watching the prisoner closely, for they fear three things—viz., a rescue of the woman by gypsies, a lynching by citizens or her suicide.

Constable Scott reports that Thursday Mrs. Halliday tore her garter loose, broke it and twisted it around her neck and pulled on both ends with all her strength. He removed it from her as soon as he discovered what she was attempting to do.

A band of gypsies was encamped near Burlingham last summer, who recently passed over the mountain. Wednesday night several of the band were in McCune's store at Wurtsboro discussing the murders. One was overheard to remark, "If we get the woman, we must get her tomorrow night."

Gypsies Talk of a Rescue.

Thursday morning the band had moved, and during the forenoon it passed through Bloomingburg in the direction of Burlingham. For some reason they divided into two parties, the women going by one road, the men by another. Later word came to Burlingham from the Halliday house that a band of gypsies had arrived there and that they declared they were going to have the woman.

The circumstances of finding the body of Halliday are these: Charles Greve of New York owns an adjoining farm. He had seen and heard suspicious sights and sounds about the Halliday house for several days before the discovery of the bodies. So long as good progress was being made by the authorities in unraveling the mystery he said nothing. He is about to return to the city and did not want to be called back to Sullivan county several times as a witness unless necessary. When he found the search for old man Halliday's body had been abandoned, he was was not satisfied, and remembering the shovels and crowbars with fresh earth upon them found in the house, a place they would not generally occupy, he determined to investigate for himself.

At an early hour Thursday morning, accompanied by Paul Halliday, Jr., he went to the Halliday house. His attention was attracted by two boards in the kitchen floor which did not match. He pried them up with the crowbar, and Paul Halliday said, "There are ashes."

The Finding of Halliday.

The earth was turned with a shovel and found loose, as if it had been recently disturbed. Greve sank the crowbar into the ground, and little effort was required to force the bar down. When the bar had penetrated about 18 inches into the ground, it suddenly stopped. He was certain it had not struck stone, for the object yielded somewhat to pressure, but the bar would not pass through it, and feeling sure he had found a human body he started for Burlingham.

Arriving there, he told of his suspicions to Justice Thayer, who, with James W. Henry, Cornelius Caufield, S. B. Baker and Charles Tears, hurried back to the house and threw off the earth from about where the crowbar had been sunk. There upon his back lay old Paul Halliday. Only the face was uncovered.

The coroner and a jury drove over to Halliday's house. The body was exhumed and carried out of doors and laid on a slab resting on four chairs. Drs. Piper and Blakes ripped the clothing off, and two bullet holes were found directly over the left nipple. The body was badly decomposed.

Conductor Maine of the Pinebush road is sure he saw Halliday Thursday. Neighbors have also said he and his wife went to Pinebush that day. It is evident from this that Halliday met his death on Thursday night soon before or soon after the McQuillan woman, as both bodies were about in the same condition.

Perhaps a Fourth Murder.

About two years ago a boy named George Kline, who lived in a house next to the Hallidays, disappeared. It was supposed that Halliday, he had stolen a horse and wagon which had been missed and gone off with them.

Search was made for the boy, but nothing was ever seen or heard of him. Afterward, however, the horse was found. It is now thought that he may have in some way incurred the displeasure of Mrs. Halliday, who put him out of the way. In fact, it is the general belief more bodies may be found about the locality of the Halliday house.

A fourth autopsy developed three bullet wounds in Halliday's body. He had also been struck on the head, causing a concussion of the left temple. The left eye had been knocked out. The medical experts say the man has been dead a week or longer. The G. A. R. post will have their old comrade. There is great fear that a mob will form and lynch Mrs. Halliday.

THE REVOLT IN BRAZIL.

It Greatly Affects the Men Who Import Coffee.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—James A. Seymour, the president of the Mexican Telegraph Cable company, received a telegram from the agent of the company at Buenos Ayres saying there had been a revolt at Rio Janeiro by the Brazilian naval fleet stationed there. Private advices which Mr. Seymour received confirmed this report.

Later in the day he received word that telegrams to another place than Rio Janeiro would be received. To this extent Mr. Seymour said that he believed that whatever trouble there was was confined to Rio Janeiro. The secretary of the Coffee Exchange has informed the secretary of state at Washington of the suspension of telegraphic business between this country and Brazil. In reply the following telegram was received:

"No special discrimination against American citizens or trade in Brazil being alleged, an independent line could secure suspension of cable messages would be of doubtful utility if the measure has been adopted for defensive purposes. But if delay by Key Neely mercantile interest Thompson can be instructed to concur in a general diplomatic remonstrance against the burdensome interference with the foreign commerce of Brazil."

In reply to this telegram the secretary of the exchange was instructed to send the following:

"The Coffee Exchange, on behalf of the New York merchants interested in trade with Brazil, respectfully ask that the United States minister to Rio Janeiro be instructed in accordance with the suggestion contained in the closing sentence of your today's telegram."

The Herald says today that the latest advices from the seat of the revolt state that the army still remains loyal to Peixoto and that the artillery in the fortress of Santa Cruz, which commands the entrance to the bay, is under fighting orders and will not now await an attack by the squadron, as was at first intended, but will open fire upon the men-of-war if they come anywhere within range.

The revolting squadron is commanded by Admiral Custodio Jose Mello and consists of the armiaers Aquidaban, Republica and Tragano and three torpedo boats.

One cause of the suspension of telegraphic communication to or from Rio Janeiro by the Brazilian authorities is the fear of Peixoto's government that if they force the naval revolt should travel south from the capital it would give a new impetus to the revolution in Rio Grande do Sul. In fact, there is every probability that the state of Santa Catharina will now throw in its lot with the Rio Grande rebels anyway and join forces with them against the president.

ROSEBERY ON HOME RULE.

The Secretary of Foreign Affairs Speaks In the House of Lords.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—The house of lords was crowded with people eager to hear the Earl of Rosebery, secretary of state for foreign affairs, speak on the home rule bill. The scene was a brilliant one. Many diplomatic and peeresses were present. In the diplomatic gallery sat several foreign embassadors, among them being Henry White, secretary of the American embassy. The throne in front of the throne reserved for privy councilors was occupied by Arthur J. Balfour, Joseph Chamberlain and other prominent members of the house of commons.

The first speaker was the Earl of Selborne, Liberal Unionist, who made a bitter attack upon the bill. Lord Rosebery followed Lord Selborne. He said that the arguments in which phrases about "capitulation" and "rash and uncertain experiment" had been used by opponents of home rule were exactly the sort that had been applied against every great reform of the present century.

The same arguments had been used against the Catholic emancipation bill, the first reform bill and the bill for the repeal of the corn laws. Members of the opposition had said that the present bill ought to be carefully considered because it was legislation, not for today, but for an uncertain tomorrow. It could be said for the paper house that they were never legislating for tomorrow, but were legislating for "this day six months." [Laughter.]

The house of lords, having decided before the debate opened to reject the home rule bill, could not be called a dissecting room so hastily as it could be called a chamber of death. The debate, therefore, was unreal and academic. There was no equal division of the parties in the house of lords.

Bull Fights or a Riot.

ROBBERS ON HORSEBACK

They Looted a Bank and Killed the Cashier.

SHOT DEAD WHILE RIDING AWAY.

Two Revered Minutes Two Bold Desperadoes Made the Streets of Delta, Colo., Very Exciting—A Hardware Merchant Who Was a Dead Shot With a Rifle.

DELTA, Colo., Sept. 8.—The usual attempt to rob a bank in a bold manner ended disastrously here when three young desperadoes tried to make away with the funds of the Farmers and Merchants' bank.

Cashier A. T. Blachly was shot in the neck and instantly killed, and two of the robbers were picked from their horses as they rode down an alley by the nerves marksmanship of W. Ray Simpson, a hardware dealer, and the money was recovered from their dead bodies.

The robbers appeared on horseback in the alley at the rear of the bank. Two dismounted, leaving the other man to hold the horses. The men entered by the front door and appeared at the window.

At that moment only the cashier and his assistant, H. H. Wolbert, were in the bank. They both went forward to wait on the customers, when they were covered with revolvers and ordered to hold up their hands.

Cashier Blachly Shot.

Cashier Blachly obeyed, but was promptly cursed by the robbers, who told him to keep quiet. He yelled again, when one of the robbers fired his revolver, and Blachly fell dead, the ball having passed upward from the neck. The man then vaulted over the partition, grabbed what money was in sight and fled through the rear door. As they did this Wolbert sprang up his revolver, but was observed by the robbers, who got the drop on him. They did not shoot, but ordered him to throw away his weapon, which he did very quickly. They then dashed into the alley, mounted and fled down the narrow way toward Gunnison river.

When the first shot, which killed the cashier, was heard, the cry was raised that the bank was being robbed. Men rushed for arms and ammunition and then ran toward the bank. Among them was W. R. Simpson, a young hardware merchant, whose store adjoins the bank. He caught up his rifle, picked up a rifle and started up the street. As the robbers came out of the alley and crossed the street Simpson fired, and one of the robbers fell, the top of his head being fairly taken off by the ball. Simpson then ran to the alley and fired after the other two fleeing men. He shot twice, killing a fine Arabian horse and then his horse. The second man was also struck in the head. The remaining survivor escaped across the river and down toward Grand Junction.

A posse was soon gathered and started in hot pursuit. The robbers' horse was fresh, and he gave them a pretty chase. A number of ranchmen came into town from down the valley and reported having seen the man riding for several miles ahead of his pursuers. Other parties left later, going across into the Escalante country, hoping to head off the man. He will be promptly hunted if caught.

At the time the robbery was going on a lawyer named W. R. Robertson, having his office in the rear of the bank, heard the first shot and ran out into the alley before the arms of the robber holding the horses, who quickly covered him with a revolver and kept him there until joined by the escaping robbers from the bank.

The Robbers Recognized.

The men have been seen about this part of the country for some time past. No one knows them. While here two stopped at the hotel, registering as Clarence Bradley and James G. Bradley. About $1,100 was taken by the robbers, and it was all recovered from the dead bodies of the two men left in the alley. Since they were placed in the undertaker's shop they have been identified by several as the same fellows who held up the bank of Telluride four years ago.

James G. Bradley told one man here that they came from the Rogue river country, Oregon, and that they had been herding cattle in Utah. A reward of $500 has been offered.

Last evening one party of pursuers returned to town saying that the trail had been lost among the rocks in the mountains. As he has a good mount he will no doubt make good his escape.

Slept Until He Died.

SOUTH BETHLEHEM, Pa., Sept. 8.—Albert C. Ruedie was found sleeping in a doorway last Thursday by several men and taken home. He there again fell into a slumber from which he was aroused with difficulty at times to be fed. On Saturday he awakened himself, but fell asleep again, and Thursday morning he died. Dr. Andreas says Ruedie suffered with an affection of the brain.

HAMILTON FISH'S FUNERAL.

He Will Be Buried With His Historic Ancestors.

GARRISON'S, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Hamilton Fish, Sr., died suddenly at his Glenclyffe mansion near Garrison's. He retired at his usual hour in apparent good health. A domestic occupied a room adjoining that of Mr. Fish, and she heard a faint call. She hurried to the room and found Mr. Fish sitting on a chair at the edge of the bed. Mrs. Benjamin, a daughter of the deceased and the only other occupant of the house, was summoned, but her father was unable to utter a word after she entered the room, and he expired almost immediately.

His age was 85 years. Death is attributed to the infirmities of old age.

Hamilton Fish was born in New York on Aug. 3, 1808. He was the son of Nicholas Fish, who was prominent in revolutionary times as a soldier and as an intimate friend of Washington and Alexander Hamilton. His mother was a descendant of Peter Stuyvesant.

Interment will be made in the cemetery of St. Phillip's church in the Highlands, and the services will be conducted by the rector, Rev. Dr. Walter Thompson, assisted by Rev. Morgan Dix of the Trinity church of New York. Mr. Fish had selected his own pallbearers, and among them are the following: Hon. William M. Evarts, Hon. Sam Sloan, William C. Schermerhorn, President Seth Low of Columbia college, Benjamin D. Silliman, Hon. J. C. Bancroft Davis, John L. Cadwalader, John Schuyler and Hon. John Jay of Katonah.

The cemetery in which the interment will be made is one of revolutionary fame and where the other members of the family are interred.

TWELVE KILLED.

A Head-on Collision on the Panhandle, With Frightful Results.

CHICAGO, Sept. 8.—A head-on collision between a milk train of the Chicago, Pittsburg and Fort Wayne railway and an east bound passenger train on the Panhandle or Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway, killed 12 persons and injured as many more.

The collision occurred in the "L" running from the main line just south of Colehour to east Hammond, Ind., at the point of a curve and in a sparsely settled locality. The baggage car of the east bound passenger train was ground into pieces, and from this most of the killed and injured were taken. The removal of the scene of the wreck from immediate police and surgical aid made the calamity a most distressing one, and it was more than an hour before the first of those rescued, maimed and bleeding, could be carried to houses in Colehour and south Chicago for treatment. Physicians were summoned from the latter place, and engines were hastily prepared and rushed to the scene of the wreck.

The list of the dead is as follows: Anson Temple, manager of Schiller theater, Chicago, on his way to England; late, shooting; unknown man, with Manager Temple; William Rigney, traveling passenger agent of Wisconsin Central railroad; G. A. Hines, Vincennes, Ind.; W. William Shoniker, New Albany, Ind.; William Richardson, 3117 State street, Chicago; R. D. Adams, Fairfield, Ills.; E. A. Barnard, Terre Haute, Ind.; four unknown men.

Colonia Won on Time Allowance.

SANDY HOOK, N. J., Sept. 8.—The first of the trial races between the cup defenders was sailed in a stiff wind and heavy sea off Sandy Hook and resulted in a victory on time allowance for the Colonia by six seconds over the Vigilant, the Pilgrim and Jubilee both having been disabled and withdrawn at the start. The second of the trial races will be sailed Saturday over a triangular course outside of Sandy Hook. The distance will be 30 miles—10 miles to a leg. General Paine said he would be ready with the Jubilee, and the Pilgrim will have a new gaff, if it is possible to make one in so short a time.

A Convent Wrecked.

RACELAND, La., Sept. 8.—A cyclone struck the pretty little town of Lockport, on Bayou la Fourche, and left it a mass of ruins and desolation. Strong winds had been raging all night, accompanied by rain. Many stores and the Convent of the Immaculate Conception were completely destroyed. The killed are: Sister Psichario, Miss Mabel Ganthreaux, Mr. Oliver Revel; Barber, the servant of the convent; an unknown man with scalp torn off. Several were seriously hurt.

Found Dead In the Bushes.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The body of a young and well dressed man was found hidden in a clump of bushes in Bronxdale, about 300 yards north of Pelham avenue and 50 yards east of the Southern boulevard. The man had evidently been dead several days, but there was nothing about the body to show how he met his death.

Mr. Bennett's Condition.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—James Gordon Bennett is seriously ill, but is apparently on the road to recovery. Since the accident Mr. Bennett's condition is said to have been satisfactory. ALMOST DONE DEBATING Probably the Senate Will Vote on Repeal Very Soon.

SILVER MEN SEEK A COMPROMISE.

Senator Daniel Is Told From the Floor That He Might Expect a Vote Before Next Thursday—Will Depend as Many Chinese as Possible.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Rumors of an impending and indispensable compromise on the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman act were current in the lobbies and on the floor of the senate.

The speech made by Mr. Walthall, to whom Mr. Stewart had yielded the floor in a spirit of accommodation, may have been an indication of the character and direction of such compromise. He declared himself willing to co-operate with the chairman of the house committee in having speedy action on the bill on condition that the the bimetalling policy in the Voorhees substitute be clothed in the forms and given the force of law. He could see no reason why that should not be done, and if it were done the bill could become in half the time that it would otherwise take.

A Spirit of Compromise.

The spirit of compromise was prevalent in the senate and was evinced in several instances. In the first place, no obstacle was interposed in the way of taking up the repeal bill an hour and a half before the time when it should come up as the unfinished business. Then Mr. Morgan intimated that after some conference with the chairman of the finance committee he would not make a motion—which he had intended to make—to take up his resolution for the appointment of a joint select committee on finance. Mr. Stewart's courtesy to a senator from Mississippi was a third instance.

After Mr. Walthall closed his speech the Nevada senator addressed the floor and discoursed on the subject of silver up to a quarter past 4, when he announced that, although there were several other branches of the question which he had desired to discuss, he would close his speech then.

The most significant incident of the day's session took place at the close when (Mr. Daniel having given notice that he would address the senate next Thursday) Mr. Platt suggested an earlier day, as senators hoped to have a vote on the bill before Thursday.

Will Report as Many as Possible.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8.—Secretary Carlisle, Attorney General Olney, Assistant Secretary Hamlin, Senator White of California and Congressman Geary of California have been in consultation during the past few days as to what means are at the disposal of the government to carry out the Geary law as to the deportation of Chinese who failed to comply with the provisions of the Geary law as to registration. No formal conclusion was arrived at, but it is understood that the government has decided to execute the law as far as the means at hand will permit.

Fired on the Rioters.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—During the rioting at Masham's colliery at Pontefract, Yorkshire, the mob showered stones and missiles upon a company of firemen who were trying to put out a fire. A detachment of soldiers was sent to the scene, and the riot act having been read two volleys—the first of blank and the other of ball cartridges—were fired into the mob. Four rioters fell. One died shortly after. The mob dispersed in all directions.

Men With Millions.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—The World says to-day that a syndicate composed of five perfectly responsible men, representing many millions of dollars, has made a proposition to the rapid transit commissioners to go ahead and build the original tunnel and viaduct railroad proposed by the commissioners in their report submitted to the board of aldermen Oct. 22, 1892.

SUFFERED ON A RAFT.

Shipwrecked Sailors Lived on a Flying Fish and Rainwater.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 8.—The schooner Jonathan May, Captain George M. Cook, from Charleston Aug. 24 for New York with a cargo of lumber, capsized during the gale of Aug. 27, 80 miles south of Frying Pan lightship. All hands took to a raft, as the boats were lost. On Sept. 2 at midnight the crew of seven were picked up by the schooner Ann F. Valentine. They were subsequently transferred to the tug Pilot off Delaware capes and brought to Philadelphia.

Shortly after taking to the raft, which was a portion of the deck, 40 feet long and 8 feet wide, the seamen saw a wrecked crew being transferred to a vessel three miles away. Three handkerchiefs were fastened to a pole and waved frantically, but the signal was not seen.

The sufferings of the crew while on the raft were great. A ship was seen every day, but their signals were either not seen or not heeded. They were without water until the day they were rescued, when some rain water was caught. A flying fish, which weighed a pound, fell onto the raft after several days of hunger had been experienced and was ravenously devoured. This, with some barnacles taken from a drifting plank and berries and seaweed, was all the subsistence the crew had.

Talk of Strike on the Erie.

HOUSEHOLD LEAKS.

NEEDLESS WASTE OF MONEY, TIME AND ENERGY IN THE HOME.

The First Prevalent Error Is the Wrong Selections of Food—Then Good Materials Are Often Spoiled by Improper Cooking.

Mrs. Ewing's lecture on "Leaks In the American Household," delivered at Chautauqua, may be termed one of the most valuable contributions ever written on this important subject. She spoke as follows:

What are these leaks? Evidently if we were to take them all in we could not give special attention to any one of them, as there are so many. There are three to which I would like to call your attention. The first is waste of material in the average American home, which means a waste of money; the second is the great waste of time, which is just as precious as money, and the third great leak is the waste of energy, comfort, labor. Now you see in referring to these important leaks I say nothing about the immense waste of health, of pleasure and the tremendous waste of happiness which is incident and follows as a matter of necessity upon the other leaks or wastes.

I generally find that the best housekeepers with whom I am acquainted agree with me in the estimate that one-half of all the food materials that go into our kitchens is wasted. A great deal of it is worse than wasted when by improper cookery it is put into indigestible form, that not only does not nourish, but that gives the eater dyspepsia. It would be less waste if that material were thrown at once into the slop bucket, where work of it goes. A little study of the matter of utilizable as to cut down greatly our meat bills and other bills.

The first cause of the waste is the ignorance of how properly to prepare the food so as to save the nutrition. Let me illustrate: An ignorant cook will take a rich, juicy beefsteak and by an imperfect method of cooking she will let drip into the fire the juice. By an imperfect method of cooking she will dry it up thoroughly, and will put on the thing dry, useless and indigestible on the table, really as regards nutrition not worth half what it should have been. She will serve the roast in the same way. There is a good deal of waste in marketing, in selecting the wrong cuts and then selecting the wrong method of cooking. Many a piece of meat which would have been perfectly satisfactory if it had been braised, stewed or boiled is rendered quite worthless by roasting or broiling. I speak of meats because they are among the most expensive articles of food.

Then there is a great deal of waste induced by the purchase of too large quantities. Now that is very general. The "left overs" in our homes are a great deal more than they should be. But the loss would not be such if the average cook knew how to utilize the "left overs," and knew how to render them and rehash them and make them into hashes and croquets and devlied dishes and serve them in salads.

Then there is another source of waste. It is in the cook or housekeeper or whoever does the ordering of the food not combining various articles in their grouping together foods that are not suited to each other, and which serve [illegible] not together and relish, and not only in their grouping too great a supply and too great a variety, but also in their ordering such things as do not associate themselves to gether harmoniously or cannot be so associated.

Now, there is an opportunity for the widest study and the deepest research just in this item or line of investigation of suitability of food materials. For instance, in making out a bill of fare for a dinner every housekeeper or cook ought to give the matter thought and study. She should, I think, decide first when she is going to order a dinner for the home for every day—it is more important that a family live well every day than that a swell dinner be superbly gotten up, but is that the way an average housekeeper looks at the subject? I am afraid not always. I need not remind you that the average housekeepers of whom we are speaking are not the ones who attend lectures to find out what these leaks are. They are those who do not consider the matter at all, and yet they are the great mass of American housekeepers, the women who are training the future legislators and governors of the country.

In preparing the bill of fare I think every housekeeper should arrange about 18 of them, at least 18 dinners for each season of the year. Of course the dinners have to vary in summer and autumn and winter and spring. Now if every housekeeper made a careful study of 13 or 18 dinners, bills of fare, with a view of making such selections for these dinnersas would be harmonizing, that would settle the bills of fare to a great extent for luncheon or tea and for breakfast. And every housekeeper would find it an immense saving of time and annoyance if she she would take this matter in careful consideration.

These 12 or 18 dinners should be unlike each other. Now, if you were to inaugurate those dinners, if they were unlike, the family would not feel that they were eating the same things day after day. And if is be true that human beings are of such complex and varied organism that they require a wide range of diet, the proper amount of nourishment is provided when the bill of fare is changed every day. It is not now. It provides the same vegetables every day, only with a change of one or two meats.

Now, this estimate that one half the material which goes into the kitchen is wasted is not an overestimate. I would like to call your attention to some careful individual who is interested in this subject and has taken a great deal of trouble to give statistics upon the egg question.

Have you ever been at a first class hotel, or a second class, or a third class, at breakfast time and noticed how people ordered eggs and how carelessly they are served, hard or soft, as the case may be? He has estimated the loss by improper cooking of eggs alone at $30,000 daily.

To Make a Cup of Good Tea.

We are fast becoming such a nation of tea drinkers that every woman ought to know how to prepare a cup of tea that will be fresh and aromatic. Simple as it would seem, few understand the art, and it is by no means unusual to have a cup of bitter, muddy, almost deadly stuff offered one in the name of tea.

Tea must not boil; it must not even be allowed to remain on the stove to "steep." A kettle of fresh boiling water must be prepared, the teapot heated, the boiling water put into the pot and the tea leaves put in on top of the water and allowed to stand from five to seven minutes, when the tea will be ready for use and must be poured into the cup or another pot to save bitterness. Simple how water will not answer for teamaking—the water must be boiling. Neither will water that has been boiling on the stove for half hour answer—the water must be freshly boiled.

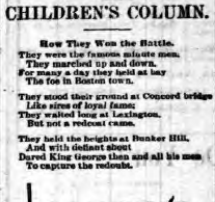
Dared King George then and all his men
To capture the redoubt.



But when the day of battle dawned,
And hope of peace had fled,
With martial din the troops marched in
And formed in dread array.

The gunner at his gun stood fast,
The swordsman smiled at fate,
The bugler, too, his loudest blew,
The grandest battle gate.

"They come! the hated redcoats come!"
The general loudly cries.
"Aim low! Don't fire until you see
The whites of their eyes!"

And every valiant minute man
Stood firmly at his post.
No cowards here, no sign of fear
In all the mighty host.

But for the beautiful Britishers—
Full sorry was their plight,
For, oh! they say that awful day
They ran before the fight.

—Little Men and Women.

When General Hayes Was a Boy.

Ex-President Hayes once told this story for the benefit of a diffident little fellow who happened to be spending the day with him. It may be useful to other bashful boys, of whom there are still countless thousands in the world, in spite of all that has been said about the forwardness of young people in these modern days.

"When I was at school in Connecticut," said Mr. Hayes, "the boys brought word of a famous dinner to be given on the next holiday in a neighboring town, and for the rest of the week we saved our money and talked of the joys that were before us.

"The eventful morning saw us on our way—racing, loitering, whistling, ruminating—until nine miles had been passed, and we flung ourselves down on the river bank to rest. After a swim and a careful toilet we went to the town hall, where the great dinner was in progress—and there was no doubt about our appetites.

"Our places were heaped with good things. Chicken pie, mashed potatoes, gravy, sauces, pies, but at my place was neither knife, fork nor spoon. I was too bashful to ask for them or to let any one know of my situation. I felt that I could not endure the apologies and laughter that would follow. So I feasted left my loaded plate, and with a heavy heart and an empty stomach walked the nine miles home to school."

The boy for whom the story was told looked at the general with fixed eyes. The general smiled and went on:

"I called myself names, I believe, I said to myself, 'You will make a pretty lawyer, won't you?' I asked myself whether I wished to make my life a failure or a success, and I resolved that I would be more of a man."—New York Tribune.

What the Frogs Said.

One hot day in July a little boy and a little girl were out upon a lake swimming near the shore. As first as they picked them out of the water they would pull the lilies apart, carelessly throwing the white petals in the water and scattering the broken pieces of stem. They were so absorbed in their work of destroying the flowers that they did not hear a conversation which was going on upon the bank near them. But if they had listened this is what they would have heard. It was a frog conversation, but frogs can talk very well sometimes:

"Oh, dear," said the first frog, "how sorry I am to have our beautiful summer home taken away! That large lily which the little girl has just picked was the one upon which I always swing my little frogs to sleep on hot evenings."

"Yes," moaned the other frog sympathetically, "and that lily which you see the little boy pulling to pieces is the one on which I always hop to eat my dinner. It was so high above the water and so dry that I could enjoy eating a nice meal there without fear of the water washing it away."

"If only those two children were going to take the flowers home to their mammas," said the first frog. "I should not have cared so much. But, see! They have torn the beautiful lilies apart and are throwing them in the water. Alas for my poor little cradle! Alas for my poor little frogs!"

"And alas for my dinner table! Poor lovely lily! There go its leaves floating by."—New York Ledger.

Why Johnny Began to Fight.

"What's the matter, Johnny?" asked a mouth and nose. That little boy who had just come in from school bowling dismally.

"I didn't care nothin about havin a red head till I went into No. 4, an then the boys got to jumpin onto me. An I don't kick much at their callin me 'Lobster' an 'Old Pinchers' an 'Scrawny Blood' an 'Carrots' an 'Tomato Top,' but I ain't goin to be nicknamed 'Bug Light,' an I'll let 'em know it if I've got to fight 'em all round."—Springfield Homestead.

"SHE MADE HOME HAPPY."

"She made home happy." These few words I read
Within a churchyard, written on a stone.
No name, no date, the simple words alone
Told me the story of the unknown dead.
A marble column lifted high its head.
Class by, inscribed to one the world has known.
But, ah! That lonely grave with moss o'ergrown Thrilled me far more than his, who armies led.

"She made home happy." Through the long, and years
The mother toiled and never stopped to rest
Until they crossed her hands upon her breast
And closed her eyes, no longer dim with tears.
The simple record that she left behind
Was grander than the soldier's to my mind
—Henry Coyle in Youth's Companion.

Girls and Spending Money.

The girl who is earning her money by working says with a sigh when she buys a hat that is too extravagant or a box of sweets that she doesn't need, "Well, I worked hard enough for this money; I may spend it as I please." That sounds reasonable, but she ought to want to spend it in the right way. She ought to think of the days when possible sickness will come. Then does she want to feel sure that she hasn't a dollar in the world and that she is being taken care of by people on whom she has no claim? Or does she come a day when everybody else is going for an outing: Will she have to decline because she hasn't saved [illegible]? I do not mean to say that it knows the fine hat or the fine gown may be very tempting, but the 'mere fact that she has given her strength and her time for pay has a lesson which should make her cautious in taking care of it.

"Shall I be mean?" asks a sensitive girl. No, my dear, but I will put it just as well to remember the old proverb about being just before you are generous. There is no generosity in treating all the girls you know to ice cream and having to catch cold because you haven't a thick flannel petticoat on, the reason being that you have no money to buy one.—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Failure of a Prescription.

The wife of a physician and the mother of five robust boys has made an experiment and found it a failure. She thus reports it: "I became discouraged trying to keep the knees of the boys' stockings whole and binding on their knickerbockers, and my resources having all failed I concluded to consult the doctor. He diagnosed the case and suggested that perhaps the clothing and stockings were not expensive enough and prescribed a better quality of goods. I followed the prescription. A friend recommended an expert in making boys' suits. I spent much time in selecting cloth of fine quality, and the result of our united efforts was five handsome outfits, each costing over $15. To these I added expensive hosiery and anticipated occupying a bed of flowery ease.

"The first day the new clothing was put on we were going on a jaunt. Four of the boys were dressed and waiting for me at the door and charged not to go outside the gate. When I followed them, ready for the start, the first thing that greeted my eyes was the familiar holes in the expensive stockings. The boys had been indulging in their usual pranks, with the usual results. And I have decided that it is the expensive quality of the boy that causes all the trouble, and that there is nothing for me to do except bow to the inevitable."—New York Times.

Vapor Baths at Home.

Set a redhot brick on end in a can, small bath or other suitable vessel. Place the latter under a chair, on the seat of which a piece of flannel is spread. The patient, undressed, sits on this flannel, and he and the chair are well wrapped in blankets to exclude the air. His head is to be uncovered. Open the blankets a little at the bottom and carefully pour about a pint of boiling water over the brick, and keep up the steam by occasionally repitating this. The patient remains in the bath until relieved by perspiration.

To make a vapor bath in bed with hot wet bottles, fill about six oval shaped half gallon stone bottles with boiling water; cork well and fold each in hot wet flannel. Lay over the bed a waterproof sheet and a blanket; place the patient on these, cover him with a blanket and distribute the hot bottles about him—one to each side, to the calf of each leg, and to the sole of each foot. Wrap up well with extra blankets and tuck in to retain the heat.

For the spirit lamp bath place a damp towel over the seat and before the front of a cane bottom chair, under which a spirit lamp is lighted, and over the lamp a tin vessel with boiling water in it. The patient, enveloped (except the head) in four or more blankets, sits on the chair until free perspiration occurs.—Jennesse Miller Monthly.

Correcting a Discordant Note.

"One of the most remarkable cases in my experience," said a well known piano man the other day, in speaking of wave sympathy, "occurred a short time ago when I was called upon to tune the piano of a prominent lady and a well known musician in this city. After tuning the piece I found the discordant key and immediately proceeded to set upon the wave theory in trying to find the loose article of furniture from which the unsympathetic tone was produced.

"I had the lady to the meantime sounding this particular key, but after searching and listening all around the room I was unable to locate the cause of the discordant note. Finally getting upon a chair, I sounded the ceiling. In one place the sound appeared to be more distinct than in any other spot. On sounding the wall I found that the paper had been stretched over a stovepipe hole, and that there were some small pieces of loose plaster lying on the paper. I removed these pieces, and immediately the discordant note became perfectly harmonious."—Minneapolis Journal.

Victoria's Big Hands.

The queen of England has a large hand. She takes 9½ gloves. Her fingers are extremely short and out of proportion to the size of her hands. The queen will wear nothing but black gloves. She commenced wearing them at the beginning of her reign. Today, when no sluggish thinks anybody a real lady without six button gloves, the queen has only two to four. She refuses to conform to fashion in this. She wears only about two dozen pairs of gloves a year. Each pair costs 3s. 6d.; in fact the queen of Great Britain and Ireland and empress of India is decidedly economical in her glove bill. There are a great many fashionable women who think nothing of a glove bill if it only comes to $100 a year. Many women will spend $50 on gloves during the six weeks of the season by wearing two or three pairs a day.—Philadelphia Times.

The Bishop's Joke.

The bishop of London sometimes comes out in the facetious line, and occasionally well too. He has just performed the proverbially difficult feat of "scoring off" a London cabman. Dr. Temple took a cab from the house of lords to Fulham palace, and on reaching his destination tendered cabby his legal fare of half a crown. John remonstrated after the manner of his kind, and asked the bishop if he thought that "Paul" would have lived at Fulham palace if he had been with us now.

"No," said the bishop; "he would have been archbishop and lived at Lambeth; the fare there is only a shilling."—Tit-Bits.

Died from His Injuries.

Mr. Quass, a carpenter, residing on West Second street, died this morning from injuries received by a fall at Cranford, Tuesday, August 29, as told in THE NEWS at the time. The wind blew down a scaffold and he fell with it.

It was not thought his injuries were fatal, and he must have been injured internally.

Why Does He Ask It?

There appears to be some financial difficulty at the Sherman Outfitting Company's place, the particulars of which the manager asks us to suppress. We can't help complying.

AS IN THE DAYS OF '61.

WAR VETERANS HAD CHARGE OF THE CAMP FIRE.

This One Represented Peace and was an Entertaining Affair throughout—It will be Continued To-Night.

SEVERAL interesting things were features of the miniature representation of camp life given by the Woman's Relief Corps at the corner of East Front and Church streets, last evening.

No admission fee was charged, so large numbers gathered around an old-time camp fire. The lawn was decorated with bunting and Japanese lanterns. In a huge tent old veterans sat and talked of old times and told their stories of war and camp life experience, while the smaller children amused themselves by playing games.

The camp fire, with a large pot of coffee and plenty of tin cups, was in charge of Comrades Charles Westphall, Alpaugh, Dobbins and Bogirt. The coffee was served on a long table, which occupied the full length of the tent, and with pork and beans, and other things, were freely handed about as in old war times, the tin cups being used.

Mrs. E. K. Cox and Miss Mary Bowlett had charge of the cake table.

At the ice cream table were Mrs. Radin, Mrs. J. Angleman and Mrs. F. F. Whiteley, and, notwithstanding the cool weather, they were kept busy.

Mrs. Mattox and Mrs. Woodruff presided at the lunch table.

The apron table was in charge of Mrs. M. Morse and Mrs. Dobbins.

At the lemonade table were Mrs. H. Westphall and Mrs. I. McVoy.

The candy table was taken care of by Mrs. J. D. Smith and Mrs. S. Bowman.

The affair was very enjoyable and will be continued to-night. The band will be in attendance and uniformed pickets will be placed around the grounds.

BREVITIES.

—To night there will be a song service in the W. C. T. U.

—"The Country Squire" will hold court in Music Hall Monday night.

—U. B. Crane says he has the largest stock of fine fall hats in the city.

—The Exempt Firemen will hold a special meeting in their room on Park avenue, to-night.

—The four silver medals for the boys' five-mile race last Saturday were awarded yesterday.

—Justice Mosher yesterday issued a summons in the contract case of Klinger et. als, vs. J. J. Goff, returnable Sept. 14.

—The Epworth League of the Grace M. E. church held their ponch festival on the lawn adjoining the church, last evening. It was a pleasant affair.

—Thursday afternoon a wheel of a farmer's wagon collapsed at the corner of Front street and Central avenue. The farmer borrowed a wheel and resumed his journey home.

—About 800,000 bushels of cranberries are in sight for the coming Fall and Winter, many of which will be eaten with the Thanksgiving and Christmas turkey, according to the reports received at the twenty-fourth annual convention of the American Cranberry Growers' Association.

—Mr. Bonner, proprietor of the South avenue road house, where the Climax Gun Club holds its "shoots," says that he considers the circulating of the petition for the suppression of shooting at that place is nothing but spite work. He furthermore states that no one has taken hunting in a small stream near his farm, but beyond that got no trace of him."

Patrick Brennan, Rad a Wife in Ireland.

The body of Patrick Brennan, who was killed at El Mora Saturday night, and who was brought to Morgue Keeper Case's, in this city, was kept five days. Thursday it was interred in St. Mary's Cemetery, after a burial service in St. Mary's church. The body was kept by Mr. Casey until he could find some of the dead man's relatives. It was found that he had a wife and four children in Ireland.

They did not get here to the funeral, but several of his relatives arrived in time to attend the services.

A Temperance Meeting at the Congregational Church.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Congregational church will hold a temperance meeting to-morrow evening at 7.45. Mr. Chas. E. Sawyer of Wesleyan University will deliver an address. A cordial invitation is extended to all to be present.

FOR SCHOOLS, $78,810.62

THAT IS WHAT PLAINFIELD AND NORTH PLAINFIELD WILL EXPEND.

To Educate 3,937 Children, 616 of Whom are Enrolled in Private Schools, 380 of These being in St. Mary's Parochial School—Value of School Property.

THE annual report of the State Board of Education is published for the school year ending August 31, 1893.

The report shows School District No. No. 12 (Plainfield) has 2,857 school children and will receive $15,535.65 as the apportionment from the State for the support of the schools.

The amount which the Plainfield taxpayers voted in addition for certain specified purposes is $67,635.65, as follows: For teachers' salaries, $15,468.91; for building, purchasing, hiring, repairing or furnishing public school houses, $36,691.66; making the total cost of support of Plainfield public schools, $83,290.65, to August 31, 1893.

Scotch Plains (No. 14) has 350 children, receiving from the State $1,361.19; votes $2,600 for teachers' salaries, and $630.00 for school furnishing, making a total of $4,591.

North Plainfield School District (No. 36) has 1,051 school children. It receives from the State this year $7,948.20; $430.69 from the surplus State fund, and voted for teachers' salaries $2,000, and for other school purposes, $1,500; making the total received from all sources, $11,174.97.

The total bonded indebtedness for the North Plainfield school is $35,000. Of this amount $19,500 are bonds issued in 1889 to run to 1909. These are paid off at the rate of $1000 per year and interest. The balance of $16,000 were issued about a month ago to pay for the wing being built on the present school building. This will make the total cost of the school, exclusive of interest, $35,000.

In Plainfield the total amount of bonds outstanding to September 1, 1892, the date of the last report was $77,000, on which there was paid during the year $4,000. The bonds were issued in 1875 to run to 1891. There were $15,000 new bonds issued during the year to buy the Wadsworth property on Central avenue.

The present value of school property in Plainfield, as given in the report, is $190,000.

Policemen Fishing.

Policemen Giese and Cooney left their "beats" at five o'clock this morning and went fishing in Tier's lake, in company with Joseph Stolwaik. Up to nine o'clock the catch consisted of a small German carp, a lamphear eel and a bass. The bass, it is said, was taken from a boy's pocket, where he had left it in the water all night, tieing the end to a stake to keep it from being drawn into the water.

Helped Out of His Predicament.

Just before twelve o'clock to day as Mr. McCarthy was in the act of turning across the street railway track from Front street into Park avenue, with a load of crushed stone, one of the front wheels of his wagon collapsed. Every spoke in it was broken out of rim and hub.

The unfortunate man was in a quandry. To leave his wagon where it was would stop the cars and to unload the two tons of stone would require much labor and time. Just as he was getting ready to unload the stone Mr. Huff of the borough happened along. He suggested to Mr. McCarthy that the hub would run as well as the wheel, and he could therefore drive his wagon off the tracks without unloading. Mr. McCarthy did so and the cars passed on.

Milk Inspector Around.

The milk inspector was in Plainfield this morning and caught many milk dealers who had escaped before. The inspector was heard to tell one milkman that his milk was half water. The man's excuse was that he bought the milk of another man. He was told to buy it from some one else. The inspector *said, taken as a whole, the milk de*livered in Plainfield was the purest in the State.

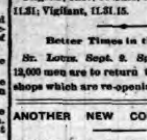
ANOTHER NEW COUNTY ROAD.

Meeting of the Union County Board of Freeholders.



UNION COUNTY Board of Freeholders met at Elizabeth Thursday, all the members being present.

County Engineer Quinn submitted to the Board a detailed estimate of the values of all proposals received August 22, 1893, for the building of telford macadam and macadam roads on Morris avenue, Springfield avenue, Newark avenue and Edgar road.

The awarding of the contracts was laid over for one week.

The road commencing at the flag staff in the township of New Providence, thence westerly along what is known as the Valley road to the Passaic River at Townley's bridge, was adopted and made a county road under the provision of an act to enable Boards of Chosen Freeholders to acquire, improve and maintain public roads, approved March 19, 1892, and the requirements thereto.

The bill of Fenton Bibbits of this city $230 for mason work of Tenth street bridge was ordered paid when the work was finished.

A Big Show—Crowds in Town.

The performances of Hunting's Great Railroad Circus, Museum and Menagerie were greeted yesterday by packed houses, and the extraordinary performances of this universal aggregation of first-class female equestriennes and ladies riding, singing and dancing clowns, acrobatic and aerial exhibitions of wonderful agility, and last though not least the wonderful performances of the highly educated horses, ponies, mules, goats and dogs were received with shouts of laughter and applause. To say that the show gave universal satisfaction would be only to repeat what has been said of it, by our exchanges throughout the country during the past season.

The management is to be heartily congratulated upon their thorough efficiency in looking after their selection of patrons, more particularly in the absence of all the rough element, or card sharpers and swindling devices so common with the many shows that infest the country during the tenting season, in addition to this feature, and the seemingly large number of all connected with the show, we bespeak for it the immense business they are bound to receive.—Newark, New Jersey, Advertiser.

Hunting's circus will exhibit in Plainfield on Sept. 14.

Prize Jersey Cattle.

Four prizes were awarded to Westfield cattle by the Columbian Exposition.

A message from Mr. T. S. Cooper, now in Chicago, informed Dr. Chauncey B. Ripley, of Westfield, last night, that three prizes had been awarded to his bull, "Pedro's Royal Marjoram," and also a prize to the dowager, "Lucinda Pedro Marjoram," both belonging to the herd of Dr. Ripley.

Mr. Cooper also exhibited Pedro, the sire and Marjoram II (2d) the dam of Dr. Ripley's bull, both of which took first premiums. Pedro, nearly seventeen years old, a son of Eurotas, so long owned by Mr. A. B. Darling, proprietor of the Fifth Avenue Hotel, has been adjudged by the present exposition the most illustrious Jersey sire in the world.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A Newspaper Trust.

"The American public are fond of books," once remarked Jay Gould. There is no reason to doubt, therefore, that the bonds and stock of the proposed New England newspaper combination will be taken readily. The Journalist is authority for the statement that the newspapers of New England are forming a great combination or trust to increase earnings and reduce operating expenses. The daily papers of the six New England states are entering into the organization, The Journalist writer says. It is only one more extension of the principle of combination or co-operation which has wrought such a revolution in the industries of the day.

Ten million dollars is the sum that it is believed the capitalists will require to purchase the newspapers they want. The plan proposed is to issue 6 per cent bonds to the amount of $5,000,000, then to issue stock—preferred and common—preferred stock bringing 7 per cent dividends and common stock returning dividends of whatever amounts are left over after payment of the preferred dividends. The newspapers will retain their present political and social leanings, but will be under one central financial management. Under this plan newspapers will not cost any more to the public, but will earn more for their owners. With united management, for instance, it is said the Boston Globe and Herald would save $250,000 a year in the one item of newspaper trains.

An important advantage would be that the combination would lease its own telegraph lines and employ its own operators to transmit news dispatches to the associated press. Thus the small papers could get the latest news, and the telegraph expenses of the combination would still be reduced to a much lower figure than the large separate journals now pay for this service.

Twenty-three Years a Republic.

Sept. 4, 1870, imperialism failed France in her hour of direst need, and she shook its imbecile remnants off and proclaimed herself a republic. The fact that France's twenty-third anniversary as a republic falls on our own Labor day this year should make that day in America doubly cheering and interesting, especially to American citizens of French birth.

It will be a day doubly cheering and interesting to the patriots of France "With hearts swelling with thankfulness they may well sing triumphant republican paeans, for their country has escaped this year from the deadliest peril that has menaced her since Gesman cannon loomed around the very walls of the beautiful city. The republic of France has survived Boulangism and destroyed it. She has survived and destroyed monarchy, imperialism, and finally the most grievous danger of all, the Panama scandal, which has shaken her to the center, yet not overthrown her.

One of the leaders of the Radical Republican party today, Charles Floquet, is the man who first raised the cry of the republic 23 years ago and kindled the flame that burned down forever the throne of kings in France. He has stood by the republic ever since, and France has stood by him even through the blackness of the Panama accusations. France has been guilty of many fire, and her public men have learned their lesson. It will not need to be repeated.

America stretches out her hand in loving greeting to her beautiful sister of France, but bids her not to be too hot tempered and aggressive in dealing with other nations, especially those weaker than herself.

According to reports, there are now more than 30 abandoned vessels floating with and steering over the great lines of ocean travel in the Atlantic. At any time they might come in collision with a sailing vessel or passenger steamer and send it to the bottom of the sea. Thus it may have been that the Naronic was lost, by having one of the derelicts drive down upon her in a storm. The commercial nations of Europe and our own government should mutually take in hand the task of finding these half sunken wrecks and destroying them. Sometimes they ride so low in the water as scarcely to be discernible. The Philadelphia Telegraph suggests that this would be a fitting service for our navy in the present time of peace to "sink, burn and blow up the floating hulks before the stormy season sets in."

At last it has really been found, according to a patent office chemist—the method of extracting aluminium cheaply and thoroughly from its native clay. The man who invented the new process lives in Duluth, and he has succeeded in making chemical combinations hitherto pronounced impossible by the most expert professors. One would think by this time professors would have learned better than to say anything is impossible, but they have not, and the Duluth man has given them one more surprise. The method is a chemical one, quite dissociated from electricity, and by its application we are promised that aluminum will become cheaper than copper. Then we may indeed look for revolutions in metallic manufacturing.

The quickest way for a city to increase its population is through annexation.

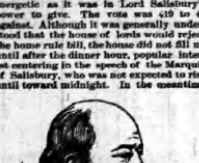
HOME RULE REJECTED.

The Bill Overwhelmingly Defeated In the House of Lords.

CALISBURY'S BRILLIANT SPEECH.

By a Vote of 419 to 41 the Lords Defy the People—One Radical Newspaper Cries, "Down With the House of Lords!"—Excitement Within and Without the House.

LONDON, Sept. 8.—Promptly and with much vigor the house of lords rejected the home rule bill. The parting kick was as energetic as it was in Lord Salisbury's power to give. The vote was 419 to 41 against. Although it was generally understood that the house of lords would reject the home rule bill, the house did not fill up until after the dinner hour, popular interest centering in the speech of the Marquis of Salisbury, who was not expected to rise until toward midnight. In the meantime



LORD SALISBURY.

Baron Halsbury, Baron Herschell, Baron Monkswell and the Bishop of Ripon had spoken to half empty benches.

After 9 o'clock the scene outside and inside the house livened up as members and visitors began streaming in.

The peeresses', strangers' and diplomatic galleries showed few vacant seats. Conspicuously occupying a portion of the area of the house were 22 bishops attired in their capacious robes, with lawn sleeves. The Archbishop of Canterbury, the Bishop of London, the Bishop of Oxford and every notable church dignitary were present. Members of the house of commons crowded the accesses and standing room around the throne. The lobbies held so many people that they were impassable until the police forced orders to clear them.

Outside the House.

Outside of the parliament houses organized bands from Conservative working-men's clubs, specially formed to incite a jubilant demonstration on the rejection of the home rule bill, began to assemble at 10 o'clock.

Some hint of their intention having reached the Radical workingmen's clubs and Irish societies, small detachments of these soon appeared on the scene. As a brawl was feared, the police having been re-enforced, broke up the different groups and kept them moving. Many of the Tory club men, finding their ovation scheme balked, then cleared off, and the crowd outside diminished as times passed without the announcement of a division.

The debate in the house reached the acme of dullness in the Earl of Morley's maundderings against the bill. A number of other peers were on the roll to speak, but a sense of weariness affected them as well as the house generally. So Lord Salisbury, seizing a chance during a momentary pause, rose amid rapturous cheers and began his speech.

Lord Salisbury said he felt that there was some satisfaction in occupying the position he occupied—that of the last person to speak against home rule in the course of the present session.

Salisbury's Attack.

Much had been said of the benefits of autonomous government, but had there been for a century a statesman bold enough to propose that an autonomous colony should send 80 members to the imperial parliament representing no interest in England and bound by no responsibility with respect to the possible application of laws that parliament passed? The audacity of such a position was enough to send a man to bedlam. How could they get rid of Irish questions in the presence of 80 members seeking to make themselves marketable wares in negotiations with the ministers?

Would these men sent by Archbishop Walsh be quiet on questions of religion and education?

Representative government never flourished on a soil where homogeneity was wanting. This policy would be madness in dealing with ordinary men, and more than madness in dealing with a race that for centuries had hated England.

Lord Salisbury reminded the house of the opinion the country held before this startling change occurred, that a Liberal party was solely in the hands of Liberal politicians and not in the hands of deserters. Then, he said, however much they might desire to dwell on local and domestic questions, he felt sure that on all imperial questions their hearts had beaten as true to the empire as had the hearts of the Conservatives. Macaulay, when he sat with the Liberals, and Gladstone, when he sat with the Conservatives [laughter], had said that they would regard the repeal of the union as fatal to the empire and would never consent to it.

If Salisbury had told their lordships that she wanted this horror, the case might have been different, but he believed that to be impossible. As long as England was true to herself she would never allow this atrocious, this mean, this treacherous revolution. Their lordships would be untrue to the duty devolved upon them from a splendid ancestry and untrue to their highest traditions if they failed to reject the bill. [Loud cheers.]

Overwhelming Vote.

Lord Salisbury spoke for an hour and a quarter. His conclusion was marked by quiet eloquence. Some signs of waning vigor were noticed in him, but these are, in part at least, attributed to the oppressive heat in the chamber. The Earl of Kimberly, lord president of the council and secretary of state for India, briefly replied to Lord Salisbury.

The lord chancellor then put the motion for the second reading of the bill. He caused some merriment by crying, "I think the 'contents' have it." Very loud and determined was the rival cry, "The noncontents have it."

The house divided at midnight, and the result was the rejection of the motion by a vote of 419 to 41.

The Marquis of Waterford voted shrilly, and the Earl of Galloway voted while lying at full length on a bench. Paul Bewitly, a Tory, who was a hunting companion of the Zanzibar king, was also present.

All the bishops went with the majority. The announcement of the result was received with laughter and some cheering. The house was cleared of spectators and adjourned immediately.

Outside of the building the police had kept a free circulation during the evening. At midnight a distinctly Unionist demonstration was held, consisting in flourishing of the Union Jack, the singing of patriotic songs and cheering for Lord Salisbury, the Duke of Argyle and Joseph Chamberlain. Sky rockets were sent up from the precincts of the house and were greeted with ringing cheers. A few home rulers protested, but there was no disorder.

Comments of the London Press.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Daily News, commenting on the fate of the home rule bill in the house of lords, said: "Nothing is more favorable to the success of a political or social reform than a large hostile majority in the house of lords.

The Daily Chronicle says: "The abolition of the house of lords now becomes a plank of the Radical platform, and the classes of the home rule bill providing for a second chamber in Ireland must be modified. Down with the house of lords! It is useless mincing words."

The Standard: "When a government tamely submits to such a rebuff, everybody will draw the conclusion that it is afraid to face the country."

The Times believes that the decision of the house of lords will be sustained by an overwhelming majority of the English people.

WORK FOR THOUSANDS.

Mills and Factories to Open Their Doors to Employees Once More.

BOSTON, Sept. 9.—All the large rubber boot and shoe factories will start up next Monday after their usual summer vacation. They are crowded with orders, which will necessitate their running for the balance of the season to their full capacity.

This will give employment to about 50,000 hands.

The principal factories are at Malden, Mass.; Woonsocket, R. I.; New Haven; Cambridge, Mass.; New Brunswick, N. J.; Williamsport, Pa., and Naugatuck, Conn.

Next Monday the calender room of the American Rubber company will start up, and on Tuesday the cutting and stitching rooms will follow suit. Wednesday work will begin in the clothing room, and on Thursday, the 14th, the boot, shoe and arctic rooms will resume operations.

Work For Foundrymen.

WATERTOWN, Mass., Sept. 9.—The Watertown iron foundry, which has been shut down for over two months, will start up Monday. This will give employment to over 150 men. The firm has several large orders on hand, and it is thought that all the men will be given employment on full time.

Crompton Mills to Resume.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 9.—The Crompton mills at Crompton, which have been idle five weeks, will start up Monday. The National India Rubber company at Bristol will resume in part next week.

Full Time and Full Wages.

NASHUA, N. H., Sept. 9.—The Vale mills, which have been stopped for two weeks, received orders to start Monday on full time without reduction of wages.

Increase of Running Time.

ADAMS, Mass., Sept. 9.—The Windsor print works increased their running time from three to four days a week.

Will Be Work In Cohoes.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Leroy & Sons' large mill at Cohoes, employing several hundred hands, will resume Monday.

Glass Factory Busy Again.

ANDERSON, Ind., Sept. 9.—The Pennsylvania Glass company has resumed operations at one of its factories here.

Will Start on Short Hours.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 9.—The Lymansville mill will be started again Monday with a reduced force and short hours.

Work After Idleness.

ASHLAND, Ky., Sept. 9.—The steel plant after two months' idleness will start up again Wednesday next.

Print Works Have Resumed.

DOVER, N. H., Sept. 9.—The Cocheco print works resumed today after four weeks' idleness.

Lost His Money and Health.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—George S. Harvey, a manufacturer of stained glass windows at 195 Willoughby street, Brooklyn, is lying at his home suffering from an attack of brain fever. It is said his illness is the result of the failure of the Commercial National bank, Harvey having lost heavily when that bank stopped payment.

Chang Wants Foreigners Killed.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 9.—Viceroy Chang, notorious for his hatred of foreigners, is reported to have addressed a petition to the throne openly advocating the extermination of foreigners in China, especially the English.

VOORHEES WAS ANGRY

He Scores Mr. Hale of Maine In Vigorous Terms.

REPEAL OF ELECTION LAWS NEXT

The Indiana Senator Objected to Any Interference In His Management of the Silver Repeal Bill—Hoar No Longer a Special Commissioner.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Speeches from Democratic senators in the senate on the repeal bill were made by Mr. Faulkner of West Virginia, Mr. Turpie of Indiana and Mr. Jones of Arkansas. All of them were in favor of the repeal of the Sherman act, but coupled with the condition that silver should be restored to the position which it occupied prior to the demonetization.

After Mr. Jones, the last speaker, had taken his seat there was an awkward pause. No senator arose to continue the discussion, although it had been arranged that Mr. Hale was to be the next speaker.

Then, as a suggestion was made to proceed to executive business, Mr. Hale made a short speech, in which he suggested that Mr. Voorhees should not consent to so early an adjournment, but should require senators to go on with the discussion until a reasonable hour of adjournment.

This speech aroused the indignation of the Indiana senator. He regarded it in the light of an impertinent lecture and resented it in strong and incisive language.

Roused Mr. Voorhees.

Mr. Hale protested that he had spoken only in the interest of Mr. Voorhees, whose fidelity and earnestness he recognized, and of the public.

"Let the senator," said Mr. Voorhees angrily, "please select some other subject for discussion the next time he talks than about my management of this bill."

"I think," Mr. Hale replied, "that the senator is doing the best he knows how—doing it faithfully and ably."

"I cannot return the compliment," Mr. Voorhees snapped back. "I cannot say that the senator from Maine is doing the best he can. If he were, he would take his seat."

"That of course is an easy jibe," said Mr. Hale, "and one which I can at any time make it upon another. But the time has not yet come when a senator on this side of the chamber cannot rise in the public interest and express himself freely without being sneered down by attacks like that of the senator from Indiana. I spoke not only for myself, but for other Republican senators, and no such attack shall prevent us whenever we see fit to speak, and speak freely, and not be subjected to retorts of the kind which the senator from Indiana has made and which he will not be proud of tomorrow."

"I will take care of myself," said Mr. Voorhees, "when other senators may desire to assail me, and now I desire to say a word for the public. Anxious as I am to press this bill before to a vote, and having pressed it to the utmost limit until I thought I had strained the boundaries of patience, and until, in deference to the wishes of senators, I withdrew the resolution for 11 o'clock sessions, which I would have been glad to have adopted, it is some consolation to my mind that some of the features of the country is discounting the passage of this bill.

He Sees Business Reviving.

"Prosperity is reviving. The times are not so stranded—not so hard since the house has passed this bill and with the knowledge that the senate will pass it. In a little time it will be behind us and not before. The public has taken notice of this fact, and already there is a revival all over the country, which is some compensation for the last four or five weeks of strain and toil which we have undergone."

Senators Dubois and Teller had also something to say, taking side with Mr. Voorhees and against Mr. Hale.

This closing incident of the day's session was rounded off by a little passage between Mr. Aldrich and Mr. Stewart over the demonetization act of 1873, and when that was finished the senate went into executive session, after which it adjourned.

A meeting of the committee on the election of president and vice president and representatives in congress has been called for today by Chairman Fitch. There were a number of bills introduced in the House today and referred to this committee providing for the repeal to a greater or less extent of what are known as the federal election laws. All are ready for consideration today. Bills are on the docket from Representatives Fitch, McRae, Oates, Talbot of Maryland, West, Pugh, Wheeler of Alabama, Tucker and Money, and more are promised.

These bills vary in their phraseology greatly, but they all accept the principle in all—the repeal of the laws relating to the employment of supervisors and marshals at elections of representatives in congress.

Presidential Nominations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations:

Theodore Runyon of New Jersey, embassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary of the United States to the German empire.

Albert S. Willis of Kentucky, envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary of the United States to the Hawaiian islands.

Henry M. Smythe of Virginia to be minister resident and consul general of the United States to Hayti.

Ellis Mills of Virginia, consul general at Honolulu.

William S. Carroll of Maryland, consul general at Dresden.

Thomas Lincoln Casseth—George G. Willis of Georgia at Port Stanley and St. Thomas, Canada; John R. Mobley of Texas at Acapulco, Mexico; Frederick Douglass at Santo Domingo; at Denis, Spain; George Keenan of Wisconsin at Kehl, Germany; Henry C. G. Astwood of New Jersey at Chemnitz, Saxony; Leonard Moore of New York at St. Christopher, West Indies.

A Hawaiian Message Soon.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Hon. Albert S. Willis, the newly appointed minister to Hawaii; Mr. Ellis Mills, the new consul general to that country, and ex-Minister Blount had a conference with Secretary Gresham on Hawaiian affairs at the state department. Mr. Blount told a reporter that his official connection with the government had ceased. Mr. Blount's will continue, though, to take part in the councils of the president and Secretary Gresham on the Hawaiian question. His official report has been made to the secretary of state and a conference between Secretary Gresham is now before the president. A message to congress on the subject from the president may be expected in about two weeks.

The Treasury Encouraged.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Much encouragement is felt at the treasury department over the receipts for the past few days. The large receipts, together with other evidences of returning prosperity, are believed to show that the financial cloud has broken and will gradually disappear.

MIDDLETOWN QUIET. -

After the Funeral of Paul Halliday the Excitement Subsides.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Paul Halliday was buried beside his first wife in the little cemetery in Walker valley with the ritual of the G. A. R., and the excitement over the triple murder is subsiding somewhat.

Every inch of ground under the Halliday house and barn has been dug over and all parts of the premises carefully scrutinized, but no fresh discoveries were made. The leaving of Constables Scott and Nickerson with Mrs. Halliday for the Monticello jail has helped greatly to restore quiet.

It was rumored here that a skeleton of a boy had been found on the Halliday premises, but as nothing definite can be learned the report is not generally credited.

After the funeral of Paul Halliday two of his sons, James and Robert, came to Middletown to consult a lawyer regarding the disposition of their father's property. Halliday had deeded the farm first to James and then had taken the title back, and within the last year, having got into financial straits, he had deeded it to Robert and took a life lease.

James, upon being interviewed, said Mrs. Halliday had recently tried every means in her power to induce his wife's sister into the Halliday shanty. James admitted that he had been on bad terms with his father and said that he had never spoken to his stepmother. He said that he was satisfied that his crippled brother John had been killed by his stepmother.

Mobbed by Women.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 9.—As Joseph Laughren, a nonunion roller in Oliver's Southside mill, was returning home, he was followed by a large crowd of strikers, women and children. But for the timely arrival of the police, beyond doubt he would have suffered severe treatment. Mary Reagan, Annie Stock and Mary Volker were arrested as leaders of the mob, charged with inciting riot. Several additional arrests were made. Thirty lodgers have been lodged against others who participated. They will be arrested as fast as they can be located.

Wind Rolled the Cottage About.

BRIDGEPORT, Conn., Sept. 9.—The small cottage at Milford Point occupied by Alfred Bragg of Shelton and his family, consisting of his wife, two daughters and one son, was toppled over and over by the wind during the severe storm. The house was blown about 30 feet, close to the water's edge. Mr. Bragg was injured so seriously that death resulted. During one of the somersaults of the house Mr. Bragg was hurled out of the door. The others were found inside. Mrs. Bragg and the children were badly bruised, but not fatally injured.

Kept the Catholic Club Out.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 9.—Rev. Dr. Sebastian B. Smith, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church and secretary of the diocesan synod of New Jersey, refused to allow the members of the Catholic club to enter their rooms, and but for the interference of the police the crowd would have broken in the doors. The trouble grew out of a picnic held in the rooms on Labor day, which was continued until midnight in direct violation of the priest's orders, which are to the effect that no night dancing be held in the parish.

Carried Skyward by His Heels.

WHEELING, Sept. 9.—William Sayres, a boy 20 years old, was assisting in the preparations for a balloon ascension. Just as the balloon started skyward one of Sayres' feet became entangled in the ropes between the balloon and the parachute. In an instant he was jerked from the ground. He succeeded in getting hold of one of the ropes and drew himself up to the rim of the balloon, where he clung until landed safely over on the Ohio side of the river.

Will Prosecute the Directors.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Receiver William N. Dykman, in charge of the wrecked Commercial bank in Brooklyn, made the startling announcement that the institution had lost $163,000 through investments in the St. Kevin mine in Colorado. Mr. Dykman said he would at once begin suit against the directors who had floated the worthless paper.

Robbers In a Sleeping Car.

BUFFALO, Sept. 9.—There was a rather startling train robbery on the Grand Trunk express train between Detroit and Suspension Bridge. The robbers were not of the mask and revolver variety of highwaymen, but were sleek, sly fellows, who purloined many valuable articles while the passengers were asleep in their berths.

MISS RUSSELL'S SUIT.

She Wants Her Marriage With Solomon Annulled.

SAYS SHE WILL NOT MARRY AGAIN

At Least Not Until She Leaves the Stage For Good—The Actress Says That Today Already Had One Wife In England When He Married Her.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Lillian Russell wants another divorce. She says that when she married Mr. Frederick Solomon of London on May 10, 1894, she had no idea that he was already married, but thought him a bachelor. Her counsel, Howe & Hummel, obtained an order from Judge McAdam in the superior court permitting her to serve a summons and complaint upon her husband by publication, as the exact whereabouts of the defendant is unknown.

This announcement is certain to give rise to all sorts of rumors. Only a little while ago it was rumored that Miss Russell was to marry the famous strong man from England, Sandow, whose wonderful feats of strength have won the hearts of so many shestergoers. Another rumor had it that Howell Osborne was to be the fortunate man.

Miss Russell's Reasons.

Miss Russell denies all these reasons in toto, but the tongues of the gossip continue to wag and wonder how it is that she has never until now made up her mind to get a divorce from Mr. Solomon, although they have not lived together in six years.

When Miss Russell was asked if she was seeking her liberty in order to marry again, she replied:

"I am not. I am doing this only that my little girl shall have no trouble in the future about my property."

"Rumors that have preceded you from Chicago," said the reporter, "suggest a more romantic reason for your desire to have your former marriage annulled."

"Nothing of the kind," said Miss Russell, picking carelessly at the Junior Kohinoor which fastened her kimona at her throat—"nothing of the kind, I assure you. I do not intend to marry; that is"——

Here the junior received a gentle adjusting pat.

"I do not intend to marry until my stage career is through with. Some one who does not love me started those reports that I was about to marry So-and-so or So-and-so. But that is not so. I merely want this question of my legal status as an individual settled."

"There is a general impression," the reporter said, "that you secured a divorce from Mr. Solomon soon after your separation."

"I know there is," Miss Russell replied. "People think we were divorced because Teddy married again. Well, there was no divorce, but when Mr. Solomon took it into his head to marry again he did so. A little thing like that would not bother him a little bit."

Mr. Solomon's Career.

Mr. Solomon's career has been a somewhat checkered one. He came to this country first about 10 years since. He was accompanied by Miss Edith Blande, the young woman who made a reputation playing the part of leading lady in the comic opera "Vicar of Bray." Solomon lived with Edith Blande and introduced her to Lawyer Hummel at the time as his wife, as that gentleman said.

Not long after his arrival he met Miss Russell, who was then the wife of Joe Braham, but was not living with him. Mr. Solomon promptly forsook Edith Blande to pay his court to the fair actress.

They went to Europe together, and when they came back to America they were married and lived together here till 1896.

When Mr. Solomon returned to England he was arrested on a charge of bigamy and was locked up for three or four weeks in Newgate prison, London. The charge was made by his first wife, Lillie Grey, as she is known on the stage. He was released, as they could get no evidence in London of the marriage on this side.

A Pennsylvania Reception.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—The society of Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Harrisburg was well represented at a reception and assembly held in the Pennsylvania building in honor of Governor and Mrs. Pattison, Lieutenant Governor Watres, the governor's staff, commanding officers of the national guard and distinguished guests of the Keystone state.

The Westinghouse Porter Goes Free.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 9.—John Butler, the colored porter of the Westinghouse company who was indicted for larceny in the Westinghouse company case, was called up for trial in the criminal court, but as there was no evidence against him he was discharged.

Suicide by Asphyxiation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—F. E. Palmer of Pittsburg committed suicide in Smith & McNeil's hotel by gas asphyxiation. He was found sitting on the washstand in his room, with his hands tied together and gas escaping from the jet over his head.

Pickpocket Fined For Contempt.

HARTFORD, Sept. 9.—Frank Nolan of Boston and Alexander Farley of Bridgeport are held here, charged with picking pockets. Nolan refused to tell where he lived in Boston and was given 30 days for contempt of court.

PHOTOGRAPHY IN COLORS.

Nature's Living Tints Faithfully Reproduced by the Camera.

Photography in colors is a dream that has influenced many besides the mere amateur and the enthusiast. Like several other delusions that will never die, it has been reported dead scores of over and over again; yet the world still waits for colored photographs and waits in vain, if what it expects are correctly tinted reproductions taken direct from nature. The best that is said to have ever been done in this respect, and it is very wonderful, is the so called "complete heliochromy" of Mr. Frederic Ives of Philadelphia.

In this process three pictures are taken simultaneously on one plate, through colored screens of special construction, by means of which each image is made to represent one of the three fundamental color sensations produced on the eye. These three images are superposed one on another by a triple optical lantern, or in an instrument of highly ingenious construction called the "heliochromoscope," of Mr. Ives' own invention, by means of which the original object is shown not only in apparent relief, as in the familiar stereoscope, but also in the exact colors and shades of nature.

These pictures, speaking culinarily, are not colored photographs. The three actual images on each plate are black and white as usual, with a difference merely as regards the distribution of light and shade in each; it is only when they are combined and when the proper conditions are restored that the illusory effects of color are given.

The heliochromoscope is a small square box with an eyepiece, somewhat resembling a camera. In exhibiting specimens, after turning the instrument toward the light, Mr. Ives slipped in front of it what appeared to be an ordinary photographic negative with three pictures on it arranged in a trefoil. This, however, he asserted, was not a negative, but a simple positive taken on glass instead of paper. The images were not colored, but merely differed from one another in regard to the arrangement of light and shade.

On putting one's eye to the eyepiece there appeared in full relief an absolutely perfect representation of a dish of fruit; glossy red apples, mottled yellow bananas, and a luscious bunch of green grapes covered with a tempting bloom that made one's mouth water more than all the efforts of Dutch genre painters could ever do. Several similar objects followed; then came photographs of colored pictures, of oil paintings, of Swiss scenery, in all the living colors of nature.

Heating Bricks by Electricity.

A western inventor has designed an ingenious method for baking bricks by electricity, which is described in The Industrial World as follows:

"The machine is a simple contrivance, consisting of a table covered with iron brick molds, to which the electric current is applied. The table is 14 by 6 feet and holds 1,000 molds, which are joined together like a lot of "pigeon holes." Each mold is the size of a brick which has been pressed but not baked, and each has a loose cover so fitted as to follow the brick as it shrinks. The bricks are taken from the presses and placed in the molds, the covers adjusted and the current turned on. The iron sides of the mold form the "resistance," and thus the bricks are virtually inclosed by walls of fire.

"When the bricks have shrunk to the right size, the sliding covers of the molds break connection and thus automatically turn off the current when the baking is done, and the bricks are dumped. It is claimed that only three hours and a half are required to bake bricks by this process, and that they are harder and better than those produced by the present process."

The Asiatic Tapir.

Our cut shows a nearly adult specimen of the Malayan or Asiatic tapir, which is less frequently to be seen in zoological collections than other varieties of the tapirs.

A MALAYAN TAPIR.

The home of the tapir is in Central and South America, where there are three well known species—viz. Baird's tapir, the hairy eared tapir, the Brazilian tapir, one of which specimens are common, it having been frequently bred in zoological gardens. The Malayan tapir has only been known to European naturalists since 1816.

The Engine Room.

It is as great a mistake to paint an engine room floor as it is to whitewash the ceiling. It has been said that the moisture from steam will cause whitewash to flake off, and when it falls on the working parts of machinery it will act as will so much emery. As to painting of floors, it had been my custom for a number of years to have the floor of my engine room given a coat of paint twice yearly. The place would look sleek and bright for a few weeks, and then begin to show uneven wear. Parts of machinery moved on the floor would leave their tracks, and the use of soda for washing the boards would be shutting out all artistic. Planed tongue and grooved lumber without paint may be washed once a week with potash or lye water and will soon bleach out, always present a good appearance.—Power.

Baked Peaches.

Wipe the peaches so as to take away the surface and pack them in a small stone jar. Fill about two-thirds full and nearly cover the fruit with water. Scatter sugar over them and bake in a slow oven from one to three hours, according to the condition of the fruit.

GOOD HEALTH

CLOTHING FOR CONSUMPTIVES.

How the Use of Flannel as Underwear May Be Carried to Excess.

A writer in the European edition of the New York Herald, who considers that the use of flannel as underwear has been carried to excess, and that this habit has arisen from our attributing far too many complaints to the action of cold, says that this factor is only an indirect one making us more specially apt to be affected by this or that morbid germ.

This excess in the use of flannel comes from the fact that physicians and patients attribute consumption to the action of cold. M. Lancereaux of Paris recently called attention to the fact that every patient, whether actually consumptive or only threatened with the disease, comes to the hospitals covered with underwear of this sort and mentioned one man in particular whom he found with three good, stout shirts, one above the other. In any case everybody should clearly understand that consumption is never the result of catching cold, and that this is proved by the fact that it does, or rather did, not exist in certain cold countries, such as Iceland or the Faroe islands, before the introduction of its appearance with the habitual use of alcohol.

Pulmonary phthisis has only two factors —lack of pure air and the abuse of alcoholic drinks, to which can be added pathological conditions which, like diabetes, undermine the patient.

Phthisis spreads in direct ratio to the use of houses, to the increase in the number of stories to our houses and to the desertion of life in the fields for life in the city. The disease is far more frequent in the latter, for the simple reason that there are no manufacturing towns in that latitude.

According to whether the complaint is of organs of the one or other of the two causes mentioned above, it affects a different portion of the breathing apparatus. The Malayan tapir has only been known to European naturalists since 1816.

The Engine Room.

It is as great a mistake to paint an engine room floor as it is to whitewash the ceiling. It has been said that the moisture from steam will cause whitewash to flake off, and when it falls on the working parts of machinery it will act as will so much emery. Light and Disease.

Experiments as to the effect of sunlight and also the electric light upon bacilli have recently been made by Dr. Thomas Geisler. He found the germs of typhoid fever to be greatly retarded in growth, and his observations not only confirm the popular belief in the healthfulness of sunshine in and about a house, but point to the use of electric light as a valuable adjunct of the sick-room.

ETIQUETTE

THE WELL BRED GUEST.

Hints For a Pleasant Visit—The Complimentary Utterances at Parting.

And now to the guest a word in season, says Good Housekeeping, for he is the charming and welcome visitor, be punctual at meals; of affairs of an unpleasant character happening in the household take no heed. To interfere with or order the servants is very bad form. Above all, correct not other people's children. Mothers invariably resent this, and one taking this liberty is considered a very interfering person. At the family bedtime express a willingness to retire. Never monopolize the conversation at table. There is a valuable addition to every home and its inmates in the ready listener, who is sought for and appreciated.

In England a visitor is allowed the morning to himself. He can drive, walk, ramble in the woods, study in his own room and do whatever his predilection dictates, recollecting that the dinner and evening belong to his host and hostess.

Do not make a false start in going, either from a brief call or a long sojourn. In the former case simply rise, say such few parting words as are necessary and go. Do not keep others waiting while you recite on, or think of other things which might be said. When the time fixed for the end of a visit has arrived, act upon the same principle.

The hostess will doubtless say, "I wish you could remain with us longer," and in doing so will indirectly testify to the pleasure which the visit has afforded. But this kindly utterance should not be taken as a request to the guest to break up her own plans in order to tarry longer. Likewise when the latter responds: "Thank you. The time really seems very short, as it has been so happily spent," she has made a return of courtesy in kind which will be much more pleasantly recalled in after days than a too literal compliance with the complimentary utterance of the hostess. It is always desirable in parting from our friends, whether for an hour or for an eternity, to leave with them agreeable impressions and recollections.

A Hint For Young Visitors.

A person visiting a house should never confine his or her attention to any one particular member of the family; kindness, attention, courtesy should be extended to all, but one should be taken by any young person who is the friend of younger members of the family that deference be paid particularly to the host and hostess.

THE CURIOSITY SHOP

ABOUT LEATHER.

Fancy Leathers Include the Skins of Monkeys, Snakes, Fish, Birds, Etc.

Very few people have any idea of the number of different animals that contribute their skins for the adornment of pocketbook, purses, etc., and make up the large number of odds and ends which people find so useful. Following are some items on the subject from The Trunk and Leather Review:

Monkeys, pigs, goats, snakes, lizards, alligators, sheep, calves, fish, seals and even birds all contribute. The one thing of importance in leather for fancy leather goods is the grain, which influences the price to a very great extent. The number and variety of grains are large, and the different leathers are classified when received according to the size of the grain under these several headings—fish, morocco, grosgrain, levant, buckey, monkey, pig and seal. These grains are all different sizes, the monkey being the largest, although the pig and seal are very pronounced.

The fish grain is the smallest of all. Besides these leathers there are a great many imitations made.

The most expensive leather sells from $100 to $130 per dozen skins. This is the genuine Russian leather, which has of late temporarily lost popularity. It is in grosgrain. Levant sells for $60 to $80 per dozen skins. Seal sells for $30 to $50 a dozen, and pigskins are sold by the skins at $6.50 to $7 each. Monkey skins are cheaper, selling at $1 per skin, but these latter are very hard to procure at any price. They are made up by only one or two manufacturers that we know of in America into the very finest grade of leather novelties of the imported skins. With the exception of the sealskins, which are tanned in England, nearly all these skins are tanned in Germany, although sheepskins are tanned in France.

A very ingenious imitation of Russian leather has been made of calfskin, per fumed with oil of birch.

Lizard skins come largely from Borneo as well as Germany.

The Hottest Spot on Earth.

The hottest region on the earth's surface is on the southwestern coast of Persia, on the borders of the Persian gulf, judging by the following from an exchange:

"For 40 consecutive days in the months of July and August the mercury has been known to stand above 105 degrees in the shade night and day, and to run up as high as 130 degrees in the middle of the afternoon. At Bahrein, in the center of the most torrid part of this most torrid belt, as though it were nature's intention to make the place as unbearable as possible, water from wells is something unknown. Great shafts have been sunk to a depth of 160, 200, 300 and even 500 feet, but always with the same result, no water. This serious drawback notwithstanding, the Europeans in numerous populities contrives to live there, thanks to copious springs which burst forth from the bottom of the gulf more than a mile from the shore.

"The water from these springs is obtained in a most curious and novel manner. Machadow," whose sole occupation is that of furnishing the people of Bahrein with the life giving fluid, repair to that portion of the gulf where the springs are situated and bring away with them numbers of skin bags full of the water each day. The water of the gulf where the springs burst forth is nearly 200 feet deep, but these 'machadows' (divers) manage to fill their goatskin sacks by diving to the bottom and holding the mouths of the bags over the fountain jets; this, too, without allowing the salt water of the gulf to mix with it. The source of these submarine fountains is thought to be in the hills of Osmond, 400 or 500 miles away. Being situated at the bottom of the gulf, it is a matter of impossibility to ascertain it, but the fact remains that they have been known since the dawn of history."

A Brief Epitaph.

A facetious story is told of a pauper who, having died in a workhouse, was to be buried in the most economical fashion. The master proposed to inscribe over his tomb stone:

THOMAS THORPS.
HIS CORPSE.

The guardians at the next meeting of the board forbade such a profligate expenditure of the rates and ordered the epitaph to be curtailed thus:

THORPS' CORPSE.

Bees and Birds Court Society.

Bees and birds court the society of man—that is, they seek the neighborhood of fields and gardens abound, for they fare better when human industry extorts from the soil the food which it yields for the use of society. A Maine bee culturist says it is the rarest thing in the world to find bees away from the settlements or from openings where harvests grow. It is in the small patches of forest they are oftenest found and generally not far from the edge of the woods. It is the same with birds. These are no song birds in the northern Maine wilderness and scarcely anything that can be called bird life. Birds cluster around towns and villages.

Things Told About Snails.

There are over 9,000 species of snails, and they are found in all parts of the world. Some are even smaller than a pinhead, while others, in France and Italy for instance, are cultivated for food and are large enough to make a good mouthful. Snails are vegetarians and have jaws and tongues of sawlike edge, the number of teeth on each running into the thousands. On the approach of cold weather the snail throws a film over the mouth of its shell, which thickens like a drumhead. As it becomes colder other films are added on the plan of storm windows.

Poison Ivy.

The poison ivy may be known from its harmless prototype by the number of its leaves. It is the three leafed ivy of the woods that is dangerous, the five leafed ivy being safe. A further caution for the woods and country roads is that the poisonous sumac has white berries. No red berried sumac is dangerous, says The American Cultivator, authority for the foregoing.

The Title Prince of Wales.

The title Prince of Wales is not hereditary. It is specially conferred on each successive heir apparent to the crown of Great Britain and Ireland. Thus, the present bearer of the title was born Duke of Cornwall on Nov. 9, 1841, and was created Prince of Wales and Earl of Chester by letters patent on Dec. 8, 1841.

ATTACKED BY NEGROES.

MARSHAL PANGBORN COWARDLY ASSAULTED SATURDAY NIGHT.

When he Ordered a Party of Colored Men to Move on, One of Them Hit Him with a Bottle and Another Kicked Him.

Just before twelve o'clock Saturday night several colored men were standing on Chatham street by Charles Greader's place. Marshal Pangborn saw them, and going up to them said "Come men, you had better move on." As the marshal said this, one of the party sprang into the middle of the street and swore that no marshal in North Plainfield could make him move on." Just as he finished speaking one of the others sneaked up behind the marshal and struck him on the side of the head with a bottle. At the same time striking him a glancing blow on the back with an iron cane. The assault over the assault, the man who had jumped into the middle of the street kicked Mr. Pangborn in the chest as he staggered forward from the effects of the blow with the bottle.

The marshal, as soon as struck, reached for his revolver. He attempted to shoot, but there were only two cartridges in it. The hammer clicked on the empty chambers first, and this gave his assailants a chance to get away before he could shoot.

The blow with the bottle cut the marshal's cheek and ear. His back and chest were badly bruised from being struck with the cane and from the kick.

BREVITIES.

—"The Country Squire" in Music Hall to-night.

—Seats for "Flag of Truce" will be put on sale at Leggett's to-morrow. This melodrama will be given in Music Hall Sept. 16.

—Saturday night a colored man stole a razor strap from James Babbett's shop on East Front street. The thief was caught.

—Henry Haurand, with nine friends, went fishing at Trembly Point yesterday. The party caught a number of fish and a twelve pound turtle.

—The young ladies of the Monroe avenue chapel will hold a peach and ice cream festival Tuesday evening, September 15. Admission free.

—A lady cyclist received a bad fall on Front street, near Park avenue this morning, the front wheel of her bicycle having caught in the car track.

—The Milk inspectors, who were in Plainfield Saturday, were here again to day. One milkman was informed that his milk was not up to the standard. It was dumped into the street.

—The Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. announces that Charles R. Brown will be glad to see such of his friends as can find it convenient to call at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening, at or before eight o'clock.

—A large number of five dollar counterfeit notes are in circulation. The note is a fair imitation, though to any one familiar with the handling of paper money it would not pass undetected. The note is of the series of 1880, and all are of the same number, "B 797,185,987." The vignette of General Grant is poorly executed.—Ex.

Hebrew New Year's Day.

According to the Hebrew calendar yesterday was the world's birthday, and the beginning of the New Year was marked by such festivities as prevail on the Christian New Year's eve.

The world, by Hebraic chronology, was 5,654 years old at sunset. Hebrew custom made last night one of gifts and congratulations throughout the world. To-day is the most important in the Hebrew year, with the exception, perhaps, of the Day of Atonement, which comes ten days later. The orthodox Hebrews will celebrate the New Year for forty-eight hours after yesterday's sunset. The reformed sect will observe to-day only.

The religious festival which marks the beginning of the new year will commence this morning soon after sunrise. Unique religious festivals are held in the synagogues. The men will wear shawls about their shoulders. The women will occupy the balconies of the synagogue, where they will be hidden behind curtains, through which they can see and hear without being seen.

Mr. Martin's Bicycle Found in New York.

Last week a bicycle was stolen from Mr. Martin, on Park avenue, by a stranger who said he only wanted it for a short time. He failed to return.

The name of the bicycle and the number were telegraphed to bicycle dealers and chiefs of police in all nearby cities.

Saturday night a telegram was received by Mr. Martin from Keys & Brandon, New York, stating that they had the missing bicycle.

TENNIS AND TEA.

The Union County Country Club's Tournament Well Attended.

THE annual tennis tournament of the Union County Country Club was held Saturday afternoon at half past two o'clock on the club's courts, corner Seventh street and Arlington avenue. There were ten entries, as follows: George Schoonmaker, Sherwood West, Archie Cox, and Harry West, August Huntington, H. Wharton, Fred. Fisk, Carl Walz, Clem. Morgan and Wesley Abbott.

The games were interesting and closely played throughout.

At half-past six o'clock the first round had not been finished. The play will be continued next Saturday.

The prize is a handsome silver-rimmed pipe. The weather was ideal for playing and several hundred persons witnessed the games. The afternoon tea was served by Mrs. Howard Fleming, assisted by Mrs. Charles Fisk.

WHO OWNS THE GOODS?

The Question to be Decided by a Jury To-Morrow.

In the case of Fosher vs. Seguine, recently, Justice Nash rendered judgment in favor of Mr. Fosher. Lawyer DeMeza as counsel for Mr. Fosher, ordered Constable Moore to seize Mr. Seguine's horses and wagons to satisfy the judgment.

When the constable attempted to seize the goods he was informed that they belonged to Mr. Seguine's son.

To-morrow before Justice Nash and a jury the ownership of the goods will have to be proven. Jackson & Anglemann will represent Mr. Seguine, and Lawyer DeMeza will appear for Mr. Fosher.

PERSONAL.

Mrs Corlies of Central avenue gave a reception Saturday afternoon.

Miss Scribner of East Front street returned home to-day from a Summer outing.

Mr. Albert Sutphen of Brooklyn is visiting his sister, Mrs. Gilbert S. Martin, of Duer street.

Mrs. John Toomey of Hartford, Conn., is upon a two weeks' visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Marsh, of Plainfield avenue.

The family of Mr. George W. Watson of Crescent avenue, who have been Summering at Lake Hopatcong, are expected home this week.

Miss Addie Parker Jackson of Arlington avenue left to-day for Boston, Mass., where she will complete her course at the Emerson College of Oratory.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rankin of Sandford avenue have arrived home from their Summer cottage at Kennebunkport, Maine, where they have been spending the Summer.

The city of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., has just elected Mr. F. A. Dunham of this city to superintend the construction of the vitrified brick pavement about to be laid in the former place.

Mr. Frank L. O. Martin of Park avenue arrived home Saturday night from his trip to the World's Fair and the West. He was met at the South Plainfield station by a party of friends who had driven there in a carriage.

The Rev. L. Bond and wife will be present at the meeting of the Y. P. S. C. E. of the Trinity Reformed church this evening and will speak on mission work in Macedonia. The service begins at eight o'clock and all are invited.

Mrs. Eugene Laing of Kvona, accompanied by her niece, Miss Stella Ilsley, will start to-morrow for Washington and Chicago. At the former place she will visit her father, Mr. John O'Reilly, who is employed in the book binding department of the government printing office. They will be away two months.

The Fourth Church of Christ, New York city, generally known as Disciples' Union Church, 129th street, near Lenox avenue, held their first services yesterday in a new white stone chapel. Messrs. T. Holmes and H. Van Middlesworth attended from Plainfield. The latter was entertained by the Rev. Mr. Philpott, on West 127th street. Mr. Philpott is pastor of the new church. He may soon exchange pulpits with Mr. B. W. Hand for one Sunday.

It Was a Good Show.

Did you go to the circus? Well, if you didn't you missed it, as it was a good all round show. Mr. Hunting doesn't pretend to conduct the greatest show on earth, but just the same it is a good old fashioned affair. The riding, tumbling and trapeze work was far above the average, while the menagerie is not to be sneezed at. And there is one thing about Hunting's show which the bigger institutions might well emulate. All the attaches are courteous, obliging and gentlemanly, and will certainly do all in their duty to look after the comfort of the audience. Mr. Hunting is a gentleman, and will retain so long as his employ who does not aim to come up to the standard of excellence. There is an entire absence of the element and sharpers, so that the smallest child is safe under Hunting's tent. A good sized audience was present in the afternoon, and in the evening the seats were all occupied. We can conscientiously commend Mr. Hunting to the brethren of the press, and assure them that they will meet a gentleman from the ground up.—Trenton, New Jersey, Gazette.

Hunting's circus will exhibit here September 14.—Adv.

FIRST SETTLERS.

NEW JERSEY WAS FIRST SETTLED BY FARMERS.

They were of Different Nations Races, Though, and Came from Holland, Scotland, Ireland and Germany,—All Came to Cultivate the Soil.

INTERPRINTING New Jersey was first settled by farmers. Descendants of the Holland-ers came from New York and Long Island and settled in Hudson, Bergen, Morris, Passaic, Somerset, Hunterdon, Sussex, Warren, Monmouth and Middlesex. Those of English parentage, from Connecticut and Eastern Long Island, settled in Essex, Morris, Union, Somerset, Hunterdon, Middlesex, Monmouth, Ocean, Burlington, Atlantic, Cape May and Cumberland. English settlers located in Salem, Gloucester, Camden, Burlington, Mercer and Union. Scotchmen settled in parts of Middlesex and Monmouth. Swedes made settlements in Salem and Gloucester; Norwegians in Hudson and Bergen; Welsh in Monmouth; Irish and Germans in Sussex, Warren and Sussex. But all came to cultivate the soil.

From such as these the State was built up. They were the pioneers, and when the struggle for liberty came on, they were united in the defense of the country. Their patriotism, gallantry and valor at Trenton, Princeton, Elizabeth, Monmouth, Red Bank and elsewhere, but the loyalty and devotion of both the men and the women of New Jersey to the cause of freedom were perhaps more conspicuous in the support they gave Washington, as it frequently crossed, fought on or encamped in the State.

They were a religious people. The various denominations represented presented their religious views with the earnestness of sincere faith and without fanatical zeal. Prominent among these were the Friends, who occupied much of the central part of the State adjacent to Philadelphia, the city of William Penn.

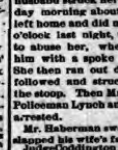
Education, too, received early and earnest attention. The parochial schools, the "Log Colleges," the common schools, were the early foundations on which the present admirable system of private and public education, as is evidenced by the numerous private and boarding schools, the district schools, the State Normal and Model Schools, the Farnum Preparatory School, which is a part of the State System, and the numerous colleges of the State.

To these must be added the School for Deaf-Mutes, the State Industrial School for Girls, the State Reform School for Boys, the State Home for Girls, both now in the city of Trenton, has graduated during the thirty-seven years of its history 1,429 students. In addition to these graduates, quite a large number have taken a part of the course. The present value of the school property, including school buildings, Principal's residence, boarding halls and furniture, is $648,926. Its efficiency as a training school for teachers is demonstrated by its growth and popularity.

The Model School serves the double purpose of affording an opportunity for the pupils of the Normal to observe and practice, under permanent teachers, the modes of instruction and discipline inculcated in the Normal School, and of preparing pupils for the Normal School. Visitors interested in school work are referred to the display of the New Jersey schools in the Liberal Arts Gallery of the Manufacturers' Building.

HE SIGNED THE PLEDGE.

So Mrs. Haberman was Willing to Give Him Another Trial.



E. and Mrs. Henry Haberman of South Second street aired their family difficulties before Judge Coddington this morning. Mrs. Haberman swore that her lord and master had come home, accompanied by a friend, about two o'clock yesterday morning and insisted that the friend should stay the remainder of the night. When she refused to allow the friend to stay, her husband struck her on the head. Yesterday morning about eight o'clock he had left home and did not return until eight o'clock last night, when he again began to abuse her, whereupon she struck him with a spoke from a wagon wheel. She then ran out doors. Her husband followed and struck her as she reached the stoop. Then Mrs. Haberman called Policeman Lynch and had Mr. Haberman arrested.

Mr. Haberman swore that he had only slapped his wife's face.

Judge Coddington said that he adjudged Haberman guilty, but would suspend sentence if he would sign the pledge for a year, and if his wife didn't swear to prove the charge. As the husband was all right when sober, Mrs. Haberman was willing to give him another chance, so she didn't push the charge, and the husband signed the pledge.

Ancient Order of Foresters Prosperous.

The semi-annual report of the Ancient Order of Foresters of America shows that the order was never more prosperous. The returns up to July 1 showed a total membership of 111,380. On July 1, 1891, the membership was 77,720. The gain during the last two years has been 34,138 members, 3 grand courts, and 336 subordinate courts.

The biennial convention of the Society convened this afternoon, and in the evening the seats were all occupied. We can conscientiously commend Mr. Hunting to the brethren of the press, and assure them that they will meet a gentleman from the ground up.—Trenton, New Jersey, Gazette.

Hunting's circus will exhibit here September 14.—Adv.

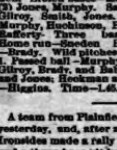
IN THE CITY COURT.

A Young Man Said Policeman Frederickson was "Too Fresh."



ATONE o'clock Saturday morning a number of young men were loitering at the corner of Front and Somerset streets. Policeman Frederickson asked them what they were doing there, when one of the party, swore at him and told him he was "too fresh."

The policeman caught hold of him, saying, "You're my man." The culprit evidently thought he wasn't, for he struck him and attempted to get away. He finally succeeded in getting loose, but the policeman kept his word. As he started to run he was knocked down by Special Policeman Glaeutzer, and held until Policeman Frederickson could get on the beat. Judge Coddington sentenced him to pay a $15 fine.

The name of the offender is not published as it is his first, and, he promises, his last offense.

William Meyers, 18 years old, was arrested for drunkenness Saturday night by Chief Grant. He refused at first to say where he got his liquor, but after a day and night in a cell he came to his mind and told the Chief that a colored man had procured it for him. Judge Coddington fined him $5.

Three o'clock yesterday morning Policeman Lynch saw two men acting strangely at the Grant avenue station. He accosted them and as neither answered satisfactorily he arrested them. The prisoners proved to be Edward Cox of this morning, before Judge Coddington one of the persons was said could speak a little English said they had been working at Bethlehem, but were discharged when a report came that they were back to Bayonne, where they formerly worked. One of them had a revolver and a number of cartridges in it. Cox was taken away from him and kept at the lockup, and the men were told to leave town as soon as possible.

Freaks of Lightning.

The residence of Stacy Bray in Lambertville, was struck by lightning during the heavy thunder-shower of Thursday night, and a hole six feet square was made in the roof. The chimney was also shattered. The family of Mr. Bray had a remarkable escape. The lightning struck on one side of the roof and passing through the house, went out on the other side. While between the upper story and the cellar, no mark of the electric fluid was visible. The handle of a shovel in the cellar was shattered.

Meeting of Exempt Firemen.

The Exempt Firemen's Association held a special meeting Saturday night. The principal business transacted was the completing of arrangements for an entertainment to be given on the Casino September 18.

A CLEVER CONCOCTION.

SUPPLY THE ANAGRAM TO ROUND OUT THIS VERSE.

Something Quite as Unique as any of the Other Novel Features Which Have Appeared in the News.

I.

THE NEWS recently offered a prize of $5 for the best solution of the word "Hope." The answers with names omitted and numbers substituted were submitted to Rev. Dr. Yerkes, Lawyer John Van Winkle, Dr. Boone and Editor A. V. D. Honeyman, for their opinions as to the best, and their reasons for their conclusions. Their reasons were published and were very interesting. Yet, strange to say, no two opinions agreed. As one of the judges mentioned as the second best the one mentioned by another as best, the prize was awarded to that number. The winner proved to be architect O. S. Teale.

II.

In a second contest, the word to be defined being "Happiness," the judges were Father Smyth, Lawyer Nelson Runyon, Mrs. J. L. Anderson, Miss Buxton, and Mr. William Cushing Bamburgh, with the same result that no two agreed, though what one thought to be second best corresponding with what another thought best, gave the prize of $5 to Mrs. F. J. Brown.

It seems an easy thing to give the meaning of such simple words, yet not only did no two competitors agree, but no two of even such prominent and highly cultured people as the judges agreed as to which was the best definition.

III.

THE NEWS later offered a free trip to Chicago, including admissions to the World's Fair, hotel accommodations, for one week, and $10 cash (from Mr. Jacob Miles) for the fireman who should be voted the most popular, each vote representing a coupon cut from THE NEWS. Ex-Chief Horace Martin, who starts to-day, accompanied by his wife, won the prize, with 20,757 votes cast for him, the second man being ex-Chief Saltzman, with 16,709 votes, and Mrs. Wise who presented with a ticket and hotel accommodation. The total vote, 43,733, gives some idea of the great popular interest in the contest, and encourages us to introduce another novelty.

IV.

SOLVE THIS.

It is to test the intelligence or ingenuity of those who respond, to enable us to determine what class of entertainment to provide to excite popular interest in a large prize which we are arranging to offer later.

Supply the missing words in the following verse:

A ——— sat in his ———,
Chanting the nursery ——— play
And ——— in the bowl he'll ———,
And twenty and other ———.
When the ——— then ——— the street,
The ——— of great battles to them ——— belong.
Each loyal woman ——— took up the song
John Barleycorn, my king!

To work out the anagram one has to find six letters, which, by transposition, will supply suitable words for each blank. We have the solution, and invite lovers of such tests of skill to put on their thinking caps. With the necessary words supplied the verse is a complete and harmonious stanza. The names of all who secure the correct teolution will be published in the NEWS within a reasonable time.

—The Somerset county fair will be held at Somerville, September 12th; 13th and 14th.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Simpler Living.

Mrs. Ewing, the cooking teacher, struck the keynote of a great reform when in one of her lectures she called for plainer food and fewer courses at our meals. The best way to secure variety is to have a few exquisite dishes at a time and something else next time, not to have a great number of dishes all at once. Feasts of 15 and 20 courses are a relic of barbarism at which posterity will be aghast as we are now at mention of the monstrous stag and boar feasts of our British ancestors, when every man stuffed himself with twice or thrice as much food as even the gormand does now, then drank himself insensible in a gallon or so of wine and tumbled over under the table, dead to the world for the next day or two.

When the Alaskan savages want to give a great feast, they prepare everything known to the arctic cuisine—berries, muskrat, seal meat, fresh and stale salmon, grease, goat, sheep and bear—cook it and tumble the viands into a big common trough all together, and then the whole village falls in and devours this 15 course dinner, each individual dipping in and helping himself with his hands. There is an eating match, and the one who can swallow the most is the biggest man, figuratively if not literally, in that village. These heathen eat so much that they often lie about for days groaning with pain from sheer gluttony. Now, really, is our civilized banquet so much of an improvement on that of the Alaskans, after all?

Mrs. Ewing would have scientific cookery take the place of the mere appetite which now guides most people in dinner giving. She would reduce the gormandizing 15 courses to three or four at most, and on the greatest occasion to five. She says:

I would not care how much the roast weighed, or whether there were 5 people or 20 people to eat it. I would limit the variety of vegetables to three, and I would have one of them an acid vegetable or a fruit, provided I did not have a salad to follow the meat course, and then I would not at most limit the vegetables to two. I think a four course dinner is a good home dinner, and perhaps the best for hospitality. That means soup, roast or meat and salad and dessert. You may make it a three course dinner and put in the salad as an acid vegetable or a fruit—stewed fruit or baked apples, cabbage, slaw or anything of that sort that will take the place of the salad. Every one needs something of that sort every day with the dinner. I think a five course dinner is an unnecessary burden to give your friends, and that means soup, fish, meat, salad and dessert. If you want oysters on the half shell, why, leave out the fish. Have oysters and soup and roast and salad and dessert. I think that the luxurious dinners are simply absurdities that have come down from the dark ages people thought they had nothing to do but dine.

Let There Be Light.

There is no danger of the people getting too much light on any public question. Since the war there probably has never been a subject so thoroughly canvassed and studied by all the people of this country as the silver question has been in the past year. To say that the majority of the voters of the country have an intelligent understanding of at least their side of the silver question is not overstating the fact.

Just so it should always be. Information on all public matters, even to pending treaties, ought to be given to the American people as freely as the Almighty gives them air and sunshine. When old fellows have been in congress, especially in the senate, a dozen or twenty years it becomes apparently second nature to them to move to refer everything to a committee. A committee, to the veteran congressional mind, appears to be as much of a power as the veto in the constitution of the United States. But it isn't, not by a long chalk.

Let the heads of all government departments give information as often as called on to the people of this republic on all public business. Let not the information be merely referred to a committee of congressmen to be buried. The star chamber court was abolished by act of the British parliament just 211 years after the pilgrims landed on Plymouth rock. Let there be light!

There is one most unpleasant feature about labor orators who try to incite the throngs of unemployed to mob and rioting. One of the loudest mouthed of these in New York city drew a frightful picture of the starving poor, himself included, and assisted in person to smash the door and furniture of a hall where his crowd had been denied admission. He was arrested. Barondess, the labor leader, hustled around collecting dimes and nickels from the poor to bail him out. Mr. Barondess himself contributed $5 to that end. But when the fellow's pockets were searched it was found he had $35 all the time. One of the most desperate mob leaders in the Chicago riot declared he had had nothing to eat in two days. Yet he had at that very time $2.40. This is calculated to make sympathy turn sour.

The terrible storm from the West Indies that devastated the Atlantic coast was foretold by the telegraph at least 12 hours before it struck. If the vessel crews that started out at noon or after on the fatal day had first read the afternoon papers and then delayed their journey, their lives would have been saved. As it is, such notices come in time to warn surf bathers along the coast to be careful of the deadly undertow that always follows West India hurricanes and others that come from the east and southeast.

MUCH MORE TALK YET.

Thirty-three Senators All Prepared With Silver Speeches.

SOME WILL SPEAK FOR TWO WEEKS

The Debate Will Be Carried on For Weeks Yet Unless It Is Stopped by a Vote—The House Has a Long Schedule of Work Already Mapped Out.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—The repeal bill will continue to be the absorbing topic of interest before congress this week. Notices of speeches to come have already been given by senators sufficient to fill in the greater part of the week, and others are known to be in course of preparation, so that in the absence of an agreement or some kind there is no reason to believe that a vote on the bill can be reached this week.

Although he has not fixed definitely upon the date of delivery of his speech, Mr. Mills of Texas will be the first to follow Mr. Teller in debate. It is the current report that he will advocate unconditional repeal, and as the senator comes from a strong silver state and must thereby acquire a number of his constituents, his utterances will doubtless be listened to with great interest.

Thirty-Three Speeches to Come.

Speculation is rife as to the length of the debate now progressing. Thirty-three senators are said to have arranged to speak on the subject, besides which 10 or 12 more may address the senate before the close of the debate. Mr. George of Mississippi has stated that he expects to speak about two days. Mr. Jones of Nevada and Mr. Daniel of Virginia will each consume two days, and Messrs. Morgan of Alabama and Stewart of Nevada will each speak one day. Even if a compromise shall ultimately be agreed upon, the final vote will not be taken earlier than the first week in October. Some senators are of the opinion that the debate will continue until the middle of October.

In the present unsettled condition of affairs it is impossible to foretell what will be the programme of the house of representatives for a week ahead. The fact is no course of action has been laid out by the leaders, and they are satisfied to let each session of the body take care of itself.

This state of things is likely to continue until either the senate acts upon the repeal bill pending before it or the time comes when the committees on appropriations and ways and means have some proposed legislation formulated for the consideration of the house.

It is expected that today the report of the committee on accounts will be called up for discussion. There is in this the material for a debate that shall last several days, for the minority proposes a contest against the majority's payment of committees to which clerks shall be allowed.

More Business For the House.

Later in the week, if it is possible for the committee on elections to report the measure to the house, one of the bills providing for the repeal of the federal election laws may come up for consideration, but the probabilities are against it. If not, the bill introduced on Saturday by Mr. Everett of Massachusetts to modify the Geary law by extending the time for registration from 5 to 6 months, will be the next measure to come down from the dark ages people thought they had nothing to do but dine.

A BROTHER'S LONG SEARCH.

Dragging an Harbor In Vain For the Body of the Drowned Man.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Every day since the great storm of a couple of weeks ago a sad looking man may be seen embarking in a rowboat near the Glenlda casino on Cold Spring harbor, with a dragnet. He rows into the middle of the harbor, throws the net overboard and drags the harbor for hours from shore to shore and from its land locked eastern limit to the sound. Summer guests at first thought he was dragging the net for fish, but as he always returned without fish they wondered at his perseverance. Some had seen him catch fish and throw them back into the water, which made the guests wonder still more and caused them to make inquiries of the natives.

The man's name is Houlahan. During the great storm his brother was in a sail boat in the harbor, which at this point is nearly two miles wide. He saw the storm coming and prepared to furl the sails. He was on the boom when the wind struck the boat, and in an instant he was knocked down and into the water by the boom. He fell into the water and never came up to the surface again.

The surviving brother, knowing his experience, had had confidence in his ability to weather the storm. He was on the south shore at the time watching his movements and when he saw him knocked into the water he started to rescue him, but when he reached the spot he could see nothing of his brother, although he searched for the body a long time in the height of the storm. The body has never been found. Notice of a reward of $50 is posted on a fence not far from the Glenada, on the shore road, for its recovery.

A FLEET OF DERELICTS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The latest of the recent hurricanes along the Atlantic coast was more destructive on land than at sea, but the two immediately preceding it, and particularly the one that struck this city on Aug. 26, left a track of desolation among the unfortunate vessels that got caught in them. During the last week of August no less than 20 vessels, schooners, barks and ships were abandoned at sea near our coast, between Florida and New York, not to mention the much larger number that were wrecked by going ashore.

Eight of these have since been towed in, while the remaining dozen, occupying an area about 600 miles long by 250 wide along our coast, form an unprecedented fleet of dangerous derelicts, some of which may stay afloat for months or years.

Some are bottom up, some are almost sunk below the sea level, while all are more or less dismasted, with here and there a tattered sail idly flapping in the wind. Driven hither and thither by every wind and tide, with no directing hand at the helm, this battered and ragged fleet are the veritable tramps of the ocean.

These abandoned vessels, with perhaps more to be heard from, hold out a good inducement to the salvor, since they are all near land. Of the 13 derelicts in this unique fleet the names of only seven are known as yet.

Anarchy Shows Itself In Spain.

MADRID, Sept. 11.—A riot broke out in Santander during a fire in a populous quarter. A mob swiftly entered the municipal buildings, and after destroying the furniture threw everything out of the windows. The residences of the mayor and the leading councilor were treated in the same way. The mob was finally dispersed by troops. The riot was ostensibly caused by a deficiency of water, but it is really only another evidence of the wave of anarchism passing over Spain.

Admiral Dot Has a Daughter.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Admiral Dot, the Hillupitan, who is now a "cigarette advertisement in Chicago, is only 48 inches high, but he lately received a telegram that made him feel as big as Grover Cleveland. It was dated New York and read: "It's a girl and weighs six pounds. Mother and baby doing well." Mrs. Dot is now with the parents of her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Gabriel Kahn, who live at 155 East One Hundred and Fifth street.

From an Official Standpoint.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The Brazilian legation has communicated to the press an official telegram from Rio Janeiro, which says: "The city is perfectly tranquil. Congress has voted in favor of a state of siege, which, however, the government hopes it will not be necessary to establish. The insurgents have also acquired to land at various points, but everywhere have been energetically repulsed."

A Grain Broker's Suicide.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 11.—Near midnight on Saturday a corpse was found floating in the lake at Hamilton park, 11 miles northwest of the city, on the Suburban Electric road. It has since been discovered that the body was that of Alexander Frazier, a miller, grain broker on 'Change and treasurer of Clan Campbell, Scottish clans.

More Visiting French Engineers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. —Fifty-two visiting French mechanics landed from the French liner La Champagne. They will travel on Wednesday to Philadelphia and thence to Pittsburg, St. Louis and Chicago. After taking in the World's fair they will proceed to Niagara, Montreal and then down to Providence and Boston.

The Congregational Church Congress.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—The opening session of the congress of the Congregational church, in connection with the great parliament of religion, was begun in the hall of Columbus at the Art palace.

Awaiting the Valkyrie.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—This morning the English yacht Valkyrie has been out 19 days, since which time she has not been reported by any of the vessels arriving at this or European ports.

The Deadly Gasoline Stove.

CRESTON, Ia., Sept. 11.—A gasoline stove exploded in the residence of W. B. Mac-well, resulting in the fatal burning of his wife and daughter. The house was burned to the ground.

Secretary Davison Hurt.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 11.—While riding a horse at the fair ground Secretary C. Howard Davison of the association was seriously hurt.

English Miners Still Rioting.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—There was serious rioting in Whitehaven, Cumberland, by the striking miners.

STEAM FIGHTS TROLLEY

A Railroad and a Traction Company Conflict In Newark.

TROLLEY WIRES WERE CUT ONCE.

Then a Heavy Current Was Sent Through Them, and the Fight Grew Interesting. The Railroad Trying to Prevent a Competitor From Getting a Foothold.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 11.—The war between the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad and the Consolidated Traction company over the Clinton avenue crossing of the former's road in this place has been renewed. All day Sunday the street railroad company was stringing its trolley wires from Springfield to Bloomfield avenue on this cross town line, and the steam road officials were watching the operation. When the Traction company's wagon reached the crossing, the gates were lowered. A large crowd soon collected, and a howl went up when this obstruction was placed in the way of the work.

Alderman Wangner was one of several men who took hold of the gates to raise them. He was at once arrested on the order of Detective McKenna of the road by Special Officer McDonald, who is also employed by the Lackawanna company. Wangner and another man were taken to to the Second precinct station, where Captain McManus refused to entertain the complaint on the ground that the company had no right to lower the gates when no trains were running, and there are no trains on the Morris and Essex division on Sunday except the newspaper train.

The Wagon Got In.

Shortly after this trouble occurred a horse car approached the crossing and the gates were lowered. The men on the scaffold wagon then drove through, and one of the gates was broken in the effort to shut the wagon out. The two trolley wires were then drawn taut over the crossing and continued on toward the end of the road. By this time nearly 500 persons had gathered to watch the proceedings. Shortly after they heard a locomotive coming. All the time the men were stringing the wires the gate bells were kept ringing along the line to give them the impression that trains were coming, and when the locomotive did appear no attention was paid to it.

On the roof of the cab of the engine were two men armed with wire cutters. The engine was stopped under the trolley wires, and they were quickly cut. The severed wires recoiled with a loud report, and one of them got under an approaching car and threw it from the track. As soon as the work was done the engine withdrew to the Spring street yard, and steam was kept up. The crowd at the crossing increased greatly, and Captain McManus sent 25 policemen to the scene. The wires stringers went on with the work, took the line to Bloomfield avenue and connected the ends of the wires. Then they returned to the railroad crossing and connected the severed ends over the railroad tracks.

The next move was to connect the new system with the main supply wires on Central avenue, but this has been taken over in. They were sure then that no railroad men would dare to meddle with the wires again.

Decided by the Courts.

When the Lackawanna company served the Consolidated company with a notice to remove the rails and forbade their putting up any wires across the track. The Consolidated officials tossed the notice aside. The trolley road has been built nearly three years and has been operated with horse cars for a month because of the delay in getting it. It will not be that the Lackawanna is ugly because the Orange and Newark line of the Consolidated Traction company has taken the bulk of its Orange and Newark patronage and that the fare between the two cities will be reduced to 5 cents, which is the price charged on the street cars.

He Paid For His Joke.

FORT DODGE, Ia., Sept. 11. — George Paige, a theatrical man, paid $55 and made a public apology on the stage for a "local joke" which appeared in the Chronicle, a young society man. Crawford instituted a suit for criminal libel and one for damages, but withdrew them when Paige made reparation as above mentioned. The opera house was packed to hear the apology.

No Money For the School.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The Rev. Father Corrigan announced at the different masses held in St. Mary's church, Hoboken, that the parochial school attached thereto would not reopen this morning. In explanation of his announcement Father Corrigan said the present worry and stringency in the money markets was the cause.

JUST OUTSIDE THE STRIP.

One Man Will Enter the Race For Land With a Balloon.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 11.—It was a strange Sunday to the 20,000 people gathered on the border of the Cherokee strip here and there along the line. Religious services were held, but the gamblers and horse traders had the biggest crowd, and the majority of the people were very far from spending their time in religious meditations. The arrangements at all the border towns completed, and they opened this morning. Several thousand people are gathered around the Arkansas City booth, while at Cameron and Kiowa the line is half a mile long.

At Orlando 400 men have been in line for two days and nights, and the number was more than doubled.

Men and women are seated and lying beside the barbed wire fence skirting the entrance to the strip. Another line extends nearly two miles east of the booths, and another has been started parallel with the first and is nearly a mile long. It was a remarkable scene. Bunko men and card sharks were scattered through the picturesque camp and did a big business. Four shell games were in progress, and all drew great crowds.

Standing on a box between two of these light fingered gentlemen a gray haired man preached the gospel to an interested congregation.

To the south of this camp lie the rolling, homeless prairies soon to be opened to settlement. The landscape is not inviting, for the ground is parched and dry.

The boomers are getting a taste of what they must suffer. Water is selling at 25 cents a bucket or $1 a barrel. This water is mostly hauled from Arkansas City. Guy Helm of Springfield, Mo., has just arrived with a balloon, which he will inflate at Orlando and enter that way. Soldiers have arrived on the strip, and the whole border line is now thoroughly patrolled.

REBELS HEMMED IN.

Brazil's Naval Insurgents Neatly Trapped In the Bay of Rio.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 11.—Brazil's naval insurgents are hemmed in. The rebellious squatrix, Alfonso, has contemplated sailing out of the bay and proceeding down the coast toward Santos, hoping to carry on a sort of guerrilla warfare by water along the way and eventually join with the Rio Grande do Sul insurgents, changed its plans and still remains sulking before the city.

This was due, not to any alteration in the scheme of attack, but to a dread of running the gantlet of the two forts which guard the entrance to the bay of Rio.

This bay is 17 miles in length and 11 miles in its extreme width, but its entrance, which is two miles south of the city of Rio, is only 1¼ miles wide.

These narrows are guarded on the east by Fort Santa Cruz and on the west by another fort on Sugar Loaf rock. The garrisons of artillerymen in these forts are loyal to Peixoto, and have orders to fire upon the rebel ships the moment they come within range.

A strong line of torpedoes has been laid across this entrance, communicating with both forts, and the guns are loaded and ready to help these submarine terrors blow the insurgents out of the water should they attempt to put to sea.

Liberia Wants Protection from France.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 11.—Alfred Benedict King, World's fair commissioner from Liberia, whose home is at Monrovia, has just left Washington, where he had gone at the instance of his government to interview President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham respecting a matter that may cause a controversy between the United States and France. The commissioner says that France is not only encroaching upon their territory, but has actually absorbed considerable of it, and that he was instructed to visit Washington and if possible confer with the president and the secretary of state respecting assistance.

The Train Robbers' Ruse Failed.

VAN BUREN, Ark., Sept. 11.—An unsuccessful attempt at train robbery was made on the northern bound Frisco passenger train at Lillie by four men. The conductor was warned by the crew of a freight that a red and two white lanterns were stolen off their train at Lillie. When the passenger train arrived at Lillie, the two white and one red lanterns were waved, but the engineer opened the throttle and went through as he had never done before.

THEY HINT AT A REVOLT

Irish National League Issues a Stirring Call.

GLADSTONE ROUNDLY DENOUNCED

The Home Rule Bill Pronounced Worthless and the Effort of the Grand Old Man to Pass It a Deceptive Farce—A Call For a Great Convention.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The executive committee of the Irish National League of America has issued the following manifesto in regard to the home rule bill and its rejection by the house of lords:

"When the home rule proposals of Mr. Gladstone became known, we addressed you, giving our opinion of his bill and warning Irishmen against the acceptance of its provisions. We had no faith then in the work of Mr. Gladstone. We looked upon it as chimerical—something to lead the fool farther—and we were sorry to see our own people playing the weaker part in the greatest farcical comedy of the age.

"The bill submitted to the house of commons was practically worthless. The imposition on our country of the mutilated skeleton just rejected by the house of lords would have been an outrage, and the serfs who would accept it with thanks would merit the scorn of the nations. It was a sorry spectacle—Ireland, after her struggle for centuries, on her knees for a crumb.

His Influence Pernicious.

"We have no hesitation in declaring that no more pernicious influence has been at work among our people than the influence of Mr. Gladstone in recent years. The spirit of Irish nationality was being steadily destroyed by this influence and festered by a designing agency which prefers a West Britain to an Ireland. The people were daily becoming more and more West Britainized and erstwhile patriots more English than the English. Let us hope that the spell has passed away and that our people will once more recognize that their place is not at the feet of England.

"In that event the house of lords may not be an unmixed evil. You will now doubtless be called by the professional agitators that the rejection of the home rule bill by the house of lords is merely temporary; that after Mr. Gladstone has passed two or three British measures it will again be sent to the upper house, and that then, on its defeat, the Grand Old Man will go to the country and be swept back to power on a great tidal wave of popular indignation against the lords. These men will be simply playing you false.

"Mr. Gladstone, whether he appeals to the country this year or next, will, in the opinion of those thoroughly acquainted with the situation, be defeated at the polls, and the men who would still keep their hands in your pocket know this.

Certain of Defeat.

"On the home rule question alone he is certain of defeat, but his shirking of the direct issue by linking an unpopular local option bill and other measures to home rule insures a sweeping majority for the Tories. Do not for a moment imagine that the British people are willing to give home rule to the Irish. Among even the most ardent followers of Mr. Gladstone, with the possible exception of John Morley, there is not a man whom it interests. Even Lord Rosebery admits that home rule is to him only a means projected to enable the liberal party to escape the enactment of coercion laws or the disfranchising of Ireland. Are you willing, therefore, to still play the part of dupes?

"It appears to us that the time has come when the Irish race the world over should be enlisted in one gigantic movement for the liberation of Ireland. It has the power to set the chains from the motherland if it only has the will. A great convention of Irishmen from all countries, we think, should be called and a plan for united action formulated and adopted.

"At such a convention the example of the American patriots might be emulated and a declaration of Ireland's independence given to the world.

"M. Y. GANNON, President.
"J. P. SUTTON, Secretary.
"WILLIAM LYMAN, Treasurer."

A Big Sale of Cotton Goods.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—The Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin announces today that one of the most important sales of cotton goods that has been made for many years will be held during next week in this city, when a well known auction house will offer $1,500,000 worth of the Amoskeag products. The transaction shows the confidence of manufacturers in the condition of the market.

Crack British Soldiers.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Some 200 of the crack warriors of Great Britain, with colors and accouterments, are encamped in Madison Square Garden. A finer looking lot of men was never seen in New York city. Every one of them is over 6 feet high and as well developed as a gladiator. They came to the metropolis from the World's fair in Chicago and will appear in a military tournament here.

Ate Toadstools For Mushrooms.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Two families poisoned and one man dead is the result of a mushroom business expedition made last Thursday to West Farms by Frank Calalano and Joseph Olvero. The men brought back a big basketful of toadstools. They and their wives and children partook of them and were poisoned.

Blazing Oil Over a Child.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Mrs. Daniel Francisco of 220 West Sixty-second street essayed to light a kerosene lamp. It exploded, and the blazing oil flew over her 1 year old baby Victory, whom she had on her arm, burning him so badly that he soon died.

ATLANTA, Sept. 11.—A gang of 33 counterfeiters, operating in Clark and neighboring counties, have been arrested. They melted Britannia metal and made a good imitation of silver coin.

Mayor Harrison and Satolli Were There.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—St. Pius' church was dedicated with impressive ceremonies. Mgr. Satolli was present, and Mayor Harrison was there and was received with a reserved pew.

M'GILL MAY DIE.

A Friendly Sparring Match Which Resulted Seriously.

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—As a result of a friendly set-to between Harry Burgoyne and James A. McGill in Robert Furey's roadhouse in Cropsey avenue, Bath Beach, McGill may lose his life. Burgoyne is lying in a cell in the New Utrecht town hall awaiting the result of McGill's injuries. The prisoner is a barytone singer who is filling a two weeks' engagement in Furey's open air pavilion. McGill is a local tinsmith and boarded at Furnell's hotel in Bath avenue.

The men had been drinking together at the bar and went up to Burgoyne's room, where it was suggested that they do some friendly sparring. Burgoyne struck his opponent an unintentionally hard blow, knocking him backward through a large glass door leading out onto the veranda. McGill received a deep gash in the neck and three ugly scalp wounds. He struck the floor of the veranda on the back of his head and it is believed fractured his skull. The injured man was removed to the Norwegian hospital in Brooklyn.

HE SCOLDED BISMARCK.

And the Prince Told the Doctor to Hold His Tongue.

BERLIN, Sept. 11.—Prince Bismarck will return to Friedrichsruh in about two weeks. It has transpired that Prince Bismarck's illness resulted from a cold he caught while receiving deputations outdoors. Dr. Schweninger had repeatedly forbidden him to expose himself in that way. Finding the prince obstinate, the doctor scolded him, whereupon the prince became angry and ordered the doctor to hold his tongue.

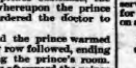
Both the doctor and the prince warmed up then, and a lively row followed, ending in the doctor leaving the prince's room. At their first meeting afterward the prince held out his hand to the doctor and admitted that he had done wrong. Nevertheless the prince persisted in exposing himself, and he had to pay for his self will with the severest attack of sciatica he has ever had.

The Bank Robbers Identified.

DELAVAN, Wis., Sept. 11.—P. H. Condon, sheriff of Parker county, Ore., arrived here and positively identified the two dead bank robbers as Fred and Tom McCarthy as the second robber as Billy McCarthy. Mr. Condon is well acquainted with the McCarthys, having had to face a revolver in the hands of Tom McCarthy once for 45 minutes.

Yale Lost Three Athletes.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 11.—The captains of the various Yale athletic teams are angry over the announcement that three very promising young athletes who were to come to Yale this fall have been decoyed to another college by what they consider unfair means.



STYLISH MILLINERY.

The Elaborate Sailor Hat and Other Very Pretty Things In Hats and Bonnets.

It is a truism to say that without a becoming head gear no woman can appear to the best advantage. Ill dressed hair and an unbecoming hat will make even a beautiful woman look dowdy. Sailor hats are the popular head covering this season not only for the country and yachting, but also they are much worn in town. However, fortunately there are sailors and sailors. It is possible to have an elaborately trimmed sailor. Some faces cannot bear the severity of the plain sailor, and under these circumstances it is pleasant to know that it is distinctly fashionable to have a trimming of wings and roses, or grasses and wings and rosettes. The wings rise out of a bunch of roses or rosettes on each side of the front of the hat.

The picture hat is still fashionable and generally becoming, but for smart occasions there is nothing prettier than the small bonnet.

NEW HATS.

White, and black and white are the colors in gowns now worn by the best dressed Parisian women, and with these gowns there is nothing more distingue for a dress bonnet or more becoming than white. It may be in fancy white straw or soft silk muslin, with rosettes and strings of white satin ribbon, and with it is worn a white net veil.

With linen, pique or duck suits small rough straw turbans shading from ecru to brown in color and trimmed with brown velvet and quills are seen.

An extremely glossy, satinlike braid of yellowish color appears in some of the latest French importations of hats, with flaring turned up brims, and these, when trimmed in white satin and black wings, go admirably with the white and black costumes already mentioned.

Roses, orchids and foliage contend for favor with the always picturesque and popular ostrich tips and plumes of various colors are gaining for long garden party hats in leghorn or lace braids.

In our cut may be seen a very striking hat made in white crinoline, with the brim bent or fluted and trimmed with cherry colored velvet and black currants; a driving hat in dark blue straw with ribbon bow to match and natural wings, and a very pretty and useful hat of yellowish, glossy straw, trimmed with shaded roses and bows of peach colored silk ribbon.

Makes an every-day convenience of an old-time luxury. Pure and wholesome. Prepared with scrupulous care. Highest award at all Pure Food Expositions. Each package makes two large pies. Avoid imitations—and insist on having the NONE SUCH brand.

Wednesday, Thursday and Friday,
SEPTEMBER 13, 14 AND 15.
Having re-modeled and greatly enlarged our Millinery department, we are, this season, enabled to show our patrons a line of fresh, stylish goods, equal to those in the Boston and New York city stores. Our Trimming Department will be under the supervision of Miss Carrie Kimble, whose superior style of trimming gave such entire satisfaction last season. We will also open on above dates, a line of Fall Jackets for Ladies, Misses and Children.

FASHIONS

DAINTY ACCESSORIES.

The Femininity Displayed In All Sorts of Pretty Affectations.

Notwithstanding the hard times, of which most persons are complaining, milady's dress throughout is most luxurious, in witness whereof one has only to point to such minor details as petticoats, stockings and shoes. Nothing is too dainty or too costly for the lady of the period. She asserts her sex's privilege for any kind of extravagance and delights in any novelty that adds to her sense of luxury and refinement.

Those women who have old lace by them, or indeed lace of any kind, black or white, have an unusual opportunity for displaying it to the best advantage, for it is introduced in every imaginable fashion. The lace flounces which used to be worn are now placed at the edge of the skirts, often festooned with ribbon bows. They also are introduced round the hips, while triple flounces are made to cover the entire skirt. Almost any shaped piece of lace appears to be adapted to the shoulders and to the capes, which are of every form, but mostly surround the yokes or taper from the waist over the shoulders.

Very dressy and at the same time feminine are the lace ruffs and collars which render even a plain dress picturesque and attractive. In the cut is shown a particularly graceful affair in velvet and pearl lace, as may be seen by studying the illustration, the three covered lace flounces headed by a straight collar composed of two folds of velvet, finished with an earlike bow at the back, and the small tipped fluted ax the shoulders.

The fancy continues for translucent materials, such as lace grenadine, gauze and the like, to be worn over colored silk foundations. These affectations after airy frills and laces is in charming contrast with the masculine effects gained in the strictly tailor made suits.

At Autumn Weddings.

High corsages are preferred for bridal dresses, especially at church weddings. The front can be rounded low or cut square in the neck. A low corsage may be worn at a home wedding in the evening. It will be a compliment for the bride to wear her wedding dress at the wedding of a relation a month after her own wedding. Of course the orange flowers will be taken off and merely lace or ribbon trimming used.

tatny brocade or violet satin will be handsome for the dress of the bride's mother at a September wedding. Pale primrose yellow dresses of place suede or of taffeta silk will be pretty for bridesmaids' dresses in September.

White satin will be used for wedding gowns in the autumn, with chiffon and pearl galloon trimmings. A maid of honor in November should wear a white French felt hat laden with white plumes. One little flower girl is sufficient. Pure color and the purplish red petunia, also dark green, will be fashionable colors for brides' silk dresses this fall, says Harper's Bazar.

Items In Hairdressing.

For evening wear with certain styles of ornamenta it is necessary to dress the hair high, and there also appears a great disposition to form the front hair in curls with a decided point in the center.

NOVEL COIFFURES.

Some hairdressers have brought out the 1830 style of hairdressing with upstanding loops of hair in front, which have found favor with certain nitra fashionable women, but not with the world in general, though certainly the hair is dressed higher at the back in the evening than in the daytime.

For elderly women the hair is becomingly arranged in soft waved bandeaux on either side and gathered into a low soft coil at the back.

Rainy Day Dress.

The long rain cloak is considered by many ladies distinctly a mistake, as it clings round the legs, making petticoats and stockings muddy and sopping. The mackintosh is very full. In place of either of these not a few women adopt an entire rainy day dress. Have a short lined skirt of coarse blue or black serge and turn it up with leather. The skirt should not by too full, and wear with this a single breasted jacket, with collar which will turn up or down as required. Good strong boots, gaiters and a hat to match or costume, or a plain sailor, will complete a most sensible and pretty rain dress. You will always be perfectly dry and avoid the hideous appearance of the ordinary woman in the rain.

Fashion's Echoes.

White is a prevailing color of the season, and black, also very fashionable, is especially suitable for women who are no longer in their first youth.

The colored silk and brown holland class of dress, with shirt and sailor hat, are now prominent.

One is beginning to grow a trifle tired of black silk and lace insertion as trimmings.

Radiating lines of ribbon starting from the waist, near together and brought down to within a few inches of the hem, where each ended in a small bow, formed the unique and charming trimming of a young girl's dress in blue and pink shot chiffon.

Some of the dotted colored muslins are made up over silk of contrasting color.

Skirts are narrower and less triangularly form. Many first rate dressmakers, too, have given up trimmings. It is chiefly muslin gowns that are frilled and flounced.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS

JACK AND JANE.

A Brief and Picturesque Tale of a Greedy Boy's Downfall.

Little Jack Coft
Sat up aloft
On the bough of an apple tree.
Little Jane May
Said to him, "Pray
Throw down an apple for me!"

Jack answered: "Yes
All that there grow
Here I shall want for myself.
Any that fall
Yours you may call."
Oh, what a greedy young elf!

Then came a crack—
Crash—and, good lack!
Down tumbled Jackie last, ah.
Kind little Jane
Picked his pain
And carried him home to mamma!

The Little Bird and the Split Pea.

Hindoo children are entertained in the nursery by a story which is very similar to the old Saxon tale of "The Woman Who Found the Silver Penny."

"Once upon a time," says the black nurse to the black baby far away in the jungles, "a little bird on its way through the woods picked up a big pea, and took it to the mill to be split. As it happened, one-half of the pea stuck in the mill handle, and the miller could not get it out and gave up the attempt for a bad job."

Now come the adventures of the little bird in his wonderful perseverance to recover the lost portion of the pea.

First he went to a carpenter and asked him to cut the mill handle, but the carpenter resented the idea of cutting a mill handle for the sake of half a pea.

Then he went to the king and begged him to ride the carpenter, but his majesty refused to blame an honest workman for so trivial a matter.

Nothing daunted, the little bird went to the queen and bade her speak to the king, but the queen declined to speak to the king about such a trifle as half a pea.

So the little bird went to the snake and bade the reptile bite the queen, but the snake refused the temptation of even so dainty a morsel for the recovery of half a pea.

The little bird flew to the stick and requested the stick to beat the snake, but the stick did not consider the action justifiable for the sake of half a pea.

Then the little bird begged the fire to burn the stick, but the fire declined to be so cruel for the sake of a pea, much more for the half one.

The sea was next appealed to and asked to quench the fire, but with the same result, and the elephant was asked to drink up the sea, and the bhaunr, a tangled creeping plant, was asked to snare the elephant, and the mouse was asked to gnaw the bhaunr, but they all declined, because half a pea was not worth the trouble.

But when the little bird asks the cat to eat the mouse, many thought less of the half pea than of the rare meal in prospect, and at once decided to comply with the little bird's request. In an instant the mouse, to escape the threatened doom, ran to gnaw the bhaunr, and the creeping plant agreed to snare the elephant, and so on through all the creatures, and even to the king and queen and carpenter, until at last the little bird recovered his piece of pea and went on his way rejoicing.

Now this Hindoo nursery tale has two morals. The first is that great perseverance always succeeds in the long run. The second is that sometimes the object sought is not worth the very extraordinary efforts that are put forth to attain it.

The Vatican.

The ancient palace of the popes of Rome is the most magnificent building of the kind in the world. It stands on the right bank of the Tiber, on a hill called the Vaticanus, because the Latins formerly worshiped Vaticinium, an ancient goddess of that place. Exactly when the building was commenced no one knows. Charlemagne is known to have inhabited it over 1,000 years ago. The present extent of the building is enormous. The length of the statute museum alone is over a mile.

How It Tasted.

Tommy had taken his first surf bath, and, to tell the truth, was not very much pleased with it.

"Why didn't you like it, Tommy?" asked his mother.

"I got some of the water in my mouth."

"What did it taste like?"

"Well," said Tommy, "I guess it tasted like a melted saltcellar."—Harper's Bazar.

One Stitch.

One stitch dropped as the weaver drove
His nimble shuttle to and fro,
In and out, beneath, above,
Till the pattern seems to bud and grow
As if the fairies had helping been.
And the one stitch dropped spoiled the next stitch out,
And a weak place in the fabric stood,
And the perfect pattern was marred for ever
By the one small stitch that was dropped that day.

THE HOUSEHOLD

THE UNCERTAIN TOMATO.

For Housekeepers to Whom Canning the Tomato Is a Hopeless Task.

The easiest fruit in the world to can, a few housekeepers will say when speaking of the tomato, but many more complain of failure, and after losing both fruit and jars for all their pains have given up the tomato as hopeless, so far as they are concerned.

One woman who formerly belonged to the second class now boasts herself mistress of the tomato canning process and offers, in Good Housekeeping, the following directions as sure to bring success:

Wash the tomatoes and remove the stems. Have a wide kettle or agate basin on the stove, plunge in as much fruit as is conveniently accommodated at one time and remove with a long handled skimmer as soon as the skins crack. Dash cold water over the tomatoes, and they will almost pare themselves. Slip off the skins and lay the fruit in an earthen dish. When ready to fill the jars, set one in a milk pan and slice the tomatoes into it. With a wooden masher push down the fruit as the jar fills and turn out the juice and seeds which will rise to the top. Cooking will render the fruit quite juicy enough, and this discarding of the seeds and liquid part appears to be necessary to success.

When all the jars are filled to within three inches of the tops, lay on the covers and set the jars over the fire in a boiler of lukewarm water, placing a rack or support of some sort beneath them. A sufficient quantity to complete filling the jars may be stewed in an agate kettle, or one jar may be emptied for this purpose. As the fruit rises in the jars in boiling, push it down occasionally to release the air bubbles from the interstices of the fruit. Keep boiling for an hour. At the end of that time fill the jars out onto a dry board, fill each till it runs over and seal immediately with a new rubber. Store in a dark place.

Bamboo Furniture.

Few things are artistic and desirable for furnishing, especially in summer, as bamboo. It is a truly wonderful material, combining strength and lightness in a manner unequaled by either metal or timber.

BAMBOO BOOKCASE.

Hatstands, news paper racks, fancy baskets, music stands, cabinets, fancy tables, lower stands, writing tables, lamp stands, Roman chairs, overmantels, screens, etc., are produced in bamboo work, and the manufactured articles are characterized by the admirable qualities of lightness, artistic grace and utility, as will be seen from our illustration, reproduced from "The Decorator and Furnisher, which is simplicity itself. Bamboo furniture is usually finished in gilt or lacquer.

Hints From Country Gentlewoman.

Food spoils much more quickly in damp, muggy weather than in a much higher temperature, if dry.

Open vessels containing charcoal placed in a refrigerator or other closet where food is kept will do much to keep it dry and sweet. The charcoal should be renewed at least every fortnight.

An open vessel of drinking water placed in the ice chamber of a refrigerator is sure to absorb odors from the food below. Put the water in bottles, or, when is more convenient, in glass screw top fruit jars.

Water pitchers and all dishes in which drinks or food are to be served cold should be placed in the ice chest an hour before they are needed.

All fruits should be served as cold and fresh as possible and with granulated rather than powdered sugar.

The down on peaches is poisonous to some people and should be carefully wiped off. This down looks far more tempting cut in halves than in small pieces.

Meat and other articles of food that are damp or juicy should never be left in paper.

Refreshing Drinks.

Lemon Beer—Cut half a dozen lemons into slices and put in a jar with a pound of sugar and a gallon and a half of boiling water. Let stand until cool and add half a cup of fresh yeast; let ferment; bottle and cork very tight.

Soda Beer—Take 2 pounds of white sugar, 2 ounces of tartaric acid, 2 spoonfuls of flour, the whites of 10 eggs, the juice of a lemon and 2 quarts of water, boil three minutes for an hour. At the end of that time bottle for use, put 2 spoonfuls in a glass, with half a teaspoonful of soda, and fill with ice water.

Baked Omelet.

Heat 6 tablespoonfuls of milk and melt a small piece of butter in it. Do not let it oil. Take 6 eggs, beat the yolks with a teaspoonful of salt, then add a heaping and a tablespoonful of flour. Stir into the hot milk, adding last the stiffly beaten whites, a little parsley cut very fine into a well buttered iron spider. Put into a hot oven. In a few minutes it will be risen firmly and delicately browned. Slip on a platter, folding it in the middle.

Chocolate Bavarian Cream.

Soak half a box of gelatin in 4 tablespoonfuls of water for 20 minutes, boil a pint of milk, into which stir 2 ounces of grated chocolate and the dissolved gelatin. Stir till all is dissolved, set the saucepan on the back of the stove with enough sugar to sweeten well and add a tablespoonful of vanilla. Stir while cooling, and as it grows thick mix with it 2 cupfuls of cream whipped to a froth. Turn into a mold to harden.

Pickled Blackberries.

Take enough ripe berries to fill a quart jar, a coffee cupful of sugar and one-third of a cupful of good vinegar. Put the sugar and vinegar on and cook slowly until they make a thick syrup, taking care not to burn. Then add the berries and stew until red. Just before sealing add spice to taste.

A Leap Year Romance.

"I am only a clerk on a small salary," she said, "but I can offer you a comfortable home if you can dispense with luxuries, Harold."

"I am no ice cream fiend," he answered coldly.

"And can you forego soda water?"

"I never touch it."

"Nor candy?"

"Mamma would never let me acquire the candy habit," he said truthfully.

"Sweet boy. But you love the theater—the matinee."

"You forget. I was raised in Boston."

"Oh, then, concerts are your only weakness. Darling, there is a symphony tonight. I am sure you would like to go."

"Yaas. If it does not keep in too late. Will you call for me, my Edith?"

"At quarter to 8 precisely. You will be all ready, dearest?"

"Yaas. I never keep any one waiting."

Punctual to the hour Edith Marshmallow made her appearance and found her young lover ready for the evening. All except his gloves. These he held in his hand.

"I can put them on in the carriage," he explained, "as we go along."

"Carriage!" shrieked Edith; "did you expect for one moment, Harold Smithlet, that I was to be bring a carriage?"

"And did you expect for one moment, Edith Marshmallow, that I was to walk?"

It was the bitter end of their romance, and each went on their—her—way, a wiser and a sadder man—and woman.—Detroit Free Press.

IT KILLED THE CATS.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM TOADSTOOL POISONING OF A FARMER.

His Life Saved by Dr. Adams.—Two Cats Which Ate What was Left of the Dish Died.—How to Tell Mushrooms from Toadstools.

FARMER Daniel B. Van Orden, living in Washington Valley, ate some mushrooms on Friday night and shortly afterward was taken violently ill. Dr. Adams was called and immediately diagnosed the case as one of toadstool poisoning.

Van Orden recovered, but two cats which ate what was left of the dish died. It is supposed that there was one toadstool gathered with the mushrooms.

HOW TO TELL MUSHROOMS FROM TOADSTOOLS.

Early morning is the best time to search for mushrooms, and they will be found where the land lies low and is moist and where the soil is very rich. A smooth (not boggy) piece of meadow land from which the grass has been recently cut is a favorable spot for their growth.

The edges of the mushroom are usually thin, irregular or ragged and turned upward slightly. On the under side it is of pinkish hue and from the top the skin may be easily peeled. The toadstool is a smooth, sleek looking object, with smooth edges. It resembles an umbrella opened and the under side is some times white and then again of a deep gray cast. Of the two growths the toadstool is the sturdiest. The stem is larger and longer than that of the mushroom.

BREVITIES.

—The Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut and family are back again to their Fifth street home.

—A butcher's wagon collided with car No. 2 on Watchung avenue between one and two o'clock this afternoon.

—The Central Railroad has discharged thirty of its brakemen. It is estimated that more dismissals will follow.

—Justice Mosher has issued a summons in the contempt case of Arnold, Constable & Co. vs. Gettl, returnable Sept. 21.

—Workmen are engaged curbing the West side of Watchung avenue from the railroad to Fifth street. The sidewalk is also being relaid.

Ex-Mayor Justus H. Cooley of North Plainfield starts to-morrow on the "Moon Shrine" excursion for the World's Fair.

—A son of Aaron Brower of Evona met with a peculiar accident yesterday. He had been horseback riding and in dismounting struck the ground with such force that his right foot was broken open at the instep. He was barefooted.

—"The Country Squire" last evening, at Music Hall was witnessed by a large audience. The play seems a combination of "The Old Homestead" and "Brother John." The audience seemed well pleased. It was 11.30 when the curtain fell on the last act.

—Miss Kate Garey, the fashionable dressmaker of 82 East Front street, has returned from her Summer's outing and is now prepared to meet all former patrons. She has her usual force of capable assistants and a fine line of fashion plates to select from.

—The Music Hall management announces that the "Flag of Truce" company carries a most complete scenic equipment and that no expense has been spared by Mr. Sandford in this his latest positive success, which will appear in Music Hall Saturday evening.

—Many of our subscribers in the neighborhood of Short Hills did not receive their copies of THE NEWS last evening. In explanation we would say that after the boy left the office on his way around the route, his mother, who had been seriously ill, had a relapse, and shortly after the boy reached home she died. The balance of his route was delivered this morning. The poor little boy is, naturally, greatly grieved to-day.

Y. M. C. A. DIRECTORS MEET.

Encouraging and Interesting Reports Presented.

An interesting and encouraging report of the work of the Y. M. C. A. was presented at the meeting of the Board of Directors held last evening.

The interest in the young men's meeting for the month of August was shown, by the average weekly attendance of 70, but also by requests for prayer and the interest in the after meetings that were held.

Ladies' Day at the Bowling Green.

Saturday was Ladies' Day at Schepplin's beautiful bowling green at Dunellen. A number of ladies were present. The ladies tried their skill at the game and several proved quite proficient. A collation was served on the lawn.

William Gillis and Charles Cashin were arrested at the depot about three o'clock this morning for being drunk and disorderly. Judge Coddington adjudged them both guilty and fined them three dollars each.

TWO-MILE BICYCLE RACE

BY TEAMS OF THREE FOR THE CHAMPIONSHIP OF UNION COUNTY.

The Race Will Take Place Saturday at Waverly.—The Prize is "the Saltonstall Cup," Offered by Mr. H. L. Saltonstall.

PLAINFIELD was represented by Messrs. J. J. Hibbitts and J. C. Traynor, of the Lyceum Cyclers, at the meeting held at Elizabeth, last night, to complete arrangements for a two mile bicycle race by teams of three for the championship of Union county. The prize is the "Saltonstall Cup," offered by Mr. H. L. Saltonstall of Elizabeth. The race is to be held next Saturday at Waverly.

The following amendments were adopted last night:

That no one shall be allowed to ride except residents of Union County.

That entries to close at the post the day of the race.

The conditions of the race are as follows:

1. That proper care shall be taken to prevent injury to, or loss of the emblem.

2. That the holders shall be ready to run at competitors once each year, on a date to be agreed upon by representatives of the various cycling clubs in Union county, N. J.

3. That the race shall be run in the township in which the headquarters of the team who are custodians of the prize, are situated.

4. That if a contestant be not contained in such township, the representatives of at least three clubs of Union county shall agree where the race shall be run. They shall also decide as to the suitability of the track.

5. That at any meeting of the cycling clubs of Union county, to arrange for competition for the said cup, each club shall be entitled to one representative; five representatives shall constitute a quorum; each representative shall have one vote, and a majority vote shall decide all questions; provided that if on any question the vote shall be a tie, the clubs shall appeal to Mr. H. L. Saltonstall to decide that question.

6. That if at any time during the term for which the cup is held, the club shall be dissolved, the emblem will be returned to the donor, to be again put up for competition.

7. That the following rules will be recognized as governing future competitions:

RULES.

1. The race shall be an annual track event.

2. The cup shall be won three times, not necessarily consecutively, to become the property of winning team.

3. Entries must be made to the Racing Board of the L. A. W. to score two-mile team race at the finish instead of at the end of mile lap, and sanction therefore granted it is ruled that this condition shall govern future competitions.

4. Two substitutes will be allowed each team.

5. Entries will close five days prior to the date of the race.

6. In all matters not provided for by the foregoing the rules of the L. A. W. shall govern.

A. F. CALKINS,
Capt. Elizabeth Wheelmen.

THE STORY OF A BICYCLE.

Sold for $85 and a Jew Now Has the Money.

The story of how Mr. Martin's bicycle was recovered is an interesting one. It seems that the thief took the bicycle to the firm of Keys & Brandon, New York, and sold it for $85, receiving a check in payment. The thief had the check certified at the bank and then went to a store kept by a Jew and bought some goods, tendering the check in payment. The Jew did not have money enough to cash it, but said he would take it to the bank and give his customer the change in the morning. Meanwhile Messrs Keys & Brandon, learning that the bicycle they had bought from the swindler had been stolen, went to the bank to have payment stopped on the check. They were too late, however, for the Jew had been there and got the money.

The man who had sold the bicycle to the firm, becoming suspicious, did not return to the store for his money, so the Jew is the winner by the transaction, and has the $85.

NO PRESIDENT ELECTED.

Annual Meeting of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The Woman's Christian Association held its annual meeting at the rooms on Watchung avenue yesterday.

PASSED A BAD $5 BILL.

TWO ITALIANS ARRESTED AT ROSELLE FOR COUNTERFEITING.

One of Them Gave the Name of Moore and Said he Lived in This City.—Now in the County Jail.

TWO men, John Moore and Louis Zitto, were arrested Saturday night by Constable Emile Werdinger of Roselle, midway between Roselle and Wheatsheaf, on a charge of passing a counterfeit five dollar bill at Stone's grocery in that village. The arrest made quite a sensation. The man who gave the name of Moore, which is alleged to be fictitious, gave Plainfield as his place of residence. Zitto lives at Railway. Both men are Italians. Zitto is a contractor and an employment agent, furnishing Italian laborers for railroad work and on other contract work. He passed the bill. He went into the grocery store and bought one-half pound of crackers and one half pound of cheese. The purchase amounted to fourteen cents, and he was given the change.

The bill presented by Zitto proved to be a bogus $5 silver certificate, and was soon discovered to be such. A search for the man was immediately made, and he was found on Chestnut street, going toward Wheatsheaf.

Zitto had no money at all, not even the 86 cents change which he received at the grocery, and he said he lost the money.

Both men denied any complicity in the offense alleged against them, and Zitto said he believed the bill to be good. He said it was given to him by his wife, but the investigation which has since the arrest been made by County Detective Keron shows this to have been false. Mrs. Zitto denies giving her husband the money. Both prisoners were taken to the county jail and are still prisoners there.

KAEDING FINED FIVE DOLLARS.

He Said it was Not his Desire to Have Disorderly Persons There.

KEEPING a disorderly house was the charge on which Charles Kaeding was tried last night before Brough Magistrate Crossley. Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed appeared for the borough.

Marshal Pangborn said that complaints had been made to him about the crowd that loitered in front of Kaeding's place and passed remarks about ladies as they passed. This same crowd drank beer in Kaeding's back room and created such a disturbance that neighbors were continually annoyed by them. The marshal also stated that he had nothing to say against the defendant, but against those who congregated there.

Mr. and Mrs. Paulson testified to the disturbance continually going on in Kaeding's back room. They keep a store next door and were constantly annoyed by the noise.

In his own defence Kaeding said he tried to make those who made the disturbance go away, but he had been unable to do so. It was not, he said, his desire to keep them there.

Justice Crossley sentencing Kaeding, told him that he could have assistance from the borough marshals at any time he asked, to keep undesirable persons from his place.

He was fined five dollars.

THE FALL CONFERENCE

Of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union to be Held in this City.

The Fall conference of the Union County Christian Endeavor Union will be held in this city on Friday evening, September 22. The address of the evening will be delivered by Rev. I. R. Dyott, of the First Methodist Protestant Church of Newark. The District Secretary, Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, of Netherwood, will speak on junior work. There will be added reports from delegates to the Montreal convention, and the singing will be led by a large chorus choir, selected from various societies in the county.

Refused to Appoint the Commission.

Not long ago Mr. George R. Pound of East Third street died very suddenly. His wife, Mrs. Josephine L. Pound, became insane from grief over her husband's death, and was committed to the insane asylum.

Recently her nephew, who is a lawyer, acting for the son, Mr. Robinson Pound, applied to Chancellor Magill for the appointment of a commission to take charge of her property.

Yesterday the Chancellor refused the application.

Fell from Exhaustion.

About half-past two yesterday afternoon a carrier pigeon fell into the yard of Mr. Herman Klinsman, on Wilson avenue. It was completely exhausted. Across the pigeon's wing was "A. S. L." and lengthwise of the wing were the figures "1893." It is of the blue rock breed and is now in Mr. Klinsman's loft.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Dr. Yerkes to Have an Assistant.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—The statement in the Daily Press of Monday concerning the visitations of Rev. Dr. Yerkes to the First Baptist church is liable to mislead and leave a wrong impression.

Please state that Rev. D. M. MacMurray has preached simply as a supply during part of Dr. Yerkes vacation.

The action of the church has simply been the appointment of a committee to enquire and report concerning an assistant, in view of Dr. Yerkes arduous duties. There is no such question as a new pastor, and it is the farthest from the desire of the church for Dr. Yerkes to withdraw from the pastorate.

In behalf of committee,
SAMUEL W. SERRELL.

Suggestions Contained in the Popular Summer Guide Book of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Complimented by the press and indorsed by tourists and practical travelers, the Summer Excursion book of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company of this year's issue has become, in consequence of the recommendations and the general worth, a most highly-prized compilation. With many and diversified routes, including every road and prominence within the great Summer belt of Eastern United States, each of those contemplating an early Fall trip as opportunity of choosing new and interesting means of combining their gratifications. Seaside hotels is appended to each resort, which it is self-evident adds materially to their value.

The month of September being probably the best month in the year in which to travel, increased facilities for this graphic production has become systematic, and that all may avail themselves of the manifold advantages to be derived from an inspection of its details and consider its elegant and complete descriptions of a thousand places within a radius of a thousand miles, the Passenger Railroad Company's Passenger Department will mail the book mentioned to any address upon receipt of 50 cents in stamps. A personal request, merely, with cost of postage added. Copies may also be obtained from ticket agents of the company.

Solve This.

It is to test the intelligence or ingenuity of those who respond, to enable us to determine what class of entertainment to provide to excite popular interest in a large prize which we are arranging to offer later.

Supply the missing words in the following verse:

A ——— sat in his ——— gray,
Where the ——— and the ——— play
On a jug that in the bushes lay,
Filled with ——— and ———.
"Thou ——— the weak, thou ——— the strong;
Thou ——— of great bulk to this song hoking,"
Such fear wrath to ——— took up the song
Of ——— conquerors, my king!

To work out the program one has to find six letters, which, by transposition, will supply suitable words for each blank. We have the solution, and invite lovers of such tests of skill to put on their thinking caps. With the necessary words supplied the verse is a complete and harmonious stanza. The names of all who secure the correct solution will be published in the News within a reasonable time.

Probable Candidates.

The Republicans talk of nominating ex Assemblyman George Kyte for State Senator from Union County. Ex Mayor Rockefellow is also mentioned. Ex Sheriff Ginsty of Elizabeth is spoken of for Sheriff. The Democrats at present are resolved not to renominate State Senator Fred Marsh. He is already County Prosecutor and City Attorney. The Race track men propose to nominate some one who will serve them, and are prepared to expend a large sum of money to elect him, if necessary. They count on those opposed to race tracks as not likely to make much of a contest, through lack of organization and indifference.

Roselle's Fountain Dedicated.

The new drinking fountain at Roselle on the Westfield road was dedicated Saturday evening at eight o'clock. The Roselle Band kindly volunteered its services and assembled in front of the Van Court Inn and marched in a body to the fountain. Speeches appropriate to the occasion were made by prominent citizens and fireworks were in abundance.

Will be Tried Next Friday.

On Friday next the suit of Miss Elizabeth C. Smith against Mr. Jesse Lederer for wages will be tried before Justice Mosher. Judge William A. Coddington represents Miss Smith and Mr. Reed will appear for the defendant. Miss Smith has another suit against Mr. Lederer for slander also.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Beautiful and Useful.

If you lived in a poor little place where there were swampy commons around the town, a stony hillside back of it, and in the midst of it a miserable, smoky railway station, with piles of ashes, cigar stumps, banana skins and old newspapers lying all around it under the very noses of the town marshal, the minister, the doctor and the postmaster, and it suddenly occurred to you that this kind of a town would not tempt people to it as a summer resort and would not tend to make the children of the natives want to stay there any longer than they could help or make them wish to come back there after they had got big enough to get away, neither would such a spot have a tendency to develop great poets, preachers, artists and inventors among the young ones whom adverse fate condemned to be born there, but would rather tend to make them lunatics, what would you do to change this forlorn condition?

That was a question discussed lately at one of the World's fair congresses. Plainly, in these times when organization is all and the individual nothing, the first thing to do would be to form a village improvement society. Such societies it is in every town of considerable size in California that have transformed almost that whole state into a resort for travelers. These go to the Pacific state from the uttermost parts of the earth, lured there by the parks, the gardens, the fruits and the excellent hotels and beautiful private homes. This whole country might be made as attractive outwardly as California, and it can be done by the village improvement society and the awakening of a decent public spirit among local rich people.

The village improvement society should have a small initiation fee and annual dues. That will be a working capital on which to begin. Start with draining the malarious mudholes around the town and in the yards. Next clean up the railway station and cover the patch of ground about it with turf, trees and flower beds. Create such a public spirit that not even the small boy will throw paper or rubbish into the streets. Then begin to work on the private homes and cause residents to tear down the ugly front fences and make their grounds beautiful for all. Rest not till you have secured good streets, a first class public library, literary society and reading club and have turned the sickly green marshes and stony hillside into a lovely town park. The rich men and women of your community will help you in every case, if properly approached. Every such forward striving village gets good roads leading into it, everything done to benefit its health and morals and please the esthetic sense, makes property therebouts more valuable.

Some of the towns and small cities that have thus been beautified and their people refined and elevated in consequence are well known. North Easton, Mass., was thus helped into beauty and fame by Oliver and Oakes Ames and their sons. The Fairbanks family spent much of the money received from the famous scales of their make in improving the sanitation and appearance of St. Johnsbury, Vt. Fairbanit is pronounced the model town of Minnesota because for 30 years Bishop Whipple has resided there and thrown all his knowledge and enthusiasm into making his home town attractive to himself and others. Sometimes the good work is done by a single individual or family—as in the cases mentioned. Occasionally town councils are enlightened enough to undertake it, and again the village improvement society does all.

If you belonged to the court of Great Britain and an unpleasant, gouty and grouty old brother-in-law of the reigning sovereign should die, then you would be included in the order printed in The Court Circular, telling those concerned how deeply they shall mourn as follows: "Ladies to wear black dresses, white gloves, black or white shoes, feathers and fans, pearls, diamonds, or plain gold or silver ornaments; gentlemen to wear black court dress, with black swords and buckles. The court will change the mourning on Sept. 9; Ladies to wear black dresses, with colored ribbons, flowers, feathers and ornaments, or gray or white dresses, with black ribbons, flowers, feathers and ornaments, gentlemen to continue same mourning. On Sept. 23 the court will go out of mourning."

Frederick Douglass gave one of his last public talks to the people of his race at Chicago during the day at the World's fair. Fred is now past 70 and in a comparatively few years will step off the stage. Where is the colored man who can take his place?

Argentina is a nice sort of republic, it is. The government there has forbidden the newspapers to publish any political or military news whatever and has established as strict a censorship of the press as if Argentina were the realm of the czar.

CREEDS ALL CAST ASIDE

A Remarkable Scene at the Religious Congress.

EVERY SECT IN THE PROCESSIONAL

Impressive Opening of the World's Parliament of Religions at the World's Fair. Cardinal Gibbons Led the Representatives of Many Nations In Prayer.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—A processional in which the religions of the world were represented marked the opening of the world's parliament of religions at the Art Institute. It was a processional that had a world of meaning in it; one that would have been impossible not many years ago. Jew marched with Gentile, and Catholic marched with Protestant. The religious beliefs of India, of China and of Japan were represented, as well as those of the English speaking nations. All, attired in their priestly robes and wearing the insignia of their office, marched in peace and fellowship to the platform, while the audience rose and cheered at the sight.

CARDINAL GIBBONS.

First came Cardinal Gibbons escorted by President Bonney. Then came Mrs. Potter Palmer and Mrs. Charles Hyde Bonney, representing the board of lady managers, and then the following with their suite:

Archbishop Redwood of New Zealand, Archbishop Diomede Latas of Greece, Rev. Henry Barrows of Chicago, Archbishop Feehan and Count A. Bolnstorff of Berlin, Dr. Carl von Bergen of Sweden, Professor C. N. Chakravar, D. Dharmapala and P. C. Mozoomdar of India, Rev. Augusta J. Chapin of Chicago, Rev. Alexander D. McKenzie and Pung Quang Yu of China, Dr. E. G. Hirsch of Chicago, Miss Jeanne Sakrabji and Khersedji Laugraus of Bombay, Bishop B. W. Arnett and Mrs. Laura Orniston Chenoweth.

All Nations at Prayer.

Even more inspiring was the scene when the vast audience arose and joined in singing "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow," and later when Cardinal Gibbons led those of all nations and all religions in reciting the Lord's Prayer.

The regular proceedings of the parliament of religions were opened auspiciously by an invocation by Cardinal Gibbons and addresses by President C. C. Bonney and religious lights from various parts of the world.

There was not a vacant seat in the hall, and the walls were fringed with people standing up when Clarence Eddy took his seat at the organ and played a selection preliminary to the processional, with which the proceedings were ushered in.

Archbishop Feehan welcomed the delegates on behalf of the Catholic church. He said that the assembly was one unique in the history of the world. Letters and papers had come from all countries to speak and to tell us of those things that were of the greatest interest to all—of God, of his truth and justice, of peace and of mercy.

Sentiments From Cardinal Gibbons.

Cardinal Gibbons had to leave early, so his address of formal welcome was called for out of its order. He said that though all did not agree on matters of faith, there was one platform on which all were united—that was charity, humanity and benevolence.

He said that he could not impress too strongly on every one that such was his brother's hope. That was the whole history of humanity. If Christ had cried with Cain, "Am I my brother's keeper" we would be walking in darkness. The Rev. Augusta J. Chapin welcomed the congress on behalf of the women. President Higginbotham of the Columbian exposition next welcomed the delegates on behalf of the exposition.

The Rev. Alexander McKenzie, the next speaker, said he stood for the old settlers, the Puritans. The Archbishop of Zante expressed his thanks for the invitation which enabled him to take part in the proceedings. No speaker on the programme was greeted with such applause as was Pung Quang Yu, secretary of the Chinese legation at Washington. For nearly half the people in the hall rose and cheered and waved their handkerchiefs as the delegate advanced to the front of the platform.

Silver Day Not a Success.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Silver day as the fair term is now is a day of small attendance. When Governor Prince of New Mexico called the meeting to order, there were five men on the platform, nine in the audience seats, including reporters, and two young women.

The Ferris Wheel For Coney Island.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 12.—Governor Tillman has accepted the proffered services of the National Red Cross society for work in behalf of South Carolina flood sufferers.

The New York Campaign Opened.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The Republican State committee has opened its headquarters at room 9, 2,126 Avenue hotel.

THE BOOTHS OPEN.

Thousands of Boomers Are Now Registering Every Day.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 12.—Booth No. 19 for the registration of settlers for the Cherokee strip has been opened. This booth is composed of three tents, with two clerks in each. Around each tent is a small fence containing five gates for entrance, and at each gate is stationed a guard to keep order, but this appears to be unnecessary, as the settlers are very quiet and good natured. To each tent there is a line of people from one to two miles in length.

John B. Cameron of Kansas City was the first to register. A man was registered in from one to three minutes. Half of the settlers here cannot get registered at this rate. Colonel Gallagher, who has charge of the booth, promises re-enforcements. He expects sufficient force to register 5,000 people today. Should he register that number each day from now until the 16th, he would probably get the crowd registered. It is estimated that 5,000 people came in Monday and Sunday. Sunday. When the booths closed last evening and nearly 2,000 people had registered. Miss Kate Durand of this city was the first woman to register.

One woman, while waiting to register, dropped dead from the heat.

Organizations are being perfected here to do co-operative work. This organization will send scouts in the strip before noon Saturday and spy upon the boomers. There will be trouble should any be caught. Reports from nearly every town and village throughout this section are full of complaints about the depredations being wrought by boomers bound for the strip. Horses have been stolen by scores, cattle killed and parts taken away, hogs taken, grain bins despoiled and hen roosts ransacked.

A BIG DEAL.

A Scheme to Monopolize the Distribution of Niagara's Power.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The Advertiser says today: At last the hitherto unexplained delay in the testing of electrical appliances for the canals, and the also unexplained presence in the bill of a "rider" giving to the superintendent of public works the power to grant to any corporation the right to erect poles and string wires along the canals, have come to light. As was to be supposed, there was a deal in it, and the bottom of the whole thing is a gigantic monopoly.

Some time ago there was incorporated a company called the Niagara Falls Light and Power company, and which it was supposed was to furnish the power for local manufacturing concerns, or, at the very outside, for concerns in the city of Buffalo.

It is now learned that the company proposes to furnish the state at large with electrical power developed by the falls and that they expect the superintendent of public works to grant them, without any competition whatever, the right of the canal banks for the erection of their electrical conduits, thus saving them a vast amount of money for the purchase of such a franchise and a great deal of legal trouble also. The immensity of this grant, for which the state expects to receive no compensation, can readily be seen.

Both the superintendent of public works and the state engineer assert that they do not know how the clause got into the bill, but it was there when the governor signed it and is there now.

Fifty-one Brazilian Rebels Shot.

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 12.—Brazil's naval rebels are having a hard time of it. Hemmed in within the bay of Rio, they fear to run the gantlet of forts and torpedoes at the entrance and put out to sea, and an attempt to land has been repulsed with considerable loss of life. The Brazilian minister here received a telegram saying that the rebel squadron had fired upon Niethroy. Niethroy is a suburban town near the entrances to the harbor of Rio. The insurgents then tried to effect a landing with some of their men from small boats, but were repulsed by the police, re-enforced by some troops with Krupp guns. Fifty-one of the rebels were killed, and 30 more were wounded.

Maurice Ketchum's Widow Dead.

WESTPORT, Conn., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Maurice Ketchum died at her residence here, Hockanum, the old Ketchum mansion. Deceased was the widow of the late Maurice Ketchum, a Wall street banker and several times millionaire, who lost most of his enormous fortune on Black Friday and died shortly after from the shock a comparatively poor man.

A Posse After Young Walsh's Murderers.

TRINIDAD, Colo., Sept. 12.—One hundred armed men, with provisions and ammunition for a long chase, under command of the sheriff of Colfax county and Deputy Sheriff Stafford of this county, will invade the Vermejo country near Raton and Virginia, the murderers of young Walsh of St. Louis, who was killed last week. A lively fight is looked for.

Made a Bee of a Cocktail.

BOSTON, Sept. 12.—An attempt was made to escape from the state prison by William Timmins, Frank Ritchie, Henry Taylor (colored) and Dick Drohan, all long term convicts, while in point of attendance. He saw out of an old gooseknife and cut off one bar of his cell, with which he broke the lock on his own and the three other prisoners' cells.

A Prize Pig on the Nomadic.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The steamer Nomadic, which just arrived, brings 12 brood mares, 11 foals and 9 yearlings, consigned to Marcus Daly, also a thoroughbred stallion, consigned to Colonel Bruce, and 1 prize pig 8 feet long and 4 feet high for the World's fair.

The World's Fair Trains.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The World's fair trains will be continued until Oct. 22.

AN INSULT TO THE DEAD

Young Doctors In an Asylum Danced Around a Corpse.

THEY HELD A GHOULISH ORGY.

An Investigation In the Flatbush Asylum Brings Out Some Horrible Details and Results In the Resignation of Two Young Physicians—Nurses Witnessed the Scene.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The Press says today:

The report of a revolting orgy, which is said to have occurred at the Flatbush asylum, has been made public in Brooklyn. The officials who were questioned about it denied the report, but they admitted that two young physicians had resigned from the staff after the investigation had been made by Superintendent Sylvester.

A week ago Mary Hamilton, an aged inmate of the asylum, died from a complication of diseases. The body was removed to the deadhouse. It is said that several attaches, including two physicians, ranged themselves around the slab on which the body was placed and danced like Sioux Indians.

Insulted the Dead.

The orgy did not stop here. One man put a pipe in the dead woman's mouth, and his colleagues roared at what they considered "a good joke." Another more fastidious placed a removed the pipe and inserted a lighted cigarette between the woman's lips.

The body was interred next day, and nothing more was thought about the affair until a few days ago, when the news of the alleged orgy leaked out. The employees exchanged stories of the affair.

Monday morning Superintendent Sylvester began an investigation to learn if possible what civilized man would be guilty of such atrocious conduct as was alleged. Almost anything might be looked for in the Flatbush asylum, some alleged, but Dr. Sylvester thought there were limits beyond which no man would go.

The investigation was carried on with great secrecy, and at its conclusion Dr. Sylvester sent a report to President H. F. Gott of the commission of lunacy in Brooklyn. Colonel Gott was questioned in regard to the affair, but he declared he knew nothing about the details.

Two Doctors Resign.

Later, he said, Drs. Waldron and Porter had resigned from the asylum staff after Dr. Sylvester finished his inquiry. It is not stated whether or not they knew of or had participated in the alleged orgy. Colonel Gott only knew that they had resigned.

Dr. Sylvester denied himself to all who called to inquire about the affair. In the evening a reporter was told that Dr. Sylvester had gone to Brooklyn and would not return until today.

Secretary Bernard Lamb of the charities commission was questioned. "It's all on account of that cigarette affair," said he. "While the doctors were laughing and joking and playing tricks upon the dead bodies they were not aware that a hospital nurse was looking at them. Such jokes are not appreciated at the asylum."

WEEKS WILL COME BACK.

The Absconding President Caught and Held In Costa Rica.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Francis H. Weeks, the absconding president of the Wall Superior Land and Improvement company, has been located in Costa Rica and is under close surveillance pending the arrival of the extradition papers. The latter are now in process of preparation in the district attorney's office. The warrants have already been forwarded, and Weeks will be lodged in jail until he is given over to the custody of the United States authorities.

The fact that Weeks had been traced was communicated in a telegram received by District Attorney Nicoll from the state department in Washington and bore Secretary Gresham's signature.

It was learned that Weeks had been traced to the little town of San Jose, in the republic of Costa Rica. The United States minister to Costa Rica has been requested to take the necessary steps preparatory to the arrival of the extradition papers toward having Weeks handed over to the United States authorities.

Weeks was president of the West Superior Land and Improvement and Iron and Steel company when the amount of Weeks' indebtedness, including petty debts to his servants and others at Gold Spring, N. Y., amounts to $1,980,653.60.

Cannon Re-publishes the Manifesto.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—M. V. Gannon of Chicago, president of the Irish-American League of America, says he republishes the manifesto, purporting to come from the executive committee of the Irish-American League of America, which was sent out from New York city, denouncing the home rule bill and Mr. Gladstone.

Suicide of General McCoy of Tyrone.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 12.—General Robert A. McCoy of Tyrone, cashier of the Blair County Banking company, was found at his bedside with a bullet hole in his forehead and revolver by his side. It is supposed that he took his life on account of the loss of his family, who have all died recently.

IT IS THE VIGILANT.

She Is Chosen to Defend the Cup Against the Valkyrie.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—There will be no more trial races. The great white sloop Vigilant, the fleetest of all the yachts which the genius of the blind boatbuilder of Bristol has produced, has been officially chosen as the boat to defend the America's cup. Her crowning victory was won when over a tumbling and wind swept ocean she showed her mighty superiority over her antagonist Valkyrie III in an excellent day to test yachts. The wind blew steady and strong, and the seas rolled in from the eastward in a way that made the racers and their attendant train of excursion steamers, tugs and yachts pitch and roll to the tossing and tumbling of the billows.

The Boston fin keels did not stand the test. Accidents happened to the Jubilee which led her to make a poorer showing than she otherwise would have done, but taking out of consideration these accidents she is no way showed that she was a boat upon which the hopes of the country could be safely pinned.

The Pilgrim, the extreme of the fin keels, proved that she was the first and last of her type that would ever be built of her size. She was a bold and daring experiment, and she is a failure. The Colonia did well for a keelboat of her size, but the possibilities of a centerboard on a boat over 90 feet were fully exemplified in the way the Vigilant beat her.

Lord Dunraven's English cutter Valkyrie, which will contest with the Vigilant for the America's cup on Sept. 28, is not expected here for two days, although she sailed from London 19 days ago. Experts do not expect her to make the voyage in less than 20 days.

MADE HER EAT.

Mrs. Halliday Had Been Taking Only One Meal a Day.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Mrs. Halliday was examined by Dr. S. A. McWilliams, health officer of Sullivan county. After an examination of two hours he stated that Mrs. Halliday was in perfect physical health, but would not commit himself in regard to her sanity.

Since her imprisonment Mrs. Halliday has refused to eat more than one meal a day. Fearing that this course would result in serious illness to the prisoner, Sheriff Bereby procured the services of a physician, who, assisted by the sheriff and District Attorney Hill, administered nourishment to her forcibly.

Hundreds of people daily are visiting Monticello in the hope of seeing the prisoner. Rev. J. F. McLaughlin, the priest in charge of St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, called upon Mrs. Halliday and endeavored to engage her in conversation, but the woman would not speak to him. It is said that extra efforts will be made to have the prisoner tried at this term of court before Judge Furman.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The jury in the Paul Halliday case brought in a verdict charging Jamie Halliday with murder and declaring that the crime was premeditated.

THE CUT IN FORCE.

Only the Spinners Escaped More Than a 10 Per Cent Reduction.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 12.—There is much excitement among weavers in this city in regard to the outdown in the several cotton mills. Nearly all the mills are running, but it is claimed that in some of them, while the spinners received only the agreed upon 10 per cent cut, the weavers, doffers and back boys' cuts will average much more, in some instances the cut of these operatives being as high as 18 or 20 per cent.

The exception to this is at the Howland, Rotchs and New Bedford Manufacturing companies' mills, where the operatives say the cut is but 10 per cent straight for all.

At the Acushnet mill the back boys and doffers inaugurated a strike, and it would take little to precipitate one among the help outside the spinners in all the mills except the Howland, Rotchs and New Bedford Manufacturing companies. The weavers claim the reason the cut of the spinners is but 10 per cent is because their union is well organized and powerful.

The Mayor Was Too Busy.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 12.—Eight hundred unemployed workmen met at Workmans hall to hear what reply Mayor Mosby had for their demand for work. The mayor sent word that he was too busy to attend the meeting, but promised to have the police take a census of destitute persons. It was decided that all present, with their wives and children, parade on some day to be selected by the mayor's office and demand work or food.

Big Blaze in Pullman.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Fire broke out in the Pullman company's lumber yards in the suburb of Pullman, and for several hours the great shops were threatened with destruction. Engines were sent from Hyde Park, South Chicago and Chicago. After a hard fight the shops were out of danger. About one-half of the company's lumber yard has been destroyed.

Flocking Back to Europe.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Dr. Joseph H. Senner, commissioner of immigration, says that it is a remarkable fact that the emigration from this port is much larger than the immigration. Such a condition of things he said, has not before been known in the history of the country.

Cotton in Rhode Island Mills.

PROVIDENCE, Sept. 12.—The Lonsdale company and the firm of B. B. & R. Knight have posted notices in their mills that a 10 per cent reduction would go into effect Sept. 25. The other manufacturers will all doubtless take similar action.

Italians Attacked Hens.

ROME, Sept. 12.—A mob of Italians attacked a number of Hungarian peasants at Delmyno and tried to destroy the town hall. The row was quelled by troops, but not before 50 persons had been wounded.

An International Cricket Match.

TORONTO, Sept. 12.—On the Rosedale grounds is in progress the twentieth annual international cricket match between teams representing Canada and the United States.

Coal Miners on Strike.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 12.—The coal miners' strike has been inaugurated, and about 4,000 men are idle. The strike is confined to the railroad mines.

Fire on Squirrel Island.

SQUIRREL ISLAND, Me., Sept. 12.—The Chase House, owned by K. P. Richards, and seven cottages were burned here.

Kansas Will Celebrate a Week.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—Kansas has begun its week's celebration at the fair.

HILL'S LATEST MOVE.

An Apparent Breaking Away From the Silverites.

TWO CRUISERS ORDERED TO RIO.

The Detroit Sent Off in a Hurry to the Scene of Revolution—The White House Baby Doing Well—The Chinese Minister Hears Some Satisfactory News.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The senior senator from New York broke off from his imputed alliance with the extreme wing of the silver senators. Mr. Stewart of Nevada offered a resolution for an inquiry into the fact of senators being stockholders in national banks. Mr. Hill opposed the resolution in a strong speech as being unnecessary, unprecedented and a gross reflection on the senate. The resolution went over, and it will come up in the regular morning business.

The bill for the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman law was taken up, and Mr. Pugh, a member of the finance committee, made a 2½ hours' speech against it, declaring at the close that it was the deliberate and unalterable purpose of the opponents of repeal to oppose it until their physical strength was exhausted and their power of speech gone.

Teller Will Speak Again.

The remainder of the session was occupied in a continuation of Mr. Teller's speech against the bill. He did not conclude, but said he would take up another phase of the question on some other day. Then the senate adjourned.

The session of the house was brief. It was expected that a report from the committee on accounts among the committees that were entitled to clerks might lead to an acrimonious debate, but owing to the absence of Mr. Ruck the report was not brought in.

The colored representative from South Carolina, Mr. Murray, attempted to get consideration for a joint resolution appropriating $200,000 for the relief of the cyclone sufferers in the south, but Mr. Kilgore objected, and the resolution was referred. The house then adjourned.

Two Cruisers to Rio.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Orders were sent from the navy department to the commander of the United States cruiser Detroit at Norfolk directing that the vessel be made ready for sea in the quickest possible time in order to sail without delay for Rio de Janeiro to protect American interests there during the revolution. The Detroit is nearly ready for sailing and will probably be ready to leave Norfolk for Rio today or tomorrow. The Newark, also at Norfolk, is being rapidly fitted for service and will sail for Brazil within a day or two after the Detroit leaves.

The White House Baby.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The White House baby is doing well, and so is Mrs. Cleveland. Mrs. Perrine is now with her daughter and will remain until she is able to be up and about. Telegrams and letters are still being delivered at the White House from people in all parts of the country congratulating the president and Mrs. Cleveland on the new accession to their family. No messages from foreign governments have yet come to hand, but several are expected by mail in due course of time.

Election Law Repeal Bills.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Acting Chairman Tucker has called a meeting of the committee on election of president and vice president and representatives in congress today to consider the various bills introduced for the repeal of the federal election laws. It is hoped by leaders of the house that a report will be made from the committee to the house at its session today, so that the consideration of the subject may be proceeded with at the earliest possible date.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

New York—George H. Pinckney, Amsterdam; Jesse Bliss, Bliss; Fred E. Bostardus, Brasie Corners; David Cipperly, Decatur; William D. Bleuing, Dunnsville; John F. Green, Java Village; Marcus Stowell, Lindley; G. F. Allen, Merritt Corners; E. H. Smith, Painted Post; Harley B. Robinson, Tracy Creek; J. E. O'Neil, West Hurley.

Pennsylvania—J. Kerr McFarland, Burgettstown; H. A. Moore, Howard.

Yang Yu Was Pleased.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Yang Yu, the new Chinese minister, had a very satisfactory interview with Secretary Gresham on the matter of enforcing the Chinese exclusion law. The secretary communicated to the minister the decision of the president that the law should not be enforced pending further action by congress, and further more that the recent order for the deportation of Chinese from the Pacific coast had been suspended for the present.

Presidential Nominations.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The president sent to the senate the following appointments:

Charles H. J. Taylor of Kansas, United States minister to Bolivia.

James Butcher of New Jersey, collector of internal revenue for the first district of New Jersey.

Charles B. Aycock, United States attorney for the eastern district of North Carolina.

Finances Improving.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—In touch with the revival of business the treasury department, according to the 10 days' statement just issued, shows decided improvement from the 1st of the month. The gold reserve has increased more than $2,000,000, standing at $98,000,000. The currency balance has slightly decreased, but the net balance shows an improvement of $1,600,000.

The Mexican Boundary Trouble.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The hostile feature of the Mexican boundary trouble has been removed, and the matter will proceed to settlement on a diplomatic basis.

Surgeon Parke Is Dead.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—Surgeon-General Parke, who was a member of both the Stanley and Emin expeditions in Africa, died suddenly while visiting the Duke of St. Albans at Alta Crag.

The Bankers' Convention.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The American Bankers' association will hold its deferred nineteenth annual convention at Chicago on Oct. 18 and 19.

A Farmer Takes Paris Green.

HIGHTSTOWN, N. J., Sept. 12.—William H. Bryant, a well to do farmer, committed suicide by taking paris green.

The Case Not Well.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 12.—The czar is indisposed and is unable to attend a court banquet given in his honor.

Salvationists May Parade.

JERSEY CITY, Sept. 12.—A large and enthusiastic meeting was held at the Bergen Reformed church to protest against the arrest of members of the Salvation Army. A resolution was adopted calling on the police authorities to allow the Salvation Army to parade, and a committee was appointed to present it to the board. When President John P. Feeney was told this, he said the Salvation Army would be given permission to parade when it pleased and it should be furnished with police protection

Ross Wants to Be Naturalized.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 12.—Judge Buffington of the United States district court has the petition for naturalization of Hugh Ross of Homestead under consideration. Ross was a member of the famous advisory board. He was indicted for murder, treason, conspiracy and riot, and he is the man who made the information against the Carnegie officials and the Pinkertons.

FICKLE BILL VAN LOON.

A Story of Unrequited Love and Disappointment.

While driving from Guerille to Coverly's Corners, in the big hemlock belt of Pennsylvania, I was approaching a backwoods farmhouse that stood near the road when a shockheaded boy, about sixteen years old, came running toward me from the house. He threw up one hand and yelled:

"Hey, there! Hold on a spell!"

I stopped my horse.

"Be you a squire?" he asked eagerly.

I was compelled to confess that I was not.

"Lawyer?"

"Not a lawyer, either."

"Not even a dominie?" persisted the boy, looking disappointed.

"No," said I. "Not even a dominie."

"This is all fired hard luck!" exclaimed the boy. "We've got Bill in the humor now, an if you was only a squire or a lawyer or a dominie we would ollinch the thing right here an have him high an dry."

Just then a lean, lank and sallow middle aged woman came to the door of the house, and peering over her shoulder was a handsome red cheeked girl not more than eighteen.

"Is he a squire, Sim?" screamed the woman.

"Naw!" replied the boy, in a tone of disgust, "He hain't even a dominie!"

"Shucks!" exclaimed the woman; "if we hadn't 'a' wanted one all powerful bad jist now, every squire in the township 'd been nosin 'round here 'lectioneerin, and not less than half a dozen dominies 'd ben droppin in for dinner, an wantin yaller leg chickens at that. Now here's Bill, chuck crither than milk in a thunderstorm, an if we don't clinch him now he'll be jist like him to back out an play blackberrin som'eres else! Shucks, I say! This is down hard luck, even for these sun hot harrens!"

"Is some one dying?" I asked, not knowing just what to say, with the light I had.

"Not p'ticklar dyin for sure," put in the red cheeked girl, "but jist dyin to hev Bill Van Loon an his clearin clinched while he's in the humor."

"Weddin!" remarked the shockheaded boy sententiously. "Leastways, there would be one if you was only a squire or even a dominie."

They seemed to hold it up against me because I was inconsiderate enough not to have been either one or the other.

"Where's the bride?" I asked the boy. The red cheeked girl in the doorway overheard the question and answered it herself.

"I'm her!" she said. "Perridin I could git Bill clinched right now."

"Where's the happy bridegroom," I asked.

"I dunno as he's so overpowerin happy," said the shockheaded boy; "but he's out with pop, lookin the clearin over."

It was only three miles to Coverly's Corners, and I restored a degree of cheerfulness to the eager family by saying that if it would be of any service to them I would fetch a squire or a dominie to their house as soon as I could drive to the Corners and back.

"Gosh!" exclaimed the red cheeked girl. "If ye do that ye kin kiss the bride! Not now!" she said, as I began to climb down out of the wagon. "When ye come back!"

"I'll fetch a squire," I said, "or kill a horse!"

I didn't lose any time in getting to the Corners. If I was interested in having that pretty, red cheeked girl clinch the trifling Bill Van Loon, although he didn't deserve, such luck. I wasn't entirely disinterested either, for Billy had said that I could kiss the bride, and she was a decidedly kissable person. The boy who had come with me seemed to have a better opinion of a squire's efficiency in the emergency than he had of a dominie's, soon found the former and back we started with the important official. I didn't spare the horse, and we got back to the clearing in good time. Sally's mother met us at the door. She was severe and gloomy.

"Turn round an go back!" she said. "Yer too late!"

Sally sat on a chair kicking her heels against the floor in a loud and spiteful tattoo. She was squealing and sobbing, and her cheeks were fiery.

"I wouldn't 'a' kerred a snap," she sobbed, "but I know he'll go an marry that sniffin, redheaded Kit Cooley, conserns his fascinated pleasur! An it's all your fault, ye keerless Sim, you!" she exclaimed, turning on her shockheaded and surprised brother. "Ye went an left a half turnip in the cow's chop, an she went an choked on it! Boo-woo! B-o-o-o-o!"

The iron hand of fate had indeed closed on the family with remorseless clutch. While I was driving my horse well nigh to death, so that Bill Van Loon might be clinched while he was in the humor, what should the Jersey cow up and do but choke to death on a turnip.

"Well," the businesslike Mr. Van Loon had said, "of course that's all the be to it" and he walked away to open negotiations elsewhere.

It had never occurred to me before, but I feel it now, that a man can't travel in that part of the country and do as others as he would be done by unless he is either a squire or a dominie. If I had been either one or t'other on that trip, Sally would have been the mistress of Bill Van Loon's farm. And better than all, she'd have kissed me!—Ed Mott in New York Sun.

A Summer Night.

The quiet shadows wrap the dainted lea,
Fewest birds all have hushed to silence deep,
And wearied with their play beside the sea
The little children sleep.

Now rocking, rocking far across the bay,
The brown sail'd fishing boats are out to-night;
The moonbeams make for them a shining way,
And stars are golden bright.

O father, toiling at the midnight hour!
O sailor, while we pastoral sleep—
May he who holds the ocean in his power
Your lives from danger keep.

In morning glow fair breezes speed you home,
Gliding so gayly o'er the sunlit sea,
While loving ones who long to see you come,
Stand waiting on the quay.

Dear little children! ye who safely share
The warm home nest, wherein ye sheltered are,
Before ye sleep, oh, lift to God a prayer
For lives at sea afar!

VARIOUS VERSES.

The St. Joe Gazette.

When I helped 'em run the local on the St. Joe Gazette,
I was soon familiar terms with ever one I met;
For "items" were my stock in trade in that my callow time
Before the muse tempted me to try my hand at rhyme:
Before I found in verses
These soothing, gracious morsels
Less practical but much more glorious than a well filled purse is.
A voice of Delaware, I hustled 'round and sweat
And helped 'em run the local on the St. Joe Gazette.

The labors of the day began at half past 8 a. m.,
For the farmers came in early and I had to tackle them;
And many a noble bit of news I managed to acquire
By the discreet attentions which all farmers folk admire;
With my daily commentary
On affairs of farm and dairy—
The tone of which soon with subtle patterns I'd vary—
Oh, merry a peck of apples and of peaches did I get,
When I helped 'em run the local on the St. Joe Gazette!

Dramatic news was scarce, but when a minstrel show was due,
Why, Milton Tootle's opera house was then in view;
Judge Grubb would give me points about the legal cases
And Dr. Runele let me print his sermons when I'd spaces;
Of favors, fractures, humors,
Concussions, fits and tumors,
Would Dr. Hall or Dr. Baines confirm or nail
From Colonel Dawes what railroad news there was I used to get,
When I helped 'em run the local on the St. Joe Gazette.

For "personals" the old Pacific House was just the place;
Pap Abell knew the pedigrees of all the human race;
And when he'd gile up all he had, he'd drop a whole column
And load the way where one might eat one's whistle with a shriek!
There drinks at the Pacific,
When days were calorific,
Were what Pittsburg beer became my French! would call "magnifique!"
And frequently an invitation to a meal I'd get,
When I helped 'em run the local on the St. Joe Gazette.

And when in rainy weather news was scarce as well as slow,
To Sexton's bank or Hopkins' store for items would I go;
The jokes which Colonel Sexton told were old, but good enough
For local applications, in lieu of better stuff.
And often the dutch were flying
On the flatter well worth trying—
Gosh! but those "sports" at Hopkins' store could beat the world at lying!
And I—I printed all their yarns (though not without regret),
When I helped 'em run the local on the St. Joe Gazette!

for squibs political I'd go to Colonel Waller Young,
Or Colonel James N. Barnes, the "statesman with the silver tongue;"
Should some ole pioneer take sick and die—why, then I'd call
On Frank M. Pugsley for the "life"—an Pomgold for "log all!"
Or Tailor Smith to pony
Up descriptions that were tonsy,
Of toilets worn at party, ball or conversazione!
For the ladies were addicted to the style called "Shoshonie,"
When I helped 'em run the local on the St. Joe Gazette.

So was I wont my daily round of labor to pursue,
And, when rainy nicht, I found that there were still more ways to do;
The following to write, yardsand yards of proof to read
And reprint to be gathered to suit the print ers' greed—
Oh, but it takes call
Combined with versatility
To run a country daily with a respectable ability!
There never was a smarter lot of editors, I'll bet,
Than we who whooped up local on the St. Joe Gazette!

Yes, sair be it was irksome; may be a discontent
Rebellious rose amid the toil I daily underwent;
If so, I don't remember—this only do I know:
My thoughts turn ever fondly to that time in old St. Joe.
The years that speed so fleetly
Have blunted not consciously
All else than that which still remains to solace me so sweetly:
The friendship of that time—oh me! they are no more as once are yet
As when I was a local on the St. Joe Gazette!

Mush and Milk.

How dear to my heart is that kettle of pudding,
In childhood's familiarly chronicled "mush,"
Which either with milk or molasses was eaten,
To waken the praises of children with gush.
For dinner, for supper and even for breakfast,
It stood o'er the hungriest for a "square meal,"
And sometimes all unalloyed it tickled
As much as is after life does the Gold Seal.
That kettle of pudding, of dear hasty pudding,
That blest hot pudding of yellow cornmeal.

That dear hasty pudding! How often I made it
In childhood when longing for something to do!
The water I poured in a big iron kettle,
And salted it slightly—a big pinch or two—
And then, when 'twas boiling with right hand I stirred it in,
While in with the left sprinkling rich yellow meal.
The while it fast boiled and blubbered and threatened
To burn on the bottom if I relaxed zeal—
That dear hasty pudding, that splattering pudding,
That old blubbering pudding of yellow cornmeal.

How often at night when returned from my plowing,
Or hoeing or haying or harvesting e'en,
I met on the back porch the maid from the milking,
Who seemed in my eyes then a veritable queen!
Her full Jamaica milk pail—I proudly seized it,
And tasted not a gallon for my evening meal,
And then from the kettle I scooped out the pudding,
And ate with a relish I never now feel—
That lordly old pudding, of dear hasty pudding,
That blest pot of pudding of yellow cornmeal.

Those days—how dear memory's halo around them
Is glowing and gleaming in life's afternoon!
And visions the choicest seem instinct while thinking
Of dear mush and milk and an old iron spoon.
For never the luxuries and pomps of dyspepsia,
Came with their tauntings life's west to shun,
When good healthy hunger in healthfulness vanished
Before the best milk and mush made of cornmeal—
That mush known as pudding, as nice hasty pudding,
That blest hasty pudding of yellow cornmeal.

What Willie Thought.

A thunderstorm came up very suddenly, accompanied by a high wind. When the black clouds rolled over the sun and it became dark as night, Willie said nothing, but evidently remarked to his mother, "The wind blowed the sun out."

HOW SHE REFUSED HIM.

'Twas at a ball they met one night
She seemed an angel to Ed'ar
As poet's wildest, fondest dream;
Her lovely ears kissed locks
Curled artlessly in dalliry waves
Her sweet blue eyes above,
And while he gazed in ecstasy
The band played
"Woman's Love."

And when he ventured to request
The favor of a dance,
She acquiesced so charmingly,
With such a well placed glance,
His heart leaped into his throat,
No longer did he mope;
And while he "mitographed" her card
The band played
"Waltz and Hope."

And then, when in the many waltz
Her form so full of grace
He pressed, and watched the strains come
And go upon her face,
He felt as though he'd like to make
The waltz last for ages,
"But how?" he pondered, and the band Played "Love
"Will Find the Way."

The dance being over, they sat down
To have a little chat,
And every topic they discussed
She seemed to have down "pat."
His brain just whirled with delight,
So dazed she did she seem,
And while he sat enraptured, thrilled,
The band played
"Love's Young Dream."

The time flew by, he took no note
Of how it went,
He only felt a sense of joy,
Of peace and great content;
He floated on the waltz up to
To make her his forever,
And while she smiled her sweetest smile
The band played
"Now or Never."

They strolled together, arm in arm,
Far from the ballroom's glare,
And found a corner in the cool
Conservatory,
Mid flowering plants and rustling leaves,
His form with fear vibrating.
He told her love and her, and
The band played,
Softly—
"Waiting."

He said, "Oh, will you be my own
Dear, loving little wife?"
And shall it be, dear, hand in hand,
Adown the stream of life?"
She smiled again, the same sweet smile,
At all his language flowed,
Then said, "I'll be—a sister"—and
The band played
"Annie Laurie."

Woman's Sonnet.

Once a poet wrote a sonnet
All about a pretty bonnet.
And a critic sat upon it
(On the sonnet,
Not the bonnet),
Nothing Death.

And as if it were high treason
Said, "Neither rhyme nor reason
Has it, and it's out of season!"
Whist! The sonnet
Or the bonnet?
Maybe both.

"'Tis a feeble imitation
Of a worthless creation—
An aesthetic innovation."
Of a sonnet
Or a bonnet?
This was hard.

Both were put together neatly,
Harmonizing very sweetly,
But this critic combined completely,
Not the bonnet
Or the sonnet,
But the bard.

MISSIONARIES TO JAPAN.

Two New Market Young Ladies Leave for Yokohama.

T IS but a few days ago that Miss Mamie Coriell and Miss Carpenter of New Market, full of hope and enthusiasm, left for Yokohama, as missionaries from the New Market Baptist church.

Miss Coriell is about 29 years old, and was the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Coriell, long residents of New Market. Mrs. Coriell, as old residents of the county will remember, was murdered by Bridget Durgan, her servant, about 28 years ago, when Minnie was a year old.

Miss Coriell got her early education in Binghamton, N. Y., and also went to Peddie Institute. After her father's death Miss Coriell, of New Market, was made her guardian. Later when she went to live with her aunt in Philadelphia the guardianship was transferred to a gentleman in that city.

Of late years Miss Coriell's ambitions were directed towards the missionary field. For the last six months she has lived with Abner Coriell. She and Miss Carpenter are bright, amiable women whom the people in the Baptist denomination especially wish success.

BREVITIES.

—Hunting's circus to-morrow.

—The City Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting next Monday night.

—Squirrel shooting in this State commences Sept. 15th. It was legal to shoot them in Pennsylvania last Friday.

—The foliage on a the trees has already begun to change, and the will soon be time for the "sere and yellow leaf."

—Nothing more is heard regarding that proposed electric railway between this city and Elizabeth talked of some time ago.

—The Board of Trade will formally open their rooms on East Second street to-morrow night. Mayor Gilbert will make an address.

—The monthly business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 20 o'clock in the rooms corner of Watchung avenue and Fourth street.

—Mr. Isaac D. Titsworth of Dunellen, while stepping from a carriage on East Front street, yesterday, fell and struck his head on the curbstone. He was also quite severely shook up about the body. His wound was dressed at a nearby drug store. Mr. Titsworth is an old gentleman and was formerly President of the First National Bank of this city.

—Saturday night the patrons of Music Hall will be treated to a new melodrama under the management of Walter Sanford, who has, it is said, given it striking scenery and a good company. "A Flag of Truce" is not a quarry, in which, under an immense rock suspended by a derrick, the villain places the hero with the purpose of crushing him to death. At the right moment the evil genius of the piece is thwarted, and the hero is saved to enjoy the love of a heroine whose misfortunes disappear in final happiness in a manner said to be very interesting and strange.

A Pretty Home Wedding.

The home of Mr. Samuel J. Acheson, No 406 East Fifth street, was handsomely illuminated and decorated last evening. The occasion was a very pretty home wedding, and Miss Martha Acheson became the bride of Mr. Adam Blair of this city in the presence of many friends and relatives.

The Rev. Charles E. Herring officiated and made out a record of the marriage in a unique pamphlet containing the form of ceremony and certificate.

The bride, handsomely attired in white brocaded silk trimmed with duchess lace, was given away by her father.

Miss Clara Nelson of Philadelphia was bridesmaid and Mr. Harry McDonald of this city was best man.

The happy couple started for a trip through New York State and upon their return will reside with the bride's parents.

The City National Bank's New Cashier.

At the meeting of the Board of Directors of the City National Bank, held this morning, Mr. William F. Arnold was elected as cashier of the bank to fill the vacancy caused by the recent death of Mr. F. H. Gardner.

Mr. Arnold has held the position of teller in the bank for several years and has proved himself to be capable and reliable. During Mr. Gardner's illness, Mr. Arnold was acting cashier for several months. He has the congratulations and well wishes of a host of friends.

The Board of Directors, after making the appointment, adjourned without transacting any further business.

Where's That Other Car?

North Plainfielders, and persons wishing to go "over the brook," are continually asking when the long promised "other car" will be running. At present, there is but that one lone car, which only makes a trip every twenty five minutes, and many are compelled to walk the entire length of the line when they happen to miss the accommodation.

The latest promise is that it will appear by October 1st.

A LIST OF THE VICE PRESIDENTS

The selection of a president by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been left to a nominating committee. At Monday's meeting, in addition to the officers published in yesterday's News, the following were elected:

Honorary Vice President—Mrs. J. W. Yates.

Vice-Presidents.

Crescent Avenue Church—Mrs. S. A. Cahoone and Mrs. E. Taylor.

Park Avenue Baptist Church—Mrs. J. W. Johnson and Mrs. Seely Edsall.

Seventh Day Baptist Church—Mrs. F. A. Dudham and Mrs. G. H. Babcock.

First Baptist Church—Miss Anna Bolce.

First Presbyterian Church—Mrs. E. V. Shotwell and Mrs. R. Blair.

Methodist Episcopal Church—Miss Susan Jackson and Mrs. Daniel Davis.

Grace Methodist Episcopal Church—Mrs. Wm. H. Griffen and Mrs. J. Yoell.

Trinity Reformed Church—Mrs. C. Parse and Mrs. A. E. Hall.

Unitarian Church—Mrs. S. E. Krom.

Holy Cross Church—Mrs. W. J. Ford.

Quaker Church—Mrs. Rachel Bogart.

Warren Chapel—Miss Mary Mair and Miss Sarah Randolph.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. E. N. Hannigan of Craig place is home from Ocean Grove.

Mrs. L. Cole of Dover street is visiting friends at White House, N. J.

Mr. G. R. Page of West Seventh street has gone to New York for the Winter.

Miss Emilie Lentenberger of this city is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Neeve of Elizabeth.

Mr. Michael Cook of East Third street has removed with his family to Metuchen.

Miss Helen Duffee of Philadelphia is the guest of Miss Minnie Wilson of "Dunlaw," North Plainfield.

Mr. Stephen Langdon of the Penn Tool Works, caught over two dozen large crabs in Newark Bay recently.

Mr. John J. Kenny of East Second street is out again after being confined to the house a week by illness.

Mrs. Dunn and daughter of East Seventh street have returned home after a visit to New Brunswick, N. J.

The family of Mr. C. H. Dodd of West Seventh street is expected home to-morrow from Lake Hopatcong where they have been Summering.

Mr. Francis S. Flagg, son of Solomon Flagg formerly of this city was married at twelve o'clock yesterday to Miss Mary Adele Birr of Roorestown, N. J.

Mr. Andrew Macardle, foreman at Reed & Macardle Tool Works, returned to his work Monday. He had been confined to his home for several week by serious illness.

Messrs. William Finnigan and John Clifton of Grant avenue went fishing to New Market at three o'clock this morning and caught over two large German carp before eight o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey E. Wooley were tendered a reception at the home of the groom's mother, on Elm street, Westfield, Monday night. About twenty Plainfielders attended.

Mr. J. W. Reinhart and family of Netherwood have returned from Manchester-by-the-Sea where they have been summering, and have now gone to Chicago to see the World's Fair.

Miss Lillie Coward of East Front street, Miss Ida B. Cook of Rockview avenue and Miss Lizzie Maltby of Plainfield avenue started Monday for Chicago. They will spend two weeks enjoying the World's Fair and are stopping at The Pullman.

Mr. U. B. Crane, says that the report that he has made an assignment is untrue. He has had some heavy loses, which have left him temporarily embarrassed, but he says he will pull through. Of course he will, such men know no such word as fail.

Monroe Avenue Chapel Peach Festival.

The young ladies of the Monroe avenue Sunday-school held a peach and ice cream festival in the chapel last night. The chapel was decorated with flowers, golden rod, picked by the children from the fields near by, predominating.

The affair was well attended, there being no admission charged.

The following personshad charge:

Cake table—Mrs. D. P. Hicks, Mrs. Ella Beekman, Mrs. Geo. Beekman.

Supper checks were supplied by Miss Lena Wentz.

Candy table—Miss Louise Bowman and Miss Lottie Ulrich.

Ice cream table—Miss Hattie King, Miss Susie Pound, Miss Mary Beekman, Miss Sadie Hall, Miss Florence Phillips, Miss Kittie Ackerman and Miss Grace Palmer.

The young men of the chapel will give an entertainment for the benefit of the "poor fund" soon.

Louis Smote His Brother Jacob.

Jacob Clark and Louis Compton, brothers in-law, quarreled at their home on West Front street yesterday, and Louis struck Jacob so that the latter bears an eye of dusky hue with trimmings of more lurid coloring.

Jacob is a big fellow while Louis is not so big, consequently Jacob was forbearing, so he says, and struck not his brother, but told his troubles to Justice of the Peace Nash who straightway did issue a warrant for the arrest of Louis to whom Constable Moffett will present it with his compliments.

CROSSING THE LINE.

THE "PLAINFIELDER" NOT ONLY CROSSED IT, BUT SAW IT.

Another Letter Describing a Portion of a Journey by Sea of One Hundred Days.—Gracious Sensers."

LMOST everyone is inclined to believe the same as myself, that the equator is an imaginary line, but, the morning we crossed, the contrary was proven to me. It was about eight o'clock, and we were standing in a group on the poop deck in anticipation of the exact moment. The Captain was standing near, telescope in hand. Turning to me he said, "You always supposed the equator was an imaginary line, didn't you?" "Yes" I answered. "Well," he continued, "you take this glass, look toward the horizon in this direction and I'll prove to you in a practical way that it is not." I did as directed and surely it was so, there, plainly visible, a dark narrow line, extending along the horizon in any direction as I moved the telescope.

Finally, hearing so many smothered giggles and bursts of laughter, it aroused my suspicions that a joke was in progress. Turning the large end of the telescope up the mystery was solved, for there, deftly stretched acrossed the face of the glass was a very fine thread, almost invisible to the naked eye, but gigantic enough when viewed through the telescope. Surely, I could not say I had not seen the line!

At another time they also enjoyed a laugh as my expense. I noticed the first mate's hammock swinging on the quarter deck one day, and conceived the idea I could relish a nap there. Standing along side of it, I endeavored to climb in, but, needless to say, my landing place was on the other side on the floor. I never heard the end of it.

The first fifty days of our trip was attended with the most gorgeous sunsets that can be imagined.

One especially left a vivid impression. The horizontal and perpendicular rays were mostly of dark colors seeming to be interspersed with the coming in a day, while beaming through the crevices from behind came a golden hue, making a picture beyond description, but ever memorable.

SOMETHING ABOUT MOONLIGHT.

During this same fifty days it was moonlight every evening, so bright you could easily read a paper. One evening when a squall was coming its fury and the heavens were as black as midnight or the land of Moses when the light went out, a picturesque change took place. Suddenly, in the midst of all this darkness the clouds in the sky were abruptly torn asunder and the silver moon light streamed through with all its glory like the flash of a magnesium light, effecting a most brilliant transformation.

It was in the same night of moonlight. Lat 8—47 N. Long 36—37 W. that we saw the moon when only seventeen hours old. When in Lat 13—59 N. Long 31—41 W. I was aroused early one morning at the rising of the sun to witness a rare sight, the sun, moon and stars, all shining at the same time and all in plain view.

Among the commoner sights was to see whales spouting. Frequently so near the ship that you could have "heaved biscuit on them."

LAND IN SIGHT.

We only saw land once during our voyage, and that was Trinidad Island in the South Atlantic ocean.

The island is four and half miles in length by one and three quarters at its widest part. Totally destitute of vegetation excepting a few trees about eighteen inches in diameter and not very tall. The highest point on the island is on the western side, and consists of a high rock slightly detached from the land and called the "Monument, or Nine Pin" 600 feet in height. There is also a stupendous arch at its South East point, which is perforated through a bluff rock about 800 feet high, the arch is 40 feet in breadth 50 in height and 430 in length. The sea breaks through it with a great noise and there are more than three fathoms of water under it.

When the sea is moderate you can see through this arch into the only bay in the island and have a distant view of the rocks covered with trees in the distance.

There is also at this point of the island a conical shaped rock of about 1200 feet high with grass on its summits, named the "Sugar Loaf" and whenever it rains hard a beautiful cascade of about 200 feet in perpendicular height is caused to flow from an opening in the side. As the coast is sharp, rugged and chiefly of coral composition it is dangerous to land. There are plenty of fish, birds and water, but no inhabitants. A PLAINFIELDER.

"CHARLEY" SMITH'S CRACK SHOOTING.

Gives Him First Prize Against Thirty-eight Competitors.

Mr. Charles Smith, one the crack shots of the Climax Gun Club of this city, has been astonishing the sportsmen of the country who took part in the sixth shooting tournament of the Manufacturers Trap Shooting Association at Allentown, Pa. Yesterday he took first prize against thirty-eight competitors in the difficult contest of shooting at two clay birds thrown simultaneously in opposite directions from hidden traps, and succeeded in hitting both targets nine out of ten times.

The first prize consists of forty per cent. of the entry money and a cash stake put up by the management, which will amount, altogether, to several hundred dollars.

THAT OWNERSHIP CASE.

Those Who Composed the Jury.—The Son the Owner.

The jury in the case tried at Justice Nash's yesterday afternoon to ascertain "right of ownership," the result of which was told in Tax News, was as follows:

Charles Bon, Foreman. G. Smith,
George Rockefellow, W. E. Chas.
M. Coyne, P. C. Herbert,

Mr. W. S. Angleman, of the firm of Jackson & Angleman, represented Mr. Seguine.

Mr. Seguine, Sr., testified that about the middle of May last he transferred all his goods to his son, and showed a bill of sale to that effect.

The suit was to find out whether Mr. Seguine, Sr., or Mr. Seguine, Jr., owned the goods. It was decided that they belonged to the son.

One of Marshal Pangborn's Assailants Caught.

"Gus" Van Angleman, one of the two colored men who assaulted Marshal Pangborn a few nights ago, was arrested in New Brunswick last night. Notice was sent to Captain Grant of this city that the man would be held. The Captain and Marshall went to New Brunswick to-day to identify the prisoner and make necessary arrangements to bring him to the Borough. The man is a very powerful and ugly negro and has served several terms in prison for assault.

Van Angleman's companion, a negro named Williams, is thought to have gone to Trenton, where he lives. The police expect, however, to catch him.

Re-union of the Ninth Regiment.

The re-union of the Ninth regiment, New Jersey Volunteers, will be held at Camden on September 20. The address of welcome will be delivered by Samuel H. Grey. This regiment became known as the "Jersey Mauraders" at the battle of Resaca, a name which has clung to it ever since.

—Lawrence Doski, a Pole, was arrested last night for being drunk and disorderly. He was given his choice this morning of paying $5 and costs or spending fifteen days in the County jail. He paid.

—"Liberty Hall," the leading comedy success of the opening season in New York city, is to be presented at the Park Empire Theatre. It has caught the popular and fashionable fancy and is filling the theatre to every performance. It is the second play that has been produced at the Park Empire Theatre, the first one of "The Girl I Left Behind Me," of this house, it would seem to have a hard task to duplicate the success which that play made, but "Liberty Hall, with a love story so simple and natural that it lacks the difficulty in winning friends and capturing hearts, and it is so entertainingly talked about and so lavishly painted that it gives promise of being a play fully as popular and successful as "The Girl I Left Behind Me" was.

MR. CARROLL PROTESTS.

Britannia Defeats Navahoe for the Bronton's Reef Cup 2 1-2 Seconds.

LONDON, Sept. 13. (Special.)—The yacht race for the Bronton's Reef Cup between the Prince of Wales' Britannia and Mr. Royal Phelps Carroll's Navahoe, which started yesterday on a course extending from the Needles to the breakwater at Cherbourg, France, round the breakwater and back to the Needles, a distance of about 130 miles, ended this morning in a victory for the Britannia.

The Prince of Wales' yacht crossed the finish about one minute and 30 seconds ahead of the Navahoe. When the starting gun was fired yesterday the Britannia was over the line, but the difference in the times at which she and the Navahoe started was deducted from the Britannia's finishing time, and it was declared that she had won the race by 2½ seconds.

Mr. Carroll protested, but, the committee decided that the decision of the judges was correct, and the race was given to the Britannia.

F. L. Ames, the Boston Multi-Millionaire, Found Dead

NEW YORK, Sept. 13, (Special.)—Frederick L. Ames, Vice President of Old Colony R.R. and a multi-millionaire, was found dead this morning in a stateroom of the steamer Pilgrim, soon after her arrival at pier 28 North River.

A hurried examination of the body, according to Capt. Davis, indicated that Mr. Ames had died of heart disease.

He began a commercial career that has ever been so fruitful in its financial results that he was popularly believed to be worth $25,000,000.

The Famous Hunting's Circus and Menagerie.

Bob Hunting's circus and menagerie arrived at an early this morning on its own train of specially constructed cars. The fine stock if particularly noticeable, the words of 100 Norman draft horses, Arabian ring horses and Shetland ponies. The show carries 300 employes and the most perfect discipline is maintained in the several distinct departments.

Our exchanges have surely seemed with its praises for the past few weeks, and while it makes no pretentions to being the "biggest show on earth," yet all who have seen it attest to the superior character of its program and general make-up. Among its male and female performers are many who have achieved wreath fame and are well known to the show going public. Coming so well endorsed and recommended, who do not hesitate to recommend the show to our readers.

Traveling upon with whom we have conversed and who have seen the show at various places, attest to its general excellence, and say that one of the most noticeable features is the entire absence of all questionable characters and followers. No unfair dealing is permitted, nor do the amusements stop here, but employ men whose only duties are to keep crooks and gamblers away from the grounds and to thoroughly protect the patrons of the show. Unescorted ladies and children may be sure of the most courteous treatment.—Binghamton, N. Y. Herald.

Hunting's circus will be in Plainfield to-morrow.

Solve This.

It is to test the intelligence or ingenuity of those who respond, to enable us to determine what class of entertainment to provide to excite popular interest in a large prize which we are arranging to offer later.

Supply the missing words in the following verse:

A ——— sat in his ——— gray,
Watching the ——— ——— play
On a jug that in the bushes lay,
And merrily did sing:
"Then ——— the wren, then ——— the stinger;
Then ——— the ——— to the gay ———."
Each leaf within its ——— took up the song
John Barleycorn, my king!

To work out the anagram one has to find six letters, which, by transposition, will supply suitable words for each blank. We have the solution, and invite lovers of such tests of skill to put on their thinking caps. With the necessary words supplied the verse is a complete and harmonious stanza. The names of all who secure the correct solution will be published in the NEWS within a reasonable time.

EDITORIAL NOTES

American Astronomers.

The United States is to be congratulated on the fact that an astronomical observatory is now considered a necessary attachment to every important college in the country. The achievements of American astronomers will in consequence leap ahead of those of other nations rapidly. It cannot be otherwise. The impetus to this progress was given as far back as 1844, when General (then Professor) Mitchel founded the Cincinnati observatory in what was comparatively western wilds. It is thus a fact that the first of the large observatories in this country was established in a young western city.

Professor Edward S. Holden, director of the Lick observatory, has called attention to some of the things accomplished by American astronomers. The story is calculated to make us feel proud of our men of science in this field at least.

We learn from Professor Holden's paper that the method of taking longitude by telegraph was invented and first applied in this country. American astronomers first discovered that terrestrial latitudes go through slight changes regularly in a cycle of 430 days. Americans have distanced the rest of the world in their achievements in celestial photography. In New York was taken the first daguerreotype of the moon, and the first photograph of a nebula was made in our country.

Who has not stood in a clockmaker's shop listening to the kling, kling of the tiny bell that registers by electricity every pendulum beat of the great astronomical clock at Washington, and so gives all the country the exact time? This electrical clock is an American invention. As long ago as 1817 the supercargo of an American ship, Bowditch, translated Laplace's "Mecanique Celeste." A little later a famous European astronomer visited an American merchant ship at Genoa and found that every member of the crew, even to the negro cook, understood perfectly the method of determining longitude by lunar distances. Americans lack as yet the training and thoroughness necessary for producing the finest astronomical clocks and chronometers. But, on the other hand, Professor Holden tells us the micrometer screw that reaches nearest perfection is that made by Professor Rowland of Johns Hopkins, while Clarke's telescope lenses and prisms are famous the world over.

Texas Gypsum and Flint Beds.

The earth itself is of a brilliant red color in much of southern Kansas and northern Texas. The landscape in consequence presents a most vivid and striking appearance in this region, especially where the red clay strata are intermingled with snow white gypsum beds, as is the case in many of the hills. If now some blue clay beds could be discovered in quantity thereabouts, our national colors would be faithfully depicted by the hand of nature herself.

From the marvelous, inexhaustible gypsum beds of Texas came the material of which skillful architects made the brilliant "staff" that covered the exposition buildings at Chicago with a snow white gleaming surface and gave a poor opportunity to invent the name "White City." Gypsum is sulphate of lime. Ages and ages ago, when seas of very salt water covered the whole region now called the great basin, the action of the water melted down the rocks adjacent and deposited them in the form of gypsum sands upon the ocean bed. These gypsum sands are now very profitable where they have been mined in the southwest and must become more so, as the varied and beautiful uses to which they can be put are better known.

Besides the gypsum beds Texas has also profitable mineral resources in the vast flint deposits which have been found near Austin within a few years. The flints are ground up and mixed in with clay to make fine pottery. Thousands of tons of this material used to be imported annually, but now Texas supplies it at home.

What if European royalties do fight rather shy of visiting our World's Fair? We have enough far eastern potentates to make up for it, and when it comes to that pomp and gorgeousness which are the real attributes of royalty European kings and princesses are nowhere compared to those oriental. The emperor of Germany himself could not hold a candle to the Maharajah of Kapoorthella in magnificence. We have at this time another prince from the dazzling and spicy orient with us. He is Prince Komatsu Yorihito of the Imperial family of Japan. He came by way of the Pacific coast to visit the fair and study our naval academy at Annapolis. Thence he proceeds to England and France to investigate their respective naval schools. After that he will go back home to assist the Japanese government in organizing and building a navy of its own on the most approved modern principles. Komatsu is much better looking than most of the scions of royal blood in Europe, and that goes far in his favor.

CONTINUOUS SESSIONS.

A Plan to Tire Out the Silver Orators.

WILL ATTEMPT TO FORCE A VOTE.

The Democratic Senators Decide to Do Everything to Hasten Repeal Except to Apply Closure—Arranging For a Big Celebration on Cornerstone Day.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—An important conference of Democratic senators, at which were present Senators Gorman, Voorhees, Faulkner, Gray and several of the other leaders of the senate and friends of the administration measure, has been held, the results of which will probably manifest themselves in the senate today. The main point to which the senators are pledged to secure adherence themselves was the possibility of bringing the silver question to a vote.

A canvass was made of the names of those who intended speaking on the subject, and this disclosed the fact that the limit of legitimate debate would not be exhausted until after the week had ended, possibly not until one or two days of the next had been consumed. It was agreed that after that speechmaking would be practically confined to filibustering, and that every speech made would be for the certain purpose of consuming time and postponing the day for final action.

How to Prevent It Not Be Tried.

How to prevent this is the question the senators desirous of securing a vote are seeking to answer.

Closure is impossible, for, as one of the members of this conference said, closure had no more chance of passing the senate than would a measure for the repudiation of the national debt. The mere attempt, it was argued, would be hailed with delight by those opposing repeal, because it would give them an opportunity to talk upon something else and thereby consume more time.

The vote will be reached, if reached at all, by the test of physical endurance, and with that end in view the test will be made as soon as possible. Early next week a motion will be made—unless it is made sooner to take effect on a certain day—providing for night sessions, and these sessions will be made continuous, so that a quorum of the senate will be required every hour of the 24. In this way, coupled with the powerful influence of the business interests of the country now demanding repeal, the repealers think they can force the silver men to come to terms and consent to the taking of the vote. It looks very much as if this programme would be inaugurated next week.

The probable action of the house in taking up the bill for the repeal of the federal election laws also causes in for its share of this discussion, and various opinions as to the effect of such action by the house were expressed. A division of sentiment as to this policy manifested. Some of the committee thought it extremely unwise to plunge the house into a bitter partisan discussion just at this time when the Republicans of the senate were working with the Democrats for the repeal of the law for which purpose the president alone had called the congress together. On the other hand, there were senators who urged that it was imperative for the good of the party that this bill should be taken up now and disposed of. The general opinion is that nothing will be put in the way of the house doing as it thinks best in acting upon the bill which will be reported Thursday.

In the Senate and House.

Again the house held an utterly unimportant session. Mr. Morse of Massachusetts expressed his regret for new-paper men, that regard having been questioned by a portion of the press.

Mr. Hepburn of Iowa vainly endeavored to secure the passage of a resolution (though he offered it as referred) calling for information relative to the transportation of goods between United States ports over Canadian territory, and Mr. Richardson of Alabama, from the committee on rules, got a bill having for its purpose a reduction of expenditures in the way of public printing. The house then adjourned.

Senator Mitchell of Oregon occupied the attention of the senate for three hours in an elaborate argument against the bill to repeal the purchasing clause of the Sherman law. After he got through there sprung up between Senators Teller and Hawley quite a spirited discussion, int. which Mr. Stewart finally entered.

Then, as the hour was late and senators were weary of the day's debate, a motion to proceed to executive business was welcomed on all sides, and after a short executive session the senate adjourned.

The Cornerstone Celebration.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Preparations are making here on an elaborate scale for the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the United States capitol in this city on Sept. 18. The ceremonies will have a national importance because of the participation of the three branches of the government. President Cleveland is expected to attend and deliver an address in behalf of the executive branch of the government. While President Stevenson and Speaker Crisp will also deliver speeches in behalf of the legislative branch of the government, while the judiciary will be represented by Associate Justice Brown of the United States supreme court. The feature of the event will be a great chorus of 1,500 voices.

Preceding the delivery of speeches and the formal ceremonies on the grandstand there will be a procession under the command of Brigadier General Ordway of the District of Columbia national guard, who has been selected as chief marshal of the parade, and at night there will be a display of fireworks on a scale rarely before attempted in this city.

An Operation on Carlisle Necessary.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Within a day or two Secretary Carlisle will submit to an operation. A lump has developed on his right arm above the elbow. Mr. Carlisle has suffered much agony from the enlargement. The lump has grown on the muscles and nerves of the arm, and has so firmly taken hold of them that the secretary is virtually deprived of the use of his right hand.

Another Unsafe Federal Building.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—A letter was sent to congress calling attention to the old armory, now occupied by the fish commission. Architect Clark of the capitol and Mr. Yon Boyer, a local architect, reported that the building is not safe; that the upper part of the main walls are bulging; the third floor is poorly constructed, the attic floor weak and the roof trusses decayed.

Mr. Dyrne a Special Treasury Agent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—Secretary Carlisle has sent to Mr. T. Aubrey Byrne of Beet Sugar fame, assistant secretary of the treasury, at present, with headquarters in London.

LEFT MUCH CASH.

The Lake Shore Train Robbers Secured Less Than $200,000.

CHICAGO, Sept. 13.—The train robbers who stopped the Atlantic express train on the Lake Shore road at Kenzie, Ind., shot the engineer, broke into the express car, blew open the United States Express company's safe and took its contents, did not get as much as at first reported. The express officials are reticent on the question of the amount of money secured by the robbers, but it can positively be stated that the total value was $19,104.69. Two bars of gold valued at $16,000 were overlooked. The express messengers saved the company $4,000 in cash by secreting the money before the entrance to the car was effected.

The number of highwaymen was estimated by some of the trainmen at 20, but there were probably not half so many. The passengers on the train were not molested.

After the robbery the thieves fled into the thick timber surrounding the place where the robbery was done. The train proceeded on its way. The railroad and express officials at once notified the police in all cities between Chicago and Cleveland, and the citizens of the vicinity of the robbery formed posses to hunt down the bandits.

Within two hours of the commission of the crime Captain Byrne was on his way to the scene with a detachment of detectives from his Buffalo district. The first trains from Chicago, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Indianapolis, Chicago and St. Louis carried squads of detectives in the employ of the United States Express company and of the Confederated companies.

The Lake Shore threw a force of men on the work from its Cleveland office, so that, in the language of Secretary Henry, not less than 100 trained detectives are already on the trail of the robbers. He did not believe any gang of crooks could escape the force put after them.

The express company's officers are perfectly well satisfied that the robbery was committed by expert safe blowers who know the use of dynamite and just how to get at the vulnerable spots in the safe.

Detective Mullaney, chief of the secret service men of the Lake Shore road, believes that the robbers are concealed in the swamps of northern Indiana and has several sheriffs' posses scouring the counties on all sides of the scene of the robbery.

KENDALLVILLE, Ind., Sept. 13.—Three men, one of whom is a negro, were arrested three miles from Kendallville on suspicion of being connected with the Lake Shore robbery. They will probably be released. Three residents of Kendallville are under surveillance and may be arrested if any evidence can be secured against them.

Convict Misery Revolt.

NASHVILLE, Ga., Sept. 13.—There is a mutiny among convicts employed in digging coal at Lone Rock mine, situated one mile from Tracy City. These mines are operated by the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, lessees of convict labor. At supper time and also at breakfast 100 convicts refused to eat their meals, the reason assigned by them being that water had been put in the powder magazine and similar mischief was threatened to blow it up, and also declared that when their day's rations became exhausted they would kill the two mules employed in the mines and eat them rather than go back to work. As there was great danger of an outbreak on the part of the convicts, the authorities of the branch prison took the precaution to order out an extra number of guards, and the entrances to all the mines were closely watched.

The Castine Ready For Trial.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 13.—Gunboat Castine arrived in the harbor from Bath, Me. It is not expected that the trial will take place before Friday. Today will be taken up with the inspection of the vessel by a subboard to see if her construction is in accordance with the specifications of the contract, and then the recording instrument is to be put on as a short trial made to see that the machinery is all right for the final test. She behaved splendidly on the trip from Bath.

Mrs. Halliday Plans a Defense.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sept. 13.—Mrs. Halliday has passed a quiet day, no visitors being allowed to see her. She ate a good breakfast and dinner. Her memory is slowly regaining, and she is continually speaking of the men who visited her house and quarreled and beat and chloroformed her. She appears to be planning a defense and chooses to reveal it this way.

National Cordage Reorganization.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The incorporation of L. Wolfsohn & Co., limited, is the beginning of the end for the National Cordage company, which failed in May last and which has many creditors. The new company will be known as the United Cordage company and will start out with $4,000,000 in cash.

Schooner Found, but Crew Missing.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 13.—News has been received here that on Saturday the schooner A. R. Crabtree, 90 tons, was picked up at sea by schooner Wissel and towed to Southwest harbor. The schooner had been abandoned at sea, and it is not known where the crew is.

Lillian Russell Gets the Casino.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Judge McAdam granted Roosivers Cutter and Clarke of the New York Security and Trust company permission to lease the Casino to Miss Lillian Russell's representatives, Messrs. Canary and Lederer, for one year at a rental of $20,000.

Train Struck Mother and Child.

BUFFALO, Sept. 13.—Mrs. William Wohlschlegel and her 3-year-old child were struck by a Nickel Plate freight train on the Hamburg grade. The child was killed and the mother fatally injured while trying to save it.

Democratic Primaries In New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The Tammany Hall executive committee announced that the assembly districts would hold their primaries to select delegates to the Democratic state convention between Sept. 26 and 30.

Tried to Smoke Out the Freshmen.

EASTON, Pa., Sept. 13.—Three sophomores in Lafayette college were suspended indefinitely for hazing. It is said others will follow. The "scrubs" tried the freshmen by trying to smoke them out.

Colonel Duffy Is Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Colonel Patrick Duffy, the well known sporting man of New Orleans, died at the Presbyterian hospital from Bright's disease and dropsy.

Colonel North Will Sell His Horses.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—Colonel Thomas F. Ochiltree says that Colonel North, the millionaire king, has decided to sell out his entire racing stable.

Reception to Commander Adams.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 13.—A rousing reception was tendered Commander in Chief John R. Adams of the Grand Army upon his return.

M'KINLEY'S EARLY BOOM

A Carefully Arranged Keynote Speech and Demonstration.

OHIO CAMPAIGN IN FULL BLAST.

The Western Governor's Friends Acknowledge That He Has Presidential Aspirations—A Protection Speech, a Big Parade and Fireworks.

AKRON, O., Sept. 13.—The opening of the Ohio campaign by Governor McKinley here was an immense affair. The campaign has practically been going on in Ohio for months, but the honor of a formal opening and the unexpected keynote speech was reserved for Akron, a bustling manufacturing city, whose business men have ever been stout supporters of McKinley's ultra ideas on the protective tariff.

Ever since his nomination in June, Governor McKinley has been making speeches, political and otherwise, throughout the state, and those of them he has failed to interject some of his pet protection ideas, even at a camp meeting, but he has been watched, and when Governor Foster delivered because he considered the Ohio campaign of 1893 more a national than a state affair.

A Presidential Boom.

It is not denied by McKinley's closest friends that he is preparing for the presidency and that he expects to be the candidate in 1896. Hence the importance of his every utterance from this time on. Because of the broad national view he takes of the case, his speech had in it no reference to state issues, but was purely national in character. The demonstration was solely for McKinley, for no one was allowed to divide honors with him, as he was the only speaker.

A tremendous parade began the festivities. Specials were run from Cleveland, Columbus and all neighboring towns—even from Pittsburg. The fare from all points was nominal, so that Akron had almost double its normal population and was gay with flags, music, marching men and banners which proclaimed for protection. General A. L. Conger, the long time the Ohio member of the Republican national committee, led the monster procession as grand marshal.

Governor McKinley first reviewed the parade by divisions, riding by them, and then took his place at the head of the first division, escorted by a guard of honor made up of G. A. R. veterans, Union Army and Summit county. Many of the men had marched to the war with him 30 years ago and still called him "Major." Throughout the procession the plaudits of these were given to G. A. R. veterans, an indication of the Republican attitude toward the soldier vote in Ohio this fall.

A Political Prayer.

The meeting was held in Grace park, which was donated to Akron by Mrs. Grace Perkins, a sister of Governor Todd, and called for her Christian name. Here, under forest trees, the greatest Republican meeting of the year was called to order by ex-Congressman George W. Crouse, an Akron millionaire manufacturer.

Music by the Columbus Republican Glee club preceded a remarkable prayer by Rev. C. J. Kramer, D. D. Made in fact, a political prayer, asking the Almighty to purify the ballot, prevent fraud at the polls and to continue Governor McKinley in office by his victorious election in November.

Chairman Crouse presented Governor McKinley with few words, and modest applause greeted the governor's appearance, though there was none of that enthusiasm which usually characterizes an Ohio political audience. The wind was blowing, bands playing and cannon firing throughout the delivery, so that only those near him heard the governor's speech, and the opportunities for great applause were not many.

The keynote speech: "With the nation which confronts us, with idle factories and idle men in every part of the country, the present question is, How can they best be set to work? The mills are closed. Will free trade start them?

"You cannot have a revenue tariff or free trade in this country without a complete readjustment of business, not only in the so called protected industries, but in every department of American enterprise and activity. What protection has been abandoned in this country every industry has been paralyzed, every business has suffered, except that of the insolvent court and the sheriff. If free trade is to come, I pray God it may not be advanced in pure time or mine. Has not the fear of its coming filled the country with alarm, and are not men making ready for it?

"But it is said, 'It has not come.' That is true, but that it will come we have the pledge of many Democratic administration and the promise of the Democratic candidate for governor."

THE OIL INDUSTRY.

Some Interesting Facts About the Development of the Business.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 13.—In his forthcoming annual report Professor Albert S. Boller, chief of the department of industrial statistics, will give a comprehensive review of the development of the petroleum industry in Pennsylvania, with interesting statistics regarding the production, consumption and exportation of the fluid.

A larger percentage of the oil product is sent abroad than that of any other product except cotton. A gallon of oil in bulk cost in 1861 not less than 58 cents, and in 1892 not more than 3½ cents, or hardly one-seventeenth of the old price. Pipe lines aggregating 25,000 miles have been laid, and good tank cars have been built. Besides these cars and a number of bulk sailing and other vessels, 59 bulk steamers are now employed in transporting the oil to foreign countries.

The value of Pennsylvania oil lands and wells is estimated at more than $87,000,000, and to this vast sum must be added $63,400,000 to cover the value of the plants employed in producing crude petroleum. This valuation does not include pipe lines, tank cars, fleet or bulk vessels. The estimated total capital is $200,000,000.

THE COLUMBIA'S SPURT.

On Her Preliminary Trip She Went at the Rate of 21 3-10 Knots.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 13.—The cruiser Columbia returned to the yard of her builders with the record breaking figures of 21 3-10 flying from her mast, and was given an ovation as she passed up the river. The weather had been unfavorable ever since the vessel left Cramp's shipyard last Thursday, and the preliminary trial would have been made Monday but for this fact.

After proceeding a short distance off Cape Henlopen it was decided to begin the trial. It only lasted for a few minutes, but it was sufficiently long to demonstrate that the Columbia would meet the governmental requirements. The maximum speed was at the rate of 21 3-10 knots per hour, and the indicated horsepower at this time was 15,000. The vessel did not roll nor pitch, and the way she made both at bow and stern was much less than that of the cruiser New York.

The propeller made from 130 to 135 revolutions per minute while the cruiser was going at full speed. Her steering qualities were superb.

CHARLES DE LESSEPS FREE.

After Serving Six Months of His Sentence He Is Released.

PARIS, Sept. 13.—M. Charles de Lesseps, who was sentenced to five years' imprisonment for complicity in the Panama canal scandal, was released from prison.

The sentence of five years' imprisonment was set aside on appeal to the court of cassation, which decided that the prosecution had not been inaugurated within the time set by the law.

Subsequent to the above sentence, however, a sentence of one year's imprisonment was passed upon M. Charles de Lesseps on his conviction of having corrupted ex-Minister of Public Works Baihaut to support the Panama lottery bonds bill. The court ordered that this sentence should run concurrently with the preceding one. This last sentence prevented his release when the court of cassation decided that the five years' sentence was illegal. He had served about six months of the sentence when the prison officials were ordered to release him. Most of this time was spent in the prison hospital.

THE GAY HILTON BOYS.

Why Judge Hilton Mortgaged the Stewart Building.

HETTY GREEN'S SHARP BARGAIN.

The Judge, It Is Said, Did Not Approve of His Son's Attention to Silvia Gerrish and Della Fox, and Wanted the Money to Buy Out Henry's Interest.

NEW YORK, Sept. 13.—The World says today: The retirement of Henry Graham Hilton from the great dry goods firms of Hilton, Hughes & Co. and Hilton Brothers has set the business world and the club world and even the Tenderloin district to talking. It has started again the gossip and conjectures which surrounded the mortgage of $1,250,000 given by ex-Judge Henry Hilton to Mrs. Hetty Green. Yesterday the business men and men about town, who are best informed concerning the doings and affairs of the Hilton family, agreed that some of the money which Henry Hilton raised on the white marble palaces at Broadway and Chambers street was required to buy out the interest of his son Henry in the two dry goods firms.

Although no member of the Hilton family nor any one connected with the dry goods houses has consented to give even the slightest hint at the reason for young Hilton's sudden withdrawal, it is generally admitted that a family misunderstanding or a family row is the real cause.

Judge Hilton Was Angry.

People who know about the affairs of the Hiltons—and a great deal is known of the private life of Henry Graham Hilton and his stout, smooth faced younger brother, Frederick—told interesting stories yesterday. They say the private expenditures of these two brothers were extremely large in the way of wining and dining some of the handsome women whose pictures are displayed in the shop windows and who are known on the comic opera stage. This so angered and alarmed their father, it was alleged, that he decided on rigorous and vigorous action.

Misfortune seemed to crowd on ex-Judge Hilton this summer. He was called upon to raise the cash to tide the great dry goods establishment over the hard times. It is said on the best authority that he felt himself called upon to force his son, Henry Graham Hilton, out of the firm.

Henry Graham Hilton has been married about 13 years. His wife is the daughter of Joseph F. Sanxay, who keeps a furnishing goods store at 104 Fulton street. They have had children, but none is living. At present their home is at Woodland Park, near Saratoga. For two or three years the people who have seen young Frederick Hilton and Della Fox, the actress, together in cafes, driving in the park, on the water and at the race tracks, and have freely gossiped about the two, have had much to say about Henry Graham Hilton and Silvia Gerrish.

She is the woman whose first appearance on the Casino stage when that playhouse was really the home of comic opera set the town agog with admirers of beauty in this city wild. She was a choir singer in Cleveland once, but when she appeared at the Casino the beauties of her really good voice were almost forgotten in the beauty of her form. It is over a year since she has appeared in public.

Her diamonds are magnificent. Her clothes, her carriages, her apartments, have always been the best and most costly this town could afford. Within two weeks she has returned from a trip to Europe with her confectionery. She went to the Marlborough hotel, she announced that she was to stay there for a few days for a rest, and then she was going to California to look after investments, or buy a ranch, or for some other purpose.

Late Delinquent Reports.

Whether wrongly or rightly, Tenderloin gossips have been busy for a long time with the names of the beautiful actress and of the son of ex-Judge Hilton, who has just retired from the family firm. The two have been together a great deal. There have been late suppers at Delmonico's, where the company would include both the Hilton brothers, Harry and Frederick, Miss Gerrish and Della Fox, and three or four others.

Henry Graham Hilton has no residence in town just now. Last fall he had apartments at the Hotel Savoy. Since then he has spent a good deal of time at the Hotel Marlborough. It has been impossible for reporters to find him in the city during the last few days. When a reporter called on Miss Gerrish at the Marlborough last evening, it was learned that the beautiful actress is a very sick woman.

Within the last few days she has been at death's door. The physician and Professor McCosh, the latter's pastor, who have been attending her, said she is not out of danger. She had a sudden and severe attack of peritonitis.

The most interesting thing about the mortgage which Mrs. Hetty Green holds on the Stewart building has not yet been told. It was known that Mrs. Green would not lend money for one year or two years, but demanded a five years' investment at 6 per cent annual interest. Mrs. Green firmly believes that some day or other she will be able to foreclose this mortgage and secure absolute ownership of the Stewart building.

MERRELL & SOULE, SYRACUSE, N. Y.

THE RED, RED WEST.

I've traveled in heaps of countries and studied all kinds of art,
Till there isn't a critic or connoisseur who's properly dressed so smart,
And I'm free to say that the grand results of my explorations show
That somehow paint gets redder the farther out west I go!

I've sipped the voluptuous shorbet that the Turkish sultan sips,
And I've felt the glow of red Bordeaux tingling
each separate nerve;
I've sampled your classic Monte under an arbor green,
And I've rocked with song a whole night long in a gondola canteen.

The stalwart brew of the land o' oaken, the schnapps of the frugal Dutch,
The much praised wine of the distant Rhine,
I've tasted and praised overmuch;
The ale of dear old London and the port of modern vintage—
All, all ladies, have I taken in a hundred thousand times.

Yet, as I aforementioned, these other charms are naught
Compared with the paramount gorgeousness with which the west is fraught;
For art and nature are just the same in the land where the porker grows,
And the paint keeps getting redder the farther out west one goes.

Our savants have never discovered the reason why this is so,
And ninety per cent. of the laymen care less than they scarcely know;
It somewhere stirs my purpose that this is manifest:
The paint keeps getting redder the farther you go out west!

Give me of home 'neath the pale pink dome of European skies—
No cot for me by the salmon sea that far to the southward lies!
But away out west I would build my nest on top of a cerulean hill,
Where I could live without restraint, creation redder still!

CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

The Garden Bird.

There is a little bird in England called the garden bird, which we have been hearing about in school, and I thought some other children would be interested in it too.

The little husband and wife not only build a house for themselves, but they also make a garden around it.

After having made up their minds to build, the first thing they do is to find a nice spot of ground, with some kind of shrub growing near the center of it. Then they pile green moss on the ground all around the shrub. Next the birds bring long green twigs, which they have broken from off the branches of trees, and stick them into the ground so that they will lean against the top of the shrub like the framework of a small tent. One side is left open for a door.

When the little house is built the birds at once set to work to make their garden. The husband bird does the heavier work and all around the house he clears off a space for a lawn, carrying away every stone and stick and every bit of straw that is in the way. He then covers the space with the finest green moss that he can find, and upon the velvety lawn he lays many pretty berries and pink flowers, and as often as the flowers fade he takes them away and brings fresh ones.

This house, which is three feet long and more than a foot high, is very large for two little birds. Indeed the house is ample enough to accommodate a family of twenty. The garden, too, is large in proportion and is sometimes six feet long and even longer. It is said that the people in that far off country think so much of these birds that they never harm them. And now you may wish to know how this little warbler is dressed. The top of his head, his back, his wings and his tail are brown and his breast a greenish red. In size he is about the size of a robin.—Edith Jack son in New York Mail and Express.

The Sugar Plum Tree.

Have you ever heard of the Sugar Plum Tree?
'Tis a marvel of great renown!
It blooms on the shore of the Lollipop sea
In the garden of Shut-Eye Town.
The fruit that it bears is so wondrously sweet
(As those who have tasted it say)
That good little children have only to eat
Of that fruit to be happy next day.

When you got to the tree you would have a hard time
To capture the fruit which I sing:
The tree is so tall that no person could climb
To the boughs where the sugar plums swing!
But up in that tree sits a chocolate cat,
And a gingerbread dog prowls below—
And this is the way you contrive to get at
Those sugar plums tempting you so:

You say but the word to that gingerbread dog,
And he barks with such terrible zest
That the chocolate cat is scared into a fog
And her swelling proportions attest.
And the chocolate cat goes cavorting around
This garden of Shut-Eye Town;
And the sugar plums tumble of course to the ground—
Hurrah for that chocolate cat!

There are marshmallows, gumdrops, and peppermint canes,
With stripings of scarlet or gold,
And you eat of as many of the treasures that rains
As much as your apron can hold!
So come, little child, cuddle down in my lap
In your dainty white nightdress and gown,
And I'll rock you away to that Sugar Plum Tree
In the garden of Shut-Eye town.

Useful, Yet Ornamental.

The uncommon looking ribbon trimming at the outer edge of this long white basket made of fine plaited wood is composed of narrow corded sarcenet ribbon in dark red and moss green, fastened with two and three stitches of gold thread drawn close beside each other through the basket itself. Small gold spangles sewn on with knot stitches enliven the ribbons and finish off the trimming below, every two being united by loops of green silk. The corners of the basket here shown, which is 2¼ inches high, 8½ inches long and 3½ wide, are finished with bows of the same ribbon. Green ribbon is twisted over the handle, also ornamented with bows.

KEY BASKETS.

Delicious Rice Dish.

It is suggested that boiled rice cooked the preceding day, broiled in the morning and served with poached eggs, as if on toast, is delicious.

French and English Sailor Hats.

Virot's new sailor hats are of rough mixed straws that show two or three colors braided together, as one in which green predominates has also cream and brown braids. Instead of a ribbon band, a separate stiff row of the braid surrounds the crown. The only trimming is a double looped bow on the left side, made of inch wide green velvet ribbon edged on each side with the fancy braid of the hat. Two black quills are thrust in this partly colored bow.

English sailor hats just imported have a red, blue or brown chip brim, slightly turned up along the edge, with the crown striped by alternate rows of cream braid and the colored chip. The bow on the left is of velvet and braid, with quills like that just described.—Harper's Bazar.

Fashion's Echoes.

A low braided chignon, with hair waved on the sides and drawn down over the top of the ears, is a Parisian revival of an old and not very becoming fashion.

Worth has brought out some very beautiful walking dresses in short length, and a leading English modiste affirms that the very smartest people are not wearing dresses so long as last year, either for morning or evening.

If you are bent on being quite up to date in the matter of millinery, have a bonnet and lace cape to match for grand occasions.

To see some of the badly cut specimens of the Eton jacket that are going about is enough to set one against it. It should fit with as much accuracy as a dress bodice.

Sleeves are larger and fuller than ever, though not so high on the shoulders. In Paris just now it is the correct thing to look broad across the shoulders.

Save the Pieces.

Chins may be mended as firmly as a rock by the following recipe: Two persons will be needed for the work, however, for the manipulation must be rapid. The necessary materials are a little unslacked lime, pulverized, the slightly beaten white of egg, and a small bain'rmah such as is used for mucilage. Put the white of egg on the broken edges of both pieces to be joined and immediately dust one edge with the powdered lime; put the two edges accurately and firmly together, hold in place for a minute or two and then lay aside to dry.

What to Know.

That you can clean a sponge by soaking it a few hours in cold buttermilk.

That lettuce has recently been pronounced a sleep producer.

That lemons may be kept fresh by wrapping them in paper and inclosing in a closely covered pot or jar.

That wash leather should be washed in warm—not hot—water and yellow soap.

That school shoes of rubber will take many a spot out of kid gloves.

That combs and brushes should be quickly washed in warm water and soda.

That a good liquid glue may be made by pouring naphtha upon shellac until it is of a creamy consistency.

That household pests flee before an application composed of two ounces of quicksilver and the whites of two eggs.

That leather satchels may be cleaned with a sponge dipped in warm water in which a little oxalic acid has been dissolved.

That the same mixture of oxalic acid and water, with more acid to the water, will take ink spots out of wood. It should be rubbed on with a cloth.

Clam Broth.

In cases of convalescence, where an uncertain appetite has to be coaxed, clam broth often proves very efficacious in stimulating a desire for food. One of the best ways of making a pure soup is to drain off a cup of juice from the clams, add a half a teacup of hot water and season with a little salt and pepper; let it boil for five minutes, skim, throw in the clams, let them stew 15 minutes. Take them out and add a soda biscuit which has been rolled into powder.

Green the Prevailing Color.

Green promises to continue in favor this spring, and for hat trimmings there are some exquisite new shades. A pretty hat is of light green fancy straw, with low crown and wide brim, slightly bent toward the front. Pale pink roses, with a beautiful shade of soft green velvet, form the side trimming. A wreath of small pink roses rests around the crown, and just under the brim in front are two roses to rest against the hair of the wearer.

A Dream of Beautiful Women.

I close my eyes and go far back in years to the time when a tiny baby I lay in a woman's lap I look up into dark brown eyes and upon a face full of female beauty. I cannot speak. My infant tongue can form no words, but I can out in gentle murmurs, "My beautiful mother." A few years roll by. I be on a rug at a woman's feet on a warm summer's day. A dove gently coos on a tree close by; a cricket chirps on the summer's heath, and the old clock in the corner goes tick-tock—click, tock—tick-tick. The woman gently runs a sweet song as she fans my cheek. I close my eyes and dream. I dream of my beautiful mother. Long years go by. I am past a half century old. I am pressed to a woman's heart. She is past threescore years and eighteen. As clean will soon divide mother and child. Her eyes and yet with and brown; a flush of love is upon her face and she blesses her son. I never saw her again. But in my heart lives her image the image of a beautiful woman.

The scene shifts. I am standing at God's altar. I look to my side and see a beautiful girl. As I placed upon her finger a circlet of gold our eyes meet, a flush of love mantles her cheek, for she knows I am whispering, "My beautiful wife." Mother and girl wife are above in white robed purity, and, thank God, both were and both are beautiful.—Chicago Times.

The Question of Corsets.

Within recent years, since the question of hygienic dress has been taken up by women, the corset and its evils have often been made to secure a utilitarian dress that should be graceful and beautiful, the question of corsets has been much discussed. Many women have really abandoned the corset, contending that there is no need of any such support, while others believe it to be a necessity of graceful dress, and state in furtherance of their views that even the ancient Greeks wore a cincture under the dress to support their figures. The matter is like a great many others, and ly narrows itself down to individual conditions.

Thus tall, willowy figure of graceful, slim build may easily afford to dispense with a corset, while the stout, less compactly built woman becomes a caricature without one, or without some equivalent support. A great deal depends upon the corset. The most radical dress reformers usually substitute a whalebone waist for the manufactured corset, or they order the dress waist to be so thoroughly whaleboned that it gives all the support of the corset. So there is simply a substitution of one whaleboned waist for another.—New York Tribune.

A Forgotten Columbus Monument.

It is a mistake to suppose that there was, up to a short time ago, no monument to Columbus in the United States. There is an obelisk shaft in Baltimore. It is obscurely placed and is described "Chris. Columbus." It dates from 1784. It was erected by the French consul general, De Amamour, who, with some hundred or more French officers and soldiers, remained in Baltimore after the end of the Revolutionary war.

Don't Spoil the Soup.

Appreciation of a good dinner is often destroyed in advance by a heavy soup. Many hosts and caterers make this mistake. The prelude to a course dinner should be a thin, clear soup, and portions less than enough to float a yacht should be served.

Graduation and Class Dresses.

Wool crepon, crepe de chine and a new chiffon almost as thick as crepe are the fabrics chosen for the gowns of young girl graduates of the New York public schools. There are also many pretty gowns of sheer mull muslin of Organdy and China silk. The beauty of these youthful gowns lies in their simplicity, hence the fine and tasteful principal of a famous school prohibits the use of lace and all elaborate garniture, and permits only ribbon trimmings on the dresses of the graduates. Thus a crepe de chine gown for a slender, graceful girl with dark hair has a high shirred waist, with wide girdle and Watteau bow of moire ribbon. A crepon dress, with full French waist buttoned in the back, is banded three times below the bust with moire ribbon, each band having a bow with upturned loops in front and back alike. The large puffed sleeves have ribbon bracelets, and the bell skirt, just touching the floor in the back, has three lapping ruffles of inch wide satin ribbon gathered very full, and so deeply lapped that the whole cluster of frills when completed is scarcely two inches wide.

At a class dinner the class colors pink and white will be prettily worn in an Empire gown of white organdie, with quaint old fashioned china design of pink blossoms. The round full waist, half low in the neck, will be filled out to the prescribed height with a gimp of unique Medici design matching the lace of the berthe. One class of young graduates when listening to the baccalaureate sermon will wear white muli dresses and large round hats of white mull shirred on cords and trimmed with an Alsatian bow and twist of pink moire ribbon. The pearly mull gowns worn also on Commencement day have the full high seamless waist gathered around the neck and again at the waist line.—Harper's Bazar.

Easy to Learn.

This stitch enters largely into all kinds of work. Take a piece of linen in which the threads draw easily. Fold and baste them. Draw above the edge of the fold from four to six threads, according to the quality of the material, with a suitable needle and a finer number of cotton than would be used for sewing the same stuff. Insert the needle into the edge of the fold, throw the thread to the left, take up a cluster of threads, pull them together, insert the needle into the edge of the fold and repeat.

Flower Dishes In China.

An Indian canoe in fine china is a dainty receptacle for the flowers of the table. It is generally filled with delicate blossoms and sprays of maidenhair fern, which do not completely conceal its graceful form. Gondola shapes are also found among Italian majolicas, and these are quaint and graceful receptacles for flowers.

Dressed Celery.

Cut up celery into small pieces till there is a pint. Put in a cool place and serve with a boiled dressing made as follows: One tablespoonful of salt, a tablespoonful of sugar, 2 tablespoonfuls salad oil, 2 tablespoonfuls mustard, 2 eggs, a cup of milk, a cup of vinegar. Mix the salt, sugar and mustard together. Add to them the eggs well beaten, then the vinegar, and after stirring well the milk. Cook in a double boiler for 20 minutes, or thick as boiled custard. This dressing if bottled will keep for a week or more in a cold place and will many times take the place of the expensive and tedious mayonnaise.

RESIDENTS OF EVONA ASK TO HAVE THE RAILWAY EXTENDED.

The Matter Discussed by the Board of Directors at a Meeting Held Yesterday Afternoon.—The Prospects Good for the Extension.

THE residents of Evona are fortunate in having such a hustler among them as D. M. Jacob Krimey, for it is by his untiring efforts that they have now such good prospects of rapid transit. Mr. Krimey has worked the matter up alone and deserves a great deal of credit for his enterprise. He has been securing signatures for sometime to a petition for an extension of the street railway from Grant avenue to Dunellen.

Yesterday afternoon the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Electric Street Railway held a meeting at the company's office on West Fourth street, Mr. Krimey was present and presented a petition with about six hundred names. Mr. Krimey was also given a chance to speak in favor of his petition, and he succeeded in getting a favorable answer from the company. The Directors would say nothing definite, until they hold a special meeting to discuss the matter, but told Mr. Krimey enough to satisfy him that the extension would be made soon.

It was through Mr. Krimey that a fire alarm box was placed on West Front street, near the city limits. He says now he is going to work to secure the residents, in his vicinity, protection from fire by having the city water run as far as Evona and have fire hydrants located in his district.

BREVITIES.

—The Hotel Netherwood will close Monday, September 25, for the season.

—Have you noticed the dramatic pictures on the bill boards for "A Flag of Truce?"

—A valuable horse belonging to Mr. George Leland of Grandview avenue died this morning of colic.

—The cases of Classen vs. Shirley and Dreier vs. Scott were to have been tried before Justice Nash yesterday, but were postponed for a week.

—The oyster season has arrived again, and lovers of this succulent bivalve will find a choice line at Oscar Terry's North avenue sea food market.

—Thirty-two brakeman were laid off by the Central railroad last week. Sixteen of these were extra men for the Summer trains, but the other sixteen were old employees.

—The Y. M. C. A.'membership fee of $3 entitles to the following privileges of the Educational Department. Instruction in mechanical drawing, plain geometry, typewriting, book-keeping, arithmetic, vocal music, light gymnastics and such other classes as may be required and can be arranged for in the present limited quarters of the Association. The class in English branches for foreign speaking young men will be continued this year. There will be a small additional fee for shorthand. Further information will be given at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

A TOADSTOOL VICTIM.

A Girl and a Dog Mortally Poisoned in Aldene.

Anna M. Henry, the 11-year-old daughter of Peter F. Henry, a farmer of Aldene, between this city and Elizabeth, was poisoned yesterday by eating toadstools and died a few hours later. She picked and cooked the fungi herself, supposing them to be mushrooms. Her mother threw what was not eaten into the yard. They were devoured by the family's watch dog, a valuable mastiff, and he also died.

A Serious Accident Averted.

Miscalculation on the part of a lady bicycler and a wagon driver, almost caused a serious accident Tuesday morning. Miss Coddington of Washingtonville while riding along Park avenue collided with a horse that was being driven around the Second street corner. The shock threw her from her wheel and she was only saved from a fall and perhaps from being run over, by Assistant Fire Chief Martin who, seeing the danger, managed to catch the lady as she was falling.

Van Anglen Held for the Grand Jury.

"Gus" Van Anglen, who assaulted Marshall Pangborn in the borough last Saturday night, and who was arrested in New Brunswick Monday, was brought to North Plainfield, yesterday, by Chief Grant and Marshal Pangborn. He was given a hearing last night before Justice Crossley and held without bail to await the action of the Somerset County Grand Jury.

Mr. Compton Waives Examination.

Mr. Compton, for whose arrest a warrant was issued yesterday by Justice Nash, as told in yesterday's News, on complaint of his brother-in-law, Mr. Clark, appeared before the Justice this morning and waived examination to await the action of the Grand Jury.

THE BOROUGH IN DARKNESS.

A Serious Accident at the Electric Light Station the Cause.

The streets of the borough of North Plainfield, and private houses using electricity, were left in total darkness all last night. The cause was that a gasket was blown out about seven o'clock. The gasket is a part of the water-tank, or feed chest, through which all water must pass and be heated to a proper temperature before entering the boilers. No water could be put in the boiler after the accident occurred, and the part could only be replaced by a new "head" which was procured in New York to-day.

The accident, according to one of the officers of the company, was one that it was not possible to foresee nor one that is likely to occur soon again. Some leaky valves, however, which had something to do with the trouble, should have been in proper order. No good engineer would let leaky valves go unrepaired.

This is the most serious accident the company has had. They are endeavoring to have the damage repaired by to-night.

—The International Fur Company will open a branch store at 114 Park avenue next Monday. Mr. J. A. Kurez, who is a lifelong furrier, will have charge of Plainfield branch.

FOR MANUAL TRAINING.

PLAINFIELD'S EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES ARE NOW COMPLETE.

The Establishment of the Manual Training School by Mr John Dalziel in the Cap-Stone—Needed for Some Years Past.

MOST family men in looking for suburban homes generally select a city or town in which, among other things, educational advantages are well developed.

Plainfield has an enviable reputation in this particular, and the establishment of Mr. Plainfield Manual Training School is the cap-stone to our educational advantages.

For some years past the need of such a school has been a subject of serious consideration, and various methods for obtaining it have been suggested, but nothing quite so appropriate as the school now started by Mr. John Dalziel had been thought of. His purpose is, we understand, to make the study of free-hand drawing the handmaid to those services which, when applied to the industries, have produced the steam engine, electrical appliances and all the advantages of modern civilization. Correct habits of observation will be inculcated, and not only the hand trained to answer the will, but the eye also will be exercised to detect at a glance the character and quality of the things considered.

If there is one thing, which more than another, makes a man wish to have his boyhood over again, it is the contemplation of just such opportunities for practical study as are now offered to the people of Plainfield.

Mr. Dalziel tells us that all pleasing design is based upon geometrical figures; that the enduring beauty of ancient architecture is due to the adhesion of the quality of stone best suited to resist the influence of atmosphere and climate in the locality in which the building is placed.

These facts give interest to the study of geology and geometry while forestry or economic botany and physiology are equally important in their bearing upon how to obtain the best result with the least labor.

One of the most valuable characteristics of such training will be the many aids to strengthen the memory which are supplied by constant observation of a given subject for a definite purpose; the want of a definite aim being the reason so many of our faculties lie dormant until too late to be of practical service to us.

The names and care of the tools used in cabinet work and ornamental iron work with practical direction in handling them, is intended to develop delicacy of touch and precision in expression, both with the pencil and the pen, and that the pen may be in no wise behind the pencil, our training school is to have a penmanship class. The studies are to include mechanics, the application of force, physics, electricity and the consideration of motive power. Clay modeling and pottery work will be a natural outcome of study of designing.

The practical value of systematic thought applied to all the details of life, is to be the star of the East Front street school.

The idea of opening the school in the rooms over the orthodox Friends' meeting, was suggested to Mr. Dalziel from the fact that a small educational fund belonging to the meeting was available for the purchase of the equipments, making it possible to keep the fee for tuition at a nominal figure.

In conversation with Mr. Dalziel upon the possible advantage of freehand drawing to a business man he mentioned a case of different interest to be received. A youth, whose education had to be cut short to enable him to contribute to the support of a sick father, and who had no prospect of any but the most subordinate position in any establishment, was taught drawing by Mr. Dalziel, he obtained a position as "sweeping boy" in the decorative department of a large firm in Philadelphia and by availing himself of every opportunity where his knowledge of drawing could be of use in design or display he has risen in the course of a few years to the position of superintendent of the department. His rise is clearly attributable to the knowledge of drawing, as without it he would have developed that task, nor would he have had the power to express his thoughts without explaining them to another person, and so losing the credit of the work.

Mr. Dalziel has been a successful teacher for a number of years, to use his own expression, he has the faculty of education in such a degree as to make learning a pleasure, both to the pupil and the instructor.

He will conduct the drawing class personally. The principal work will be under the care of skilled artisans. He brings the experience of years of work and thought to bear upon his effort to give Plainfield an institution worthy of liberal support.

A Runaway Yesterday Morning.

A team of horses, frightened by a electric car, ran away on East Front street at the corner of Watchung avenue yesterday morning. The driver, unable to stop the horses, guided them into a tree, breaking the front axle of his wagon.

AMONG THE WHEELMEN.

Two Plainfielders Entered for the One Mile Novice Race at Waverly.

WAVERLY'S track will be the scene of an important race meet next Saturday, when the Metropolitan Association of Cycling Clubs will hold its annual events. Not only will the meet be of importance on account of the popularity of the clubs composing the association, but the races will also be in the international circuit, and most of the champions, save only Zimmerman, will be among the contestants. Tyler, Windle, Lumsden, Johnson, Sanger, Hayland Smith, Osmund and Meintjes are among those who expect to ride in the championship races.

The events will be one mile, novice; two-mile, handicap; one-mile, scratch, one half-mile, scratch; one mile, handicap, second class; one mile, handicap, first class; five-mile, scratch, and the two mile, three-men team race for championship of Union county and the Saltonstall cup.

Among those intered for the one-mile novice race are W. J. R. Theirs and S. Clinton Crane of this city. The latter is a member of the High School Athletic Association.

WESTFIELD POSTMASTERSHIP.

Precholder Mulford Scudder Endorsed by Congressman Dunn.

A Washington correspondent of the Trenton True American states that the struggle over the Westfield post office has been finally settled by Representative Dunn, who has decided to endorse Mr. Mulford Scudder, a well-known resident. There were a good many applicants for the place, for Westfield is already a presidential office, and provided with so much rapidity that the postmastership will become an important and lucrative position. The nomination will in all probability be sent in by the President before long.

To Unite Westfield's Athletic Clubs.

Vice President Eugene McGarrah, Jr., of the Westfield Athletic Club, has called a meeting of the club for Saturday evening, Sept. 16. It is proposed to unite with the Union League Club. The W. A. C. occupies a handsome club house, newly erected.

The Union League Club is housed in Gale's old bowling alley. The consolidation of the two clubs would be a boom for the Union League, as it would give its members the advantages of their neighbors accommodious quarters.

One of the members of W. A. C. said today: "Our idea in seeking for a consolidation of the two clubs is to bring all young men of the place together under one athletic head. Thus, with the increased dues, we could furnish our house with a fine gymnasium and other improvements."

Noonan Leaves the State.

Mr. John Smalley, who died last week at his home on Maple avenue, North Plainfield, had in his employ Michael Noonan, who had lived with his family a number of years.

Soon after Mr. Smalley's death his widow had Noonan arrested. She presented the warrant from Justice Crossley, and in the complaint charged Noonan with writing threatening letters and setting like an insane person.

Noonan was taken to the lockup and was examined by Dr. Clarkson, who pronounced him perfectly sane. Justice Crossley then placed Noonan under $150 bond to keep the peace.

Noonan finally promised to leave the State and was released.

Solve This.

Supply the missing words in the following verse:

A —— sat in his —— gray,
Wearing the moonbeams' —— play
On a peg that in the bushes lay,
And many a ——
"Thou —— the week, thou —— the strong;
Thou —— great battles to thine —— belong,"
Such lay would the —— took up the song
John Barleycorn, my king!

To work out the anagram one has to find six letters, which, by transposition, will supply suitable words for each blank. We have the solution, and invite lovers of such tests of skill to puton their thinking caps. With the necessary words supplied the verse will be a complete and harmonious stanza. The names of all who secure the correct solution will be published in the News within a reasonable time.

Somerset County Foreholders.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met at Somerville Tuesday.

The Finance Committee reported that the expenditures to date amounted to $18,574.08.

The Board was officially notified of the dangerous condition of public roads in Hillsborough and Branchburg townships. It was reported that the damage done to county buildings by the recent hailstorm had been repaired.

The County Collector was authorized to borrow $10,000 in anticipation of taxes.

The supply of coffee in this country at this time is unusually small, and prices have already advanced 2 4 of a cent per pound.

Want a New Law.

FIREMEN, it is said, will attempt next Winter in the Legislature to have amended the law regulating the disposition of the money held by the relief fund associations connected with the volunteer fire departments throughout the State. This fund is created by an assessment of 2 per cent. upon the premiums of all outside insurance companies doing business in the State. Every volunteer department has a relief association connected with it and the Secretary of State and Comptroller, who have supervision of the matter, divide the money equally among them.

In small towns this fund has assumed large proportions, the law requiring that it shall only be used to aid firemen who meet with accidents while in active service.

It is proposed to introduce an act this winter, amending the law so that a portion of the accumulated funds, or the interest thereon, may be appropriated annually for supplies and apparatus for the struggling departments in small country towns.

The annual meeting of the State Association will be held at Lambertville on the 28th of this month, when the matter will be fully discussed and an effort made to have the legislative committee instructed to frame a joint amendment to the law. General Bird W. Spencer, president of the association, will be especially interested in the rural representatives, to give the proposed change a favorable and influential hearing. Every town in the State is interested in the matter.

An Enormous Show.

To say that "there is nothing new under the sun" after witnessing a performance of Barnum and Bailey's mammoth show would be and expression equaled only by saying that "The days of progress are past." The aggregation of the menagerie de la creme is a veritable epitome of the fauna of the world and the curious of all curiosities, the finest of all fine fixings in the matter of paraphernalia, the choicest of all feats in cute, cunning and curious, and in fact Mr. Hunting's ripe experience has been gratified to its fullest in organizing, arranging and exhibiting so much of the best features of the modern amusement. He has struck the keynote in placing a big show on the road. There is all to see that mortal map could expect, and many that no one could enumerate in a column. Suffice it to say that the show is as good as anybody's; the circus is all the word implies; and the trained animals are marvels of wit, dom, wit and wonder, and the whole outfit is worthy of the confidence of everybody.—Sherbury, Ct., Telegraph.

This circus will exhibit here to-night

Marriages in India.

The Maharaja of Mysore has just caused to be issued a regulation, to be hereafter considered by hisgoverna ent, the object of which is to "prevent infant marriages in the territories of Mysore." The regulation, which is to come into force within six months, will fix the minimum age at which a girl may marry at eight years and a boy at fourteen. A male over the age of eighteen may not marry a girl of eight under a heavy penalty. A man over fifty years of age is not to be allowed to marry a girl under fourteen years of age, under pain of imprisonment, which may extend to two years. An alder or abettor of such offence is liable to imprisonment for six months.

WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS.

Reports for the Week Ending September 11.

OR the week ending Monday, September 11, the observers and crop correspondents of the New Jersey State Weather Service report that the weather conditions which prevailed during the week have been most favorable for the maturing of corn and the gathering of the various farm products. Fall plowing and the seeding of wheat, rye and grass are well under way, and in the districts where this work is completed the grain is reported as coming up nicely. Corn cutting has already commenced, owing to its ripened condition. The yield will be reduced one-third.

UNION COUNTY.

PLAINFIELD—Farmers are now cutting corn which is down so badly that it is difficult to cut; the crop is fair. Fall plowing is being pushed. The amount of rainfall during the growing season helped the crops to some extent but the drought had done its injury before the rain came. The rainfall, from May 1st to date was 19.32 inches. Rainfall for the week, 0.59 inch; average temperature, 68 deg.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Are Criminals Born or Made?

That fine Italian gentleman, Professor Cesare Lombroso, has proved to his own perfect satisfaction that the criminal is such by virtue of having been born with a certain shaped head and hand. Mr. W. M. F. Round, secretary of the National Prison Reform association, spouts the idea of Professor Lombroso. He declares the influence of heredity among criminals has been exaggerated till it has assumed the proportions of a fickly sentimentality. A criminal is not a monster to be slain or an unfortunate creature to be petted. He is a man like other men, except that he objects decidedly to working for his living, preferring to prey upon other men for that. He must be caught and punished with the utmost severity, says Mr. Round, writing in The Forum.

The writer's idea of the utmost severity must be explained, however. What punishment would the criminal regard as the severest that could be inflicted on him? In brief, making him work for his living. That is the punishment Mr. Round demands in order to rid society permanently of its dangerous classes. He does not believe in sentences to workhouses and penitentiaries for a definite length of time. The sentence should be of the class called indeterminate—that is, the convict should be imprisoned till he learns some trade and is ready and willing to work at it for his living the rest of his days. Mr. Round admits the influence of heredity only in case of the individual having been born physically weak or defective.

There is a manly robustness and directness about this way of looking at the criminal question that is refreshing after the dosing we have had with maudlin sentimentalisms that would fairly make a hero of a thief and murderer and consider no quarters too luxurious for his accommodation.

A Duty and a Pleasure.

Mrs. Sarah Grand, author of that novel, "The Heavenly Twins," which has produced a sensation in England, has written a strong paper in The Humanitarian on "The Moral and Manners of Appearance." W. T. Stead, commenting on the paper, says it ought to be called "The Duty of Looking Nice." Mrs. Grand lays down with emphasis the rule that everybody, and those especially who are trying to reform the world, should be thoroughly neat in dress and personal appearance, and should cultivate a pretty temper and pleasing manners. Of course everybody owes as a human being this much to his fellow man, but those who believe they are trying to make society better should particularly begin by reforming themselves in all ways. A dingy, slovenly, ill mannered and ill tempered reformer will by the very fact of his repulsive looks and manners set people against his reform. An old frump will be apt to think the thoughts of an old frump.

Mrs. Grand writes, with especial reference to women, as follows:

> We are sentient beings, and emotion is a factor to be reckoned with. It seems therefore to the lowbrowed drudge of every worker in a good cause to study the art of being prepossessing, and it is difficult to conceive anything more distinctively foolish than for women, at this critical period of their progress, to endanger their chances of success by being careless of the effect of their personal appearance, or by neglecting the cultivation of charms of manner, when the use of these two powerful auxiliaries is beyond question a good one.
> On no account leave the heart out of your calculations. There are people who endeavor to travel on their heads (as the Americans phrase it) while their hearts contract, and the consequence is that their harshness repels those on her than their cleverness convinces. To succeed all around you must invite the eye, open the ear and the way, you must excite an interest in the pleasure of knowing you and cherishing the desire to meet you again. Remember the importance of being a pleasing person, and then you will be well on the way to satisfy the palates of those who want the quality of your wine. We may be sure that if manners [illegible] man they will make the woman too.

[illegible]ful feature of the university settlement in Chicago is the vacant square [illegible] has been fitted up as a playground [illegible] children of the poor. One of the [illegible]ces that tend to make city life unbearable is the vast number of street [illegible] that howl and fight and get into [illegible] and of desperate mischief. Yet [illegible]onstant activity is essential to [illegible]od and cannot be stifled. The [illegible] settlement people rented the [illegible] lot, had it properly furnished with [illegible] and appliances for the various [illegible]games of childhood. Thither the [illegible]y little street children resort [illegible] and there they are allowed free [illegible]only the absolutely necessary su[illegible]n being exercised over them. In [illegible]ening quarters in which the set[illegible] is situated the annoyance of the [illegible]children has largely disappeared [illegible] the young ones employ themselves [illegible]innocently in the vacant lot. [illegible] a suggestion for all cities, the [illegible]especially. No ground in [illegible]as as precious as the health and [illegible] of its children are. No city [illegible]t to be without its public play[illegible]which will keep children from [illegible]s and save them from ruin, and [illegible] and more crowded a district [illegible]ce need there is within it for [illegible]ome play parks.

[illegible] will astonish some persons to know [illegible] the [illegible] temperance association [illegible] in America is the Congressional Temperance society of Washington. It has been in existence 50 years. Who would have suspected it?

THE BOOMERS SUFFER.

A Tropical Sun Shines Down on the Homeseekers.

SIX MEN DROP DEAD IN THE LINE.

The Registration Scheme Proves a Cruel Failure—Secretary Hoke Smith Appealed To—Murder and Robbery Along the Borders of the Cherokee Strip.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 14.—The mercury in Arkansas City yesterday afternoon indicated a temperature of 110 degrees, Fahrenheit, the hottest day of the season in this part of the country. The recent scenes were more than repeated, and many persons, overcome by the heat, were carried from the lines. Some of them will recover, but others will die. Six men have just died.

There is great discontent among the homeseekers because the forces at the booths are not large enough to register more than one-half of the people who wish certificates of registration. Great pressure is being brought to bear upon the authorities at Washington to induce them to move the booths to Arkansas City or to discontinue all registration and to permit every one to enter the strip and locate a claim.

Appeals to Hoke Smith.

Lieutenant Caldwell sent a telegram through his superior officer, Colonel Parker, to Secretary Hoke Smith advising him of the conditions existing at the booths, and suggesting that as the registration has proved almost a complete failure it be discontinued. All of the newspaper men representing metropolitan papers united in the following dispatch to Secretary Smith:

"In the name of the papers we represent, we respectfully request that you take immediate steps to alleviate the suffering of the homeseekers who are seeking registration at booth 9 near this city. The booth is situated on a dusty road, four miles away from water and shelter, the weather is extremely hot, and hot winds are blowing a gale. The suffering is great. A large number of the homeseekers have been stricken down, and some of them have died.

"Registration is progressing so slowly that thousands of men are compelled to stand in line for days, exposed to the sun, dust and thirst. Can you not cause the booth to be removed to this city and put on a larger force of clerks, or abandon registration at once? For the honor and welfare of the administration we beg you to take immediate action. Humanity demands it."

So bitter has the feeling become against the registration system that when Friday night arrives, and it is apparent that the thousands in waiting will be unable to have their names placed on the list, a riot will be precipitated. Practically the same conditions exist at Orlando, Stillwater, Hunnewell and Caldwell.

It will be impossible to enforce the order issued by Secretary Smith on Monday forbidding any one to travel in the trains entering the strip at noon who are not armed with registration certificates. Trains loaded to their fullest capacity are arriving here, and this influx will be kept up constantly until Saturday noon.

Murder and Robbery.

At Hunnewell a boomer was killed in his wagon and $60 of all his money. The murderer was captured and quickly removed from town to prevent his being lynched. Several attempts at murder and robbery were reported at the booths near this city, but the vigilance of the soldiers prevented any fatalities. A soldier engaged in a heated altercation with a would be bad man and fired at him in the crowd. The bullet hit the horse on which Sheriff Nipp of this county was sitting, killing it outright. He was placed under arrest by the lieutenant in command.

It is reported here that an organization of Oklahoma men has been effected to capture the town site of Perry next Saturday.

The Cherokee Indian Allotment trust concluded all preliminary arrangements and placed town lots in each of the eight town sites on sale. They found a ready market, business men and speculators generally preferring to buy a lot outright and get a perfect title at once rather than take chances in the scramble that will be made for lots at the government county seats.

An Engine Does a Somersault.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—As a local passenger train on the Reading railroad was passing Dimner hardware reputation [illegible] other than their cleverness convinces. To succeed all around you must invite the eye, open the ear and the way, you must excite an [illegible] the pleasure of knowing you and cherishing the desire to meet you again. Remember the importance of being a pleasing person, and then you will be well on the way to satisfy the palates of those who want the quality of your wine. We may be sure that if manners [illegible] man they will make the woman too. ran out of a side track, overturning the passenger locomotive. Frank Peters, fireman of the passenger engine, was badly scalded and died while being taken from the wreck. Pat McCabe, the engineer, was seriously scalded, but will recover.

Mrs. Halliday Appears Sane.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sept. 14.—Several times within the past week Mrs. Halliday has been detected looking from her cell window in a perfectly sane way. It was discovered that Mrs. Halliday had stuffed her pillow in front of the bars of her window, insuring herself against detection.

Blew Out a Boiler Tube.

CITY ISLAND, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The steam yacht Allegra, Colonel S. V. R. Cruger, from New York for Bayville, N. Y., while opposite City Island blew a tube out of the boiler. The fireman, James Gell, was instantly killed, and the engineer, E. R. Barrett, was severely scalded.

GUILFORD, Ct., Sept. 14.—The Second Connecticut light artillery held its annual reunion here.

SIX ACRES IN ASHES.

A Fire In Spencer, Mass., Destroys Many Business Buildings.

WORCESTER, Mass., Sept. 14.—A fire in the town of Spencer resulted in a total loss that will amount to $250,000. Fully six acres of buildings were totally destroyed. The disastrous fire originated at the freight depot of the Boston and Albany road on Wall street, near Mechanics' street. A large number of kerosene barrels, some of them full, were standing on the platform in a place where it was customary to store them, the platform being therefore consistently saturated at points. The fire may have been started among the barrels by a spark from a locomotive, or more probably by fire dropped from a pipe or a cigar on the oil soaked boards of the platform.

At the time that the fire broke out the town water was turned off for repairs in the main, and it was not possible at first to get water to put out the fire. Fire engines were summoned from Leicester, East Brookfield, North Brookfield and Worcester, and not until some of these arrived was it possible to make any headway against the fire. The fire rapidly increased in intensity by a mild southeast wind blowing Wall street toward Main street. Every building on either side of Wall street was totally destroyed. The following is a list of the principal places burned:

E. C. Stone & Co.'s planing mill, lumber yard, lumber shed and two buildings; loss, $25,000. Office of the Spencer Leader; total loss, $10,000. John G. Avery's machine and repair shops; loss, $6,000. Eldredge's leather dressing establishment; loss, $6,000. William T. Clark & Son's machine shop; loss, $5,000. William A. Barr & Son's heel factory, employing 60 hands; loss, $20,000. Hammond's Chicago beef store; loss, $5,000. Boston and Albany passenger station and freight department; loss, $25,000.

CHOLERA AMONG PILGRIMS.

Of Nine Thousand Only Half Returned From Mecca.

TUNIS, Sept. 14.—Of the 9,000 pilgrims that left here and other ports in May last for Mecca only half have returned, the others having fallen victims to the cholera. Fully 18,000 friends and relatives met the returning pilgrims on their release from quarantine, and there were many heartrending demonstrations of grief by the relatives of those who had succumbed to the disease. The survivors tell terrible tales of suffering.

On June 26, 100,000 pilgrims were gathered on the Sacred Mount to hear a solemn address prior to their proceeding for Mecca. Many of the multitude were starving. The mount resembled a battlefield, being strewn with the corpses of victims of the pestilence, among whom were lying hundreds of poor wretches who were dying from the dread disease.

So frightful was the condition of affairs that no one dared to approach the place. Finally a detachment of 100 Turkish soldiers was sent to bury the dead and rescue the living. Five hundred of these soldiers lost their lives as a result of their devotion to duty. Of the whole battalion only 300 men escaped the pestilence.

They Fought For Blood.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 14.—A most brutal prize fight took place in broad daylight to Montowese, about five miles from this city. The principals were Kenny Lynch and Robert Kennedy, two well known local pugilists. The men fought desperately for more than an hour. Both men were badly punished, and Kennedy was so terribly hurt that he had to be taken in a carriage to his home, where he now lies in a precarious condition. The fight was for blood, the men having an old score to settle. The officers of Montowese were attending court in this city, and the men took advantage of this fact.

Crack Bicyclists at Springfield.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 14.—At Hampden park was held the first meeting of the great bicyclists. Sanger was the hero of the day, winning the international invitation race and making a new record for a scratch competition mile, beating the 2 minutes 12 2-5 seconds record made by Zimmerman at Indianapolis. Zimmerman, however, beat everybody in the half mile open, in which the stars were all entered save S. J. Johnson, who is out from inflamed teeth and withdrew from the tournament.

Lombard Investment Company's Affairs.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The World says today: "Warfare between the two factions of that gigantic corporation known as the Lombard investment company has advanced to such a stage and the defeated faction shows such heedlessness in its attacks that it is known that the company will be rent asunder. The dissatisfied stockholders are striving to have the company placed in the hands of a receiver."

The Defiant Young Czechs.

PRAGUE, Sept. 14.—Despite the prohibition by the government of political banquets, 150 young Czechs, including several members of the reichsrath, assembled in a restaurant on Sophien island and refused to disperse until the police threatened to forcibly clear the place. Upon leaving the building they were greeted by the mob outside with derisive shouts.

Trial of Railroad Employees Continued.

HARTFORD, Sept. 14.—In the superior court the case of Evan W. Scott, timekeeper, and 20 other employees of the New York and New England railroad for alleged conspiracy in defrauding the road by means of falsified payrolls was continued to the December term.

The Western Union Burned Out.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Fire in the Corcoran building greatly damaged the wires of the Western Union Telegraph company, whose offices are located on the upper floors of the building, and shut off all telegraphic communication of the city by that company.

McKinley Meets With the Class.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Governor William McKinley and his staff took part today in the celebration. Incidentally the governor came to attend the reunion of the Class Mc Kinley.

New Receiver For the Reading.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—By order of Judge Lacombe, John Lowber Welsh was substituted as receiver of the Philadelphia and Reading railroad in place of Elisha K. Wilbur.

Councilmen's Volunteers Hold a Reunion.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 14.—Delegates named at a meeting of the Twenty-seventh Republican organization as a delegate to the Republican state convention.

The Funeral Directors' Convention.

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 14.—At the funeral directors' convention George H. Alvord was elected president.

Cholera In London.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Two cases of cholera are reported by the health authorities in this city.

SHELLING OF RIO BEGUN

The Rebel Fleet Bombarding the Brazilian Capital.

THE REVOLTERS ARE RE-ENFORCED

A British Gunboat Warns All Vessels to Keep Out of the Harbor—Fears at Washington For the Safety of American Residents—None of the Cruisers Heard From.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The following dispatch has been received from Rio Janeiro:

The attack of the rebel fleet on the forts began at 9 o'clock Wednesday. The garrison of the largest and strongest fort has declared for the rebels.

The bombardment of the town begins at 11 o'clock. The town has a desolate appearance. The people who are compelled to remain are greatly excited. All business is at a standstill. The air is full of alarming rumors.

ROME, Sept. 14.—Intelligence has been received in this city to the effect that Admiral Mello, commanding the rebel Brazilian fleet, has informed the representatives of foreign nations in Rio de Janeiro of his intention to bombard the forts in the bay of Rio de Janeiro.

Simultaneously just those forts were fixed to begin after 9 o'clock yesterday. Arrangements were being made to remove foreign vessels from the line of fire. It is also said that a British gunboat had left the bay for the purpose of warning vessels not to enter.

Minister Thompson Heard From.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The state department has as last, after waiting for several days, again received word from Minister Thompson in Brazil.

Secretary Gresham, when asked about the dispatch, was at first disinclined to tell anything of its contents. He consented, however, to make public a portion of it, and that was to the effect that the minister reported that telegraphic communication with Brazil had been restored.

The secretary was asked whether the dispatch contained any reference to the reported bombardment of the city, which it was said was to have taken place today, but Mr. Gresham answered that it did not.

This state of affairs and the serious tenor of Mr. Thompson's last dispatch convince the authorities that the situation, instead of improving, is growing worse, and nothing short of a prolonged and general revolution is now looked for.

This feeling is accompanied by the greatest concern for the safety of American interests in Brazil and is aggravated by the continued failure of the navy department to hear from the cruiser Charleston, now a week overdue at Rio. Even assuming that she passed that port, she should have reached Montevideo yesterday, and if she has not arrived there the officials say the authorities will conclude that some mishap to her machinery has delayed her.

Queensberry Will Punch Rosebery.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—"Lord Rosebery has lied!" Thus spoke the Marquis of Queensberry to a reporter. The noble marquis at the same time flourishing a thick bundle of letters which, he averred, contained full proof of the moral obliquity of the English premier and of Baron Henry Lynch and Gladstone. "And if Lord Rosebery fancies he has done with me," continued the marquis, "he is vastly mistaken.

"I am going to London to see this matter through. I will not rest until I have brought it to a head, and if an assault on the person of Lord Rosebery is necessary, why, I am prepared to commit that assault!

"You see, my intention is to 'show up' Lord Rosebery, and this publicly my only chance of doing so is to force him to bring me up before the law courts for assault.

"Then," said the marquis triumphantly, "I have these!" and he flourished his bundle of letters.

"May I ask what is the nature of those letters?"

"Certainly. There is one from her gracious majesty the queen and another from Mr. Gladstone, besides copies of a number of letters from me to the Prince of Wales and also to Lord Rosebery. The letters from her majesty and Mr. Gladstone prove beyond doubt that it was Lord Rosebery who was at the bottom of the whole trouble."

Henry Villard Accused.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Henry Villard, the Northern Pacific wrecker, and his partners, Thomas F. Oakes, Henry C. Rouse, Henry C. Payne and others have been sued by Henry Siegfried, of Philadelphia, who seeks them to restore a large amount of bonds and stock which they are charged with having conspired to obtain. Mr. Swopesse as the holder of 25 shares of the preferred stock of the Northern Pacific railroad.

Pay Templeton In Mrs. Howell Column.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Miss Pay Templeton arrived in this city from Boston and is at the Grand hotel. "Yes, we are married," said Miss Templeton to a reporter, "and have been married a long time, notwithstanding all reports to the contrary." Howell Osborn, who stood beside her, nodded his head affirmatively.

Hammered a Knife Into Her Throat.

BELVIDERE, N. J., Sept. 14.—Mrs. John Grady of Bloomsbury, aged 70 years, attempted to commit suicide. She hammered an old knife and drove it into her throat with a hammer, inflicting an ugly wound. It is feared she will not recover. The woman is blind and crippled.

The Labor Situation In New Bedford.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 14.—The situation in labor circles is unchanged. The Acushnet mill remains closed, but in all the other mills the help are at work, though greatly dissatisfied over the outdown.

Navahoe Claims the Race.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The race between the Navahoe and Britannia was the closest for so long a course, on record. Mr. Carroll claims that the Navahoe won the race by a minute on the allowance.

Cotton Mill Reduces Wages.

THE RELIGIOUS CONGRESS.

The Audience to Big That It Overflowed Into Smaller Halls.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—So general an interest was manifested in the proceedings of the world's parliament of religions that it was found necessary to arrange for overflow meetings in the smaller halls. In the Hall of Columbus, Protap Chunder Mazoomdar of India delivered an earnest address in the English language, which created so much attention that when he had concluded the applause compelled him to return to the front of the platform and bow his thanks, the scene being emphasized by the immense audience rising to its feet and singing "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

A representative of the Greek church, Archbishop Dionysius Latas of Zante, Greece, was the next speaker.

In the congress of the Congregational church woman's work among the Indians was discussed by a number of speakers. "Christ's Nature of Salvation," "The Inspiration and Revelation of the Bible" and "The Problem of Sin" were the subjects talked over in the Universalist congress.

The Lutherans discussed foreign mission work and church extension, while the Methodist church compared the church of Christ in the first century with the church of the future.

At the evening session the Rev. Father Elliott of the Order of Paulists spoke on the atonement, the object of which, he said, was to restore us to divine worship.

The Rev. Phillip Moxom of Boston, presented an able paper entitled "The Argument For Immortality."

BACK TO BOSTON.

Oliver Ames, Jr., Takes Charge of the Remains of His Father.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Oliver Ames, Jr., son of the late Boston millionaire, Frederick L. Ames, vice president of the Old Colony railroad, who was found dead in a stateroom of the steamer Pilgrim soon after her arrival at Pier 29, North river, was in this city and took charge of the body of his father.

The remains had been taken in charge by an undertaker to be embalmed. Mr. Ames took the remains of his father to the Grand Central depot, and they were placed on the New Haven and Hartford train which left there at midnight. They arrived in Boston at 7 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Ames' death is supposed to have been caused by apoplexy. He boarded the Pilgrim at Fall River Tuesday night alone. He was on his way to this city to attend a meeting of Union Pacific directors held yesterday.

Frederick L. Ames was admittedly one of the three or four richest men in Massachusetts, and he had the finest residence in North Easton, with conservatories that were famous in the world of floriculture.

His collection of orchids is the finest extant and said to be valued at $300,000. He was a member of the Somerset and Algonquin clubs and is believed to be in the syndicate that built the Boston cup defender Pilgrim, designed by Stewart & Binney. He extended his charities lavishly.

Will Ask For Preston's Removal.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The depositors of the suspended Commercial bank of Brooklyn determined to appear against the state superintendent of banking, Charles M. Preston, before the governor and ask for his removal from office. The committee of five of the depositors' organization was instructed to go to Albany Friday and present the circumstances of the failure of the Commercial bank to Governor Flower. It is charged that the Commercial bank was passed as sound by the state banking department when it was actually insolvent.

Governor Matthews Talks of Bloodshed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 14.—D. O'Malley, president of the Columbian Athletic club, called on Governor Matthews and pleaded with the governor not to interfere. The interview ended with the governor saying: "There will be no more prize fighting at Roby if I have to call out every militiaman in the state and a thousand Chicago toughs get killed. I mean to stop the fights at Roby if my 18 gunpowder enough in Indiana to do it."

Died of Hiccoughs.

VINELAND, N. J., Sept. 14.—On Sunday, Sept. 3, William F. Veale, father of the superintendent of the farming department of the State Home Training school, was suddenly stricken with hiccoughs, being incessantly convulsed with spasms, except at intervals when he was under the influence of morphine. On Sunday last he lost his eyesight and Tuesday morning became unconscious. Wednesday night he died, paralysis having set in.

Colonel Breckinridge's Defense.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 14.—It is said by persons in a position to know something of the intentions of Colonel W. C. P. Breckinridge that in his cross petition in the Breckinridge-Pollard seduction and breach of promise suit he will deny that Miss Pollard can lay her downfall at his door; that he is no way responsible for her undesirable career, and that he had nothing to do with her until he knew her character was not good.

Waite May Call an Extra Session.

NO END IS YET IN SIGHT.

Silver Senators Refuse to Consent to a Vote.

VOORHEES WILL TRY AGAIN SOON.

Republicans Will Make a Fight Against the Proposed Repeal of the Federal Election Laws—The House Holds a Fruitless Session—Annexation of Utah to Nevada.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—An effort was made in the senate, after the repeal bill was laid before it, to have a day fixed for closing general debate, but the result of that effort was not very encouraging to the hopes of those who look forward to a not distant final disposition of the bill.

The proposition came naturally and with due modesty from the chairman of the finance committee, who suggested that general debate should close next Wednesday; that the discussion on the substitute and various amendments should continue till the following Saturday, and that then voting should begin. He desired to elicit the views on that point of senators on the other side of the chamber.

Those views were expressed through Mr. Dubois of Idaho, who held out no hope of an agreement to having any time fixed. Thereupon Mr. Voorhees recognized the situation and withdrew his suggestion, promising, however, to submit another proposition at some time hereafter.

Silver Petitions Are Coming.

In the course of the discussion upon Mr. Voorhees declared his readiness to engage in legislation in behalf of silver as soon as the Sherman law should be out of the way, and he denied that the repeal of that law would demonetize a single dollar of the 600 odd million silver dollars in the United States. It would only put an end to the traffic in silver as a commodity—a miserable commodity.

Mr. Dubois, however, expressed not half of the friends of silver an unwillingness to trust to future silver legislation, knowing that there could be none during the remainder of Mr. Cleveland's administration. Mr. Voorhees' proposition having thus failed, the debate on the repeal bill went on, speeches being made by Mr. Shoup of Idaho against it and by Mr. Dolph of Oregon in favor of it.

The house attempted, notwithstanding a small attendance, to get down to business. Mr. Talbert of South Carolina made the first effort with a resolution instructing the committee on banking and currency to report the McLaurin bill for the issue of $135,000,000 in treasury notes, but this attempt was frustrated by an objection from Mr. Brosius of Pennsylvania.

Then Mr. Hitchcock, the chairman of the committee on printing, came in with a report on the bill regulating public printing and binding and asked for its immediate consideration. But Mr. Talbert, acting under a desire for retaliation, and Kilgore, acting on general principles, objected, and the bill was placed upon the calendar. Subsequently it was considered, but without disposing of it the house adjourned.

Fight Against Election Law Repeal.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—There is promise of difficulty in the way of the southern representatives who are desirous of reporting today the bill to repeal the federal election laws. The Republican opposition has taken form, and they have, it is said, been instructed to absent themselves when the committee on election of president and vice president, which has charge of the bill, attempts to meet. If all the Democratic members of the committee are present, the bill may still be reported, but there are signs of defection on the part of some administration men, who are fearful of the effect of a report on the silver repeal bill, and if only one of them absent a quorum cannot be obtained and the bill cannot be reported.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

New Jersey—Henry Asay, Bayville; Absalom H. Hughes, Leeds; South George Reyner, Midland Park; Henry Filling, Pomerania; Henry Peters, Tabernacle; John R. Freeland, Upper Macopin; William H. Wilson, Whipany; George C. Cranmer, Whiting.

HOT ON THE TRAIL.

A Posse After Men Supposed to Be the Lake Shore Train Robbers.

KELSEYVILLE, Ind., Sept. 14.—A fruitless attempt to capture five of the Kendallville train robbers was made at this place. A negro rode up to a farmhouse and asked for something to eat. While the farmer's wife was preparing his meal her little daughter was sent to the town to notify the officers.

A posse was quickly collected. When they reached the farmhouse, the negro had been joined by four of his mates. The men hastily mounted their horses and rode away. Several shots were exchanged between the posse and the robbers. The colored man was shot in the leg and one of the pursuers was shot through the arm.

The people of Kelseyville think there is no doubt that the men are the Lake Shore train robbers. The posse is still in pursuit.

RICHMOND, Ind., Sept. 14.—Two men suspected of complicity in the late train robbery were arrested here. They refuse to give their names or any information regarding their recent movements. Officers decline to say whether or not they have any evidence against the suspects.

WOMAN AND HOME.

WHAT MEN THINK OF THE "GETUP" OF WOMEN AND GIRLS.

The Woman of Tact—Courtship of Lord Burton—Servant Girls In a City Flat. The Fireside's Impressions—Women Writers of the Western Press.

There is nothing that men of society dislike so much or criticise so freely as untidiness in a woman. Slovenly details in the way of shoes, gloves, ties, etc., are always noticed and commented upon, and to say a woman is "smart" and "well turned out" is to give the highest meed of praise in their vocabulary. Very expensive clothes are not at all necessary to insure masculine approbation. On the contrary, the simplest toilets are the most admired, if the fit and style are good and if the accessories are carefully considered, and, above all, if the gown is fresh and unsoiled.

There is something quite fascinating about a daintily shod foot peeping in and out among the "frills of her petticoat," and nowadays expense need be no obstacle, as the pretty suede shoes, black and white and tan and gray, are very reasonable in price. Even a girl who is far from wealthy can easily afford several pairs to wear on special occasions, while her leathers, tan and black, can so easily be kept brilliantly clean by the right sort of polish.

A man also is more apt to admire style than beauty. A girl who is "chic" and dresses effectively is generally much more of a belle than her more beautiful sister, who perhaps relies too much on her prettiness for her attractions. After all is said and done, clothes are and will remain one of the chief factors of our existence, the tailor making the man and the dressmaker the woman as far as externals go. Humiliating as it may seem, a becoming or an unbecoming gown often influences destiny more than women, much as they love clothes, dream of.

"What is the matter with women's skirts for the last year or two that they are always open behind at the waist?" asked a hypercritical friend the other day. "I never saw anything like it. Last Sunday in church three girls were sitting in the pew in front of me, and I assure you not one was tidily put together at the waist. Now, your waist and skirt never come apart," he continued, addressing his companion. "Pray, how do you manage it? I should really like to tell my sisters, who are always coming apart."

"They will not thank you for quoting me to them," laughed his companion, "but unless things are sewed together there is only one way, and that is to wear the band of the skirt very tight; otherwise it is sure to sag below the belt. And besides this, there should be two sets of hooks and eyes, so that there is a good lap. Tell your sisters to try these simple essentials, and I am quite sure that they will have no more trouble."—New York Tribune.

The Woman Who Has Tact.

There is nothing that carries a woman so far toward the goal of social success as tact. She may not possess those qualities considered for leadership, and she will take no difficulty in securing so firm a foothold that she need have no dread of a greater power dawning upon the social horizon. The reason for this is that in reality tact is but another word for goodness of heart, and innate kindness to all must be the keynote that the woman of the world builds into the castles of her ambition upon.

The tactful woman always says and does the right thing at the right time. She never wounds by these gaucheries which all unintentionally, yet nevertheless painfully, remind us of things we had rather have forgotten or tells us unpleasant truths that are no less bitter because we know that there is no denying them.

Tact passes over every faux pas and somehow manages to convert them into something pleasant before the embarrassed culprit can get a chance to raise a blush at his own awkwardness. All graces of mind and body seem embodied in that one word, for a woman may be painfully plain, yet with this virtue she becomes radiantly lovely in the eyes of those whom her consummate art has rescued from some dire strait.

She may be poor, but to those about her the richness of her nature atones for the lack of worldly wealth. Her gowns may be dowdy, but as she dwells among us she appears to be clothed in garments of radiant light, and it would be a brave spirit indeed that dared to cavil at the makeup of a woman whose gracious presence and tactful spirit had spared them many a period of embarrassment. Above all virtues cultivate tact, for in it lies the secret of all others.—Chicago Tribune.

The Courtship of Lord Burton.

In Lady Burton's life of her husband Burton's courtship of his wife is very prettily told. It was one of signs and portents and of much opposition on the part of her family, who thought he was not her equal in social station, and who in any case objected to his supposed want of faith. But the lady had made up her mind. It was in London, in a crowded room, that she found him for the dangers he had passed, and he loved her that she did pity them. At length the lady wrote a decisive letter to her mother. "He is the only being who sews me into respect, and to whose command I bow my head, and say evil opinions you may have heard of him arise from his reckless writing at deflecting conventional people, talking nonsense about religion and heart and principle, which those who do not know him unfortunately take seriously, and he amuses himself with watching their stupid faces.

"Once he is married to me he will be the favorite of our family, and you will all be proud of him and have implicit confidence in him. And let me tell you another thing —you and my father are immensely proud of your families, and we are taught to be the same, but from the present to the future I believe that our proudest record will be our alliance with Richard Burton. I want to live." I hate the artificial existence of London; I hate the life of a vegetable in the country; I want a wild, roving, vagabond life. I am young, strong and hardy, with good nerves; I like roughing it, and I always want to do something daring and original, which I certainly repent it if you keep me tied up." Finally Cardinal Wiseman's intervention smoothed away all difficulties.

Servant Girls In a City Flat.

There are at least two sides to every question—sometimes three or four. One of the latter kind is the servant girl question.

"I'll tell you one fruitful source of dissatisfaction among servant girls in New York, especially among those who do parent Somerville, "says a woman who runs an employment agency. "It is the close confinement and unbearable dullness of flat life. A great many flats have airshafts, being more than narrow prisons. The girl has the far end of the concern, away back in the rear, in a hole as hot as Tophet by day, and a dark cell to sleep in. She must usually sit in the kitchen. The room, besides being small and superheated, looks out upon a dark, narrow, lifeless court, or else it faces right against a black brick wall a few feet away. Now remember that the average girl has no mental resources such as people of liberal education enjoy. She cannot sit down and read absorbing books or otherwise employ her leisure moments. She cannot see anything on the street. She can't hear anything going on in the house. To all intents and purposes she is in the penitentiary, for she has a cell and hard work only as alternatives.

"It is a cell and hard work, hard work and a cell—solitary confinement in some families, for some mistresses talk very little to their servant and say less before her. The girl has the relief of her day out, but if she is in the habit of associating with other servants the weekly comparison of notes is apt to make her still more unhappy when she returns to her lonely cell on Sunday night. She can scarcely be seriously blamed if she wants a change. The kindness of the mistress, the comparatively easy work, the fair wages, often fail to balance the dreadful loneliness and other misery of such an existence."—New York Herald.

The Fireside's Impressions.

The fireside is a seminary of infinite importance. It is to certain humors what it is universal, and because the education it bestows, being woven in with the woof of childhood, gives form and color to the whole long web of life, which we are few of us can receive the honors of a college, but all are graduates of the hearth. The learning of the university may fade from the recollection, its classic lore may moldier in the halls of memory, but the simple lessons of home enamelled upon the heart of childhood defy the rust of years and outlive the mere nature but less vivid pictures of after years. So deep, so lasting indeed are the impressions of early life, that you often see a man in the full maturity of age holding fresh in his recollection the events of childhood, while all the wide space between that and the present hour is a blasted and forgotten waste.

You have perchance seen an old and half obliterated portrait, and in the attempt to have it restored and restored you may have seen it fade away, while a brighter and more perfect picture, painted beneath, is revealed to view. This portrait, first drawn upon the canvas, is no slight illustration of you, and though it may be concealed by some after design still the original traits will shine through the outward picture, giving it tone while it fades and carrying it in decay. Such is the fireside—the great institution of Providence for the education of man.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Women Writers of the Western Press.

It has often been observed that in the eastern cities women sent out on night details are compelled to go unattended, while here in San Francisco, if a woman is sent out at all on a detail that involves the least exposure to the rough element, she is provided with an escort. Indeed in San Francisco and other western cities women are not often assigned to other night work than that of dramatic and society reporting or lecture and association reporting.

Few women are employed on the daily press in San Francisco. The Call has one woman on its staff. The Chronicle employs one woman, but it is an innovation. The Examiner employs two and sometimes three women; The Post, The Bulletin and The Report have no women on the regular staff; The News Letter employs one. The Wasp three. The Argus one and The Wasp four. The pens of the ones is uniformly good, and the women workers and their efforts in the right direction.

With its support, the newspaper women of the Pacific slope have broader opportunities and remuneration than any other similar organization in the country, for the reason that the west is young and its conditions formative, and the pressmen they are making is indicative that they are taking every advantage of their situation.—California.

Health In Bare Feet.

As to the healthiness of going without shoes or stockings there can be no question. Some of the healthiest children in the world are found in the Scottish highlands, where shoes are seldom worn at an earlier age than 12 or 14. The sturdy and early laborers, who work barefooted, are usually in robust health. Brown, in the "History of Peru," tells of an Alfonsan monarch who suffered from what appeared to have been a cobl in his head, besides other ailments, while his people were always as well as possible. He found that the reason was that, by the laws of his kingdom, he alone was permitted to cloths his feet, and that he gratified his vanity by always wearing gorgeous sandals!

It is probably generalizing too much to state as a medical fact that the barefooted races are the healthiest. But it is certain that bare feet are healthier than badly shod feet. In our English village children are constantly sent to school in wet weather with holes in their shoes. They sit for hours with damp feet, and illnesses are the result. If their parents would send them off barefooted, as is done in Scotland and Ireland, their feet would dry by evaporation in a short time, and it would be found that no harm followed.—London Hospital.

Every Girl Should Work.

Mrs. Lillian Plunkett of the San Francisco Women's Press association writes:

A girl should be trained to be self supporting just as carefully as a boy and taught to look upon marriage as a happy possibility, but not the end and aim of her existence. Many women are hopelessly unfitted to be mothers of a race. Must they therefore lead idle, purposeless lives, dependent on fathers or brothers for support?

Women should be treated with courtesy and considerations, but they need not be treated like hot-house plants and denied the experience that business contact with the world would bring. Could any woman with a particle of ambition or energy be content to dwell upon relations for support if she were left a widow without means? And what if there were little ones to provide for?

There is nothing which can so broaden a woman's mind and bring her to a realizing sense of the struggles of humanity as personal association in business with the breadwinners of the community in which she lives. I respect and admire the girl or woman who earns her daily bread in preference to a life of lazy dependence.

Sequels of Measles.

Is it not generally believed that injury to the sight of the hearing is the danger most to be guarded against in cases of measles? Yet as much to be feared as either of these is dullness of the lungs, as more or less brain shock exists in nearly all cases of measles. This danger is an additional reason why every precaution should be taken to keep the patient from catching cold. A doctor very successful in his treatment of children's diseases often prescribes a long course of cod liver oil for weakly children after a severe attack of measles. He also advises

English Way of Stuffing Poultry.

A reader commends to her sorrowful the English fashion of stuffing poultry with a very little forcemeat and supplementing it with nicely browned balls of the forcemeat baked separately. Her recipe is: A cupful of dry bread crumbs, grated; half a cupful of cold, chopped fat; a little grated lemon peel; half a teaspoonful of parsley, fresh or dried; pepper and salt to taste, and an egg beaten with a tablespoonful of milk to bind together. Use less than half, if for a chicken, and make the remainder into small balls. Bake in a quick oven until a nice brown and arrange as a border around the fowl. For a turkey use double the quantity.

Pancakes.

Mix the yokes of 2 well beaten eggs with a dessertspoonful of ground rice and a gill of cream. Add 2 ounces of pastry sugar, a small piece of powdered cinnamon, a blade of mace pounded and a dash of nutmeg. Rub a perfectly clean frying pan with a piece of butter tied in a cloth. Fry the pancakes a light golden color and as thin as possible. Roll them and lay them not more than 3 at once on a hot dish screened with an ornamental paper. Garnish with green sprigs of myrtle and serve quickly. If too many pancakes are piled upon the dish, they become sodden and heavy.

The family of Mr. Joseph S. Mason of Central avenue is home after a Summer outing.

The family of Mr. J. Schoonmaker of Central avenue have arrived home from the Catskills.

Mr. Dominick McNamee and Miss Gill, both of this city, will be married Wednesday, Sept. 20th.

Mr. Samuel Townsend and family of Rockview avenue arrived home to-day from North Beach.

Ex-Judge William R. Coddington and wife expect to start for Chicago to-morrow to attend the Columbian Exposition.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Suydervind of North avenue was made happy last night by the arrival of a little daughter.

Reporter Elderton of the Courier starts to-morrow for Virginia, where he will join the army of benedicts, and take unto himself a Southern bride.

Mrs. T. F. Van Horn died this morning at her home on Grove street. She was 55 years old. Her funeral services will be held at Hope, Warren County, N. J.

Mr. Zerega, a brother-in-law of Lawyer Samuel Huntington of Franklin place, has rented the house No. 1025 Watchung avenue. He will take possession next week.

During the absent of the Rev. Mr. Rodman's family, who were away for the Summer, their house was occupied by a family named Christian from New York. This family returned to the city yesterday.

HUNTING'S CIRCUS.

A Large and Delighted Audience Present Last Night.

THERE was a large audience at Hunting's circus last night, and the tent was packed. Mr. Hunting's show is not so large as some of the other but the ring performances were just as good. "Bob" Whittaker, the bare back rider whose home is in this city, received a basket of flowers from his admirers.

The performance was frequently applauded. Among the performers may be named many male and female stars of arenic fame. All told there were forty-eight acts—male and female riders, aerial artists, really funny clowns, expert gymnasts, trained horses and ponies.

ACCUSED OF COUNTERFEITING.

Italians, Who Are Said to Have Victimized Storekeepers, Caught.

Two Italians charged with passing counterfeit $5 bills were taken before United States Commissioner Whitehead in Newark yesterday. The prisoners were Louis Rungoro and Louis Pitto. Detectives Keron of Union county, who captured the men, was the complainant. He said that a great many shopkeepers in Elizabeth and other parts of Union county had been victimized by the men. Their method was to go into a store and purchase an article of trifling value. Then they would offer in payment a spurious bill.

The counterfeits were silver certificates, bearing a likeness of U. S. Grant. The counterfeit was a poor one, and the paper a poor imitation of the genuine paper. The prisoners pleaded not guilty, and were remanded to jail.

Taking the Hay was Not Wrong But Breaking the Lock Was.

Constable J. W. Van Horn arrested Wm. O. Baldwin on East Front street last evening on a State warrant charging him with breaking and entering. The charge was made against a Mr. Poole of Newark. Mr. Baldwin's side of the story is that he had bought hay of Mr. Poole, a portion of it remained in Newark and he sent his men after it. The door of the barn in which it was stored was locked. Mr. Baldwin's men broke the lock.

Mr. Baldwin was taken before a Plainfield Justice and released on $100 bond to appear before the Grand Jury.

Handsome New Cars.

As handsome a train of cars as ever passed through the United states, said a prominent railroad official in this city this morning, was that of the Royal Blue line train No. 501, which passed through Plainfield just before ten o'clock. The cars were all new, this being their initial trip.

The Lederer-Smith Case Postponed.

The Lederer-Smith case, which was to have been tried before Justice Mosher to-day, was postponed on account of Mr. Lederer's counsel being out of town. It is to be tried next Friday.

NUPTIALS.

Pond—Boorman.

THE marriage of Mr. Charles F. Pond and Miss Boorman, both of North Plainfield took place at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. C. R. Strong, of Highland Park, near New Brunswick, at one o'clock yesterday afternoon. The nuptial ceremony was performed by the Rev. C. P. Strong, in the midst of a gathering of relatives and friends, after which Mr. and Mrs. Pond departed on a wedding tour. An elaborate wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony.

BREVITIES.

—Next Wednesday is Yom Kippur with the Jews.

—The City Common Council will meet in adjourned session next Tuesday night.

—Several Plainfielders attended a clam bake at Campbell's club house last night.

—The Union County Christian Endeavor Union will meet in this city September 22.

—The case of Kendall vs. Chase, et al., was adjourned by Justice Nash to-day to Friday, Sept. 29.

—Dog Catcher Frisbie's fowls at the Somerset County Fair, at Somerville, took first prizes.

—Last night Mr. Louis MacIntosh's horse ran away wrecking the wagon and smashing things in general.

—There was a wreck near Somerville last night which delayed trains going east about an hour and a half.

—On Saturday, September 23, the Dunellen Bowling Green Club will play a match game with the Boston Bowling Green Club.

—Fashion journals say that black goods will be worn more than ever this season. Edsall advertises a full line of Priestley's black silk warp, henriettas, and other black goods in great variety at New York prices or less.

—Mr. J. W. VanHorn received this morning, an engraved silver pitcher and gold lined goblet, from the insurance company he represents, for meritorious work. These are the latest of many awards he has received.

The Author Himself Plays in It.

In William Haworth's comedy-drama "A Flag of Truce," which will be presented in Music Hall Saturday night, Wm. Haworth, the author, fills the leading role. John Woodward as Dad Hawins faithfully portrays a New England farmer. The hero's part is done full justice by Adolph Lestind, and the old nurse is played by Miss Josie Bacon. Some remarkable stage effects are promised, especially in the fourth act, which represents a stone quarry. Steam giant drills are shown at work, and an actual blast.

Harvey Fisk's Heirs Gave the Ground.

Bishop Scarborough yesterday afternoon laid the cornerstone of a new administration building of the Mercer Hospital at Trenton. The new building is one of three to be erected, and is to cost about $30,000. The ground on which the hospital is to stand was given by Mrs. Harvey Fisk of New York and her sons, Councilman Charles J. Fisk, and Messrs. Alexander C. Fisk and Pliny Fisk of this city. Mrs. Fisk also gave $2,000 toward the building.

A Ten Mile Road Race.

The Elizabeth Athletic Criders will have a ten-mile road race for the club championship on Saturday, Sept. 23, at four p. m. The entries will close on Sept. 19. The winner of the race will receive a gold medal beside the silver championship cup given by H. L. Seltonstall last year. There is also a time prize, which, if won three times, becomes the property of the winner. It was won last year by Sidney B. Bowman, who holds it at present.

Another Horse Dies from Colic.

A horse belonging to Mr John I. Holly died of colic in the Metropolitan Livery stable, on North avenue, last night.

The horse was one of a team which the family had driven to Plainfield from their home at Holly's corner. The animal was taken sick on the street at about eight o'clock. It was driven to the above stable, where it died, after four hours's suffering.

Burglars Make a Poor Haul.

Burglars entered F. W. Crouch's grocery store at Westfield, Wednesday night and blew open the safe, but found nothing of value. Mr. Crouch had removed all his money when he left the store early in the evening. Foiled in their effort to secure valuables, they rummaged about the store and stole a lot of eatables. The store is surrounded by houses, but no one heard the noise.

Control a Plainfield Railway.

Messrs. Adrian and Chandler Biker, together with Thomas Nevins, of Orange, have recently secured another block of stock in Plainfield Electric Street Railway Company, giving them control of the concern. They have been interested in the road ever since its operation by electricity, but have not held a majority of the stock until this recent purchase.

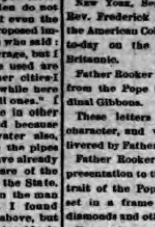
A FORMAL OPENING

OF THE BOARD OF TRADE ROOMS ON EAST SECOND STREET.

Music, Speeches and Singing Form a Pleasant Entertainment for the Board's Guests—Mayor Gilbert and Mr. Hill the Speakers of the Evening.



THE Board of Trade held a formal opening in their elegant rooms on East Second street last night. Admission was by invitation. Among the members and friends present were: Mayor Alexander Gilbert, Postmaster Elias R. Pope, ex-Mayor Charles Place of North Plainfield, Mr. Stephen B. Strathers, the Rev. Dr. C. R. Barnes, the Rev. Dr. J. P. Taylor, the Rev. E. H. Rodman, ex-Judge William R. Codington, Judge William A. Coddington, ex-Judge John Ulrich, Assemblyman George W. Kyte, Mr. Frank L. C. Martin, Mr. J. P. Laire, Lawyer Winfield S. Angleman, Mr. James K. Arnold, Mr. A. M. Runyon, Mr. L. S. Bond, Dr. H. H. Lowrie, Mr. J. C. Pope, Mr. Charles Angleman, Mr. George W. Van Emburgh, Mr. J. F. MacDonald, Mr. J. Hervey Doane, Mr. John Doane, Mr. Lieu Edsall, Mr. George D. Ballock, Mr. Charles Ulrich, Freeholder J. Frank Hubbard, Editor Frank W. Runyon, Mr. W. A. Freeman, Dr. Endicott, Justice Vincent W. Nash, Mr. George Tobin, Councilman Elias Bird, Mr. D. W. Littell, Mr. Arthur Kruse, Mr. Wm. Griffen, Mr. E. French, Mr. L. B. Woodruff, Mr. Frederick Dunn, Mr. O. T. Warner, Councilman Erickson, Councilman Frost, Dr. Fritts, Mr. Charles Van Emburgh, Mr. J. B. Coward, Mr. A. Pope and others.

Judge Coddington, as chairman, called the meeting to order and Mr. J. B. Coward moved the regular meeting be adjourned to next Thursday night.

First on the programme was music by the band, then the Barnby Quartette, composed of Messrs. Runyon, Knight, Gordon and Freeman rendered a selection in an excellent manner.

Mayor Gilbert was then introduced and spoke in part as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Board of Trade: You must pardon me if I confess a feeling of surprise at what I saw as I entered your rooms. I have been frequently asked the question as to what the Board of Trade was. But I did not know and did not dare to answer. I was surprised to find bowling alleys and billiard tables. It gives one the idea of amusement.

A few days ago I met a friend in New York who said he thought Plainfield got the most advertising of any city within ten miles of New York City. I asked him why, and he answered that there is hardly a day that he takes up the New York journals, but what he finds some thing about Plainfield. First it is a squabble in the Common Council, then lynch law, and then something else, and he wondered if you have a Board of Trade in Plainfield.

The establishment of a Board of Trade in Plainfield is another step in the city's career. A city cannot be built in a day. Those who remember Plainfield in the "60's" know that our growth has been gradual, until now Plainfield occupies no secondary place. We went from the mud to the stone age, but we had a hard fight for it. I remember when meetings were held in Laing's Hall, (it was a hall in this city then at the time), to discuss the laying of flag sidewalks. There was an old resident present, who objected to the laying of sidewalks saying that he didn't see why those New York chaps who merely slept here couldn't walk in the mud as well as anyone else. That was about 25 years ago, at that time there was not more than 150 feet of flagging in Plainfield. It is necessary to educate the people. See what education has done for us and note the growth of Plainfield. It is necessary for people to interest themselves in city affairs in order to maintain business principles. We have grown and prospered. Increase in population brought increased expenditures and increase in tax rate, and we have also the increase of improvements. Our citizens have always shown an interest in public affairs.

Plainfield is full of activity and energy. The ward politician is more frequently heard from than ever before, and there are more political bosses than ever. The trend is toward political politics. Many business men are so eager in their pursuit of gain that they give no thought to public affairs. A Board of Trade is not organized for pleasure, but to protect the people and secure legislation that is just to them, and to see that business interests do not suffer for the lack of good legislation.

When the business men of a community speak they make no uncertain sound. This was shown during the recent financial panic. Board of Trades and Commercial Leagues held meetings and their influence was felt by the House of Representatives for it was with one mighty sweep that the wave of destruction was rolled back.

A Board of Trade in Plainfield should perform much useful work. Its scope is large and it should take action on all questions of public welfare, principally to look after the interests of the people. It should criticise ordinances passed by the Common Council, and suggest changes or improvements, and thus help toward making better ordinances. In this way it will mould public opinion.

It is surprising the few people there are in a community that understand the laws or ordinances. Some time ago I went round with a petition to get signatures for sewerage for our city, and I was astonished to find the lack of interest shown in city affairs. Men do not take the trouble to find out even the minor things concerning a proposed improvement. I found one man who said: "I think Plainfield needs sewerage, but I don't think the pipes to be used are large enough, because in other cities I see immense big pipes used, while here it is proposed to use very small ones." I explained to him that while in other cities the big pipes were used because they carry off the surface water also, here we only propose to use the pipes for house sewerage, as we have already as good a system for taking care of the surface water as any city in the State. After hearing my explanation the man readily signed the petition. I found several such instances as the above, but the people should take the trouble to educate themselves in regard to public matters.

It will take some time for this organization to become thoroughly efficient, but eventually the Board of Trade of Plainfield will be a power in the community. What nobler aim can it have than that of working for the good of the community.

Judge Coddington then introduced Mr. Edmond C. Hill, president of the Trenton Board of Trade.

Mr. Hill spoke of the things a Board of Trade had accomplished for Trenton, among other things being a system of sewerage, a post office building, another railroad, and prospects of damming the Delaware River.

In speaking of Plainfield Mr. Hill said it was a beautiful spot, and seemed to him to be a paradise. Why it needed a Board of Trade he couldn't well make out, as these Boards are usually organized to look after the Mayors and Common Councils, and Plainfield surely did not need one for that purpose.

After Mr. Hill finished speaking the Barkly quartette rendered one of their selections.

Next all were invited to adjourn to another room and partake of refreshments.

KEARNEY BRIGADE REUNION.

Three Hundred Survivors Met in Trenton Yesterday.

The Society of Kearney's First New Jersey Brigade held its twelfth annual reunion at Cochran Park, Trenton, yesterday. There were three veterans present.

Owing to the illness of Capt. S. M. Caul, Vice President William H. Browning of Jersey City presided at the business meeting. Secretary Miller announced that 400 badges had been sent out, and that fifty-three were returned with the information that the persons to whom they were addressed had died during the past year.

Charles F. Hopkins of Boonton was elected President for the ensuing year, with the following Vice Presidents: First Regiment, Cornelius Abrams, Trenton; Second, O. W. Russell, Newark; Third, Jonathan Stewart, Philadelphia; Fourth, W. W. Watts, Mount Holly; Tenth, Jonathan Fisher, Mount Holly; Twenty-third, Gen. E. L. Bird Grubb, Edgewater Park; Fortieth, J. Warner Kinsey, Camden; Fifteenth, S. B. Genning, Livingston, N. J.; Treasurer, George C. Brown, Elizabeth; Corresponding Secretary, W. B. E. Miller, Camden; Recording Secretary, C. Buquet, Elizabeth.

Messrs. Thomas MacDonald and Francis M. Whitely of North Plainfield are members of Kearney brigade, and Mr. Henry C. Drake of North avenue was elected an honorary member at its first re-union.

September.

The golden rod is yellow,
The corn is turning brown,
The trees in apple orchards
With fruit are bending.

The gentian's bluest fringes
Are by the meadow brook,
Its dusky pods the milk-weed
Its silken milk has spun.

The sedges flaunt their harvest
In every meadow nook,
And asters by the roadside
Make asters in the brook.

By all the lovely tokens,
September days are here,
With summer's best of wealth,
And autumn's best of cheer.

The Hillside Club's Final Tea.

On Saturday afternoon the Hillside tennis club will hold its final tea of this season, Mrs. Stephen A. Gimns will receive the guests of the club, assisted by Mrs. D. C. Ivins, Miss Cooley, Miss Gilman, Miss Huntington, Miss Gimns, Miss Strenlt, Miss Stewart, Miss Tompkins, and Mrs. Daniel F. Ginns.

Paid the Widow $2,000.

Mr. L. E. Blackford, secretary of Central Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen, of which the late John Manchester was a member, has paid to his widow $2,000 as a death benefit from that lodge.

The Weather.

The weather promises to be fair with South to southeast winds, and slightly warmer.

—A forget-me-not luncheon is now given by the bridesmaids of an engaged young woman in honor of approaching marriage. The decorations are all of blue, the guests wear posies of the forget-me-not dear to lovers, and the flowers at the feast, all in blue, are arranged in hearts and true lovers' knots.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

The Rev. Frederick Rooker Here.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15, (Special.)—The Rev. Frederick Rooker, Vice-Rector of the American College in Rome, arrived to-day on the White Star steamship Britannic.

Father Rooker is the bearer of letters from the Pope to Mgr. Satolli and Cardinal Gibbons.

These letters are of an important character, and will be personally delivered by Father Rooker.

Father Rooker has in his custody for presentation to the Cardinal a fine portrait of the Pope carved in stone and set in a frame of gold, studded with diamonds and other precious stones.

The work was done by artificers of the Vatican and is said to be a masterpiece of its kind.

$165,000 Lost.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15. (Special.)—Superintendent Bosbyshell of the United States Mint refuses to confirm or deny the report from Washington that a shortage of 5,000 ounces of gold bullion, valued at about $105,000, has been discovered in a reserve vault of the Mint.

Reduced Rates of Fare to Washington via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The hundredth anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the United States Capitol will be celebrated at Washington on Monday, September 18th, with ceremonies appropriate for an occasion so nationally momentous.

Patriotic and historic orations will be delivered by well known speakers and statesmen, and it is intended to have other fitting tributes paid to this national commemoration.

That people from other cities and towns may attend the celebration, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets from all points on its system east of Pittsburg and Erie, except the Dowuingtown and Lancaster branch, at one and a third fares, which is a considerable reduction. The tickets will be sold by the company's agents on September 16th, 17th, and 18th, good going only on those dates and for return passage until the 21st of the month, which will permit of quite a little visit in the nation's capital.

At Sea.

A human life is but a bark at sea,
Impelled by shifting winds of destiny;
Expanded hopes are but the sport of chance,
The spot of every wave of circumstance.

And when its brief, erratic course is run,
It sinks into the dark oblivion;
Time's restless waters close above the spot:—
Its form, its name, its mission are forgot.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Typical American.

There is going to be one, Mr. H. G. Cutler assures us in The New England Magazine, and he is almost here now. He will be not at all like an Englishman, says our writer, for which prophecy the Briton will doubtless thank Mr. Cutler. He will not be like the representative of any nationality now on the globe, but will just be "his own self," and nobody else. When the pilgrim fathers migrated from Holland to New England, it was not to secure religious liberty, for that they had already where they were, but solely that they might be in a country to themselves, where they could preserve the English blood, language and traditions pure and unmixed for their posterity. They would not that their sons should turn Dutchmen.

Their ideal and that of New England to this day is distinctively English, but the New England ideal is unable to stamp itself upon all America. The contract is too big.

The south developed a character entirely different. In the south were Huguenots of the best blood of France, and Englishmen of the cavalier and aristocratic stamp. Climate, social institutions and different strains of blood made the northern and southern natures almost opposite. These two natures came together in tremendous clash during the civil war. Then they forgave each other and worked together. Since then and only since then the general national American type has begun to be developed.

Electricity is the symbol and stamp of the American. He is somewhat like an Englishman and a Frenchman mingled in one. It is proved that the true American who results from the proper blending of the northern and southern characteristics "resists and overcomes fatigue, disease and wounds more readily than any other person can." He is quick, kindly and brotherly. The United States is now reaching far and wide for the commercial dominion which she will obtain, but not in the English or northern way, by the extermination of savages and the seizing of their lands. "We will give the world better things to eat and wear and more of them than any other nation can. We will demonstrate that it is to the mutual interest of nations to be decent, forbearing, social and in time even kind." The American unites in himself the blood of the civilized races; therefore he will feel brotherly to all mankind. The countenance of our nation shines today "with a light which is the dawn of a higher America."

Long May the Corn Tassel Wave!

The corn crop of 1893 is advanced enough to predict approximately what it is going to be. The prospect is that, with the single exception of the extraordinary yield of 1891, it will be the largest ever produced in this country. Both the acreage and the average condition up to present dates are ahead of last year. In Colorado and some of the southern states the condition is not up to that of the same date in 1891, but in other states it is above the average.

In crib, silo and fodder stack it will be housed to make beef and pork and cornbread for the nation. With the growing knowledge of how good and how cheap it is and the added lesson on this topic taught to foreigners at the World's fair, a few months more will see a share of our greatest crop also moving in vast bulk across the Atlantic, sending back gratefully in return a stream of gold. Blessed be corn! It will fatten pocketbooks as well as pork. It is both beautiful and good. Hail to our national flower, the corn tassel! It was an inspiration that made Edna Dean Proctor write:

> The rose may bloom for England,
> The lily for France unfold;
> Dreamy shamrock,
> Scotland her thistle hold,
> But the shield of the great republic,
> The glory of lands untold,
> Shall bear a stalk of the tasseled corn,
> Of all our wealth the best!
> The airborne and the goldenrod
> The heart of the north may chess,
> And the mountain laurel for Maryland
> Its royal clusters rear;
> The jasmine and magnolia
> The South of the south adora,
> But the wide republic's emblem
> Is the bounteous, golden corn.

The New York Sun discusses the question of what would happen if in response to angry demands from the unionists Queen Victoria should dismiss Mr. Gladstone from the prime ministership and call on Salisbury to form a government for the purpose of immediately calling new parliamentary elections on the home rule issue. The Sun finds that a British sovereign has dismissed a minister three times in the past century. The last time this was done by Queen Victoria herself in an indirect way in 1839, soon after coming to the throne. The prime minister, Sir Robert Peel, demanded that she should dismiss the Whig ladies of the bedchamber. She refused, and he resigned. While it is undoubtedly the sovereign's prerogative under the British constitution to dismiss a prime minister at will, yet such has been the growth of democratic sentiment since the American republic was founded that the British people would not be likely now to submit to it.

The brilliant idea of one rapid transit fiend is for the elevated roads in New York city to add a second story to their roads and run one set of trains above another.

HOT TALK IN THE HOUSE

The Election Law Repeal Bill Stirs Up a Big Row.

THE REPUBLICANS WILL FIGHT IT.

The Southern Democrats Rested In an Attempt to Report the Bill, and Some Dissent Talk Is Indulged In—Senator Hanley's Long Silver Speech.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The tactics pursued in the house by the Republicans in relation to the federal election laws and the proposed repeal by the Democrats has awakened a keen anxiety as to what the effects of the passage of the repeal by the Democrats in the house would have upon the action of the senate on the bill now pending for the repeal of the Sherman act. The attitude of Mr. Tracy of New York in acting in harmony with the Republicans in filibustering is said to be based upon his ideas that the repeal of the federal election laws in the house would cause some votes for the repeal of the Sherman law to be changed among the Republican members of the senate.

A careful canvass of the senate just made discloses the fact that so far as its effect upon the pending measure is concerned the repeal of the federal election law will not alter the convictions of a single Republican.

They say they favor repeal as a matter of principle, and if any one thinks they can be moved by partisan tactics the temper of the Republicans of the senate has been misjudged. Not a Republican senator can be found who will admit that a vote can be made or lost by action the house may take.

Will Be Fought In the Senate.

When the proposition to repeal the federal election law comes before the senate, however, as a proposition by itself, the most serious and determined opposition to it will be manifested.

The first skirmish over the federal election repeal bill took place in the house, and although the casualties were few it was manifested that both sides were in earnest and that the regular battle will be a severe one.

The Republicans opened their batteries by declining to allow the quorum bells to be even reported to the houses. Under the generalship of Mr. Burrows the Republicans resorted to filibustering tactics and for the day had the best of the skirmish, as they prevented the reporting of the measure, and the house adjourned without action.

Before this was done the Democrats adopted a resolution revoking all leaves of absence except those granted on account of sickness. Over this resolution there was a very brief but spicy discussion, in the course of which Mr. Grosvenor of Ohio intimated that if the bill were called up at the present time the Wilson bill, when it returned from the senate, might not receive the Republican assistance it formerly did.

Mr. McMillan Defiant.

Mr. McMillan of Tennessee said the gentleman from Ohio had filibustered and prevented even the reporting of a bill to the house. He had made certain threats. He had said that maybe his wrath would rise and control his patriotism. Was this an excuse for the gentleman to desert his legislation? The Democratic party has been elected to the house with certain duties to perform, and the man who believed that it would shirk those duties was mistaken. The Republicans could do their worst. This federal election bill would be reported today; if not today, to-morrow; if not tomorrow, the next day; if not the next day, toe next week; if not the next week, the next month; if not the next month, the next session. The bill would be reported. [Applause]. Members were not here for child's play.

In short, in the brief debate there were indications that the approaching debate will be a warm, partisan dispute.

The great event of the session of the senate was the delivery of a speech by Mr. Daniel of Virginia against the repeal bill. It occupied four hours and five minutes and was listened to throughout with an interest which did not seem to diminish from exordium to peroration. No other senator desired to speak after Mr. Daniel, and the senate adjourned.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

New York—G. A. Clark, Portageville.
Delaware—Mrs. M. A. Hazzaldine, Felton.
Pennsylvania—Samuel E. Griffin, Boyce Station; Michael Bress, Grafton; W. W. Mitchell, Edinburg; Lewis Lumley, Gump; Miss Johnson, Mount Jewett; Lewis Clark, Basel; Lone Pine; Charles E. Hart, Mount Union; William O. Barr, Zollarsville.

It Is Baby Rather Now.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The new White House baby will be known hereafter as Esther. This old fashioned name has been selected for the child by the president and Mrs. Cleveland. It is stated that the selection of this name has no significance other than the partiality of the parents for Scriptural denominatives and that it means "a star" and "good fortune."

Caloies of Yellow Fever at Brunswick.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The fresh outbreak of yellow fever at Brunswick, Ga., is charged by the Marine hospital bureau to the criminal negligence of local physicians, and the most rigid investigation, with a view of locating the violator of the law, has been set on foot.

Big Freshman Class at Amherst.

AMHERST, Mass., Sept. 15.—Amherst college opened its seventy-third year with the largest freshman class and largest total enrollment in its history. The new men number over 100, and the total membership will be about 440.

President of the Alsace Police Dismissed.

BERLIN, Sept. 15.—The emperor has signed a cabinet order dismissing Herr Feichter, president of police in Alsace. During the elections Feichter made himself obnoxious.

The Reported Gold Shortage.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15.—Superintendent Rudysehill of the mint refuses either to confirm or deny the reported shortage of 3,000 ounces of gold in the reserve vault of the mint.

The President Will Go Hunting.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—President Cleveland will go to Saranac Inn to enjoy a few days' hunting on Little Tupper lake before the close of the hunting season.

A Southern General Dead.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 15.—Colonel Alexander Robert Young died at his house in this city, where he had lived for 21 years.

Pittsburg Suffering From Sugar Shortage.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 15.—Pittsburg and vicinity are suffering from a sugar shortage.

STUCK TO TAMMANY.

The Alternative That Was Presented to Judge Pryor's Son.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Sun prints the following today: Several weeks ago Judge Pryor decided to ask a favor of the Cleveland administration. His son, William R., who is a doctor with considerable experience and practice, thought that he would like to be a pension surgeon. This place would make him subordinate to the pension commissioner, Mr. Lochren, at Washington. Judge Pryor called in the services of Colonel Sickles, who was a personal friend of Mr. Lochren.

Mr. Sickles wrote a very pleasant note to Mr. Lochren, introducing Judge Pryor and telling the young gentleman's mission. Dr. Pryor took the note to Commissioner Lochren at Washington, and the commissioner gave it careful consideration. The commissioner then said to the doctor:

"I am glad to see you, doctor, but before this appointment is made I would like to have you take this note of Commissioner Sickles and present it to Colonel Robert Grier Monroe of New York."

Dr. Pryor did as he was told. He presented the note to Colonel Monroe at his office, 140 Nassau street, and the following conversation occurred:

Colonel Monroe—Doctor, are you a member of Tammany Hall?

The Doctor—I am.

Colonel Monroe—You will have to leave that organization before you can get this appointment.

Dr. Pryor—If this appointment is dependent on my leaving Tammany Hall, Colonel Monroe, I do not want the place. I prefer to stick to my principles as a Tammany Hall man rather than regard your wishes in this matter.

Dr. Pryor said "Good afternoon" and reported the result to his father. The Judge then communicated the result to Congressman Sickles at Washington. General Sickles was a little annoyed and told his troubles to Congressman John R. Fellows and others. It is now said that there is a movement on foot in Washington which will determine the status of Colonel Monroe. Colonel Lamont has expressed himself as very much annoyed over the outcome of this matter.

PENSIONERS ILL TREATED.

They Are Made to Wait in the Baltimore Postoffice For Days.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 15.—Under an order of the postmaster general the 2,803 pensioners in Baltimore were required to appear in person at the postoffice here to receive their checks for the last quarter's pension. The order is very distasteful to the pensioners, and they have signed petitions asking that it be revoked.

The petition recites that the pensioners have been subjected to "gross indignities," made to wait in the postoffice corridors for two days, ordered around by watchmen, compelled to breathe bad air, kept standing in line for fear of losing their places and finally put under charge of policemen.

As American citizens it is claimed that the pensioners have the right to have their mail delivered to any address they wish, and they deny that the pension department or the postoffice department has a right to intercept their mail and prevent it being delivered to the proper address.

The petition will be taken to Washington, backed with the remonstrance of the pension attorneys. This remonstrance declares that the interception of mail by the postoffice employees at Baltimore was illegal, and it quotes the revised statutes to support this proposition.

Besides the illegality of intercepting pensioners' mail, the remonstrance says it works a hardship on the pensioners. They were driven like "cattle" and treated like "dogs." They were jammed and crowded. They breathed bad air and were under such a strain that many were made sick and some had to be taken to hospitals. In their already crippled, maimed and ill conditions it was an outrage to treat them as they were treated. They were paraded before the public as alms seekers. They lost time, several days time may have been consumed—two days, as not many staid less than two days.

Brockway Suspended by Request.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 15.—The board of managers of the New York State reformatory held a meeting, at which Superintendent Brockway requested to be relieved of his duties during the investigation. The board appointed Hiram Brown to act temporarily as superintendent pending the investigation and temporarily retired Mr. Brockway from office.

Manager and Motorman Arrested.

MAUCH CHUNK, Pa., Sept. 15.—Harry Bahrig, a manager and superintendent of the Mauch Chunk Electric railway, and John Pomeroy, the motorman, were placed under arrest for causing the disaster on the electric railway on Tuesday evening, in which two persons were seriously injured.

The Cashier Lost In Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The Home bank, at Eighth avenue and Forty-second street, has been robbed of $16,185 in bonds by its cashier, Howard Bolin. Bolin has confessed to the directors of the institution that he lost the money in speculation in Wall street.

The President's Pastor Called.

BUFFALO, Sept. 15.—The Westminster Presbyterian church of this city has extended a call to Rev. Samuel L. Holmes, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Washington, where the president attends services.

Lost Their Clothing, but Won the Rush.

HANOVER, N. H., Sept. 15.—The customary football rush between the sophomores and freshmen occurred in the college campus. The freshmen came out of the melee minus most of their clothing, but victorious.

Highway Robbers on Troy Streets.

TROY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—John Shanahan, Frank Wilson, Thomas Roach and Thomas Gray were arrested for holding up several different men on one of the principal streets in this city and rifling their pockets.

Clearfield Miners Return to Work.

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Sept. 15.—The trouble between miners and operators in the Clearfield region is at an end, the miners agreeing to accept monthly pay as long as the present stringency lasts.

Emigrants From Cholera Infected Lands.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—Many emigrants from the continent, who were brought via Harwich to Queenborough, sailed for New York from the cholera infected port of Grimsby.

Sixty Young Czechs Arrested.

PRAGUE, Sept. 15.—Sixty young Czechs have been arrested for taking part in the recent anti-German demonstrations.

Pitcher Fisher Sold For $1,000.

BUFFALO, Sept. 15.—Pitcher Fisher of this Buffalo club has been sold to the Cleveland club for $1,000.

WOES OF THE BOOMERS

Fire, Heat and Red Tape Make Them Wretched.

THEY ARE ON THE VERGE OF RIOT.

Registration, Even With Increased Facilities, Declared Impossible—The Strip "On Fire, and Homeseekers Will Find No Water—Two Boomers to Each Claim.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 15.—Secretary Hoke Smith has at last yielded to the pressure of public sentiment and authorized the officers in charge of the registration booths at this point to increase the clerical force to any extent that is deemed necessary. He has also authorized them to open all booths required in this city and thus make it unnecessary for persons to undergo the hardships incident to regis ering at the border line.

The news of this order was received by the homeseekers here with great rejoicing and has tended to allay the bitter feeling that has been engendered by the registration system. At booth No. 9 more than 1,000 women had their names recorded Thursday. They are principally school teachers, typewriters, clerks and servants.

Registration Impossible.

The crowds are steadily on the increase. If 20 booths should be opened in this city today and a force of 60 clerks employed, it would still be impossible to register all those here before Monday. The excitement held a meeting here last night and sent the following telegram to Grover Cleveland:

"We, the undersigned settlemen, thoroughly posted upon the condition of affairs here, respectfully protest against the registration system as carried on at booth No. 9. Seven thousand people are now in line, and thousands arrive on each train. A conflict between parties who are not registered and troops is imminent unless the system is abandoned. The honor of your administration is being imperilled. Common humanity demands relief for honest settlers desiring to enter the strip who cannot register. Immediate action is necessary. Registration is a farce."

The conduct of the soldiers at booth No. 9 is despicable. They appear to be in collusion with the clerks and for a consideration of $2 will conduct a homeseeker to the back door of the booth and secure his registration out of turn. It is freely charged that clerks are making a business of registering passing acquaintances at their hotels after the booth has been closed.

Homeseekers Are Desperate.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 15.—Nine thousand people were in line at Orlando waiting to be registered. The clerks are worn out, and it will be impossible to complete the registration by Saturday noon. The agents of the interior department are at their wits' end. The people are growing restive, and a riot is imminent all along the line.

If the government does not provide a force large enough to register all before to-morrow noon the people will sweep away the booths on Saturday and enter the strip with a mighty rush, sweeping the few soldiers and government agents before them.

Secretary Hoke Smith is making efforts to comply with the law, but the government, after putting them to great trouble and expense, has signally failed to make even a decent effort at properly discharging their duties, and men in line swear they will have homes whether they get registered or not, and the first person who attempts to eject or molest them will be shot dead. The interior department is directly responsible for untold suffering. A score of deaths and a thousand cases of prostration follow as a result of the bungling manner in which things are being managed.

Wagons and horsemen are still coming in at different points. There are 27,000 claims all told in the strip, and 50,000 people are now ready to dash for them. There will be 1,500 lots in each town, and from three to ten men will rush for each lot. At Pond creek no water is to be found, and the drillers have given up in disgust. At Kildare, a fire also started on the line northeast of here last night, burning off a large tract. No lives were lost, but a number of boomers had their tents and outfits destroyed.

The Strip on Fire.

At Stillwater the crowd is getting unruly, and trouble is feared. A score of people are being arrested daily for petty crimes. The fires which started in the Pawnee reservation have swept over a large section of country, and the loss of hundreds of stacks of grain and destroying the improvements the Indians have made on their allotments. A number of people are missing at Pawnee, and it is feared some of them have perished in the fires.

The whole eastern half of the strip was on fire last night, and hundreds of thousands of tons of hay were being consumed. With all the grass burned off the land and no water in the streams, the settlers will suffer terribly.

Reports from Hennessy are that 3,000 people are now in line. Typhoid fever has broken out among the people of the town because of impure water, and 40 persons are already dangerously sick.

Perhaps 200,000 Boomers.

ORLANDO, O. T., Sept. 15.—Special Agent Swineford estimates that 125,000 people will enter the strip Saturday noon, but others declare the number will certainly be 200,000. Many boomers have arranged to have barrels of water sent to their claims, to be used until they can dig wells.

Again the Cronin Case.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Assistant State's Attorney Knight says he has discovered several new evidences in the Cronin murder case. Ex-Detective Dan Coughlin will be placed on trial in the course of a few days.

A Farmer Found Hanging.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 15.—James L. Cockingham, a farmer, was found hanging in his barn, but was still alive. Every effort to resuscitate him failed, and he died.

FOUR NEGROES HANGED.

All Were Suspected Participants In a Pitched Battle.

ABERDEEN, Miss., Sept. 15.—Two weeks ago Thomas Woodruff and five children, living near Quincy, were taken violently ill, and two children died. He and the others still linger, with little hope of recovery. Examinations of the well on the premises disclosed three packages of rough on rats in it, and suspicion pointed to a negro, Ben Jackson, who was arrested and taken by a crowd of masked men from the officers during the inquest and hanged.

The next day the jury examined Mehaley Jackson, Ben's wife, and Lou Carter, his mother-in-law, who testified to a knowledge of Ben's intention to purchase poison for that purpose, but the jury discharged them. A crowd of armed men also took them out and hanged them as participants in the conspiracy.

Mehaley Jackson also testified that Rufus Broyles, a well known negro of the neighborhood, had furnished the money to buy the poison, and after the first lynching he hid away and eluded discovery until Wednesday. He was seen at Woodmill, a few miles from the scene of the other tragedy, and Thursday morning his dead body was found hanging to a limb in that vicinity. No parties have yet been arrested, but the grand jury now in session is thoroughly investigating the case.

Detectives Start For Costa Rica to Bring Back the Embezzler.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—District Attorney Nicoll received a telegram from Secretary of State Gresham, quoting one received by Secretary Gresham from the United States minister at Costa Rica announcing the capture in San Jose of Francis H. Weeks, the embezzler of over $1,500,000, and assuring the United States government that the authorities at San Jose would surrender the fugitive, in response to the request of the Washington authorities for Weeks' arrest, to this country.

The telegram from Costa Rica also stated that the presence there of the United States minister was not necessary to secure Weeks' surrender by the government of the republic.

Detective Sergeants Reilly and Von Gerichten left on the Atlas line steamer today for Costa Rica to take charge of Weeks and bring him back to New York. District Attorney Nicoll announced that the grand jury had found five indictments against Weeks aggregating $500,000.

FATAL FOREST FIRES.

Two Villages Burned and a Number of Lives Reported Lost.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Sept. 15.—The forest fire which has been threatening this city for the past three days has assumed the form of imminent danger.

It is now burning a tract of very heavy timber a mile distant and coming straight toward the town. The entire destruction of the city is threatened.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 15.—Terrible forest fires are raging around Marshfield, Wis.

A number of lives are reported to have been lost, and 40 families are homeless. Bridges have been burned and trains stopped.

It is reported that the villages of McMillan and Spencer have been destroyed.

Towerman and Brakeman Blamed.

ALBANY, Sept. 15.—The state board of railroad commissioners, in the matter of the collision of a Manhattan beach train and a Rockaway beach train on the Montauk division of the Long Island railroad at Berlin on Aug. 26, which resulted in the death of 15 passengers and one employee and the injury of 16 other passengers, found that Towerman Keefe was the primary cause of the accident, and that James McCormack, the rear brakeman of the Manhattan beach train, contributed to the disaster. Of the 486 officers in the railroad service, 296 have joined the insurgents.

Held Up on a Train.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Sept. 15.—At Winslow, four miles west of this city, a party of 19 men, made up in Chicago, started leaving their way to Chicago on a Fort Wayne freight, were held up by four men and robbed. The thieves compelled the dozen men to give up their money, ranging in sums from $10 to $35, and several gold watches. After robbing their victims they forced them to leap from the train. Several refused to jump and were knocked down, beaten on the head and thrown from the train.

An Ovation to McKinley.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—Ohio day was celebrated on the fair. After the afternoon Governor McKinley held a public reception, which the people of Ohio attended by thousands. The crush of his constituents to shake hands with the candidate for reelection on the Republican ticket was unprecedented. The building contained a suffocating, surging mass of people, only a portion of whom succeeded in being presented.

A Whole Family Poisoned.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—Mrs. Rebecca Marco, the 21-year-old wife of Julius Marco, a barkeeper, died in Brooklyn from what Dr. Max Levy believes was arsenic of copper poisoning. Besides Mrs. Marco the latter's stepmother, Mrs. Rosenack; an uncle, Mr. Marco's younger brother and sister and Mrs. Marco's husband are all in a critical condition, suffering from symptoms of poisoning.

Many Woolen Mills Start Up.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 15.—The Stevens mills at North Andover will resume work Monday next. The Franklin mills in Franklin, N. H., will also start up on Monday. It is probable that the Arlington Jerseys & Sons mill at Haverhill and the Marland mills at Andover will also resume on Monday next. There will be no reduction in time or wages.

An American Arrested as a Spy.

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—Edgar Mix, an American, was arrested at the railway station in Przemysl, Austrian Galicia, suspected of being a Russian spy who had come to Galicia to witness the recent maneuvers. Mix protested his innocence, but he is still detained. He has called on Bartlett Tripp, United States minister here, to interfere in his behalf.

Alix Makes a Record.

CHICAGO, Sept. 15.—The fastest heat ever trotted in a race was won at Washington park by Alix, sired by Patronage, dam Atlanta, from the greatest field of horses that ever met. Alix's time was 2078¾, the world's race record, displacing Martha Wilkes and her 2:08¾. The stake was worth $15,000.

Reduced the Official Price For Silver.

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—The Hungarian government has reduced the official price of the product of its silver mines from 90 to 87 florins per kilogram. Austria is expected to take the same step soon.

UNDER FIRE SIX HOURS.

Rio's Fierce Bombardment by the Rebel Fleet.

BUT LITTLE DAMAGE WAS CAUSED.

All the Foreign Men of War In The Harbor Remained Neutral—The Tirodentes Puts to Sea, and There May Be a Naval Duel—Students Revolt.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 15.—The rebel fleet, under Custodio Jose Mello, fulfilled his threat and opened fire on the forts near Nictheroy commanding the entrance to Rio Janeiro. After bombarding the forts the guns of the hostile fleet, the Aquidaban, the Republica and the Trajano, were turned on the city. The arsenal was apparently the main point of attack, and many shot's were thrown at it.

The bombardment of the city of Rio lasted from 11 o'clock in the morning until 5 o'clock in the afternoon, but little damage was caused. The ships opened fire on the city again yesterday, but the result was the same as that of the first attack.

A message sent from President Peixoto to the Brazilian minister here states that it is expected that the rebel ships will surrender in a few days. Brazilian residents here, however, doubt this. Surprise is expressed here that the foreign fleet in the harbor would permit the bombardment of the city. From other sources it is learned that the city is quiet. Brazilian consuls here and in Montevideo dispatch vessels freely for Brazilian ports. Their operations after arriving at Rio are carried on under the protection of warships of the nationality of the flags they fly.

The interdiction on clearing vessels for Brazil applies only to those under the Brazilian flag.

Telegraphic service is still suspended.

It is reported that perfect order was maintained in the city during the bombardment. There was much enthusiasm manifested by Peixoto's forces, who still remain loyal to him.

May Be a Sea Fight.

The warship Tiradentes, which still remains loyal, has put to sea. It is expected she will meet the armored merchant steamer Itacos, which was to aid the rebel fleet. If the two vessels meet, a desperate fight is inevitable.

The students in San Pablo have declared against President Peixoto. All the foreign ships in the harbor remain neutral and have decided not to interfere in the revolution.

The captain of the gunboat Alagoas deserted from Admiral Mello's squadron. He hurried to Rio and there gave information to President Peixoto of the movements of the rebel ships. All points which were favorable to the landing of an invading force were strongly intrenched.

An Arsenal Town Bombarded.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 15.—Only fragmentary news of the Brazilian revolt has been received here. President Peixoto still controls the telegraph lines. The insurgent squadron is reported to have bombarded an arsenal town near Rio Janeiro, but which one it is impossible as yet to ascertain. The insurgents captured the government gunboat Alagoas, which lay in the harbor and surrendered without firing a shot. The forts at the entrance to the harbor fired on the insurgent fleet, but without effect. The insurgents directed their fire upon the arsenals and forts. The government ironclad Bahia, which started for Paraguay river to oppose any revolt in the fleet at Matto Grosso, has been ordered to return to the defense of Rio Janeiro.

The officers of the government gunboat Tiradentes, which has been in the harbor of Montevideo for several days, expect to be attacked shortly by the insurgent transport Itaoca, and they have prepared their ship for action. Of the 486 officers in the Brazilian navy, 296 have joined the insurgents.

American Interests Unprotected.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—American interests in Brazil are absolutely unprotected, unless the presence of the United States minister at Rio can be considered as a protection to them. It will be from four days to a week before the cruiser Charleston can reach Rio from Montevideo, for, while the distance is only 1,600 miles, the vessel will be obliged to coal before starting, and coaling is something not easily accomplished at the latter port.

When the navy department was informed of the departure of the Detroit from Hampton Roads for Brazil, an effort was made by telegraph to stop the vessel that some additional instructions might be sent her commander, but the cruiser had gone before the dispatch reached Fort Monroe. Instructions will be sent by cable to Barbadoes, where the Detroit will touch for coal in about five days. The journey to Rio will consume at least two weeks, so that the vessel cannot join the Charleston until Sept. 28 at the earliest.

Another dispatch states that the telegraph office at Rio has been abandoned on account of the bombardment. This may cause additional delay in the transmission of official dispatches.

Operators Shelled Out.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—President Scrymser of the Central and South American Telegraph company received a message from Buenos Ayres saying that the telegraph office of the Western and Brazilian Telegraph company at Rio de Janeiro, the via Lisbon route, has been abandoned by its staff in consequence of the bombardment of the arsenal and military barracks, which are in the neighborhood of the telegraph office in the city of Rio de Janeiro.

A Rumor In London.

LONDON, Sept. 15.—It was rumored here last night that the bombardment of Rio de Janeiro was resumed yesterday by the rebel fleet.

A $1,000,000 Theater on Fifth Avenue.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—A new and beautiful theater—the handsomest in America—is to be built on Fifth avenue by Augustin Daly of New York and London. The theater will cost $1,000 000.

THE ALVO'S FATE.

Dead Bodies and Wreckage Supposed to Tell the Story.

NEW YORK, Sept. 15.—The agents for the Atlas line still hope that the missing steamship Alvo is safe. The belief exists among other shipping men, however, that the vessel has gone to the bottom with all on board. A report was received that from 15 to 20 dead bodies had been discovered on the South Carolina seacoast near Charleston, supposed to have been those of passengers and members of the crew.

The Atlas line officers immediately sent dispatches to points in the vicinity of the shore where the bodies were said to have been seen, with requests for a description of the dead.

Large quantities of wreckage were also reported to have been washed ashore near Charleston and Wilmington, N. C., and it is conjected that some of it may have come from the Alvo.

THE HOUSEHOLD

THE CARE OF THE WARDROBE.

How to Store Garments Out of Season. Cleansing Various Materials.

At the beginning of each season some articles of clothing must be put away and others brought out of storage. Light weight woolen dresses that are no longer needed should be shaken and hung up separately in brown paper or cotton bags, with a piece of camphor at the bottom. These bags should be tightly tied up to prevent any dust penetrating. Light colored silks or woolens are improved and kept in condition by being wrapped closely over with silver paper. Skirts that are not likely to be worn for a long time are best kept by taking them out of the band and laying them by quite flat.

Linen or calico garments should be put away unstarched and rough dried. It is imperative that they should be left in a thoroughly dry place. All the inside of the collars of dresses should be cleansed with ammonia or can de cologne. Evening gowns demand special treatment. White ball frocks of every description are kept a good color by being tied up, first in bags of blue paper and lining these of calico, linen or paper. Laces and chiffons should be removed and kept separately in tissue paper. White satin slippers should be folded in blue paper when not in use. All materials of clothing not in use require airing from time to time, preferably on sunshiny days.

Black silks of every description are much benefited by having the dust removed by rubbing with a clean towel, and then sponged on the wrong side with the following mixture: A teacupful of soft water and seven or eight drops of liquid ammonia.

Black serge or cashmere dresses are improved and cleansed by being sponged with this mixture: A tablespoonful of ammonia and another of spirits of wine, to three of boiling water.

All traces of mud spots may be banished by rubbing with a raw potato cut in half. Spots of grease disappear from silk if sprinkled with dry magnesia, or gently rubbed with water and the white of egg. White brocades may be lightly cleaned with very fine dry breadcrumbs.

Eau de cologne is often used to remove spots from light silken and woolen materials.

Ribbons may be washed first in a thin lather and then ironed under muslin. Black crepe is improved by being sprinkled with brandy and stretched over wooden rollers. Black cotton stockings should be washed in strong bran water, pressed and dried before the fire.

Velvets should be held over the steam of boiling water and kept well stretched until the moisture has evaporated.

Seaweed for Decorations.

Preparing seaweed in shapes so that they do not dry up seems to be somewhat of a trade secret, but I have been successful with some kinds by plunging them in gum water made very weak, after they have been taken out of the first cleansing water. On removing them from the gum water I merely shook off the outer drops and arranged them in shells for table decorations as I meant to use them, and put them aside to dry in an airy cupboard.

Effective Decoration.

An excellent idea in decoration is here illustrated in a draped Chinese wheatjar, on which are placed some choice pieces of pottery.

This little hanging affair is of beautiful fretwork, which is effectively set off by the drapery around it, which consists of festoons and cascades of old pink silk damask, edged with a wee fringe in pink silk and caught up with gilt cabbage bows and cordeliers, finished off with tassels.

A DRAPED WHEATJOT.

Pickled Peaches.

There is no more popular pickle than that made with peaches, for which Good Housekeeping gives the following recipe: Take good, ripe peaches—freestones, if you can get them, if not take the clingstone, whose excellent flavor will in a measure make up for the annoyance of the adhesive pit. Peel the peaches with a small, sharp, silver knife or remove their skins by the quicker process of soaking them five minutes—not more—in boiling water, then throwing them into cold water and rubbing with a rough towel. The skin of the fruit will come off by this process with the utmost ease.

Have your spiced vinegar ready, well skimmed and boiling. A safe proportion is one quart of vinegar to three pounds of sugar, into which put in a game bag-half an ounce each of stick cinnamon and whole cloves, with two peppercorns and a piece of ginger root as large as your thumb. Put in fruit enough to be quite covered with the liquor—the amount as above directed will take about seven pounds of the peaches—and put a plate over them, while pushing to keep the top layer from rising out of the liquor. Then simmer gently until the fruit is quite soft, when it should be carefully taken out and put in stone jar, and the vinegar poured over it while hot. Seal immediately and put away.

Peach Bread Pudding.

Pour boiling water on a pint of fine stale bread or cracker crumbs and stir in a tablespoonful of melted butter. Let it stand until it has thoroughly soaked. Into it stir two well beaten eggs and half a cupful of sugar. Grate a portion of an added pudding dish put a thin layer of batter and over it a layer of sliced peaches. Dredge with sugar, then cover with batter again. Continue until the dish is full, having batter at the top. Eat with sweetened cream.

FUR BEARING ANIMALS.

Interesting Commercial Details About Some of the Best Known Species.

For persons can have any idea of the enormous number of furs, arriving from all parts of the world, that are annually sold in London. During 1891 2,250,000 opossum skins arrived from Australia, and from 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 muskrat skins are imported annually. These are sometimes so treated and dyed as to simulate seal fur, and made into boas, capes, jackets, muffs, etc.

The vagaries of fashion affect in a very extraordinary degree the price of skins. That of the black monkey, which comes from the west coast of Africa, and of which 90,000 are imported annually, is not as fashionable a fur as it was some twenty-five years ago; consequently the price has fallen from five dollars, which was then freely paid for a good skin, to a varying amount from twenty cents to a dollar.

The skins of the large feline animals vary much in price; they are chiefly valued as sporting trophies, and not used as furs. A large number of skins of the domestic cat are imported and used as fur, the largest and best coming from Holland. As much as $1.50 to two dollars a skin will be paid for a good Dutch catskin. Three thousand catskins come from American annually, but they are of lower quality, and realize only a few cents each.

Of the lynxes, which may be regarded as short tailed cats, several species are known inhabiting various parts of the world. The American lynx furnishes skins which are used all over the civilized world, both in the natural and in the dyed state. Many skins are dyed black; others brown, blue or silver.

There are several distinct species of foxes, the skin of some of them being of very high value. Those of the Siberian fox are used for cheap wrappers or carriage rugs, and are of so high value, although some hundreds of thousands are sold at the continental fairs at Leipsic and Frankfort, but the American silver fox, as it is called, which is nearly black, possesses an exceedingly high value.

The Russian sable is one of the choicest and most valuable furs. About 72,000 to 80,000 sables are caught annually; in 1883 8,000 were sold in London alone. The skin of the mink has much increased in value. The supply of minkskin, as of all furs, depends upon rabbits and "fancy" fur is called which is nearly "faked" mink.

The skin of the common squirrel was often used in former times, but at present it seems to be destined for other purposes, chiefly used for fashionable linings and "muffs. The most valuable is North American rodent, which is used for cloaks and that lining and constitutes one of the best known furs. Beaver skin is small.

The chinchilla, formerly one of the most fashionable furs, is yielded by a small Steel Ceiling and Wainscoting.

It is a well known fact that notwithstanding how carefully plastering may be done it is open to many objections, and various substitutes have been devised and used to overcome these inconveniences, among these sheet metal ceiling and wainscoting, the advantages of which, according to The Industrial World, are that it is fireproof, durable and permanent, will not shrink, warp, crack nor fall like a plaster or wooden ceiling. It cannot be spoiled by burning water pipes or defective roofs, thereby saving carpets and furniture from injury. It is readily applied over old plaster, which is an important feature fully appreciated by builders. It is, moreover, susceptible to the highest degree of ornamentation, both in stamping and coloring, the effects of the latter being limited only by the skill and exposition of the artist.

Glass for Glazing and Soundproofing.

Comparative experiments made with a view to ascertain the kind of stone best adapted for roads show, according to The Manufacturers' Gazette, that the specific gravity of a rock is really no indication whatever of its fitness for such a purpose, since, for example, weighing 175 pounds per cubic foot, and pure mica, weighing about 183 pounds, being entirely unserviceable. It is thought by some that trap rock has no superior for this use, after thin coming felsites, and next in order is granite, though in regard to the latter there is to be considered the difference in quality that exists, the best containing hornblende being preferable to that which mica; the latter is soft, rendering it much inferior to the former.

Sand for Glass.

Considering the American varieties of sand, The Scientific Glass Bulletin distinguishes them as aqueous or beach sands and igneous or mountain sands. The aqueous or beach sands are found in southern New Jersey and eastern Maryland and in New York state, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. The igneous or mountain sands are found in the Berkshire hills in Massachusetts and in the Alleghany mountains in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Virginia.

A Dutiful Parent.

Cried a cat to his wife, "Now, my dear,
The superlative circus is coming to town,
With the children we'll go—'tis our duty, you know,
Their young minds to enlighten and cheer."

Our Baby Cousin.

Have you seen our baby cousin?
Don't you think she looks a pet?
Can you tell the reason why I wonder—
Is she May, or Margaret?

Is she Dorothy or Daisy,
Winifred or Kate or Jane?
Never mind, dears, I'll not worry you—
For I see you cannot guess.

Little baby's name is Gladys,
And she's quite a pet of ours.
Here comes Gladys, Gladys baby
Such a lovely bunch of flowers.

Brother Bertie will not tease her,
But his toys he'll gently show—
Anything he'll do to please her—
Oh, we love our Gladys so.

Sweet it is to take dear dolly
For an airing in the sun;
But our baby cousin is dearer
Than our dollies, every one!

A Musical Boy.

Young Mozart came of musical stock, and when eight summers had played over him he was a delicate, serious child, with so wondrous an addiction for music that his fame had far passed the town gates. As early as three years of age his love for the harpsichord and violin could not be restrained, while at five he had composed a concerto, and a story goes that he was found one day arguing with his father that his composition was a veritable concerto because people "must practice it until they could play it perfectly."

But besides his powers as an executant when a boy of eight, and the fact that he had composed several pianoforte sonatas there was evidence that he was no ordinary child in the respect which his words seem minded from his elders, musical and otherwise. All looked up to him, as it were, many reverenced, some even worshiped him. He was then the full and full of intelligence far beyond his years. "As a boy," wrote his father to him in after years, "you were too much a child—a little child for them's games and amusements you had no delight—in fact they were distasteful to you." So grave indeed was his demeanor then, to quote his father's words, "that people feared you would not live to grow up." Such a child might well use the text, "Next after God comes papa" as his guiding principle in all that happened while under the parental roof.—Black Wood's Magazine.

What Do You Collect.

Do you keep a collection of stamps, or do you go in for coins, or is it buttons or bottles? Perhaps some one may say they have "collections" of all these, and add one or two other things. That is wrong. For one collection is bound to suffer at the expense of another, and where there are two or three "collections" by one person the consequence is that all will suffer. It is always best to know one thing thoroughly than to have a few scattered ideas concerning everything.

The place where you live may offer advantages for make a collection that others cannot. A boy or girl living by the sea shore may take up shells, but it would be very foolish to make such a collection and live in Dakota. A boy living in the inner way of the western mines you have a great chance to study geology, a study denied to any one living in parts of the south where there are no stones. A city boy cannot collect butterflies with any degree of success, but there are other special lines open to him.

Study your collection by your circumstances and surroundings, and pleasure and profit will be the result.—Harper's Young People.

Playing Store.

One who knows about the game must be storekeeper. He must get behind the table if the game is played in the house, or behind a gate or balcony railing or a bench if it is played out of doors, and announce that he is ready to sell by calling out or singing:

Come and purchase at my store,
All who have not been before.
Ask me right, I'll sell at once,
Ask me wrong, you'll be a dunce.

If no one else knows the game it may take a grown-up to start it right. The first purchaser should ask for something beginning with A, the next with B, etc. If the first one asks for bread he is told to go to the left of the store, on the dunces' chair, and another must come and try to buy. When one has asked rightly, as, for example, for alcohol or alum, he is told to go to the right side. Then the next must ask for something beginning with the next letter of the alphabet or go to the left. The ones on the right side join in the verses which must be said before each new purchaser comes to buy. It will make the game harder to reverse the order of purchasers, going backward through the alphabet.

How the French Iron Napkins.

In France, instead of using starch on table napkins, after they are washed and dried and ready to be ironed they are dipped in boiling water and partially wrung out between cloth. They are rapidly ironed with as hot a flatiron as possible without burning them. They will be beautifully stiff and glossy.—New York Journal.

Sick children are sometimes overfed and overstimulated. Milk, beef juice, mutton broth, wine whey, oatmeal and barley gruels usually furnish a sufficiently varied menu and are more likely to agree with the stomach than ice cream or wine jellies.

The Brooklyn hospital for women and children has a board of sixty women managers and a hospital staff of twenty-two women physicians. It is the only hospital in Brooklyn where women are permitted to practice.

For a best all black dress get the corkscrew repped bengaline and make with spangled jet vest and sleeves. Have a hat of black braided chip trimmed with wings and a velvet tornado.

The potent factors in women's temptations to drink are declared to be "shopping orders," grocers' licenses, want of employment and "loneliness."

Terrapin Dinner.

In preparing for a terrapin dinner given to a dozen friends at one of those lovely New York clubhouses, where toasts and remarks were to enliven the friendly occasion, the gentleman who was to preside was planning his programme, and looking over the list of guests, some to be called on. Rev. Dr. ——, "I will settle him," he said, "by placing opposite his name—a blank."

The hour arrived, with each guest ready for his seat, his dinner and to give his part of the programme. The toastmaster had been somewhat anxious that the blessing should be short and not cold too much solemnity to the occasion. The Rev. Dr. —— was a stranger to him and he felt unacquainted with the minister's style, he took great comfort in knowing that the quiet spell would come first and enough wit and laughter would follow to enliven all present.

Imagine the feelings of the host when, in response to his request that Rev. Dr. —— would ask grace, with bowed heads and upturns, all present listened to the words:

"O Lord, we do thank thee for these bibs, scrapkins and terrapin. Amen."—Detroit Free Press.

Celery Leaves.

The green leaves of celery should be saved against the time when celery is out of season. Wash the perfect leaves and dry them on a plate on the back of the stove, turning frequently. Keep in a tightly covered tin box, and they will prove a great addition to soups, stews and dressings.

VIOLENT GALE OF WIND.

MANY TREES BLOWN DOWN BY YESTERDAY'S STORM.

Electric Light Wires All Over the City were Damaged Considerably — Followed by a Heavy Rainfall.—Door Shattered.

A violent gale of wind burst over the city just before five o'clock last evening, knocking down trees and doing considerable damage among the electric light wires. Several signs were blown down around town, and there were several narrow escapes by pedestrians from being struck by them.

The storm broke over the city with such suddenness that it caught business men in many instances unprepared. A door of a store on Park avenue was blown shut with such force that the glass was broken.

The doors of Justice of the Peace Mosher's office on North avenue being wide open, the wind shut them so suddenly that the glass was shattered.

A tree was blown down on West Seventh street. Dr. Hedges' trees, in his yard at the corner of Watchung and La Grande avenues suffered much by the gale and were relieved of many branches.

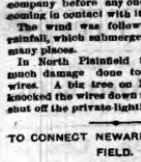
The fire alarm or telephone wires were not damaged to any extent, but those of the electric light company did not fare so well. In different parts of the city they were broken down, leaving several districts in darkness. A broken wire at the corner of Ninth street and First place emitted sparks and splutttered in a dangerous manner. It was fixed by the company before any one was hurt by coming in contact with it.

The wind was followed by a heavy rainfall, which submerged the streets in many places.

In North Plainfield there was also much damage done to electric light wires. A big tree on Linden avenue knocked the wires down and completely shut off the private lighting system.

TO CONNECT NEWARK AND PLAINFIELD.

The Tractions Company's Application to the Freeholders.



THE Union County Board of Freeholders have received an application from the Consolidated Traction Company for the privilege of constructing on Newark avenue, or the Boulevard, a connecting link between Elizabeth and the Newark. This company is building the electric road from Jersey City to Newark, and this new extension will be the the continuance of the proposed chain of the trolley system that is ultimately to reach from Jersey City to Elizabeth, Rahway, Plainfield, and New Brunswick.

At the meeting of the Freeholders yesterday the company was represented by its counsel, Mr. Frank Bergen.

It was finally decided to hold a public meeting to discuss the question, and the following committee was appointed to confer with the Traction Company: Messrs. Donahue, Moore, Hubbard, Woodruff and Howard.

BREVITIES.

—Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha! read Van Emburgh & Son's adv. They are having a special sale.

—The Congregational Sunday school, beginning with to-morrow will meet at 9.45 p. m. instead of 12 a. m.

—Marshal Pangborn arrested John Roe last evening. He was charged with stealing a watch from a laborer at work on the schoolhouse.

—Justice Nash has issued a summons in the landlord and tenant case of Van Deventer, et als vs. Miller, et als., returnable September 22, at two p. m.

—At the meeting of Mantotomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., last evening four members received the warrior's degree, and three applications for membership were received.

—The annual meeting of the Somerset County Bible Society has been changed from Tuesday, September 26, to Wednesday, September 27. The place, Neshanic remains the same.

—The regular meeting of the Plainfield Camera Club will be held next Tuesday evening, at eight p. m. Business of importance will be discussed, and a large attendance is desired.

—The first mowing machine and wheel horse rake appeared at Utica, New York, in 1833, and the machine was guaranteed to do the work of six men. It was a novelty then, but is a necessity now.

Reduction of Time in the Singer Works.

The Singer sewing machine factory at Elizabethport will run but five days a week hereafter, closing to day for the first time. They usually employ 4,000 hands, but 1,000 were recently laid off.

Did not Wait for Its Driver.

This noon as a young lady untied her horse on Park avenue and attempted to get in the wagon, the animal started off toward Front street, leaving her standing on the sidewalk. At the corner of Front street the horse was stopped by three men.

THE BOROUGH SCHOOL.

Only Eight Class Rooms in the Old Building to be Used.

THE preparations for the opening of the borough school on Tuesday are about completed. There are four rooms down stairs and four rooms upstairs in the school house that will be used.

The Saengerbund Hall on Somerset street, which has been rented, has been partitioned off and will be used for two classes. The desks, etc., have already been transferred from the school house.

DROVE INTO THE CURB.

Hackman Burns's Horse Fell Down, Breaking Both Shafts.

Last night as Hackman Burns was driving through Central avenue, in the vicinity of Eighth street, it was so dark he couldn't tell when he came to the corner of the street. He drove into the curb. His horse fell down, breaking both shafts, and nearly overturning the wagon.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Harold Serrell of West Front street has gone to the World's Fair.

Mr. Henry F. Stites, aged 66 years, died at Scotch Plains this morning.

Mr. John P. Reed of West Third street was "best man" at the wedding of Miss Ida Hoflock to Mr. Albert Cox, at Raritan, Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. Arthur Serrell of West Front street, who graduated from the Plainfield High School in the class of '92, has entered Lehigh University.

Mrs. Bertha Toomey of Hartford, Conn., who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. Randolph Marsh of Plainfield avenue, has returned home. She was accompanied by Mrs. Marsh.

J. B. Cleaver will preach the second of a series of sermons at the First Church of Christ to-morrow evening. Subject: "The Second Coming of Christ." Seats all free at the services, and all are welcome.

Harry L. Maxson of West Seventh street, having passed a satisfactory examination, was on Thursday last, in Brooklyn, admitted to practice in the Supreme Court of the State of New York as an attorney and counsellor at law.

The Next Postmaster.

And now comes the report that Mr. J. J. Keaney, corner of Park avenue and Front street, expects to be postmaster to succeed Mr. Page. Mr. Keaney's brother-in-law, Mr. John Rafferty, the saloon keeper on Park avenue, and Congressmen Dunn are old friends. They are reported to have held many conferences respecting the appointment which it was supposed was going to Mr. Rowland H. Bower. But in politics, like other things, it is the unexpected that always happens. Another prominent aspirant has withdrawn because he says he does not think the office worth the effort. The postmaster's average income in penalties, deficiencies, etc., are said to reduce his yearly salary of $3,000. to $2,100, and when he has paid out of this the usual political assessments he has very little left. Notwithstanding this, however, others are working hard for the position.

Attractions at Music Hall.

"A Flag of Truce" in Music Hall to-night.

"The White Squadron" will be played in Music Hall on October 13.

"The Prodigal Daughter" December 8.

"The New South" December 16.

The above collection of interesting theatrical notes may be worth pasting in a conspicuous place.

Interesting Titles of a Series of Sermons.

Rev. J. W. Richardson of the Park Avenue Baptist church, will begin next Sunday evening a very interesting series of sermons on live subjects. Following is the list:

Sept. 17 "The Ideal Husband."
" 24 "The Ideal Wife."
Oct. 1 "The Ideal Parent."
" 8 "The Ideal Son and Daughter."
" 15 "The Ideal Employer."
" 22 "The Ideal Employe."

A New Sidewalk in front of the German Church.

As a result of the entertainment given by friends and members of the German Reformed church, a short time ago, in Reform Hall, a new stone sidewalk has been laid before the church on Craig place, and from the sidewalk to the entrance of the church.

Toadstool Poisoning at Raritan.

The family of Marco Gregoria, an Italian, of Raritan, was poisoned by toadstools Monday. Mrs. Gregoria was taken ill with symptoms of poisoning, and the day following the father and three children were stricken down. Yesterday the mother and the youngest child died and the father cannot recover.

Solve This.

Supply the missing words in the following verse:

A —— sat in his —— gray,
Watching the moonbeams —— play
On a pig that in the ——— lay.
And merrily did sing:
"Then —— the —— —— the strong;
The —— of great ballots to them may belong;
Each —— within its —— keep up the song
John Barleycorn, my king."

To work out the anagram one has to find six letters, which, by transposition, will supply suitable words for each blank. We have the solution, and invite lovers of such tests of skill to put on their thinking caps. With the necessary words supplied the verse is a complete and harmonious stanza. The names of all who secure the correct solution will be published in the News within a reasonable time.

Stole a Suit of Clothes.

Between four and five o'clock yesterday afternoon a boy's suit of clothes was stolen from in front of a store on the east side of West Front street. The thief made good his escape and the police have no clue to him.

The Last Series of Cheap-Rate Excursions to the World's Fair via. the Pennsylvania Railroad.

ADDITIONAL DATES FOR THE POPULAR EXPOSITION TRIPS.

As the period of the existence of the World's Columbian Exposition draws to a close the demand grows stronger for the economical and the convenient means of reaching Chicago provided heretofore by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. Recognizing the urgency of this popular need, that company has fixed a few additional dates on which excursions of the same character as the previous ones will be run. September 19th, 22d, 26th, October 3d, 11th, 17th, and 31st are the days selected from New York, Philadelphia, and points East of Pittsburg and Erie and North of York.

The special trains will be composed of the standard coaches for which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is noted, and the arrival in Chicago as an early hour the following afternoon obviously gives ample opportunity for securing of accommodations at that place.

The trains will leave New York 9.00 a. m., Jersey City 9.13, Newark 9.25, Elizabeth, 9.33, New Brunswick 9.52, Trenton 10.23, Philadelphia 11.30, Frazer 12.00 p. m., Downingtown 12.28, Parkesburg 12.41, Coatesville 1.02, Lancaster 1.35, Conewago 1.57, Harrisburg 3.00 p. m., Lewistown Junction 4.35, Tyrone 6.00, Altoona 7.00, and Pittsburg 10.40 p. m. The excursion rate, good only on the special train and valid for return within ten days, is $20 from New York, $18.25 from Philadelphia, and proportionately low from other stations. Return portions of tickets are good for ten days.

These trains will be run on fast schedule, and will be provided with all modern conveniences with the exception of Pullman cars.

Many expressions of complete satisfaction have been made by people who have availed themselves of this excellent opportunity of visiting the greatest and grandest exhibition the world has ever seen.

A POSSIBLE CANDIDATE.

Judge Coddington Mentioned in Connection With the Senatorship.

[From the New York World.]

Everything is still apparently at sea in the Senatorship question in Union county, both on the Democratic and Republican sides. Never before were such uncertainty and indifference known at this stage of the campaign.

William A. Coddington, of Plainfield, is spoken of as a possible candidate on the Democratic side, but Mr. Coddington, while as cautious as ever, is hardly well enough known throughout the rest of the county to make him a strong candidate. There is no man for any other kind of a candidate on the Democratic ticket this year, as their opponents, under the lead of Boss Foster, are making a tremendous effort to capture the Legislature.

Many new Rankin and Foster Voorhees both persist in declaring that they are out of the race on the Republican side, and it looks as if their declaration is final. Who the Republican Moses will be is a question impossible for the present to answer. Perhaps Lawyer Frank Bergen might be persuaded to step into the breach. He would be likely acceptable to the anti-race track element.

—A band of gypsies passed through Plainfield this afternoon. They will camp near Campbell's club house.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

A Distinguished Professor Died To-Day.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 16, (Special.)—Dr. Gustavus Fischer of this city died this morning at nine o'clock. He was born in Prussia in 1814, and was therefore in his 79th year. He came to this city in the early fifties, and some years later became Professor of Languages in Rutgers College, a position he filled for ten years. Since his retirement from college he has been engaged in teaching music and harmony. At the time of his death he had almost completed an exhaustive work on musical harmony. He leaves two sons and three daughters. One of his sons is assistant secretary in the Bureau of Labor Statistics, Trenton. Dr. Fischer had enjoyed good health until ten days ago, when he was suddenly stricken with the illness which proved fatal to him and was named by the doctors paralysis of the brain.

Twenty-Seven Bodies Washed Ashore.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 16. (Special.)—The bodies of twenty-six white sailors and a finely dressed white woman were cast upon the beach near Port Royal, but there were no marks by which they could be identified.

The bodies of the sailors were buried in one grave and the body of the lady given a decent interment.

The sailors and lady had evidently come from the same passenger steamship, but nothing is definitely known as to who they were. It is thought they were on the missing Alvo.

The Navahoe Badly Beaten.

LONDON, Sept. 16. (Special.)—The Britannia won the race for the Cape May Cup.

When she crossed the finish line the American yacht Navahoe was not in sight.

THREE COUNTY ROADS ADOPTED.

An Adjourned Meeting of the Union County Freeholders.

THE Union County Board of Freeholders held an adjourned meeting Thursday afternoon for the purpose of awarding contracts for the macadamizing of certain county roads recently adopted.

The committee appointed at the last meeting of the Board to examine and report as to the condition of the Hulbert street bridge at Roselle reported that the structure was in a bad condition and recommended that a new bridge be built, the cost not to exceed $850. The report was received and the recommendation adopted.

By resolution of Mr. Hubbard the $2,000 set aside for hospital charity was divided as follows: The Elizabeth General Hospital to receive $1,000, the remaining $1,000 to the Muhlenberg Hospital in this city.

The matter of adopting the new county roads was discussed at length, the director calling Mr. Moore to the chair and taking part in the debate. The Edgar road was called Mosquito Valley, and was finally stricken out of the number of proposed county roads.

The roads adopted were Springfield avenue, Newark avenue and Rees avenue.

Leased the Basement of a Church.

The basement of the German church, on Craig place, has been leased by the trustees of the North Plainfield public school temporarily. The laying of a stone walk in front of the church removes the danger of the children falling on account of rotten boards. When will public spirit be sufficiently aroused to abolish these abominable board walks altogether?

EDITORIAL NOTES

They Were Afraid of Banks.

In ordinary times people are afraid to keep money in large amounts about their homes or persons. It is not safe, they say—they might be robbed or even murdered. So they put it into the banks. In flight times, on the contrary, they decide in their powerful minds that it is not safe to keep money in the banks, but they must bring it home where they can have their eyes on it. Queer, people are.

There's plenty of money, the economists say, just as much as there ever was. Then where is it? you ask. You haven't it; the cat hasn't it. It is hoarded away, say the economists, because the community has no faith in banks. The rich city man puts his cash into a safety deposit vault. The poor man and woman put theirs in an old stocking and hide it in a crack where the plaster has fallen or broken, or maybe they dig a hole in the ground and bury it. In this time of scarcity, when hundreds of thousands are unemployed, when the temptation to robbery and violence is more than double what it is ordinarily—this is exactly the time chosen by many persons to bring their money and jewels home, apparently to make the valuables convenient for robbers. It is because they have no faith in banks.

The morning papers of a few days ago, in different parts of the country, had some items showing what becomes of the money of those who are afraid of banks. Here is one of the little anecdotes from a Philadelphia paper:

The best haul made since the present epidemic of robbery broke out was at the house of Margaret Sullivan, 611 South Second street, which was robbed of $1,400 during the absence of the family. The piece is but a stone's throw from the Second district police station, but the thieves all along appear to have taken delight in plying their trade where policemen are supposed to be thickest.

Mrs. Davis had no faith in banks. Accordingly just before her departure for the quiet shades of Pitman drove she drew all her money out of the bank and with the assistance of her daughter dug a deep hole in the cellar, in which she deposited it. None others knew of the buried treasure, she said.

On Sunday the robbers noticed a man calmly walk up to the front door, unlock it with a key and enter the house. When Mrs. Davis returned later in the day she was horrified to find her money gone.

Following the little illustration about the Philadelphia woman who built a private safety deposit vault in her cellar because she had no faith in banks comes a bit of a story of a New York person who had no faith in banks. It is this:

Some three months ago Jacob Livingston, a wealthy miser living in the northeastern part of the township of Weehawken, was robbed of about $7,000 in gold and bills. Robbers entered his house, where he lives alone in abject squalor, and after dragging the cobwebbing him tore down two heavily barred doors and from a closet in the second floor took an old chest which for years had been the receptacle of his miserly gains and contained $2,000 in gold pieces and $5,000 in bills.

Would it bore you too much just to read this short extract from the St. Paul Globe:

The Minnesapolis fire demonstrated the foolishness of hoarding. One man lost $300, another $1,000, another $1,500. Perhaps many others suffered greater or less loss which has not been reported. Those parties thought the bank's were unsafe and then drew out their savings of years and concealed it in their residences. As the result they are beggared. The foolish hoarding is not only bringing direct loss, such as noted, but it is so crippling business as to result in reduction of wages and in many cases the discharge of employees. The hoarder is an enemy to himself and society.

We offer no comment on these brief tales of woe. Like the state of Massachusetts, they need none. You can manufacture the moral homemade for yourself. We will give one more anecdote. It is a very little one, but it is the best of all. It is such a dainty morsel, as it were, this tale of the greenbacks that the grasshoppers ate up, that we cannot refrain from printing it:

Farmer Silas Bauer drew $200 in paper money out of his bank account. His wife sewed it in his coat, but grasshoppers bored it full of holes when he hung the garment on the fence in the field.

The Minnesota club in St. Paul has dispensed with coal and uses electricity alone for cooking. At the World's fair some admirable object lessons in electrical cooking are given. Helen Louise Johnson broils a steak to perfection in four minutes. She shows that flatirons can be heated, griddle cakes browned, ham roasted and every other culinary operation performed at great saving of time, cleanliness and labor. The electrical heat is applied by merely hooking on a cord to the utensil itself, whether broiler, pot or bakepan. Then you switch on the current, and the cooking begins. The slovenly, impudent servant girl will be less in demand when the world is advanced enough to cook by electricity. Ladies will prefer to do their own cooking by this easy and dainty process.

The United States cruiser Philadelphia is considered to have achieved a remarkable performance by making the distance from Rio Janeiro to Callao in 20 days and 18 hours in one continuous run, without stopping anywhere for coal. The distance is 5,000 miles. The time is not remarkable; only the long run without stopping for coal. If the Philadelphia had whooped up her furnaces and taken in a fresh supply of coal, she could have accomplished the distance in a shorter time. But the fact that a man-of-war can remain out and steam ahead for 21 days with only one store of coal is worth knowing and noting.

A steam pump has been invented that gives a pressure of 700 pounds to the square inch. It is fitted for driving hydraulic presses and lifts of all kinds, and for pumping oil and other liquids that are to be elevated in large quantity.

A MAD RACE FOR HOMES

Boomers by the Hundred Thousand Dash Into the Strip.

A WILD STRUGGLE FOR TOWN LOTS.

The Opening of 8,000,000 Acres of Land Attended by Scenes Such as Will Never Be Witnessed Again—All Carry Their Drinking Water With Them.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 16.—Precisely at noon today 8,000,000 acres of land known as the Cherokee strip, the largest body of purely agricultural land on the American continent that was up to now unsettled and uncultivated, was thrown open to settlement under the homestead laws. By nightfall of this eventful day 100,000 people will have found homes upon that land.

The rush of the boomers was such a one as will never be witnessed again probably, and the results in the record of expected bloodshed are soon to come.

A conservative estimate of the number of people who will be within the border of the Cherokee strip tonight is 350,000.

Racing For Town Lots.

Most of those in the race are making the run for town lots, and the great objective point is the government county seat and land office of Terry, 10 miles north of the Oklahoma line. The town site covers an area of 320 acres, which has been cut into nine lots to the acre, making 2,880 lots to be divided among the 30,000 people who will crowd in there as soon as possible. The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad ran three trains of 10 coaches each south from this point and two trains of 10 coaches each north from Orlando.

Homeseekers at the last moment awakened to a realization of the necessity for carrying a supply of water with them into the new country, and all sorts of vessels were in demand for carrying it. The stock of canteens was soon exhausted, and tinners were busy soldering tops on ordinary tin wash basins, which were sold readily at $1 each. A large number of water wagons were rigged up, and they will move into the strip as rapidly as possible to supply water to claim makers. They expect to dispose of it at $1 a bucket tonight.

Registration was done at high pressure speed at the last. Booths were opened Friday morning in a large storeroom, and almost before the ink was generally knew what was going on a force of 20 clerks was at work taking the names and issuing certificates of registration to homeseekers.

They started out at the rate of 20 a minute. The opening of the booths here attracted many women and old men who had determined not to register at all rather than undergo the hardships at the border line. Many of those at the border who were near the foot of the long lines abandoned their places and came into the city to register.

Rules For Homeseekers.

The regulations under which the strip was opened to homeseekers were as follows:

Any person (man or woman), the head of a family or 21 years old, can enter a homestead of not exceeding 160 acres, provided they have not already enjoyed the benefits of the homestead act and are either citizens of the United States or have filed their declaratory statements. If you have made a homestead entry previous to March 2, 1889, and failed to perfect title to same up to this time, you can obtained land under the straight pre-emption or timber culture act, you are still eligible to take a homestead in the strip, provided you do not own 160 acres of land, for any person owning this amount of land in any state or territory is barred out from entering any land in Oklahoma.

Ex-soldiers or sailors or their widows or minor children can enter 160 acres by filing a declaratory statement, either in person or through an agent, and have six months in which to make entry and commence settlement.

Any person can initiate his homestead either by going upon the land first and filing afterward, or by going to the land office afterward, but the former way is the safest and best, as the first in point of time holds the land, and when you go to the land office and file upon a piece of land without having been upon it some other person may have settled upon it before the hour of your filing, and they would consequently get the land.

Only a few can get a chance to successfully file before all the land is settled upon on the day of the opening, so the surest and best way is to go upon the land first and make settlement, then go and file.

Where to Get Certificates.

Every settler in the strip must live upon his land five years before he can obtain a title, and must also pay $2.50 per acre for land east of 97½ degrees west longitude, $1.50 per acre for land lying between 97½ and 98½ degrees west longitude and $1 per acre for all land west of 98½ degrees, and shall also pay interest upon the amount so to be paid for said land from the date of entry to the date of final payment thereof at the rate of 4 per cent per annum.

The special orders and regulations prescribed for this opening require that all persons intending to enter the land shall appear at registering booths established along the line, make affidavit as to their eligibility to take land and receive a certificate stating same. This certificate will serve as a pass and must also be presented at the land office when the person appears to file.

After a man has provided himself with a certificate at the booth he is all ready to enter the race for a farm. When the time arrives, a gun is fired, and he finds a desirable piece of land unoccupied.

Banks Prepared For a Raid.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 16.—A scout rode up from Hollister ranch, in the Osage country, and notified all the banks that the remnants of the Dalton-Starr gang were in camp about 30 miles south. He said that it was the intention of the gang to raid the banks here today after the people had left town for the border. The banks have organized a strong posse to defend their property. Nine of them will open until Monday, and on each bank a guard of several men remain armed with winchesters. Nearly every officer on the police force is going to make the run, and the city is almost wholly without police protection.

Pennsylvania's Building to Be Preserved.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 16.—The Pennsylvania building will at the close of the World's fair be taken charge of by the Chicago Naval academy as an armory.

Cholera in Germany.

BERLIN, Sept. 16.—Since Wednesday seven new cases of cholera have developed in the empire.

Fair Attendance on Vermont Day.

CHICAGO, Sept. 16.—Paid admissions at the World's fair Friday, 130,859.

BAIN'S BIG STEALINGS.

Over $30,000 Wire Stock by the Cashier In Wall Street.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Howard L. Bain, the cashier of the Home State bank, accused of embezzling $16,185 from the institution, is under arrest.

Cashier Bain was arraigned in Jefferson Market court this morning. He has confessed his crime. He says he took the securities from the bank's vaults and frittered them away in Wall street speculation. He has expressed his willingness to go to the state prison any time he is wanted. For 11 years he had occupied the position of cashier and had a brilliant record of 23 years of an industrious and honest business life. The defalcation is a painful surprise to people in banking circles.

Mr. Bain is 44 years of age and has been in the banking business since he was 21. His habits were those of a frugal, conscientious, busy man. He did not dissipate and lived well within his means.

President George F. Seward of the Fidelity and Casualty company said: "We expect to pay his bond in full, which amounts to $15,000. It is a very distressing case, and to add to the pathos of the affair Mrs. Bain has a baby only 2 weeks old."

It was also learned that Cashier Bain took from the bank safe $5,000 in gold coin securities belonging to Director Gregory Nelson. This was in addition to the $16,185 in bonds belonging to the bank. The sum total of Bain's known stealings is thus brought up to $21,685. Director Ketcham's bonds, like those of the bank, were hypothecated in Wall street to support the investments of the cashier in a declining market.

TWO REPEAL BILLS.

There Has Been Much Debate In Both Houses Concerning Them.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—For two hours in the house the skirmish fight over the federal election bill continued, Mr. Tucker of Virginia marshaling the Democratic majority and Mr. Burrows of Michigan taking charge of the Republican forces. Nothing during this session has Mr. Reed appeared to be as anxious for a fight, and had it not been for continual roll calls the house would have had a very lively session.

The time up to 2 o'clock was monopolized by the reading clerks, who monotonously called the roll of members, knowing that their task was merely a perfunctory one. At 2 o'clock the house paid tribute of respect to the memory of the late J. Logan Chipman of Michigan and shortly after adjourned.

The debate in the senate on the repeal bill was altogether on the affirmative side of the question. Two speeches were made in favor of the bill—the first by a Democratic senator, Mr. Lindsay of Kentucky, and the second by a Republican, Mr. Higgins of Delaware. Both were uncompromisingly and unconditionally for the repeal of the Sherman act.

Mr. Lindsay eulogized President Cleveland's course as being exactly in conformity with the party platform and with the popular will, and he promised for him that whatever further silver legislation congress may enact in conformity with the platform will receive executive approval.

He also defended Secretary Carlisle from the charge conveyed in Mr. Teller's speech that he had been a party to the supposed conspiracy of New York bankers to produce a financial panic with the object of having the Sherman law repealed.

Mexican Officers Gave Up the Sheep.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The Mexican boundary dispute incident is closed with the delivery of the sheep to the owner. The Mexican customs officers have surrendered the 639 sheep in their custody to the owner, an American citizen. The United States troops will be withdrawn, and the two governments will proceed to a settlement of the dispute by diplomatic means.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed: Connecticut—G. F. Stearns, Chester; William A. Lowry, East Hartford; J. B. Merrick, Totoket.

Pennsylvania—W. C. Kistler, Hutton; John Knowles, Morrisville; Jacob R. Bonner, Richland; Jacob Z. Shirkshiney, J. W. Saurman, Southampton; William T. Shillite, Zullinger.

Commercial Bank Affairs.

ALBANY, Sept. 16.—A committee representing the depositors of the Commercial bank of Brooklyn appeared before Attorney General Rosendale and asked him to apply to the court for the appointment of an associate receiver to act with Receiver Dyckman. The attorney general said he would carefully consider the verified statement presented.

Our Consul Can Use His Fists.

HALIFAX, Sept. 16.—United States Consul General Ingraham is a mild sort of a hero here. He was a passenger on a street car, when a tough got aboard, abused the passengers, and when ordered to get off knocked the conductor off the car. Mr. Ingraham went to the assistance of the latter and gave the bully a severe drubbing.

PIRATICAL BURGLARS.

Came In a Black Sloop and Robbed Millionaires' Houses.

TOOK ONLY SOLID SILVERWARE.

The People of Larchmont and Other New York Suburban Places Much Frightened by the Mysterious Robberies—Aided by a Gang on Shore.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 16.—The village of Larchmont has been excited for the last two days over the raid of a gang of burglars, who came in a sloop by night, in which the houses of three of its wealthy residents were looted of all the solid silver in sight without the awakening of a single sleeper.

The houses robbed were those of Mrs. Crocker, the widow of E. H. Crocker, the California millionaire, whose daughter married J. Sloat Fassett; Fred P. Procter, the manager of Proctor's theater, and Thomas McCane, a wealthy New Yorker, whose summer residence is in Larchmont. In a house or two the raid was at some time between midnight and daybreak.

The most serious loss was that of Mrs. Crocker, who was robbed of a lot of old family silver that was almost invaluable.

Took Solid Silver Only.

The most mysterious thing about the burglaries is that in no one of the houses entered was there a trace of the ware of silver plate. The burglars showing how they got into the houses. The next morning every window and every door were as securely fastened as the night before when the family retired. Nowhere were there any traces of the robbery except in the silver closets, and there everything was confusion.

All the silver was found lying about on the floor, and every piece of it had been rubbed by some kind of acid which the burglars used to test it. Every solid silverware they took along, and the plated ware they left behind. The entire amount stolen is valued at between $6,000 and $8,000.

It seems to be the general opinion that the burglars came up the sound on a black sloop, which was seen cruising about off Larchmont all the afternoon before the robberies. The same or another black sloop and the pirates which it carried aboard has so scared the village that at night no woman or child ventured a foot from home without a strong bodyguard.

There are at least 50 men who are willing to swear that they saw the mysterious sloop and that she had no name and was painted perfectly black. Many say she was the same sloop seen cruising about the yacht of Richard Mansfield in the sound the night she was boarded and robbed several weeks ago.

So great is the burglar scare in Larchmont that at several houses where a reporter called for information it was with difficulty that he gained entrance. When he called at the handsome residence of Mrs. Crocker, in response to repeated knocking, the door was opened about two inches, and a maid, in whose hands was a heavy club, asked what was wanted.

Behind her were several other women servants all trembling with fear and each armed with a club, broomstick or some other domestic weapon. When the door was finally opened and doubly locked. It is a few moments, however, the maids seemed to be reassured, and the reporter was allowed to see Mrs. Crocker. She said that the night of the burglary no man was in the house, and she was entirely unprotected. Not a sound was heard during the night, and nobody knew of the visit of the robbers until the next morning, when it was found that her solid table silver, to the value of about $1,000, had been taken.

A Shore Gang From.

It is reported that there was a shore gang which co-operated with those aboard the black sloop.

This gang, it is said, had a wagon, and several of the villagers say they saw the wagon in the early part of the night going toward the shore. Mr. Carroll, a truck driver, says that he saw the black sloop approaching the shore about midnight. She has not been seen in these waters since.

The shore gang's operations were not felt in Larchmont alone, but here in New Rochelle and the other neighboring towns. That black sloop is the one theme of conversation, and tonight many a woman is going to bed to dream about the pirates coming ashore to carry away all her valuables.

Weeks Will Fight For Freedom.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—District Attorney Nicoll announced that he had, through the state department at Washington, engaged the best counsel that could be obtained in Costa Rica to look after the extradition of Francis H. Weeks. News has been received from Costa Rica that the friends of Weeks was very unwilling to be surrendered without making a determined fight for freedom.

Says the Blarney Stone Is Not Genuine.

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—Mrs. Ernest Hart, patroness of the Donegal castle in the Irish village at the World's fair, has been in this city for several days. Mrs Hart told a reporter that the alleged Blarney stone exhibited at the fair, which has been kissed by the general public at 10 cents a head, was not the Blarney stone nor even a portion of it.

PEIXOTO ABANDONS RIO.

Brazilian Revolutionists Gaining Ground and Strength.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 16.—News which has been received from Rio Janeiro indicates that the situation there is very serious. It is believed here that the navy rebels have gained a foothold in the capital.

President Peixoto has abandoned the coast of the Bay of Rio and the capital and retired to Santa Ana with that portion of the army which still remains loyal to him.

Here he will await an attack from the landing party which will be sent from the rebel ships, the Aquidaban, the Republica and the Trajano.

Advices from Rio state that the bombardment of the city was suspended. Private dispatches state that the damage to the city by the guns of the fleet was much greater than the government reports stated. It required prompt interference on the part of the foreign warships in the harbor to protect property in the city.

Word has also been received that the revolution is spreading. It is now reported that the states of Bahia and Pernambuco have declared in favor of the revolutionists. The garrisons in Fort Villegagnon and all the other forts in the harbor of Rio Janeiro except one have revolted and joined Admiral Mello's forces.

Preparations have been made in the harbor of Rio Grande to resist an attack from a hostile squadron. All the forts in the harbor are manned with soldiers under fighting orders. Buoys in the harbor have been removed and torpedo mines placed directly in the course of incoming ships.

KILLED IN THEIR CELLS.

Five Negroes Charged With Arson Shot by a Mississippi Mob.

COLUMBUS, Miss., Sept. 16.—H. Tuler Archer, Will Archer, Polk Hill, Ed Guyton and Ellen Fantal, all negroes, the latter a woman, prisoners confined in the jail at Carrollton, Pickens county, Ala., were shot to death by a mob of masked men.

During the present week the mill and ginhouse of J. R. Woods was burned. The negroes were arrested and confined in the Carrollton jail. The preliminary investigation was in progress, but had not been concluded. The sheriff was called on in his room in the jail building and told that parties had a prisoner whom they had arrested and wanted to turn over to him.

The sheriff came down from his room, and unlocking the jail door found himself in the hands of a disguised mob, who demanded of him the keys to the cell where the prisoners were confined.

This request was urged upon the sheriff by the glistening barrels of 100 winchesters. After the officer was overpowered the mob quickly made its way to the grated cells of the prisoners, and through the iron bars the barrels of the winchesters were placed, and from every muzzle came a dozen balls. In a second's time the five negroes had been cruelly butchered, and their quivering bodies lay in the blood which ran in streams across the floor and dyed the walls and ceiling of the cell. The mob then quietly dispersed.

BOMBS IN BROOKLYN.

Thirty of Them Found Hidden In a Lumber Yard.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 16.—Patrick Branelly, while loading lumber in John Kollock's scaffolding yard, discovered a small linen bag containing 30 bombs. He took the bombs to the Stagg Street police station, and one of them was opened by the captain. Powder was found inside of it, a little of which, when ignited, exploded with considerable force.

Twenty-nine of the bombs were about 12 inches in length and six inches in diameter. The other one was much larger, being about 8 feet in length and over 7 inches in diameter.

It is thought that the bombs were hidden in the yard by the anarchists who were discovered in Maspeth, N. Y., about six weeks ago.

Striking English Miners Weakening.

LONDON, Sept. 16.—At a conference of delegates of the National Miners' federation a resolution was adopted declaring that the striking coal miners would offer to resume work at the old wages pending a settlement with the masters on the basis of modified reductions. This action is believed to portend the ultimate collapse of one of the largest strikes this country has ever seen.

Mrs. Putney Turned Burglar.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 16.—Pretty Mrs. Ida Putney was caught in the act of burglary by her neighbor, Mrs. George Mahon, Thursday night. Between sobs she told Justice Baxter of other robberies and pleaded for mercy. Because her husband, Truckman John Putney, has not been able to buy her nice clothes and things, she said, was why she had become a housebreaker.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRES

Many Western Towns Hemmed In by Flames.

FARMERS LEAVE THEIR HOMES.

In One Section of Wisconsin a Strip Twenty Miles In Length Was Swept Clean by the Fire—Towns Filled With Smoke and the People Terror Stricken.

MARSHFIELD, Wis., Sept. 16.—This city is in a panic on account of forest fires. Many families in the surrounding districts have been burned out, and children are reported missing, but no loss of life has been definitely reported. The forest fires assumed such proportions at one time that the whole city was in danger. The fire department was on duty all last night fighting fires inside the limits.

Farmers from the surrounding country came in wagon loads for refuge in the city, many having been burned out completely. The surrounding towns are laid waste, and smoke fills the air, blinding every one. The Wisconsin Central trains are abandoned and north of here are running over the Omaha road.

McMillan telephoned for help, and a train went out and brought back 30 families who were burned out. The high wind made the fires hard to control. Fires are still burning, but the wind has gone down. At Powers' Station 15 families were burned out, the people barely escaping with their lives.

Two Children Suffocated.

There were two great fires—one on the south and one on the north. At one time the fire got within the city limits, but was met by an army of desperate fire fighters, who formed a bucket brigade and succeeded in saving the city.

Reports of great loss of property in the surrounding country come here hourly. Loss of life, as far as can be learned, is confined to the deaths of two children of Frank Kadil, who are reported to have been suffocated. McMillan is surrounded by fire, but with increased help from Stevens' Point and this place it is believed it can be saved. Company D patroled the city all night, and no one slept. The danger line is believed to be passed as far as this city is concerned, as most of the surrounding country has been burned off.

Persons who have returned from the burned district report that all along the road are seen the carcasses of burned animals. The wind, which shared during the night, is again rising. As far as heard from, between 40 and 50 families are homeless in this vicinity, and the list will be swelled unless something happens to stay the flames. Word from McMillan was received to the effect that all hope of saving the village is given up. McMillan Brothers' plant at that place is valued at $150,000; insured for $65,000. Two hundred men are fighting the flames at Merrill, Wis. Reports are coming in from all directions telling how the disastrous fires are leaving death and destruction in their wake.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 16.—A dispatch from Babcock, Wood county, to Assistant Superintendent McKenna of the St. Paul railroad says that a strong wind caused the forest fires in that vicinity to become worse, and the flames have made a clean sweep between Babcock and Necedah, a distance of over 30 miles.

Through a Burned Bridge.

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Sept. 16.—The town of Withe, 40 miles east of here on the Central road, is burning, the destruction being caused by forest fires. An east bound passenger train had a narrow escape from going through a burned bridge. Section men, coming west on a hand car, turned a curve, ran onto the bridge and went through, injuring one man fatally. Another swam the river and flagged the train, which was due in a few minutes. In the town of Bloomer farmers have been fighting the fires two days. The wind is blowing 40 miles an hour, spreading fire in all directions. If rain does not fall soon, nothing will be left.

Many Forest Towns Surrounded.

MARINETTE, Wis., Sept. 16.—Forest fires are raging to such an extent in Marinette county that considerable apprehension is felt for the safety of the several smaller towns which are situated in the midst of the forest. Word has been received from Peshtigo, Porterfield, Wausaukee and other villages that they have been fighting the fire with all their available means for the last three days.

Michigan Woods on Fire Too.

MENOMINEE, Mich., Sept. 16.—The woods around here are all on fire, and the city is enveloped in smoke. Immense quantities of pine and other standing timber have been destroyed along the line of upper peninsula roads. Unless rain comes soon the entire country will be burned over.

Science Progress

PULVERIZATION OF METALS.

A New French Method Described by Popular Science News.

In many processes in the arts it is very desirable to make use of the metals in a fine state of subdivision, but the process of subdivision is both troublesome and expensive. A new, quick and cheap method is based upon the fact that when a molten metal commences to cool small crystals are first formed, just as when a solution of a salt is evaporated. As the metal cools the crystals increase in size and agglomerate together, finally forming a solid mass. It is then only necessary to prevent these crystals from increasing in size to obtain the metal in a pulverulent form.

A NEW FORM OF BATTERY.

In the practical operation the metal is melted in any convenient furnace and turned into a shallow cupel, composed of fireclay or other suitable substance. While cooling it is stirred with a bar of iron shaped like a pestle, as soon as the first crystals appear on the sides of the cupel they must be detached and brought to the center. As they gradually collect together a mass of small crystals is formed, with the still liquid metal filling the interstices. When the greater part of the metal is solidified, the remainder is poured away, and the mass of crystals, which is now in what the inventors call the "sandy" condition, is struck several blows with the bar. If this is done at the right moment, it falls apart into a crystalline powder, which is placed on a plate of iron to cool, after which it is only necessary to separate the different sized crystals by sifting.

Among the various applications of this process the manufacture of electrodes for galvanic batteries is important. If to pulverized zinc mercury is added, and the mass heated with water acidulated with sulphuric acid, a pasty mass is formed, having the consistency of soft soap. This is a true amalgam of zinc, which can be compressed and molded into any desired shape and soon becomes very hard.

A new form of battery on the principle of the gravity cell has been devised by M. Michel in connection with this process. The negative pole consists of a porcelain cylinder, to the bottom of which is attached a basket of amalgamated copper wire netting. This is filled with pellets composed of the amalgam of pulverized zinc and mercury compressed into the proper shape. The positive pole consists of the usual strip of copper, and the cell is said to be remarkably efficient.

Bacteria In Hen's Eggs.

Is the putrefaction of eggs due to bacteria entering the egg as it passes through the oviduct, or through the shell after the egg is laid?

A healthy laying hen was washed repeatedly in a solution of bichloride of mercury followed by sterile water. She was then placed in a sterilized cage. The hen continued to lay regularly every other day. A portion of the eggs were placed, as soon as possible after being laid, in sterilized cotton and then in an incubator.

Recalling this experiment from memory, Professor McClintock tells in Science that all those eggs decayed and swarmed with bacteria, but he adds that to conclude that all eggs when laid contain putrefactive bacteria is not warranted. It is a matter of common household observation that a few eggs do not decay, no matter how long they may be kept, and the further fact that eggs packed in some dry material, as sawdust, salt, etc., and those greased or coated with gelatin, etc., seem to keep longer than those left in the open air would seem to indicate that the bacteria enter through the shell.

The Largest Rough Diamond.

A diamond which is believed to be the largest white stone ever found in the world has been discovered in the Africa diamond fields. It weighs 971½ carats, or 7¼ ounces avoirdupois. It was found in the Jagersfontein mine and is a blue white stone. Some idea of the size can be imagined when it is compared with the Kohinoor, which at present weighs about 102½ carats.

THE JAGERSFONTEIN DIAMOND.

It is 2 inches long, 1¾ thick and 3¼ inches in its greatest breadth. A black spot in the middle detracts somewhat from its value as a perfect single stone. This magnificent gem has been named the Excelsior.

The Cost of Fattening.

A computation has been made to show that, to patent an invention thoroughly the world costs nearly $15,000, there being 61 governments.

GOOD HEALTH

HAY FEVER, ROSE COLDS, ETC.

Unwelcome Reminiscences of the Sense of Smell.

Hay fever and an analogous affection, attributed to the odor of roses when in bloom and variously known as rose cold, rose catarrh, etc., have been observed in many countries. The sense of smell, like the other faculties, is liable to undergo morbid action or intensification, so to speak, at times. Every one is aware how painfully acute the senses, especially those of hearing and smelling, become during exhausting illness and in certain nervous conditions. Also the faculty of smelling is singularly subject to variation, both in disease and health.

Numerous well authenticated cases have been recorded of individuals, evidently in the enjoyment of good health, who have been suddenly affected by the smell of some flower or animal. Some persons cannot bear the scent of particular flowers, such as, for instance roses, and geraniums, and an anecdote is told of a distinguished general who, although he had gone through many campaigns with great bravery, always turned pale and fainted at the smell of roses suddenly held before him. Others again are visibly disturbed and annoyed by the smell of different animals.

Dr. Carpenter relates the case of a blind gentleman who could always tell by his sense of smell whenever a cat came into the room. Hay fever is more frequently observed in rural districts than in towns, and in the suburbs than in the central parts of large cities, and is also more common in localities where grass is chiefly grown than those in which wheat crops are principally cultivated or which are situated near to the sea coast.

The Skin Lotion of a Famous Beauty.

All the way from Paris comes this recipe for lady's original, the matchless tone and lotion for the skin, to the use of which Ninon de l'Enclos attributed the preservation of her complexion, which was said to have lived when her body was over 70 years old the velvety freshness of that of a girl of 16. Here it is: Half an ounce tincture of benzoin, 16 ounces best rosewater. Strain a skin mixture and rub well into the skin with this preparation after the bath. An equal weight of rectified benzoin added to this mixture and rubbed well into the arms and neck twice daily is said to be an excellent remedy for attenuation. The young woman who sends the formula declares that she has transformed her scrawny neck and bony arms into a gratifying plumpness of outline.

What Nervous Prostration Means.

This is a disease from which women suffer desperately. Put into plain English, diagnosed, as it were, it means a horrible sort of dread, a fear, a conviction as if something were going to happen—a physical feeling as if one would sink through the floor. A prominent physician says that half the cases of nervous prostration, dyspepsia and insomnia that come to him for treatment are to be directly traced to an inactive liver.

For a Refreshing Bath.

Put to a cup of sea salt one-half ounce of camphor and one-half ounce of ammonia in a quart bottle; fill the bottle with hot water and let it stand 24 hours; then when prepared to bathe with a sponge, put a teaspoonful of this mixture, well shaken, into your bath. A surprising quantity of dirt will come from the cleanest skin. The ammonia cleanses, and the camphor and the sea salt impart a tonic effect.

ART FOR AMATEURS.

OUT OF DOOR SKETCHING.

An Easy Lesson at the Best Season For Beginners.

Few amateurs take up the study of painting without first the pleasing practically of sketching in the open air. The late summer and autumn is the best time to work, as the scenery is then more varied than earlier in the year. A gray day is preferable for the beginner to a sunny one, objects being much more distinct than if obscured by a heat effect.

If when sketching you intend to give your whole mind to the work, and if time is of value to you, do not set out with your materials in a heap, as constantly occurs to avoided. Do not have a three legged stool, as it cramps the limbs, besides interfering with your being able to step back from your pictures as frequently as desirable, a thing which students are apt to forget.

The wish to put detail into any part of a tree or flower and other confuses a beginner. A small brush may be used, but the color must not be applied in dots and spots or the result will be weak and without form or color. Variety of color and form is essential in all detail work.

Unless you are a first rate draftsman, finding with the theory of composition, avoid trying to improve on nature. Do not be too anxious to choose an easy subject for landscape work, as you therefore betray lack of talent and self confidence.

A picture should never look labored. If it be overworked, it will have a heavy, lifeless appearance.

It is wrong to say that we paint things as we see them. Did we do so, we should have to compete with nature. Flat and simple parts may be rendered realistically, but no painter can model the larger forms with equal force, therefore all the lesser details must harmonize with the larger. Details may enliven, but they do not produce a graceful picture.

The choice of material often puzzles the beginner. To begin, The Art Amateur, authority for the following useful items, advises that water colors are infinitely better suited for sketching than oils. If for no other reason they should be so on account of the facility with which the sketches can be carried, and also because so much paraphernalia is not necessary. A Whatman sketching block, a water bottle with a tin cup, a box of colors, a pencil and a few brushes is all that is absolutely necessary. An easel and stool can perfectly well be done without if the artist does not wish to be burdened with them.

The Right Background For Paintings.

The best background on which to hang paintings is a plain dull red felt paper. The color seems to bring out all the delicate harmonies of tone in a picture and does not kill the effect as a brighter or colder color might. Nothing is worse than to hang a picture rich in coloring and sunlight effects on a blue or pearl colored wall. All the brightness and warmth will go out of the painting, and it will seem dead and lifeless, while hang against a red background all the colors are strengthened and the whole picture warmed into life.

ORIGIN OF THE WORD PICNIC.

The Word Is Modern, but the Thing Signified May Boast of Venerable Age.

This word is said to date from about the year 1802. Then, as now, when such an enjoyment was in contemplation for it was customary that those who intended to be present should supply the eatables and drinkables. A list of what was considered necessary would be drawn up and passed around, each person picking out such articles of food or drink as he or she was willing to furnish. The name of the article was then nicked off the list. Hence this form of fete champetre became known as a "pick-and-nick," which by a natural transition degenerated into picnic.

But though the word is comparatively recent the thing that it designates is at least two centuries older. Notes and Queries states that there is extant a record of a celebration of this sort which took place in the early part of the seventeenth century, upon the birthday of Charles, prince of Wales, afterward Charles I of England. Mainwaring, in a letter to the Earl of Arundel, bearing date Nov. 22, 1618, says:

"The prince's birthday has been sumptuously celebrated here by the few marquises and lords which found themselves here, and (to supply the want of lords) knights and squires were called to attend upon him, wherein it was resolved that such a number should meet at Ganiges and bring every man his dish of meat. It was left to their choice what to bring, some to choose to be substantial, some curious, some extravagant. Sir George Young's invention bore away the bell, and that was four huge brawny pigs, piping hot, hitted and harnessed with ropes of, sarsiges, all tied to a monstrous bar pudding."

The Barrel of All Noses.

It is considered a somewhat singular fact that the rarest of all noses is that found in the middle of the face, and a writer on physiognomy says that, taking a hundred noses at random, one will not find on an average more than three in which the bridge of the nose descends perpendicularly from a straight line drawn exactly between the eyes. A well proportioned nose, according to most authorities, should take up one-third of the profile, measured from the commencement of the hair to the tip of the chin.

Napoleon used to say that a long nose meant a long head. A long nose is generally considered the mostly superior of a short one. Hogarth classified noses as regular, aquiline or Roman, parrot beak, bulbous or bottle, straight or Grecian, turned up and snub. Double chins, which may be added or not, according to taste, are mixed and broken. An unduly red nose does not necessarily indicate that the wearer is a toper. It may be due to tight lacing, indigestion or emotionality of temperament.

Various Ideas of Paradise.

All desert dwellers, says the St. Louis Republic, die expecting to awake in wooded land supplied bountifully with cold water. You will remember, if you have ever read books of arctic travel, that all natives of the frozen north have paradise pictured as a land of warm sunshine, with glowing fires overhead with pots of boiling water's rubbed over the faces of the explorer's here and there. The Caroline islanders, who are passionately fond of liquor, but who are in mortal dread of breaking their necks by falling from one of the millions of cliffs with which their islands abound, believe that paradise will be a land as level as a floor, where one may drink and not be in constant dread of cracking his cervical vertebræ.

"A House by the Medlar Tree."

A book of this title, translated into English from the German, has led to the frequent inquiry, "What is the medlar tree?" This inquiry is answered as follows in Meehan's Monthly: "It is a common garden fruit in northern Germany, and also in the collections of botanists. It belongs to the same family as the apple, pear and cherry, but does not thrive well except in rather northern regions, and is the same with our pomaceous, the fruit is too austere until decay has partially set in. The word decay is not an acceptable one, as the French term 'blette' is used. A blette is fit to eat for me. The Japan plum of the south is very close to the medlar. It is known as Mespilus japonica."

Woodland Heaven.

Almost every locality has a tree that has a habitation or name of its own, so that the place is known by its tree. The "Juniper Tree" of the prophets, the "Parliament Tree" of Ulm, the "Plane Tree" of Xerxes, the "Sacred Oak" of Dodona, the "Charter Oak" of our own country, and the "Cambridge Elm," under whose shade the Father of Our Country formed resolutions are a few of an almost innumerable group of woodland heroes.

Alabama.

Alabama is a soft, musical Indian word, meaning, "Here we rest," and is said to have been the exclamation of a noble chief who, wandering through that section, was captivated by its well stocked hunting grounds and decided there to remain.

An Old Law.

In the early days of Virginia, a law was made punishing with death the man who killed a hog, goat or sheep. This was done to provide for the increase of these animals.

Abundance of Fools.

The world of fools has such a store
That he would not die for lack
Must hide at home and bolt his door
And break his looking glass.

No More Wrinkles.

We do not need to wrinkle our foreheads when reading aloud in public or private, or to screw our faces into crooked bowknots to gaze at something passing on the street. If you think you do not need to be reminded of this bad habit, read for five minutes some exciting or tragic poem before the glass and watch your own face. My countenance from years of scowling and wrinkling resembles the furrows I place a handpiece on a table and look down upon the lines and furrows a railroad junction with many intersecting paths or the diagrams crisscrossing a pattern sheet. I was amazed and could have cried when I first realized this. I found that even when arranging my back hair, or brushing my teeth, or fastening a dress, or buttoning a boot, I made all sorts of unnecessary grimaces, and threading a needle, if a little troublesome, produced queer contortions.

The New Cut.

An entirely new method of cutting dress skirts is coming into vogue for heavier materials, especially those that are made of striped fabrics. Trains, even short ones, are rapidly disappearing from walking costumes, and with them the sharply gored seam up the center of the back is also doomed.

"THE IDEAL HUSBAND."

REV. J. W. RICHARDSON'S SERMON LAST NIGHT.

The Text was Ephesians 5: 25—"Husbands Love your Wives, even as Christ also Loved the Church and gave Himself for It"—A Lecture for Selfish Husbands—Some Solid Truths.

HUSBANDS love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church and gave himself for it" was the text of a sermon by the Rev. J. W. Richardson at the Park avenue Baptist church last night, on "The Ideal Husband." The speaker said in part:

"My text teaches that the 'Ideal Husband' will regard his wife as part of himself. This is the direct teaching of my text. So Christ considers the Church. Dr. Halbeck, while in Africa, from the top of a hill, saw bears at work. Two were sawing logs in the field; one had no hands, the other had no feet. The one without hands, was carrying the other without feet, on his back; as they went along he with the hands dropped the peas and then the other with his foot would press them into the ground; and so they managed the work of one between the two. Such is the union between husband and wife. Wasted by the disease of sin as the race is, they have been mated by providence that they may care for each other. One may do what the other can not do. They are both one. Together they must go into the fields to find the fragrant blossoms, and the cool rills, and the ripe fruit. Two hearts thus joined will never starve for want of mutual happiness. God never intended that man and woman should come together merely for the establishment of a boarding and lodging house, where the two may meet at mealtime and bed time, and live all the rest of the time independently of each other in sentiment and purpose. The "Ideal Husband" treats his wife as part of himself. You will not find him providing himself with the best of everything and giving his wife the poorest of everything. Some men will pay $30 for a nice diamond pin and grumble if the wife buys anything better than a common alpaca dress for herself. Some men will spend ten dollars for cigars and an excursion to the beach, but scold the poor woman at home if she expends fifty cents for the entertainment of herself and children. Some men, poor creatures, need recreation at the shore, or off in the woods, or at the concert hall, while it never enters their cranium that a little recreation for the wife might bring back the color to faded cheeks and put a little glow in their tired souls. We know a man who expended five dollars one evening treating his friends, and who carried home a five cent package of peanuts for his wife and three children. Oh, there are so many of these husbands who go everywhere themselves, and leave the wife at home surrounded by constant fret, and then wonder why she grows old-looking and faded. It is this entire forgetfulness of the wife on the part of husband that brings a chill into the home. The "Ideal Husband" will take pleasure in his wife's company, "dear woman," and when he makes any plans for a recreation trip, all will be arranged so as to include her company. In so small a thing as buying fruit at the stand on the street corner, have we seen the love of an "Ideal Husband" purchase an extra peach for the wife at home, that she might know that he thought of her, even amidst the bustle of the street.

They two were one. Marriage makes this literally true. Before this union they had separate abodes; afterward they have but one dwelling place. Before marriage they had separate reputations; afterward the good or bad repute of the one affects the other, and now they share dishonor and disgrace. I tell you, gentlemen, you made a colossal request, when you asked the maiden, now your wife, to marry you. She left the tender associations of her father's house and united with you in the experiment of founding a new house. She sank her own independent personality and merged her life and its activities into your own. She entered upon a life of self-sacrifice and loyal devotion to your personal interests. Husbands fulfil your contracts, you entered into an affectionate contract with your wife; you promised her in return for all this, your love, your honor, your fidelity. I tell you there is much, in addition, to allegiance to the vow to love your wife always. A husband may spurn all thoughts of marital infidelity, and yet make a faithful wife's life a flowerless, tearful desert, with not a living green thing in sight. The marriage contract has not been fulfilled when you merely provide raiment for the wardrobe and food for the table. You pledged before God and man to make your wife part of yourself. Then treat her as you would treat yourself.

THEIR VEHICLE UPSET.

Mr. A. D. Shepard's Daughters in a Runaway.

Saturday afternoon Miss Shepard and Mrs. Miller, daughters of Mr. Augustus D. Shepard of East Front street, were driving on Watchung avenue. The sudden starting of a trolley car crowded their carriage against a tree standing by the curb. It tilted up and both ladies were thrown out. Fortunately they escaped serious injury. The horse was caught before any damage to the vehicle resulted.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH CHOSEN

As a Place for Holding the County Conference

SELECTION of a place in which to hold the Conference of the Union County Christian Endeavor Society has been made by the committee. It is the First Baptist church in this city.

The conference takes place on Friday evening. Rev. L. R. Dyott, of Newark, who is well known as an interesting and inspiring Christian Endeavor speaker, will make the address. Miss Scangenberg of Netherwood, the district secretary, will speak on Junior work, reports from the Montreal Convention will be given and the singing will be led by a large chorus choir

The badge banner, which was won by the Roselle Baptist Society at the conference in Elizabeth, will be awarded to the society having the largest percentage of active members present.

The Programme Committee of Union County met Friday evening and finished the programme for the County Conference. Papers from two Montreal delegates will be read.

BREVITIES.

—The North Plainfield public school re opens to morrow.

—The City Common Council will meet in adjourned session to-morrow night.

—The regular meeting of the Camera Club will be held to morrow evening, at eight p. m.

—India ink is made in Japan from the soot obtained by burning the shells of an oily nut.

—Gazelle Engine Company will take their apparatus out for a "wash" tomorrow night.

—The Exempt Firemen's Association held a regular meeting Saturday night and transacted routine business.

—The steam engines of the world represent the work of 1,000,000,000 men, or more than double the working population of the earth.

—A horse belonging to Mr. George Kirck of Somerset street ran away Saturday afternoon on Jackson avenue. No damage was done.

—A nickel's worth of whiting and a bottle of ammonia will keep silver forks, spoons and other table ware always bright and shining.

—Beginning yesterday the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school resumed its afternoon sessions. During the Summer school was held in the morning.

—Gum arabic and gum tragacanth, in equal parts dissolved in hot water, make a good and most convenient mucilage you can keep in the house.

—The New Jersey ex Prisoners of War Association will hold their annual meeting at Bloomfield on September 21st. The annual meeting last year was held in this city.

—Grease may be taken out of carpets by covering the spot with powdered French chalk, laying a soft brown paper over the chalk and covering with a warm iron.

—Yesterday afternoon a boy horse attached to a buggy began kicking while being driven along East Front street. The horse smashed the dash board before it could be quieted.

—The Union Gun Club, of Springfield, and the Maplewood Gun Club, who are tie for second place in the New Jersey Trap Shooters' League, will hold a final shoot on the Springfield grounds next Thursday afternoon.

—Mr. John E. Townsend, proprietor of the Somerset street marble works, has in his yard a handsome headstone, which has just been finished for "Augustus Frazee and Mary Southard, his wife." The stone was cut in accordance with the last wish of the late Mrs. Frazee.

—It is reported that New York parties, representing several capitalists, have been looking up some suitable property in the vicinity of the Central Railroad in this city with a view of locating a large pottery works here. It is claimed there is a vein of potter's clay running toward the Watchung mountains.

—The electric railway company needs looking after. They have dug a lot of holes on the sidewalk on Somerset street and left them uncovered. They are dangerous. A child fell into one a few days ago, and later a farmer alighting from a wagon, step into one and nearly broke his knee. There are probably 100 of these holes, nearly two feet across and about four feet deep.

—Bradstreet's reports 200 failures in the United States during the week, against 279 in the preceding week and 145, 206, 226, 167, and 190 in the corresponding weeks of 1892, 1891, 1890 and 1889. The Middle States had 36, the New England States 28, the Southern States 35, the Western States 92, the Northwestern States 27, the Pacific coast 17, and the Territories 7. Canada had 36, against 37 for the previous week. Of failing enterprises, 80 per cent. were of those employing capital of $5,000 or less, and 13 per cent. of those with $5,000 to $20,000 capital. Twenty three failures are reported with a capital each in excess of $200,000.

Too Drunk to Tell His Name.

A man who was too drunk to tell his name was arrested on Somerset street this morning by Chief Grant and Police Sergeant Kiely. It is said he is a moulder named Mattison. He fell down, before being arrested, cutting his hand severely.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Has not Resumed Practice.

To the Editor of The News:—Please correct an error in your issue of September 9th, stating that Dr. Stephenson residing on Central avenue gave up practice twenty five years ago, and has now resumed it again.

Whereas I am not a resident of Central avenue, furthermore it is only four years since I gave up practicing, but by the urgent request of friends I have recently taken two or three cases in hand, but have not resumed practice generally.

THE NEW CAR HAS ARRIVED.

To Make its Initial Trip To-Morrow Morning.

That long promised new car for the Somerset drives branch of the electric street railway has at last made its appearance. It arrived yesterday and will make its first trip to morrow morning.

The new car differs a little in make from the other cars. It has two fifteen-power motors, one at each end of the car, while the others only have one. This, it is said, will make the car ride steadier.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman and family of Terrill road have gone to Europe.

After an illness of about two months, Mr. Frederick J. Horr of Westervelt avenue, died yesterday. He suffered at first from nervous prostration, then monegitis and died with paralysis of the brain. Deceased had been a resident of this city about ten years. The first four years he, with his wife and daughter, who survive him, boarded at the old Laing Hotel. Six years ago they started housekeeping in a beautiful home on Westervelt avenue. Mr. Horr was a commission merchant in the employ of Market & Co., New York. He was born in Germany June 22, 1837, and came to this country about 25 years ago. He was a member of the Royal Arcanum. His funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon, at three p. m.

Solve This.

Supply the missing words in the following verses:

A ——— at the ———, Friday,
Watching the moonlight ——— play
On a ——— that is the business key,
Where they did ———.

"Thou ——— the wind, Spirit ——— the string!
Thou ——— the ——— to thread ——— thing!"
Each leaf within its ——— took up the song
John Burroughs, ———, sang!

To work out the anagram one has to find six letters, which, by transposition, will supply suitable words for each blank. We have the solution, and invite loves of such tests of skill to put on their thinking caps. With the necessary words supplied the verse is a complete and harmonious stanza. The names of all who secure the correct solution will be published in the News within a reasonable time.

AMONG THE WHEELMEN.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At a regular meeting of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, D. O. of L. O. L., held September 11, 1893, the following resolutions were adopted on the death of sister Elizabeth Lockrie:

WHEREAS, In view of the loss we have sustained by the decease of our beloved sister, and the still heavier loss sustained by those nearest and dearest to her; therefore be it

Resolved, That it is but a just tribute to the memory of the departed to say that in regretting her removal from our midst, we mourn for one who was in every way worthy of our respect and regards.

Resolved, That we sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation with which it has pleased divine Providence to afflict them, and commend them to the Throne of Grace to His who orders all things for the best and whose consolations are sweet in sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be placed on our records, and also printed in the daily papers.

Gus Williams in "April Fool."

(Condensed.)

Age cannot wither, nor custom stale, Gus Williams' capacity to amuse; and now Gus has sprung a new play on the ever unsuspecting public, entitled "April Fool," which he will present in Music Hall next Thursday night. The play, which is described as a highly successful musical comedy, affords an amplitude of funny situations of which the inimitable Gus is said to make the most, to the effect of provoking uproars of laughter from his audience. The farce is heralded as an excellent one and full of good specialties.

A New and Larger Boiler.

A large new boiler is being placed in the basement of the Park avenue Baptist church. It is larger than the old one and will be used to furnish heat for the entire building. Heretofore two boilers were used, one in each end of the building. Mr. Morgan Bird has been engaged by the trustees to supervise the work of putting in the new heating apparatus.

Mr. Frost Wins His Suit.

This morning, before Judge Mosher, the case of Frost vs. Miller came up for trial. The suit was brought by Mr. Miller to recover alleged loans to the amount of $104. Mr. Frost claimed that he had receipts showing that he had paid the amount claimed by the plaintiff. Judgment was rendered in favor of Mr. Frost.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

The Valkyrie Not Heard from Yet.

New York, Sept. 18, (Special.)—This is the twenty-fourth day since Valkyrie left the other side, and none of the steamers that arrived to day report having seen or heard of the racer.

It required twenty-nine days for Genesta to make the sail across the Atlantic, and there is no particular uneasiness for Valkyrie's safety felt among yachtsmen and mariners.

May Exile the Pope.

Rome, Sept. 18. (Special.)—Arrangements are going on toward establishing the Holy See in Spain. The Government is opposed to the Pope because of his friendliness towards France and he may be exiled.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Sept. 18, (Special.)—The one hundredth anniversary of the Capital of Washington was celebrated here to day.

The Conductor Should be Called to Account.

Mrs. Gussie Patrie and her mother of Morristown, N. J., visited Mrs. Van Horn of North Plainfield this morning. She got on the Somerset street car and requested the conductor to let her out at Greenbrook road. She says he said he would do so. After some time she asked if they had not passed Greenbrook road yet. She says the conductor said they had but it would be all right, they could go the end of the line and then ride back.

When the end of the line, which is at "Johnston's Drive," was reached, they say they were told they would have to pay for the return trip or get out. They had a heavy valise, but, as expostulating did no good, they declined to pay and walked back. Mrs. Patrie had to return home this afternoon or she would have entered a complaint.

Both Legs Hurt Now.

Recently Christian Duhr of Bogert street, North Plainfield, drove to New York with a load of furniture. His horses ran away and he was seriously injured. Yesterday Mr. Duhr was able to be around again. In the accident one of his legs was hurt. In walking, yesterday, he slipped and sprained the ankle of his uninjured leg.

The Tournament Not Finished.

THE annual tennis tournament of the Union County Club was not finished Saturday as expected. Owing to the wet ground playing was not begun until too late in the day to finish. All was finished except the last set between Messrs Huntington and West, which stands 5—4 in favor of the former. The set will be finished by Tuesday, if possible. The games Saturday were as follows:

West defeated Schoonmaker 8—3, 6—4, 8—6.

Huntington defeated West 5—1, 6—0.

Huntington defeated Walz 6—4.

In the City Court.

There was only one case in the city court this morning to be disposed of by Mayor Gilbert. That was Jacob Goodman, who was arrested yesterday afternoon, by Policeman Nielson, for drunkenness. The Mayor suspended sentence.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Stoves Without Fires.

About this time of year the fool killer is whetting his ax. He is making it very sharp. He is preparing to follow in the wake of the agent who offers for sale what he calls stoves without flues. But the fool killer is not going to kill the fellow who sells the stoves. Oh, no! He is laying in wait for the man who buys them and believes the story of the sweet-by buzzing agent that there can be such a thing as a stove, fireplace or lamp that needs no vent in the outside air.

Fire is a union of oxygen with the combustible substance of the fuel, whatever that may be, wood, gas, oil or coal. The supply of oxygen is drawn from the air of the room about the fire. When the oxygen unites with the fuel, it forms carbonic acid gas vapor and smoke. Gas and certain other forms of fuel make very little smoke when burned. But they do throw off into the atmosphere a deadly amount of poisonous gases. Unless these go up the chimney into the flue and outdoors, where do they go? Into the room, of course, that is heated by the so called flueless stove.

It is easy to kill one's self with carbonic acid gas or common illuminating gas. When the S. P. C. A. wishes to put stray dogs painlessly out of the way, it simply shuts the canines gently into a close room and turns the gas on. The dogs go to sleep, and they never wake up any more. If you want to put yourself gently and painlessly into your last sleep in a hurry, remain in rooms heated by flueless stoves. If you want the process to extend over several months or years and be quite as effective, have your living rooms lighted by big lamps or gas burners and keep the windows shut tight.

North Pole Hunters.

Three of them have started out this summer of 1893. Our American Lieutenant Peary will sail northward to Inglefield gulf and make his base of supplies there on the Greenland coast. Thence he will go still on to Independence bay on the north coast of Greenland, and accumulating supplies will, if necessary, spend the coming winter there in latitude 81 degrees 35 minutes north. Next spring he will push northward and eastward, exploring the coast and hoping to be led to the pole itself. He will travel with dogs and sledges over ice and earth, if there is any earth there.

Dr. Nansen, the Norwegian explorer, approaches the north pole by water, with the New Siberian islands off the coast of Asiatic Siberia as his point of departure. He believes all he has to do is to remain in his ship and that the polar currents which he believes in, though most scientific men do not, will drift him to the pole. He has constructed a ship which he is confident cannot be crushed by ice floes.

Mr. C. R. Jackson, an Englishman, starts from Franz-Josef Land north, if the European continent and not far from Nova Zembla. On the west shore of Franz-Josef Land, in latitude 80 degrees north, is Eira harbor, and here Mr. Jackson will make his headquarters. Thence next spring he will start for the pole, taking along both sledges and whale-boats. General A. W. Greely, writing of the three explorers in The North American Review, giving it as his judgment that Jackson is the only one of them that has a shadow of a chance for success.

If you want to be a college professor, determine beforehand whether you will be a very great one or only an average one, for "President Harper of the Chicago university has investigated the matter and finds that the small college professor's income is about on a par with that of the skilled workman in the mechanical industries. The next grade of professor gets about as much money as the superintendent or foreman in a large manufacturing or commercial business. In no case does the income of even the best reach that which is attained by the successful manufacturer, merchant or professional man.

This question has been asked: Since the earth is composed of three-quarters water and one-fourth land, why is it that more people do not know how to swim? One enthusiast says that natatorium ought to be connected with the public schools and all the children taught swimming. In my race it is incomprehensible how people can live surrounded by water as much as four feet deep all their lives and never learn to eat least float upon its surface.

We have our opinions of people who are always pretending they want to hide from newspaper interviewers and reporters and who abuse these nice young gentlemen and ladies as a nuisance. The fact is, it is the newspaper that makes people nowadays. The person who is never interviewed does not amount to much.

All this summer the German papers of America have been sadly exercised over the Weltausstellungsonntagsfrage. Their editors wax thin and pale. If the World's fair directors had known their action would give rise to a word like that, they never would have tried to open the show on Sunday.

Of the 161,000 Jews in Palestine 47,000 are in Jerusalem itself. This is twice as many as the sacred city held a score of years ago.

THE NEGROES RISING.

Massing Near New Orleans For Vengeance.

THREE LYNCHINGS ENRAGED THEM

First a Negro Shot a Judge. Then His Three Brothers Were Lynched by a Mob, and Now the Whites Have Been Warned by the Negroes to Leave.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18.—A report has just reached the city that an uprising of negroes has occurred in Jefferson parish and that they are flying into the houses of the whites. A body of mounted police has gone to the scene.

Another report says that the negroes are massing at Camp Parapet and arming with the intention of slaughtering the white people in that section. The whites in the rear near the swamps have been served with notices to leave, and many have abandoned their homes.

The cause is that there has been a triple lynching almost within the shadow of the city. The victims of the vengeance of the mob were three negro brothers named Julian, and the crime which they expiated in so summary a manner was the shielding of a fourth brother, Rosellus Julian, who on Friday afternoon shot Judge Victor Estopinal to death while the latter was trying him for a trivial offense, seriously wounded the judge's son and then made good his escape.

The negro reached his cabin and provided himself with ammunition, grabbing up a valise and a winchester rifle. It was from this rifle that he fired the two shots by which young Estopinal was wounded.

The Whole Family Arrested.

The negro made for the swamps in the rear of the city, and being perfectly familiar with them was soon in safe hiding. Posses were immediately organized, and all night and all the next day the surrounding country was scoured, but the searching was fruitless so far as the real criminal was concerned. The mother, two brothers and two sisters of the negro Rosellus were arrested at the Black Ridge, in the rear of the city, by the city police, and were taken to the little jail on Judge Estopinal's place above Southport. Another brother was arrested later in the day in the same neighborhood and taken to the same jail

Toward nightfall the men who had been out man hunting all day, and having met with no success, thought they had frequently been sent on wild goose chases and began to grow fretful. As the darkness thickened around them their fretfulness grew into desperation, and they determined to do something to compel the relatives of the fugitive to disclose his whereabouts.

The aroused populace was generally in favor of taking no harsh action against the females, but as to the males they appeared disposed to string them up or make them talk.

About 11 o'clock a body consisting of about 25 men, armed with rifles and shotguns, came up to the jail and lit a lantern. They unlocked the door and then held a conference among themselves as to what they should do. A motion in favor of hanging the whole five, while others refused objections and insisted that only two of the brothers, Paul, the one and the tall one, Valsin and Bakile, should be taken out and strung up. This was finally agreed to, and several of the men went into the jail, and emerged again with them the two doomed negroes. They were hurried across to a pasture 100 yards distant and were asked to take their last chance of saving their lives by making a confession.

Saw His Brother Hanged.

The negroes made no reply. They were then told to kneel down and pray. One did so, the other remained standing, but both prayed fervently.

The taller negro was then hoisted up. He remained hanging fully five minutes before the second one was hanged. The shorter negro stood gazing at the horrible death of his brother without flinching.

The mob remained at the place about half an hour, when some one suggested that they go back and hang the three others. This was opposed by several, but it was finally decided that they should go back and take the remaining brother out to Camp Parapet and hang him there. The other two were to be taken out and flogged, with an order to get out of the parish in less than half an hour. The mob then started back to the jail to put their threats into execution.

The third brother, Paul, was taken to the camp, which is about a mile distant in the interior, and there he was hanged to the limb of a tree in the yard in view of a morbid crowd during the day, "as a warning to the negroes that they cannot go about killing white people," as one of the members of the mob put it.

The lynching was conducted very quietly, and not a shot was fired during the entire proceedings. In the meantime the real murderer is at liberty, and his brothers who died to save him from the fate which they met well soon be resting in unmarked graves, heroes of a peculiarly distinctive type.

Kicked Out to Death Also.

Judge Estopinal once saved the life of Julian. The part he took in politics at the last election was displeasing to a white element who lived in the neighborhood, and they were taking him out in a wagon to put an end to his life. The dead judge interceded, and Julian was allowed to remain, but before the parish. A negro named Houston was in opposition to Estopinal for the place held by the judge at the time of his death—that of judge of the fifth justice court of Jefferson parish.

Julian was a supporter of Houston, as were nearly all the negroes, and since Houston's defeat there has been bad blood between the opposing parties, and trouble had been expected for a long time. Julian was Houston's chief lieutenant. The judge could have saved his life by taking hold of the negro's hand in which the pistol was held at the time he was first shot, but on account of losing near sighted he did not see the pistol.

During the search for Julian one branch of the posse visited the house of a negro family in the neighborhood of Camp Parapet, and failing to find the object of their search, tried to induce John Willis, a young negro, to disclose the whereabouts of Julian. He refused to do so, or would not do so, and he was kicked to death by the gang.

THE EPIDEMIC AGAIN.

The Yellow Fever Raging Again at Brunswick, Ga., &c.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The yellow fever situation at Brunswick, Ga., is alarming. Surgeon General Wyman has received the following telegram:

"Eleven cases reported and seen Sunday. Epidemic declared by health board."

Another telegram was received from Past Assistant Surgeon Goldings, stating that the disease was epidemic and that he would put Fayet in charge of the City hospital with a corps of nurses. He recommended the immediate establishment of a sanitary cordon to make the camp of utility and prevent the return of fresh materials. The camp will be ready today. The camp consists of six large frame buildings and two tents. A side track has been put down by the railway for the camp, and a steam disinfecting box car has been put up by Surgeon Carter.

Surgeon Hutton, who was taken ill while at Brunswick, is under orders to return there when he recovers. Past Assistant Surgeon Magruder, who had been near the camp, was detailed to Beaufort, but is under orders to report at Brunswick. Surgeon Murray, the yellow fever expert, who was ordered from Dry Tortugas to Brunswick last week, is expected to arrive there this week. He will be placed in charge. When Dr. Fayet, who is expected to arrive at Brunswick tomorrow; Dr. DeSaussure of Charleston, a yellow fever expert, who tendered his services to Dr. Wyman, and will immediately go to Brunswick, and Hospital Stewards Belding from New Orleans and Craggs, who have been ordered to the scene of the plagues, arrive, the force will be complete, and with this force Dr. Wyman believes that the epidemic can be checked. He has telegraphed Dr. J. F. Porter, health officer of Florida, to act with the Marine hospital service in preventing vessels from the yellow fever district from touching the mouth of the Cumberland river.

TO ABSORB ALSACE.

Caprivi Has a Plan Which Pleases the Emperor.

BERLIN, Sept. 18.—Before leaving Stuttgart, Emperor William had a long conference with Chancellor von Caprivi. The subject is said to have been the projected assimilation of Alsace-Lorraine with the rest of the empire. The Frankfort Gazette says that the emperor's purpose is no longer limited to the mere abolition of exceptional laws.

His desire now is to have Alsace incorporated in the Grand Duchy of Baden, whose people have almost the same dialect, customs and even traditions with the Alsatians.

Lorraine will be treated somewhat differently. It is inhabited by people of French tendencies and language, and has little in common with any German state. It therefore will be annexed to Prussia, although its affairs will be administered by a special department, situated probably in Berlin. This plan originated with Caprivi. It is agreeable to the emperor, who wishes to mark his sojourn in the provinces by some act signifying that Germany has taken definite possession of the territory, despite all hopes of the French to the contrary.

Hunting Convicts With Dogs.

LAFAYETTE, Ga., Sept. 18.—The sheriff of this county (Walker) received a telegram from Tryon, Chattooga county, Ga., to come and bring his dogs. Charlie Scott, who broke jail a short time ago, came into Jail, and escaped. He left with them two doomed negroes. They were hurried across to a pasture 100 yards distant and were asked to take their last chance of saving their lives by making a confession.

Saw His Brother Hanged.

The negroes made no reply. They were then told to kneel down and pray. One did so, the other remained standing, but both prayed fervently.

THE CAPITAL'S HOLIDAY

Centennial Anniversary of the Cornerstone Laying.

THE PRESIDENT AS CHAIRMAN.

Congress Enters on the Seventh Week of the Extra Session, and the Silver Senators Are Not Shut Through Talking—Vorhees Will Demand a Vote Thursday.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Washington today celebrating the centennial of the first national event which occurred within her borders—the laying of the cornerstone of the capitol on Sept. 18, 1793.

By resolution of congress this is a holiday in the District of Columbia, and all public business is suspended. There was a procession preceding the exercises, which were held on the east front, where the presidents of the United States deliver their inaugural addresses. The route of the parade was the same as taken by President George Washington 100 years ago—from the front of the old city hall and navy building on Seventeenth street via Pennsylvania avenue to the capitol.

The exercises were held in the presence of congress, national and district officials and a throng of spectators which filled the plaza. President Cleveland presided. The programme was as follows, the instrumental music being furnished by the Marine band and the vocal by a chorus of 1,000 voices:

Programme of the Exercises.

Overture ("Tannhauser")—Band.
Prayer—Right Rev. William Paret, bishop of Maryland.
"Te Deum" in E flat (Dudley Buck)—Chorus.
Introduction—Lawrence Gardiner, chairman of general committee.
Chairman of Ceremonies—Grover Cleveland.
Selections—Band.
"Virginia"—William Wirt Henry.
"Star Spangled Banner"—Chorus.
"The United States Senate"—Adlai E. Stevenson.
Potpourri of National Airs—Band.
"The United States House of Representatives."—Charles F. Crisp, speaker.
"The Heavens Are Telling" (from "The Creation")—Chorus.

Original ceremonies were directed by the officials of the Alexandria Masonic lodge. President Washington assisting upon the occasion of the laying of the last of the lodge. Some of the regalia which Washington wore on that occasion was made by the wife of Lafayette, and it, together with the implements of the craft used to lay the cornerstone, are still in possession of the lodge. An invitation to participate in the exercises tomorrow was declined by the lodge.

Repeal's Slow Progress.

The seventh week of the present session of congress gives promise of great interest. The situation is extraordinary in legislative history in that both houses are just now in a condition where it is impossible to make headway in the dispatch of public business. But if the present programme is carried out, this week will witness determined efforts on the part of the leaders in the senate and in the house to break the spell which has bound congress for many days.

Today is practically a dies non, for congress in a body is spending the afternoon in attendance upon the exercises attending the celebration of the centennial anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of the capitol. So from a legislative point of view the week will begin on Tuesday.

Tomorrow Senator Voorhees is expected to deliver his oft postponed speech for repeal of the silver purchasing clause of the Sherman act. The other speeches for the week are mixed into the many that are given will be delivered by Senator George of Mississippi against repeal on Wednesday, by Senator White of California against repeal on Thursday, and by Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota in the same line at the next convenient opportunity.

Vorhees Will Protest.

The silver Senators—the Allen gang of Nevada and Morgan—also stand ready to address the senate whenever there is opportunity or necessity for it. No one can foretell now many of these speeches or how many more will be heard in the senate chamber, for Senator Voorhees has it in mind to renew his request next Thursday that a time be fixed for a vote on the bill.

It is not to be supposed that he expects that unanimous consent will be given to any such arrangement, but the senator believes that the time for action has now come. He has made that request twice before, and it has been rejected. He will make it again, and it will be rejected. The senator believes that with this record behind him he will be able to convince the country and the senate that the repeal bill is being subjected to unreasonable delay, and he will then ask the majority of the senate to remain in session almost continuously until the point of action is reached.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

A PASSION FOR GOLD.

Chief Drummond's Peculiar Theory as to the Mint Robbery.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 18.—Henry S. Cochran will be arraigned today before United States Commissioner Bell on a charge of robbing the Philadelphia mint of $30,576 worth of gold. The witnesses for the government will be Chief Drummond of the secret service, Treasury Agent Morgan and Assistant Chief Weighing Clerk John Z. Jones of the mint. The government is not disposed to push the case with any degree of vigor, but District Attorney Ingham will ask that Cochran be taken out of the hands of Secret Service Inspectors Wood and Linden, who now have him in charge, and put where he can be found when wanted.

Chief Drummond said that he was not in a position to definitely say whether or not the government would prosecute Cochran, but declared that he would recommend the abandonment of the case in the event of complete restitution being made. "He is old and feeble and has done good service in the mint," Chief Drummond further said, "and I do not believe that he is altogether responsible for his actions. To steal from Cochran with millions of dollars' worth of anything valuable except gold. It would be safe to give him control of a vault filled with green backs, for he would not take a cent of it. He has handled gold all his life, and has developed a passion for it which is too strong to be described. He thought the government was rich enough without a few bars more or less, and he helped himself to an extent that would make his dealing years happy ones."

FOUL SMELLING SMOKE.

Twenty Acres of Garbage Burning Outside the World's Fair.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—One hundred acres of prairie land adjoining the World's fair grounds on the south were burned over, creating a dense smoke which hung over the exposition like a pall. Included in this area were 20 acres of garbage, which burned and smoked in a slow and offensive manner.

Fourteen men of the Columbian guards, engaged in an effort to subdue the blaze, were overcome by the horrible fumes and taken to the hospital inside the grounds. Two of them are believed to be in a critical condition.

Those seriously affected are Privates John Bollinger and J. Anderson. Of the remaining 12, Sergeant G. W. Moffitt and Privates A. M. Culver and James Aronson are the worst sufferers. All will recover with the possible exception of Bollinger and Anderson.

The fire began at Seventy-first street from some unknown cause, and the grass being in a very dry condition, rapidly gained headway, sweeping along the fence of the exposition grounds without hindrance. Several times the fence became ignited, but the flames were extinguished by the guards who had turned out. Chemical engines were brought out and began operations, but it was a long and tedious afternoon's work before the burning grass and garbage could be thoroughly extinguished.

CHOLERA ON THE CHANNEL.

The Dread Disease Spreading Rapidly in France.

PARIS, Sept. 18.—Cholera is epidemic in the department of the Finistere, which borders the English channel. At Dumerel, a town of 1,400 inhabitants near Brest, there are 30 cases. Acute cases have been reported also from Jaon, Pleyben, Triboui and Douarnenez.

A thousand reserves who had been called out for the maneuvers arrived at Quimper, which has been infected since last winter, but were detained there by General Vassoer, who forbade their joining the main body of troops lest they spread the disease.

Strong efforts are being made to suppress the Catholic pilgrimages to Lourdes in the department of Hautes-Pyrenees.

Cholera in its most virulent form has appeared in Barreme, a village of 1,000 inhabitants in the Basses-Alpes. Forty-three cases and 18 deaths have been reported there.

The Plague In Austria.

VIENNA, Sept. 18.—In Galicia there were 37 fresh cases of cholera and 9 deaths on Friday and Saturday; in Hungary, 16 fresh cases and 9 deaths in the same period.

Cholera In Spain.

MADRID, Sept. 18.—Cholera is spreading rapidly in Bilbao and nearby towns.

An Eel Ties Up a Road.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—An eel caused a blockade on the line of the Union Railroad company that tied cars there an hour by getting into the water pipe that supplies the boilers in the power house at West Farms. The engineer was compelled to stop the engines and blow off the boilers to get at and remove it.

The Wisconsin Forest Fires.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 18.—Rains about Merrill, Marshfield and Stevens' Point have greatly quenched the forest fires, but dispatches from Ashland say the fires in the interior northern part of the state have assumed most threatening proportions. Three families are reported to have perished near Marenge.

IN A BRAND NEW CITY.

How the Successful Boomers Passed Sunday In Perry.

STORIES OF ROBBERY AND MURDER

Those Who Were Too Late to Get Any of the Land Are Flocking Away From the Cherokee Strip by Thousands—List of Dead and Injured From the Rush.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 18.—Sunday in a new town, especially a town made on the Saturday afternoon preceding, is never a very enjoyable day, and it was less so than usual in the little city of Perry. The great majority of tents and supply wagons did not arrive until late Saturday night, and everybody was busy putting up tents or shanties or trying to get away from a gale blowing from the south, filling eyes, noses and mouths with sand and making it impossible to see further away than 40 feet.

A few ministers tried to preach, but could not make much headway against the wind and the sand and anxiety of people to get up some mode of shelter. So terrible was the day and so great the discomfort of the people that hundreds left upon every train. Still there are enough left in Perry to make it the biggest city in the territory.

Thieves and gamblers were thick, and people were robbed right and left. Two men were badly hurt and one killed by the thieves. The number of fatalities will be much greater than at first supposed, but nine-tenths of those killed or injured were the victims of accidents due to the rush.

Boomers Who Were Hurt.

The wild stories sent out about dozens of men being shot and women found with knives sticking in their hearts, etc., were wholly false. Thomas McBride of Oklahoma City had his skull crushed by a stake in a quarrel over a lot. An unknown man was shot, but not killed, in Red Rock creek. Jessie Strong was cut in the head and face in a quarrel over a pony, and an unknown man was shot near Turkey creek.

Among those hurt or killed by accident were Mrs. Charles T. Barnes of Eldorado, Kan., run over and killed; Mrs. Sarah Hughes, crushed while getting on a train; Miss Sallie Freeman of Louisville, leg broken; George Gillette, foot crushed by train; John Wheatley, shot in leg by accidental discharge of his own pistol; William Browning of Texas, fatally crushed under horse; John Mosley, leg crushed by train; Carl Byers of Atchison, Kan., thrown from horse and killed; Henry Pointer of Ohio, skull crushed by falling off a horse; Harvey Cheney and Harvey Matthews, killed by riding over a bluff.

Many riderless horses are coming in. It is feared others are badly injured.

The Disappointed Ones Leaving.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 18.—Over 1,000 excursionists passed through Kansas City en route to their homes in all parts of the country from the Cherokee strip. A more tired and disgusted lot of men was never seen together. They had gone to the opening unprepared for such a tremendous rush as occurred and were mainly those who had depended on the trains to take them into the strip, but the trains were outdistanced by the horsemen and wheelmen, and they got to the heart of the promised land only to find every claim preempted and every town lot gone.

The first great contingent of these disappointed men arrived on a special Santa Fe train, too late for eastern connection.

They at once took possession of the waiting rooms at the Union depot and turned them into a barracks, where they sleep on the hard floors until late in the afternoon. Several women were in the company, one with a babe which was desperately ill, but all seemed too tired to note anything that went on about them.

Many of the men were from Illinois, Iowa and Indiana, but there seemed a sprinkling from all the states. They told pitiful stories of waiting in line for days for a certificate and then going in packed trains only to everything gobbled.

Enoch Hooker of Green county, Ills., says that just before noon at Orlando a man broke away into the strip and was brought down by a shot from a soldier. The man's partner immediately sent a bullet crashing into the soldier's head. At that instant the signal gun was sounded and the rush began. Most of the ex-boomers had money and left for their homes on the evening trains.

Run Down by a Newspaper Wagon.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—George Fox, an electrician, of 107 East Twelfth street, and a woman who gave her name as Mary Dawgetting into the water pipe that supplies a newspaper delivery wagon. Fox's legs were broken. The woman's skull was fractured, and she is now in a dying condition at Bellevue hospital.

Big Shipment of Tobacco.

RICHMOND, Sept. 18.—The new steamship Rappahannock sailed from Newport News for Liverpool with a miscellaneous cargo, including 1,275 hogsheads of tobacco, which is the largest single shipment of tobacco ever made from a Virginia port.

The Treacherous Cutbost.

NEWBURYPORT, Mass., Sept. 18.—A catboat containing William H. Cornell, John G. Burns and Jerome Langevin was capsized off Salisbury, and the last two named were drowned.

A Child's Miraculous Escape.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—John Herty, the 18½-year-old son of Jacob Herty of 101 Monroe street, fell from the fifth story window to the pavement and sustained no serious injury.

Young Robbers Arrested.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 18.—N. C. Couch, 10, and W. P. Williams, 18, of Morristown, N. J., were arrested here for robbing the Hackettstown (N. J.) postoffice.

A City Treasurer Goes Wrong.

TACOMA, Sept. 18.—A special dispatch from Olympia announces the arrest of ex-City Treasurer Ienlisse, charged with embezzling $47,000.

HIGHWAYMEN AT THE FALLS.

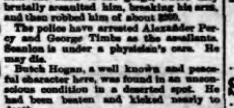
Two Men Perhaps Fatally Beaten and One Robbed.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 18.—M. B. Scanlon, a commercial traveler from Buffalo, while here met two local crooks, who, after drugging him, led him to a lonely spot near the bank of the gorge, where they brutally assaulted him, breaking his arm, and then robbed him of about $200.

The police have arrested Alderman Purcy and George Timbs as the assailants. Scanlon is under a physician's care. He may die.

Patsy Hogan, a well known and peaceful character here, was found in an unconscious condition in a deserted spot. He had been beaten and kicked nearly to death.

He has thus far been unable to state who his assailants were, and the case is a mystery which the police have thus far been unable to solve.



ACCORDION PLAITING.

As Employed In Some of the Most Tasteful Imported Gowns.

Accordion plaiting has become a veritable fad with Parisiennes, appearing principally in afternoon and evening gowns, especially dancing dresses, to which it adapts itself admirably.

White silk gauze dresses are accordion plaited throughout — sleeves, waist and skirt. Velvecteenes insertions or narrow guipure edgings alone form the trimming of accordion plaited gowns which are worn over colored silks.

TEA JACKET OF SCARLET SURAH.

Mousseline de soie in pale tints of yellow, blue or green is made up in the same fashion for evening wear.

Very attractive day gowns of black chiffon fashioned entirely of accordion plaiting with trimmings of white lace appeal irresistibly to a fastidious taste and harmonize with the prevailing fancy in colors.

Our cut shows an effective tea jacket of scarlet surah, accordion plaited from the neck. The collar and shoulder seams are covered with coarse ecru lace, as are the wide plaited sleeves.

Accordion plaited white silk gauze mounted over white silk provides a new departure in bridal toilets and represents the charmingly simple gown in which a very youthful bride will soon plight her troth.

Once More the Dainty White "Dessous."

Naturally the light colors and materials now in vogue for dresses necessitate a certain change in the "dessous." With them are now worn white silk petticoats elaborately trimmed in every fantastic way with rich valenciennes lace. White stockings seem adorning fine-gauged, open worked, white silk hose with insertion of valenciennes lace on the instep. Of course these stockings only look well worn with white knitted shoes and rich silver buckles. These buckles are often replaced by the embossed silver initial of the wearer inserted in a white satin or leather bow.

But for general wear there is nothing more stylish than a black "dessous." For instance, black gauze skirts trimmed with light blue satin and a multitude of black gauze skirts all trimmed with chicorer ruchings of blue faille. With this should be worn polished black leather shoes and black lace rosettes, and the initial in turquoises—c'est le dernier cri.

World's Fair Exhibit on Flower Pots!

OVER FOUR TONS—8,000 pounds—10 large crates—5 truck loads.

The patterns and decorations are numerous and exquisite in design. Prices range from 1½ cents for the 3½p Pot to $1.25 for the double Calla Lily, the popular ones being the 5c., 6c., 8c. and 12c. sizes in the common, though we have the largest made, at 25c. Decorated Pots and Hanging Baskets range from 7c. to 35c. We are prepared to sell all, and our prices are guaranteed the lowest and quality without a fault. The wide rim and the oak leaf on the common Pots add strength and beauty, as I are easily decorated. Order early, as some will have to wait.

CH

ONE MODEL HUSBAND.

A MAN WHO GIVES HIS WAGES TO HIS WIFE EVERY WEEK.

A Chat With the Wife of Mr. Cooper of Brooklyn, Who Is a Good Workman and Earns $16 a Week—Pittsex of the Duties Go to Mrs. Cooper.

"There are good women who are good because they cannot help it, and there are good women who lose their temper because they cannot help it. I am one of the latter," said Mrs. Cooper as she dusted off a chair with her apron and motioned for me to be seated. "I know I am not a bad woman, yet sometimes when I get tired and weary and half sick I lose my temper—that is, I get angry and do foolish things. I have been married over 15 years, and the only real trouble I have ever had was sickness. Yet I fly all to pieces sometimes and wish I had never married and a lot of silly stuff that I would not have come true for the world.

"Why, you know, my husband is called the best husband in Brooklyn, and he is too. He earns $16 a week and always gives me $15 of it every Saturday night. Now, I feel sure there are few men as good as that to their wives. Still, I get mad and fly about in a manner not at all becoming. But one does not always feel like expressing sympathy with a man's worries, his pleasures, his fatigues and even his temper. He gets angry at me once in a great while."

Mrs. Cooper blushed rosy red and looked anything but a woman with a bad temper as she had described herself. She has a round face without a wrinkle in it, though she is 30 years old, mild, blue eyes and a plump form.

"Come, look at my house and just see if you can find any cause for my not being the happiest woman in Brooklyn, but first won't you have a glass of iced milk?"

Mrs. Cooper's face fairly beamed with happiness, and one would not imagine a cross word ever passing the red lips that entered with such vim into the praise of her home and surroundings.

"I run the house on $9 a week—I mean by that the table and every expense excepting the rent. The remaining $6 goes for rent and a small bank account. My boy is 14, and I have a girl who goes to school regularly. Then comes my little one, who is old enough to run the streets and keep me after him much of the time."

The flat had four rooms, all light and airy. Every floor was carpeted and neatness prevailed. The kitchen was covered with a bright colored oilcloth, and to add still more brilliancy to the room turkey red cotton was made into curtains that were draped about the iron sink, the cupboard windows, the closet doors, and wound up with small sash curtains that threw a soft red light over the whole room.

Pictures adorned the walls, and the four mantelpieces were heavily laden with vases, clocks and images. Every room had a rocking chair, the largest being in the kitchen, which had every appearance of being the living room. White lace curtains, tied back with red ribbons, hung at every window and red plush footstools were plentiful, and evidently being the favorite color.

A wife's carelessness of her personal appearance has frequently proved the undoing of what might otherwise have turned out a happy marriage, but Mrs. Cooper runs not that risk, for she is tasteful and neat.

"I carry my husband's hot dinner to him every day if the boy is not home. It is said that when poverty comes in at the door love flies out at the window, but that is not always true, because we are very happy here, and if sickness will keep away we are all right. That has been my only cause for worry. But we all been well we might have had a pleasanter home than this to live in now, for my husband is a good workman, and as I said before gives everything he earns to his family."

"I wish you would wait and see my husband. He is fine looking. He will be home at 6. Will you have some pears to eat before you go? If not I want to write you a few more happy homes. I will take you over to a friend of mine who has such a pretty place. Goodby. I am sorry you will not wait to see my husband."

I left with a feeling of envy in my heart. "I would rather be very poor and be as happy as that woman," I thought, "than be the richest lady in the world and miserable." Who would not rather see a child happy in the sunlight than a wise man pining in a darkened jail?

"Officer," I said, hailing a policeman who was crossing the street, "will you please direct me to my car? I have just come from Mrs. Cooper's and am turned around and really don't know which way to go."

"Been in Mrs. Cooper's, have you? Is he back?"

"Is who back?"

"Why, Mr. Cooper. He left his wife a few weeks ago. They had a big misunderstanding and went to court about it."

"Yes, he's back. Tell me about it," I cried. Was my happy home to be pulled to the ground by a word?

"Well, there is no better man in Brooklyn than Mr. Cooper. He gives his wife everything. By Joe, he only keeps out $1 for himself every week. He goes home as regularly as the clock strikes 6 and stays there till he is out at work again. The other night he wanted to go off with the boys, and she did not want him to. Great Scott! a fellow ought to be allowed some amusement besides working for his family. He said he would go, and she said she would see that he did not. He got all ready and looked for his hat. He found it cut into little bits. His wife had done it in a fit of temper. Of course he could not go without a hat, and she had won, for he did not go. He got thundering mad and said he did not care to live any longer with a woman who would not let him out once in 15 years.

"I believe the judge said he had never had such an odd case to handle and sent them home to try to make up. I am glad to hear he has gone back to her, for he has three bright children, and his wife is very pleasant and a good housekeeper. The only trouble with her is that she 'nags'; the best idea what trouble is. Yo gotsi to cut up a fellow's hat because he wants to go to Coney Island once in 10 years! I guess that unhappiness is a necessary evil, for I notice in my rounds through life that if there is no cause for misery, by God they grow their own blessings. This is your car, madam."—Kate Kessington in New York Recorder.

Buttermilk For Silverware.

I have discovered an easy method of restoring tarnished silver to its fine appearance. Silverware becomes so blackened from the sulphur smoke that I was disgusted with mine. However, I found a little left in a jug. It occurred, suddenly, that it I noticed the bottom was like new silver. I immediately put all I had in buttermilk for a few hours. The serving became as fresh as that. Any kind of sour milk is just as good. No more scouring which did not produce the new appearance.—Cor. Christian Union.

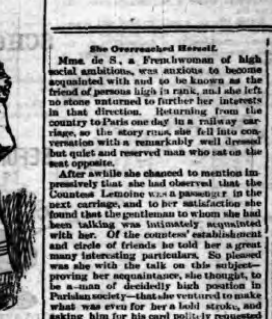
CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

Feast of the Dolls.

In Japan there is one day in the year that is called "The Feast of the Dolls."

On that day all the boys have finely dressed dolls in the windows, and beautiful collections of dolls are shown in all the public halls and theaters. There are big dolls, little dolls, boy dolls, girl dolls and baby dolls. Thousands of them and more too. They are dressed in bright, pretty silks and are placed in such natural positions that you have to look twice to be sure they are not alive.

"The Feast of the Dolls" came a few months ago. And you cannot imagine what a pretty sight it was to see the dolls in their holiday attire, for this is a very beautiful season in Japan, and the dolls were placed in windows filled with red quince blossoms and in little wagons loaded with pink apple blossoms.



She hunted through the twilight,
But when the dark had come
She paused to wipe her tears away—
And found it on her thumb!

A little American girl who lives in Boston was in Japan for the doll festival, and she was delighted with it. Her mamma took her to walk so she might see the streets lined with dolls, and the little girl laughed and clapped her hands again and again, laughing and shouting about at some of the queer things she saw.

In one of the windows there were big, dapper, gilt dolls carrying little boy dolls in what American children call "pick-a-back" fashion. The little boys who were carried appeared to be having a good time. But the girls screwed up their plump little faces and made eyes in a very funny fashion.—New York Ledger.

Daniel Webster's Childhood.

The childhood of Daniel Webster did not show the man. He was a crying baby and a pale, weak, sickly boy, the calmness child in the family, but at manhood he had a large, stately frame, a massive head and an iron constitution. The change had been effected by exercising on his father's farm, indulging in outdoor sports and living a frugal, temperate life.

So robust and large was his body and so lofty and active was his walk that the coal heavers of London paused in their work to stare at him as he passed them.

Sydney Smith likened him to "a steam engine in trousers," adding, "He is a living lie, because no man on earth could be as great as he looked."

Carlyle called him "a parliamentary Hercules" whose "one would incline at sight to back against the world."

Perhaps the greatest physical compliment he ever received was that paid to his mountain of a head. When Thorwaldsen, the Danish sculptor, saw Webster's bust in Powers' studio in Rome, he exclaimed, "Oh, a design for Jupiter, I see!"

With difficulty he was made to believe that it was the head of an American.—Youth's Companion.

Identification Was Easy.

Not long ago an accident happened to little Barbara's doll Gladys, which was thereupon sent to a store where surgical attention is given to wounded dolls. When the day came for it to be discharged, cured, Barbara obtained permission to go and get it. Barbara and papa tiptoe before the counter at the store and asked if her doll was mended.

"I guess so," said the young woman behind the counter, fumbling over a pile of dolls on a shelf. "But I'm afraid I can't tell which one it is in all this lot."

"Oh, you can find her easily enough," said Barbara confidently. "Her name's Gladys."—Chicago Evening Post.

Her Thimble.

She hunted in the closet,
She hunted out the shed,
She hunted round the doorstep,
She hunted every where.

She hunted through the twilight,
But when the dark had come
She paused to wipe her tears away—
And found it on her thumb!

His Second Baptism.

"Well, Willie, how did you like it?" asked the fond mamma when her angel child returned from his first day at the public school.

"Bully!" ejaculated the church, with a new light in his eyes. "But, say, ma, don't call me Willie; my name's Bill."—Exchange.

Fever blisters, when they are allowed to develop, are very painful and most disfiguring, and yet they can easily be cured in the beginning by keeping a ball of saltpeter on hand, at their first appearance moistening the ball with water and rubbing it on the spot.

PERSONAL.

Mr. William R. Northup of North avenue is seriously ill.

Miss Hanford of Rockview avenue has returned from Belmar.

Mr. Vincent Rockwell of East Front street has gone to the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Anderson of Franklin place have gone to the World's Fair.

Mr. Seymour Marsh of Putnam avenue returned last night from the World's Fair.

Miss Hester Holman of New Brunswick is visiting Miss Percie Emmons of North Plainfield.

Miss Susan M. Cutter of La Grande avenue returned yesterday from Amherst, Mass.

The Misses Daly of Manning avenue will give a party to a number of friends to-morrow night.

Mrs. Southard will return to-morrow to her home in this city from a ten days' visit at Irvington.

Mr. William Gladis, whose recent sickness has been told of in these columns, is now dangerously ill.

Mrs. J. P. Chase of East Front street has returned from Chicago, where she has been visiting the World's Fair.

Miss Ida Doremus of East Orange is spending a week with her cousin, Miss Bertha Wilcox, of Manning avenue.

Mrs. John H Carney of Craig place and Miss Della Yeend of Somerset street returned yesterday from Highlands, N. Y.

Messrs. William H. Rogers and Charles H. Dunham started to-day for the World's Fair to be gone until the middle of October.

Mr. and Mrs. Conkling of Huntington, L. I., who has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. David Kinz on Craig place, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. John Neal have returned to their home in Boston, after a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hedden of East Fifth street.

Judge William A. Coddington and Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed returned last night from a few days' hunting trip at Barnegat.

Last night Messrs. Harry W. Marshall and Albert Pope, accompanied by their wives, started for the "White City," to attend the World's Fair.

Mr. Moore and family of New York, who have been spending the Summer as guests of Mr. Moore's daughter, Mrs. Cruikshank, of Netherwood, returned home to-day.

Col. Scott has just returned from an extended trip in the West, principally spent in Arizona among the Indians. His skin is as brown as a berry and his health is also greatly improved.

The Hunterdon Democrat says: "James Manning, for several years past a clerk in the Union Hotel drug store, has accepted a more tempting offer in a drug store at Plainfield, and to that city he will go next week."

A new lodge of the Ancient Order of United Workmen will be instituted in this city on Thursday, September 28, in the lodge rooms on West Front street occupied by Miantonomo Tribe, I. O. R. M. The organizers are Messrs. Sidney E. Flower and Henry Liefke.

The New Street Car Made a Bad Beginning.

About five o'clock yesterday the new car No. 5 for the Somerset street railway was taken from a flat freight car and placed on the trolley's track at Grant avenue. Its initial run from there to the our "stables" was an event to be remembered. The new journals were so tight that they prevented the wheels turning, and soon the four regular cars were at a standstill and the whole line blocked. The obstructing car could not be moved either by the electric current nor by a team of horses. After a while the four old trolley cars "caught on" to the new comer and "towed" it backward to the "stables."

Mrs. Roantree in Jail Again.

Mrs. Nellie Roantree was arrested last night by Marshal Pangborn on a general complaint of being disorderly on the streets in the borough. She was arrested about six o'clock, tried shortly afterward before Justice Crossley, and was on her way to Somerville by half past nine. She was sentenced to sixty days.

BOROUGH SCHOOL OPENING.

Many New Scholars and Three New Teachers.

THE North Plainfield public school opened this morning. There were a number of new scholars and three new teachers. The latter are Miss Minerd of New Haven, Miss Lounsbury of Fort Plain, N. Y., and Miss Bigelow of Batavia, N. Y. Eight classes are accommodated in the school house, three in the Scouger Hall and two in the basement of the German church on Craig place. The teachers in charge of the classes in Scouger Hall are Miss Cutter, Miss Kiernan, and Miss Bugelow. Miss Bainbridge and Miss Lounsbury teach the classes in the German church.

CITY COMMON COUNCIL.

The Assessors Tax Duplicate Approved.

The City Common Council held a short session last night.

The only business transacted was the approving of the Assessor's tax duplicate to the Collector.

As the meeting was called for this purpose no other matters were brought up.

As soon as the resolution approving the duplicate was adopted, Council adjourned.

BREVITIES.

—Camera Club meeting to-night.

—There will be a sociable in T. A. B. Hall on September 23.

—The Union County Christian Endeavor Union will meet in the First Baptist church Friday night.

—Street Commissioner Meeker's men were busy yesterday cleaning the mud from the gutters on Elm place.

—The Climax Gun Club is holding its regular monthly shoot on the club grounds on South avenue this afternoon.

—George Mattison, who was arrested for being drunk, was given a hearing before Mayor Gilbert last night, and fined $5.

—Ex-Foreman Edward Vroom of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company is laid up with a large felon on one of his fingers.

—Iona Council, Degree of Pocahontas, will meet in regular session to-morrow night. An entertainment in the future will be discussed.

—To prevent lamp chimneys from cracking, put them into cold water, heat it gradually until it boils, then let it cool as gradually. This treatment toughens the chimney.

—Smith's moquette carpets, new choice styles with borders to match, at 99 cents per yard, quality guarantee d to be as made. It fully says the most wonderful bargain he has ever offered, and that it has never been known before. See his "ad" concerning it.

—James Willis of Westfield was so badly injured in the Associated Cycling Club team race a week ago last Saturday that he will be unable to ride for some time to come. His knee was very badly hurt, and is very stiff. He and Comn have yet to race for the Plainfield Lyceum Cyclers' road race time prize.

Pronounced a Fraud.

Money to bury a dead child was solicited by a man around town yesterday. He said his name was Welsh and asked everyone he met to contribute to the fund. He escaped the police, who say the man is a fraud and merely begging money for his own use. They are on the lookout for the man to-day.

The Fry-Cush Case Discontinued.

The case of Fry vs. Cush was discontinued by Judge Coddington this morning, as Mrs. Fry, the most important witness, was sick and unable to be present, and, as both parties seemed to be at fault, according to the facts obtained by the Judge this action was taken.

It seems that Mr. Fry was caught in the act of taking Mr. Cush's boy across the street. He had hold of the boy's collar and was pushing him in front of him. What the boy had been doing was not known.

The Conductor's Side of the Story.

The conductor on the car on which Mrs. Patrie, of Morristown, was a passenger yesterday, says that he was not asked to let her off at Greenbrook road, and that several other passengers were present who heard her say it was her own fault, that she forgot to tell him. He says that, of course, he had no option but to collect her fare on the return trip from the end of the line.

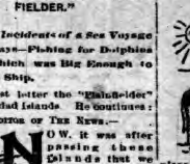
CATCHING BIG FISH.

ANOTHER LETTER FROM "A PLAINFIELDER."

Continued Incidents of a Sea Voyage of 100 Days—Fishing for Dolphins —One Which was Big Enough to Move the Ship.

In the last letter the "Plainfielder" was at Trinidad Islands. He continues:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS.—



NOW it was after passing these Islands that we made our big runs, covering anywhere from 150 to 250 miles in twenty four hours. In four consecutive days we made 216, 165, 242 and 310 miles respectively. The last was our best record. Two days under full sails we made 226 and 228 miles. During the time the 310 miles was made it was fairly blowing a hurricane, at least it seemed so to me. It was a typical storm at sea. The waves were enormous, and, I thought, as I watched them, they would surely engulf us as they towed us up and their crests and then let the boat slide down in the trough of the sea to ship tons of water.

I thought at times we would never rise from under, but our gallant craft would, like a huge Newfoundland dog, shake herself and dip her nose to repeat the same thing. To stand under the forecastle deck and have the water pass over our heads reminded me strongly of standing beneath the bridal veil at Niagara. No better illustration can be given. It was this night when the sea was lashed to a foam that the wake of our vessel resembled a seething, whirling serpent, all afire as it was with the boiling phosphorous; the high wind carried sprays of phosphorous through the rigging, covering the masts and making of them fiery crosses in bold outline against the cloudy heavens.

HOW FOR FISH STORIES.

A sea voyage without some fishing would be incomplete, but I shall only speak of two important occasions. The first, when we caught a baby shark. It was a Sunday morning about breakfast time when the first mate saw one playfully swim up to the ship, and then dash away. A rope with a large hook, baited with pork, was thrown out. The shark's teeth, as you well know, are in a row under part of his head and they have to turn over before they can take anything. This fellow lazily swam up, turned over, slowly made a grab for the bait, and missed it. It made a second effort and we had a real, live shark, in limbo. It was a small one, only five feet long, weighing probably thirty pounds. We had some steaks sliced off and cooked. The meat was very tender but rather fishy. Needless to say I did not call for a second installment. We reserved the skin, backbone and lower jaw as mementos. We also caught some bonito's, barracuta's, flying fish and dolphins, the latter proving our prizes.

It was a bright sunny afternoon, when dolphins were first seen. The water was calm and clear as crystal, and as they are beautifully col*ored, when the sun's rays struck them* when playing about, it made a genuine kaleidoscopic scene in nature's own method. There seemed to be hundreds, nay, even thousands, as they swarmed about the ship. As it was perfectly calm, I believe if they had massed themselves beneath our boat they could have upset it. The sport came, though, when catching them. A few small ones were first caught, then a larger one was hooked, but he was so immense, that, when the attempt was made to draw him up, his own weight was sufficient to cause the hook to tear out. After several such scenes it was decided to lower a sailor in a bosun's chair to the water, and, as the fish was drawn to the water's edge, to sink a slip noose over the fish's head, but this proved a failure. Then a bag was tried. This worked well with the smaller ones.

We thought we had reached the crowning point when some one suggested hooking the fish through the back with a boat hook. On the first attempt it did not succeed; the second time the sailor who had been lowered, after he had the fish hooked, wrapped both arms and legs about it, and so was taken on board. He was a comical sight, hugging a huge, squirming, wriggling fish weighing thirty pounds. One dolphin was too large for us to take aboard. We had him hooked for over an hour, and when around the ship two or three times, would give him 50 feet of line to run about, and then bring him to the ship's side again. At one time when the line was fastened to a belaying pin, he actually towed our boat. Don't laughing to think of it was an easy task. We did not, of course, go at a high rate of speed, but all on board will vouch for the "towing" tale, for you could absolutely see the vessel swerve off to one side. We caught eleven and lost ten, some weighing thirty or forty pounds; our "tow" must have weighed several hundred. The colors I spoke of are intermingled in grand combinations. They are usually of a dark green above and along the back, with turquoise and gold reflections shading toward the belly, with pale blue tints here and there. Very quickly has the poet hit in speaking of the "dying dolphin's changing hues."

The sailors regard them as friends, as they are supposed to presage a storm and thus give warning of the impending danger.

Dolphins are particularly fond of music, and ancient mythology tells of Arion escaping on the back of a dolphin he had charmed with music.

A. PLAINFIELDER.

ARRESTED THE DOG.

Mr. Geo. T Rogers's Dog Found by Marshal Pangborn.

DOGS as a rule find their way home even if left at some distance away. A dog belonging to Mr George T. Rogers of Rockview avenue was found, this morning, by Marshal Pangborn lying near the German church on Craig place. It was only a short distance to its home yet the the canine did not know its way back to its master, for it had been noticed by passers-by lying where it was found for two days.

The dog was shivering from cold. It has on a collar on which is inscribed: "Geo. T. Rogers, Plainfield, N. J." The marshal took it to the lockup.

Salvation Army Notes.

The Salvation Army will hold a demonstration banquet and council of officers in this city on Thursday, the 21st inst.

The meeting room of the Y. M. C. A. has been engaged in which to hold a private officers council on the morning and afternoon of Thursday. Officers from 37 different corps in New York, Northern New Jersey, Long Island and South New Jersey Districts of the Central Division will be in attendance.

On Saturday and Sunday Col. Wm. Evans of New York will have charge of the meetings, at which time there will be swearing in of soldiers and the dedication of a child to God and the army.

Ex-Prisoners of War.

The seventh annual reunion of the New Jersey Association of ex-Prisoners of War will be held in W. S. Pierson Post room, Bloomfield, on Wednesday next at 10.30 a. m.

The ladies of Pierson Relief Corps, No. 9, will spread a lunch and do what they can to assist in entertaining the ex-prisoners and their ladies. The feature of having lady friends meet with the association has been a grand success, and it is hoped that every ex-prisoner in the State will be present and bring ladies with them.

In the afternoon there will be an open meeting with experience of the captured, to which citizens are invited.

Is Your House Correctly Numbered?

Many Plainfield houses are still numbered by the old system, the occupants having failed to comply with the city ordinance regarding the new system. The result of the neglect is ridiculous, for instance one house is numbered 17 and the next one to it 241. Similar cases may be found on any Plainfield street and a stranger, or even one familiar with the city, is "totally at sea" when looking for a certain house. The ordinance is very explicit and places a penalty for the neglect. The city authorities could reap a rich harvest by sending an officer about town.

Base Ball Notes.

There will be one more ball game on the Crescent grounds this year if Manager Keller can secure a strong team to play against the Crescents. He is trying to get the Montclair Athletic Club to play next Saturday. The proceeds of the game will go to the players.

In the game of ball at Elizabeth Saturday between the E. A. C. and N. J. A. C. teams, three of the Crescent team played. They were Keenan, pitcher, Rafferty, catcher; and Sneeden, centre field. The contest resulted in a tie, the score standing 6—6.

State Council Jr. O. U. A. M.

The State Council of the Junior Order of United American Mechanics will meet in Concordia Hall, Trenton, on Wednesday morning. The meeting will occupy but one day. There will probably be three sessions. The election of officers and the regular routine business of the annual meeting will take the attention of the delegates. Mr. David Bodine of Grandview avenue, and a member of Franklin Council, is Warden of the State Council.

State Firemen's Convention.

The sixteenth annual convention of the *New Jersey State Firemen's Associa*tion will be held in Lambertville on Wednesday of next week.

Among the matters that will come up before the convention for discussion will be a scheme to empower local fire companies to use the money of their relief fund toward purchasing hose, apparatus and in other ways improving their departments.

Mr. J. B. Damont Pays Up.

Mr. J. B. Damont, who resides in this city, and who was forced to suspend on account of transactions in Evansville and Terra Haute securities, has made good his contracts and applied for reinstatement at the Stock Exchange. The Governing Committee will pass upon the application Thursday.

The Weather.

The weather promises to be threatening with probably light showers on the coast; slightly warmer; southwest winds.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

NINE KILLED; TWENTY INJURED.

Collision Between Two Sections of the Big Four Train.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. (Special.)—Nine people were killed and twenty injured last night by a rear-end collision between two sections of the Big Four train known as No. 45, near the village of Mantene, a few miles north of Kankakee, on the line of the Illinois Central Railway.

John G. Drew Dead.

ELIZABETH, N. J., Sept. 19, (Special.)—John G. Drew, lately associate editor of the Irish World and writer on political economy and ethics, died at his home here last night of heart failure. He was seventy-two years old.

DAY OF ATONEMENT.

The Most Important Event in the Jewish Calendar.

The solemn fast of Yom Kippur, or Day of Atonement, the most important event in the Jewish calendar, begins at sunset this evening and continues for twenty-four hours, until sunset on Wednesday. This fast is universally observed by Hebrews, reformed and orthodox.

Among the orthodox Hebrews a strict fast is kept, and during the period of its observance no food is partaken of and not even a drop of water is permitted to moisten the parched lips of the faster. It is a day of the most solemn importance to the observing Jew, and it is spent by him in prayer and fasting, making atonement for the sins of the past year and of vowing amendment for the future.

One of the Strongest Republicans in the County.

The New York Tribune, respecting the Union county nomination for Sheriff, has this to say: "The Republicans of Union County in all probability will nominate for Sheriff ex-Postmaster Samuel S. Moore, who is one of the strongest Republicans in the county, and filled the position of postmaster of Elizabeth for four years with great success. The Democrats are distracted over the number of aspirants on their side for Sheriff —all of whom are more or less under the influence of the race track gamblers. There is little doubt that if the Republicans nominate Mr. Moore hundreds of self-respecting Democrats will cast their votes for him in preference to a candidate who would prove, if elected, only a tool in the hands of the race track element."

Solve This.

Supply the missing words in the following verse:

A —— sat in his —— gray,
Watching the innocents —— play
On the —— of the —— bay,
And merrily did sing:
"Come the —— the —— —— the strong;
The —— of great nations to them may belong,
Each —— wrong, I'll set right up the long
John Barleycorn, my king!"

To work out the anagram one has to find six letters, which, by transposition, will supply suitable words to each blank. We have the solution, and invite lovers of such tests of skill to puton their thinking caps. With the necessary words supplied the verse is a complete and harmonious stanza. The names of all who secure the correct solution will be published in the News within a reasonable time.

A Car Off the Track.

Yesterday afternoon a car loaded with ties on the Central railroad jumped the track near the Washington street bridge. The wrecker was sent for and the car placed in position on the rails after about an hour's work.

Veteran Association Reunion.

The Twenty-second Regiment Veteran Volunteer Association will hold their fifth annual reunion at Trenton on Friday next. The reunion is expected to be one of the most enjoyable the association ever had.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Story of the Capitol.

One hundred years ago this Sept. 18, 1793, President George Washington laid the cornerstone of the vast and beautiful capitol building at Washington. From that day to this work has gone on either on the inside or outside of the structure, and it is even now scarcely completed. It has cost the United States $16,000,000, and it is worth every cent of the money.

During the Revolution and in the days immediately following, the capital of this republic moved from one spot to another oftener than the famous capital of the southern confederacy, eight times in all. First it was at Philadelphia in the period of the continental congress. During the Revolutionary war it was driven first to New Jersey, then to Pennsylvania, then to Baltimore, to Annapolis, and finally in 1787 it came back to Philadelphia and framed the United States constitution. There was a fight between Philadelphia and New York as to which should have the capital permanently, that reminds one not a little of the one between New York and Chicago over the World's fair.

But there was Paris before the founders of the American republic—Paris with its reign of terror. There were the old capitals of Europe, whose streets had run with blood at one time and another in their history. During the Revolution congress had been threatened by mutinous soldiers while it was sitting in Philadelphia. There had been riots with danger of mob violence while it held its session in New York. With these object lessons in their minds, the fathers decided to break away from all precedent and take the capital of the republic away from any large commercial city. They would not put the capitol into a ready made city, but they would build the capitol, and it would in time draw around it the city, and a city of exactly the right kind. As time goes on the wisdom of the fathers shines out more and more illustrious. It seems indeed occasionally alm-st more than human.

In 1800 congress first opened up in Washington. Our capital is already one of the most beautiful cities in the world. The roar of commerce, the smoke of manufacturing, will never fill its grand streets. It is the city to which literary people and retired rich men go to live. For the poor it is economical; for the rich it is delightful. Its favored inhabitants can come nearer doing as they please without being thought cranky than the people of any other city in this Union can. Perhaps there are so many cranks in congress that the city gets accustomed to them.

Home Rule History.

The movement which has resulted in passing the home rule bill at least through the house of commons began to show signs of being really important about 15 years ago. Gladstone will go down in history as the greatest statesman of Europe in the nineteenth century, but the achievement of home rule for Ireland will be the crowning effort of his life.

When Gladstone was prime minister from 1880 to 1885, Parnell, with 30 Irish followers, forced home rule upon the attention of the British parliament. Gladstone was favorably inclined to it, but would not commit himself till the Irish Nationalist party was larger. In 1885 Parnell got in his work by showing up 85 home rule members out of a total Irish membership of 103. Then the British parliament began to take the home rule question seriously.

Home rule was introduced into that parliament and wrecked it, throwing Gladstone out of power. Some of his own best friends turned against him and have been his enemies ever since, notably Joseph Chamberlain, who married the American Miss Endicott. Six years the Conservative party held sway, and then England elected Gladstone and the Liberals again. Gladstone and home rule both came up smiling. The issue that downed the Grand Old Man politically in 1886 has been settled in his favor in 1893, so far as the commons can settle it. It is a lesson illustrative of Lincoln's favorite rule—"keep pegging away."

Hon. Amos Cummings of New York has introduced into congress a bill which, if passed, would be the entering wedge for the annexation of Canada. His bill is intended to "facilitate commercial and political union between the United States and Canada." To do this he would admit British America in installments. If any state of British America not included in the present Canadian federation wants to be annexed to the United States, Mr. Cummings' bill will permit it to be thus annexed, on application of its citizens and by and with the consent of Great Britain.

A new use to which aluminium has been put, and a very popular one, is in the making of rowboats. For this it is light, strong and beautiful. It is well suited as a material for racing shells. It was in an aluminium racing shell that the German Frank G. Appley made his voyage from Pawtucket, R. I., to Chicago on the trip he has made almost continuously by water.

Perry's famous victory on Lake Erie was gained 80 years ago the 10th of this September. What would the dashing commodore who gained such a victory with his little wooden schooners think of our 5,000 ton steel cruisers and our 9,000 ton steel battleships?

TRAPPED BY MANIACS.

Two Keepers In the Matteawan Insane Asylum Overpowered.

UPROAR LASTED FOR THREE HOURS

The Inmates Had Grievances, and the Lives of the Two Keepers Were Saved Only When the Requests of Their Captors Were Granted by the Superintendent.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—A determined attempt to escape was made by inmates of the state asylum for insane criminals in Matteawan. As Gatekeeper Pat Welch was passing along in the rear of the asylum, he heard calls issuing from what is known as the isolation house. This is a low one story addition to the main building and connected with it by a door. It contains 22 cells. Sixteen of these open into a long corridor which runs through the building, and six open into a short corridor intersecting the other at its end. The cries came from one of the windows at the end of the shorter hallway.

Welch ran rapidly to the spot. When he reached the window, he found the window had been shattered, but the iron bars were still intact.

At the opening stood one of the inmates named Moran. He was calling out and waving his arms and hands excitedly. When he caught sight of Gatekeeper Welch he yelled out: "They are going! They are killing the guards! Hurry up!"

Two Keepers Overpowered.

An alarm was sounded. Keepers and other attaches and employes hurried to the scene. The superintendent, Dr. H. E. Allison, was among the first to arrive. A difficult situation confronted him. He discovered that two of the keepers of the day watch in the isolation house, where only the most violent and desperate are confined, had been overpowered by their former charges.

The door leading into the place was locked from the inside, and the maniacs, with the method and cunning peculiar to lunacy, had piled iron bets and bedding and everything else they could find suited to their purpose against it. Superintendent Allison and his assistant, Dr. Courtney, held a consultation. In the meantime Keeper Pat Ward's whistle summoned 40 or 50 men, who surrounded the isolation house. Finally Superintendent Allison walked up to the door, and opening the wicket window commenced quietly talking to those within. He demanded that they open the door. They refused. He threatened to break through. The reply was, "We will kill Tobin and Moran."

"What do you want?" said the superintendent.

"Better food, no more black medicine, no more beating and kicking and clubbing and choking, and to stop locking us up in the cells," was the rather sane answer he received from the insane criminals.

At first the superintendent ordered the doors to be smashed, but at this point Moran and Tobin managed to be heard through the din and called out that they were locked in a cell on a charge of highway robbery. Those caught with her are Sol Spud, a negro from Logansport, and Theodore Redman, a Kokomo tough. There were two or three more in the gang who succeeded in escaping. L. Faulkner, a traveling man from Grand Rapids; Lew Heed, a carriage manufacturer; Hay Bailey, a mail carrier, and Adolphus Pickett were assaulted in the same part of the city. Three of them were knocked down, but a hotbed fight and lost nothing. The girl engineered the schemes.

A Suit Against Stockbroker Keene.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—James R. Keene, the well known stockbroker, is defendant in two suits for judgments amounting to $200,000. The complaint is made by Mrs. Minnie C. Rankin, wife of Alfred N. Rankin, a member of the Wall street banking firm of Wayland, Trask & Co. She alleges that her husband Wall street speculator, and her action is based on alleged transactions in that capacity with Mr. Keene prior to and after his suspension in 1884, and with the late William H. Vanderbilt at an earlier period.

Mrs. Carlisle Robbed the Lump Away.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19.—The surgical operation that was thought to be necessary a few weeks ago to remove the lump that had formed on the upper part of Secretary Carlisle's right arm will not be performed. Mrs. Carlisle applied a course of old fashioned home treatment and rubbing. She has been so successful that the bothersome lump has almost completely disappeared.

The Pope's Gift to Cardinal Gibbons.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 19.—Cardinal Gibbons, it is expected, will arrive home from the west tomorrow afternoon. It is not known now when the Rev. Denis O. Hoolahan, vice rector of the American college at Rome and the bearer of the pope's gift to Cardinal Gibbons, will arrive. If the latter's jubilee, will come to Baltimore.

Shot by an Unknown Assassin.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Sept. 19.—James Raney, private secretary to Colonel L. D. Richardson, president and superintendent of the Hot Springs railway, was shot down while in the performance of his duties at the railroad depot by an unknown assassin.

THE VALKYRIE SIGHTED.

She Was Apparently All Right and May Be In Port To-Night.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—The British racing cutter Valkyrie may be in port this evening, but it is hardly probable that she will sail through the Narrows until Wednesday morning. She was sighted on Saturday last by the British steamship Spain, which has just arrived at quarantine.

Although no signals were exchanged between the big steamer and the yacht, it is presumed that all are well on board the smaller craft. At the time the yacht was sighted the wind was blowing freshly from the south-southeast.

"If I had known that the Valkyrie had not been reported since she left the other side," said Captain A. Griffiths of the Spain, "I would certainly have borne down on her and gone alongside. But of course I had no idea that there was any concern about her, and so I kept on my course. I am quite sure that she was the Valkyrie, as I know that boat well. It was Saturday morning at 11 o'clock when we sighted her. The wind was blowing from the southsoutheast, and she was behaving herself beautifully under full sail. She carried a big spread of canvas herself, together with her flutesails. Trusted towns were held low by the wind, and little progress was made by the army of town builders. Several hundred of people moved out of the land of promise.

Abandoning Their Hard Won Claims.

Many have lost the prizes they raced for last Saturday, but many others who had undisputed possession of claims abandoned their claims to return to their old homes, thoroughly disgusted with the country. Life on the line of the various prairies was almost unendurable, and every tented city from the north to the south line was teeming with dust begrimed thousands, whose principal occupation seemed to be to escape the effects of the dust laden winds.

At Perry the scenes have full but disputed possession of the business center, and business men are being driven to the town of Wharton, a mile below, where the railroad buildings are located in the center of Indian allotments. The Cherokees are almost giving away lots in Wharton so will erect buildings, and the railroad company is encouraging the abandonment of Perry in the interests of Wharton.

The line of claim taken surrounding the land office rivals in numbers the line that awaited their turn at the registration booths last Saturday. Rumors are coming in are all to the effect that the choice claims in the strip were all taken by sooners. Those who made the great race honestly lost Saturday found the bottom lands all taken, and in many instances men were at work plowing ground about houses half completed of sod or boards. These sooners have profited by their Oklahoma experience. It will be impossible to convict them of perjury this time. They all will have their witnesses on hand to swear each other out, and the man who had the swift race horse will have no show because none of his friends was with him.

Prairie Fires Are Fatal.

Numerous prairie fires have been the cause of more deaths than six shooters, and more charred bodies on which there are no indications of violence will be found on the prairies. Near Blackwell four quarter sections were found in possession of as many sooners by the racers when they came in on their team and horses. Their claims were valuable, and the racers proceeded to drive the sooners away. A fight ensued, in which Dave Lemon was killed—Arthur Johnson of Pueblo, Colo.; George Childs of Valley Falls, S. D., and James Squires of Hennessey, O. T., all sooners.

A fight at Guthrie also was held here last night, and resolutions were adopted demanding the surrender to the civil authorities of the soldier who killed J. A. Hill at the line of the Chilocco reservation Saturday afternoon. The officers of the Third cavalry persistently decline to give the name of the soldier who did the shooting, claiming that in killing Hill he was simply obeying orders. The remains of the dead man were shipped to his former home in New York.

There are now 25,000 persons at Perry. All the land adjoining the town site has been staked off into lots, and the Cherokee allotments at Wharton, half a mile away, were put on the market pastted for a town site, and several hundred lots sold at from $100 to $400 each. Lots are selling in Perry at $250 and $300 each, and dozens of buildings are going up today.

T. M. Richardson and son opened a bank in a tented frame building. There are three daily and five weekly newspapers in the town and more coming.

The Tax Collector Shot a Man.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 19.—J. G. Sisler, tax collector in Dunbar township, fatally shot John Vanlin, a Hungarian coke worker. Sisler says he shot in self defense; that he was set upon by a pack of dogs; that one of the dogs bit him, and when he shot it about 25 Hungarians attacked him with stones and clubs.

Embezzler Cochran Held.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—Henry S. Cochran, the mint embezzler, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Bell and the case continued. Cochran was held in $20,000 bail, in default of which he was committed, in care of Deputy United States Marshal Meyers.

Pushing Knox's Prosecution.

SOME BOOMERS BURNED

Caught on Their Claims by a Roaring Prairie Fire.

TWO RIVAL CITIES IN THE STRIP.

In Perry, Four Days Old, There Are 25,000 Persons, Daily Newspapers and a Bank. A Dust Storm Adds to the Discomforts of the Newly Settled Country.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 19.—A courier just in from the Pawnee reservation states that a terrific prairie fire is raging there, and hundreds of settlers have been compelled to abandon wagons, tents and outfits and flee for their lives on their horses. Several claims have been burned over, and it is feared that many more will perish.

The boomers are returning by the hundreds, and there is a line several hundred strong at the land office and bathrooms waiting their turn to get cleaned.

A gale has been sweeping the Cherokee strip, lifting great volumes of the black, filthy soil itself, and depositing it upon their furnishings. Tented towns were laid low by the wind, and little progress was made by the army of town builders. Several hundred of people moved out of the land of promise.

DETECTIVES AND DELEGATES.

A Gang of Thieves Now Working the Religious Congress.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19. Experienced detectives in plain clothes mingle with the crowds that now seek admission to the parliament of religions in the Art institute and closely scrutinize each face as its owner passes in through the doors of the auditoriums and main assembly rooms. Their presence is due to the development during the first week of the parliament of the light fingered gentry, who played havoc with the personal possessions of many of the goodly folk in the various audiences.

Fat pocketbooks had been abstracted from mysterious pockets while the hands of the owners, and possibly of the pilferers also, were bowed in prayer. Watches and chains disappeared from vests and dress pockets, and, incredible as it may seem, a pair of diamond earrings was actually extracted from the ears of a fair wearer as she sat spellbound under the influence of the presentation of a Buddhist priest.

Successful efforts to suppress publicity in regard to this condition of affairs were made during the greater part of the week, but the climax was reached on Saturday night, when a perfect colony of crooks invaded the theosophical congress, and there was such an outcry concerning lost handkerchiefs, pocketbooks and watches that the proceedings had to be suspended while a note of warning was sounded from the platform. The presence of the detectives from now on, it is expected, will serve to serve as a warning to the depredators to keep at a safe distance from the building and its auditorium.

MRS. HALLIDAY'S TRIAL.

Adjourned For a Day Because the Judge Missed a Train.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sept. 19.—The village is crowded today with people from the vicinity of the Halliday murder and also whence, who are here to witness the trial of Mrs. Halliday. Court was adjourned yesterday because Judge Furnsman missed train connections.

The feeling is very bitter against the woman, and the people say if she is crazy now she was not when she committed the murders. The woman has shown every evidence of fear today and is probably conscious of her approaching trial. To all appearances she is still a muttering lunatic.

Mrs. Halliday was visited in her cell by Thomas McQuillan, whose wife and daughter were two of the victims. The old man gazed fiercely at the woman and could hardly restrain himself from harming her as he exclaimed, "That is the woman who came and took away my wife and daughter." The words were spoken with terrible earnestness, and as the prisoner heard them she crouched down on her cot as though in fear and then began muttering.

Robert Halliday, son of the murdered man, identified the watch which Sheriff Beecher found on the woman as his father's.

RIO AGAIN BOMBARDED.

The Rebel Fleet Then Leaves to Blockade Other Ports.

PARIS, Sept. 19.—A dispatch received from Rio Janeiro by the Brazilian legation here says that the insurgent fleet resumed the bombardment of the city Monday at noon. Heavy firing was continued for several hours.

A mercantile firm here has received a telegram from Rio Janeiro saying that congress has decided to sit until Sept. 25. The foreign bankers in the city have agreed to suspend business until the crisis shall end.

The bombardment of the city Monday lasted three hours. The forts replied with great effect. The steam cruiser Republica, the fastest of the Brazilian naval vessels, forced a passage across the bar Sunday night, and after a severe fight with the forts got away to the south. She is supposed to have started for Santos for the purpose of blockading the port.

Immediately after the bombardment the Aquidaban, with the rest of the insurgent fleet, sailed southward. The fleet is expected to blockade shortly all the ports south of Rio Janeiro.

Cholera In Hamburg Again.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Dr. Jenkins, health officer at the port of New York, received a cablegram from Dr. Nash, an assistant who had been sent to Hamburg in view of the likelihood that cholera would again become epidemic there this year, saying that there had been nine cases of cholera, with five deaths, in Hamburg since Sept 15.

John D. Fox's Heirs Found.

NEWBURG, N. Y., Sept. 19.—John D. Fox died recently in Buenos Ayres, leaving a fortune of $2,000,000. James J. Fox, a poor farmer of Hamilton township, Wayne county, Pa., a nephew of the deceased, has since received word that he, his sister, Mrs. Kessler of Binghamton, and two brothers are heirs to the estate.

Foreigners Fought For Work.

WHEELING, Sept. 19.—A riot occurred at the big Riverside mill when the men went to work. About 20 Hungarians gathered and attempted to take the jobs from the Americans. Two Hungarians were seriously hurt, and half a dozen men received bad injuries. None of the foreigners got work.

An Italian Woman the Cause of a Riot.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 19.—A riot occurred in a boarding house conducted by Perina Salvani, where 75 Italians had congregated to drink beer, in the town of Bellwood, this county. Two Italians were shot, one of them fatally. A woman was the cause of the fight.

Bralned by a Thief.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 19.—John Taylor, a farmer residing near Somerville, Tenn., was murdered by John McClerin, colored, whom he caught stealing fruit. The negro brained him with a fence rail.

Carter Harrison's Coming Marriage.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—Mayor Carter Harrison, who is engaged to Miss Annie Howard, the New York heiress, says the wedding will take place at Biloxi, Miss.

Work For Two Hundred and Fifty.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 19.—Two hundred and fifty men were benefited by the resumption of work at the mills of the Pittsburg Forge and Iron company.

National Letter Carriers' Convention.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 19.—Hundreds of delegates are here to attend the national letter carriers' convention, which opens here today.

Plenty of Work Now.

CARLISLE, Pa., Sept. 19.—The car works and silk mill located in this city have resumed operations with plenty of work on hand.

French Officers Visit Governor Russell.

BOSTON, Sept. 19.—The officers of the French fleet paid their respects to Governor Russell at the statehouse.

SHUT IN WITH THE FEVER

Five Thousand People Imprisoned In Brunswick, Ga.

SURROUNDED BY ARMED PICKETS.

Many New Cases of Yellow Fever Have Developed, and There Has Been One Death.

A Fever Camp Established—A Canoe to Be Taken by Men on Horseback.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 19.—The board of health here reports four new cases of yellow fever in 24 hours. There have been no deaths. One patient was discharged, leaving 19 cases under treatment. The case discharged was that of the Cox child. The board passed a resolution calling upon physicians to report at noon each day all cases under treatment by them. A penalty of $25 for each unreported case will be imposed.

Of the 19 cases existing, only one is regarded as serious, the others all favorable. Johnson, the tailor, is expected to die. The board has not had any report of infection favorable to the spread of fever. People are leaving slowly from the fact that most of those who are able to do so have already gone, and those remaining are principally of the poorer classes, who cannot get away if they would.

Camp Haines Open.

It is estimated that there remain about 5,000 people in the city, and of these the greater number are without means of a livelihood. Camp Haines, near Waycross, was opened by Surgeon Murray, the expert from Dry Tortugas. Surgeon Geddings will take charge of the camp today. Two hundred and fifty tents were erected at the camp and mattresses for 1,500 persons placed in them. The sanitary arrangements are good. Beds are raised eight inches from the ground on platforms.

Two disinfecting apparatus were received at the camp—one for mails and one for clothing and other personal effects. Provisions and all necessary supplies are on hand, so that the work of detention of suspects is already efficiently begun.

Grave apprehensions is aroused from the fact that the disease has spread to all quarters of the city, and no spot is uninfected.

A Cordon of Armed Men.

It was decided to put men on horseback today and take a census of the city, and all after that desiring to leave can go through Camp Hutton. No one will be allowed to stop at Camp Hutton over 10 days and must then continue on to his destination.

Surgeon Geddings reported that he had thrown a cordon of armed men around the city, and no one will be allowed to leave town without going through the camp.

Surgeon Murray reported one death, but no one could tell who it was, and a canvass failed to disclose it. A correspondent appeared before the meeting and requested the names of patients, but was refused.

At a meeting of the board of health it was decided that no outside physicians were needed yet and no volunteer nurses were needed. Surgeon Murray has four nurses en route and will get more if necessary. Three nurses are now here. Trains yesterday carried large crowds.

A Daring Mine Robbery.

LEADVILLE, Colo., Sept. 18.—The most daring mine robbery ever committed in this vicinity occurred at the Little Johnnie mine. The plans were carefully laid, the telephone wires being cut and communication with the city made impossible. Joseph Warren, night watchman, was surprised by two masked men, who bound and gagged him. They then went to the shaftheuse and began carrying off the ore, which was in sacks, to a team that they had left in the neighborhood. They got away with 18 sacks, valued at $1,500 per sack, or a total of over $20,000.

Arrested on His Honeymoon.

CHICAGO, Sept. 19.—E. S. Simpson, said to be an expert bank worker and confidence man, was arrested here charged with forging checks to the amount of $400 on the People's bank of Philadelphia. Simpson arrived here two weeks ago with his bride and registered at the Palmer House. When arrested, Simpson confessed his guilt, saying that he had been recently married and had spent all of his money.

Forest Fires In the Laurel Mountains.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 19.—Forest fires have been raging all along the Laurel mountains from Mount Pleasant to Uniontown for the last 16 days. A fire is said to be working its way dangerously near the Soldiers' Orphans' school at Jumonville. All the sources of water supply for miles around have gone dry. At some country churches special services have been held to pray for rain.

Reported Lost With All Hands.

PORT ELGIN, Ont., Sept. 19.—During the heavy storm the American barges Yankee and Bahama were driven ashore near Fisherman's bay, eight miles south of here. The crews were landed safely. The schooner Kottage, loaded with stone, is reported lost off Fishing Islands, with all hands.

Muscle Smallpox Ridden.

MUNCIE, Ind., Sept. 19.—Health Officer Jackson made the following statement concerning the smallpox epidemic in this place, "To this date our health officers have reported in all 122 cases of smallpox, with 4 deaths, and 35 now under treatment.

Mutinous Sailors to Be Hanged.

The Alleged Conspirators Held.

GREAT HARRINGTON, Mass., Sept. 19.—The courtroom was packed at the second day of the hearing of Dr. H. C. Crandall and Deputy Sheriff H. L. Barton, charged with conspiracy to extort money from Dr. Webster Miller—all from Stockbridge. Judge N. B. Sanford held the defendants for the grand jury in $500 each. Similar charges against Emma L. Jones and Dr. Crandall were continued.

Ah Mo Must Go.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19.—United States Commissioner Edmonds has decided that Ah Mo, a Chinese laborer, aged 35 years, should be deported to China, he being in the United States in violation of the exclusion act of 1892. Ah Mo has expressed his willingness to return and admitted that he came to this country in 1884.

President of a Union Discharged.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 19.—Seventeen spinners employed at the Narragansett mill struck work because the overseer had discharged for saying that the second hand of the room was giving too much weight to another spinner. The discharged man is the president of the Spinners' union.

Effective Ruffs, Ruches, Etc.

Throatlets, ruffs, ruches and small capes of various sorts add to the effectiveness of many of the latest gowns. Our cut is an example of one of the simplest of these—a Henri II ruff.

HENRI II RUFF.

It consists of a series of Greek net frills edged with white valenciennes lace and firms a throatlet and circular tippet, connected together with a galon sparkling with colored jet embroidery.

White satin ruches are much worn with afternoon and evening gowns. These have each edge finished with narrow black lace and are box plaited. They extend only around the throat and are tied with a white satin bow.

Stylish New Models.

Some stylish new models are opened in front down the waist, over an under chemisette of lace or figured net. The basque is long, short, full or plain, according to the taste of the wearer. The sleeves, however, are always made of the balloon shape at the top and narrow at the wrist. The smartest blouses are exactly like ordinary bodices, with a band or sash round the waist. These are often set off by a figaro or Eton jacket of a different material, as silk, velvet or lace combined with jet and lined with colored silk.

Fashion Notes.

The latest white muslins from Paris are dotted with tiny embroidered spots of blue, cherry or black.

The fashion of wearing three or four frills round the top of the skirt is not a pretty one, and one which is at all likely to be popular. The general taste apparently is against any sort of trimming which increases the size of the hips.

Accordion plaited gowns are in high favor with Parisiennes for summer dances.

White skirts begin to be again popular.

There is no doubt that the plain skirt and open jacket has become tiresome to many women, but it still continues in fashion.

A new gown is a smock made of jet beaded net, with large armholes to fit over the sleeves, cut low at the neck, and falling loose to the knees in an unbroken line when it is edged with a narrow fringe. It is occasionally arranged with a watteau plait at the back, and gives a dressy appearance to a gown which has lost its original freshness.

OUT OF THE FRYING PAN

Has come not a little knowledge as to cookery—what to do, as well as what not to do. Thus we have learned to use the most pure and perfect vegetable cooking substantial for all frying and shortening purposes.

COTTOLENE,

PROGRESSIVE COOKING

is the natural outcome of the age, and it teaches us not to fry, but rather the new shortening, which is far cleaner, and more digestible than any lard can be.

COTTOLENE,

The success of COTTOLENE has called out worthless imitations under similar names. Look out for these! Ask your Grocer for COTTOLENE, and be sure that you get it.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS

FLUFFIE AND THE CHICKS.

A Story About a Beautiful White Persian Angora Cat.

Fluffie was our cat, a large and extremely lovely Angora, given to me when she was a tiny furry ball a month old. At the time of which I am going to speak she was six years old and was certainly one of the most stately and beautiful creatures imaginable. There were many pets inside and out the house, but Fluffie held the first place in our affections. The sweetest tempered and most amiable of animals to human beings, our pet was truly a formidable enemy to rats, mice, birds and even rabbits, for on two occasions she returned from the woods close by our home with a poor little bunnie in her mouth, dead. We had tos, at this time several broods of chickens. They were all kept in well protected fowl runs, and we would frequently find Fluff sitting close by them and gazing through the wirework at them with what we feared was a very murderous interest.

One day an early brood of six beautiful Cochin China chicks were hatched, and as three of them seemed very weakly we had them brought into the house and put into a flannel lined basket by the kitchen fire. The servants were given strict injunctions to guard them from Mistress Fluffie, and we all went out for a drive. When we returned home a few hours later, the door was opened by the cook. "Well, are the chickens all right?" we inquired. "The chickens," she repeated, with a look of horror, "Oh, mum, see and Eugenie have been down in the dairy, and I declare if we haven't gone and forgotten all about them."

Trembling we rushed into the kitchen to find Fluffie calmly reposing in the basket, but no sign of the chickens. "Oh, you have eaten them, you cruel cat!" we began, when a soft little chirrup fell upon our ears, followed by a tiny head and peeping out from her long, dark fur. Yes, actually these three dear wee chicks were found nestled beneath her, and as we remained delightedly for every one to come and see the wonderful sight our Fluffie turned placidly on her side and stretched her paw over the basket, looking up at us with her beautiful topaz hued eyes, as if to say: "Now, my dear people, look at me. I hope after this you will never have the baseness to accuse one of wishing to harm innocent chickens like these."

How Eskimo Boys Hunt.

In the far north in May and June immense summers of deer cross in by among the coast bound for their breeding grounds far to the east of Point Barrow, Alaska. At this season every person, male and female, is supplied with the Eskimo implement called by them ke-love-i-tow-tlo, which, as Golden Days tells, is made as follows:

Eight balls three-quarters of an inch in diameter are cut from ivory or bone, with a tip or eye through which a hole is drilled. Eight strands of finely braided sinew are tied to these balls. At the opposite ends the strands are brought together, each of exactly the same length, and tied to 10 or 12 quills of some sea fowl, when the implement is ready for use. The bunch of quills is grasped with the right hand, while the fingers of the left comb out the strand, and when all clear the balls are held between the forefinger and the thumb.

This is done in a few minutes, when a flock of ducks are seen approaching. When the game is near enough, with a quick, circular motion, just the same as throwing a stone with a sling, the missile is launched among the flying birds, when if one of these strands crosses the neck or the wing of a duck it brings it to the ground, where it is then captured. The action of the air on the strings tends to separate the balls in their flight, so that they cover quite a space, and if the birds are bunched they often bring one down, and the boy or girl that can do this is proud and happy.

Fun For Little People.

Coaching is enjoyed by very little folk as well as by grown men and women. Our picture shows a very merry party. It is but a large one, but it is very select.

THE COACHING PARTY.

Nor is it a costly coach, but it will do. Little May shall sit in front and drive, Susan shall sit behind with the baby, and Cora shall be the fine lady who is going to town to buy silks and laces. It seems to me that the horse has the least pleasure, but then that is true in all coaching parties.

Buying Things For Mamma.

Little Girl—I am going to buy my mother some oranges.

Friend—She likes oranges, does she?

Little Girl—No, ma'am. She gives them to me.—Yankee Blade.

Your Way and My Way.

"Oh, Mr. Snail, Mr. Snail,
I think you're very slow.
I shouldn't like to creep and crawl
For hours and hours along the wall
The pace you choose to go."

"Oh, Mr. Snail! oh, Mr. Snail,
What funny things you do!
You have your house upon your back,
Just as a peddler does his pack,
And stick it on with glue."

"Oh, Nancy Bell; oh, Nancy Bell,
You're very quick and bright,
But if you were a snail, my dear,
You'd do as I do, never fear,
And think your way quite right."

THE HOUSEHOLD

FLORAL DINNER DECORATION.

With a Pretty and Clever Arrangement at Tables.

Table decorations claim a larger share of attention than ever, and there have been some novel ways of seating the guests, which if more generally adopted would go far to relieve the monotony of the long crowded table. For instance, at a recent very recherche dinner there were five tables, one in the center of the room and one at each of the four corners. Each table was decorated in a different color, the middle one was shaded from flame to cream, with immense bows of ribbon to correspond, the flowers used for this purpose being principally roses. The four corner tables represented Watteau designs (which have been in great favor this year) in mauve, crimson, pink and green.

The first color was carried out in orchids, the second with rosebuds, the third with carnations, while the last was represented by mignonette, green orchids and ribbon of the same shade. Of course the lamp shades and menus were all en suite, and the effect was remarkably pretty.

This idea of having several tables should have some consideration on the part of hostesses. Besides the fact that they are novel, they would easily obviate many difficulties in the way of disposing of guests who might be unacquainted to one another. It is no small matter to arrange all the visitors with perfect tact and to everybody's satisfaction, but by this means even the most fastidious might be suited.

An Oriental Effect.

The accompanying illustration of window drapery in the Byzantine style in the arrangement of which there is an oriental flavor, appears in The Decorator and Furnisher.

The outer material is a figured fabric reenforced with a soft, plain fabric underneath, and on the right of the sketch a lace curtain is added, with a sash curtain on the window. This arrangement if carried out in draperies in tones of old blue and orange would harmonize well with neutral orange walls and a parquet floor with rugs, the woodwork being in chestnut. The upholstery might be in indigo blues.

BYZANTINE WINDOW DRAPERY.

Ivory Dust and Ivory Jelly.

Concerning this extraordinary delicacy a contemporary asserts that ivory dust, at sixpence per pound, is sold in London for gelly. "Ivory dust for ivory jelly" has an attractive sound—it is almost poetical. Ivory is part of the anatomy of the elephant, and as all are aware, is prized with honored and some affection, and we have an unconscious respect for the article itself. Our associations with it are of palaces, thrones, the gorgeous and most artistic workmanship, either the magnificent or the exquisitely dainty, so that "elephant soup" should rank in our minds with Cleopatra's famous blend of vinegar and pearls.

Yet when we call ivory dust by its simple name of tooth scrapings or bone dust it is somehow not quite so attractive. Ivory dust is the waste which results from the manufacture of ivory into various articles, and a workshop will accumulate, according to circumstances, from five to six pounds of dust in a week. The proportions are one pound of dust to a quart of water, boiled eight to ten hours. The product is a clear jelly, which is strained and flavored to taste, or diluted for soup.

Excellent For an Invalid.

Break a whole egg in a basin and add by degrees half a gill of cream and the same of good thick broth in which you have dissolved a little meat extract. Season delicately with cayenne pepper and salt, and pour into a buttered earthenware dish, which cover with a piece of buttered paper and steam very slowly for half an hour, never allowing the water beneath it to boil. When well set, take it out and put away till quite cold. This is an excellent dinner for a young child or an invalid, delicate and nourishing.

Sweet Pickled Watermelon Rinds.

Pare the rinds and put them in weak brine for one night. In the morning put them in fresh water and scald until tender; then take out and drain. Allow 3 pounds of sugar and 1 pint of vinegar to 7 pounds of rinds. Tie up in a muslin bag a tablespoonful of cloves and of cinnamon and boil them with the melon and vinegar. Take out the pickle; pour it into jars. Let it stand for two days. Pour off the syrup and boil it again. Pour it over the melon rinds while hot, and when cold the pickle is ready.

Spanish Cream.

Boil an ounce of isinglass in half a pint of water until it is thoroughly dissolved. Strain and mix with a quart of cream or milk. If cream is used, add to it the ounce of isinglass very little. Set on the fire and stir almost constantly until it begins to boil. Remove and when partly cool add gradually, stirring constantly, the beaten yolks of 6 eggs and a glass of white wine. Pour it into a deep dish, sweeten to taste with powdered sugar, strain the mixture, stir until cool and put it into a mold.

Minced Beef With a Sauce Piquante.

There is good authority for believing that Alexandre Dumas was fond of minced beef served with a sauce piquante made of this recipe: Take 5 tablespoonfuls of chopped onion with 4 tablespoons of tarragon vinegar, thickened with a roux. Into this is stirred a pint and a half of stock. When the sauce is boiled to the proper consistency, a teaspoonful of chopped mushrooms and a tablespoon of chopped gherkins are added. The sauce is seasoned highly and is served in a gravy boat.

TOO MUCH.

Couldn't Go in Two Pieces at Once, So He Said Goodby Forever.

"Hiram, can you go with me to call on Mrs. Bonser this evening?"

Mr. Phipps looked up from the newspaper he was reading.

"You know well enough, Hester," he said, "that I'm the recording secretary of Friendship lodge, No. 347, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and it meets tonight at 8 o'clock sharp."

"Can't you put it off tomorrow evening, then?"

"Have you forgotten that I am keeper of records and seals of the Knights of Pythias lodge, and that it has its regular meeting tomorrow evening?"

"Is there any evening this week you can come with me?"

"How would Wednesday do?"

"That's prayer meeting night."

"Come to think of it, I couldn't go then anyhow. There's a special meeting of the Maccabees that evening to exemplify the work of the third degree, and I'm sentor warden. I can't miss that."

"You couldn't go Thursday evenings?"

"Certainly not. I'd like to oblige you, but that's the evening the Red Men meet, and we've got three candidates to put through. Friday night the Royal Arcanum has a special meeting to prepare for installing its officers. If it had been Friday evening last week I could have gone with you. Saturday night is the only thing in the way for Saturday night. The National union doesn't hold its meetings till a week from that time. I can go with you Saturday night, Hester. Mrs. Bonser will keep."

An hour later Hiram Phipps took his hat and went down town.

At about the same hour for four succeeding evenings Hiram and his hat went through this same act.

Saturday afternoon rolled around, and he came home a little earlier than usual.

His face was pale, his hands trembled and he appeared intensely agitated.

"Hester," he said, "some weeks ago I handed in my application for membership in the Loyal Legion?"

"And they have blackballed you?" said Mrs. Phipps, with a gleam of hope in her eye.

"Blackballed me? No! They elected me, and I've just been notified I am to be initiated this evening at the regular meeting."

"Then you can't go with me to call on Mrs. Bonser?"

"Mrs. Bonser? Who's Mrs. Bonser?"

"Don't you remember you promised me last Monday you would go with me and call on her this evening?"

"I did, did I? Look here, Hester!" exclaimed Hiram wildly. "Just after I had pounded to by on it tonight to be initiated into the Loyal Legion I got a notification from the Knights of Honor that there would be a special meeting at the hall this evening to decide whether we have a festival next month or not. I can't miss that meeting."

"Then of course I can't go to see Mrs. Bonser."

"Mrs. Bonser be—vaccinated! Don't you send can't be initiated and attend that meeting of the Knights of Honor? I can't be in two places at once, can I? And that isn't the worst! Just as I was starting home I got a postal card from the secretary of the Mutual Aid lodge. There is to be a called meeting this evening to transact important business. I've got to be on hand. There's only one way to get out of difficulty, Hester!"

He rushed into the next room and the next moment a pistol shot rang out.

"The violence of Widow Phipps' grief has so far spent itself that she has registered a vow if she ever marries again not to marry a man who belongs to a lodge of any description whatever.—Chicago Tribune.

She Was Merely Thinking.

"May I cherish a hope, Ella dear, that you will become my wife, the partner of my joys and sorrows, my constant companion through this vale of tears?"

Ella looked up at him demurely. Her fair head was slightly bent. The color came and went on her dainty cheeks. Her hands were clasped and lay upon her lap.

Mr. Snodgrass seized one of them passionately and kissed it. Then he spoke again: "This avowal of love cannot come to you as a surprise, Ella. My devotion to you knows no bounds. It has a fathomless depth and an unmeasurable height. Do you not return it in some measure?"

Still Miss Spatkins spoke not. Her eyes seemed to be studying the pattern of the carpet.

"Will you not say that the word which shall make my cup of joy to overflowing or dash it to the ground forever?" he asked, with an agonized look in his eyes.

"We have known each other since we were children, Ella, dear. This is no sudden fancy of mine. I loved you when you were learning to talk, and my love deepened as you advanced in years, and you acquired that accomplishment. Now my affection is one that has gathered strength through the years until it will not be denied. It will not take no for an answer. Ella, love, why don't you reply? Speak the word which will make me the happiest of mortals."

Yet there was no answer from the fair young girl at whose feet was thus laid the heart of a brave young man; and Mr. Snodgrass once more addressed her:

"I know that silence gives consent, but I'd rather hear from your lips the little yes to my plea. Why do you not answer me?"

"I was thinking, Thomas," Ella replied at last, and there was indfinite tenderness in her tones. "Of course I love you. I think you were reasonably sure of that, dear; but I was thinking"— And again the fair away look came in her eyes.

"Thinking of what, dear?"

"I was thinking whether I would better have my visiting cards engraved 'Mrs. E. Spatkins Snodgrass' or 'Mrs. Thomas Jefferson Snodgrass,' which is the more stylish, dear?"—William Henry Siviter, in Harper's Bazar.

How a Woman Can Make a Living.

I have a scheme for some woman who is wondering what she shall do to make a living. Let her get up a business card stating that she will do alkalinds of mending for gentlemen, work to be called for and returned, and leave the cards with some self addressed postals with the landlady of every good house she knows of, to be distributed among the men whose boardresses can neither darn nor sew on new buttons on. If she does it in a business like way and at reasonable rates she ought to get up enough trade to employ two or three girls. A man hates to throw away a silk handkerchief because the hem has ravelled out, or give away garments that happen to have a slit in the wrong place.—New York Recorder.

Neckwear.

The plain linen collar, so dear to our mothers, does not seem likely to come into favor again. It is confined to sporting and riding costumes. But some sort of ornamental collar round the neck is quite de rigueur with our most fashionable toilet. It may be of velvet, silk or crape, or of silk muslin or etamine, but should always form a pretty contrast to the dress. The style of collar should be selected according to the neck of the wearer. A long, thin neck requires a deep, high collar, while a short one should be encircled with only a narrow band, or better still by a turned down collarette in the pierrot style. With walking costumes the collarette of fluted velvet or silk is very becoming to the complexion. For the house or evening dress nothing is more effective than the collarette of plaited tulle or lace, which may, for long necks, be exchanged for the full Medici ruche.

A Gentle Hint.

A delightful present to receive at any time is a bonnet whisk mounted on a silver handle. It is so pretty that one likes to use it to drive out the bits of dust that will get on the daintiest of chapeaux, and which, unless they are quickly removed, will cause it soon to look anything but new.

AFRAID OF BEING ROBBED.

A Californian Jumps from the 11 O'Clock Express.

EARING he was to be robbed, a man jumped from the eleven o'clock express just after it passed the North avenue station last night. He was seen to run down East Third street. After rushing around like an insane man he finally accosted one of the hackmen at the depot and asked where he could find a policeman. The hackman hunted up policeman Vanderweg to whom the stranger told a queer tale. He said he was from California on his way to New York where he was going to bury his wife. Just before the train reached this city several men attempted to rob him. He offered them his money if they would spare his life. Finally he sprang from the train and escaped. Policeman sent to the ticket agent with him and bought a ticket for New York. The California man paying for it with a twenty dollar gold piece. At first he refused to accept bills in change, saying they were no good. He finally took them.

—The Smith-Lederer case will come up before Justice Mosher Friday. Miss Smith is suing Mr. Lederer for wages she claims are due her from the defendant.

—Leal's foot ball team began practicing yesterday on the Crescent oval. The positions of the players have not yet been decided upon, but Abbott will be "half back."

—The alarm bell on the new electric street car No. 5 has caused many people to think of one of the fire departments hose carriages, the sound of the gong being very similar.

—At Carey's auction sale, Friday, will be offered ladies' fine dress goods, trimmings, cloaks, and hose. Also a lot of dry goods of all kinds, which have been moved from a country store for convenience of sale.

—Mr. Honeyman advertises that his his next special party from New Jersey to Chicago goes Oct. 9 and cost of membership is only $65 inclusive of hotel rooms and board. No excuse now not to see the wonderful Fair.

—Oyster shells laid on the hot coals in a stove or range will loosen clinkers on the fire-brick, so that they may be taken off easily, and a stove that is rubbed off with newspapers after each meal will not need polishing so often.

—A man named James MacDonald was arrested last night at Fanwood for being disorderly. He was brought to the lockup in this city for the night. This morning he was taken to Fanwood and tried before Judge Moore, who was presided over court.

—It is not yet generally known, and perhaps we will be censured for stating that the new regulation peach baskets, which are plainly stamped 16 quarts, according to law, hold a little over 13 quarts The baskets heretofore used were not stamped, but would fill a half bushel measure every time.—Dover Iron Era

—They Had Four Baskets of Peaches.

Policemen Cooney and Vanderweg last night arrested two men, who said they were on their way to New York city. They each had two baskets of peaches. They were arrested at the North avenue station. A peach train had just stopped, and it was thought by the policemen that the men stole the peaches from one of the cars. The men were locked up. When arraigned before Judge Goddington this morning they told such contradictory stories that they were sentenced to sixty days in the county jail.

CLIMAX GUN CLUB SHOOT.

Eleven Members Participate in the Club Event.

T their grounds on South avenue, the members of the Climax Gun Club held their regular monthly shoot, yesterday afternoon.

Eleven members participated in the regular club event and the several averages "shoots" of the various events were as follows:

Club shoot, at 25 blue rocks, with handicap allowance.—C. Smith broke 24, out of 25; T. H. Keller, 20; D. Terry, 23; T. Brantingham, 21; A. Trust, shot at 30 and broke 24; Scott, 2—by 32, broke 25; Moberry 32, broke 23; Carpenter 33, broke 17; D. Darby 30, broke 17; W. Terry 32, broke 20; and J. Darby shooting at 25, broke 21. In sweepstake event No. 1—10 blue rocks—Smith won first with 10 straight; Keller and D. Terry, tied with 9; Brantingham and Trust tied with 8.

Event No. 2—Blue rocks—Smith first, with 15; Keller second, with 14; Brantingham third, with 13.

Event No. 3—10 blue rocks—Keller and D. Terry first, with 9; Smith and McCord second, each 8.

PERSONAL.

Miss Susie Woodland of Duer street is visiting friends at Madison.

Mr. Harold Serrell of West Front street has returned from the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Marvin Dunham of Arlington avenue are in Connecticut.

Mr. and Mrs. George Feller of Pearl street started to-day for the World's Fair.

Mr. Rowland and family of Brooklyn have moved to Plainfield, taking the Page house, No. 811 West Seventh street.

Mrs. Charles H. Flanders of Scotch Plains is visiting her sisters, the Misses Harriet and Henrietta Manning of Perth Amboy.

Miss Gertrude Sharp of East Sixth street returned to-day from a visit with her sister, Mrs. William White, of Newark.

Mr. Norman C. Magee, who represented Minntonomo Tribe, Independent Order of Red Men at the Great Council fire in Iowa, has returned home.

The marriage of Mr. James Keegan of Manning avenue, North Plainfield, to Miss Schwartz, of West Front street will take place in the early part of October.

The marriage of Mr. Dominick McNamee and Miss Annie Gill, both of this city, will take place at St. Mary's Catholic church at five o'clock this afternoon.

Messrs. A. T. Hinrichs and Ernest Van Zandt start for the West to-day. They will stop for a time at Graham, Texas, where they will visit Mr. William Craig, formerly of Plainfield.

Letter Carrier Peter Weaver is back from his vacation doing duty for "Uncle Sam." Mr. J. W. A. Banersachs is the next to take a vacation. He left this morning for Union Hill

Dr. Carroll and wife start this week for Chicago, where the former will attend the World's Religious Congresses by appointment. They will also take advantage of the opportunity to attend the World's Fair.

Yesterday Mr. Jacob Abram, who has resided in Plainfield since March last, went to New York to look after the settling up of his father's estate. His father died about two years ago, and the matter has never been attended to.

County Attorney W. K. McClure returned from Canada yesterday. He was accompanied by his oldest daughter, the rest of the family being too sick to return yet. Mr. McClure was compelled to return on account of being counsel for Mr. Lederer in the case of Smith vs. Lederer to be tried Friday.

Five Westfield Young Men in Trouble.

Recently complaint was made before Justice Mosher by two Westfield men, whose buggies had been taken from their barns and smashed up by five young men. The Justice was given the names of the culprits who were known by the owners of the wagons. He wrote a letter to each of them, informing them that if they did not pay for the damage done immediately, suit would be brought against them. This morning the Justice received a letter from one of the five, agreeing to settle.

Camera Club Meeting.

The Camera Club held a regular monthly meeting last night. Only routine business was transacted.

The question of forming scientific and historical departments was discussed at length, but no definite action was taken. The committee appointed in reference to the matter are Messrs. George H. Babcock, John Neagle, H. Serrell, A. W. Rand and H. B. Coward.

—There are many trades and forms of business that are peculiar to people of certain nationalities. An instance of the fact is that of tailors and shoemakers, in which trades the Germans predominate. Speaking on this subject with one of Plainfield's business men recently, the question, "Did you ever see a negro shoemaker?" was asked. After several moments of reflection on the part of the hearers, all answered in the negative. Odd, isn't it?

COAL CARS TEAR UP THE TRACK.

Pennsylvania Railway Trains Blocked from Railway to Jersey City.

WHILE going at a speed of thirty miles an hour, a west bound coal train jumped the track on the Pennsylvania Railroad, near Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon and blocked all west-bound travel for three hours, and the east-bound for two. The rails were torn up, got twisted out of shape and the ties ripped up on the west bound track for nearly 200 feet, while the shattered cars were hurled across the east bound tracks.

The accident happened at a time when the travel is the heaviest, and passenger, freight and coal trains were strung along the road from Railway to Jersey City. Many passengers got out and walked from Waverly to Elizabeth.

A Chicago express had a narrow escape from colliding with the wreck. The engineer slowed down just in time.

One of the coal cars grazed the last car of the express.

The Anagram Solved.

The following has been running in The News for a week:

"SOLVE THIS.

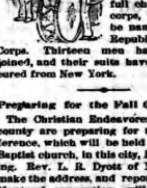
Supply the missing words in the following verse:

A ——— sat in his ——— gray,
A-viewing the moon and ——— play
On a ——— that in the heavens lay.
And merrily did ——— —— ———
"From among my sheep I'll ——— the strong;
The ——— of great battles to them may belong."
Each leaf with its rustle took up the song
John Barleycorn, my king!

Only two of several answers received give the anagram correctly. These two sign their letters "F. W. Miles," and "G. F. Fox," respectively. The correct answer is as follows:

A miser sat in his money gray,
Watching the moonbeams luster play
On a ray that in the heavens lay,
And merrily did sing:
"From among the world I'll take the strong;
The reward of great battles to them may belong."
Each leaf with its rustle took up the song
John Barleycorn, my king!

Frisbie at Work at North Branch.



A COLORED Republican drum corps is to be organized to-night at North Branch by James Frisbie of this city. Frisbie will have full charge of the corps, which is to be known as Colored Republican Drum Corps. Thirteen men have already joined, and their suits have been procured from New York.

Preparing for the Fall Conference.

The Christian Endeavorers of Union county are preparing for the fall conference, which will be held in the First Baptist church, in this city, Friday evening, Rev. L. R. Dyas of Newark will make the address, and reports from the Montreal convention will be given. *Miss Alice B. Spangenberg of Nether*wood will speak on "Junior Work." The badge banner will be accorded to the society having the largest percentage of its members present.

Local Societies to Meet.

The local Christian Endeavor Societies, of which there are 13, will hold a Union meeting in the lecture room of the First Baptist church, on the evening of the 25th This meeting was to have been held on the 21st, but was postponed on account of the Union County Convention which meets on the 22d. The speakers will include Mr. Eugene M. Cabe, Miss Alice Spangenberg and Mr. Andrew Wilson.

Mr. Smith to Remove the Poles.

Contractor Smith has the contract to remove the short electric light poles on Somerset street, which were replaced by *higher ones by the Street Railway Com*pany. He says he will have the work completed this week. Attention was called in The News yesterday to the dangerous holes dug alongside the poles some time ago, and which have since remained open.

A "Brag" Party in October.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Plainfield Bicycle Club it was decided to hold another "stag" party some time during October. The committee appointed to make the arrangements was as follows: Messrs. Frank L. C. Martin, chairman; A. A. Tilney, J. W. Sandford, Jr., H. S. Thomas, and A. L. C. Marsh.

Built New Barns.

Mr. John Cook, of Scotch Plains, whose barns some time ago were destroyed by fire supposed to be of incendiary origin, has had them re-built. He has erected three barns and a carriage house.

Its the Custom.

Now dosh the angler chuckle as he dreams,
Of trout and pickerel biting in the streams,
He'll be ready to be off Monday next, I'm told,
And also hies about the fish he takes.

THE "HARVEST MOON."

The Moon will be "Full" Three Days after the Sun Crosses the Line.

SEPTEMBER'S full moon is known as the "Harvest Moon"—a moon full or nearly full rising for several successive evenings about the same hour.

This happens in September, when the sun is near the autumnal equinox and the full moon being in the opposite quarter of the heavens, is near the vernal equinox, that is, the point at which the sun's path crosses the celestial equator from south to north, and when, in consequence, it is greatly inclined to the horizon at the time of sunset. This month the moon will be "full" on the 26th, three days after the sun has passed the equinox. Furthermore, its path when it rises on that date will have an unusually great obliquity to the horizon from the circumstance that it will be near its "ascending node"—the point at which it crosses the sun's path from south to north.

The August full moon shows a similar though less marked disposition to favor the harvester, particularly if it occurs late in the month, and it is, perhaps, of more real service to him than the September moon. The October moon, which also exhibits to some extent the same propensity to rise promptly at about sunset when near the full is known as the "Hunter's Moon."

State Christian Endeavor Convention.

The seventh State Christian Endeavor Convention to be held in Trenton, Oct. 11 and 12, promises to be one of unusual interest. Taylor Opera House, the largest meeting place in the city, has been secured for the occasion. The new Y. M. C. A. building has been placed at the disposal of the committee for the reception of the delegates, and in case of the need of overflow meetings the hall of this building will be called into use. The Park sisters, of New York, who so acceptably led the singing at Montreal will serve in a similar capacity in the State gathering. Among those who have been secured to make addresses are Dr. Clark and ex Postmaster General John Wanamaker.

The Same Thing May Happen Here.

The following is taken from the New York Sun of to day:

A NEW TROLLEY PERIL.

A HORSE ELECTRIFIED IN BROOKLYN, AND A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT RESULTS.

A horse attached to a light wagon, in which Thomas Farrell, of Carroll avenue and Bedford Mcdonte of 48 North Portland avenue were driving, received an electric shock yesterday afternoon at the corner of Myrtle avenue and Carroll, in Brooklyn. The horse at first jumped in the air and then made a wild rush down Hicks street.

On turning into Hamilton avenue the wagon was upset and the occupants thrown out. Mr. Tyler was severely bruised, but his companion escaped unhurt.

Theatrical Notes.

For fifteen years past Gus Williams has crowded the very best theatres in the country until every amusement lover considers him in the capacity of personal friend-ship. He will appear with a selected company in Music Hall to-morrow night.

At an entertainment at the Casino Monday evening when "The Wren's Vaudeville Company" appeared, many of the small audience present left before the affair was half over.

The Democratic Ticket.

The New York World says that Senator Marsh of Elizabeth will accept a renomination this Fall, and that ex Mayor Peter B. Bonnett of Elizabeth has also concluded to make a bid for the Senatorship. The Democratic ticket will likely be, from the latest outlook, Marsh for Senator and either Freeholders Swain of Summit, Woodruff of Union, or James E. Martine, of Plainfield, for Sheriff.

Base Ball Notes.

The Montclair Athletic Club has been secured for Saturday, and base ball lovers will have the last chance to see the home team for the season. The manager hopes there will be a large attendance, as the Crescent ball team has nobly upheld the honor of Plainfield in base ball circles. The players will receive the entire receipts.

Mother-in-Law vs. Son-in-Law.

There was lively tilt between mother-in-law and son-in-law on Linden avenue yesterday, which neighbors consider was a disgrace to the neighborhood. No arrest were made, as everything was quiet and serene when the Marshal appeared. If the tilt is repeated a complaint will be made to the authorities.

Suing a Farmer.

Suit has been brought, in Justice Mosher's court, by Mr. Aaron D. Thompson of this city against a farmer named Samuel Johnson, who lives near South Plainfield, for $40. The summons was issued yesterday and is returnable Tuesday, September 26.

The Weather.

The indications point to fair, warm weather, cooling about nightfall, with southwesterly to northwesterly breezes and a hazy atmosphere.

THE CASE WAS DISMISSED.

The Lawyer from St. Paul Could Not Be Contradicted.

In a certain village which adjoined in the possession of only one lawyer an action was commenced before Justice S., and W., the local attorney, retained by the plaintiff. The defendant employed counsel from the county seat, but the return day came and no lawyer appeared. Defendant, in distress, was relating his woes to a group of idlers on the lookout for fun and mischief, when a stranger appeared wearing a suit of black with silk hat and gold headed cane. This was one A., a "tin peddler" from a neighboring town, a fellow of much versatility and acumen, and withal considerable of a wag.

Some one of the group, seeing upon ahead, told the defendant that A. was Justice X., a great lawyer from St. Paul, and that if the justice could be prevailed upon to take his case victory was sure. To carry out the joke the defendant was introduced to the pseudo judge, and explaining the situation brought his aid. A. condescendingly replied that, although he had never before vouched to practice in these inferior courts, he appreciated the hard situation of his would be client, and would consent to undertake his defense. When ushered into the presence of the court he was introduced to his honor as Judge X., of St. Paul, R., highly elated at the honor of having such eminent counsel appear in his court, at once called the case.

A. arose, made a motion to dismiss, and argued with great eloquence and considerable length, quoting profusely decisions of the supreme courts of the United States and the state of Minnesota, referring to Blackstone and every other law writer of whom he had ever heard, and not omitting the most open and shameless flattery of the magistrate. When he concluded and sat down, W., the local counsel, arose to reply, whereat the justice smote the table a thundering blow and cried in a voice pregnant with righteous indignation: "Sit down, sir! That is Judge X., of St. Paul. Don't you suppose he knows the law? What do you mean by attempting to consult him? This case will be dismissed."—Green Bag

Powerful Constitution.

The Rev. A. S. Gumbust told the Massachusetts Undertakers' association that he thought he had had a particularly large share of funerals to attend during the two years of his pastorate in the city, and he related some of his experiences with undertakers.

Among them was one for the truth of which he vouches. He was summoned to officiate at the obsequies of one of his parishioners, and was passing the establishment of the undertaker who had charge of the arrangements, when the latter saw him, and called him in.

"What do you think of that casket?" he inquired, with an expression of professional pride.

"It is very handsome," replied the minister.

"Don't you like that fringe?"

"Very much."

"And that lining and pillow. Ain't they great?"

"They are very handsome."

"And the handles?"

"Could not be more beautiful."

"You like the casket then?"

"Very much."

"Well, couldn't you say something about it?"

"How, when and where?" inquired the puzzled minister.

EDSALL'S.

Why do the funeral sermon, you know.

"I don't think it would be fit there," replied the minister with a smile.

"Certainly you may say that in the midst of their bereavement it must be a satisfaction to the friends to see the dead resting in such a beautiful casket?"

The minister cut short the further appeals of the undertaker by a hurried departure, but not before a reproachful glance had convinced him that the latter regarded him as "unaccommodating person indeed."—Boston Herald.

Mighty Wearing on a Man.

The lord of the manor slept, although the baby had the colic and was in no wise disposed to suffer in silence.

"Wah—oop—oo—oo—wah!" wailed the infant.

Distracted as the child's distress, the mother rushed wildly to the cradle.

"Hushaby, baby," soothed she.

"Gr-r-r—sis—poo," snored the lord of the manor.

The woman made ten quick laps around the room, danced the suffering babe vigorously and performed a great variety of exhaustive antics popularly supposed to make young children forget their troubles.

"Woop," yelled the little one.

"Hush-a-bye baby on the tree"—

"Gr-r-r-oo—sizz—poo."

The lord of the manor slept.

One by one the sands of time flowed through the hourglass. Minutes grew into hours. Just as the rising sun was coloring the eastern horizon with a delicate glow, the baby fell asleep. With a smile of tender radiance the mother placed her darling in the cradle, and imprinting a soft kiss upon its brow turned to her own couch.

The lord of the manor stirred and opened his eyes.

"Can I help you, Maria?" he feebly asked with a yawn.

The wife and mother sighed.

"No, John," she wearily rejoined. They slept.

"I shouldn't be surprised"—

It was the lord of the manor talking to a friend next day.

"If I looked mighty haggard. This being up nights"—

He gabbled prodigiously.

"—with the baby is mighty wearing on a man."

The lord of the manor looked decidedly dissatisfied with life.—Detroit Tribune.

Inadvertently Old Fashioned.

They were lingering in the deepening twilight of the fresh fall. It was hard for him to leave. Standing together there, with a soft glance directed into eyes that spoke back love divine, they presented a pretty picture.

"And will you always love me?"

The confidence of his bearing indicated that he had come to the situation previously, yet the trusting girl seemed re joiced to reply.

"Until death do us part!" she cood.

She raised her brown curls tenderly upon his shoulder.

"No, Emeline. No."

He spoke in the clouds parted, and through the rift the moon sent its rays to bathe his brow in silver light.

"You forget"—

He leaned upon her with ineffable tenderness.

"—that we live in a progressive age."

Slowly the color returned to her beautiful face, but there remained a look of perplexity and doubt.

"Why, Billy!"—

He raised his hand deprecatingly.

"Emeline, don't you know that it is not until death do us part, but"—

Her lips moved as if to utter a reproach.

"But, according to modern usage, until you have one applegized insane and shut in an asylum."

With a glad cry she threw herself into his embrace.

"Oh, Billy, how"—

A kiss temporarily interrupted her discourse.

"—could I be so old fashioned as to say until death do us part."

The moon was lost to sight, and in the darkness he effected his departure.—Detroit Tribune.

Able to Travel Alone.

"How old is that boy, ma'am?" inquired the conductor of a South Side suburban railway train the other morning, halting in the aisle and addressing a well preserved and self possessed matron in one of the seats.

"I don't know that it makes any difference to you, sir," she answered.

"I only wanted to know"—

"You don't have to feed and clothe him do you?"

"Certainly not, madam, but"—

"You ain't taking a government census of this car, are you?"

"Of course not, ma'am, but I reckon I've got a right to ask you how old that boy is. I'm from"—

"Yes, you've got the right to ask it and I've got the right to answer you. Take't any of your business how old he is."

"I great Scott, ma'am, I'm the conductor of this"—

"I don't care if you're the president of the road. What's that got to do with your wanting to know how old he is?"

"It's got this much to do with it, if he's over five years old he'll have to"—

"Over five years old! He's over nine."

"Then you'll have to pay a fare for him."

"Who asked you to carry him free?"

"Why"—

"Do I look as if I was a person that would try to beat a railroad out of seven cents?"

"Certainly not, ma'am, but"—

"Then what have you been raising all this fuss about?"

"I haven't been"—

"I'll leave it to the other passengers if you haven't. You've been asking impudent questions and making insinuations and acting as if you thought folks were all thieves."

Everybody in the car was looking at her by this time, but she kept right on:

"And you've waked up the wrong passenger this time. I haven't anybody to travel with me but this boy, but I can get along all right I don't need any assistance from any one, and don't you forget it. Here's a ten ride ticket. Punch out a ride for me and one for him, and if you see us on your train again don't go to asking people's ages and making remarks. That's all!"

"Yes, ma'am," gasped the conductor, meekly punching two rides out of the ticket and passing on to the next car, utterly crushed.—Chicago Tribune.

Children in Company.

Every one understands the way to build a fire better than the one who is doing it. So no one in the world understands managing children so well as the people who have none.

"Why is it," was asked in a paper not long ago, "that mothers do not discipline children more in private, so that the effects of this discipline may be apparent when guests are present?" The writer of the above quoted article then proceeded to relate her soul harrowing experience while calling upon a mother with six children.

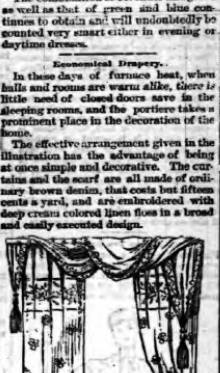
A Queer Combination.

The combination of lavender and green as well as that of green and blue continues to obtain and will undoubtedly be counted very smart either in evening or daytime dresses.

Economical Drapery.

In these days of furnace heat, when halls and rooms are warm alike, there is little need of closed doors save in the sleeping rooms, and the portiere takes a prominent place in the decoration of the home.

The effective arrangement given in the illustration has the advantage of being at once simple and decorative. The curtains and the scarf are all made of ordinary brown denim, that costs but fifteen cents a yard, and are embroidered with deep cream colored linen floss in a broad and easily executed design.



A SIMPLE PORTIERE.

The curtains are hung upon rings after the usual style, and while the draping of one makes a good effect of line the leaving of the other free is more of opening and closing the passage at will. The scarf consists of a single width of the material, finished with a simple routine pattern along both edges and by tassels of linen floss at each end. It is wound over and about the pole and makes a graceful finish to an excellent though economical drapery, well suited to either the study or the dining room door.

Famous Women's Small Families.

Among famous women who were mothers of small families comes Elizabeth Barrett Browning, who had only one son. Mrs. Somerville, the mathematician, had two daughters and one son only, though she was twice married. Mme. George Sand had two children, a son and a daughter; she had Lady Mary Montagu, whose "letters" are so admired in literature, and Mme. de Sevigne, writer of equally famous "letters" in French. Mme. de Staël had three children in her early married life. When forty-eight years old she married a second time and then had another son. George Eliot (Mrs. Cross) was childless, and so was Mrs. Craik, the author of "John Halifax." Mrs. Barbauld, whose prose and poetry were both much admired in the last century, had no children, and the same was the case with her equally prized contemporary, Mrs. Opie—By change.

Hints for the Amateur Painter.

When school ends and the plans for vacation home can at last be carried out the small boys—yes, and the girls, too—take pleasure in daubing with rainbow tints their own particular boat, or in helping mother by giving the garden chairs a fresh coat of scarlet; but poor mother is not so well pleased when she sees the neat suits streaked and spotted with paint. One or two experiences of this kind generally lead her to discourage the future artistic efforts of her young hopefuls. Her time in summer is fully occupied without bothering with obstinate paint spots, but there is no reason why young hopeful should not clean the paint off himself; it is easily and quickly done when the paint is fresh, and if he has to take a little trouble it will teach him to be a little more careful next time.

The first thing, Master Hopeful, that you will need to clean will probably be a very grimy pair of hands. Do not touch them with water first—it hardens the paint. Take a little lard (butter or grease will do if none conveniently), and rub your hands with it until every particle of paint is loosened, then wash in warm water with a stiff nail brush and plenty of soap. Turpentine will take the paint off, but if your skin is sensitive it will make it smart most unpleasantly.

Paint on shirt sleeves or on gingham dresses must be rubbed with lard while the paint is fresh before consigning it to the washtub. If it gets hard—as it will in a day—it must be softened with turpentine or benzine.

Paint spots on woolen goods call for fresh benzine and a bit of flannel to rub with. If you are obliged to use old benzine or turpentine wash it out at once with a cloth wet with warm water and soap or it will leave an oily stain that will catch the dust and soon form as ugly brown mark. —Harper's Young People.

Trailing Skirts.

If you want to keep your everyday dress in good condition, cut off the tail to a ground sweeping length and use hercules braid. Instead of binding silk skirt sew the braid on flat, allowing an eighth of an inch to project below the edge. This projection, instead of the dress, will first get the sand and germs and wear of the street. The hercules braid comes by the yard and retails at 5 cents. As it takes at least four yards to go round it in four times the price of the mohair, but also four times as enduring.

Bag For the Juvenile Invalid Couch.

A pretty bag to hang by an invalid's couch is one made by taking a long strip of buckram, a wide hem in the top and bottom of which will admit the insertion of two flat sticks to keep the bag in place. Line with silesia and cover with pretty India silk. Across the bag place shirred pockets, a large one at the bottom for a book or paper, smaller ones for the conveniences for the convenient reception of a pencil and tablets, a bottle of smelling salts, a paper cutter, purse and fresh handkerchiefs.

The Curfew Rung by Electricity.

The almost obsolete custom of ringing a curfew bell is still kept alive by Patti in her Welsh castle. The diva presses an electric button when she is ready to retire, and throughout the castle a gong rings the bell and "lights out" for the entire household.

Pret GOODS

For wise people, peculiarly appropriate for the season, can always be found in our repository.

We will not say that we have the best in the world, but we do say and know that the same money cannot purchase better Harness and Carriages than our patrons are rapidly making ready own. Kitchen Wisdom.

When rice is boiling add a few drops of lemon juice to the water, and the rice will be very clear and white.

Let potatoes lie in cold water for an hour before cooking if you want them white and mealy.

Winter squash may be cut in pieces as large as a big potato and baked in the oven, when it will be found a pleasant addition to the family menu.

Pineapples, either raw or cooked, are good for people with weak throats.

Pare your fruit with a silver knife if you do not want to discolor your hands.

To remove stains from knives, rub them with a raw potato before cleaning.

To take grease spots out of ground glass wash well with water that has been boiled and cooled, with an ounce of soda added for each gallon.

Ripe tomatoes will remove iron rust. Rub on while the goods are wet.

Don't Get Chilly.

Do not allow yourself to feel "chilly." It may indicate a circumstance or physical condition, either of which can be modified by prompt attention. If you are chilly from a draft, move away from it, stop it off or put on more clothes. If the coldness arises from a physical condition, you are probably taking cold. Heat a brick and sit with your feet upon it until you are heated through. This will do much to prevent a cold taking hold of you.

AFRAID OF BEING ROBBED.

A Californian Jumps from the 11 O'Clock Express.

FEARING he was to be robbed, a man jumped from the eleven o'clock express just after it passed the North avenue station last night. He was seen to run down East Third street. After running around like an insane man he finally accosted one of the hackmen at the depot and asked where he could find a policeman. The hackman hunted up policeman Vanderwag to whom the stranger told a queer tale. He said he was from California on his way to New York where he was going to bury his wife. Just before the train reached this city several men attempted to rob him. He offered them his money if they would spare his life. Finally he sprang from the train and escaped. Policeman went to the ticket agent with him and bought a ticket for New York. The California man paying for it with a twenty dollar gold piece. At first he refused to accept bills in change, saying they were no good. He finally took them.

BREVITIES.

—To-day, Friday and Saturday are Ember Days, and thus fast days.

—There is a talk of a new $35,000 depot at Finderne, by the Central Railroad.

—The State Council of the Jr. O. U. A. M. will convene at Trenton, Thursday, October 20th.

—Car No. 5 began running regularly on the Somerset street branch of the street railway yesterday.

—Railroad officials say the month of September will have the largest travel to the World's Fair.

—It is estimated that from 300 to 320 car loads of peaches pass through here nightly to New York from Hunterdon county.

—The 7th Regiment New Jersey Veterans Association held its annual reunion yesterday in Lincoln Post Rooms, Newark.

—The case of Dreier vs. Scott, on contract, which was to have been tried before Justice Nash to-day, was settled out of court.

—The pin advertised as lost in Monday's NEWS was found by Mr. Thomas Lyons on Front street and returned to the owner.

—The front of the Pacific Mail Tea and Grocery Company's store, on East Front street, is being brightened up with a fresh coat of paint.

—As there was not a quorum present last night the meeting of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum was postponed to next Monday night.

—A fair will be held in the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum Hall, on East Sixth street, for the benefit of St. Mary's church, on October 5th.

—The Smith-Lederer case will come up before Justice Mosher Friday. Miss Smith is suing Mr. Lederer for wages she claims are due her from the defendant.

—Leal's foot ball team began practicing yesterday on the Crescent oval. The positions of the players have not yet been decided upon, but Abbott will be "half back."

—The alarm bell on the new electric street car No. 5 happened many people to think of one of the fire department's hose carriages, the sound of the gong being very similar.

—At Carey's auction sale, Friday, will be offered ladies' fine dress goods, trimmings, cloaks, and hose. Also a lot of dry goods of all kinds, which have been moved from a country store for convenience of sale.

—A man named James MacDonald was arrested last night at Fanwood for being disorderly. He was brought to the lockup in this city for the night. This morning he was taken to Fanwood and tried before Judge Moore, who suspended sentence.

—It is not yet generally known, and perhaps we will be censured for stating that the new regulation peach baskets, which are plainly stamped 16 quarts according to law, hold a little over 13 quarts The baskets heretofore used were not stamped, but would fill a half bushel measure every time.—Dover Iron Era

They Had Four Baskets of Peaches.

Policemen Cooney and Vanderweg last night arrested two men, who said they were on their way to New York city. They each had two baskets of peaches. They were arrested at the North avenue station. A peach train had just stopped, and it was thought by the policemen that the men stole the peaches from one of the cars. The men were locked up. When arraigned before Judge Coddington this morning they told such contradictory stories that they were sentenced to sixty days in the county jail.

Five Westfield Young Men in Trouble.

Recently complaint was made before Justice Mosher by two Westfield men, whose buggies had been taken from their barns and smashed up by five young men. The Justice was given the names of the culprits who were known by the owners of the wagons. He wrote a letter to each of them, informing them that if they did not pay for the damage done immediately, suit would be brought against them. This morning the Justice received a letter from one of the five, agreeing to settle.

Camera Club Meeting.

The Camera Club held a regular monthly meeting last night. Only routine business was transacted.

The question of forming scientific and historical departments was discussed at length, but no definite action was taken. The committee appointed in reference to the matter are Messrs. George H. Babcock, John Neagle, H. Serrell, A. W. Hand and H. B. Coward.

—There are many trades and forms of business that are peculiar to people of certain nationalities. An instance of the fact is that of tailors and shoemakers, in which trades the Germans predominate. Speaking on this subject with one of Plainfield's business men recently, the question, "Did you ever see a negro shoemaker?" was asked. After several moments of reflection on the part of the hearers, all answered in the negative. Odd, isn't it?

COAL CARS TEAR UP THE TRACK.

Pennsylvania Railway Trains Blocked from Railway to Jersey City.

WHILE going at a speed of thirty miles an hour, a west bound coal train jumped the track on the Pennsylvania Railroad, at Elizabeth, yesterday afternoon and blocked all west-bound travel for three hours, and the east-bound for two. The rails were torn up and twisted out of shape and the cars ripped to bits. The west bound track for nearly 300 feet, while the shattered cars were hurled across the east bound tracks.

The accident happened at a time when the travel is the heaviest, and passenger, freight and coal trains were strung along the road from Rahway to Jersey City. Many passengers got out and walked from Waverly to Elizabeth.

A Chicago express had a narrow escape from colliding with the wreck. It came along on the track next the rails. One of the coal cars grazed the last car of the express.

The Anagram Solved.

The following has been running in The News for a week:

"SOLVE THIS.

Supply the missing words in the following verse:

Warning the monument ——— may
On a pig that is the hollow lay,
Then ——— the wood, then ——— the stream;
The ——— are dreaming in the land of nod.
Each leaf within its ——— took up the song
John Barleycorn, my king!

To work out the anagram one has to find six letters, which, by transposition, will supply suitable words for each blank. We have received a number of letters from lovers of such tests of skill to put on their thinking caps. When the answer is published the verse is a complete and harmonious one. The names of all who secure the correct solution will be published in the NEWS within a reasonable time.

Only two of several answers received give the anagram correctly. These two sign their letters "F. W. Miles," and "G. F. Fox," respectively. The correct answer is as follows:

A snipe sat in his sister gray
Watching the monument ——— may
On a pig that is the hollow lay,
Then ——— the wood, then ——— the stream;
These ——— are dreaming in the land of nod.
The result of great battles is that he may bring
Each leaf with its rustle took up the song
John Barleycorn, my king!

A COLORED Republican drum corps is to be organized to-night at North Branch by James Friable of this city. Friable will take full charge of the corps, which is to be named Colored Republican Drum Corps. Thirteen men have already joined, and their suits have been procured from New York.

Preparing for the Fall Conference.

The Christian Endeavorers of Union county are preparing for the fall conference, which will be held in the First Baptist church, in this city, Friday evening. Rev. L. R. Dyott of Newark will make the address, and reports from the Montreal convention will be given. Miss Alice B. Spangenberg of Nethermood will speak on "Junior Work." The badge banner will be accorded to the society having the largest percentage of its members present.

Local Societies to Meet.

The local Christian Endeavor Societies, of which there are 12, will hold a Union meeting in the lecture room of the First Baptist church on the evening of the 26th. This meeting was to have been held on the 21st, but was postponed on account of the Union County Convention which meets on the 22d. The speakers will include Mr. Eugene M. Cobb, Miss Alice Spangenberg and Mr. Andrew Wilson.

Mr. Smith to Remove the Poles.

Contractor Smith has the contract to remove the short electric light poles on Somerset street, which were replaced by higher ones by the Street Railway Company. He says he will have the work completed this week. Attention was called in THE NEWS yesterday to the dangerous holes dug alongside the poles some time ago, and which have since remained open.

A "Brag" Party in October.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Plainfield Bicycle Club it was decided to hold another "brag" party some time during October. The committee appointed to make the arrangements was as follows: Messrs. Frank L. C. Martin, chairman; A. A. Tilney, J. W. Sandford, Jr., H. S. Thomas, and A. L. C. Marsh.

Built New Barns.

Mr. John Cook, of Scotch Plains, whose barns some time ago were destroyed by fire supposed to be of incendiary origin, has had them re-built. He has erected three barns and a carriage house.

THE "HARVEST MOON."

The Moon will be "Full" Three Days after the Sun Crosses the Line.

SEPTEMBER'S full moon is known as the "Harvest Moon" on account of nearly full rising for several successive evenings about the same hour.

This happens in September, when the sun is near the autumnal equinox and the full moon being in the opposite quarter of the heavens, is near the vernal equinox, that is, the point at which the sun's path crosses the celestial equator from south to north, and when, in consequence, it is greatly inclined to the horizon at the time of sunset. This month the moon will be "full" on the 25th, three days after the sun has passed the equinox. Furthermore, its path when it rises on that date will have an unusually great obliquity to the horizon from the circumstance that it will be near its "ascending node"—the point at which it crosses the sun's path from south to north.

The August full moon shows a similar though less marked disposition to favor the harvester, particularly if it occurs late in the month, and it is, perhaps, of more real service to him than the September moon. The October moon, which also exhibits to some extent the same propensity to rise promptly at about sunset when near the full is known as the "Hunter's Moon."

State Christian Endeavor Convention.

The seventh State Christian Endeavor Convention to be held in Trenton, Oct. 11 and 12, promises to be one of unusual interest. Taylor Opera House, the largest meeting place in the city, has been secured for the occasion. The new Y. M. C. A. building has been placed at the disposal of the committee for the reception of the delegates, and in case of the need of overflow meetings the hall of the Y. M. C. A. building will be called into use. The Park sisters, of New York, who so acceptably led the singing at Montreal will serve in a similar capacity in the State gathering. Among those who have been secured to make addresses are Dr. Clark and ex-Postmaster General John Wanamaker.

The Same Thing May Happen Here.

The following is taken from the New York Sun of to day:

A NEW TROLLEY PERIL.

A HORSE FRIGHTENED IN BROOKLYN, AND A RUNAWAY ACCIDENT RESULTS.

A horse attached to a light wagon, in which Thomas Tyler of 81 Carlton avenue and Detective McGuire of the Bedford avenue station were driving, received an electric shock yesterday while crossing the trolley track in Myrtle avenue, near Carlton, Brooklyn. The animal, frightened in the air and then made a wild rush down Myrtle avenue.

In turning into Hampton avenue the wagon struck a lamp-post, which turned over. Mr. Tyler was badly bruised, but his companion escaped unhurt.

Theatrical Notes.

For fifteen years past Gus Williams has crowded the very best theatres in the country until every amusement lover considers him in the capacity of personal friendship. He will appear with a selected company in Music Hall to-morrow night.

At an entertainment at the Casino Monday evening when "The Wren's Nest-ville Company" appeared, only half the small audience present left before the affair was half over.

The Democratic Ticket.

The New York World says that Senator Marsh of Elizabeth will accept a renomination this Fall, and that ex Mayor Peter B. Bonnett of Elizabeth has also concluded to make a bid for the Senatorship. The Democratic ticket will likely be, from the latest outlook, Marsh for Senator and either Freeholders Senin of Summit, Woodruff of Union, or James E. Martine, of Plainfield, for Sheriff.

Base Ball Notes.

The Montclair Athletic Club has been secured for Saturday, and base ball lovers will have the last chance to see the home team for the season. The manager hopes there will be a large attendance, as the Crescent ball team has nobly upheld the honor of Plainfield in base ball circles. The players will receive the entire receipts.

Mother-in-Law vs. Son-in-Law.

There was lively tilt between mother-in-law and son-in-law on Linden avenue yesterday, which neighbors consider was a disgrace to the neighborhood. No arrest were made, as everything was quiet and serene when the Marshal appeared. If the tilt is repeated a complaint will be made to the authorities.

Suing a Farmer.

Suit has been brought, in Justice Mosher's court, by Mr. Aaron D. Thompson of this city against a farmer named Samuel Johnson, who lives near South Plainfield, for $40. The summons was issued Saturday, and is returnable Tuesday, September 26.

The Weather.

The indications point to fair, warm weather, cooling about nightfall, with south westerly to north westerly breezes and a hazy atmosphere.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Wonder of the World's Fair.

There are hundreds of thousands of Americans who to this day do not know what the greatest thing at the World's fair is. What is the one particular object which is to our exposition what the Eiffel tower was to the Paris exposition? In brief, it is the Ferris wheel. In many respects it is the greatest mechanical achievement of modern times.

Its architect is modest. Few persons know even that his name is George Washington Gale Ferris, and that he is a civil engineer, only 35 years old, a native of Illinois and a graduate of the Troy Polytechnic school. The Ferris wheel is greater than the Eiffel tower because it will move. It was not merely a scheme to get money out of the pockets of World's fair visitors. It was the reply of an American engineer to the taunt of a World's fair director that our mechanicians had been able to give us nothing that as a novelty and novelty corresponded to the Eiffel tower.

This mighty wheel weighs 2,200 tons. The axle on which it swings weighs 70 tons. It is turned by sprocket wheels and an endless link chain. It was built in Detroit piece by piece by machinery invented by Americans—not by hand-work, like the Eiffel tower. What perfection American iron and steel casting machinery has attained may be learned from one fact. Ferris felt no sure every part of his wheel, 250 feet in diameter, would fit into its adjoining part that he did not even take the trouble to put it together at the iron works in Detroit before he shipped it to Chicago. There, after the 53 foot foundation had been dug, walled and braced and the eight cement and steel towers sent up to the height of 140 feet in the air, the axle was lifted into place upon them. Then the mighty wheel was set up piece by piece. There were thousands of these pieces. As its ingenious deviser had calculated, every piece dropped into place as intended.

When all was done, June 21, there was nothing but to swing the wonder off, and it has been swinging ever since gently and unerringly as the solar system itself. The reason the wheel was not ready sooner was that the directors would not consent to let Mr. Ferris construct it till the 16th of December, 1892. In 44 months from that time it was ready. The Eiffel tower required three years to build. The especial mechanical idea emphasized in the Ferris machine is that of the tension wheel—that is, a wheel with jointed spokes instead of stiff ones.

What Did It.

In The Review of Reviews Dr. Albert Shaw tells us what in his judgment caused the money stringency of the summer of 1893. In brief, he thinks the banks started the scare. He writes:

The bankers were the first alarmists. They threw many reputable and perfectly sound business houses into bankruptcy by refusing the ordinary method to "turn over" stock. But the banks were paid back very sharply for their selfish timidity. Their refusal to perform their functions in the business world naturally led the business community to suppose that the banks themselves were in a questionable condition, and almost every one proceeded to withdraw deposits. Then began that frightened struggle for existence which led the banks to cling at any hazard to their reserves and to grudge every dollar loaned to customers or drawn out on open accounts. And this conduct still more effectually frightened the depositors, who saw no safe course except to draw their money and hoard it somewhere.

If our banks had been equal to the emergency, their whole policy would have been different from the outset to the end. They would have charged high rates, but they would have loaned with the utmost freedom on good security. If necessary, they would have paid a high premium for gold, and they would have deposited more bonds and issued more currency under the national banking laws. This well established European plan of meeting a stringency by the most liberal extension of credit is one that American banks should through some form or other of co-operation learn to adopt.

For 15 years Gladstone's enemies have been declaring he was failing mentally through old age, yet never were his intellectual powers more splendid, never his abilities as party manager more magnificent, than they are now when he is verging on 84 years old. No other politician of the time could have held together the strangely heterogeneous elements of which the Irish Nationalists and their English friends in parliament are composed as he done, making them all vote the right way at the right time. The physical strain of the present parliament weakened the strongest members in the prime of life, but it apparently caused not a quiver of a nerve in his wonderful body. He was the youngest, the most energetic of them all. It seems a veritable triumph of mind over matter.

By its vote that Mr. Lee Mantle of Montana is not entitled to a seat, the senate shuts out also the governor's appointments from the states of Wyoming and Washington and establishes the precedent that a governor cannot appoint a senator in case of a legislature's failure to elect one. He may only appoint temporarily to fill a vacancy in case of the death or disability of the already elected senator

Eastern men may know all about speculative stocks, but when it comes to live stock they are nowhere along with the west. The judges of the grand horses and cattle at the World's fair were western men.

Politics is a game in which the players are seeking only to win, regardless of the means they employ.—Matthew Marshall in New York Sun.

CRISP GETS IMPATIENT.

The Majority Needed to Repeal the Election Laws Lacking.

VOORHEES FAILED ONCE AGAIN.

His Third Effort to Have a Day Set For a Vote on Silver Repeal Defeated—Mills Makes a Speech For Repeal—Democratic Members of the House to Be Whipped In.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The Democratic caucus was called, it is understood, at the instance of Speaker Crisp, who was excessively annoyed over the failure to secure the attendance of a number of Democratic members. The caucus was brief and to the point. Representative Holman presided and Representative Aldrich acted as secretary. Speaker Crisp offered the following resolution:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that it is the duty of every Democratic member to attend the sessions of the house in order that the public business may be considered and disposed of."

He supported his motion in an earnest speech, pointing out the necessity that existed for Democratic representatives doing their full duty to their country and to their party and loyally endeavoring to redeem the pledges made to the people who had intrusted them with the duty of legislating in their behalf.

Mr. Enloe of Tennessee moved to amend by adding "and rote" after the words "sessions of the house," which was accepted by the speaker.

Bound to Report the Bill.

Mr. Pitkin of Illinois moved to add the following to the speaker's resolution, and the caucus agreed:

"And that when the house meet it is the sense of this caucus that it remain in session continuously until a quorum is obtained, voting in favor of reporting the bills for the repeal of the federal election laws."

There was some discussion as to the expediency of pressing the consideration of the repeal bills, and the overwhelming sentiment of the caucus as expressed was favorable to early action.

The following resolution, offered by Mr. McMillan of Tennessee, on this point was adopted:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this caucus that the house should proceed at the earliest practicable day during this session to the consideration of the bill or bills repealing the laws authorizing deputy marshals and supervisors of elections at the polls."

After adopting the resolutions as a whole the caucus adjourned, having been in session but a little over an hour. Subsequently, in pursuance to the last resolution, Speaker Crisp issued a call for a meeting of the committee on rules for today to consider the fixing of a date for taking up the repeal bills and determining the length of time that shall be allowed for debate.

Speaking of the probabilities of the length of the continuous session agreed upon, Speaker Crisp said he did not look for anything extraordinary or uncomfortable.

"After we get a quorum, and I imagine there will be one on hand today, the Republicans cannot delay us for any great length of time. They may keep us until 7 or 8 o'clock, but we'll drive the report through as soon as a quorum appears."

Voorhees Still Persistent.

For the third time since the repeal bill has been before the senate, the senator in charge of it—Mr. Voorhees—made an effort to have the senate fix some time when debate might be closed and the vote taken, and for the third time the proposition met with an unfavorable response.

At 10 the first session, Mr. Dubois of Idaho acted as spokesman for the opposition, and he was seconded and sustained by Mr. Hill of New York, who stated that he knew of 15 senators who still desired to address the senate, of whom 13 had not yet opened their mouths on the subject, and he added that the senator who desired to speak had an opportunity of doing so no vote could be or would be taken.

Mr. Voorhees, in view of the attitude of the opposition, gave notice that he would from and after today ask the senate to have, not continuous, but lengthened sessions, and he was informed that his programme would not be resisted, but that the friends of the bill as well as its enemies would be expected to be present.

Mr. Mills' Speech.

Mr. Mills of Texas then took the floor. He said that congress had been convened in extraordinary session in order to consider an extraordinary condition of affairs. The Sherman law was an unwise law and as such should be repealed. If it was unwise, its repeal must result in the restoration of confidence in the field of business, and if congress accomplished this it would have discharged its highest patriotic duty. In the message of the executive the president had called attention to the provisions of the Sherman bill and asked congress to see to it that the established policy of the government of the United States should be preserved by preserving the circulating medium of both gold and silver. The president had reminded congress that in a given time $147,000,000 in silver had come into the treasury, while in the same time $132,000,000 in gold had gone out.

He closed by saying that he denounced the attempt to change the standard of value, which would cheat the farmer out of one-half the value of his labor. He stood by the platform and by the recommendation to remove the law which impaired that standard. If every dollar of silver in Nevada and Colorado were coined, the farmer could not get a dollar of it without the sweat of his brow any more than he could now.

He was going to vote for the repeal, and he would vote against any amendment to it that human ingenuity could suggest. He could not conceive of any amendment that could be offered that would not impeach the integrity of the president, and he would vote against every one. He intended to stand by his convictions of duty. He would stand by the president's message. He would stand by the president in the position he has taken.

Mr. Stewart of Nevada then took the floor. Mr. Walcott suggested that there was not a very large audience in attendance and demanded a call of the senate. Fifty-eight senators responded to their names.

Stewart Protests Against Closure.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Stewart protested against the closure proposition. If the silver men went down, they would go down protesting; if the senate wished to do this wrong, it could do it; and if the people were so far ruined that they were not able to rise in their might and overthrow their oppressors, they were at fault. It was the duty of senators to let the people know that here in this body was one place in the United States that a question could be discussed without gag law.

Before Mr. Stewart concluded his remarks he yielded to a motion for an executive session. When the doors were reopened, the senate adjourned.

Although Colonel Ike Hill, the Democratic whip, reported 169 Democratic representatives as being present in the city—17 more than a quorum of the house—there were but 153 of them present on the floor at any one time, and the majority found themselves powerless to make any progress with the bill to repeal the federal election laws.

Mr. Fitch returned from New York last night and relieved Mr. Tucker on the floor as leader of the Democratic hosts. After vainly endeavoring to secure a call of the committee and the introduction of the report on the repeal bill, Mr. Fitch moved an adjournment, which was agreed to without dissent.

Supreme Judge and Embassador Named.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The president sent to the senate the following nominations:

William B. Hornblower of New York to be associate justice of the supreme court of the United States, vice Samuel Blatchford, deceased.

James J. Van Alen of Rhode Island to be embassador extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to Italy.

Mr. Hornblower has been for many years counsel and for several years a trustee of the New York Life Insurance company and had general control of its litigation all over the country. Mr. Hornblower was born in 1851, and will be the youngest justice who ever sat on the supreme bench with the one exception of Judge Story, who was appointed an associate justice at the age of 32.

Mr. Van Alen is one of the connections of the New York Astors, being a son-in-law of William B. Astor, and the possessor of great wealth by inheritance, which will enable him to maintain the costly office of embassador to Italy with becoming state.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

New Jersey—J. P. Delaney, Sea Isle City.

New York—Edmund D. Lynch, East Constable; M. T. Griffin, New Hamburg.

Pennsylvania—M. N. Ruff, Bryansville; Samuel Hufford, Drovers' Rose; George K. Lauer, Newburg; Otto F. Horn, Richmond; Martin L. Hutchins, Rock Glen.

Premiums For the Castine's Builders.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The official report of the trial trip of the gunboat Castine confirms newspaper accounts of the trial and fixes the speed made as 16.034 knots. The contract requirement was 13 knots, and the contractors, the Bath iron works of Bath, Me., will receive $65,000 in premiums.

Will Prosecute Cochran.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Attorney General Olney has instructed United States Attorney Ingham at Philadelphia to institute both criminal and civil proceedings against Henry S. Cochran, charged with stealing gold bullion from the United States mint.

To Prevent Bank Wrecking.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—The house committee on banking and currency directed Mr. Cox to prepare a favorable report upon his bill to prohibit any officer or any employee of a national bank from borrowing from its funds.

PENNSYLVANIA DEMOCRATS.

Candidates For State Treasurer and Supreme Judge Nominated.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 20.—The convention of representatives of Pennsylvania Democrats, which chose the party candidates for justice of the supreme court and state treasurer, assembled in the Harrisburg Opera House.

Of the 402 delegates elected but very few were absent when State Chairman J. Marshall Wright called the convention to order.

Samuel Gustine Thompson of Philadelphia was unanimously nominated for supreme judge and Frank C. Osborn of Allegheny county for state treasurer.

The platform which was adopted declares for taxation only for the economical administration of the government, honest money, gold and silver coinage of the constitution, asserts that Republican laws and rule caused the business depression, lauds President Cleveland and his cabinet, urges the repeal of the silver purchase clause, rejoices that tariff reform is not to be delayed, says the pension roll should be a roll of honor, arraigns the state Republican legislature for alleged profligacy and indorses Governor Pattison.

Cleveland Men Locked Out.

UTICA, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The Oneida county convention of Oswego county, which was called to be held in the court house in Pulaski, resulted in a split between the Hill and Cleveland factions. The former locked the latter out of the courthouse. The Cleveland men organized their convention on the courthouse steps and then went to the opera house, where they authorized committee to make all nominations.

West Visiting and Killed Himself.

PATERSON, N. J., Sept. 20.—Charles Conklin, a resident of South Orange, called on Mrs. Conklin, his mother-in-law, Thomas Lee, Jersey street, this city, to spend a few days. He was found later stretched on the floor with a laudanum bottle in the hand. He had taken the contents of the bottle and died in a few moments after he was found.

Shot by a Jealous Boy.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Sept. 20. — Thomas Shay, a prominent young man, aged 30 years, of Hutchinson, eight miles from Lexington, was fatally shot by John Dilloway, a jealous youth of 15 years. Shay was out driving with a young woman to whom Dilloway was devoted.

Miss Warner Was Elected.

A FEVER STRICKEN CITY

Brunswick Is Almost Deserted by Its Former Inhabitants.

Camps Established Outside the City Limits, Where the Stricken Persons Are Held. The Weather Favorable to the Spread of the Disease.—Health Inspectors Busy.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 20.—This city is now almost depopulated. On the principal street there remain only two open stores. The two banks have suspended business until after the epidemic, having opened a branch at St. Simon's island, seven miles from here. The resolution adopted by the board of health allowing communication with St. Simon's island was received with joy by hundreds who find this a haven of refuge from the fever in this city. It permits merchants to continue business here and spend the nights on the island.

The fever has so far been of an exceedingly mild form. Dr. Murray, the government surgeon in charge, expresses his belief that there will be a very small death percentage. Everything possible for the comfort of the sick and dying is being done by the government. A fever hospital is now being erected.

Five Fever Victims.

Camp Defiance, situated 21 miles from the city and the only exit from the city, was established with Surgeons Goddings and Deussaure in charge. All preparations are being made at this camp for the comfort of refugees.

The suffering of the poor is considerable, these being no possible way for them to obtain food except from the city commissary, which is daily crowded with hundreds of hungry and destitute people of both colors. There have been 30 reported cases of fever, with five deaths. The weather has been very warm, which is favorable to the spreading of the disease.

Quarantine regulations are rigidly enforced. All roads and boulevards leading from the city are well guarded, and no one is allowed to enter or leave the city except those living on St. Simon's island, who are commanded to change and disinfect their clothing on leaving the city.

The board of health issued a resolution, approved by the government surgeons, forbidding any correspondent to publish the names of those stricken with yellow fever. Any violations of this order were made punishable by imprisonment. Much indignation is expressed, and all possible efforts are being made to secure a reconsideration. The board meets daily at noon to receive the reports of attending physicians and to state officially the sanitary conditions of the city. The following is a complete list of the names of people under treatment for yellow fever in Brunswick:

The List of the Stricken.

Mrs. Sarah Turner and her 5-year-old daughter; Mrs. Elizabeth Stokes, E street, Newton; Mrs. Smith, Newton; Archy H. Smith, Monk street; Miss Rosa Nisi: Mrs. J. Crane, Newton; William Crane, son of Mrs. Crane; James Sinclair, Cypress Hills; Mrs. J. N. Brock, Johnny Brock, Mrs. W. M. Lucree, Mrs. H. C. Smith; George Clark, Fort Mile Crossing; Mrs. Sinclair, Cypress Hills; two children of J. F. Norris, East Tennessee ticket agent; Sam Ward and child.

The last death reported was that of Charles Johnston, a tailor of Tifton, Ga.

The first batch left for the fever camps yesterday. Dr. J. J. Leary and Surgeon Faget have been busy for hours writing passes to the camp, and it will soon be full. The camp has never yet been officially named. Surgeon-General Wyman will transmit a name for it soon. W. E. Potter has charge of the Odd Fellows' relief bureau. Fred Stewart has charge of the Knights of Pythias bureau. Mrs. Butts called attention to men getting drunk, laying themselves liable to infection, and Dr. Murray has ordered a guard to keep all drunken men. Dr. Butts is working hard to relieve the sickness, and watches and stops all chances of infection in his power.

Fire In a Theater.

CANTON, Ills., Sept. 20.—During the performances of "Michael Strogoff" by the Baldwin-Melville company in the new opera house, fire from fireworks used in the fire scene ignited the scenery. In a few minutes the entire interior was a roaring furnace. The audience was cautioned to stand still, and many remained standing. This delay nearly caused a holocaust. Twenty persons were burned, of whom three or four were fatally injured and five seriously. It is thought that everybody got out of the house, but this is not known to be a fact.

Not Wilson, but Bookstaver.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 20.—The man known as George Wilson, found sandbagged in a lumber yard on West Falls avenue 10 days ago, has been identified as George C. Bookstaver, for 10 years a Baltimore character, but formerly a highly respectable resident of New York. It was said he was a nephew of ex-Judge Bookstaver of New York.

The Trial of Ann Potter.

BOSTON, Sept. 20.—In the case against ex-President Potter of the Maverick bank the session was devoted to arguments on law questions as to the admissibility of testimony showing alleged conversation between Mr. Potter and Cashier Work in regard to keeping a legal reserve and the transfer of clearing house checks to gold.

Will Take Testimony In Room.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Judge Cullen, in the supreme court, Brooklyn, issued an order directing the appointment of a counsel to take the testimony in room in the suit of Rev. Francis Dent against the St. Francis Order of Friars Minor for $50,000 for illegal expulsion.

A Bankrupt, Weeks Says.

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Sept. 20.—F. H. Weeks has left the country, leaving a statement. He realizes that he will have to return to New York, and seeks to justify himself in his rascality before he has to face his victims. Weeks says he is a bankrupt, not a criminal.

Mystery About Reynolds' Death.

IRBY'S ADVENTURE.

The Senator Arrived In Columbia, S. C., In an Exhilarated Condition.

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 20.—United States Senator John L. M. Irby arrived in this city from Washington in a state of intoxication. When he got off the train at the Union depot, he drew from his hip pocket a double acting revolver, passed through the waiting room and pointed it at a colored hackman without any cause. The hackman ran, and Irby was quieted and hustled into a hack.

He immediately went to sleep and was driven through the streets with both feet hanging out of the window. He was carried to the governor's mansion, where he was met by Mrs. Tillman. He did not appear to realize where he was, however, and recovering he again drew his pistol, but made no attempt to fire. He was put to bed, but left for Laurens later in the same intoxicated condition.

Irby's conduct excited much comment in the city. The fact that he had been turned down in his own committee on some appointments in which he was specially interested is believed to have been responsible for his condition.

"J. L. M. Irby, drunk, disorderly conduct, count 1."

"J. L. M. Irby, carrying concealed weapon, count 2."

These entries appear on the official records of the police and constitute the charges upon which the successor of Wade Hampton in the Senate will be prosecuted when he returns to Columbia.

WHOLE FAMILY MURDERED.

The Wrattons, Six In Number, Killed by Unknown Assassins.

WASHINGTON, Ind., Sept. 20.—In Harrison township, this county, the entire family of Denson Wratton were most horribly butchered. Neighbors went to the Wratton residence and found upon the floor in a puddle of gore Mrs. Wratton, wife of Denson Wratton, and in a room adjoining the father and husband dead. In the same room were the three children, two of them dead and the other so seriously injured that she cannot live. In a front room Mr. Wratton's mother, aged 65, was laying on the floor dead. Her left hand was cut off and the right broken.

All of the murdered persons had deep, ugly wounds in their foreheads, with the exception of the girl who had been struck on the back of the head.

The old lady was said to have considerable money in the house, having drawn it from the bank during the recent money stringency, and this, it is thought, was the motive of the murder. There is not the slightest clew to the murderer. Bloodhounds arrived from Seymour and will be put on the trail.

MET HEAD TO HEAD.

Passengers Injured In an Accident on the Lehigh Valley Road.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 20.—A local passenger train was run into by the New York express at Bloomsburg, two miles this side of Fairview, on the Lehigh Valley railroad. The engines came together with much violence, and both were badly smashed, one being thrown from the track.

Neither the firemen nor engineers of either train were hurt, and all stuck to their posts. The passengers on both trains were thrown over the seats and into the aisles, but no one was fatally injured.

Those injured are: E. S. Holeh, Allentown, Pa.; Theodore Cross, Rummelfelt, Pa.; Gomer E. Jones, Stockton, Pa.; William Sigfried, Easton, Pa.; John Sweeney, White Haven, Pa., baggage master; John F. Mentz, a newsboy; W. C. Gray, Bristol, Pa.; Miss Maggie Sweeney, White Haven, Pa. Alexander Mitchell of Wilkesbarre, superintendent of motive power on the road, had his wrist cut.

LYNCHING IN ALABAMA.

The Negroes Armed and Reported Ready to Raid a Town.

PINEAPPLE, Ala., Sept. 20.—Riley Gully, a colored man about 23 years old, was lynched for attempting to assault Mrs. Nored, the wife of a highly respected farmer residing near this place. He was captured and carried before Mrs. Nored, who positively identified him. While being taken to jail at Camden a mob took the negro and hanged him to a limb, riddling his body with bullets.

The body was cut down in the morning by his father and buried. It is reported the colored population of that community are greatly incensed over the affair, and last night hundreds of armed negroes were gathered in a mob a little over a mile from Pineapple, and it was rumored that they would make a raid on the town before morning.

Motor Cars Must Go Slower.

ALBANY, Sept. 20.—Commissioner Rickard and Secretary Hudson of the state railroad commission left for Brooklyn to begin an investigation into the operation of the electric roads in that city with a view of restricting the speed of motor cars. It is likely that as a result of this investigation the commission will promulgate an order restricting the speed of motor cars on all of the electric roads in the state.

A Postoffice Burglar Gets Five Years.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 20.—The fall session of the United States district court was opened here. Hiram Green of Stonington received a sentence of five years in state prison for breaking into the Mystic postoffice. Pietro Vecessi and Vittori Ferrari of New York, the counterfeiters, were found guilty, but sentence was deferred.

Cunisky Gave Himself Up.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Eugene Cunisky, charged with having planned the robbery of the Pawlings saving bank, is in custody here, and action will be taken in his case today. He gave himself up to the authorities.

Cholera Clears the Summer Resorts.

MADRID, Sept. 20.—The appearance of cholera in the Bilbao district has caused a panic. All the rich families at the resorts on the bay of Biscay are leaving for their houses. Most of the large hotels are already deserted.

Quickly Arrested Some Negroes.

MACON, Sept. 20.—John Braswell, a farmer who lived a few miles from Macon, was fatally murdered between here and his home by some persons unknown. Four negroes are under arrest on suspicion.

Charged With Poisoning Five.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—An artisan named Humm and his wife, residents of Goettingen, have been arrested there for having poisoned their four children and Mrs. Humm's father.

An Order For Brockaway's Arrest.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Judge Fitzsimmons of the city court granted an order for the arrest of Z. Reed Brockaway, superintendent of the Elmira reformatory.

AN ECCENTRIC THIEF.

Cochran, Weigher In the Mint, Has Strange Fancies.

A TUNNEL UNDER HIS COTTAGE.

In His House Were Found Trick Panels and Secret Doors, and There Was a Workshop In the Cellar, Where He Worked Over His Stolen Gold.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 20.—Curious discoveries have been made in the old stone house at Darley, of Henry S. Cochran, the man who robbed the mint. In a closet of the sleeping room that had been occupied by the old bullion weigher Chief Drummond took everything from a shelf, and all in the party examined the shelf, but saw nothing unusual.

Mr. Drummond then pushed against a board at the end, forcing it back. Behind it and deeply embedded in the wall was a tiny fireproof safe. It was of the latest pattern and had evidently only recently been placed in its secure position. From this safe the chief had on his first visit taken 30,700 worth of the stolen bullion.

On the top floor of the cottage Cochran had his smelting room. There was found a stove on which he had heated his crucibles, and in a case against the wall was a big pair of brass scales which he had bought as the result during the superintendency of the late Daniel M. Fox.

A Secret Tunnel.

In the middle of the floor were heaped 200 iron match safes of peculiar design which he had invented and from which he expected to make a fortune. In the cellar another mound, a forge and a bag of charcoal, which Cochran had used in smelting the stolen bullion, were found. The inspecting party were about to return up stairs when a screen in the southwest corner of the cellar was noticed.

Chief Drummond sent for Sam Shaw and had him take out the screws which held the screen. When it was removed, the detectives saw the opening of a tunnel. It was 3 feet wide and 4½ feet high, the earth being supported by a crib of heavy timber. Shaw, when questioned, said that the passageway ran beneath the lawn to the sidewalk on Woodlawn avenue, but he could not tell exactly where the Woodlawn avenue opening was located.

He claimed that Cochran had constructed the tunnel for the purpose of having a drain pipe laid through it, but he could not explain why it had been enlarged and lined with a heavy supporting crib. The tunnel in its present condition indicates that it was intended as a secret passageway from the old stone house.

Those who inspected it believe that the keeper of the bullion vault had depended upon it to the effect his escape in case of surprise while reducing the gold in the crucibles.

Clothing In Big Lots.

There were other secret panels in closets, but no valuables were found in them. In the house were found 22 soft hats of fine quality similar to the one he wore at the hearing. More than 20 pairs of expensive boots and shoes were scattered around the closets, most of them never having been worn. Closets and chests were stuffed with suits of clothing, and sufficient fine linen was found to stock a store. Fifteen gold rings set with diamonds and sapphires were found in little boxes in his sleeping room.

In a case on the wall were 31 razors—one for each day in the month. They were numbered and used in rotation, and not even for a bar of gold would old Cochran use a 17th inst. razor on the 16th. He had five dozen bath towels. Eighteen gingham umbrellas, each the size of a circus tent, decorated the corners of every room. Cochran always had the umbrellas made to order.

In his library the big desk had secret panels in the sides, and eight inkwells stood on the top with four student lamps. A bookcase was found stocked with standard works in cheap binding, and shelves in the corner were burdened with books of adventure and travel.

There was a great display of Bibles in rich binding, which stood near hymnals and prayer books, on the piano. In the parlor the only books were of a religious nature.

Almost Mobbed as Ex-Priest.

NIAGARA FALLS, Sept. 20.—Rev. Father Francis Sovieski, two years ago a priest at the Loretto convent across the river, now married and a Baptist clergyman, turned his old home into a state bordering on riot by attempting to lecture in the town hall on "The Secrecy of Romanism" to men only. The hall was packed, and crowds surrounded the outside. Threats of violence were made.

The Edison Company Wins a Point.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Judge Lacombe, in the United States circuit court, decided the suit of the Edison Illuminating company against the Mount Morris Electric Light company and the United States Electric Light and Power company in the incandescent electric lamp patent case by granting the preliminary injunction asked for by the Edison company.

Stricken In Plymouth Church.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Rev. Samuel B. Halliday, pastor of the Beecher Memorial church and formerly assistant pastor to Henry Ward Beecher, was stricken with apoplexy while conversing with Mrs. Beecher in the parlors of Plymouth church. He was somewhat improved last evening, and it is probable that he will recover.

The Halliday Murder Case.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sept. 20.—The grand jury which is deliberating on the Halliday case will probably not finish their business and make known their findings until tomorrow. The impression seems to prevail that the woman will be adjudged insane and sent to an asylum for life.

Elbe Water Causes the Cholera.

HAMBURG, Sept. 20.—There is positive proof that the cholera cases reported in the last few days were caused by the drinking of unfiltered water from the Elbe. A leakage from the Elbe into the city waterworks was discovered on Saturday and has been stopped.

Ahlwardt's Sentence Upheld.

LEIPSIC, Sept. 20.—The court of appeal rejected the appeal of Rector Ahlwardt, the notorious anti-Semite member of the reichstag, against the sentence imposed on him for libeling a Hebrew firm.

Shoemakers on a Strike.

LYNN, Mass., Sept. 20.—A strike was declared at T. G. Plant's shoe factory by the Knights of Labor. About 250 workmen are affected.

Fast Living and the Result.

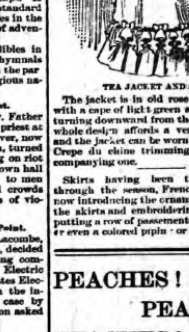
NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Hugh L. McCance, 29 years old, is held in the Tombs charged with forgery by his late employers, Meyer, Sniffin & Co., 46 Cliff street. The amount of the forgery is $4,000, all of which the prisoner squandered in fast living and the races.

The Success of the Season.

The circular basque moved to a round waist is declared the success of the season by Harper's Bazar for handsome gowns of fancy woolens, for silks, satins, taffets, etc. It is becoming to slender figures, so are most of the fashions of the day, and is in great favor for large women who find the round waist too short and ineffective. It is sometimes cut three-quarters of a circle, sometimes only a half, but seldom is an entire circle. It is sewed on without gathers, may be single or lined with silk or satin and stands slightly outward in natural folds. Similar ruffles are used to trim the shoulders of many dresses. Plain satin is used for these frills on brocaded satin dresses of the light supple quality that is now worn at all seasons of the year and also on grenadine and crepon gowns.

A Dressy Tea Gown.

Pink and green is a combination of the season, and though it is sometimes a harsh contrast charming effects may be secured with it. The beautiful tea gown here illustrated is an example of its successful use.



TEA JACKET AND SKIRT.

The jacket is in old rose crepe du chine, with a cape of light green and gold brocade turning downward from the shoulder. The whole design affords a very dressy effect, and the jacket can be worn with any skirt. Crepe du chine trimmings adorn the accompanying one.

Skirts having been trimmed round the bottom for several seasons, French modistes are now introducing the ornament going down the skirts and embroidering the seams or putting a row of passementerie down them, or even a colored plush or binding.

THE PENNYPACKER CASE.

The Father of the Prisoner In San Salvador Tells His Story.

WEST CHESTER, Pa., Sept. 20.—Charles H. Pennypacker, whose son, Lewis P. Pennypacker, is said to be in danger of arrest at San Salvador by the government there, said in an interview:

"My son Lewis held a commission as chief of the staff of President Ezeta in the Salvadorian army. He was employed eventually by the Salvadorian express agents. This he proceeded to do, getting them from the Union Iron works of San Francisco, where he had formerly been employed, and imported the arms in installments.

"The government paid him promptly until the last installment, when no money was forthcoming. The government seized this installment and then undertook to arrest my son.

"He made a thrilling escape from San Salvador during the night in an open boat and was in West Chester not more than a month ago.

"Recently I visited Washington and Williams and Pinkerton's detective agency. York city attempted to commit suicide by lying down in front of the Newburg local on the West Shore railroad at East Hackensack. The engineer shut off steam and applied the brakes and was within a few feet of the men when the train stopped. They refused to leave the track even when Detective Gunnison ordered them away. They fought with Conductor Hawley and the brakeman, but were overcome and lodged in the Hackensack jail.

THE CASE WAS DISMISSED.

The Lawyer from St. Paul Could Not Be Contradicted.

In a certain village which enjoyed in the possession of only one lawyer an action was commenced before Justice R, and W, the local attorney, retained by the plaintiff. The defendant employed counsel from the county seat, but the return day came and no lawyer appeared. Defendant, in distress, was relating his woes to a group of idlers on the lookout for fun and mischief, when a stranger appeared wearing a suit of black with silk hat and gold headed cane. This was one A., a "tire peddler" from a neighboring town, a fellow of much versatility and acumen, and withal considerable of a wag.

Some one of the group, seeing space ahead, told the defendant that A. was Judge X., a great lawyer from St. Paul and that if the judge could be prevailed upon to take his case victory was sure. To carry out the joke the defendant was introduced to the pseudo judge, and explaining the situation besought his aid. A. condescendingly replied that, although he had long since ceased to practice in these inferior courts, he appreciated the hard situation of his would be client, and would consent to undertake his defense. When ushered into the presence of the court he was introduced to his honor as Judge X., of St. Paul, S., highly elated at the honor of having such eminent counsel appear in his court, at once called the case.

A brave made a motion to dismiss, and argued with great pomposity and at considerable length, quoting profusely the decisions of the supreme courts of the United States and the state of Minnesota, referring to Blackstone and every other law writer of whom he had ever heard, and no omitting the most fools and shallow dictatory of the magistrate. When he concluded and sat down, W., the local counsel, arose to reply, whereat the justice smote the table a thundering blow and cried in a voice pregnant with righteous indignation: "Sit down, sir! That is Judge X., of St. Paul. Don't you suppose he knows the law? What do you mean by attempting to contradict him? This case will be dismissed."—Green Bag

Powerful Consolation.

The Rev. A. S. Gumbart told the Massachusetts Undertakers' association that he thought he had had a particularly large share of funerals to attend during the two years of his pastorate in the city, and he related some of his experiences with undertakers.

Among them was one for the truth of which he vouches. He was summoned to officiate at the obsequies of one of his parishioners, and was passing the establishment of the undertaker who had charge of the arrangements, when the latter saw him, and called him in.

"What do you think of that casket?" he inquired, with an expression of professional pride.

"It is very handsome," replied the minister.

"Don't you like that fringe?"

"Very much."

"And that lining and pillow. Ain't they great?"

"They are very handsome."

"And the handles?"

"Could not be more beautiful."

"You like the casket then?"

"Very much."

"Well, sah! is you say something about it?"

"How, when and where?" inquired the puzzled minister.

EDSALL'S.

"Why so like funeral sermon, you think?"

"I don't think it would be fit there," replied the minister with a smile.

"Couldn't you say that in the midst of their bereavement it must be a satisfaction to the family to see the dead resting in such a beautiful casket?"

The minister cut short the further appeals of the undertaker by a hurried departure, but not before a reproachful glance had convinced him that the latter regarded him as a very unaccommodating person indeed.—Detroit Tribune.

"And will you always love me?"

The confidence of his hearing indicated that he had canvassed the situation previously, yet the trusting girl seemed re joiced to reply:

"Until death do us part!" she cooed.

She rested her brown curls trustfully upon his shoulder.

"No, Emeline, No."

She started as if an iron had been thrust into her heart. Pale with astonishment, trembling in every limb, she confronted her lover.

"Billy."

Her tone expressed a world of anguish.

"Do you doubt me, Billy?"

"No, my darling, but"—

As he spoke the clouds parted, and through the rift the moon sent its rays to bathe his temper in silver light.

"You forget"—

He gazed upon her with ineffable tenderness.

"that we live in a progressive age."

Slowly the color returned to her beautiful face, but there remained a look of perplexity and doubt.

"Why, Billy"—

He raised his hand deprecatingly.

"Emeline, don't you know that it is not until death do us part, but"—

Her lips moved as if to utter a reproach.

"But, according to modern usage, until you have no alimony income and shut in an asylum."

With a glad cry she threw herself into his embrace.

"Oh, Billy, how"—

A kiss temporarily interrupted her discourse.

Able to Travel Alone.

"How old is that boy, ma'am?" inquired the conductor of a South Side suburban railway train the other morning, halting in the aisle and addressing a well preserved and self possessed matron in one of the seats.

"I don't know that it makes any difference to you, sir," she answered.

"I only wanted to know"——

"You don't have to feed and clothe him do you?"

"Certainly not, madam, but"——

"You ain't taking a government census of this car, are you?"

"Of course not, ma'am, but I reckon I've got a right to ask you how old that boy is, I'm the"——

"Yes, you've got the right to ask it and I've got the right to answer you. Tain't any of your business how old he is."

"Why, great Scott, ma'am, I'm the conductor of this car."

"I don't care if you're the president of the road. What's that got to do with your wanting to know how old he is?"

"If you don't tell me I'll put it, if he's over five years old he'll have to"——

"Over five years old? He's over nine."

"Then you'll have to pay a fare for him."

"Who asked you to carry him free?"

"Why"——

"Do I look as if I was a person that would try to beat a railroad out of seven cents?"

"Certainly not, ma'am, but"——

"Then what have you been raising all this fuss about?"

"I haven't been"——

"I'll leave it to the other passengers if you haven't. You've been asking impudent questions and making insinuations and acting as if you thought folks were all thieves."

Everybody in the car was looking at her by this time, but she kept right on:

"And you've waked up the wrong passenger this time, I haven't anybody to travel with me but this boy, but I can get along all right I don't need any assistance from any one, and don't you forget it. Here's a ten ride ticket. Punch out a ride for me and one for him, and if you see us on your train again don't go insulting people's ages and making remarks. That's all!"

"Yes, ma'am," gasped the conductor, meekly punching two rides out of the ticket and passing on to the next car, utterly crushed.—Chicago Tribune.

Children in Company.

Every one understands the way to build a fire better than the one who is doing it. So no one in the world understands managing children so well as the people who have none.

"Why so fit," was asked in a paper not long ago, "that mothers do not discipline children more in private, so that the effects of their discipline may be apparent when guests are present?" The writer of the above quoted article then proceeded to relate her sad harrowing experience while calling upon a mother with six children.

FALL OF 1893. Plainfield, September 18, 1893.

OPENING OF FALL MILLINERY!

We respectfully announce the opening of our Millinery Parlors, under the direction of MISS KITTIE DALY,

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 21,22 and 23, 1893.

WE INVITE YOUR ATTENDANCE.

EDWARD WHITE, West Front Street,

A Cozy Combination.

The combination of lavender and green as well as that of green and blue continues to obtain and will undoubtedly be counted very smart either in evening or daytime dresses.

Economical Drapery.

In these days of furnace heat, when halls and rooms are warm alike, there is little need of closed doors save in the sleeping rooms, and the portiere takes a prominent place in the decoration of the home.

The effective arrangement given in the illustration has the advantage of being at once simple and decorative. The curtains and the scarf are all made of ordinary brown denim, that costs but fifteen cents a yard, and are embroidered with deep cream colored linen floss in a broad and easily executed design.

A SIMPLE PORTIERE.

The curtains are hung upon rings after the usual style, and while the draping of one makes a good effect of line the leaving of the other free allows of opening and closing the passage at will. The scarf consists of a single width of the material, finished with a simple routine pattern along both edges and by tassels of linen floss at each end. It is wound over and about the pole and makes a graceful finish to an excellent though economical drapery, well suited to either the study or the dining room door.

Famous Women's Small Families.

Among famous women who were mothers of small families comes Elizabeth Barrett Browning, who had only one son. Mrs. Somerville, the mathematician, had two daughters and one son only, though she was twice married. Mme. George Sand had two children, a son and a daughter, so had Lady Mary Montagu, whose "letters" are so admired in literature, and Mme. de Sevigne, writer of equally famous "letters" in French. Mme. de Staël had three children in her early married life, when forty-eight years old she married a second time and then had another son. George Eliot (Mrs. Cross) was childless, and so was Mrs. Craik, the author of "John Halifax." Mrs. Barbauld, whose prose and poetry were both much admired in the last century, had no children, and the same was the case with her equally praised contemporary Mrs. Opie.—Ex change.

Hints for the Amateur Painter.

When school ends and the plans for vacation hours can at last be carried out the small boys—yes, and the girls, too—take pleasure in daubing with rainbow tints their own particular boat, or in helping mother by giving the garden chairs a fresh coat of scarlet; but your mother is not so well pleased when she sees the usual suits streaked and spotted with paint. One or two experiences of this kind generally lead her to discourage the future artistic efforts of her young hopefuls. Her time in summer is fully occupied without bothering with obstinate paint spots, but there is no reason why young hopeful should not travel with me but this boy, but I can get paint all the paint off himself, it is easily and quickly done when the paint is fresh, and if he has to take a little trouble it will teach him to be a little more careful next time.

The first thing, Master Hopeful, that you will need to clean will probably be a very grimy pair of hands. Do not touch them with water first—it hardens the paint. Take a little lard (butter or grease will do if more convenient), rub your hands with it until every particle of paint is loosened, then wash in warm water with a stiff nail-brush and plenty of soap. Turpentine will take the paint off, but if your skin is sensitive it will make it smart most unpleasantly.

Paint on shirt sleeves or on gingham dresses must be rubbed with lard while the paint is fresh, and then washed out in the washtub. If it gets hard—as it will in a day—it must be softened with turpentine or benzine.

Paint spots on woolen goods call for fresh benzine and a bit of flannel to rub with. If you are obliged to use old benzine or turpentine, wet the spot at once with a cloth wet with warm water and soap or it will leave an oily stain that will catch the dust and soon form an ugly brown mark. —Harper's Young People.

Trailing Skirts.

If you want to keep your everyday dress in good condition, cut off the tail to a ground escaping length and use buckram braid. Instead of binding the edge over the braid on fast, allowing an eighth of an inch to project below the edge. This projection instead of the dress, will then get the mud and germs and wear of the street. The hercules braid comes by the yard and costs but a few cents. As it takes at least four yards to go round it is four times the price of the mohair, but also four times as enduring.

Bag For the Juvenile Invalid Coach.

A pretty bag to hang by an invalid's couch is one made by taking a long strip of buckram, a wide hem in the top and bottom of which will admit the insertion of two flat sticks to keep the bag in place. Line with silesia and cover with pretty India silk. Across the bag place slanted pockets, a large one at the bottom for a book of devotional reading and smaller ones for the convenient reception of a pencil and tablets; a bottle of smelling salts, a paper cutter, purse and fresh handkerchiefs.

The Curfew Rung by Electricity.

The almost obsolete custom of ringing a curfew bell is still beautifully kept up at her Welsh castle. The diva presses an electric button when she is ready to retire, and throughout the castle a gong rings the night and "lights out" for the entire household.

Pret GOODS

For wise people, peculiarly appropriate for the season, can always be found in our repository.

We will not say that we have the best in the world, but we do say and know that the same money cannot purchase better Harness and Carriages than our patrons are rapidly making their own. It is sometimes expedient to forget what you know, but it is never the course of wisdom to forget our select consignment of fancy traps and trappings. Save time, temper and money by purchasing of us.

Kitchen Wisdom.

When rice is boiling add a few drops of lemon juice to the water, and the rice will be very clear and white.

Let potatoes lie in cold water for an hour before cooking if you want them white and mealy.

Winter squash may be cut in pieces as large as a big potato and baked in the oven, when it will be found a pleasant addition to the family menu.

Pineapples, either raw or cooked, are good for people with weak breasts.

Pare your fruit with a silver knife if you do not want to discolor your hands.

To remove stains from knives, rub them with a raw potato before cleaning.

To take grease spots out of ground glass wash well with water that has been boiled and cooled; with an ounce of soda added for each gallon.

Ripe tomatoes will remove iron rust. Rub on while the goods are wet.

Don't Get Chilly.

Do not allow yourself to feel "chilly." It may indicate a circumstance or physical condition, either of which can be modified by prompt attention. If you are chilly from a draft, move away from it, stop it off or put on more clothes. If the coldness arises from a physical condition, you are probably taking cold. Heat a brick and sit with your feet upon it until you are heated through. This will do much to prevent a cold taking hold of you.

ESTABLISHED 1884. PLAINFIELD, N. J., "THE COLORADO OF THE EAST," THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 21, 1893. PRICE TWO CENTS.

THEY WANT $25,000

TO EXTEND THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY TO DUNELLEN.

Rather a Steep Price for Two Miles of Road, but the People Seem to Want it Anyhow.—Five Hundred Shares of Stock to be Subscribed for.

Mr. Jacob Krinev, who secured the signatures of about 600 persons favoring the extension of the street railway to Dunellen, is now securing signatures to the following, of which he has already obtained subscribers to the amount of a thousand dollars:

The undersigned hereby agree with Thomas Nevins and Chandler W. Riker, and with each other, that they will take the number of shares of the Dunellen and Plainfield Street Railway Company, proposed to be formed, set opposite their respective names, and to pay for the same as called upon by the said company. It is agreed that the capital stock of said company shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, divided into five hundred shares of fifty dollars each, and that the corporate existence shall continue nine hundred and ninety-nine years.

It is also understood and agreed that all of the stock of the company shall be subscribed for, or our obligations to take said stock shall be null and void.

Mr. Krinev is disinterested, except that he believes the improvement will benefit the people in his vicinity. He would like to get better terms from the company if he could.

THE FRESH AIR CLUB.

An Organization of Cross-Country Walkers.

The Fresh Air Club, an organization of cross-country walkers, propose participating in a jaunt in the part of the country next Sunday.

The programme is as follows:

Sept. 24—Liberty Street Ferry at 9 a. m. single ticket to Round Brook. The route will include Chimney Rock, Martinsville, Mt. Horeb, Dock Watch Hollow, Warrenville, Washington Rock and Plainfield, which will be reached in time for the train arriving in New York City at 6:46 p. m. Those who find this trip too short will keep on to Rahway or Elizabeth, meeting trains which reach New York City at 5:35 p. m. or 6:33 p. m.

Acceptable persons can obtain invitations by addressing the club by mail.

All communications concerning the club should be addressed to Fresh Air Club, P. O. Box 986, New York City.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Charles C. Lister of West Second street is visiting in Philadelphia.

Mr. Cornelius Compton of Duer street started yesterday for the World's Fair.

Mr. George D. Hallock of East Front street is visiting friends at Bloomfield.

Mrs John Bromfield of Basking Ridge is visiting Mrs. John G. Stryker of West Sixth street.

Miss Eda Beekman of West Eighth street has gone to the Catskill Mountains for a few weeks.

Mr. John H. Messersmith moved from Kensington avenue to New York with his family, yesterday.

Miss Lizzie Hedsman of Rahway is visiting Miss Amelia Kister of Warren street, North Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs L. W. Randolph of West Second street have returned from an outing spent in New York State.

Mrs. Mitchell arrived yesterday from England and will hereafter make her home with her son on South Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Beekman of Brooklyn, N. Y., have returned home after spending a few days with their parents on West Eighth street.

Mrs. Louis Worthington, Miss Worthington and Miss Annie Murphy started for the World's Fair this morning. They will be gone about ten days.

Mr. Joseph Green and Miss Alice Cross, both of this city, were married last night, at the home of the bride's parents on West Third street, by the Rev. B. W. Hand.

About thirty-eight young people gathered at the home of the Misses Daley, on Manning avenue, last night, and spent a most enjoyable evening dancing, playing games and having a general social time. One of the features of the evening was the singing of several solos by Miss Tessie Keeley.

Ex-Chief Horace J. Martin and wife of the borough have returned from the World's Fair, delighted with their trip. Among the Plainfielders Mr. Martin saw at the Fair were: Dr. Cooley and wife, Collector B. N. Spencer and wife, Lawyer John Van Winkle, son and niece, Mr. William Sandford, and Lawyer Nelson Runyon and son. Mr. Martin went to Chicago at the expense of The News, when voted the most popular fireman in Plainfield. He went over the Erie road, whereby he was enabled to spend a day at Niagara. He speaks in the highest terms of praise of the road.

Talks of Bowling.

There is talk of forming another bowling league in Union county to be composed of teams of athletic clubs. It is said its first meeting will be held some evening next week, and that the West field A. C., the Cranford Casino, the Roselle Casino, the Elizabeth A. C., and a Plainfield club have been asked to join its ranks. The organization is to be known as the Union County Athletic League.

FELL FROM A LADDER.

Mr. A. G. Thorn Meets with a Serious Accident.

Mr. A. G. Thorn of East Second street started to pick some apples from a tree in his yard yesterday. He placed a ladder against the tree, ascended and began picking the fruit. He was about sixteen feet from terra firma. Suddenly he was taken with an attack of vertigo. He fell to the ground, striking on his head. A deep gash was cut in his head, and he was considerably bruised by the fall. Dr. Probasco attended him. His injuries are not considered dangerous.

BREVITIES.

—The Board of Trade will meet tonight.

—An open air concert will be given at the Arlington Hotel to-morrow night.

—Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company will have a drill at 7:30 o'clock to night.

—A Dutchman named Fritts was arrested to-day by Chief Grant for drunkenness.

—An important meeting of the reception committee of the Y. M. C. A. will be held this evening.

—The case of Sequine vs. Fosher to try "right of ownership," will be tried tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock, before Justice Nash.

—James McCauley, one of a gang of boys who were disorderly on the boulevard several days ago, was arrested last night on complaint of Chief Grant. He was fined $5.

—For several nights past residents in the vicinity of Central avenue and East Third street complain that the electric lights in that district have not been burning regularly.

—Iona Council, Degree of Pocahontas, held a meeting last night and completed arrangements for an entertainment and sociable to be held in the Red Men's wigwam, on Oct. 18.

—"April Fool," in Music Hall to-night, is said to give the famous Gus Williams and an excellent company opportunity for much clever work. New songs and funny sayings and doings are promised. The story is described as interesting and jolly. Gus Williams draws big houses, and "April Fool" is said to be one of his best productions.

Arrested in the City for an Offence in the Borough.

Yesterday afternoon a number of young men gathered near the brook in the rear of French's mill, and created a disturbance. When Chief Grant and a policeman attempted to arrest them, one of them, Junior Williams, colored, son, ran across the brook and began cursing the policemen, defying them, it is said, to arrest him. A warrant for his arrested was issued by Justice Crossley, and indorsed by Judge Goddington. Robinson was arrested by Policeman McCue. He will be tried before Justice Crossley to night at half-past seven.

The Last Game of the Season.

Saturday's ball game on the Crescent Oval will be the last of the season in this city. The Montclair Athletic Club is said to be a strong aggregation of ball players. An exciting contest is looked for, as the Crescents will try to make a brilliant ending of a very successful season. Very few games have been lost by them this year. The players will receive the proceeds.

Arrested for Begging Money.

Policeman McCue this morning arrested James Corrigan for begging money on Seventh street. His plea was that he needed money to bury a dead child. Corrigan is the same man who was around town Monday begging money, as was told in THE NEWS at the time. It is a State offence and Corrigan may be dealt with severely. He lives on Plainfield avenue.

Henry F. Stites' Will.

Henry F. Stites of Scotch Plains, who died recently, was worth $50,000. His will, which was read Tuesday night, gives the use and income of the estate to his wife during her life. After her death $500 goes to the Methodist church of Scotch Plains and the remainder, with the exception of a few legacies, goes to the Muhlenberg Hospital of this city.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate in North Plainfield were duly recorded in the County Clerk's office between Sept. 11 and Sept. 18:

Peter Wooden to Amos F. and Sarah J. Allen, North Plainfield	20 00
Newton B. Smalley to Peter Rose, North Plainfield	400 00
Jacob Klimes to Serafino Trofano, North Plainfield	230 00

Leal's Foot Ball Team Robbed.

Yesterday afternoon Leal's foot ball team had a practice game on the Crescent oval. They exchanged their clothes for uniforms, leaving the former in the Crescents' dressing room, under the grand stand. The door was left unlocked. While they were at play someone entered the dressing room and rifled their pockets.

Struck on the Head by a Hatchet.

As Clarence Brokaw was climbing a ladder to the roof of the piazza of the Arlington Hotel, yesterday, a hatchet fell from the roof, striking him on the head, inflicting a severe scalp wound.

IN SPECIAL SESSIONS.

PRISONERS SENTENCED AT ELIZABETH YESTERDAY.

John Scudder, Colored, Sentenced to Thirty Days in Jail—William King and Edward Henry sent to the Reform School.

THE Court of Special Sessions convened at Elizabeth yesterday morning, Judge McCormick presiding.

Several prisoners were arraigned.

Charles Zimmerman, accused of assault and battery, pleaded not guilty, and the trial was fixed for September 27.

William Davis was charged with stealing $1 worth of coal from the Central Railroad Company. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the county jail for ten days.

John Scudder, a colored man of this city, under allegation of grand larceny, was charged and pleaded guilty. Scudder and another man were drunk together, The next day Scudder was charged with stealing $93 from the person of his companion. He gave back $65. He had no recollection of the robbery, and did not know how the money came into his possession. He was sentenced to the county jail for thirty days.

Michael Killigrew and Thomas Lilly, youths charged with stealing seventy five cents' worth of lumber from the Central pier, were arraigned last week and pleaded guilty. This morning they were sentenced. Killigrew proved to be an old offender, and he was sentenced to the county jail for thirty days. Lilly had never before been charged with crime and the court suspended sentence.

William H. King and Edward Henry, colored boys, both fifteen years old, charged with larceny from Mrs. Morris of this city, pleaded guilty. Because of their age Judge McCormick made an order sending them to the State Reform School.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

An Officers' Council Held in This City.

The New York, Northern New Jersey, Long Island and South New Jersey districts of the Central Division of the Salvation Army, held an officers' Council in the T. M. C. A. rooms, this morning and afternoon, which was in charge of Major Evans of New York, assisted by Scribe Capt. Damon. A large number of Officer's were in attendance at both sessions.

In the evening there will be a large banquet and Jubilee meeting in their Hall on West Second street, which will be in charge of Major Evans and the New York staff. At 7:30 there will be a march through the streets and a halt will be made opposite the North avenue depot, where an open air meeting will be held, and an address delivered by Major Evans from the "war chariot," in which he will ride around the city.

Among the officers who have arrived are: Major E. Evans, Ensign Wood and wife, Scribe Capt. Daymond, Major Chatterton, Capt. York, Lieut. J. Buckland, Capt. Bryant, Capt. Laytner, Capt. Brewer, Staff Capt. Keith, Capt. Owens, Lieut. Levett, Lieut. Magil, Capt. Davis, Adj. Hunter, Ensign Scott and wife, Lieut. Tweedy, Lieut. Owens, Capt. Watkins, Capt. Ben Nelson, Lieut. Sweet, Capt. Bornston, Adjt. Bell, Capt. Olliver, Lieut. Watson, Capt. Bull, Mrs. Major Evans, Capt. Molver, Capt. Wilkins, Capt. Wilkins, Capt. Tate, Capt. Dewey, Capt. Stevens and wife, Lieut. Strane, Lieut. Agnew, Lieut. Kemp, Capt. Virgin, Lieut. Riggs, Capt. March, Capt. Collier, Capt. Purkiss, Capt. Linstrom, Captain Findly and wife, Major Chatterton, Capt. Deighton and Lieut. Young, who were recently arrested at Jersey City; Andrew Crawford, from Toronto, Canada.

Dinner was served by Capt. Bull, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Christofferson, Lieutenants Watson and Agnew and Miss N. Christofferson.

Major Evans and Adjutant Bell spoke at the morning council on the "The Best Way to Carry on the Work to the Best Advantage."

The Fall Opening at White's.

The first day of the Fall opening of White's millinery parlors advertised elsewhere was a decided success and to judge from the number of ladies present and the expressions of approval of the style and trimming of every hat displayed, the success of the opening is assured.

Among the pretty hats displayed is a pink evening hat trimmed with pink pigeons and aigrette, also a cardinal bonnet with steel trimmings, and a black beaver with white felt facing and black and white trimming, making a beautiful combination and one that Mr. White believes is sure to be popular. There are many others that will delight the ladies, and Mr. White says the only way to be satisfied is to visit the department. The opening continues tomorrow and Saturday.

The Weather.

Cool, cloudy weather may be expected, followed by rising thermometer, falling barometer and fresh southeastery winds.

NUPTIALS.

McNamee—Gill

THE marriage of Mr. Dominick McNamee to Miss Annie Gill, both of this city, at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, yesterday afternoon, was one of the most fashionable weddings held at that edifice in some time.

The best man was Mr. Patrick O'Keefe. Miss Lizzie Gill, a sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. The bride was beautifully attired in white silk, trimmed with lace. The bridesmaid wore a pretty gown of pink silk.

The Rev. Father Smythe officiated.

A reception followed at the cozy home of the newly married couple, at the corner of Arlington avenue and Sixth street, which had been recently purchased and fitted up by the groom. The presents were numerous and beautiful.

An elaborate supper was served, after which the guests enjoyed themselves dancing. The music was furnished by Prof. O'Reilly.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. William White, Miss Mary White, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Keany, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Coleman, the Misses Ethna, Mrs. John Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs. John Wierenga, Misses Lizzie and Mamie Wierenga, Mr. and Mrs. James Wierenga, Misses Maggie and Kittie Day, Miss Julia Fields, Miss Mary E. Dorgan, Miss Kate Seers, Miss Doll, Miss Daly, Miss Rose Morris, Misses Doretha and Marguerite Fleming and Owen Fleming, Miss Nellie Kelly of New York, Miss K. Flannigan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Day, Mr. T. J. Hughes, Mr. John Watson of this city, and Messrs. Parsons, Terry, Naylor and Fitzpatrick of Trenton.

AT GETTYSBURG.

New Jersey Veterans on the Famous Battlefield.

AFTER a very very pleasant trip the Thirteenth New Jersey Regiment Association reached Gettysburg Monday evening on time, 125 strong. The camp fire in the Court House was opened with music by the Gettysburg Brass Band. Capt. A. M. Matthews, presiding, opened with a few remarks describing the Thirteenth Regiment's organization and service, leading up to the battle at this place. Dr. J. J. H. Love, the regiment's surgeon, followed with interesting reminiscences of the regiment's participation in this battle.

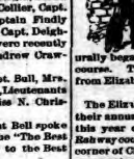
Remarks descriptive of the services of the regiment were made by Jacob White, George D. Lawrence, and Commander Fritz Trepkau, of Usal Dodd Post, Orange.

Col. J. B. Batchelder, the Government historian of the Gettysburg battlefield, gave an interesting account of services of the 13th and other New Jersey regiments at Gettysburg.

The party visited the interesting points of the field, and left for Hagerstown at four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

AMONG THE WHEELMEN.

The Cranford Course Abandoned by County Racers.



WHEN the Cranford ordinance, prohibiting wheelmen from riding through that town without the arms and legs being entirely covered by clothing the Union county cyclers naturally began to look around for another course. They finally selected the road from Elizabeth to Rahway.

The Elizabeth Athletic Cyclers will run their annual ten-mile handicap club race this year over the new Elizabeth and Rahway course. This course starts at the corner of Cherry street and Rahway avenue, and extends into Rahway on St. George's avenue to a point between the road to Westfield and Church street, a distance of five miles.

Day of Atonement.

Many business places were closed yesterday in commemoration of the Hebrew Day of Atonement, of the Hebrews throughout the world began the "day of atonement" the "Tom-Kippur" or the Sabbath of Sabbaths, occurring according to their calendar at the setting of the sun on the ninth day of Tishri, and ending at sundown, when the "Shofa" or trumpet made from a ram's horn is blown announcing the close of the holy day. Services of the most impressive nature were held in Reform Hall.

Ran Off with His Whiskey.

A man complained to Policeman Kiely this morning that another person had stolen his bottle of whiskey. He said he handed it to the man to take a drink, when her ran off with it. The policeman told him that if he gave the bottle to the man to take a drink he couldn't do anything for him.

PREPARING FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

State Republicans Met at Trenton Yesterday.

STATE Republicans met at Trenton yesterday. Among those present were: Franklin Murphy, ex-Senator Stainsby the Essex representatives in the committee, John J. Toffey, of Hudson; Charles N. Robinson from Camden; Colonel Skirm, of Mercer; R. R. Reading, of Hunterdon; D. C. Blair, of Somerset; Congressman John J. Gardner, of Atlantic; S. C. Hutchinson, of Burlington; Major E. J. Anderson, of Somerset; George W. Jenkins, of Morris; M. Woolley, of Hudson; R. C. Breckenridge, of Bergen, and A. B. Place, of Passaic.

The first thing considered was the address to the voters of the State. The address was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Murphy, Foster, Jenkins and Anderson for the purpose of amendment, and will be made public in the course of two or three days.

The address condemns the Democratic administration in New Jersey for legislation in favor of the rich. At length attention is called to the fact that, owing to political friction in the Democratic National Administration in the matter of the tariff, the industries of the State have been seriously affected and thousands of workingmen thrown out of employment. The tariff issue will be made one of the most important of the campaign.

After the address was disposed of, the committee decided that campaign headquarters should be opened in Newark. All the committeemen had encouraging reports to make. Their collective opinion is that in every county in the State there will be Republican gains at the coming election.

THEY WANT $25,000

TO EXTEND THE ELECTRIC RAILWAY TO DUNELLEN.

Rather a Steep Price for Two Miles of Road, but the People Seem to Want It Anyhow.—Five Hundred Shares of Stock to be Subscribed for.

Mr. Jacob Krinoy, who secured the signatures of about 600 persons favoring the extension of the street railway to Dunellen, is now securing signatures to the following, of which he has already obtained subscribers to the amount of a thousand dollars:

The undersigned hereby agree with Thomas Downs and Chandler W. Riker, and with each other, that they will take the number of shares of the Dunellen and Plainfield Street Railway Company, proposed to be formed, set opposite their respective names, and to pay for the same as called upon by the said company. It is agreed that the capital stock of said company shall be twenty-five thousand dollars, divided into five hundred shares of fifty dollars each, and that the corporate existence shall continue nine hundred and ninety-nine years.

It is also understood and agreed that all of the stock of the company shall be subscribed for, or our obligations to take said stock shall be null and void.

Mr. Krinoy is disinterested, except that he believes the improvement will benefit the people in his vicinity. He would like to get better terms from the company if he could.

THE FRESH AIR CLUB.

An Organization of Cross Country Walkers.

The Fresh Air Club, an organization of cross-country walkers, propose participating in a jaunt in this part of the country next Sunday.

The programme is as follows:

Sept. 24—Liberty Street Ferry at 9 a. m. single ticket to Round Brook. The route will include Chimney Rock, Martinsville, Mt. Horeb, Dock Watch Hollow, Warrenville, Washington Rock and Plainfield, which will be reached in time for the train arriving in New York City at 4:45 p. m. Those who find this trip too short will keep on to Rahway or Elizabeth, meeting trains which reach New York City at 5:35 p. m. or 6:38 p. m.

Acceptable persons can obtain invitations by addressing the club by mail.

All communications concerning the club should be addressed to Fresh Air Club, P. O. Box 988, New York City.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Charles C. Lister of West Second street is visiting in Philadelphia.

Mr. Cornelius Compton of Duer street started yesterday for the World's Fair.

Mr. George D. Hallock of East Front street is visiting friends at Bloomfield.

Mrs. John Bromfield of Basking Ridge is visiting Mrs. John G. Stryker of West Sixth street.

Miss Eda Beekman of West Eighth street has gone to the Catskill Mountains for a few weeks.

Mr. John H. Messersmith moved from Kensington avenue to New York with his family, yesterday.

Miss Lizzie Hedaman of Rahway is visiting Miss Amelia Kister of Warren street, North Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph of West Second street have returned from an outing spent in New York State.

Mrs. Mitchell arrived yesterday from England and will hereafter make her home with her son on South Second street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Beekman of Brooklyn, N. Y., have returned home after spending a few days with their parents on West Eighth street.

Mrs. Louis Worthington, Miss Worthington and Miss Annie Murphy started for the World's Fair this morning. They will be gone about ten days.

Mr. Joseph Green and Miss Alice Cross, both of this city, were married last night, at the home of the bride's parents on West Third street, by the Rev. B. W. Hand.

About thirty-eight young people gathered at the home of the Misses Daley, on Manning avenue, last night, and spent a most enjoyable evening dancing, playing games and having a general social time. One of the features of the evening was the singing of several solos by Miss Teasie Keeley.

Ex-Chief Horace J. Martin and wife of the borough have returned from the World's Fair, delighted with their trip. Among the Plainfielders Mr. Martin saw at the Fair were: Dr. Cooley and wife, Collector R. M. Spencer and wife, Lawyer John Van Winkle, son and niece, Mr. William Sandford, and Lawyer Nelson Runyon and son. Mr. Martin went to Chicago at the expense of The News, when voted the most popular fireman in Plainfield. He went over the Erie road, whereby he was enabled to spend a day at Niagara. He speaks in the highest terms of praise of the road.

Talks of Bowling.

There is talk of forming another bowling league in Union county to be composed of teams of athletic clubs. It is said its first meeting will be held some evening next week, and that the West field A. C., the Cranford Casino, the Roselle Casino, the Elizabeth A. C., and a Plainfield club have been asked to join its ranks. The organization is to be known as the Union County Athletic League.

FELL FROM A LADDER.

Mr. A. G. Thorn Meets with a Serious Accident.

Mr. A. G. Thorn of East Second street started to pick some apples from a tree in his yard yesterday. He placed a ladder against the tree, ascended, and began picking the fruit. He was about sixteen feet from terra firma. Suddenly he was taken with an attack of vertigo. He fell to the ground, striking on his head. A deep gash was cut in his head, and he was considerably bruised by the fall. Dr. Probasco attended him. His injuries are not considered dangerous.

BREVITIES.

—The Board of Trade will meet tonight.

—An open air concert will be given at the Arlington Hotel to-morrow night.

—Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company will have a drill at 7:30 o'clock to night.

—A Dutchman named Fritts was arrested to-day by Chief Grant for drunkenness.

—An important meeting of the reception committee of the Y. M. C. A. will be held this evening.

—The case of Augustine vs. Fosher to try "right of ownership," will be tried to-morrow afternoon at two o'clock, before Justice Nash.

—James McCauley, one of a gang of boys who were disorderly on the boulevard several days ago, was arrested last night on complaint of Chief Grant. He was fined $5.

—For several nights past residents in the vicinity of Central avenue and East Third street complain that the electric lights in that district have not been burning regularly.

—Iona Council, Degree of Pocahontas, held a meeting last night and completed arrangements for an entertainment and sociable to be held in the Red Men's wigwam, on Oct. 18.

—"April Fool," in Music Hall to-night, is said to give the famous Gus Williams and an excellent company opportunity for much clever work. New songs and funny sayings and doings are promised. The story is described as interesting and jolly. Gus Williams draws big houses, and "April Fool" is said to be one of his best productions.

Arrested in the City for an Offence in the Borough.

Yesterday afternoon a number of young men gathered near the brook in the rear of French's mill, and created a disturbance. When Chief Grant and a policeman attempted to arrest them one of their numbers, named William Robinson, ran across the brook and began cursing the policemen, defying them, it is said, to arrest him. A warrant for his arrested was issued by Justice Crossley, and indorsed by Judge Goddington. Robinson was arrested by Policeman McCue. He will be tried before Justice Crossley to night at half-past seven.

The Last Game of the Season.

Saturday's ball game on the Crescent Oval will be the last of the season in this city. The Montclair Athletic Club is said to be a strong aggregation of ball players. An exciting contest is looked for, as the Crescents will try to make a brilliant ending of a very successful season. Very few games have been lost by them this year. The players will receive the proceeds.

Arrested for Begging Money.

Policeman McCue this morning arrested James Corrigan for begging money on Seventh street. His plea was that he needed money to bury a dead child. Corrigan is the same man who was around town Monday begging money, as was told in The News at the time. It is a State offence and Corrigan may be dealt with severely. He lives on Plainfield avenue.

Henry F. Stites' Will.

Henry F. Stites of Scotch Plains, who died recently, was worth $60,000. His will, which was read Tuesday night, gives the use and income of the estate to his wife during her life. After her death $500 goes to the Methodist church of Scotch Plains and the remainder, with the exception of a few legacies, goes to the Muhlenberg Hospital of this city.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following transfers of real estate in North Plainfield were duly recorded in the County Clerk's office between Sept. 11 and Sept. 18:

Peter Wooden to Amos F. and Sarah J. Allen, North Plainfield	30 00
Newton H. Smalley to Peter Koss, North Plainfield	400 00
Jacob Kliner to Serafino Troiano, North Plainfield	200 00

Leal's Foot Ball Team Robbed.

Yesterday afternoon Leal's foot ball team had a practice game on the Crescent oval. They exchanged their clothes for uniforms, leaving the former in the Crescents' dressing room, under the grand stand. The door was left unlocked. While they were at play someone entered the dressing room and rifled their pockets.

Struck on the Head by a Hatchet.

As Clarence Brokaw was climbing a ladder to the roof of the piazza of the Arlington Hotel, yesterday, a hatchet fell from the roof, striking him on the head, inflicting a severe scalp wound.

IN SPECIAL SESSIONS.

PRISONERS SENTENCED AT ELIZABETH YESTERDAY.

John Scudder, Colored, Sentenced to Thirty Days in Jail—William King and Edward Henry sent to the Reform School.

THE Court of Special Sessions convened at Elizabeth yesterday morning, Judge McCormick presiding.

Several prisoners were arraigned.

Charles Zimmerman, accused of assault and battery pleaded not guilty, and the trial was fixed for September 27.

William Davis was charged with stealing $1 worth of coal from the Central Railroad Company. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to the county jail for ten days.

John Scudder, a colored man of this city, under allegation of grand larceny was charged and pleaded guilty. Scudder and another man were drunk together. The next day Scudder was charged with stealing $25 from the person of his companion. He gave back $20. He had no recollection of the robbery, and did not know how the money came into his possession. He was sentenced to the county jail for thirty days.

Michael Killigrew and Thomas Lilly, youths charged with stealing seventy five cents' worth of lumber from the Central pier, were arraigned last week and pleaded guilty. This morning they were sentenced. Killigrew proved to be an old offender, and he was sentenced to the county jail for thirty days. Lilly had never before been charged with crime and the court suspended sentence.

William H. King and Edward Henry, colored boys, both fifteen years old, charged with larceny from Mrs. Morris of this city, pleaded guilty. Because of their age Judge McCormick made an order sending them to the State Reform School.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

An Officers' Council Held in This City.

The New York, Northern New Jersey, Long Island and South New Jersey districts of the Central Division of the Salvation Army, held an officers' Council in No. 7 M. E. Church, this morning and afternoon, which was in charge of Major Evans of New York, assisted by Scribe Capt. Damon. A large number of Officer's were in attendance at both sessions.

In the evening there will be a large banquet and Jubilee meeting in the Hall on West Second street, which will be in charge of Major Evans and the New York staff. At 7.30 there will be a march through the streets and a half will be made opposite the North avenue depot, where an open air meeting will be held, and an address delivered by Major Evans from the "war chariot," in which he will ride around the city.

Among the officers who have arrived are: Major E. Evans, Ensign Wood and wife, Scribe Capt. Daymood, Major Chatterton, Capt. York, Lieut. J. Buckland, Capt. Bryant, Capt. Laytoor, Capt. Brewer, Staff Capt. Keith, Capt. Owens, Lieut. Levett, Lieut. Magal, Capt. Davis, Adj. Hunter, Ensign Scott and wife, Lieut. Twenty, Lieut. Owens, Capt. Watkins, Capt. Ben Nelson, Lieut. Sweet, Capt. Bornston, Adjt. Bell, Capt. Oliver, Lieut. Watson, Capt. Bell, Mrs. Major Evans, Capt. McIver, Capt. Wilkins, Capt. McLean and wife, Capt. Hosier, Capt. Stevens and wife, Lieut. Stevens, Lieut. Agnew, Lieut. Kemp, Capt. Virgin, Lieut. Biggs, Capt. March, Capt. Collier, Capt. Furkiss, Capt. Linstrom, Captain Findly and wife, Major Chatterton, Capt. Deighton and Lieut. Young, who were recently arrested at Jersey City, Andrew Crawford, from Toronto, Canada.

Dinner was served by Capt. Bull, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Christofferson, Lieutenants Walsoh and Agnew and Miss N. Christofferson.

Major Evans and Adjutant Bell spoke at the morning council on the "The Best Way to Carry on the Work to the Best Advantage."

The Fall Opening at White's.

The first day of the Fall opening of White's millinery parlors advertised elsewhere was a decided success and to judge from the number of ladies present and the expressions of approval of the style and trimming of every hat displayed, the success of the opening is assured.

Among the pretty hats displayed is a pink dyeaing hat trimmed with pink tigrets and steel, and then a cardinal beaver with steel trimmings, and a black beaver with white felt facing and black and white trimming, making a beautiful combination and one that Mr. White believes is sure to be popular. There are many others that will delight the ladies, and Mr. White says the only way to be satisfied is to visit the department. The opening continues to-morrow and Saturday.

The Weather.

Cool, cloudy weather may be expected, followed by rising thermometer, falling barometer and fresh southeastery winds.

NUPTIALS.

McNamee—Gill

THE marriage of Mr. Dominick McNamee to Miss Annie Gill, both of this city, at St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, yesterday afternoon, was one of the most fashionable weddings held at that edifice in some time.

The best man was Mr. Patrick O'Keefe. Miss Lizzie Gill, a sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. The bride was beautifully attired in white silk, trimmed with lace. The bridesmaid wore a pretty gown of pink silk.

The Rev. Father Smythe officiated.

A reception followed at the cosy home of the newly married couple, at the corner of Arlington avenue and Sixth street, which had been recently purchased and fitted up by the groom. The presents were numerous and beautiful.

An elaborate supper was served, after which the guests enjoyed themselves dancing. The music was furnished by Prof. O'Reilly.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien of Trenton, Mr. and Mrs. William White, Miss Mary White, Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Kenny, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Coleman, the Misses Sheehan, Mrs. John Sheehan, Mr. and Mrs. John Wierenga, Misses Lizzie and Mamie Wierenga, Mr. and Mrs. James Wierenga, Misses Maggie and Kittie Day, Miss Julia Fields, Miss Mary E. Dorgan, Miss Kate Sneen, Miss Dell, Miss Daly, Miss Rose Morris, Misses Doretha and Marguerite Fleming and Owen Fleming, Miss Nellie Kelly of New York, Miss K. Flanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Day, Mr. T. J. Hughes, Mr. John Watson of this city, and Messrs. Parsons, Terry, Naylor and Fitzpatrick of Trenton.

AT GETTYSBURG.

New Jersey Veterans on the Famous Battlefield.

AFTER a very very pleasant trip the Thirteenth New Jersey Regiment Association reached Gettysburg Monday evening on time, 135 strong. The camp-fire in the Court House was opened with music by the Gettysburg Brass Band. Capt. A. M. Matthews, presiding, opened with a few remarks describing the Thirteenth Regiment's organization and service, leading up to the battle at this place. Dr. J. J. H. Love, the regiment's surgeon, followed with interesting reminiscences of the regiment's participation in this battle.

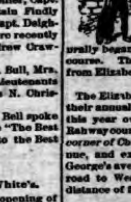
Remarks descriptive of the services of the regiment were made by Jacob White, George D. Lawrence, and Commander Fritz Trepkau, of Ural Dodd Post, Orange.

Col. J. R. Batcheldor, the Government historian of the Gettysburg battlefield, gave an interesting account of services of the 13th and other New Jersey regiments at Gettysburg.

The party visited the interesting points of the field, and left for Hagerstown at four o'clock yesterday afternoon.

AMONG THE WHEELMEN.

The Cranford Course Abandoned by County Racers.



WHEN the Cranford ordinance, prohibiting wheelmen from riding through that town without the arms and legs being entirely covered by clothing the Union county cyclers naturally began to look around for another course. They finally selected the road from Elizabeth to Rahway.

The Elizabeth Athletic Cyclers will run their annual ten-mile handicap club race this year over the new Elizabeth and Rahway course. This course starts at the corner of Cherry street and Rahway avenue, and extends into Rahway on St. George's avenue to a point between the road to Westfield and Church street, a distance of five miles.

Day of Atonement.

Many business places were closed yesterday in commemoration of the Hebrew Day of Atonement. In the Hebrews throughout the world began the "day of atonement" the "Yom-Kippur" or the Sabbath of Sabbaths, occurring according to their calendar at the setting of the sun on the ninth day of Fisheri, and ending at sundown, when the "Shofr" or trumpet made from a ram's horn is blown announcing the close of the holy day. Services of the most impressive nature were held in Reform Hall.

Ran Off with His Whiskey.

A man complained to Policeman Kiely this morning that another person had stolen his bottle of whiskey. He said he handed it to the man to take a drink, when he ran off with it. The policeman told him that if he gave the bottle to the man to take a drink he couldn't do anything for him.

PREPARING FOR THE CAMPAIGN.

State Republicans Met at Trenton Yesterday.

STATE Republicans met at Trenton yesterday. Among those present were: Franklin Murphy, ex-Senator Stainsby the Essex representatives in the committee, John J. Toy, of Hudson; Charles H. Robinson from Camden; Colonel Skirm, of Mercer; R. B. Reading, of Hunterton; D. C. Shaw, of Warren; Fisherman John J. Gardner, of Atlantic; S. C. Hutchinson, of Burlington; Major E. J. Anderson, of Somerset; George W. Jenkins, of Morris; M. Woolley, of Hudson; R. C. Breckenridge, of Bergen, and A. B. Place, of Passaic.

The first thing considered was the address to the voters of the State. The address was referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Murphy, Foster, Jenkins and Anderson for the purpose of amendment, and will be made public in the course of two or three days.

The address condemns the Democratic administration in New Jersey for legislation in favor of the race track. Attention is called to the fact that, owing to public distrust in the policy of the National Administration in the matter of the tariff, the industries of the State have been affected and those thousands of workingmen thrown out of employment. The tariff issue will be made one of the most important of the campaign.

After the address was disposed of, the committee decided that campaign headquarters should be opened in Newark. All the committeemen had encouraging reports to make. Their collective opinion is that in every county in the State there will be Republican gains at the coming election.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Kerosene Salvation.

Mr. Edward Atkinson puts his faith to coal oil. What it cannot do toward alleviating the sufferings of the poor may well be left out altogether. Mr. Atkinson's latest exploit is the invention and of course the attendant description in the newspapers of a cooking table, whereby with the aid of a kerosene lamp any boy who never saw a range or bake pan may prepare the most delicious and appetizing food at a cost of $1 a week. Mr. Atkinson recommends his idea as a specific against hard times.

You get a sheet of galvanized iron with a 2½ inch hole in the middle. Mount the sheet upon legs 2 feet high. There is your cooking table. Put under it a kerosene lamp, light it, and, presto! in 4 hours you can turn the toughest old hen in the market into the most delicious fricasseed chicken that ever graced a millionaire's board. You must cut up the old hen and put her into a vegetable dish along with such seasoning as you desire. Set a piece of tile or earthenware over the hole, put upon that a brick, and upon the brick put the vegetable dish containing the old hen. Cover the dish first with a stone jar or crock; cover the jar again with a wooden pail. This is to keep the heat in.

In like manner you can take the most desperate old steer's shin and turn it into a beef stew that will make the mouth water, all by the aid of kerosene. The main thing is to get a low heat for a long time. If the cooking pot or vessel is a large one, hoist an empty flour barrel up side down over it to keep the heat in. All depends on a low heat applied a long time and kept in. This is very fine, all of it. Possibly, however, the landlady who rents the little hall bedroom for a weekly pittance to the lone man might object to his bringing in a flour barrel and a cooking table, likewise to the burning of a kerosene lamp all night.

An Impressive Scene.

Never perhaps was the brotherhood of man so near at hand. At any rate, never before in the world's history was possible such a meeting of men of all faiths as that which lately came together in the international congress of religions at Chicago. Rev. Augusta Chapin was not far from right when she said that the parliament of religions was the grandest and most significant gathering that had ever assembled on this earth, for it appealed to all who wore the garb of humanity. Cardinal Gibbons reminded the congress that there was one platform on which all the delegates were united, and that was charity, humanity and benevolence. A deeper truth still Protat Chunder Mazoomdar uttered when he told the audience that the grandest religion was that which united all religions.

Perhaps some day the artist shall rise who can do justice in a great historic painting to the scene upon the platform at the opening. A Roman Catholic prelate high in office, wearing his priestly robes, entered first of those taking their places. He was escorted by an American business man, the president of the world's congress auxiliary. Then came two beautiful women, and after them, many being clad in their ceremonial garments, entered the Buddhist, the Protestant, the follower of Confucius, the Jew and the adherent of the Scotch kirk. One petition these people of every nation and kindred and tongue could unite in repeating, the Lord's Prayer; one song could thrill all their souls alike with divine harmony, the majestic "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow."

It was a terrible and daring exploit, the robbing of an express train in Indiana by a gang of 20 masked scoundrels. Such a thing could scarcely have happened in any part of Europe. It shows that this country of ours, even in its thickly settled parts, is not yet beyond the stage of newness. The feat of the highwaymen will furnish material for dime novels for boys during the next half dozen years. But it is to be hoped that the romancers will be sure to add the finale of the adventure, which will be this: Although the masked murderous villains got away at the time, they will in the long run be caught and brought to justice. Robbers, even the most daring and romantic, come to striped suit within penitentiary walls at last in case they do not previously get their brains blown out.

When the splendid new triple screw cruiser Columbia was planned, it was with the design of combining in her high speed with great coal economy and endurance. The preliminary trip of the vessel from the Cramps' shipyard fully justifies the expectation and will earn for our builders the premium which no American grudges to them for constructing what promises to be the fastest naval vessel afloat. Under unfavorable conditions of wind and water the Columbia made a maximum speed of 21 3-10 knots an hour, with her engines indicating much less than their maximum power. This is the highest speed made by any vessel of our navy on the preliminary trip.

They are making a row about mosquitoes in England this summer. They call it the "insect plague," and when one of the little fellows gives a bite the Briton calls it a "sting." What a fuss we make over so small a matter!

The Extra Crowded Apart.

A woman complained the other day that she so seldom met a man socially she scarcely knew how to talk with him. "I go out constantly," she said, "but it is to my woman's clubs—I belong to three—to luncheons, teas and afternoon receptions. Except occasionally at a dinner party, I really converse with so few men besides my husband in the course of a year that I can almost count them on my fingers."

This condition is the result of the trend of the present system of entertaining. The sexes offer and receive hospitality nowadays as separately almost as the Quakers seat their congregations. Dinners and dances seem to be the only social affairs upon which it is safe to count upon the presence of men. The exception, perhaps, is the small proportion of the very wealthy and leisure few.

It is no specially new development. Men have long had their clubs and their separate amusements, and women staid at home except at general entertainments. Latterly and gradually this has changed. Teas, luncheons and receptions are monopolized by women, and now that they have their clubs as well the gulf grows wider. A glance at the list of affairs at which men do not assist shows that it is constantly increasing.

These are: Afternoon whist clubs, afternoon progressive euchre parties, and even one, at least, afternoon dancing class, where male partners are not to be had. Every form of social gathering except balls has its few or great afternoon editions, which mean that men are not expected. Women's dinners even are not unknown, though they are not common and seldom take place at the evening dinner hour.

This is even more noticeably true of smaller places. The average town and village man is seldom fond of society and he is pleased and relieved that the "women" can have their fetes without him and leave him undisturbed at shop or office. It is a pity, too, for each sex needs what it gains from social companionship with the other.—Her Point of View in New York Times.

Licks 2,000 Stamps an Hour.

The title of "stamp licker" is not the most attractive in the world to bestow upon a young lady, especially when she is little, pretty and charming. But Miss Ada M. Crawford is nevertheless a stamp licker, and what is more is the world's champion in her chosen vocation. Miss Crawford, who has just passed her eighteenth birthday, is now forewoman for the E. C. Howe company. Three years ago she entered the employ of the house and at once attracted attention by the lightning rapidity with which she addressed, sealed and stamped envelopes.

The first time she tried stamping envelopes she did 1,500 an hour. She can now do 3,000 an hour and has kept this up steadily for days. Strange to say, she has persistently declined to use a sponge, and every one of the millions of stamps which have carried letters and circulars to their destinations all over the country has received a dainty lick from her tongue.

Miss Crawford talked entertainingly of herself and her work yesterday. "Do I like the work?" she repeated in reply to a question. "Indeed I do. In fact, I wouldn't do anything else. I suppose it means very funny that I should prefer to use my tongue instead of a sponge, but I can get along so much better. I can only do 2,000 an hour with a sponge, and I can easily do 3,000 without it. No, it doesn't seem to affect my health in the least. I'll tell you a funny thing about it. If business becomes slack and I don't have any stamps to lick I lose my appetite and can scarcely eat anything. But as soon as I get down to work again my appetite returns and I become enormously hungry. There seems to be something in the gum that acts as a tonic."—Philadelphia Record.

Two Boston Women of Nerve.

It is not one time in a hundred that a woman has the forethought and presence of mind to chase a pickpocket and recover her property, instead of screaming for the police.

There were two such plucky women on Washington street yesterday afternoon, however. They were near the crowded corner of Washington and Winter streets when one of them felt a hand in her pocket. She made a grab for the hand, but it and her pocketbook were missing.

With a rush she was after the thief, whom she grabbed right in the midst of team traffic on Washington street, which was for the time delayed. The horses of one car thrust their heads against the woman and her captive. Her friend was an able second, and laid a hand on the other shoulder of the pickpocket, a young man some twenty-five years of age. "You fiend," cried the other. "give up that pocketbook!" This was too much for the fellow's nerves, and he quickly pulled it out and handed it over. The woman "let go," and the man disappeared up the street on a dead run, while the teams once more moved along in unbroken procession.—Boston Journal.

Women in the Melbourne University.

Melbourne university has conferred its degree of bachelor of medicine for the first time upon a woman. The first opening granted to women in the university was permission for them to enter for the matriculation examination, and this was taken by women for a long time as the end-all of their education before any one dreamed of demanding further privileges as a student or of taking a degree.

The exhibition for French and German has been gained each year for ten years by a woman, and for six years out of the ten the exhibition for English and history has been awarded to women. In 1884 the first B. A. degree was won by a woman, and since then a creditable number of women have presented themselves for degrees each year.—New York Sun.

At a recent election about 7,000 votes were given to Mrs. Ada M. Bittenbender for the office of supreme judge of Nebraska.

SOUTHERN MOBS

Lawless Deeds End In Riot and Bloodshed.

ELEVEN SHOT AT ROANOKE.

The Mayor Ordered the Militia to Fire Into the Mob.

A Crowd of Lynchers Was Trying to Get a Negro Prisoner From the Jail—The Mayor Wounded In the Foot—The Negroes In Jefferson Parish, Louisiana, Terrorizing the White Residents—A State and Papers Prepared For Amanda Jubilee—Troops to Be Called Out.

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 21.—Robert Smith, a negro, assaulted and nearly killed Mrs. Henry Bishop, the wife of a well to do farmer of Botetourt county. Mrs. Bishop was at the market with a load of produce, and Smith bought a box of grapes. He asked her to go with him to get the money, and taking her to a house near by locked the door and bound her. Then drawing a razor, demanded her money. She gave it up, and while doing so jerked the razor from his hand.

The negro choked her, threw her down and pounded her head with a brick, leaving her for dead. Mrs. Bishop shortly afterward regained consciousness, and returning to the market told of the outrage. Detective Baldwin soon arrested the negro. The excited crowd attempted to take Smith away from the officer and lynch him, but Baldwin, with the prisoner on a horse, dashed at full speed in the face of the crowd and soon had him behind the bars.

A crowd gathered around the jail and kept increasing as night approached. At 5 o'clock the Roanoke light infantry marched to the jail by orders of Mayor Trout.

During the evening the crowd in the immediate vicinity cleared. About dark the crowd increased by 100 men from the vicinity of the woman's home, headed by Mrs. Bishop's son, a fireman on the Norfolk and Western railroad. At 8 o'clock portions of the mob battered at a side door of the jail where the militia and Mayor Trout had retired. The shooting was commenced by the mob, and the mayor was shot in the foot.

Fired on the Mob.

The militia were then ordered to return the fire, and a volley from about 25 rifles was poured into the mob. It is thought that about five men were killed by this fire and as many more wounded, some of them fatally.

During the excitement caused by the volley the negro was taken from the jail by an officer and secreted. The dead and wounded were removed to a drug store and to the offices of nearby physicians. The militia were then dispersed and left the scene quietly as possible.

Several speeches were made after the militia retired, and Judge Woods of the Hustings court assured the mob that the negro, Smith, had been removed from the jail, and accompanied two of the crowd through the jail to prove the truth of his statement.

This and the speech of J. Allen Watts, the Democratic candidate for the state senate, did much to pacify the crowd. But they hung around the jail and adjacent streets for several hours afterward, many dispersing to search for the secreted prisoner.

At midnight the scene had quieted down, and no further trouble is expected. The militia remain at the mayor's orders, although it is probable that they will not be called out again.

Mayor Trout is firm in the position he has assumed, and declares that he will uphold the law. The dead, which at midnight had increased by the death of George Setter, were removed to the undertaking establishment and will be prepared for burial.

The Dead and Injured.

The following is a list of the dead and injured as far as known at present:

Dead—S. A. Vick, hotel proprietor; Will Sheetz, fireman on the Norfolk and Western railroad; Charles W. Whitaker, conductor on the Norfolk and Western; J. B. Tyler, Blue Ridge; George White, shot through the leg and bled to death; W. Jones, engineer on the Norfolk and Western railroad; John Mills, distiller, Back Creek; Emmett J. Small, Roanoke; George E. White, fireman on the Norfolk and Western railroad.

The list of the injured is: J. H. Campbell, Edgar Whattis, C. W. Piggott; George Setter, Will Whattis, wounded; Charles Falls, shot through the body and will die; Will Eddie, shot through groin; George O. Monroe, shot in head; Frank Mills, shot in arm; Tom Nelson, shot in eye; Leroy White, shot in back; J. B. McGhee, shot in leg —Shepard, shot in leg; E. J. Small, shot in shoulder; Thomas Bowen, shot through body; C. B. North, O. B. Taylor, David Ruggles, N. E. Sparks, T. E. Nelms.

Excitement In Jefferson Parish.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—The leading colored men of the city held a secret meeting and have furnished the press with resolutions passed. A committee has been appointed to call on the governor at once and ask for troops for protection against the acts of terror established in Jefferson parish, on the outskirts of the city.

A mass meeting of all colored citizens of the state has been called for Monday in this city, and from the indications serious trouble may be expected. Jefferson parish has been declared under martial law by its president, Judge Labarre, state democratic leaders and representatives are the leaders of the regulators, together with all other parish officials. All meetings were conducted outside the lines and ordered to remain away in the future. It is impossible to learn what is now going on, or whether the reign of terror has been captured or burned at the stake.

The line of sentinels along the city boundary has served to shots about midnight last night at persons who could not give a good account of themselves. It is believed that the state troops will be called out. Many of the white women and children from Jefferson have come to this city for refuge. Bloodhounds from the penitentiary were let loose in the swamps, where it is thought the murderers is hiding. A corps of reporters and five typewriters under the direction of Lafcadio Hearn are busily engaged in preparing the matter for the governor's proclamation.

Battle Between Blacks and Whites.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 21.—The negro Friends of Ned Cully, who was lynched a few days ago near Pineapple, in Dallas county, for criminally assaulting a white woman living there, made an attack upon the whites. From the best information received there was a regular battle. Two negroes were killed and several badly wounded. As far as can be learned none of the whites were seriously hurt. It is feared that there will be a general outbreak and race war. The negroes are procuring all the arms they can, and everybody is on the lookout.

There are but few whites in that section three-fourths of the population being colored. There is no telegraphic communication with Pineapple, and information so far is meager.

IRELAND'S FAITH.

The Archbishop Says the Parliamentary Plan Is Not a Failure.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 21.—Archbishop Ireland set at rest all question of the continuance or abandonment of the Parliament plan, and his affirmation of its continued life will be read with interest by thousands of interested educators and school theorists all over the broad land.

He says: "The Faribault plan lives and is stronger today in promise of future health than it has been any preceding time. It is true that in the case of the Faribault school there has been what I trust I may term a temporary suspension of the conditions of friendliness under which it was possible to inaugurate the plan, and this helps the case, the pastor of the church, Rev. J. J. Conroy, under advice from myself, has decided not to place his parish school for the coming year under the management of the public school board. But this is a mere local incident in the history and life of the plan.

"The Catholic church has made a long stride in the direction of peace and general understanding. The rumor spread around in some quarters that I advised the abandonment of the 'plan' in Faribault in obedience to instructions from Rome is utterly and absurdly false.

"It is, I think, my privilege to know all the mind at Rome on the school question in America, and I have never misrepresented it and never will misrepresent it to my fellow citizens of America. And to whatever happens in the one locality of Faribault, the 'Faribault plan' survives and inasmuch as it is an augury of an era of general peace and condition, its march shall ever be forward. It's but one part in the decided and official policy of the Catholic church in America to go onward, bearing in one hand the book of Christian truth and in the other the constitution of the United States."

Will Starve Rio Into Submission.

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 21.—Favorable news for the revolutionary party in Brazil has been received here. The rebels are becoming bolder and are pressing the advantages they have gained. It is reported that Admiral Mello has demanded the unconditional surrender of the city of Rio Janeiro. He threatens to renew the bombardment of the city unless his demands are complied with. The policy of Mello seems to be to starve Rio into submission by closing the opening fire on the city. All vessels with supplies are prevented from entering the city. For the present hostilities are suspended.

Almost Killed by a Rooster.

RED BANK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Percy, the 5-year-old child of Samuel Wolcott, who resides on Borden street, was attacked by a game rooster belonging to Alex Kingsbury, a neighbor, and nearly killed. The little fellow was in the yard of his home, and the rooster flew over the fence. The rooster was being chased, when it jumped on the child's head and sent its spurs into the right temple, piercing an artery and causing a flow of blood from the wound. The screams of the boy attracted his mother's attention, and she beat the bird off with a broom.

Affairs In Buenos Ayres.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 21.—Alarming reports are being received regarding the political situation. The cabinet held a protracted sitting, at which the existing state of affairs was earnestly discussed, but it is not known whether any set decisions were decided upon. The state of siege is being vigorously enforced. The national troops in Tucuman have remained with the revolutionists and have imprisoned the governor of the province.

New Jersey Bookmakers Indicted.

HACKENSACK, N. J., Sept. 21.—The Bergen county grand jury found over 30 indictments, chiefly against Fort Lee, and a number against the Fort Lee bookmakers. Evangelist Mason and Jane Howell of Park Ridge, the religious fanatics, are also said to have been indicted.

Iron Result the Magnificent.

CHICAGO, Sept. 21.—Champions Ives and Roberts, playing their six night international match at English billiards, finished one-half of the contest, the total score being: Ives, 3,061; Roberts, 2,500; and the score for the last night's play: Ives, 1,000; Roberts, 705.

Textile Workers to Organize.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 21.—There are indications that the textile workers of Lawrence will soon be organized into a compact labor body. Efforts are now making to bring the members of the city into closer relations with one another.

Their Wages Long Due.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., Sept. 21.—The Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company will start today to pay the delinquent employes their wages for the last half of August. The amount thus to be disbursed will foot up almost $400,000.

A Convention of Firemen.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The initial convention of the Firemen's Central association, embracing six counties of central New York, was held in the opera house here.

Blake Held Without Bail.

LOWELL, Mass., Sept. 21.—Patrick F. Blake, charged with the murder of Joseph Hermaux, was committed without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

A Good Revolver Score.

LONDON, Sept. 21.—Andrews of Woolwich, in a revolver contest at the London Rifle club, made 42 points, the highest possible score.

STRUGGLE FOR QUORUM

House Democrats Get One and Report Their Bill.

VOORHEES CALLS IN THE SENATORS

Both Houses of Congress Have a Lively Session—The Election Repeal Bill Finally Put Before the House After Persistent Filibustering.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21.—The federal election repeal bill has been reported and has been placed upon the calendar, but this action was taken only after a severe struggle, the Republicans seeking every parliamentary device to block its way.

But the Democrats were ready at every point to throw the obstructions off the track, and the way was finally made clear.

Mr. Reed, in commenting on the vote, said that he could not equal the fiery denunciations of the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. Bynum) against the rules of the fifty-first congress. He could he equal the choice epithets used four years ago by the gentleman from Kentucky (Mr. Breckinridge). He (Mr. Reed) was suffering from the fact that he was not backed up by such a chorus as had made the air vocal four years ago.

Mr. Reed's Sarcasm.

The members on the Republican side were too well educated to indulge in mere noise. [Laughter.] The Republican party in the fifty-first congress had made certain rules. First impressions were the most powerful. The Republicans today occupied an unusual position. They stood to win in any event. [Laughter.] The Democratic party had either to resort to everything they had denounced or to be beaten. [Laughter.] The Democrats had their choice between humiliation and defeat, and they had chosen humiliation. [Laughter.] They had deliberately settled themselves into the traces that they had affected to despise. Now gentlemen could look forward to the haven of rest. Not only had the house violated all the precedents of 100 years, but it had added a new zest to the occasion by violating all principles of parliamentary law. It had announced that committees could originate legislation. It had destroyed the sacred right of appeal, for which the present occupant of the chair had argued vigorously four years ago.

The Republicans had offered the majority, in good faith, an effective system by which it could control the business of the house without acts of violence. Instead of that, the majority wanted violence in each particular case. What a spectacle the house was presenting! The Democratic party was going through the valley of humiliation. [Republican applause.]

Mr. Dingley said that it was hardly worth while to say anything in vindication of the parliamentary rulings made by the speaker. It was cruel (sarcastically) of the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. Hoar) to state that they were in a state of humiliation. He (Mr. Catchings) had not discovered it himself. He thought that the Democrats were getting along pretty well. [Laughter.] The trouble with the gentleman from Maine was that he had discovered that there were other methods than those invented by him and his associates in the fifty-first congress by which the house could do business.

Lively In the Senate.

The proposition for such a change of the rules of the senate as would establish the principle of cloture was not made. Mr. Platt of Connecticut, who had given notice on Tuesday that he would propose that change, declined to do so because he did not wish to stand in the way of Mr. George of Mississippi, who wished to address the senate. It was that he would offer it at some future time.

Before he had the chance of making that announcement there had been a little unpleasantness between himself and Mr. Voorhees, who claimed the floor and intimated that the Connecticut senator should have asked him to yield it. He then yielded it without being asked, but not before Mr. Platt had suggested that it would be better if the senator from Indiana were a little kinder in his treatment of other senators.

Mr. George argued against the repeal bill, believing that it would be a leap in the dark, as likely to increase as to diminish the aggregate of the financial troubles. His speech was broken off by three roll calls of the senate, in the last of which Mr. Teller made a protest against his name being called after he had come into the chamber, he having been absent when it was first called. The vice president informed him that his name had been recorded as present, and that closed the incident.

Mr. George, although he had his speech prepared in advance, delivered it with all the impressiveness which he generally gives to his off hand speeches. He did not seem to trouble himself as to whether senators did or did not derive any instruction from his efforts, for once, when Mr. Call of Florida indicated an intention of calling the notice of the presiding officer to the fact that there were but few senators in the chamber, he was prevented by Mr. George himself, who told him that he was indifferent whether senators listened to him or not.

Nevertheless as he went along the silence of senators became too evident, and it required two roll calls to get a sufficient number of them into the chamber to constitute a quorum.

The quorum soon melted away again, but Mr. George took no heed of the fact, and he was allowed to go on with the reading of his speech without further interruption. Much of it was given to attacks up on the national banks and to a denunciation of the circular sent out from New York to states whose senators are opposed to the bill, recommending that "pressure" be applied to them.

No Quorum Present.

An interruption, however, finally did come. It was from Mr. Quay. He said that he noticed that while one of the strongest speeches was being made in the interest of silver states there was not a single senator from one of those states present.

"That makes no difference to me," Mr. George interposed resignedly.

"It seems to me," Mr. Quay insisted, "that a suggestion should be made that there is no quorum present."

The vice president directed that the roll be called. But 41 senators responded—two less than a quorum. Just then, however, Mr. Dubois entered the chamber, making the number 42. Mr. Teller also came in, and his name was called, but he did not respond.

Mr. Voorhees then rose and said: "There are but two ways under the constitution by which compulsion can be used in the senate of the United States. The one is to compel the attendance of absent senators; the other to keep order on the floor of the senate. I ask that the sergeant at arms be directed to enforce the attendance of absent senators."

Mr. Dolph suggested that the rule was to direct the sergeant at arms in the first instance to request the attendance of senators, and that there seemed to be a very great diversity of opinion whether, if the request were not complied with, there was power to compel attendance.

The vice president directed that the rule be read. In the meantime other senators came into the chamber, asked that their names be called, and they responded. The number present was then announced as 47.

Mr. Voorhees withdrew his motion as to the sergeant at arms, requiring the attendance of senators, and after further debate admitted that the senate had done a good day's work, and said that he would not ask it to sit later, but that he might ask it to sit to a later hour on Thursday. The senate then, after a short executive session, adjourned.

FIGHTING FOREST FIRES.

Lead City and Other Mining Towns Are Burning.

DEADWOOD, S. D., Sept. 21.—The forest fire which has been burning in this vicinity for 10 days reached Lead City. Help was requested from all neighboring towns, and 1,500 men battled with the fire. The city of 5,000 inhabitants seems to be doomed.

A bad fire is gaining great headway on top of the Black Tail divide, threatening Central City and the county poorhouse. One hundred men are engaged in fighting it.

At Near mountain a terrible state of affairs exists. The inhabitants of Terry, a mining camp of 500 persons, have left the town to the flames. Everything there will be a total loss, and the damage will amount to $60,000. The Buxton mill and dwelling house, valued at $12,000, were destroyed. The fire is raging with great fury over an area of seven miles long and six wide.

The Uncle Sam stamp mill and the town of Perry, 12 miles distant, have been destroyed.

A fire is burning at the fair grounds, two miles from here, and the stables, race track and other buildings will probably be destroyed. A train has just left here for Fort Mead to bring up three companies to aid the citizens in controlling the flames.

Suffering at Brunswick.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 21.—The board of health at their daily meeting pronounced that there were no new cases of fever developed in the last 24 hours and no deaths. Those stricken with fever are reported progressing favorably and have passed the crisis of danger. The weather continues very warm. The public relief committee is making heroic efforts to meet the demands of the poor and suffering, which are rapidly increasing. Unless aid is received from outside the situation will be alarming.

The Mineral Range Train Robbery.

HANCOCK, Mich., Sept. 21.—The latest developments in the Mineral Range train robbery indicate that the Pinkerton detectives have been spreading the story of the recovery of the stolen money in the hope of getting a confession as to its hiding place from some of the men under arrest. This scheme has evidently failed them. All the men arrested deny emphatically that they have made any confession. Of the 15 persons arrested for complicity in the robbery, only five are now in custody.

Six Persons Drowned.

COLLINGWOOD, Ont., Sept. 21.—A skiff which left here for Nottawasaga river with eight persons—namely, Walter Morris, his father, Alfred Woods, Woods' wife and mother, William Denby, James Denby, son of the former, and Constable Burrell—was struck by a squall and overturned. All but William Denby and the lad Burrell were drowned.

Burglars Get Rich Booty.

ALBANY, Sept. 21.—Burglars broke into William H. Stubbings' house, on the road leading to Lansing's Corner, back of Greenbush. They secured $13 from Mr. Stubbings' trousers and $3,000 which Michael McKeon, who resides in the family, had in a trunk in his room.

An Action For Trespass.

ELKTON, Md., Sept. 21.—Miss Annie Clark of Philadelphia has instituted suit for $10,000 against Alfred Fitler, a well known conveyancer of Philadelphia and standing high in business circles. The action is in trespass and said to be based upon an assault.

Napier Was Knocked Out.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 21.—The prize fight here between Vanhest and Napier at the Olympic club for a purse of $2,000 was won by Vanhest in the twenty-eighth round by a knockout blow in the stomach.

ANTI-PAPAL CRUSADE.

An Organizer Talks of Fighting by Ballots or Bullets.

ATTACKS ON PAPAL INFLUENCE.

The American Protective Association Said to Be Flourishing In Buffalo—Members Are Sworn In at the Dagger's Point and Promise to Shed Blood When Necessary.

BUFFALO, Sept. 21.—The American Protective association, the anti-Catholic secret society which has recently gained such a strong foothold in the west, is waging an active campaign in this city.

The first Buffalo council was organized last March, and now there are 800 members in a number of councils. Isaac Cluff, a Toronto Orangeman, was the organizer, and he is still the leading figure here. In an interview he said: "We are going to run this city just as the American Protective Association runs Kansas City, Detroit, Saginaw and other cities of the west. We are saying nothing until we have 5,000 members. Then we will show our hands.

An Anti-Catholic War.

"Our membership here includes the most prominent men, lawyers, doctors, merchants and even ministers. We propose to fight popery with ballots and if need be with bullets. Look at Buffalo's public schools. Over 80 per cent of the teachers are Roman Catholics. Inside of two years there will not be one Catholic teacher left. Almost every official and employee of the municipality and corporation of Detroit was a few years ago a Catholic. Now there are only two left in the city's employ.

"Look at the army of Roman Catholics about the Buffalo city hall. Within two years every department down there will be Protestantized. In New York another there will be a great turnover, and we are getting ready to leave every Catholic at home.

"Look at our army and navy being run entirely by Catholics, for some day I suppose they hope to use it. We think we can Protestantize the army and navy, but granted for argument's sake that Catholicism retains its grip on these two important branches of the service, then we have plenty of men who can bear the musket."

Mr. Cluff says the cross for membership is tremendous, 50 to 150 candidates being initiated every meeting night. The Rev. W. P. Odell, pastor of the Delaware Avenue Methodist church, is a member, but refuses to talk about the society.

The candidate for initiation, it is said, strips to the waist and is blindfolded. A running noose is attached to each ankle, and a loop tied in a hangman's knot is fastened about his neck.

An officer takes the end of the three ropes and walks in line. At the door the sergeant at arms and the guard each press a dagger against the candidate's breast. The sergeant at arms pricks the candidate's skin with the dagger point till a drop of blood falls.

A Bloody Initiation.

Then the guard says: "As your blood has now been shed by your endeavor to gain admission to our council, may it constantly remind you that you would rather shed your blood than see the flag of our nation torn from sea and the Romanists, and that you will shed your blood to check the diabolical attempt now being made by the Catholic hierarchy to capture our government and abolish our schools."

Impressive ceremonies follow, and at the close the president says:

"Permit me now to inform you that by your readiness and confident bravery you have saved your life. When you were presented at the entrance of the council, these daggers (producing them from the sergeant at arms and guard) were held against your throat and your heart. Had you attempted to rush forward, you would have been instantly killed. You observe the ropes hanging from your ankles and neck. Had you attempted to retreat, you would have been brought to the ground and strangled to death."

The oath is very formidable, especially in its provision for secrecy. Other parts of it are:

"I solemnly swear that I will never vote for a Roman Catholic seeking any office in the gift of the people, nor will I lend my support to any candidate who in any way is connected with the Roman Catholic interference with our national, state or municipal affairs.

"I swear that I will bear arms, should occasion arise, against my avowed enemies —the Roman Catholics."

CORBETT TALKS.

Says Any Man In the World May Take Mitchell's Place.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 21.—Immediately upon Charley Mitchell's arrival in New York a reporter visited James J. Corbett on his farm here. The champion was in when the correspondent called. When notified of Mitchell's arrival in America and his open declaration made to the effect that he would not fight Corbett at Coney Island under any circumstances, but only before the Crescent City or Columbian clubs, Corbett smiled and said:

"Well, it's only what I thought."

"Don't you think he is sincere?" was asked.

"Can any sensible man," replied Corbett, "think he is sincere when he prefers fighting in a bankrupt club in preference to a club such as the Coney Island organization, which has always paid up its purses and always had its contests take place without interference?"

Corbett was then asked what he contemplated doing in the matter. He answered: "I am simply going to keep on training, and will be on hand at the set date to fight Mitchell. If he flunks, any man in the world can take his place, bar none. That is all I desire to say concerning the matter. The public can judge for themselves."

Bismarck and the Emperor.

BERLIN, Sept. 21.—It is stated that Emperor William, upon hearing of Prince Bismarck's illness, sent a dispatch to the exchancellor from Guenes expressing his sympathy and offering him one of the imperial cars for a residence in view of the unfavorable climatic conditions in Friedrichsruhe. Prince Bismarck, it is said, sent a long telegram in response, in which he cordially thanked the emperor for his offer, but said he was obliged to decline it, as Dr. Schweninger, his physician, was opposed to his changing his residence.

Negro Workmen Mob Rides.

LITTLE ROCK, Sept. 21.—A carload of negroes arrived from Alabama at Coal Hill to work in the mines six miles west of that place. They were met at the depot by several hundred miners and farmers, all of whom were armed with shotguns and winchesters. They took the negroes from the cars and marched them to Atkins, the next station, and putting them on the regular passenger train sent them through to Coffeyville, Kan.

Hamilton Fish's Will.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Ex-Governor Hamilton Fish's will was filed for probate. Only three public bequests are made—one of $50,000 to Columbia college, another of $5,000 to St. Luke's hospital, and the third $2,000 to the Isabella Training School for Nurses. The residue is bequeathed equally to his six children.

Smallpox In New York.

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Twelve cases of smallpox were found in this city, two of those attacked having been physicians of a smallpox patient. They are Drs. Thomas E. Richards of 320 West Eleventh street and Dr. Charles Morris of Roosevelt hospital.

Trotting at Mystic Park.

BOSTON, Sept. 21.—The annual trotting meeting of the New England Trotting Horse Breeders' association, for which $20,000 will be awarded in prizes and purses, will open on Monday next at Mystic park, to continue five days.

What Randolph's Glycerole of Arnica IS

and What It Will Do

GLYCEROLE OF ARNICA is a liquid preparation scientifically prepared, a beautifier pure and simple, (IT IS NOT A WHITEWASH OR A GREASY PASTE,) is exceedingly healthful and absolutely imperceptible, except in the delicate freshness and youthfulness which it imparts to the skin.

GLYCEROLE OF ARNICA will remove TAN and SUNBURN, PIMPLES or BLOTCHES, and make your hands and face smooth and soft as a baby's.

Dyspepsias Should Try This.

A grower of pineapples claims valuable medicinal properties for the juice of that fruit, specifically asserting that it will cure indigestion, no matter how severe, and has proven itself to contain wonderful tonic and restorative qualities for a weak stomach. It relieves and, so to speak, warms and nurses the distressed organs.

ART FOR AMATEURS

CHINA PAINTING.

A Short Lesson Illustrated With a Simple Working Design.

One of the banes of the beginner in china painting is that the painting may become full of little specks, although there is apparently no dust in the room. The hard glaze of the china absorbs none of the paint, and the particles remain there when the others drawn them to it. If fired in this way, your work is spoiled. Learn to work smoothly with the least possible medium after your paints are prepared, and they will not "crawl." When they do, dry your piece in the oven, then with the needle remove the specks and careful y fill up the white spot with the point of your brush very lightly and matching the color perfectly.

If your colors remain dull and are liable to rub off, it must be that on each occasion the china was underfired, and the colors were not fused into the glaze. If tube colors are too thick, a little lavender oil, which partakes of the nature of spirits, is as good as anything for thinning. Turpentine also answers the purpose, but has the disadvantage of drying up too quickly through rapid evaporation.

Art Amateur, to which the foregoing practical advice is due, furnishes the dainty working design here given. A pale tint of either ivory yellow, chinese yellow, yellow brown or yellow green can be used for the background. When dry, the spaces for the flowers can be removed. For tinting the flowers use violets of gold, carmine and purple, with blue riche and occasional touches of blue bonnet. Shade with deep black, according to the depth of tint desired. As all violet tones appear redder after than before the fire, make necessary provision for the second firing before adding blue. When two firings are proposed, this addition is reserved for the second firing. Pure tints of red and of blue touched in separately produce the most vivid of purples. Dull secondary tints are obtained by mixing violet of iron with blue, but care should be taken not to mix this red with the oxides of gold. The inner and outer edges of this design can either be filled in with liquid gold or a mere line of gold can be used to separate the ground tint from a deeper shade of the same.

GOOD HEALTH

LEARN HOW TO REST.

Nothing So Becoming to Both Flesh and Spirit as Complete Fallowness.

The art is not good looks in a fine state indeed, and one that deserves the encouragement it seems to be getting on every side. Even those "aids to beauty"—in the shape of lotions, lemon water and skin soaps—so extensively urged upon womankind from the back pages of every magazine and pamphlet in the land, are not to be treated with topping scorn; they have their place and use in the general struggle for loveliness. But, continues a writer in Harper's Bazar, why not back up these efforts for comeliness by common sense conduct throughout each day's wear and tear?

To begin with, women sit too much, and women stand quite too much. Nothing is so wearisome as "standing about," even to the well trained body that has been drilled into good poise, and sitting is not restful, however cleverly women may delude themselves on this point.

The young girl who desires to keep away crowsfeet and that faded look we all know so well, and to retain the suppleness and adorable bloom of extreme youth, should when off parade or out of duty, as the case may be, and in her own room make a couch or the floor her habitual resting place.

Absolute repose comes to the tired muscles only when the body is in a reclining position, and absolute repose comes to the overstrung nerves only when the muscular system is perfectly at rest—relaxed.

The middle aged woman could, I am positive, won back much of the freshness and lithesomeness of girlhood if she would be as little prone to learn how to rest.

Five minutes of rest flat on one's back on the floor or on a hard, smooth couch are worth half an hour of so styled "rest" in an armchair or in that unreposeful tempter, the rocking chair.

Some one has said to the women of today, "Never stand when you can sit; never sit when you can lie down." This exhortation, applied with some elasticity, is the best recipe for beauty I know of.

While I have little sympathy with the gospel of laziness preached so consistently by some lives, I do recommend frequent daily lapses into complete fallowness.

Electricity For Lead Poisoning.

Professor Semmola of Italy has used the electric battery with splendid success in cases of metallic lead poisoning, found upon the well known fact that electricity promotes assimilation, he used the battery and found that under the influence of the current the lead oxides were driven off and passed away with the secretions. At the end of three months nearly all his patients could be dismissed as cured.

An Original Remedy.

The idea has been suggested that in certain well known conditions of hysteria a judicious and administered pinch of snuff might have a beneficial effect. Familiar to every one is the perverseness with which such hysterical attacks resist ordinary means of cure, and it is just possible that the queerer the remedy the more suitable it may prove.

THE MASONIC ORDER.

Its Origin and Early History, According to Various Accounts.

Some Masonic writers claim that the Masonic order was founded in Solomon's time, deriving its origin from the "Dionysiac fraternity" of architects and builders engaged in the construction of temples and theaters, a kind of whom worked upon the temple. A commonly accepted origin is found in the association of masons and builders during the middle ages. These associations had a regular government and ranged from country to country wherever they found churches to build. They enjoyed the special favor of the popes and were exempted from taxes and other burdens, from which comes the name "Free Masons." Men of eminence, both kings and prelates, joined the order, and the practical feature finally fell into abeyance.

Some writers claim that Masonry had its origin in 1646, being founded by an Englishman named Ashmole, from signs and symbols borrowed from the Knights Templars and Rosicrucians. In 1606 Sir Christopher Wren was appointed grand master of England, so that it must have had several lodges. In 1782 St. Paul's lodge of London was the only one or about the only one in England, and this lodge threw open the doors to other professions. In 1717 there were four lodges, and these formed the grand lodge. As thus organized it was transplanted to the continent. The first lodge of America is said to be that organized in Boston in 1733.

The Largest Statue In Precious Metal.

In the center of Montana's mineral exhibit at the Columbian exposition the chief of all attraction stands the silver statue of Justice, the largest figure ever cast in any precious metal, so far at least as revealed in the annals of history, ancient or modern. Justice stands with one foot on a globe, and the entire outline of the splendid and massive figure gives the idea of a forward movement. The goddess wears a tunic which drapes the figure from the swelling breast to a point just below the knee, but the sculptor's work has revealed every line of the nether limbs. The left arm holds aloft the historic scales, and the right grasps firmly the familiar two edged sword, which points downward at an angle of 45 degrees. The expression of the face is grave, but gracious. The tunic, or rather the drapery, with its metal girdle, is Grecian.

The figure rests upon the back of a Montana eagle, also of solid silver. From the eagle to the top of Miss Ada Rehan's head the statue measures 9 feet and rests upon a plinth of solid gold, the base being formed of mineral bearing rock. The whole has a heighth of 15 feet. The Jewelers' Circular, which illustrates and describes this interesting production, further notes the fact that the bandage has been removed from the eyes of Justice, who, for no satisfactory reason, has grouped her way in darkness for 200 years or more. The first sculptors, the earliest painters, the primeval wood engravers, all depicted Justice with very wide open eyes.

The School Exhibition.

Oh, the old school exhibitions, will they ever

With the good, old fashioned speaking from

The girls and boys so plain?

Will we ever hear them with his rapid roll and sweep,

And "Pitching the fearful night; there's danger on the deep?"

Sweet Mary doesn't raise her lambs like Mary did of old;

Their fleece is not "as white as snow," they're far more frisky bold.

The boy upon the "burning deck" is not content

half so long,

He was not "born at Bingen—at Bingen on the Rhine!"

The girl's don't speak in calico, the boys in cotton jeans,

They've changed the old-time dramas 'long with the old time scenes.

They smile and speak in ancient Greek in brocade cloth and lace,

And you can't half see the speaker for the collar round his face!

Oh, the old school exhibitions! They're gone

The old schoolhouse is deserted, and the grass has choked the door,

And the wind sweeps round the gables with a low and mournful whine,

For the old boys "born at Bingen—at Bingen on the Rhine!"

Statistics of Suicide.

Suicide statistics, as recently published by an English doctor, show that taking the entire population of the world there is an attempt made every three minutes on an average by some one to take his own life. It seems that Saxony is the quarter of the globe where most suicide is the most popular, the ratio there being 66 suicides in 1,000,000 deaths. Portugal, on the other hand, occupies the first place for infrequency of self destruction, the proportion there being only 16 to 1,000,000.

Practical, Though Poetical.

She who never answers till her husband cools,

Or, if she rules him, never shows she rules,

Charms by accepting, by submitting sways.

Yet has her humor most when she obeys.

To Sick Students.

Mrs. President Dwight, of Yale college, originated the idea of a "Yale home" for students who may need medical care or nursing. Mrs. Dwight, with the assistance of many ladies of New York, among them Mrs. William C. Whitney, obtained funds for the erection of the building. There every student who is ill can be under the care of a matron and physician, and receive all the attention which could be given him at his home.—Boston Woman's Journal.

Lady Tennyson's Culinary Skill.

Lady Tennyson has always been a notable housekeeper. Early in his married life her husband said jestingly that should literature fail to support them he could keep his family from poverty by her culinary skill, and he added, "I am sure the Tennyson tea biscuit would prove a success." Before her marriage Lady Tennyson was Miss Emily Sellwood. She was a niece of Sir John Franklin.—Exchange.

ABOUT A HORSE TRADE

THE SUITS ARISING OVER A NOTE GIVEN TO BALANCE.

Mr. Seguine, Sr., Says his Son Owns all the Property Seized as his and Sold to Satisfy a Debt of $65.—The Jury Says so, Too; and Now Young Seguine Sues the Creditors.

Some time ago Mr. A. Seguine, Sr., traded horses with a dealer named Fosher, giving his note for $65 for a balance due in the trade.

Mr. Seguine says that the horse was guaranteed to be neither a runaway nor a kicker, but proved to be both. He refused to pay the note, in consequence, and wanted to return the horse.

He says that Mr. Fosher told him to keep the note until due and that they would split the difference on the price, when they came to settle. This seemed to have been satisfactory.

Meanwhile Mr. Fosher moved away, and later placed the note in a lawyer's hands for collection.

The lawyer got a judgment and levied on property supposed to belong to Mr. Seguine.

Then suit was brought to show that the property sieged did not belong to Mr. Seguine, Sr., but to Mr. Seguine, Jr., and the evidence convinced the court and jury that this was the fact.

Not content with this, Fosher's lawyer directed the constable to make another levy, which he did. Mr. Seguine, Jr., again gave the constable notice that the property was his, and applied to Justice Nash through his lawyers, Jackson & Angleman, for a jury to try the right of property.

This case was set down for a hearing this afternoon.

BREVITIES.

—At the "Bee Hive" a special sale of ladies, men's and children's underwear is now in progress.

—The Union County Christian Endeavor Union will hold its conference at the First Baptist church, to-night.

—Counsel on both sides agreeing, the case of Smith vs. Lederer, a suit for wages, which was to have been tried to-day, was postponed for two weeks.

—Justice Nodyne has issued summons in the case of Coriell vs. Panebors, landlord and tenant, returnable Sept. 25; and Drake vs. Elliott, on contract, returnable Sept. 25.

—The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal church will hold its first sociable this evening in the Vincent chapel. All members and friends will be welcome.

—Mr. White says that this evening and to-morrow there will be a very handsome display of the latest novelties in millinery in his show windows and suggest that the ladies be sure and see it.

Mr. George W. Moore, of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., who attended the Gettysburg re-union, returned home last night. Mr. Augustus Fraser, who also accompanied the veterans, stopped off at Washington.

—There was a cake walk at T. A. B. hall, on West Sixth street last night. The affair wound up, it is said, with a fight. A special policeman was assigned to do duty there during the evening, but no arrests were made.

"Holy Cross Unhappy Still."

Under the above heading the New York Herald of to-day gives over a half column about the Holy Cross church and its ex-choirmaster, Mr. Miner. The article says:

"Recently the vestry received a petition asking that the ex-choirmaster and a committee of the petitioners be granted a hearing for the discussion of his case. Tenor Clark, who had been absent from the choir after Mr. Cheswright's first Sunday in charge, wrote to the precentor asking if the Holy Cross intended to pay him for his services if he continued to sing in the choir. He intimated, too, that he had an offer elsewhere. Mr. Cheswright wrote in reply to Tenor Clark saying that as he had no fund at his command for the engaging of singers he was unable to spoil himself of any but free tenors. Mr. Clark, therefore, retired. The vestry decided that it would be unwise to grant a hearing at which there should be any general discussion of Mr. Miner's case. They forwarded to him and to the petitioners copies of their resolution, which denied a hearing to a committee of the parishoners, but offered one to Mr. Miner if he desired to come alone."

At the same meeting of the vestry it was unanimously decided to discharge Mr. Miner, which was done accordingly as he was so notified.

In the City Court.

A HEARTY WELCOME.

A RECEPTION AT THE W. C. T. U. ROOMS YESTERDAY.

Miss Peck, the New President, Greeted with Smiling Faces and Words of Cheer—A Large Attendance of Members.

EARTY, indeed, was the welcome accorded Miss Peck, the new President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, by the members, at the reception in their rooms, yesterday afternoon.

There was a very large attendance, the room being filled.

Mrs. Tomlinson, the retiring president, welcomed her successor in a few remarks appropriate to the occasion, and presented the gavel to her. This gavel was presented to the Union by Miss Yates, who procured it in a foreign country.

Miss Peck, in accepting the token, said in part:

"FRIENDS AND SISTERS:—I said to a lady friend before the meeting, 'If they only make me spunky I shall get through all right.' I can't stand sympathy, and the speech I am making is not what I intended to say. I think the story of a United States Senator fits my case exactly. It was during 1874 that a Senator in Michigan was called to his home above. He was a lovely man, Christian-like and noble. When the Michigan State Senate assembled not long afterwards, the first business to be done was the election of a successor to the deceased United States Senator. They could not agree upon a successor, and ballot after ballot was taken, with no result. One after one the men dropped out of the race, and finally an old judge was prevailed upon to accept the nomination. The judge was a 'dark horse,' and he was to be the deceased Senator's successor. This is my case exactly. I feel that I am the 'dark horse.' I was only a resident of Plainfield two weeks when your nominating committee came to me and asked me to accept the nomination of president of your society.

"I am deeply interested in W. C. T. U. work, but I have only been in Plainfield so short a time that I haven't had a chance to make myself acquainted with your work. My work has been exclusively among the children. I feel that the only way to reach the parents is through the children. The child comes to us and learns scientific temperance. She talks about it at home and talks as we have the mother and then the father. There is a certain set of society that you can't reach except through the children. Thousands of dollars are annually needed to carry on our work. We need a man from Texas, then go north to him afterward. The poor this Winter will have a harder time than ever to get along. If we help and feed them, we can then preach to them. To save men's souls we must put bread in their stomachs.

"I feel that you have given me a great opportunity to benefit myself in W. C. T. U. work, in selecting me for president. It will bring me in contact with work entirely new to me."

Mrs. Cowie & Halifax, who is visiting Mrs. Tomlinson, favored the ladies with a Scotch medley. Refreshments were then served.

The Reception Committee is composed of Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, chairman; Miss Anna Boice, Mrs. Carman Parse, Mrs. Clinton Randolph, Mrs. Martin P. Cooley and Miss Minnola Tomlinson.

PERSONAL.

Miss Susie Woodland of Dover street has returned from a visit at Madison.

Miss Edith Clapp of Mercer avenue has gone to Asbury Park for two weeks.

Mr. Crouch, of the choir of the First Presbyterian church, will sing tenor solos at the Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday, at 4.15 p. m.

Mr. J. M. Bettman of Willow avenue is adding to the appearance of his house, by having a large porch erected reaching across the front and around both sides of the house.

Mr. George Smith and Miss Lizzie Van Fleet, both of the borough, were married at the home of the bride's parents, on Somerset street, Saturday night. The Rev. Mr. Bowers performed the ceremony.

Miss Minnie Wilson, of "Tunlaw," North Plainfield, starts Saturday for a sojourn of several weeks with friends in Philadelphia. Miss Wilson will be bridesmaid at the wedding of her friend Miss Arnold, a very charming young lady of the Quaker City.

Gus Williams in "April Fool."

There were many vacant seats at Music Hall last evening, but those persons who attended seemed to thoroughly enjoy the farce "April Fool."

It might be described as a lot of nonsense, jumbled together and well acted. Mr. Williams and "Sammy Spriggs" (manager's own boy) received several encores.

On Saturday the Boston Bowling Green Club will be at Dunellen and will probably play two games. They will contest with the Dunellen Club in the morning and with the Middlesex Club in the afternoon.

THEIR OPENING CONCERT.

A Delightful Entertainment at Evans Last Night.

The opening concert in the new Sunday-school room and parish building of the Church of the Heavenly Rest at Evans, last night, proved very successful. The platform was beautifully decorated, with rubber trees, palms and flowers.

Mayor Saunders of North Plainfield made an address in which he said the action of the parishioners in erecting a reading room was the best kind of Christianity. It would bring people together and provide a place for their entertainment.

In part two the Mayor gave a recitation. He was compelled to respond to an encore. The building was completely filled with a very enthusiastic and appreciative audience. The programme was as follows:

The Salvation Army.

At the banquet which lasted from 6.30 to 7.30 o'clock at the Salvation Army Hall last night, about 200 people sat down to the tables, which were in charge of Capt. Bull, Mrs. E. P. Stevens, Mrs. Christofferson, Mrs. Pentagrer, Miss N. Christofferson, assisted by a number of the soldiers. After the banquet the officers and soldiers mustered for a march through the principal streets, stopping and forming a ring opposite the North avenue depot with a carriage in the center containing Major Evans and wife, Major Chatterton and Staff Capt. Keith. A song was sung, after which Major Evans spoke. He told how four years ago he came to this city, looking for a hall. He was unable to get one, until about two years ago. He told of how the division had grown in a short time and what they were doing in the different cities. Adjutant Hunter, of the South New Jersey district, then gave an invitation for all to follow to the hall, closing by prayer. There were between 80 and 90 in the line of march. The meeting was opened by Major Evans. Staff Captain Keith prayed, followed by Captain York. Adjutant Hunter next announced a solo from the War Cry, entitled "The Victors Song" by Capt. Evans of Jersey City, after which she gave a few words of her experience.

"Under the good old army flag" was then sung by the congregation after which Andrew Crawford, a candidate from Toronto, Canada, spoke.

Adjt. Hunter made the announcements, after which Capt. Marsh from Peekskill spoke a few words.

Major Chatterton of New York city then appealed to the people for a collection, which was heartily responded to.

To-morrow night and all day Sunday Col. Wm. Evans and Capt Taylor from New York will have charge of the meetings here.

To-Night's Programme.

Base Ball Notes.

The batting order for to-morrow's game will be as follows:

Crescents—Smith, s.s.; Martin, 3b.; Snedeu, 2b.; Mofadoe, l.f.; Jones, 1b.; Rafferty, c.; Keenan, p. & 3b.; McLoughlin, c.f. p.; Townley, r.f.

Montclair Athletic Club—Weeks, s.s.; Terry, p.; Burdock, 2b.; Sobalk, 1b.; Keinath, l.f.; Blatz, c.; Burger, r.f.; Hallock, c.f.; Lounsbery, 3b.

The veteran "Jack" Burdock, formerly of the Boston league team, plays second base for the Montclairs, and Terry, of the Brooklyns, will pitch for them.

A large crowd will no doubt attend the game to-morrow to give the players a good send off.

"Ran" Townley will play the out field, as Heckman will not be able to play.

The Montclairs have been putting up good ball and have beaten both the Orange Athletic Club and the Orffanis of Hackensack.

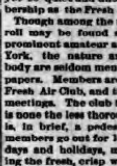
The Weather.

The weather reports indicate fair to partly cloudy weather, warm, humid and hazy, with moderate southerly to southeasterly breezes.

HUNTING FRESH AIR.

THE FRESH AIR CLUB TO VISIT THIS VICINITY.

An Organization of Persons whose Love of Nature and of the Original Form of Exercise Practiced by Adam Makes Them a Congenial Body.—Little Jaunts of 20 and 30 Miles.



AN organization known as the Fresh Air Club, incorporated by the laws of New York is one that comparatively few people know anything about, though it enjoys the distinction of being the only body of its kind holding a charter in the State, and one of very few in the country. It would be exceedingly difficult to find another group of any character with such an enthusiastic and yet so quiet and unostentatious a membership as the Fresh Air Club possesses.

Though among the names on the club's roll may be found some of the most prominent amateur athletic men in New York, the nature and purpose of the body are seldom mentioned in the newspapers. Members are not sought in the Fresh Air Club, and there are no dues or meetings. The club has no home, but it is none the less thoroughly organized. It is in brief, a pedestrian club, and its members go out for long walks on Sundays and holidays, more especially during the fresh, crisp weather of Autumn and early Winter.

The organization includes that veteran athlete, Mr. W. B. Curtis who is also known as the editor of The Spirit of the Times. He is the president of the club.

The object stated in the articles of incorporation was the encouragement and promotion of outdoor sport for health and pleasure. The constitution and bylaws have never been published. The only provision for membership is that the applicant be a good walker and consented to the membership of the club. Any one who wishes to join may obtain an invitation to go on one of the trips with the party, and if he make a good showing may be asked to go on others.

"A pedestrian club does not sound very imposing, but when it comes to keeping up with the processions, that start out from New York every Sunday, rain or shine, it is another matter. The plans for the season are made several weeks before the first walk, which takes place this year on Sept. 24. The schedule is given out to members and contains directions for getting to the rendezvous which is usually by train.

The start is generally made after breakfast, in time to catch a train about nine o'clock for the point agreed upon for the beginning of the trip. Every one is told to wear old clothes, that will stand dust and rain, and comfortable, heavy-soled shoes. Those who know, take along a "snack" in the shape of sandwiches, or candies, or some like refreshment, in their pockets, for a hotel is seldom passed, or, if reached at all, it is generally at an unseasonable hour.

When the club starts out in earnest, the man who knows the road best generally leads in the van, and the others string out in go-as-you-please fashion behind. It is decidedly a congenial crowd, and frequent stops are made to survey the views. There is no rule for distance, but the trip is rarely shorter than ten or more than thirty miles. About twenty is the average.

To a person of vigorous health and muscular body and a temperament to enjoy nature's beauties, long cross country walks are a source of unalloyed pleasure.

The programme for Sunday's walk is as follows:

Sept. 24—Liberty Street Ferry at nine a. m. single ticket to Bound Brook. The route will include Chimney Rock, Martinsville, Mt. Horeb, Dock Watch Hollow Warrensville, Washington Rock and Plainfield, which will be reached in time for the train arriving in New York City at 6.45 p. m. Those who find the trip too short will keep on to Rahway or Elizabeth, meeting trains which reach New York City at 5.35 p. m. or 6.38 p. m.

Stacks of Cornstalks Burned.

Several stacks of cornstalks, belonging to a farmer near Hillside Cemetery, were burned last night. It is supposed they were set on fire. The reflection could be plainly seen in this city. It was thought at first the fire was in the city limits. No alarm was sounded.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the regular meeting of Iona Council, No. 14, D. of P., held Sept. 20, 1893, the following resolutions were adopted:

Resolved, That while we bow in humble submission to the will of Him who doeth all things well, we deeply deplore our loss, and extend to the family of our deceased sister our sympathy in their hour of affliction.

Resolved, That in our material sorrow for the loss of a sister, we find consolation in the belief that it was well for her whom we mourn, and that she was more than ready for the summons.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the minutes of our regular meeting, and that a copy of our sympathy and sorrow be forwarded to the family of our departed sister, by the Keeper of Records, and entered in the records.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Old Ballads and Old Hymns.

The world has advanced rapidly in the last half century, but it has not been in the direction of popular ballads and hymns. If, returning from a summer outing, a party of weary picnickers wish to while away the hour of the homeward ride by singing some popular air that all know and love, it is not "Ta-ra-ra" or "The Man From Monte Carlo" they choose. No; it is "Annie Laurie," "Sweet Home," "Bonnie Doon" or "Way Down Upon the Swanee River" that, with a musical instinct truer than they know, they strike up by silent mutual consent. Not one of these sweet airs was written less than a generation ago. Most of them were composed two and three generations ago.

Other songs have been constructed in the meantime, thousands of them, some of them really musical and taking, but without exception they die out after the hand organs have got hold of them and begin to grind them out upon the air of the street. That is a true test of a ballad—to sustain the trial of the street organ. Most of the ballads of the present day are of the trifling, catchy kind that are on everybody's lips for a few weeks and then are never heard again. In this respect they are kindred to popular slang, which is born in the same mental atmosphere.

If you pass a church on prayer meeting night and listen to the hymns sung, you will observe they are the identical tunes that rolled upward in mighty billows of sweet sound from the grand congregations to which the grandmothers and grandfathers of this generation belonged. Other hymn tunes have been written, possibly some good ones, yet when the tired, overstrained soul would pour out in devotion its deepest, most intense feeling it still instinctively falls back upon the sweet old words:

> There I can bathe my wearied soul
> In seas of heavenly rest.

It is a fact profoundly expressive of present day desire that the thousands of excursionists returning of a summer evening upon the decks of the steamboats from Coney Island and elsewhere in the vicinity of New York city sing night after night:

> Jesus, lover of my soul,
> Let me to thy bosom fly.

From the starlit air to the waves, from the murmuring waves to the shore, is carried the longing cry of the nineteenth century soul for rest.

The Fruit Season.

The grape season is on. Eat grapes, ripe, sound ones, in abundance. Many people eat a bunch of the whole breakfast often and nothing else and feel the better for it. Don't be afraid of them. The grape cure in Europe frequently causes a man's dyspepsia and dumps to flee away forever, and he feels as though he were made over again and were walking on air. It will do the same in America.

If anything is certain, it is that the food of civilization is changing somewhat, particularly in America. The heavy, stuffy, greasy foods of our ancestors are giving way to those which are lighter, more nourishing and more quickly digested. The American cannot afford to spend six hours digesting his dinner when he wants all the blood he can get for use in his brain to invent new machines, to write or to plan out commercial enterprises. Life is too short to give so many of the 24 hours up to the stomach.

Therefore fruit, and a quantity of it, takes the place of sausage, "biled dinners," mince pie and green pork, or even the time honored sheet iron sandwich. Try well. Man's stomach thanks him. The attention of economists, too, is recently called more and more to the limitless possibilities for food of the best quality for man that lie in nut culture.

One more terror has been added to arguments which persuade us that life is not worth living. It is the opera glass cameo. You see a beautiful young lady viewing you steadily through a little fieldglass. You are flattered and fancy she thinks she has seen you before and wants to renew the acquaintance. Never mind. She is only taking your picture. She has snapped the camera on you unawares, that, too, when the creases are out of your trousers and you are still wearing that shocking old summer hat.

Again it is the glorious season of the year for walking parties. Select objective points of historic and picturesque natural interest in your neighborhood from three to ten miles away, organize a jolly picnic at least twice a month, say of a Saturday afternoon, and take the road with your friends in the bracing autumn air. A late September or October vacation, with a walking tour lasting a week or more, is well worth working and waiting for.

Old English reporters that have written accounts of horse races for the London papers for years never bet on the animals. They have learned that the man who plays the races always loses more than he wins in the long run.

One is sorry to learn that the Woman's Baking association of Chicago has failed, and sorrier yet to find that somebody has even cooked up a charge of extravagance and mismanagement in regard to it.

The First American Immigrants.

Some people have been curious to know when the first Irishman came to America. They may or may not be surprised to find that the exact date, corrected to suit the modern style of reckoning, was Oct. 21, 1492. There was an Irishman on board the Columbus fleet that discovered the western world. It will be 400 years this coming Oct. 21 when the first Irishman set foot in America. Irish occupancy therefore antedates both that of Knickerbocker and Puritan. The Irish are our real old families. It may be mentioned that one of Columbus' sailors was an Englishman. There were two Italians besides Columbus—Genoese sailors—but all the rest were Spaniards. It is a curious turn of fate that the nationalities that were least represented in those ships of discovery are now the ones, with their descendants, that mainly own and people North America.

Sept. 18 will be the day, 400 years ago, when the sailors of Columbus had their last sight of land in Europe. Nowadays the trouble would have been to keep the men back, and even the women who want to go out and discover new worlds. But it was not like that in the day of Columbus. He could scarcely get sailors at all to man his three little crafts, the largest, the flagship, being only ninety feet long. The ninety men who constituted the crew had been secured partly by the amiable press gang system in vogue in those days. Many of them, too, were criminals who had been pardoned on condition that they go on the expedition. A jolly lot they must have been. Columbus inaugurated among them the original American plan of doctoring the returns. He dared not let them know how far the ships sailed during the voyage, or they would have thrown him overboard and turned the ships' noses the other way. So he doctored the logbook and made it announce that they had sailed 560 miles less than they actually had done. Meantime he kept up their spirits, this adroit "Admiral Don Cristobal Colon," by scattering among the sailors the following proclamation:

> When our Beloved sovereigns honored me with the commission of admiral and viceroy in those secret seas toward which we are now steering, I considered it as the most glorious and joyful event of my life, as I now consider this moment, which seems painful to some of you, as second to it only in joy. The end of our voyage is Cathay, a country known to lie in the uppermost eastern extremity of Asia, whither it has been sought by Christian travelers. Our voyage is different from all others in the circumstance that we go west, not east. I act in full confidence that the earth is round, whence it follows that the Atlantic must have a western boundary at which we will go sail eastern, and certain calculations make it certain that this western boundary, which is Cathay, cannot be more than thirty days' sailing from us.

Now Cathay abounds with gold and gems and silks and merchandise more than any land, however wealthy, in all Europe. Of the advantages of reaching such a country ye may judge readily. Going not as invaders, but as Christian friends, we will meet the most friendly receptions and be laden with presents. I speak with confidence in the honor of doing the first to carry the cross to the heathen world. Neither the church nor its great Master forgets the service who advance the cross, and we may count on blessings both now and hereafter.

A more striking mixture of shrewdness, avarice, hypocrisy and piety can scarcely be found in history than this proclamation. To further keep up the spirits of the crew they were reminded of Queen Isabella's promise of a pension of "10,000 maravedis" ($120) a year to the man who should first see land. By the corrected chronology 2 o'clock in the morning, Oct. 21, will be the anniversary of the exact hour, 400 years ago, when the first actual land of the New World was seen and by a common sailor, Rodrigues Triana. But poor Rodrigues was cheated out of his pension after all, and it was given to the great Columbus himself, because he thought he saw a light at 10 o'clock the night of the 20th, four hours earlier. Thus again was verified Miss Sniffkin's scripture quotation, "Them that has gits."

Why should not the bicycle sulky become the pattern for all trotting wagons, modified according to the various needs? It is claimed that this sulky helped Nancy Hanks two seconds by its superior model and construction. The main difference between it and the old fashioned sulky is that the axles have ball bearings like the wheels of a bicycle, and that its wheels have the pneumatic tire. This tire is practically a rubber cushion inflated with air, and fitted to the sulky tire. Another difference is that instead of high wheels the new sulky has two low wheels built like those of the safety bicycle. The driver's seat is high, about on a level with the horse's tail, and he is perched a considerable distance above the low wheels. The low safety bicycle wheel has been adopted because it is a fact that the fastest bicycle time has been made on the safety and not the high wheel. It is doubtless only a question of a little time when all trotting sulkies will be made on the bicycle pattern. But why cannot we have carriages with steel wheels and ball bearing axles and pneumatic tires?

The new bicycle sulky with low wheels does not compel the driver to lean forward and sideways to balance himself when passing a turn. He can sit upright all around the track.

It is pleasant to know that our sister republic, France, approved heartily the measures taken here to keep out cholera, and that she co-operated thoroughly at her end of the line.

The great American spitter scourge is spreading through the land alarmingly. Its victims are found most frequently on street cars and railway cars and along the main lines of travel.

CLOSURE IN THE SENATE

Mr. Platt of Connecticut Makes the Proposition.

STRONG OPPOSITION STIRRED UP.

The House Will Allow Two Weeks For Debate, on the Election Law Repeal Bill, and a Vote Will Be Taken Oct. 30—Many New Councils Named by the President.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22.—The first hour of the session of the senate was occupied in a discussion of the resolution offered by Mr. Platt of Connecticut for the establishment of a closure rule. Mr. Platt made such a strong and clear argument to show the necessity for such a rule that Mr. Voorhees felt called upon to express the debt which the senate and the country owed to him for it.

The junior senator from Massachusetts, Mr. Lodge, also supported the proposed rule, although he foresaw that it would place in the hands of the Democratic majority the power to pass bills changing the tariff and repealing the federal election laws. He insisted that if senatorial courtesy permitted unlimited debate the courtesy must be reciprocal and must permit votes to be taken.

Votes Must Be Had For Auditors.

Amendments to Mr. Platt's resolution were offered by Mr. Hoar and Mr. Hill, and the resolution went over until today, when Mr. Teller will argue against it.

The repeal bill was then taken up, and an argument against it made by Mr. White of Colorado, who spoke for over four hours. Any of the Democratic senators gave him an attentive hearing, but nine-tenths of the seats on the Republican side of the chamber were vacant during most of the speech. Mr. Voorhees took his seat, and after Mr. George declined to go on with his speech in the evening, a motion was made by Mr. Voorhees to lay on the table Mr. Platt's closure resolution to bill.

The motion was opposed by the minority, who resorted to filibustering. After an all night session in that way Mr. Voorhees withdrew his motion, but the general discussion went on until 7:30, when the senate adjourned.

The journal of Wednesday's proceedings in the house was not approved until the hour of adjournment. Mr. Reed discovered some flaws in it and called the speaker's attention to them. They were attributable to the journal clerk, the speaker not having had an opportunity to examine the journal, and placed the speaker in a rather awkward position.

In his decisions on Wednesday he studiously refrained from declining to recognize motions because they were "dilatory" motions, but because they were "motions." Mr. Reed thought that the entries of the clerk were proper, even though they might not be accurate ones. The question of approving the journal was postponed, but later in the day was agreed to.

Two Weeks For Debate.

In the meantime the committee on rules reported a resolution providing for the consideration of the federal election law on the first Monday in September, the debate to continue until Oct. 10, when a vote should be taken. After a brief discussion the resolution was adopted.

A report from the committee on accounts, assigning the committees that should be entitled to session clerks, was taken up, but without disposing of it the house adjourned.

Among the bills introduced in the house were the following:

By Mr. Rayner: To amend the interstate commerce act so as to authorize the issue of interchangeable 5,000 mile mileage tickets, with special baggage privileges attached and for the especial benefit of commercial travelers.

By Mr. Somers: Appropriating $175,000 for the construction of a revenue cutter on the great lakes.

By Mr. Smith: For the admission of Arizona into the Union as a state.

DUEL WITH SABERS.

A Chicago Man and a Philadelphia Man Fight Over a Pretty Cousin.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—A duel was fought at Cheltenham beach, 15 miles south of Chicago, the combatants being William Fickler of 54 Oakwood boulevard and a Philadelphia man. The latter received an ugly wound in the left shoulder, while Fickler escaped unhurt. The trouble was caused by a woman. Her name is withheld by Fickler, who admits fighting the duel. Fickler also refuses to tell the name of the man with whom he fought, but says he was a cousin of the lady.

A friend of Fickler's from Philadelphia, whom he declares is not Frank Keefe, came to Chicago a month ago to see the World's fair. He was accompanied by a party of relatives, among whom was the pretty girl cousin about whom the trouble arose. She was engaged to be married to a man in Philadelphia. It is said, but the engaged lover mysteriously stayed behind. Mr. Fickler met her, and according to the idea of her male cousin became too attentive.

He remonstrated with the Chicago man, but it appears was not satisfied with the latter's conduct even after his reproaches had been made. The Philadelphia man finally brought things to a climax by challenging Fickler to fight a duel.

Fickler accepted the challenge, and, being the challenged party, chose swords. Accompanied by their seconds, both men went to a secluded spot at Cheltenham beach and prepared to settle the matter by the light of the moon. The cousin of the girl was excited, but determined. Fickler was the more adept of the two with the sabers and contended himself with parrying his foe's thrusts and blows until assured by the latter's determined onslaughts that he meant to draw blood before he was satisfied. Fickler then slipped his sabre across the weapon of his foe and pressed the point into his shoulder. That ended the affair.

The Philadelphia man lowered his saber and drew back, the blood flowing from the wound in his shoulder. His second came up and asked both parties if they were satisfied. They were. Fickler, before leaving for the city, assured his adversary that he was entirely mistaken in the idea that he (Fickler) was trying to steal away the heart of another man's promised bride. The wounded man was taken to his room in Chicago, where his shoulder was dressed, and then he and his friends, including the fair cousin, started for Philadelphia.

Murderous Assault With a Screwdriver.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Christian Moss, carpenter, who lives at 678 East One Hundred and Forty-third street, is lying at the point of death in St. Vincent's hospital as a result of injuries inflicted by a fellow workman, Jacob Schoenenberger of Brooklyn. Schoenenberger accused Moss of having taken into his tool chest and stolen some tools. Schoenenberger then picked up an 18 inch screwdriver and struck Moss with it on top of the head. Then Schoenenberger left Moss for dead. He is by planning a sharp pointed awl into his breast. His fellow workmen, however, seized him before he could kill himself outright. He was arrested and held without bail.

The Revolt in Buenos Ayres.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 22.—The situation here remains critical. Thirty conspicuous radicals have been arrested. The national troops in the long disturbed province of Corrientes have gone over to the insurgents. The iron gunboats Bermejo and Rosabiles, stationed in the Parana river, have joined the insurgent naval forces. The president has ordered that the whole national guard be mobilized throughout the country to stop the progress of the revolt.

ALL QUIET AT ROANOKE.

After Lynching and Burning Smith the Mob Dispersed.

THE MAYOR IN TEMPORARY EXILE.

After Being Hunted by the Excited Mob He Was Taken Away by His Friends. Police Officials Suspended and the Militia Disbanded.

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 22.—The town is quiet now, and all last night the streets were almost deserted. This condition is in marked contrast to the hours just previous, when a mob was in possession of the city, and during which time Robert Smith, the negro who assaulted Mrs. Henry Bishop and in the riot over whom a number of citizens were shot, was hanged.

While J. Allen Watts, Judge Woods and others were addressing the crowd, Sergeant Griffith, with two officers, had taken the negro from the jail and spirited him out of town. They carried him around to a street in the woods, but toward daylight they were notified that squads of men were scouring the adjacent country. They thought it best to bring their prisoner back to town and place him in jail.

The Body Bullet Riddled.

They were proceeding to the jail when a squad of men, about 30 in number, rushed upon them and took the prisoner. With shouts and yells the determined men took the negro to the nearest tree. He was hanged to a hickory limb and his body riddled with bullets and horribly mangled.

With the break of day crowds of people began to throng the streets leading to the scene of the latest tragedy. Dangling at the end of a small hemp rope was the body of the negro. His face was bloody, distorted and swollen. A load of shot had been fired into his back, literally tearing his coat to pieces. The rope was tied in a regulation hangman's knot, and the negro's feet were well above the ground.

Governor Grey and a party arrived early on the scene of the lynching, and after viewing the body of the dead man rendered a verdict that the negro came to his death at the hands of persons unknown to them.

After the inquest the officers were ordered to take charge of the body of the negro, but the surging mass of men which had by this time assembled would not let them touch him. A coal cart passing near by was pressed into service, and the body was tied into it. It was then hauled to Mayor Trout's residence on Campbell avenue, it apparently being the intention of the mob to bury it in his front yard.

At this critical moment Rev. W. C. Campbell appeared upon the scene and told the mob that such procedure would never do. He spoke kindly to them, and at last dissuaded them from carrying out their plan. The body during this time had not been removed from the cart, so at the suggestion of some one in the crowd they took it over to the edge of the river to burn it.

Women Fed the Flames.

Fences were torn down, store boxes taken, and some one with an ax cut down several cedar trees near by. The dry wood was laid in a large pile, but arranged so it would burn freely.

On this heap the negro's body was laid. On top of all the cedar boughs were thrown, and two gallons of coal oil were poured on the dry wood. The match was touched to it, and the flames shot rapidly upward.

It was not long before the crowd dispersed, but all the morning men and occasionally a woman were seen going toward the place of burning in squads of three to five. Every one seemed desirous of contributing to the blaze by throwing a twig or chip on it. All that was remaining of Smith at noon was a few ashes and here and there a bone, but the fire was still burning fiercely, and those standing around said that it should burn until there was not a vestige remaining.

As a result of the armed conflict between the authorities and the mob at the doors of the jail 8 men are dead and more than 20 seriously wounded, some of them fatally.

A Note After the Mayor.

After the smoke of battle had cleared away fears for the safety of Mayor Trout and the determined men with him were freely expressed by their friends, as the indignation of the mob seemed especially directed toward him and the soldiers. While the crowd was making preparations for the second assault the militia disbanded and went to their homes. Mayor Trout, who had been wounded in the foot with a pistol ball, was first carried to the Ponce de Leon hotel, but owing to the threats of the mob he was removed from there by his friends and taken to the country, where he still is.

Shortly after his departure a crowd went to the Ponce de Leon hotel demanding the mayor. They were assured by the clerk that Mr. Trout was not there, but were not satisfied until some of their men had made a thorough search of the premises.

Not finding him, the crowd went to Mayor Trout's residence on West Campbell avenue, where a thorough but fruitless search was made for him.

Acting Mayor R. A. Buckner has assumed charge of the city government and has suspended Chief of Police Terry, Sergeant Griffin and Officer M. C. Morris, pending an investigation of their connection with the affair. A coroner's jury has been in session all day investigating the cause of the tragedy, but as yet has not completed its labors. So far the evidence adduced severely censures the militia.

Troops In Readiness.

RICHMOND, Sept. 22.—General Charles J. Anderson, brigade commander of the Virginia forces, in communication with the authorities of Roanoke, said the troops of this city are practically under arms, the officers of the First Virginia regiment, the Blues and the Howitzers having been notified by him to hold themselves ready for duty. No further trouble is anticipated, but the action taken by the general is a precautionary one.

Mayor Trout Is at Lynchburg.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Sept. 22.—Mayor Trout of Roanoke arrived here suffering with a painful wound in the foot. He declined to be interviewed.

Speaker Barrett to Retire.

MELROSE, Mass., Sept. 22.—Speaker William E. Barrett of the Massachusetts house made a speech declining to be a candidate for renomination as representative.

PANAMA, Sept. 22.—There is no news at any Colombian port concerning the missing steamer Alva.

SUFFERED AT SEA.

Three Sailors Lived For Nine Days on a Capsized Ship.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—The Spanish steamship Palentino, from Matanzas, brought in three men of the schooner Windermere, from Key West, Sept. 14, for Mobile. The Windermere was capsized in a heavy squall on Sept. 7, 180 miles off Middle. The captain, the captain's wife, the first mate, steward and one seaman were drowned. The three rescued men had been clinging to the bottom of the vessel for nine days when taken off by the steamship.

The rescued men—Charles Le Cain, second mate; James Clark and John Mattson, able seamen—tell a story of suffering, deprivation and exposure seldom equaled, the three rescued men having managed to live for nine days upon the upturned bottom of the vessel.

One of the rescued sailors said the captain was below when the vessel was struck by a squall and capsized in a moment. He further said:

"Two days after we saved a little rainwater by wringing it out of our saturated clothing. On the next day we caught two small sea birds, which we were very glad to eat raw.

"The night of the next day was very cold, and we were going right over us, making our suffering almost unendurable. No more vessels were seen until the 13th, when three or four passed by us, all a considerable distance away. On the 14th other vessels passed us, but again we were unable to attract their attention.

"On Friday, the 15th, it was very hot, and our lips and mouths were parched as if we had been eating glue. We could scarcely open our mouths, but none of us complained very much, further than to wish for a drink or something to eat.

"On Saturday morning at about 5 we discovered a steamship on our starboard quarter, which, thank God, came to our assistance and took us on board. The steamship was the Palentino."

Unknown Dead Left by the Prairie Fires.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 22.—The scene of the recent terrible prairie fires on the Pawnee reservation is one of devastation. For miles and miles as far as the eye can reach it is a black waste, and to add to the horror of it all in a number of places are found blackened and burned human trunks. Nearly a dozen of these bodies have been found, and it is feared that many have perished. There is no clew whatever to the identity of these unfortunates.

Entombed Miners Heard Singing Hymns.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—Rescue parties worked all night and all day to reach the eight miners entombed by the collapse of the shaft in the Dolcoath mine in Cornwall. They could hear the eight men singing hymns. It is believed that all eight men will be got out alive.

Creditors Referred to the President.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 22.—It is stated that suspended silver mines in Colorado, Utah and Montana owe San Francisco powder companies upward of $300,000, which it is impossible to collect. Requests for payments are answered with "go and see Cleveland."

Will Celebrate Cardinal Gibbons' Jubilee.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 22.—Cardinal Gibbons having returned home from Chicago and Dubuque, the work of arranging an order of exercises for a fitting celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of his consecration as bishop has been entered upon with zeal.

FASHIONS

ATHLETICS AND FASHION.

Tasteful Garments of Special Import For Women's Outdoor Sports.

The woman who objected to being hanged because she had no hanging dress was within her rights. To most women a dress for an occasion is equal with an occasion for dress. It is sentiments like this that make the wheels of commerce move.

ON THE WING.

Among garments of special import are those for riding, boating, yachting, lawn tennis, the bicycle, climbing, hunting and now golf. Let no one conceive that these costumes are interchangeable, except perhaps a lawn tennis costume may take part in golf. On the contrary, each has some special distinguishable quality fondly conceived to be essential.

The colors in almost all dresses for athletic sports are limited to cream, blue, brown and gray. The assimilation of these with the browns and grays of the earth and the blue of the sky is chosen with that inherent sense of the fitness of things that even barbarous nations share. It is only in the cruder states of civilization that we observe colors harshly and inappropriately. A writer in the New York sun, whose observations of fashions among athletes are recorded in the foregoing, thus gives a key to sentiment that deserves attention. This is of havana brown cloth, with short jacket opening over a shirt of pink. The sleeves are of considerable being long and full with cuffs.

Parisians have adopted bicycling in a much more thorough way than our American women. The French girl who rides a bicycle does not attempt to retain the long skirt, but she wears a stylish knickerbocker suit of some kind, and women riders become so numerous on the broad, smooth avenues of the outskirts of Paris that no one pays any particular attention to them

THE BOOTY RECOVERED.

The Real Robbers of the Train at Hancock In Jail.

HUNTING THE CENTRALIA BANDITS

The Two Men Who Met With Such a Hot Reception From the Train Hands Are Still at Large, but the Injured Robber Has Confessed.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—The big Hancock (Mich.) express robbery is at an end. The detectives have ceased their work, the evidence is all in, the money located and all the robbers arrested. They will be brought up for examination in the court at Marquette, Mich., Saturday, and the money will be produced in court as evidence.

Every dollar of it has been found, and it is in a safe place. Three of the five men who conspired to rob and robbed the American Express company of $60,000 have confessed. A fourth would confess also if it were demanded of him, but the authorities do not want his evidence.

Robbers Were Railroad Men.

The robbers are Ed Hogan of Marquette, Mich., an ex-messenger, who has been recently living like a lord of a sport and who was the organizer of the conspiracy; Dominick Hogan, his brother, who was the express messenger on the train that was robbed, and Jack Ring, a fireman of whom that was taken at the time of the robbery; Jack King, the famous champion of the United States at Cornish style of wrestling; Jerry Burke and Marquette, Mich., all around crook, who has done his term in state's prison; George Liberis, an ex-railroad stoker, who was out of work and who was the last man in the party who was capable of handling a railroad locomotive.

The web of evidence around these men is said by detectives who have returned to this city after working up the case to be so well put together that their escape is practically impossible. The fact that all the other persons who had been under the suspicion of complicity in the case were turned free shows that the officials of the express company are thoroughly satisfied that the money is safe.

The Centralia Holdup.

CENTRALIA, Ills., Sept. 22.—A vigorous search is being made for the two robbers who escaped after holding up the New Orleans limited train on the Illinois Central road just outside of this city. In the battle which followed between the three robbers and trainhands one of the robbers was mortally wounded, and three of the crew were badly hurt. The thieves got nothing in the way of booty.

When the train reached here, three men, heavily armed and carrying tools which later came into play, boarded the front end of the express car. Just beyond Centralia Engineer Young and Fireman Maxwell heard a noise on the tender behind them. Both turned and saw the muzzles of two big revolvers staring them in the face.

"Keep your mouths shut and stop the machine, or we'll shoot," the robbers cried.

The engineer and fireman sprang at the robbers, who fired, and the trainmen fell wounded on the platforms connecting cab and tender.

Then the robbers attacked the express car, in which were the messenger of the American Express company and Conductor Odum.

During the heavy fusillade that followed two of the robbers broke in the door of the car with heavy sledges. Then followed a battle royal. The messenger and conductor, partly barricaded by boxes and packages, fired at the robbers as fast as they could shoot. The thieves fired, too, but they were at a disadvantage.

During the shooting the conductor received a flesh wound in the hand. The shooting aroused the passengers, and they began to conceal their valuables. On the train, deadheading his way, was P. J. Conway, a policeman of the road. He came to the rescue of the conductor and messenger armed with a shotgun. He attacked the robbers in the express car, and though in turn attacked by the third robber managed to shoot one of those in the express car through the body.

The two, finding their companion fall, took to their heels and got away through the trees and fields. One of the trainhands hurried back to Centralia with the news of the robbery, and the town was aroused. In half an hour posses of men were beating the country in a hunt for the fugitives.

The officials of the American Express Company in Chicago were notified of the attempted robbery, and two of them left for Centralia. It is not known how much money was in the express messenger's care, but it is said the amount would exceed $60,000.

When safe in jail, Jones, the wounded robber, talked freely and made a full confession.

A PURSE OF $60,000.

The Coney Island Club's Big Offer to Prize Fighters.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—A meeting took place between Judge Newton, matchmaker of the Coney Island Athletic club, and Charlie Mitchell, the English heavyweight champion. Judge Newton offered him an offer of a purse of $40,000, to which the club or money of $20,000 a side could be added, making a purse of $60,000—the largest amount ever fought for in this country.

Mitchell said that if there was no other place to pull this fight off than Coney Island, he would just as lief fight there, as the object of his trip was to fight Jim Corbett, and the quicker the matter could be settled and he could get to training the better he would like it.

The chances are, however, that the fight will take place at Coney Island, as Mitchell said he had the articles in his pocket and would only need them signed by Corbett, but from what Judge Newton had told him of their general purport he thought the necessary alterations would be very slight.

John P. Eckhardt, the official referee of the Coney Island Athletic club, is authority for the statement that Charley Mitchell has signed articles to fight Corbett at Coney Island the third week in November.

St. Peter's Bicentennial.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—The bicentennial celebration of the establishment of the Protestant Episcopal church in America, the first Protestant Episcopal church in Westchester county, was held. More than 100 churches were represented by the pastors or prominent laymen. The day was still further made memorable by the unveiling and dedication of the handsome and costly memorial windows which have been presented to the church by Mr. and Mrs. John A. di Seroga of Westchester.

ANOTHER MINE DISASTER.

Five Killed and as Many Injured by an Explosion of Gas.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 22.—By an explosion of gas in Lance colliery No. 11 of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company at Plymouth five men were instantly killed and five others seriously injured.

The names of the dead are: David M. Jones, contractor, Wilkesbarre; William Jones, rock miner, Wilkesbarre; John Flanagan, mason, Wilkesbarre; Owen P. Jones, miner, Plymouth, Joshua Golightly, assistant mine foreman, Plymouth.

The injured are: Owen L. Evans, rock miner; Thomas Williams, rock miner; D. B. Davis, rock miner; John Cummings, mason; James Morgan, miner.

The accident was caused by Joshua Golightly, who entered a body of gas with his naked lamp. A terrific explosion followed. The deadly flames swept from one end of the gangway to the other, carrying death or injury to every living being in its path.

The men were working fully 1,000 feet from the spot where Golightly's lamp set off the gas, but owing to the [illegible] nature of the [illegible] flames spread so rapidly that [illegible] escape.

Golightly was burned [illegible] the flesh of his body being literally roasted. The other victims were not burned, but were killed by the flying debris. The men were building walls and the laborers clearing up rubbish in the rock tunnel when death overtook them.

As soon as the explosion occurred, word was sent to the surface, and in a few minutes 1,000 people had gathered at the mouth of the shaft. A rescuing party was at once organized, led by Superintendent Morgan. After a short absence they reappeared, bearing the blackened bodies.

EDSALL'S.

An Oil Patch on the Ocean.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 22.—Pilot Harry Bennett reports that on Sunday, while cruising on the pilotboat E. C. Knight to the eastward of the Five Fathom bank lightship, he found the water for miles covered with petroleum. Thirty miles east of the lightship, oil was bubbling to the surface with wonderful force, and he and his companions came to the conclusion that an oil laden vessel had recently foundered with all on board.

Ass Potter Not Guilty.

BOSTON, Sept. 22.—Judge Putnam ordered the jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty in the case of ex-President Potter, who was accused of sailing in the wreck of the Maverick bank, on the ground of insufficient evidence, and it was done. It is said that this action disposes of all the criminal proceedings against President Potter.

A NUTRITIVE FOOD.

Milk Has No Superior as an Article of Diet.

This article of diet, which forms the sole sustenance of young animals and children, and the principal food during the early years of life, is one the importance of which in the treatment of disease cannot be overestimated. When the stomach is young and tender nature provides that substance for food which contains the great nutritive value, and when the stomach is again in a feeble state, and the system requiring nourishment with as little expenditure of energy as possible, what form of food should be able to answer so well as that which was the only source of supply in early life? For soundness of digestion and for nutritive value there is nothing to take its place, and in the treatment of all diseases, milk, when thoroughly cooked or sterilized, ought to occupy the very foremost place.

Cream Puffs.

Cream puffs made as follows are recommended by a home cook as equal to those of professional confectioners: In a saucepan put one teaspoonful of butter and one teacupful of butter. Place on the stove to heat. While boiling add one and one-half cupfuls of flour. Remove from stove and beat until all lumps disappear. When cold add five whole eggs at once and a little salt. No baking powder nor extract. Beat all well, and bake in well greased gem pans in quick oven for twenty minutes. They will rise, leaving a cavity in center to be filled with the following cream. If not baked long enough they may fall. For cream, stir one-half teacup sugar, one-half teacup flour and one beaten egg into one pint of scalding milk; flavor to suit.

Mrs. Cleveland's Fruit Cake.

Six eggs. One cup butter. One cup and a half powdered sugar. Two cups flour. Half pound raisins. Half pound currants. Quarter pound of citron. One teaspoonful each of cinnamon and cloves. Half teaspoonful ground cloves. Three tablespoonfuls brandy. Seed and chop the raisins. Wash, seed and chop the citron; cream the butter and sugar and mix with the well-beaten yolks of the eggs; stir in half the flour, the spices, the whipped whites, the rest of the flour, the fruit well dredged with flour and last the brandy. This will make a large cake. It should be baked about two hours in a steady oven.

How to Sharpen a Carving Knife.

A carving knife needs to have a different kind of an edge from a razor. The steel which ordinarily accompanies a carving knife and fork is very well to give a finishing touch to the edge, but in ordinary whetstone such as a reaper uses for his scythe or sickle is the most useful implement a carver can have at hand. One or two rubs on each side of a knife gives it up mightily, and the same or a less number on the other side of the knife is in order to do most excellent execution.

Plain Gingerbread.

Stir to a cream one-half a teacup of butter, or butter and lard mixed, with half a teacup of brown sugar. Add one teacup of molasses, then one egg well beaten. Dissolve one even teaspoonful of soda in one teacup of sweet milk and add to the other ingredients. Into two and one-half teacups of sifted flour stir two even tablespoonfuls of cream of tartar, one of salt and two of ginger. Mix well and bake in a quick oven about fifteen minutes. This recipe fills one biscuit tin and a small loaf tin.

To Test the Heat of an Oven.

A French authority on cooking gives the following rules for testing the heat of an oven: "Try it with a piece of white paper; if too hot the paper will blacken or blaze up; if it becomes a light-brown it is fit for pastry; if it turns dark-yellow it is fit for bread; for all other kinds of cake; if light-yellow the oven is ready for sponge cake, and the lighter kinds of desserts."

A Good Receipt for Pop-Overs.

Two eggs, one cup of milk, one cup of flour and a half teaspoonful of salt. Beat the eggs just enough to mix them together, add the milk gradually, and the salt. Stir in the flour till a smooth batter is formed; and then pour it through a sieve to remove lumps. Bake in gem pans, and eat quickly, before they have a chance to become heavy.

A New Glove.

A novelty is the "mirror and purse" glove with a tiny mirror set in the palm of the left hand and a little mirror inserted in the flap that covers the pocket. So the harried rush to the opposition to look near the little reassuring glance in the mirror is a great comfort.

Minced Turkey for Breakfast.

Chop cold turkey fine; put into a saucepan, and to each cut allow one tablespoonful of butter, two tablespoonfuls of stock and one saltspoonful of salt and pepper. Heat quickly; have ready hot toast nicely buttered. Heap this hash on the squares of toast, and serve immediately.

To Preserve Scrubbing-Brushes.

Scrubbing-brushes should be kept with the bristles down and they will last twice as long. Soaking of soap and water, if you stand them the other way the water will run down and soak into the back, loosening the bristles, whether they be glued or wired.

Brass Kettles Cleansed.

A brass kettle can be cleansed, if discolored by cooking in it, by scouring it well with soap and ashes first, then put in half a pint of vinegar and a handful of salt and let them boil on the stove a short time; then wash and rinse it out in hot water.

Nut Cake.

One cup of sugar, two eggs, half a cup of butter, one of milk, one cup of chopped raisins, one cup of chopped English walnuts, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two and a half cups of flour. Bake in a moderate oven and frost if you like.

A Corn Supper.

A "corn supper" may be of formed plain, corn bread, corn fritters, and hasties made with cornstarch and flour together, cornstarch puddings, corn hulls, and delicious ingenious women will think of many more.

Better Than Soap.

One or two tablespoonfuls of ammonia added to a pailful of water will clean windows better than soap.

Salt in the Ink.

To prevent mold in ink, infuse a piece of salt the size of a hazel nut in each quart.

QUEER TALES FROM EVERYWHERE.

Animals Engaged in Mortal Combat Throughout the Country.

THE MAN OUT WEST.

Lyman Gallup, of Clarkesburg, Mass., sixteen years old, went to Stamford Pond the other day with a party of companions for a few days of camping. He was not long in getting all he wanted of camping life, and one day he bade adieu to the party and started for home. Stamford Pond is a very wild region, far from the nearest settlement, and one of the party, more familiar with the wilds than young Gallup, accompanied him through the forest to a point from which it was thought he would have no difficulty in finding his way home.

Shortly after separating Gallup lost his way and wandered for a long distance through the mountain solitude, so deep it seemed as if it might never have been visited by man. He had with him a shotgun, also a basket, in which he had carried provisions to the camp. As he hurried on through the underbrush, he filled with fear lest night should overtake him before he should find his way to the settlement. His attention was attracted by a rough, shaggy animal, closely resembling a Newfoundland pup. He knew at once that it was a cub, and, levelling his gun, he brought it down.

The cub was placed in the basket and the homeward tramp was resumed, young Gallup edging every few minutes at a prize-winning pace, but the tornado in the rear grew nearer. The boy soon came to the conclusion that the weight of the cub was too much of a handicap in this race, and the game was thrown into the bushes. Very soon after the commotion ceased, the old bear stopping as soon as she reached her cub.

THE BUCK WHIPPED THE DOG.

Recently a frightened doe bounded across the Gonzales road, near San Buenaventura, Tex., within a few yards of Aaron Doolittle's cabin. A mongrel dog, belonging to the woodsman, gave chase to the doe, and set up a furious barking. The animals ran on and he caught up to her, and the stout animal turned upon her noisy pursuer and struck at him with her fore feet a number of times. The dog fled the doe got at bay, but jumped around at such a lively rate that she filled to hit him. Then the deer turned tail, and the dog went to chasing her again.

They had not raced more than twenty rods when the deer made a spasmodic leap, her back running toward them like the wind. He soon overtook them, and lowering his antlers he entered the fray under his kind parts, and holding him on them fast into the air. When the dog came down he struck on a stump and rolled off, perhaps as though a ghost of thirteen had been fired to his tail. The buck pitched at him again, hit him, and sent him spinning down the hillside. He lit up a constable's helping, and the instant he got on his feet he flew legged it for his master's cabin, giving cries of distress all the way.

The doe stationed her post the moment the buck locked the mischievous dog, turning back when the dog changed his tune from a yi-yiddum bark to a yelp of agony. While the whipped cur was fleeing he sweated at the top of his speed, the merry buck gazed after him, snorted once, waved his feet defiantly, then he joined the doe, and the two ran up the hillside and went out of sight over the crest of the ridge.

THE BULL KILLED THE BEAR.

Although two men were at work cutting underbrush within a few rods of the spot, a bear invaded a field on William Barker's farm on Bell Hill, near Galeton, Pa., recently, his intention plainly being to capture one of the sheep that were pasturing in the field. Barker, who was one of the men cutting brush, saw the bear, and hurried the other man to the house to get Barker's gun, and then himself started on a run for the pasture for the purpose of protecting the sheep from the bear, but neither the gun nor the presence of Barker was necessary. Besides the sheep some cows and a two-year-old Jersey bull were pasturing in the field. The bull no sooner saw the bear edging and sidestepping along toward the sheep than he charged upon him, and caught him with his horns in the side. The bear did not have time to defend himself, the bull's rush was so quick and sudden, and he was lifted clear off his feet and thrown several feet, falling heavily to the ground. The bull quickly regained his feet, and not satisfied with the result he had obtained, the bear started to run away. But the bull followed him like a tornado, and struck the bear again at full headway, tumbling him over and over.

The bear made up his mind to fight, and got on his feet before the bull charged on him, and struck savagely at the bull's face standing on his hind feet. Both of the bull's horns penetrated the bear's breast their full length, and at the same instant the bear's claws were fixed in the bull's shoulders. The bear ripped the flesh from the bull in long, deep strips on each side of his body, but failed to reach the vitals, and brain fell to the ground and died almost instantly.

THE BEAR SUFFERED.

Recently, Nicolas Simon, of Skinner's Creek, Pa., had a bear that had its foot in a trap in the woods on North Mountain. Simon had a sack poke on his back, and in it a number of pigeons. Every time he made a dash toward him, greeting savagely. Mr. Simon wasn't very much afraid of a bear that had a trap on one of its feet, so he approached the animal and dealt it a tremendous blow in the snout. The blow staggered the bear a little, but he belched forth a roar that made the hills in its mouth wide open, and again Mr. Simon aimed for its snout. He struck with all his might, and the ring in the end of the stick sprung open and released the pigeons. Mr. Simon then turned to beat to rank the ring like, but he couldn't do it, and so he dropped the gad and went jumping. The object of the ring is a square piece like that before. Instead of closing Mr. Simon, it lifted its head and sprung the sack poke from side to side in his kind gentle, and holding him away at the mouth. But the sack poke hung and then the bear began to paw at it with his free foot, as it sat on its haunches. In clear sight of the bear and within reach he landed over on its flank side and whittled with the sack poke until it was torn into pulling and let the bear go.

The bear had rid itself of the sack poke but the ring still encircled its jaw, and it was in about as bad a fix as before. The bear seemed to forget all about the trap, and for several minutes it scratched at the ring and worked away from where Mr. Simon was lying. Mr. Simon improved the sack poke at once, and went to pounding the bear over the head with it.

Real Devonshire Cream.

Any American housekeeper may have Devonshire cream on her table if she will take the trouble to prepare it. Most people have the erroneous notion that it is the particularly rich cream of the country from which it is taken.

Rich, new milk is put into a very shallow vessel with an extended surface, and is then set on the range, where the milk will be warmed, but on no account boiled or even scalded. The heat will cause all the cream to rise to the surface in a very short time, and the pan is then taken off and placed in the ice for hot or some other cool place.

When thoroughly chilled the cream may be taken off, and will be found to be of the consistency of newly made butter. This is put in jars, and at breakfast is served with a spoon, and is delicious with oatmeal, berries, jam, with everything, in fact, with which ordinary cream is eaten.

Its peculiar merit lies in the fact that it is not only the richest of cream, but will keep sweet for two or three days.—New York Tribune.

Steak Broiling.

Steak for broiling should not be thin or it will be dry and hard. At the butcher's ask them to cut your steak three-fourths of an inch thick, cut off the suet, grease the broiler and have it hot, lay the steak on the broiler on a bed of hot coals, turn the broiler often. When done, remove to a hot platter, sprinkle with salt and spread butter over it. Serve immediately.

FIRE AT SCOTCH PLAINS

ANOTHER BARN BURNED AT THAT PLACE LAST NIGHT.

It Belonged to John Taylor Johnston Estate, and was Filled with Hay and Grian. — Wallace Again Arrested.

FIRE, supposed to be of incendiary origin, again aroused the people of Scotch Plains last night. As usual, it was a barn. This time it was one belonging to the John Taylor Johnston estate, adjoining Lowe's Hotel. The fire was discovered about twelve o'clock. The building was then enveloped in flames and all chance of saving it was lost.

The fire brigade turned out. As no buildings were in danger of catching fire, the apparatus was not used. The flames having about completed their work, when they arrived.

The building contained considerable hay and grain. The loss will probably reach $500.

During the progress of the fire, Constable Hand arrested Wallace for being drunk and disorderly. He was taken before Judge Moore, who sentenced him to ninety days in the county jail.

Wallace, it will be remembered was arrested last Winter, on suspicion of being Scotch Plain's fire bug. He was out on bail. His trial will probably come up next month.

TOOK THE WRONG HORSE.

How Mr. N. W. French Came Near Losing a Valuable Animal.

When Mr. Moses French died recently, his old bay horse, which he had driven for the last twenty-five years, lost its best friend. The horse was so old that it was useless for work. Yesterday word was telephoned Jones & Co., to go to the barn and get the old horse and shoot it. Last night an employee of Jones & Co. was sent after the animal. The man made a mistake and instead of taking the old bay horse he took Mr. N. W. French's black horse. Jones & Co. evidently thought the horse was rather young and native to kill, so he sent his man back with the animal this morning. Then the mistake was discovered and the old horse substituted.

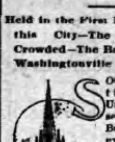
AUTUMN CONFERENCE

OF THE UNION COUNTY CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION.

Held in the First Baptist Church in this City—The Large Edifice Crowded—The Banner Won by the Washingtonville Society.



SOCIETIES of Christian Endeavor of Union county had possession of the First Baptist church last evening. It was the Autumn Conference of the Union County Union. The church was crowded, a few being compelled to stand.

The conference opened with a short praise service led by Mr. Samuel H. McQuoid of Roselle, followed by prayer by the pastor of the First Baptist church, the Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes. Owing to the inability of the Rev. Charles E. Herring to be present, the Rev. Mr. Goodchild of Roselle led the responsive reading.

The address by Miss Spangenberg of Netherwood on "Junior Work" was listened to with interest by the large congregation. Among other things she spoke of the need of organizing societies of Christian Endeavor for the smaller children. She said in part: "Many are reached through the children. What the Christian Endeavor Society is to the older ones, the Junior Society can be for the children. Too much attention cannot be paid to the children, enabling them to form habits that will read to make them noble men and women. We must feed the lambs of our fold. In taking care of the lambs we form the character of the sheep. A priest once said he would rather have the first seven years of a child's life than all after. The Junior Society teaches the boys and girls to be earnest Christians. This society is filling a long felt need, and has come to stay. It does not interfere with the work of the Christian Endeavor. It trains them to become missionaries and thorough Christians. It is a distinct organization, and will, I hope, in time be equally as strong as the older society. There is no better time to teach a child of Christ than in his childhood. The Union County Christian Endeavor Union has constantly grown, and is in a very flourishing and prosperous condition.

But it would be much stronger if it had united with it the Junior Society. Every church in Union county should have one of these societies. Six churches have taken up the work since our last State Convention. The six must be increased to eight. Each society should appoint a committee to organize a Junior Society. Get started, by all means get started, and by January, 1894, let us have 40 Junior Societies in Union county."

After Miss Spangenberg had concluded a 10 minutes business session was held, and two amendments were adopted. Every society in Union county should be a society. The first was Article III of the Constitution. After the word Endeavor the words or "Junior Society" were inserted. Article IV, as amended, reads as to read "Junior Society represented by its superintendent."

The amendments were unanimously adopted.

The next address was by the Rev. L. B. Dyott of Newark. He spoke very enthusiastically of the words of the Christian Endeavor.

His points are as follows:

"Churches should be neighbors even as the great foreign countries are neighbors. We read with interest in America of Gladstone's speech in England, and the English in the other hand are interested in affairs on this side of the ocean. In the same manner the churches and Christian Endeavor Societies should be neighborly. I am in favor of securing one building in a city and let all meet together as one family. The two countries—America and Great Britian—stand with clasped hands, and so should all societies stand. Christian Endeavor work is being done by the members of this organization and a still greater work is yet to be done. Bad ideas seem to spread through the land, while good ideas only seem to creep. Nothing popular is right because it is popular. Believe the truth. We are always too apt to believe that which has only a semblance of the truth about it, and pure minds are thus affected. One-half the truth is more often believed than the whole truth itself. The Bible has been claimed to be only partly true. But we as christians should not be led by books. A word to be poet at the Montreal convention said:

"Early to bed, early to rise;
Watch the pupil and advertise.

But I would like to substitute this:

"Early to bed, early to rise;
Believe the old gospel, don't believe lies!

There should be more co-operation between local societies, and between the church and society. It would be a good idea to have church and C. E. meet together."

After Mr. Dyott had concluded, the treasurer announced the reported attendance of the different societies, and awarded the banner. He stated that out of 36 societies to hand in reports the following had 70 per cent of their active members present:

Name of Society.	Per Cent.
Trinity Reformed Church	70
Congregational	71
Warren Memorial	72
Locust Grove	72
Branch Mills	73
East Third Street Mission	77
First Baptist	78
Hope Chapel	85
Washingtonville	86

The Washingtonville society was declared the winner of the banner.

After an anthem had been sung, reports of the Home Mission work were read by Miss L. J. Herron of Cranford and Miss S. E. Allen of Roselle. This was followed by a prayer and then the conference closed with the benediction by the Rev. Corwin S. Haines, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church. The statistics of the Union at present are as follows:

Senior Societies	42
Junior Societies	4
Active Members	1,826
Associate Members	1,271
Estimated Number of Junior Members	200
Total Membership	3,300

HIGHWAYMEN NEAR RAHWAY.

They Robbed One Man and Attacked Two Others, but Were Driven Away

FERDINAND Blaecke of Linden Township had an exciting adventure with two highwaymen on St. George avenue, between Linden and Rahway, Thursday night.

Mr. Blaecke, who is sixty five years old, and one of the largest land owners in Linden, was being driven home by his coachman, when two men jumped from behind a clump of trees in a lonely part of the road. One of the men grasped the horse by the bridle, while the other shouted to the occupants of the wagon to hold up their hands.

Mr. Blaecke's driver attacked the highwayman who held the horse. The other robber attacked Mr. Blaecke with a sandbag. The driver, who had put the other robber to flight, threw the man out of the wagon and he ran into the woods, where his confederate had already sought safety.

Avery Smith, while walking along the old turnpike from Rahway to Carteret Saturday night, was attacked by two men who knocked him down and robbed him of $10 in money and some trinkets.

ACTION TAKEN AT LAST.

Merchants to Stop Blocking the Sidewalk

ALL blocking of the sidewalks by merchants with melons and baskets of peaches, is to be stopped. This morning Messrs. George W. Rockfellow, J. A. Smith, T. L. Frame and W. T. Fuiper were notified to appear before Judge Coddington, in answer to complaint made yesterday by the commissioner.

The men pleaded not guilty. The Judge suspended sentence, as the men promised not to unnecessarily block the sidewalks again.

A Free Open-Air Concert and Plenty of Hilarity.

RATHER giddy time occurred at the Arlington Hotel on Somerset street last night, when a free open-air concert was given. The hotel and lawn were profusely decorated with bunting, Japanese lanterns and magic lanterns, and brightly lit up with numerous electric lamps strung on wires put up for the occasion. A band of thirteen pieces occupied the center of the lawn, and played selections at intervals until midnight, when the affair was brought to a close, on the outside, but continued by singing and dancing in the hotel parlor.

There were several hundred men, women and children present, and plenty of noise—rather more than was pleasing to the people of a quiet neighborhood, though there was not the disorder which from the flow of beer and clinking of glasses was to be expected as an ending, as is usually the case.

BREVITIES.

—The topics at the Methodist church to-morrow will be, "How to See God," and "The Greatest Need of Christianity."

—Constable Mattox to-day arrested Richard York for forming in line. Mr. York was bound over to keep the peace.

—To-morrow will be observed as rallying day in the First Presbyterian church on East Front street. A special programme has been prepared for the occasion.

—Another special sale. This time it is Queen silk umbrellas, paragon frames, 26 inch, at 89 cents each, at Messrs. Van Emburgh & Sons. See their advertisement elsewhere.

—The Postal Telegraph Company's goods in this city were levied upon today by Constable Mattox to satisfy a judgement secured against it yesterday by Mr. Huntsman for $15.56.

—The case between Mr. Seguine, Jr., and Mr. Fosher, to try "right of ownership" of certain goods levied on by the latter, the particulars of which were told in yesterday's News, was decided in favor of Mr. Seguine. Mr. Jackson A. Anglesman represented Mr. Seguine.

—Madame Iza Lezem, whose card appears elsewhere, was the teacher of the the young ladies who appeared in the graceful dances at the St. Mary's school commencement exercises in Stillman Music Hall last Spring. Madame Lezem is now about to teach classes, as detailed in her advertisement, at Hulett's Hall, West Front street. The opening reception will be on October 3 from three to five o'clock p. m. and Madame Lezem cordially invites all ladies to attend.

To Ride High Wheels.

To-morrow the Atalanta Wheelmen of Newark will have an old-fashioned run to this city on high wheels. About twenty-five members are expected to participate. They will take dinner at the Albion.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

THE USUAL SATURDAY ANNOUNCEMENTS.

What Will be Done at the Churches, Chapels and Missions in Plainfield and North Plainfield.—The Themes for Morning and Evening.

[Notice of religious services are published under this head free of charge, but it is necessary that they be furnished before noon of Saturday to insure insertion the same day.]

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

Fell 113 Feet and was Instantly Killed.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 23, (Special.)—Charles Bardsey, a workman fell from the top of a temporary iron chimney at the new power house of the Brooklyn City Railway, in Williamsburg, this morning, and was instantly killed.

Soon after 7 a. m. he was hoisted up, and when almost at the top, a distance of 113 feet, the workmen below saw one end of the scaffolding drop.

Bardsey grabbed at the scaffolding as he fell, but was unable to retain his hold. He fell head first, with his arms outstretched. He struck just inside the sidewalk line.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23, (Special.)—Lord Dunraven, owner of the English cutter-yacht, Valkyrie, challenger for the America's cup, arrived in New York this morning on the steamship Campania.

Starting Up Again.

The Beerbower Pottery Works, at Elizabeth, employing 150 hands, which has been closed some weeks, will resume operations next Monday with a full force. The Scudder Rubber Works, which had also suspended, has re-opened, and sixty persons are employed. In a couple of weeks it is expected the plant will be running on full time. The New Jersey Copper Extraction Works also felt the financial depression and closed its doors some weeks ago, but have again started up with half the number of workmen. The superintendent says that in another week the plant will be running to its fullest capacity.

Ex-Prisoners of War Meeting.

The New Jersey Associated Union of Ex-Prisoners of War held their annual convention in the rooms of William H. Pierson Post, No. 46, G. A. R., in Bloomfield, Wednesday. General J. Madison Drake, of Elizabeth, presided. The treasurer's report showed a balance of $46.08. The election of officers resulted as follows: R. M. Hiner, of Englewood, president, Captain C. F. Hopkins, of Boonton, vice-president; Captain J. A. Peloubet, of Bloomfield, recording secretary; H. V. Crawford, of Montclair, corresponding secretary; Captain S. M. Long, of East Orange, treasurer.

Yonkers Says First-Class.

The Yonker's Herald of the 14th inst. said:

"Gorton's Minstrels, under the management of Charles E. Gorton, appeared at Music Hall last night to a large and thoroughly appreciative audience. The organization is first class in every respect. Among the features especially worthy of mention were the singing of Frank Clayton, the musical comique, Harry Gilbert, and the duo, Bobby and Dolly Chinese drunkie Griffin and Marks. The band and street parade were among the finest ever seen in our city.

These minstrels are booked for Music Hall Monday night.

An Original Blessing.

A good story is told of a minister in Washington. A terrapin dinner was given to some prominent men, and he was a guest. When asked to give the blessing he folded his hands and said: "Seraphim! Cherubim! Terrapin! Thank God!"

EDITORIAL NOTES

"Jay Towns."

A broad strip covers the countenance of this continent from the rock bound coast of the Atlantic to the gentle slopes of the murmuring Pacific. It is because San Francisco had the gall to say that some of New York city's pet actors were not world up in the dramatic art and were overrated. One of the aggrieved women actors retorted by calling San Francisco a "jay town" and intimating that the west did not know what high art was, and that anybody what was good enough for New York was too good for San Francisco.

The fact was that the lady and a gentleman in the same company as well had not been doing their best after getting out of sight of New York, feeling that the people of the "jay towns" would not know any better. That they were rebuked, and severely rebuked, by these towns served them exactly right. Other persons have made the same mistake. The Atlantic coast must learn that culture even of the Boston sort is pretty evenly distributed over this country, and that the balance of power in all directions is rapidly skipping westward. Western people travel more, make more money, have more getup and go, promote more gigantic enterprises and have broader, more cosmopolitan ideas than the inhabitants of the eastern coast. Many small western towns had electric lighting before New York itself did. And when it comes to the electric light of intellect the west is not in darkness.

Fortunes In the South.

There is much soil in the south that, while not so rich as the black loam of the prairie states or the bottom lands of the sugar plantations, will still afford an excellent living to hundreds of thousands of persons who are now either starving or pursuing a hand to mouth existence that is enough to drive the average person crazy.

Immense possibilities lie in the direction of fruit culture in the south upon the soil in question. The fruit market is practically unlimited, since the demand for all kinds of it grows greater every year. California will not be able to supply all this United States with fruit. Much of the soil of Florida is enough like that which raises the best grapes in California to justify the planting of vineyards there on a great scale. Rich table grapes can be furnished from this state as early as July.

In fact, grape planting has advanced beyond the experiment stage in Florida, and vineyards of from 300 to 500 acres have been set. Close attention should be given to the culture of the delicious native southern Scuppernong grape. It is said this grape is too tender for shipment, but the same thing has been said of the fig and of the choicest varieties of strawberry and proved to be a mistake. Most parts of the south are admirably adapted to peach raising. Then there is the pineapple. The more pineapple juice the American people can use the better off they will be.

When you meet awful disappointments because things have not gone your way, do not sit down and wail over it the rest of your life. You will become a dreadful nuisance to your friends and family if you do, and they will want nothing so much as to get away from you. Besides that, you will ruin your health and digestion, beggar yourself and make yourself old before your time by simply sitting down and brooding over your troubles. Like enough, too, you will go crazy after awhile. That is how people often do make themselves crazy. No! Pull yourself together and try again, even though you are a hundred years old. Fit yourself to the circumstances so that you could not bend your knee, and in the grand roundup at the end you will find that these adverse circumstances were exactly the making of you and the best that could have happened.

The Buffalo Courier says the word "fake," as applied to newspaper lying, is the worst sort of slang. The Courier is mistaken. It is a word that exactly strikes home to the purpose for which it was intended, and no other word will do. As long as newspaper writers will lie and impose on the public that trusts and believes in them, "fake" must stand to do their dirty work. If, however, any other term can be invented that sounds meaner and more low down than "fake" bring it on, and we'll drop "fake" and use that.

Walter Besant speaks the cold, solid truth when he says that no man is justified in giving up a business which furnishes a living, except upon a modest one, and taking chances in the untried field of literature. The literary aspirant should work on at his occupation and spend his spare time writing, gradually securing foothold in the world of letters. When he is sure of enough money to liveon from his literary earnings, then and not till then he may abandon the old trade.

Among the many failures and suspensions of business that still are recorded daily, there is one cheerful sign. It is that here and there is mention of a lately suspended firm or shut down factory that has actually resumed.

It seems to take as long to select a site for the new Philadelphia mint as it does to settle the silver question itself.

HUNTING THE BRAKEMAN

The Man Who Caused the Wabash Wreck Disappears.

LIST OF DEAD NUMBERS ELEVEN.

Thompson Admitted His Fatal Mistake to One of the Injured Trainmen and Then Left the Scene of the Disaster Which His Carelessness Caused.

KINGSBURY, Ind., Sept. 23.—Two score men are scouring the surrounding country for Herbert Thompson, the brakeman, to whose negligence the responsibility for the catastrophe at this place, which resulted in the loss of 11 lives and the injury of many persons, is ascribed.

After the freight train had backed to its siding to await the passing of the express, his movements were not observed by any of the crew. Then, however, Engineer Whitman had succeeded in extricating himself from the debris of the meat car, instead of the caboose, driven by the force of the collision, he found Thompson standing on the track as pale as a ghost and trembling in every fiber.

"What have you done?" demanded the engineer, whose right arm hung helpless by his side, while the blood poured from a cut in his head.

Thompson Disappears.

"I must have left the switch open," was Thompson's reply, and without another word he took to his heels and disappeared on the side of the wreck. Half an hour later he put in an appearance at the Gentner farmhouse, two miles south, and asked for something to eat, saying by way of explanation that a wreck had occurred during the night over toward Kingsbury; that he had been flagging for hours and that he was completely worn out. The family hastened to set the table, but after swallowing a cup of coffee he seized his hat and left the house, exclaiming as he did so that he had to notify the officials of the road.

Instead of returning toward Kingsbury, however, he took the pike for Stillwell, five miles below that point, and through which several trains over the Wabash, Grand Trunk and Lake Erie and Western pass during the day. Up to a late hour no trace of his whereabouts had been discovered.

The inquest on the remains of the victims of the accident was opened at the Masonic hall by Coroner N. V. Cole of Michigan City. A jury composed of residents of the neighborhood was impaneled, and after the bodies had been viewed and identified by the papers or articles found on their clothing an adjournment was taken to the residence of Mr. H. P. Ellsworth. Here the remains of Mr. Roundy of Iowa were identified, and an adjournment was agreed upon until 9 o'clock this morning.

The Dead and Injured.

The list of killed is as follows: J. H. McKeans, bachelor, Hyde Park, Mass.; Harry French, 13 years old, member of Orphans' Bell Ringers, London; Charles Birbee, San Francisco; Miss Alice H. Read, East Boston, Mass.; Miss Nellie B. Tucker, Newton, Mass.; Conductor James Coulter of passenger train; Engineer John Greene, Ashley, Ind., passenger train; Warren C. Rider, Phoenix, A. T.; P. C. Zelle, Berlin; Baggagemaster Lyons, passenger train.

The injured are Mrs. E. N. Burbank of New Orleans, 60 years old, arms and one leg broken, jawbone fractured, will die; William Adams, 14 years old, London, member Orphans' Bell Ringers, both legs broken, injured internally, will die; Miss Hattie Hutchins, Pine ix, A. T., bruised about the head and injured internally, recovery doubtful; Fireman Barber of Ashley, on passenger train, leg badly broken, burned, recovery doubtful; H. J. Venikeney, fireman on freight train, burned and scalded about the head and breast, may die; William J. Haskines, 14 years old, London, compound fracture of right leg, shoulder blade fractured, recovery doubtful; Edward Rush, 13 years old, London, bruised about body, head cut; Swien Canfield, Ironwood, Mich., bruised about head and shoulder dislocated; Mrs. L. Canfield, Ironwood, Mich., left arm broken, shoulder dislocated and head badly cut; H. W. Rider, Phoenix, A. T., head cut and leg bruised, not serious; G. S. Hodgman, Dover, N. H., both knocked out, arm fractured; Mrs. S. A. Beavly, Somerville, N. H., head cut and arms dislocated; Alice Morton, 12 years old, London, legs hurt and body and scalp wounds; Frank P. Dow, Fairhaven, Wash., face cut and hip dislocated; James G. Weekly, London, head cut and bruised; ——— Whitman, engineer on freight engine, right arm broken and badly burned, seriously injured, but may recover; Miss Matilda Rogers, Phoenix, A. T., left leg fractured and injured internally; Mrs. Tolber, 546 Greene avenue, Brooklyn, leg fractured and cut about the head; Miss Olive Hill, Somerville, N. H., leg injured internally and head cut; Miss Annis Hill, Summers worth, N. H., slight bruises; Miss N. A. Kelly, Boston, severe scalp wounds.

A Tramp Blames Others.

The accident was caused by a brakeman of a freight train turning the switch to let the freight out of a side track after the first section of the express had passed and just before the arrival of the second section.

The wrecked train was the second section of the fast express that left Detroit at 10 o'clock Thursday night and was due at Chicago at 7:15 Friday morning. The freight train which came in collision with the passenger train had orders to let the express pass at Kingsbury.

To do this the freight was pulled in on a side track, where it remained until the first section of the express went safely by. Then, either through a misunderstanding of the orders or because he did not know that the express train was running in two sections, the freight train brakeman threw the switch so as to permit the freight train to run out on the main line.

Just at that moment the second section of the express came along at a high rate of speed. Before the brakeman had time to shriek the alarm, which was a needless one, the passenger train had dashed into the siding.

A moment later the trains met with terrific force. To add to the horrors of the terrible collision the boiler of the passenger engine blew up, scattering human bodies and car wreckage in all directions. Ten minutes after the accident had occurred the most frightful scenes were transpiring.

All the neighboring towns were appealed to for aid, and a corps of physicians was soon on the spot attending to the injured. The people living in the vicinity of the wreck threw open their houses to the passengers of the ill fated train, and nearly every house was soon transformed into a hospital. A force of volunteers assisted the surviving trainmen in receiving the wounded and taking the bodies of the dead from beneath the derailed and demolished coaches.

The dead were placed side by side in a small room at the station. Relief trains were started from Chicago and St. Louis at an early hour, and when they arrived each of the injured as were in a condition to be removed were taken on to Chicago.

Death Came While They Slept.

The Masonic hall was turned into a morgue, and drays and farmers' wagons were kept busy for two hours hauling the dead and wounded to the village, a mile distant from the place, where medical help and nurses were summoned.

There were two sleepers on the train, the Marion and the Kansas City. The former escaped injury, but the front half of the Kansas City was converted into kindlingwood by the day coach, which smashed it.

The passengers in the sleeping cars were all yet in their berths when the shock came. Many of them were thrown from the beds and severely hurt. The horror of deaths was reaped in the smoking car and day coaches occupying the forward part of the train. There were all the more to make any effort at self preservation. With a fearful crash the trains met, the forward passenger coaches being driven into one another with such force that the roofs were lifted off all who were caught between the splintering timbers. Owing to the early hour, but few persons were aboard, and it was some time before the country people could be rapped to the assistance of the trainmen.

The passengers who were not hurt worked heroically in their efforts to take the dead and wounded from the wreck as quickly as it could be done. The broken beams and twisted irons of the telescoped cars were pulled aside, and from beneath them the victims of the catastrophe were lifted. Within a short time many bodies, mangled and dead, were lying on the browned grass near the wreck, and a score or more of injured had been carried to the nearest farmhouses, where they were attended to by surgeons and the country people.

EIGHTY REPORTED LOST.

A Story of the Sinking of a Haytian Warship.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—A report of the sinking of the Haytian warship Alexander Petion was received in this city. All on board, with one exception, were said to have been lost. All told, 90 were aboard. Among the number were many prominent officials and diplomats of the republic. The cause of the disaster is unknown.

The news of the catastrophe was brought to this city by ex-Minister to Hayti J. S. Dunham, who arrived on the steamer Prins Willem V. from Port au Prince. The disaster to the Petion occurred on Sept. 6 about 50 miles south from Cape Tiberon.

The cruiser had just been put into commission. She left Port au Prince Sept. 4, bound for San Domingo. She had on board many distinguished passengers, among them being General Molino, San Domingo's envoy to Hayti; M. Cohen, the Haytian minister to Mexico, and other well known diplomats.

The suddenness and completeness of the disaster, only one sailor escaping, makes the affair most mysterious, and it is probable that the real cause of the wrecking of the noble ship will never be known. According to the testimony of the sole survivor, there was absolutely no warning. Neither collision with another vessel, submerged coral reef nor storm can account for the occurrence.

A CHURCH FOR BRIGGS.

Admirers of the Hero of the Heresy Trial Buy a Baptist Church For Him.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Sept. 23.—The Princeton presbytery of the Cumberland church recently purchased the church edifice of the Remsen Avenue Baptist church in New Brunswick. The ostensible object of the move was the founding of a church of the Cumberland faith in New Brunswick. Reliable information now shows that the main purpose of the move was to place the Rev. Dr. Briggs, who has been reduced from preaching in the regular Presbyterian pulpits, in charge.

It has been understood for some time that some of the leading lights in the Cumberland Presbyterian church are leaning toward Briggsism, and it is evident from certain articles in their denominational paper that overtures have been made by the denomination to Professor Briggs to come, with all his followers, into the Cumberland Presbyterian church.

Some of the young ministers of the Cumberland church who belong to the recently organized Princeton presbytery of the Cumberland church are students in the Union seminary of New York, in which institution Professor Briggs has long taught. They are in favor of having Dr. Briggs preach, and it is thought that when the Remsen Avenue church is made over to the denomination this winter the pulpit will be supplied regularly by the Rev. Dr. Briggs.

An Anti-Catholic Riot.

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 23.—The third riot between the American Protective association, an anti-Catholic society, and men who are supposed to be friends of the church occurred here last night. Mrs. Gallagher, shot through the hand, and many men received broken heads and bruised faces.

Administration Delegates Won.

SESSIONS TO BE LONGER

The Senators Will Sit From 11 a. m. to 6 p. m Next Week.

SILVER MEN FIGHTING CLOSURE.

Sailor Francisco to Use Obstructive Methods, but Wolcott Says a Vote May Be Taken Sunday—Tillman, The Home Ruler Stands Out Unproductive Session.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—The closure resolution which was introduced in the senate by Mr. Platt was taken up soon after the senate met and discussed until nearly 2 o'clock, when it went over in order to give Mr. Turpie an opportunity to speak upon it.

The only two speeches upon the resolution were made by the Colorado senators—Messrs. Wolcott and Teller. Mr. Wolcott said he would vote against it, but that he would make no prolonged opposition to it, and that he thought it could be very soon brought to a vote. As to the repeal bill itself, if his associates should deem it best to consider that measure side by side, he would cheerfully and cordially join with them, and any attempt to impose cruel and unusual conditions would be resisted by every obstruction which the rules permitted.

Mr. Teller Objects.

Mr. Teller was not so liberally inclined toward the closure rule as his colleague, but asserted on the contrary that he would resist by every method, obstructive and otherwise, the adoption of a rule which would limit debate.

The repeal bill was taken up, and speeches against it were made by Mr. George, Mr. Blanchrough of North Dakota and Mr. Stewart.

Then Mr. Voorhees rose and slowly and very deliberately made this announcement to the senate:

"I may say that a conference—consultation—has taken place this afternoon between myself and senators on this side of the chamber, and some of the friends of the measure, which has resulted substantially, as I understand, in an agreement as to the hours which we will occupy at least for some time, in debate. Without going into details, I am warranted in moving that on Monday, and from and after that day, the hour of meeting of the senate shall be 11 o'clock instead of 12, with the understanding that an adjournment will take place at 6.

For Longer Sessions.

"That, Mr. President, gives seven hours of session, the same as we have been struggling for by prolonging the session in the evening. I think seven hours, for the present at least, is a sufficient time to keep the senate in session during the day. I am assured that there are 10 or 12 senators who desire to discuss this question whose faith I have no right to suspect and do not. I have every reason to believe that when legitimate, fair debate has been exhausted (which means whenever every man here has said what he thinks ought to be said), we will be able to get a vote. Indulgence and for the cause at issue), a vote will be very near at hand.

"Then I repeat, after fair and full debate is completely exhausted, to waste the time of the country or of the senate. I say this without committing anybody except myself, but I have given this subject as careful attention as I am capable of doing.

"I therefore, Mr. President, submit the motion that the senate meet at 11 o'clock on Monday, and from and after that day, the hour of meeting of the senate shall be 11 o'clock instead of 12, with the understanding that an adjournment will take place at 6."

The Vice President Objects.

The vice president stated the request for unanimous consent, and said that as no objection had been made it was so ordered. The senate, after a short executive session, adjourned.

The session of the house was without incident. The report of the committee on accounts assigning clerks to committees was adopted. A resolution calling for information relative to the enforcement of the Geary exclusion law was agreed to, and the house, without a quorum, adjourned.

To Investigate the Investigators.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Senator Chandler, Republican, of New Hampshire, introduced a resolution in the senate that there be referred to the committee to audit and control the contingent expenses of the senate the letter of the secretary of the treasury to inform the senate by what authority the so called Fairchild commission is now engaged in examining the signatures of officials in New York; how far the work has progressed; what is its scope and the intention of the department; how much money has been paid out and who is agreed to be paid. The resolution also calls for the correspondence and all other matters bearing upon the investigation. Mrs. Gallagher, after it had been read, asked to have it go over until some day next week when both New York senators were present, at which time he said he would call it up.

WANT RICHARDSON BADLY.

Banks Said to Be Heavy Losers by the Boston Leather Dealer.

BOSTON, Sept. 23.—Thomas O. Richardson of the leather firm of Richardson & Dennis, 207 Congress street, and for years a prominent member of the First church, on Marlborough street, cannot be found by the police, who want him on a warrant charging him with securing by false pretenses from one firm alone $175,000. This announcement, according to the statements of many business men with whom Richardson had dealings, but mildly tells the story of a colossal swindling scheme.

During recent years Richardson has been associated through his church connections with such wealthy men as the late Frederick L. Ames and S. Endicott Peabody, president of the American Loan and Trust company, both of whom are, it is said, sufferers. The charge of securing wrongfully the $175,000, according to many leading men on the street, does not begin to cover his misappropriations, and, if necessary, warrants could be obtained against him for obtaining several hundred thousand dollars more.

J. H. Morgan & Co., the London bankers, represented in Boston by Jacob C. Rogers as attorney, are the complainants.

This firm is the heaviest loser by the crookedness. Other heavy losers are Kidder, Peabody & Co., the Atlas National bank, the Central National bank, the City National of Lynn, the International Trust company, the Lincoln National, Manufacturers' National, the National Bank of Redemption, the National Hide and Leather, the National Revere, the National Park of New York, the National Rockland of Roxbury, the National Naumkeag of Salem, the Shoe and Leather, the Suffolk National, the State National and the Third National are also said to be losers.

LONG TERMS IN JAIL.

A Gang of Crooks on Long Island Receive Heavy Sentences.

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Twelve criminals, comprising some of the most desperate characters ever tried in Queens county, were sentenced by Judge Garrettson in the Queens county court. The heaviest sentence of the lot fell on Fred Weisman, an animal trainer, who is said to have been the head of a nest of thieves having a rendezvous in Cypress Hills. He got 10 years in Sing Sing at hard labor on two indictments for burglary.

The other members of this gang sentenced were John Kelly, 9 years old, six years in Sing Sing; Henry Miller, 43 years old, another reputed leader of the gang, 10 years and 6 months on two indictments; John Miller, 38 years old, 13 years in Slug Sing on two indictments.

The lowest sentence of the three men who were caught in the act of releasing this gang from jail was imposed on Arthur Ericson, 19 years old, who was sent to the Elmira reformatory.

Charles Miller, brother to John Miller, and Jacob Dimsky, 31 years old, the two remaining raiders, were sentenced to six years and eight months each in Sing Sing. George F. Stoney, 31 years old, one of the gang who robbed the houses of wealthy residents of Flushing, got eight years and six months in Sing Sing on two indictments. Samuel B. Southard, 49 years old; Edward Heldorff, 28 years old, and Edwin C. Williams, 39 years old, got one year and one month each in the Kings county penitentiary for larceny.

EXCITING BALLOON RIDE.

Aeronauts Chased and Rescued by a Revenue Cutter.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Professor Samuel A. King, a professional aeronaut, and Miss Jade Morris, who has been selling photographs in the art gallery at the World's fair, made an ascension in a balloon from in front of the Pennsylvania building. The balloon drifted over Lake Michigan, and both the aeronaut and the young woman narrowly escaped between drowned.

The ascension attracted the presence of a large number of persons. The balloon at first shot directly upward for a distance of nearly 1,000 feet, then gradually drifted westward and remained apparently stationary. Suddenly it was caught in a current of air and carried with great rapidity eastward and out over Lake Michigan.

The revenue cutter Andy Johnson started out with the intention of following the balloon and kept in sight of it. They came upon the party three miles out from Grosse point, 18 miles north of Chicago. They had been skimming over the lake with the basket of the balloon oftentimes touching the water for three hours. With much difficulty the aeronauts were taken onto the boat and brought back to Chicago.

FEVER AND REGULATORS

Fear of Mob Rule Adds to the Terrors of Brunswick.

A CORRESPONDENT THREATENED.

The Citizens of the Yellow Fever Stricken City Arm Themselves For Protection Against Thieves.—The Author of a Sensational Story May Be Lynched.

BRUNSWICK, Ga., Sept. 23.—Brunswick has had martial law forced upon her by the inability of the council to obtain a quorum and the demoralization of the regular force. Only Chief Beach, Assistant Levison, two regulars and a small squad of volunteers remain. This forces the citizens to arm themselves to protect their property from thieves.

At the joint meeting of the board of health and the relief association, after the reports of sickness from physicians, Colonel Goodyear moved that both bodies, as the only governmental organizations in the city, go into joint session to consider a matter of vital importance. The motion being carried, Colonel Goodyear said.

"On Thursday we had occasion to denounce as untrue a statement made by Mr. Mike Eagan, correspondent of the Savannah Evening Press, that the sanitary committee here pointed out Brunswick as the pesthole of Georgia.

Eagan Roundly Denounced.

"Affidavits are offered to your correspondent by people that a certain member of the relief canvassing committee offers to barter food certificates for virtue." It was handed by the Savannah Press "Food For Virtue."

Mr. Eagan was asked if he was the correspondent *and if he telegraphed this state*ment. He said he was the correspondent and telegraphed the statement.

When asked which of the five canvassers the charges referred to, he replied that he could not give the name now, but would do so later, with his proofs.

Hon. Jacob Dart jumped to his feet and denounced Eagan in the most scathing terms. Colonel Goodyear followed Mr. Dart. He was calm and collected, but the force of his arraignment was not less fearless, though in a different form. Rev. E. F. Cook, D. Watson Winn and others present asked Eagan why he did not produce the names then, but Eagan did not answer.

The excitement on the streets was intense, and a crowd of men met and agreed to give Eagan a chance to clear himself or else deal with him in a manner not to be mistaken. The regulators are quietly but determinedly organizing to deal with Eagan and every person laying himself liable.

Eagan stated that he would be at the meeting last night and endeavor to satisfy the officers. Chief of Police Beach says that Eagan has applied to him for protection and was assured that he should have it.

Chief Beach Is Firm.

In discussing the regulators, Chief Beach said he had two regular policemen besides Assistant Levison. In addition to these he *had a full force of men who had been re*cently employed, and he believed they would do their duty and help him preserve order. He said that so long as it lay in his power he would suppress any and all regulators, and he believed plenty of good, conservative citizens here would help him.

He recognized the gravity of the situation that caused such talk on the streets, but he would give any citizen the protection due him. Chief Beach is determined and has the courage of his convictions. Every one concedes without question that he will do his duty.

Late last night a party of prominent citizens met at the Ocean hotel and discussed the situation. They requested the statement made that the conservative people here would aid Chief Beach in suppressing regulators and preventing trouble. There are fears that summary action would have a fatal effect on the sick, and it is no time now to commit violence.

There are three new cases of yellow fever of a mild character. There are now 19 cases of fever under treatment.

Exciting Chase of a Bicycle Thief.

PASSAIC, N. J., Sept. 23.—A hundred men and boys on foot and on bicycles raced down Main avenue in pursuit of a young man in cycling costume who was supposed to be one of the gang who have been stealing bicycles around here of late. Finding he was about to be captured, the fugitive darted down an alley that leads to the Passaic river and plunged in. He was thought to have been drowned, but he turned up later in Carlstadt and tried to hire a wheel.

RIGGING RACING SPARS.

The Valkyrie, After Her Long Voyage, Getting In Trim For the Big Race.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The Valkyrie is not only at anchor in New York harbor, but she has already rigged the biggest racing boom ever seen in these waters, and inspired an almost sensational respect for her cup contending capacities among the hundreds of yachtsmen who have been graceful shape as she rode on the placid water of the Atlantic Yacht club anchorage at Bay Ridge.

She lost nothing but a jib and some putty out of her seams in her 20 days and 18 hours' battle with head winds, and her stores held out so well that the only thing that Captain Cranfield had to send ashore for when he anchored was some coke to cook dinner with. The crew had had breakfast.

Early yesterday afternoon all her cruising rig was taken off and all her racing gear except her sails on board. By Tuesday it is expected that she will be ready for a spin down the bay. She will not go into drydock for a week. Then she will be taken over to the Erie basin to have her bottom put in her racing condition.

The Vigilant is at New Rochelle. Her rigging has been strengthened so that there is no danger of her carrying away anything. She will not be hauled out until just before the race. There will be no change in the date of the race. It will take place on Oct. 5, and both boats will be ready.

Want to Lynch the Cattle Thieves.

SIOUX CITY, Ia., Sept. 23.—The town of Niobrara, in the northeastern part of northern Nebraska, is undergoing a reign of terror. Nine of the most prominent men in Butte City and Niobrara are under arrest for cattle stealing and are lodged in jail at Niobrara. The news spread like wildfire through the range country, and several hundred ranchmen and cattle herders are now in Niobrara. Talk of lynching is strong, and an assault upon the jail is expected momentarily. Fifty deputies were sworn in, armed with winchesters, and are now guarding the prisoners.

Riot and Murder In the Strip.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 23.—A small riot occurred at the land office at Perry, and it was *necessary to call out the soldiers to re*store order. The body of an unknown middle aged woman was found near the Salt Fork river, badly decomposed, with a bullet hole in her forehead. There was no clue to her identity, and she was buried where found. In the Salt Iron district settlers are being robbed and murdered by desperadoes from the Cherokee reservation. So far three men have been killed.

VIGOR OF MEN

Easily, Quickly, Permanently Restored.

Weakness, nervousness, debility, and all the train of evils from early errors or later excesses, this invigorator restores lost vitality in old or young, and fits them for study, business or marriage. Not a stimulant that stimulates and then leaves you worse than before, but a nerve tonic and blood builder that brings back the pink glow to pale cheeks and restores the fire of youth. By mail, $1 per package, or six for $5, with our written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Pamphlet (sealed) free. Sold by druggists.

GOOD Food — Digestion — Complexion

are all intimately connected — practically inseparable. Though the fact is often ignored, it is nevertheless true that a good complexion is an impossibility without good digestion, which in turn depends on good food.

There is no more common cause of indigestion than lard. Let the bright housekeeper use

COTTOLENE

The New Vegetable Shortening

and substitute for lard, and her cooks, with those of her family, will be far more likely to say "Like a rose in the snow."

COTTOLENE is clean, delicate, healthful and popular. Try it for yourself.

WOMAN AND HOME.

SET A DAY OF RELIEF FROM HOUSEHOLD FRET AND WORRY.

When Women Are Most Beautiful—The American Woman—Who Are the People? The Nursery Card—Valuable Hints For the Housekeeper—Personal Mention.

Women worry too much over the small affairs of life and wear themselves out over such matters as undarned holes in the table linen, tarnished silver and unwashed icebooze. Of course I am talking of the great middle classes of women who look after their own servants and households and attend to the mark linen, butchers, grocers and bakers, who help to form the formidable army of daily cares which are inseparable from housekeeping. Unfortunately, in nine cases out of ten, lack of system is the principal stumbling block in the way of good housekeeping and perfect service.

The woman who conducts her house on a system which servants and tradesmen are made to understand will find her lot much easier and will be able to converse intelligently on some subject besides that ever lasting bugbear, the management of servants.

Days and hours arranged for certain household duties and kept strictly to will simplify housekeeping and insure the respect of servants, however ignorant or stupid they may seem. The great fault with servants is that mistresses begin wrong with them and then lay their own shortcomings at the door of the cook, laundress or chambermaid.

It is possible to train the most seemingly impossible case of servant-girlism to a state of absolute perfection, and this is always done by the women who are not hollow eyed and worn out through their struggles with the kitchenmaid.

Some women seem to like to fret and worry and think those two verbs the most important ones in the management of their households.

Women are not good enough to themselves as a rule, and the health reformer who preaches rest and sunshine and soft pillows and a mattress now and then to the great army of housekeeping women will have a terrible row to hoe than muscle culture and dumbbell exercise or even the newest fads in physical training.

It is told that a certain New York society woman whose engagements occupied nearly 24 hours of each day made a practice of taking one day every two weeks which she devoted to a thorough resting process, remaining in bed all day and having masseuns manipulate her tired limbs and aching head until the feeling of positive and complete rest was assured.

I would advocate such a "day off" for housekeeping women. Not a day at home spent with mind on household worries and annoyances, but a day begun at a Turkish bath establishment and ended by a perfect dinner at some good hotel. Get out of the rut of household worries once in a while. Rest the tired head and hands in the luxurious languor of a Turkish bath. Get meditated, manicured, massaged, hair dressed!

You will go home feeling positively young again and will surprise your household with a smile long absent among the wrinkles and lines of an existence made miserable through constant friction with household worries.—New York Herald.

When Women Are Most Beautiful.

The physical beauty of women should last until they are past 50. Nor does beauty reach its zenith under the age of 35 or 40. Helen of Troy comes upon the stage at the age of 40. Aspasia was 36 when married to Pericles, and she was a brilliant figure 30 years thereafter. Cleopatra was past 30 when she met Antony. Diane de Poictiers was 36 when she won the heart of Henry II. The king was half her age, but his devotion never changed. Anne of Austria was 36 when Richelieu left as the most beautiful woman in Europe. Mme. de Maintenon was 43 when united to Louis, and Catherine of Russia was 46 when ascended the throne she occupied for 35 years. Mlle. Mar was most beautiful at 45, and Mme. Recamier between the ages of 35 and 55.

The most lasting and intense passion is not inspired by two decade beauties. The old saw about sweet 16 is exploded by the truer knowledge that the highest beauty does not come alone the fashion of form and coloring as found in the waxen doll. The dew of youth and a complexion of roses are inseparable, but a face that is unmoving and unresponsive, as though lacking utterly the life spark. A woman's best and richest years are from 25 to 40. It is a great crime for any woman to regard herself as passee at an earlier day.

In the course of years, however, a time arrives when the coming of age must be recognized, when the muscles begin to relax, the skin to lose its polish and roundness and softness gives place to angles. Contentment and good humor will still outrival all medical inventions as a preservative of youth. A woman, beautiful in all else, but wanting mirth, will grow old, sour, thin and sallow, while the merry, fun loving woman will be fresh and sweet despite life's happenings and sorrows.—Science Siftings.

Who Are the People?

A notable change has taken place in the political signification of the word "people" in this country. It meant only adult white men at the time of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. It came to include black men at the end of the civil war. Now, in one of the states of the Union at all events, it comprehends adult men and women, white or black. In Wyoming women no less than men are entitled to vote for their representatives in the government of the country.

And why should woman not have this right? She counts in every enumeration of the census; her name is on every tax roll; she is the nurse and instructor of youth; she forms more than man the habits, tastes and manners of all the living; she is as deeply interested as man in good laws well administered; she suffers as much from a bad administration and profits as much by a good one. I repeat, why should she not vote as well as men? Certainly it is not because she is not as capable to rule.

In modern times three of the greatest rulers of the world have been women: Maria Theresa of Austria, Catherine of Russia and Victoria of England. It does not become a man to say that any of these great personages was not at least his equal in the capacity and art of governing. And in these states, who will pretend that it is just and decorous to give the right of voting to ignorant negroes and to refused to intelligent women?—David Dudley Field.

The Nursery Card.

A lady recently returned from a long residence in England brings with her a "nursery card," which might well be introduced into this country. It is about 3 feet long by 2 wide, printed like a wall map and is intended to hang in the nursery. At the top of the card is a blank space in which are written the name and address of the nearest doctor or the one you would wish to have called in case of an accident. Then follows a list of accidents most common with children and the remedies to be applied—bites, broken limbs, bruises and sprains, burns, convulsions, croup, cuts, drowning, fainting, falls, fits, nose bleeding, poisons, scalds, stings, substances in the eyes, ears, throat, sunstroke, swallowing buttons, etc., and wounds. Accompanying this card, which is headed "What to do and how to do it," is a small box containing the remedies, some court plaster, absorbent cotton and lint.

The idea is admirable, for, when the mother is at home, she is frequently so frightened by an accident that her wits desert her, and she is as helpless as the most ignorant of servants. "I have kept this nursery card hanging on my nursery door for four years," said the owner, "and I am beginning to believe it is a preventive of accidents. One thing I have been careful to observe, and that is not to allow the arnica or the camphor to be taken out of the box except for an accident."—Philadelphia Times.

The American Woman.

If the American Union is today one of the first countries in the world, it owes the fact to a large extent to the American woman, who was and still is an important factor in its astonishing prosperity. The United States owes it to her that it has preserved the religious faith, the principle of vitality, imported by the pilgrim fathers to the American shores.

She has been the efficacious artisan of the work. She has maintained it, extended and enlarged it in the church and the school. In the hours of difficulty, as during the war of independence and the war of secession, the patriotism of the woman sustained the courage of the man. Under all circumstances she was the consoling and his equal. As such he respected her, and that respect which she inspired in him by her self denial and her courage in the beginning, by her intelligence and good breeding afterward, by her charms and her confidence in his protection, has fashioned American manners not less strongly impregnated them with the idea that respect for his companion was for the man one of the prime conditions of moral life.

This moral life is her own work. She created and she maintains it. In the cult of which she is the object, in the homage which she renders to her sex, there is more than the mysterious attraction which sex inspires; there is the instinctive recognition of a great and salutary influence nobly exercised.—M. C. de Varigny in the Revue des Deux Mondes.

Sunshine Hygiene.

The broad sunshine which will purify a poisonous atmosphere better than all the deodorizers and disinfectants known to the chemist will also in more outward positive health to a human frame whose machinery is out of gear than all the medicines known to the drug-shop. It seems strange that dogs and cats should understand the value of basking in the rays of the sun so much better than their human friends. The blue glass craze of a few years ago had a great underlying principle of truth, in that it was the medium for floods of sunshine, which would otherwise have been shut out or ignored.

The shining or clonding of the sun has an immeasurable effect upon many sensi*tive temperaments, and if delicate women* especially would imitate the old sea weshipers to the extent of letting limitless sunshine into their houses, regardless of carpets and furniture, and regardless of their own virtues and would make it a point to follow the great glowing source of all life and health in its westward course, going from room to room to keep him company, and if they can do no sooner sleep in a room unpenetrated by his magnetic rays, they would live happier, healthier, longer and more useful lives.—Philadelphia Press.

The Employment of Women.

Women are to be found in the manufacture of agricultural implements, machinery, files, axles, locks, hinges, carpet and wooden boxes, type, woodcuts and printers' supplies, tents, bags, umbrellas, valises and trunks, leather, oilcloth and linoleum, gold polishing; in cotton mills, jute mills, soap and salt works, fruit canneries, hopfields, vineyards and orchards; women are butchers, market venders, blacksmiths, farmers, straw hat makers, cigarmakers, bookbinders and proofreaders, press feeders, lithographers and engravers.

They find employment, too, as clerks, cashiers, medical nurses, missionaries, photographers, retouchers and colorers, teachers, lawyers, doctors, musicians, telegraph operators, typewriters, stereotypers, stenographers, wood and metal engravers, canvassers, collectors, merchants. They are ministers, lecturers, editors, reporters, novelists, pugilists, inventors, politicians and notaries public.—Westchester (Pa.) News.

The Colors to Wear.

Black makes a woman look slender. It is the thinnest color a stout woman can wear. It also makes a person look old. It is the worst color an aging woman can wear.

White makes a woman look big, wholesome, innocent, winsome and classic. Slim, sickly, consumptive looking women look best with velvet bonnet strings and a lace ruche or scarf about the neck.

A woman with auburn hair should beware of pink, strawberry and scarlet. Blue shows her waist is apt to make an unpleasantly strong contrast. Green is her color if she is not her shade.

A stout woman should have plaids, flounces and ruffles, and a thin woman must avoid stripes. Red will brighten any woman but one with auburn hair. It is the most charitable color in chromatics. Invalids on their "up" days look their very prettiest in red robes.—Exchange.

Hospitality.

Hospitality, the real hospitality of the heart, too often appears not among the lost, but the neglected graces of woman.

Thousands of dollars are spent in large cities every week by wealthy hostesses on decorations, favors, souvenirs and meals for lunches and dinners. This is carried to a great an excess that, both by the wealthy and those of moderate means, the entertaining of guests is often looked on with dread rather than with delight.

However, there are many women who keep the old and true hospitality alive by inviting their friends because they want to see them, and by giving them a true welcome and the best of their heart and mind, although they must plan a simple fare before them, minus costly flowers, yards of silk and ribbon or golden souvenirs.—New York Telegram.

London's Feminine Stockbroker.

Amy E. Bell has been for several years a stockbroker in London. She has an office hard by the Stock Exchange and does a large business, especially among women clients. Her training for the legal profession was shown when she was a little child. An old gentleman, a visitor at Miss Bell's home, happened one day to be diffusing the money article in The Times. He was in no mood to be interrupted, so he said to the child when she hung around him: "Run away, little girl. I am busy with my lessons, and you must go to yours." "Yes," said little Miss Amy, "but what's your lessons is my play," for it was the highest recreation of the infant phenomenon to study the stock quotations. —London Times.

Dining Out In Paris.

A woman much in Paris says: "The fashion so prevalent in New York at dinners of leaving almost at once after rising from the table is not in vogue here. No grosser insult to one's host and hostess could be made than to eat and run. You would be taken for a savage. When you dine out, unless you have some extraordinary excuse, you are expected to spend the evening. Coffee and liquors are served in the drawing room to the women and are then taken up to the smoking room for the men. The men smoke from half to three-quarters of an hour and then rejoin the women. Large dinners are generally followed by a small reception of guests, who are invited at 10 for a cup of tea."

A Sickroom Hoon.

Lavender stalks, when properly dried, are most agreeable. I always keep mine to burn to scent the rooms in winter time, when there are no flowers. They burn slowly, and if laid upon a metal tray, will smolder on for a long time. A few stalks make quite a sufficient scent for an ordinary room. In sickrooms they are a boon, for the smell is much cleaner and more natural than the pastilles and other things which offend the patient's nose and only clear the atmosphere for a comparatively short time.—London Queen.

Women "Cold Shouldered."

Over and over again, writes Miss Ada Sweet of Chicago, I have seen a party of women formed into a committee and starting out with great enthusiasm to accomplish some work. In two or three days, when they came together again, I have noticed a marked falling off in their enthusiasm and ardor. This I always found to be due to the fact that they had taken it over with their husbands or friends and had been discouraged, ridiculed and "cold shouldered" out of all hope for the accomplishment of anything.

Gentle Spots on Matting.

If you have dropped grease upon the matting, do not try ammonia or benzine or grease extractors; you will only make the spot worse, says Jennesse-Miller. Scald some vinegar and a little salt; this will be effective, but the best eradicator is French chalk and benzine. Cover the spot thick with the chalk and moisten by sprinkling, not pouring, the benzine upon it. When the benzine has evaporated, brush off the chalk, and the spot will have vanished also.

Silk Underwear.

Silk stockings and silk underwear generally should not be worn two days in succession. When taken off, they should be taken free of dust, turned inside out and hung in a current of air. This will reduce the number of washings necessary to them. They should be washed in warm, not hot, suds made with white castile soap and rinsed in warm water. They should be wrung out gently, stretched and dried, but they should not be ironed.

To Renovate Old Black Lace.

To renovate the old black lace which has begun to look hopelessly gray try this plan: Brush it with a soft brush that will not tear the lace. Sponge with tepid water containing a little powdered borax. Lay on a folded flannel and press on the wrong side with a moderately warm iron. Lay over the lace while pressing a piece of thin black silk.—Exchange.

Amelia Rives Chanler.

Amelia Rives Chanler is happy in the sincere conviction that she is beautiful. She "is devoted to her own beauty and to beautiful women in general." At least so she is quoted. Furthermore, she revels in admiration of her own face and figure, and she says that she thanks God daily for his gifts of loveliness.

A Bedroom Screen.

It is always safe and useful to have a screen included in the furniture of each bedroom. It can be placed before the windows, and then there is no need of keeping out the air by tightly drawing the curtains nor any danger of revealing the inside of the room to passersby.—New York Evening World.

Overdressed Children.

If you attract attention to your children by dressing them in fantastic guise, don't correct them for overweening egotism. A clever school child thinks twice before she models a small man, dressed like a continental soldier or a Vandyke canvas, to play with everyday grubby little boys.—Philadelphia Times.

One Woman's Way.

A dauntless woman, driven by the perplexity of a reprobate husband who threatened misery, if not ruin, by his wayward course, had herself appointed her husband's guardian, thus gaining legal control of his wages and authority to restrain him from extremes of conduct.—Minneapolis Journal.

The Demure Quakeress.

Among the peculiarities of Quakerism, a correspondent points out, Quakeresses are not allowed to wear gold ornaments or to have their ears pierced for earrings. If a mother permitted her daughter to undergo this operation, both mother and daughter would be "read out" of meeting.

One Way to Serve Pineapples.

The English way of serving pineapples is to take the fruit out from the rind in a solid cone. This, with its prickly stem attached, is left intact. The pine is then sliced and piled in its natural shape and the rind fitted on. It is then sent to the table and served.

Miss Alice Longfellow celebrates her father's birthday each year by providing a special car for a party of working girls from Boston, different ones being invited each season, and entertaining them for the afternoon at the old historic mansion in Cambridge.

China and wash silks may be cleaned by sponging with benzine or gasoline. Use a flannel cloth to rub them and dry in the air until all odor has disappeared.

To the average woman the idea that she is a comfort to some one more than outweighs the cares and toils of the day.

Queen Victoria keeps bedrooms in which her relatives have died locked and entirely as they were at the time of the death.

Water the Best Cosmetic.

An authority warns women who would preserve or enhance the beauty of their complexion—and what woman would not?—to use water freely, if possible, to wash their faces in. If this is not procurable, boil the water before using it. With this good soap should be used, as the basis of all beauty is cleanliness. It is a mistake to fancy that oils and unguents will cleanse the skin. A few women still cling to this most pernicious idea, and they never was a greater delusion. Water is the best of all cosmetics.

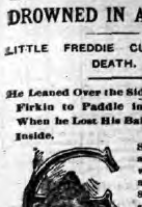
DROWNED IN A FIRKIN.

LITTLE FREDDIE CURTIS'S SAD DEATH.

He Leaned Over the Side of a Butter Firkin to Paddle in the Water, When he Lost His Balance and Fell Inside.



SAIAS P. Curtis, a peddler, lives with his wife and children at 223 New Front street. About half-past one o'clock yesterday his youngest child, Freddie, a boy a year and eight days old, who was just beginning to toddle around, was playing around a butter firkin, in which there was about four inches of water.

The little fellow climbed up alongside the firkin and reached in with his tiny hands to paddle in the water. Suddenly he lost his balance and fell head first in the firkin.

When his mother reached him, the boy was dead, having suffocated. It is supposed that as the infant's head struck the water, he tried to scream, his mouth filled with water and strangled him.

Dr. Tomlinson was called and he decided that the child had met death from suffocation. County Physician O'Reilly of Elizabeth has been notified.

Saturday night Policeman Lynch arrested a man named Covert in the boulevard for drunkenness. He was fined $3.

BOWLING ON THE GREEN.

MR. SCHEPFLIN ENTERTAINS HIS FRIENDS AT DUNELLEN.

A Distinguished Company Have an Exciting Contest.—Boston Defeats Dunellen and Middlesex Defeats Boston.

THE crack bowling green players of the country assembled Saturday on the beautiful green of the Dunellen Bowling Green Club for a contest between the only three regularly organized clubs in the United States, the Middlesex, Dunellen, and Boston Bowling Green clubs. The Boston club sent over a delegation of a dozen gentlemen, prominent among whom were A. Geigher, the millionaire real estate dealer, and W. H. Treworgy, the lumber magnate. The morning was taken up with a contest between the crack sight bowlers from Boston and the Dunellen Club.

The New Jersey players were beaten after a most exciting contest of two hours by the score of 42 to 19. James Wemys, Jr., was the skip of the team in rink No. 1 and John McGough directed the players in the second rink. The Boston team was made up as follows: Rink No. 1—James Wemys, Jr., Willim Lamb. John Kinner, and Orrin Brizes. Rink No. 2—John McGough, Edward Owler, David Smith, and Charles Butcher.

The Dunellen team was guided by James Stevens, the veteran Scotch bowler, and Thomas Stone, a noted authority on the game. The players were: Rink No. 1—James Stevens, C. K. Moore, John Young, and Andrew Love. Rink No. 2—Thomas Stone, William Elliott, D. B. S. Cockburn, and C. Schepflin.

In the afternoon the Boston bowlers tried their skill against the Middlesex County Club. The gentlemen from Massachusetts were defeated, 34 to 32 points. The Boston team was made up of the same in the afternoon, with the exception that Dr. Ferguson retired and Mr. Lamb. The Middlesex Club was composed as follows:

Rink No. 1.—J. B. Betts, F. J. Richter, C. Schepflin, and R. M. Pettit.

Rink No. 2.—H. Brewster Willis, Frederick Weigel, Dr. William E. Lindsters, and J. H. Hoffner.

The visitors were splendidly entertained on the courts on Mr. Christian Schepflin's fine country place at Dunellen. Mr. Geigher of Boston was the scorer. The bowlers from the Hub have arranged to have the Dunellen and Middlesex players play at their fine grounds just outside of Boston. They are quite as expert at curling as at bowling on the green.

Conspicuous among those present were Precholder J. Edgar Powelson, who is a member of the Middlesex Club, and Mr Arthur Boyd, the brilliant city editor of The Home News, of New Brunswick.

Mrs. Schepflin with her usual grace did the honors as hostess.

DR. PARKS RESIGNS.

His Resignation to Take Effect Jan. 1, 1894.

The Rev. Dr. Parks has resigned the pastorate of the Scotch Plains Baptist church to take effect Jan. 1st, 1894. The church has voted him an annual appropriation in view of services rendered, and he will reside in his own recently completed house in the midst of the people he has served for eleven years.

BREVITIES.

—The ninth annual convention of the Union County W. C. T. U. will be held Tuesday, Sept. 26th, in the Park M. E. church at Elizabeth.

—Grey squirrel shooting opened on the 15th, and the hunters can enjoy the sport until December 16th. Ruffed grouse (partridge) shooting begins on the 30th.

—In its Westfield correspondence, the Elizabeth Journal says: "A. B. Woodruff of Plainfield is securing the rights of way for an electric road along Mountain avenue."

—Mr. D. S. Roberts has brought suit in Justice Mosher's court, against the Postal Telegraph Company, on contract. Summons has been issued, returnable October 5th.

—Excelsior Hook & Ladder and Company of Scotch Plains will have a lay out on their 25th anniversary in February. Preparations for a great time are already being made.

—Saturday afternoon the assault and battery case of Peterson vs. Venable, was tried before Justice Nash. All the witnesses testified that only one blow was struck. Several of the club's men were there that blow landed. Mrs. Peterson said it landed on her cheek, but Venable said it struck Mr. Peterson. The fracas took place at the cake walk.

Mr. Marshall Taken with a Fit.

Mr. Lot Marshal of Park avenue was taken with a fit in a North avenue store this morning. He fell to the floor, badly bruising his head. He was sent home in a carriage.

The Weather.

The indications are for fair and cool weather, with variable winds.

"AN IMAGE OF SILVER."

The Rev. Chas E. Herring's Sermon Last Night.

LAST night, in the First Presbyterian church, the Rev. Charles E. Herring, delivered another of his interesting sermons on the "World's Fair," his subject being "an Image of Silver." He said in part:

"There stands in the Music building a silver statue of Justice valued at 72,000 dollars on a golden plate valued at 224,000 dollars and between the Administration Building and the Peristyle there is a colossal figure of the Republic covered with gold-leaf to the extent of 1400 dollars.

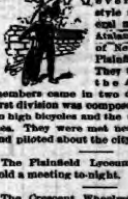
"Scripture declares that we shall be refined as silver is refined and that man shall be made more precious than the divine eye than the golden wedge of Ophir. The best things of earth represent heaven, golden streets, walls of jasper, piles of carbuncles, foundations of sapphire and battlements of rubies and the best things of earth symbolize man's greatness. Eye hath not seen the glories of man or of heaven in the future, but we do know that our best imaginings are feeble compared with the reality. There is infinite preciousness in a human soul. Men underrate their brothers. Men do not put the proper price upon themselves. Man is but the bubble that glitters for a moment in the sunlight of individual existence and then is lost in the great dark river of life. In God's sight man is more precious than silver and gold. All souls are mine says the Master. Creation has groaned for the formation of man. Man is the crown of creation. Greater than all created things. Greater because of the possibility which rests in him. Greater because he may sit with Christ on his throne.

"The Silver statue is ideal. The image of a well-known character and yet not absolutely her image. The image perfects her imperfections. It is better than the original. The statue has embodied the characteristics of a single individual, but gathered beauties and represented combined excellencies. Christ stands as the ideal man grander in his manhood than any man. He is the model, the thought of which the best of his humanity. To-day men are studying the historical Christ more than ever before. The Prince of this world has come with his cohorts and peered into that character and have retired finding nothing. What other age could ever have said 'Which of you convinceth me of sin.'

"Zeno had an evil reputation, the name of Socrates was tarnished, Plato advocated mormonism, Cato was revengeful. Jesus, in his human life, is the ray of white light that streams down the centuries, and whose radiance fills the world. Jesus manifested manhood. What is man? Behold the man! Man as the summit of creation. God sees the possibility of the race for he has created that possibility. He sees the ray of light for man is a ray from God. Behold the gamut of possibility. Benedict Arnold might have had his name enrolled on the scroll of honored patriots, but British gold was the devil of temptation and British gold debased the traitor in him. Man differs from the animal in his range, lambikke or lionlike. Witness the extent of his brutality. Roanoke Antichoa, Genghis Khan, and Tamerlane are examples of human depravity more brutal than any brute. The how of the Fall is difficult, the fact is the Fall is vivid and real. But weeds show fertility of soil, the baseness of man shows his capabilities. None but immortals could descend so low. Christ came as an image to show you the height to which man might ascend. Christ comes as a redeemer to effect the change in man and to draw all men to himself.

AMONG THE WHEELMEN.

Atalanta Wheelmen Ride to Plainfield on High Bicycles.



WITH high bicycles of every conceivable style and finish, seventy members of the Atalanta Wheelmen of Newark rode to Plainfield yesterday. They took dinner at the Albion. The members came in two divisions. The first division was composed of members on high bicycles and the second on safeties. They were met near Netherwood and piloted about the city.

The Plainfield Lyceum Cyclers will hold a meeting to-night.

The Crescent Wheelmen, under the leadership of Capt. Haynes, will start on a "run" to Springfield and return to-morrow evening. The start will be from the club house at eight o'clock. A stop will be made at Westfield when refreshments will be taken.

The Writ of Habeas Corpus Refused.

This morning, before Judge Bartine, at Somerville, Lawyer Meehan applied for a writ of habeas corpus for the release of Adam Stutts, who was held for the Grand Jury charged with aiding in the abduction of Annie Kilper. The writ was refused and the Judge remanded Stutts back to jail. The Grand Jury will be sworn in to-morrow.

"THE IDEAL WIFE."

THE REV. J. W. RICHARDSON'S SERMON LAST NIGHT.

In the Park Avenue Baptist Church —The Second Sermon of the Series now being Delivered by that Eloquent Divine.

"WIVES SUBMIT yourselves unto your husbands, as unto the Lord"—Ephesians 5: 22—was the Rev. J. W. Richardson's text at the Park Avenue Baptist church last night. His subject was "The Ideal Wife."

The speaker said in substance: "A good wife is Heaven's best gift to man. There are men who are looking for just such angels. It is not necessary for a woman to be translated before she can become an angel. Wings do not make angels. The man may be called the head; but, if the wife manifest the submission of true love, she will so strongly influence her husband, that in reality she will be the head. If the wife is willing to seek his plans and advise him in his wishes, her home may wear a spell like that of the fairy's bower. But if at dinner-time there is scolding instead of a welcome, an angry retort instead of quiet acquiescence, the charm will be dispelled; he will linger on the way home and leave the house as soon as he can for the lodge or social club. Ladies, it would not damage your cause a particle if you should bend over your husband as he sits in his chair after a hard day's grind and impress a caress on his cheek, just as you used to in by gone days. Something of that kind would electrify some of these work-worn husbands. The ideal wife will also respect all interference between her husband and herself. I have not one word to say against that much abused person, the mother-in-law. Too many times has she been an angel in the family when sickness has darkened the house. She is a mother whose tenderness love for her own, and because of her great desire for the success of her child, she often attempts to apply to the life of the young couple those ideas which have been fashioned by her own peculiar married experience; and, as a mother-in-law's style of old clothes, these ideas are a misfit. This is why I say to all wives do not allow any interference in your home affairs. No ship is safe with two captains. No household can go in opposite directions at the same time. Husbands have a host of enemies. Many a wife has lost the queenship of her home because she has permitted another, and unsubmissive voice, to be heard in the management of the house.

"Then again I warn you against the married neighbor, who is constantly telling you how to manage your husband; and how she would act if she were in your place. If you try her methods, you will make a dismal failure. In all probability her husband is too much managed. If you continue to listen to her, you will suddenly discover faults in your own husband of which you never before dreamed. Remember, that the married gossip will sow more thistles in your home, than you can pull up in a lifetime. Oh, ye wives, do not believe anything you hear, and about half you see, and will be the happier for it. Until you have indisputable proofs that your husband is not true, do not allow anybody to say aught against this character in your presence. Be on your guard against gossip, and you shall escape much soul damage! The ideal wife will also be a financial helpmeet to her husband. Prudent home management is the demand of the hour. There are very few men who are willing to live beyond their income. These husbands know the exquisiteness of making plausible excuses, to avoid the man with a bill. The wife ought to take into consideration what the husband's income is before planning millinery and dress-making bills. Some hard-working man, because of love and pride for his family, and to gratify the wife, has gone beyond his means, that they might vie with others of the same social stratum. And the consequence has been an exhaustive bill—the big bonnets with feathers, and numerous dresses out in the latest style, with a ticket for the opera—and bankruptcy and the sheriff's sale. We are in the midst of a social whirlwind, and no one can bring about reform quicker than the wives of this nation. Let the desire for personal adornment be subordinate to the welfare of the toiling husband. Remember that it is far better to have $200 on deposit, drawing interest, than $300 on our backs. Ye ideal wives! Your wifely tact will make the husband's affairs with a determination to make captive will's pride. Let her be willing to live a little old-fashioned for her husband's sake, and an entirely new spirit will take possession of him. The habit of saving of accumulating a fund for days of sickness and trouble, will set in. He will buy you a carriage or clothing for himself; spend less money outside the home; and the extra money will be saved. The balance will grow. The ideal wife will also make religion the guardian angel of the home. Your husband will be more appliances, and rare bric-a-brac in your house; but without Christ, it is only a beautiful shy without a boiler. The ideal wife will prepare her household for the kingdom of God. The world is sick for a change, and upon wives will rest the eternal welfare of the husband and children will be more important, than what our fashionable world calls, 'Society.' In favor of Christ will be more valuable, than the favor of the world. Ye ideal wives, the largest exceptions. Ye ideal wives, to whom the immortal principle of character will be esteemed worthier of cultivation, than all schemes for social pride.

TRAIN ROBBERS AMBUSHED.

They Board a Running Train Filled with Police.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 25. (Special.)—The officials of the Kansas City, St. Joe and Council Bluffs road heard of a plan to rob an express last night and sent out a dummy train filled with police. The robbers walked into the trap. There was a desperate fight. Two bandits were killed and the rest captured.

EDITORIAL NOTES

New Scientific Discoveries.

In another of his interesting papers in The Popular Science Monthly on "Recent Science," Prince Kropotkin describes the reproduction by chemical and mechanical processes of gems and other minerals. It tends to show almost a reason for being of the growing belief that there is only one original substance, and that all matter is only this sole substance existing in different forms. It is certain, as Prince Kropotkin says, that this is true in regard to carbon. Graphite, diamond and charcoal are different forms of pure carbon, but carbon composed of molecules whose atoms are arranged in different groupings or orders.

The production of the diamond by artificial process the prince regards as the greatest recent triumph of chemistry. It is true the diamonds yet made are very small, not much more than diamond dust, therefore quite out of the count commercially. But the method by which they were obtained throws light on the secret processes by which nature herself makes diamonds, and that constitutes the greatness of the discovery. It is one theory that diamonds are not produced originally upon our globe at all, but were thrown upon the earth in meteorites. Professor Moissan of the French academy mixed soft iron and carbon together and fused them at a temperature of 9,000 degrees F. Then while the mass was cooling the carbon took regular shape and showed the crystals, which proved to be genuine diamond dust.

Another of the recent scientific achievements in the electrical furnace which made the diamond production successful. Moissan invented a small furnace which by means of electricity he was enabled to bring to the tremendous heat named. At that temperature bricks themselves melt down and "flow like water." By this furnace, too, various precious gems have been extracted from the dross which holds them. Pure rubies have been made by heating the crude alumina to about 4,050 degrees. From this discovery is only one step to the conclusion that thus it is nature makes flashing jewels and precious gems. Fusing together her materials in meteorites, or ages ago in the bowels of the earth, at a heat which only within a year or two science has been able to reproduce, there she wrought the splendid stones which beauty appropriates without knowing or caring whence they came. Another question suggests itself from these achievements: If diamonds, rubies and sapphires may thus be fashioned by the hand of man, why not gold itself?

Hard Times a Blessing.

"There are gains for all our losses," sings the poet, and the poet is right. For one thing during hard times we find out just what is necessary to us and what is not, and we are set to reflecting on how much people worry and toil in getting and using possessions that they would really be better and happier without.

But there are communities that scorn a real, tangible gain from the hardest kinds of hard times. It has been said there is no diminution of drunkenness during the present scarcity of work and money. It is true that the last necessity a man is apt to give up is his tobacco and whisky. The fact remains, however, that internal revenue receipts have shrunken greatly in the past three months.

In one section of St. Louis particularly it seems that the toughs and the roughs have not even money enough left to get drunk on. Order and virtue suddenly began to reign there to a degree that made the inhabitants wonder whether the millennium was not hovering around somewhere. A sergeant of police said to a newspaper man:

"On ordinary Saturday nights the patrol wagon is kept on the go all the time running in drunk and disorderly, etc., but now we can only get a few sneak thieves. It's the hard times that are working the reformation."

Charleston seems in a fair way to realize her dream of being the great American export of the southeast. Then the freight from the southwest will be shipped to Charleston in preference to New Orleans, New York, Charleston hopes. Improvements for deepening the harbor were begun by the national government several years ago through the Ends jetty system. A new channel has been thus washed out, fourteen feet deep in the shoalest spot.

The French campaign in Dahomey lasted two months and a half, ending with the capture of Behanzin's capital—Abomey. It contains 12,000 inhabitants and had a ditch and a hedge of thorn bushes around it. But the French got in, the brave Dahomeyans fighting them every step of the way. Of French soldiers under Colonel Dodds in the Africanic campaign there were 4,000.

"Forces that utterly subjugate and enslave the mind of mediocrity sometimes rouse to thought and action the great soul," says Ingersoll, writing about Ernest Renan in The North American Review.

If the rabbits of Australia were to be exterminated the price of felt hats would rise at once. In New South Wales in one year as many as 23,260,000 rabbit skins have been shipped to England.

Two Doctors.

In the current magazines two widely different individuals offer their remedies for the present hard times depression and hard times. One is Dr. Albert Shaw of The Review of Reviews. Being an editor, of course he is a wise man. The other gentleman is Mr. Newton L. Bunnell, an agriculturist, who writes in The North American Review. Being a farmer, Mr. Bunnell is of course an honest man as well as a wise one.

Dr. Shaw declares emphatically that if the last congress had repealed the silver coinage law of 1890 "practically all of our recent business troubles would have been averted." He declares further that our monetary laws, "far from being of any advantage to the silver men or of any value for the future realization of bimetallism, either American or international, are of the most serious detriment to the silver cause." He regrets that the silver men show themselves so devoid of the higher principles of statesmanship as to fatuously refuse to let the present silver coinage law be repealed unless it is followed at once by absolutely free coinage of silver at the present ratio. He says:

> It has now been determined to postpone the adjourned session of the international silver conference until November. Our readers will remember that when the sessions at Brussels were ended last winter it was the intention to reconvene them in May. It has been intimated by European governments that nothing of value can be accomplished by the conference unless the delegates from the United States shall have submitted a definite programme to which our government is virtually if not formally committed. If President Cleveland should bring congress together in September or early in October, and should succeed in persuading both houses promptly and unconditionally to repeal the silver purchase and coinage acts, the financial situation would be cleared up at a stroke. It would then be perfectly easy for our delegates to go to Brussels in November or December and submit a proposition for the free coinage of silver under conditions of international identity to be agreed upon by treaty among the leading commercial powers. Under these circumstances this proposition would have immense weight, and in the course of a few years it would almost certainly be adopted.

Hear now the other doctor: Mr. Nelson Bunnell regrets that while farmers are almost a unit in the demand for free coinage city men are almost a unit in the demand for the single gold standard, and thus city and country are arrayed against one another. He rightly observes that while the cities are so dependent on the country for prosperity it is most unfortunate that they should be divided in their ideas as to relief for the financial difficulty. Farmer Bunnell believes the only remedy is free coinage of silver and that very quick. Here is his philosophy: When the business of a country is growing at a steadily increasing rate, a constant regular increase in the quantity of its circulating medium is not enough, but the supply of money should stretch in proportion to the increase of business and population. For instance he remarks: "Business is increasing at the rate of 8 per cent a year, and the circulating medium is remaining comparatively constant. The added $34,000,000 a year to our currency Farmer Bunnell does not think is nearly enough, while Dr. Shaw is dead certain that the too much ness of that addition under present circumstances is the main cause of our troubles.

Farmer Bunnell maintains that the increase of currency is at present only sufficient to keep up with the growth of population, not of business. He observes:

> At the present time any person may take gold to the mint and receive its full weight in gold coin. We are only asking that the same privilege be extended to the holders of silver. The law now in force is an unjust discrimination against silver in favor of gold, and it is to those who have brought about this permanent disparity of their values. Silver at one time under free coinage was at a premium above gold. The fact that silver has since fallen but gold has gained in the last decade. This has been brought about partly by the larger output of silver, partly by the increased demand for gold produced, but most of all by the demonetization of silver. It is claimed that free coinage would bring inflation. All the other great world countries to about $8,700,000,000. If it were all dumped down in this country the would only make about $22 per capita. The same authority claims that it would bring contraction. As to that, for 20 years after 1849 the world's gold was free, and there was no more disturbance in the markets about one metal than the other.
> Experience has shown that the price of American farm products at home is governed by the amount of legal tender money in actual circulation. The safety consists in the fact we have only to examine the prices of farm products during a period of 20 years, beginning with the year 1873.

Can any one tell whether Mr. Bunnell's assertion—twice repeated in passing a free coinage bill. The senate is prominent in possess the best brain department in congress, although not always in accord with classic theories.

It appears that the Austrian and German imperial governments are very profoundly interested in the American school question. They both oppose as openly as they dare and secretly with all their might instruction in the English language only in our public schools. They try to foster the un-Americanizing spirit among our immigrants and throw all the weight of their moral support on the side of schools where instruction is given in German and other foreign tongues. They can have only one object—that of insidiously working to destroy this republic. With knowledge of the depths of treachery and meanness to which the desperate monarchies of Europe are willing to descend every American citizen will know how to act. The existence of this noble and prosperous republic is a perpetual menace to kings. Self preservation impels them to resort to every means, no matter how unworthy, to disintegrate and destroy it.

The fruit trade of California is increasing enormously, and she flatters herself that she will soon be able to supply not only the United States, but Europe as well. That may all be, but with cherries, for example, at 40 cents a pound in the large American cities, what need will her abundance do anybody?

THAT NEW TARIFF BILL

The Committee Confronted by a Serious Situation.

MORE REVENUE MUST BE PROVIDED

Pressed For the Week In Senate and House—More Silver Repeal Debate in the Upper Branch, While the Lower Will Discuss the Federal Election Law.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—This week will see the beginning of the work of putting into shape the tariff bill to be reported by the committee on ways and means. The committee is confronted with a serious financial situation. It is admitted that in some way at least $80,000,000 of additional annual revenue must be provided to meet the ordinary current expenses of the government, and unless the sinking fund law is suspended or repealed the deficit will amount to over $100,000,000. How this is to be done is the question the committee must answer by its work.

One of the leading members of the committee said, "I believe the bill will embrace a general schedule of reduced duties, the changes to be made with no reference to the persons or interest affected," while Chairman Wilson has been quoted as saying, "The tariff bill which the ways and means committee will report will fulfill in every respect the declarations of the national Democratic platform on the subject.

Representative Wilson declined to set a date for the bill's appearance, but it is intimated that it would be ready by Nov. 1. An impression prevails that Jan. 1, 1895, will be agreed upon by the committee as the date for putting the law into effect.

Another Week of Debate.

There is a reasonable certainty that congress will spend the entire week in debate. The first business in the senate will be the resolution offered Saturday morning by Mr. Stewart declaring for the independence of the Hawaiian islands and for the recognition of the present government. This came up in the morning hour today, and Mr. Stewart made it the text for an attack upon the administration on the ground that its failure to support the constitutional powers of the legislative branch of the government in the case of the pending repeal bill.

Notice of formal speeches has been given by Senator Bate of Tennessee for this afternoon, by Senator Perkins of California for Tuesday, by Senator Peffer of Kansas for Wednesday and by Senator Dubois of Idaho for a later date in the week. These speeches will not fill in all of the time, as the lengthening of the session by the addition of an hour will give seven full hours for debate each day. But by this evening the list of speakers will doubtless be increased, and there are half a dozen senators who stand ready to talk at any moment they may be called upon to do so.

Programme in the House.

The house will tomorrow enter upon the two weeks' debate of the bill to repeal all statutes relating to supervisors of elections and special deputy marshals, reported by Mr. Tucker from the committee on the election of president, vice president and representatives in congress.

Mr. Tucker, whose name is attached to the measure on the calendar, will open the debate in support of the bill. He has given notice that in the course of his remarks he will have something to say about the cost of executing the laws sought to be repealed, especially the allowances made to John I. Davenport, the chief supervisor of elections in New York. Messrs. DeArmond and Lawson, members of the committee, will follow Mr. Tucker for the bill.

In opposition to the bill, Mr. Dolliver of Iowa will have the opening, followed by Mr. Johnson of Indiana. Both of these are comparatively young men and members, but they are among the most aggressive debaters on the Republican side. It is expected that much vigor will mark all the speeches.

The Treasury Will Foot the Bills.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Secretary Carlisle has written a letter to Attorney General Olney, stating in effect that the treasury will pay all expenses incurred for deporting Chinese under the Geary law as far as its means will permit. The execution of the law is thrown upon the department of justice. Attorney General Olney has officially stated the position of the department on the matter to be as follows:

"Chinese who shall apply for writs of habeas corpus and who are discharged upon the hearing thereof, and Chinese who are arrested and prosecuted for unlawful residence in the United States and are acquitted upon the trial thereof, are entitled to be paid the costs of their respective proceedings, including the fees of witnesses, and the duty of the district attorney in each district is to prepare and file with the clerk of the court a certificate of the amount due each person entitled to such costs, and the duty of the clerk is to make out and certify to the proper accounting officers of the treasury a statement of the amount due each person entitled to such costs, and the duty of the accounting officers is to pay the amount so certified out of the appropriation for the payment of witness fees in the courts of the United States."

Van Alen Had Good Backing.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The appointment of James J. Van Alen of Rhode Island for ambassador to Italy was recommended by ex-Governor Hussey, Congressman Lapham and Page, the Rhode Island senatorial committee, Hon. David S. Baker, Jr., Democratic candidate for governor in 1892, and the other candidates defeated by the last state election, and also by United States Senator Aldrich and other citizens of Rhode Island.

Statistics of the Late Depression.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Statistics compiled from the official data show that from January 1 to September 1 over 500 national and private banks in the United States failed and that 73 have resumed business. In the same time 135 national banks failed, 70 of which have resumed.

Brief Washington Mention.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The weekly statement of the pension office shows that the total number of claims now pending is 790,279.

Representative Patterson of Tennessee has introduced in the house a bill to amend the interstate commerce law. The measure is similar to the one reported by the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce of the last congress and passed by the house.

The following telegram from Surgeon Murray was received by Surgeon General Wyman from Brunswick, Ga.: "One death and two cases of fever and child of the victim. None were taken to camp."

When Secretary Gresham returns to Washington, full and reliable information regarding the revolution in Brazil will be given to the public.

Ray Murray Is a Hero.

MATTOON, Ills., Sept. 23.—A frightful railroad disaster was narrowly averted by the presence of mind of Ray Murray, a 14-year-old boy, at Pana, 40 miles west of this city. The boy, noticing the approach of a flying train, ran to a misthrown switch and threw it, so the main track just in time to avoid an awful crash into some freight cars.

Meanest Against the World.

BUFFALO, Sept. 23.—The owner of Mascot (2:24) offers to match him against any trotter or pacer in the world for $5,000 a side.

BEAUTY ON A STEER.

Interesting Adventures of an Eloping Couple Down In West Virginia.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 23.—On Saturday morning a couple appeared in Welch, McDowell county. They were Miss Carrie Coste, a pretty country damsel of 17, and Sandy Johnson, a tall, gaud looking mountaineer of 22. They had traveled all night from the latter's home on Ground Hog creek in order to elude the obdurate father of the girl. The girl was riding on the back of a dignified spotted steer, and Sandy was walking by her side. The unusual sight soon drew a crowd, and half a dozen hurried off after a magistrate or a preacher. Unluckily for the lovers, no officer should be found who would marry them, on account of the girl's age. When the couple learned of this, they broke down and cried, the girl sobbing as if heart-broken.

The tears of the pretty girl brought about a determination on the part of the spectators to see them through in some way, and one suggested that they take a train for Bristol, Tenn., where they would find no difficulty in getting married. This proposition elicited a smile of the bride into smiles of joy and Sandy's less apparent grief into open mouthed delight for a moment until he thought of the expense. Some one in the crowd, however, relieved the young man and proposed that the crowd pay all expenses, and in less time than it takes to write it pocketbooks were out, and enough money was contributed to carry the couple through, with a souvenirs left over for the bride.

Neither of the couple had ever seen a train before, and when it pulled in they got on the platform between the engine and baggage car. Their sponsors soon remedied this mistake and had them conducted into a ladies' car, where the conductor was expressly charged to see them safely through.

MURDERED AT NIGHT.

Shocking Death of an Aged Couple In Pennsylvania.

NEWTON, Pa., Sept. 23.—Samuel Rightly, aged 84 years, and his wife, two years younger, who lived alone on their farm in Northampton township, were foully murdered some time during the night. The perpetrator of the deed afterward set fire to the house to cover up his crime. Early in the morning a neighbor discovered that the house was on fire. With the assistance of other neighbors he extinguished the flames. The charred remains of the aged couple were found lying on a bed in a room on the first floor. Mr. Rightly's skull had been fractured by a hatchet or ax, and Mrs. Rightly's head and face were cut in several places. Nothing is known as to the motive for the murder, as the old people were known to be in indigent circumstances.

A Veritable Castle In the Air.

ANTWERP, Sept. 25.—A castle in the air is to be the great attraction of the exhibition here next year. The plan is to be of a substantial character and suspended above the earth from a huge captive balloon built in six separate compartments connected by flexible tubing, like the water compartments in ships. Visitors will be hauled up to the castle by two elevators made of bamboo, aluminium and steel tubing, which will run in two vertical cables. It is proposed to light the building with 5,000 electric lamps, and as the balloon appears easily visible on the dark nights it will then appear suspended between heaven and earth by an invisible agency.

Split Between Hill and Cleveland Men.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 25.—There was a fight in the convention here state committee delegates between Hill and Cleveland men. The former were in the majority and routed the administration men. Notwithstanding this the Cleveland men opposed a convention also, and two sets of officers occupied the judges' stand in the county court house. Both factions elected delegates. The Cleveland convention indorsed the Prohibition candidate for school commissioner—Miss Hannah.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

Causes of English Failures.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The annual record of bankruptcies in Great Britain shows that more than one-half the business failures were due to speculative trading and the excitement to fraudulent adventurers commencing without capital, 7 per cent to neglect and 6 per cent to drink. Only 3 failures in a 100 and only 2 in 100 were the result of circumstances beyond the control of the debtor or of the fraud or failure of others.

The Dixon-Smith Fight.

COney ISLAND, N. Y., Sept. 25.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon Dixon and Smith will meet in the clubhouse to weigh in. They will strip, and the weight on the scale found will be placed at 120 pounds. They will fight at 116, and Dixon will be held to take allowance of two pounds, which they may take advantage of. They will enter the ring about 9 o'clock. Both are reported to be in the pink of condition.

More Mills to Start Up.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 25.—A week from today five of the largest mills of the Illinois Steel company plant at Bayview will resume operations. They will give employment to from 1,200 to 1,500 men, many of whom have been idle for the past two years. The men will receive the old wages and will work full time.

Story of Two Squirrels.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Two squirrels had a nest in a tree on Riverside drive, and on Thursday the female died. The male was disconsolate. All day Friday he ran about, returning every few minutes to the dead body of his mate. Saturday he was found dead beside her body.

Hood's Cures

Elder Joel H. Austin

Pastor Christian Church, Goshen, Ind., for 20 years a Baptist minister, says:

"For years I suffered with a terrible pain in my back, very painful, and much at times. After taking six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla I may say I have entirely recovered from the pain, and am well pleased with results, and say to those trying Hood's Sarsaparilla for pain in my back: 'I've stopped aching and gained flesh.'" Elder Joel H. Austin.

VIEWS OF MGR. SATOLLI

His Coming Report to Pope Leo Will Be Important.

NOT TO OPPOSE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Much Information Gathered on His Trip Through the Country—He Is Deeply Impressed by Our Institutions—Wants the Catholic Church to Lead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A morning paper prints the following Washington special:

Archbishop Satolli, who returned last week from the west, will be occupied for several weeks to come in digesting the information gathered while away and in preparing his report to Rome. His communications with Rome are frequent, but the report he is now to send will be one of unusual interest and importance. It will deal not only with the results of the Catholic congress at Chicago, but with the general impressions received by him during his trip.

He was very greatly impressed with what he saw and heard, but he does not care to make public at this time more than that simple fact. He is so much beloved by his own people here, however, that their views are likely to reflect his own, and it is because of this that some observations made by a prominent Catholic layman may be accepted as being of more than ordinary consequence.

"Archbishop Satolli," he said, "becomes more and more impressed all the time with the United States and her institutions. He is enthusiastic indeed about our great arena for the battle of human progress, and he wants to see, and expects to see, Catholicism having a leading part in all the work. It is everything, even for so great a man as the apostolic delegate, to gather his information at first hand—to see for himself, as the phrase is.

Leo Looking to America.

"This Archbishop Satolli is doing as rapidly as possible. The result of all this of course is to advance the church in America in the eyes of the supreme pontiff and to insure it consideration at Rome that it has never enjoyed before. As a matter of fact, Leo looking to America for that distinct triumph of his policy which is to insure him the title he so much covets —that of 'The Pope of the People.' His work in France is great, but his work in the United States is even greater. This is the larger field. Here the people have been born to the estate of freedom and to the fact of self government, and Leo wants Catholicism to go hand in hand with popular suffrage."

"The effect of his mission upon the larger questions has been highly beneficial. There has been some friction here and there, growing more out of personalities than out of principles. This is rapidly disappearing, and there is practically complete obedience throughout the United States to the authority of the pope's representative. Archbishop Satolli has delivered but one general message to American Catholics, and that is to support the institutions of their country. He wants action laid upon the fact that in the eyes of Rome he is the best American Catholic who is the most loyal to the principles of free government, and who takes that loyalty apparent by obedience to the laws and to the authority of those elected to execute them.

An Inspiring Spectacle.

"We have the inspiring spectacle indeed of a man born under monarchical institutions able at once to grasp the true meaning of democracy and the principles of its successful application and urging upon all who look to him for instruction the most faithful support of the home government. There has been no impression abroad that the apostolic delegate has rebuked certain members of the Catholic clergy because of their attitude on the school question. That is not true. The most extreme interpretation to be put upon his action is that he thought they were losing sight of their larger opportunities. The public school is an American institution, and opposition to it is not only futile but unwise."

"Is there anything in the action taken toward Archbishop Kenrick of St. Louis except proper provision for a failing veteran of the church?"

"Nothing whatever. Archbishop Kenrick has had illustrious service, but he is 87 years old—in the shadow of extreme old age—and is no longer able to administer the affairs of his office."

"It cannot be true, then, as suggested in certain quarters, that his former opposition to the doctrine of papal infallibility had anything to do with his deposition?"

"Nothing could be more absurd or unwarranted than that. It was during the pontificate of Pius IX that Archbishop Kenrick delivered his strongest speeches on the doctrine of papal infallibility. Then would have been the time for punishment, had punishment been thought of."

FIVE KILLED BY A BOMB

Dynamite Exploded to Frighten Nonunion Sailors.

BUILDINGS AND WALKS BLOWN UP.

A Number of People Terribly Injured. One Man Had His Face Torn Away, Another Both Legs, While All Had Their Clothing Blown Off—List of the Dead.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—A terrific explosion, supposed to have been that of a dynamite bomb, occurred at the nonunion sailors' boarding house and saloon of Mr. and Mrs. John Curtin, located on Main street. The sidewalk in front of the boarding house where the explosion occurred was torn to pieces. The buildings on either side of Curtin's house are badly shattered. Five men who were standing near the spot where the explosion occurred were hurled in the debris, two being killed, three mortally wounded and one seriously injured.

The scene after the explosion was appalling in the extreme. One man had his face blown off, another both legs, and all of them were completely stripped of their clothing and covered with blood, sand and cinders. Even the firmen in the engine house next door were daunted at the sight and waited for the patrol wagon. While waiting for them to arrive the shattered limbs and torn faces screamed and writhed in their agony on the ground. George Holmes, a stevedore, and Brick McGinnis, a sailor, were instantly killed, and their bodies were removed to the morgue.

Union Sailors Threw the Bomb.

William T. McKenzie was badly burned all over the body. Edward Murphy and Charles Owens were terribly lacerated from head to foot. All three were fatally injured. John Curtin, Jr., son of the proprietor of the boarding house, was badly burned and bruised. All were hastily removed to the receiving hospital. None of them, except young Curtin, regained consciousness.

Young Curtin stated that he believed the explosion to be the outcome of trouble between his father and union sailors.

"They threw the bomb," said Curtin. "I saw it near the door. There was a value and something wrapped in a newspaper. I saw the flash and"——At this point in the conversation the young man lost consciousness. When he came to, he continued: "I was standing outside, but did not see who left the valise and blanket there. My father knows. I do not know what happened after that blinding flash." Mrs. Curtin, in an interview later evening, said:

Five In All Are Dead.

"Those men who did this came here last Thursday night after some men. I would not tell if I knew where they were. They came again, and finally I had one of the same men arrested who has just been arrested tonight."

Shortly after the bodies had been removed from the scene of the explosion, three union sailors—John Tyrrell, James Woods and Terrance Tracy—were arrested on suspicion of having caused the explosion and were hurried off to jail. Tyrrell was identified by Mrs. Curtin as the man who said when he came to the house last year she were numbered; we'll fix you," or words to that effect. McKenzie, Murphy and Owen died later. At the receiving hospital, John Curtin, Jr., is in a critical condition and suffering terrible agony.

Charles Bernard, a boarding house engineer; William T. McKenzie, a boxmaker, and Edward Murphy, a sailor, died of injuries received in the explosion soon after they were removed from the wrecked buildings. This makes the number of dead five.

An Interesting Cargo.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The White Star steamer Bovic arrived here from Liverpool with a curious assortment of animals on board. There were 24 valuable thoroughbreds destined for New York, while for Chicago she carried a portion of a menagerie, which will be put on five trains of various sizes and a cab lion just weaned, which is confined in a cage with a sheep as a playfellow. The gambols of the two animals are very amusing. In addition to the above there are two kangaroos, one of which is the noted boxing Kangaroo, whose success has been so remarkable that it was thought expedient to instruct another animal in the pugilistic art. There is also on the same vessel a deerhound, in size equal to a good sized horse.

Fence Rope In Sight.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 25.—The difficulties in the iron and steel trades between the manufacturers and the Amalgamated association over the latter's demand for the scale will in all probability be settled away with out the loss of further time. A conference will be held this afternoon or tomorrow morning between the committee of the Amalgamated association, and that is expected to bring the trouble to an end.

Race War In Brooklyn.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 25.—A race war between Irishmen and Italians employed on the Brooklyn City railroad broke out Sunday. The factions of the two gangs got into a dispute, and each gang rushed to the assistance of its chief. In the rioting which followed clubs were used, and perhaps fatally. The police arrested 15 Italians, but did not interfere with the Irishmen.

A Bomb Proves Deadly.

BARCELONA, Sept. 25.—An anarchist tried to kill General Martinez de Campos with a bomb. It exploded near the general with tremendous force, instantly killing a bystander and five others were so seriously injured that they will probably die. The general was thrown to the ground, but the explosion are not serious. The culprit was captured.

Arrest of a Coin Money Faker.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 25.—Bonnio Moskego, a Zulu, was arrested while about to open the services at Zion African Methodist Episcopal church this morning, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses from different churches. He has been speaking for the alleged purpose of obtaining funds to send home for his missionary work.

Arrest of Alleged Anarchists.

HE FOUND MANY DUPES.

Shrewd Trickster of a Sharper In the Matrimonial Business.

BUFFALO, Sept. 25.—Deputy Marshal Colt has arrived here from Niagara Falls with George Woodward, alias Charles Moore, who was arrested in that city charged with using the United States mails to defraud.

Woodward's scheme was to invest matrimonial notices in rural papers throughout the country from New York to San Francisco calling for correspondents for a young lady, 21 years old, worth $20,000, who lived unhappily with her guardian and wanted to marry.

Answers were sent to Niagara Falls, Ont., and from 75 to 100 letters were arriving daily for him. Woodward would reply to these in a lady's handwriting, inclosing a photograph of a handsome young woman, and propose that the writer send enough money for the mythical heiress to come to him, they then to be married quietly to escape the stern guardian and return and get her property.

Many letters came with photographs of anxious ones, and Woodward was receiving an income of several hundred dollars a week, living high and becoming quite popular.

REPORTED TO BE LOST.

Battle That a Russian Iron Monitor Went Down With All on Board.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 25.—The iron monitor Rossokha of the Russian navy is believed to have gone down in a storm which carried her away in the Gulf of Finland from Reval to Helsingfors. Much wreckage, apparently from her, has been washed ashore, and the body of a Russian marine was picked up on the coast almost opposite the point where she must have been during a high gale several days ago. The Rossokha put to sea with 12 officers and 166 men, all of whom are believed to be lost.

She was built 25 years ago and was second among Russia's coast defense armor clads.

Lizzie Borden In Better Looking.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 25.—Lizzie Borden is bearing up extremely well after her remarkable experience. Indeed, she appears to be as well as she ever was and stouter and better looking. The case is different with the older sister. The family affliction, the horrors of the murders and the long strain during Lizzie's trial were more than her nerves could endure, and she is nothing like the woman she was, and her health is far from robust. Lizzie says that she made up her mind not to allow her troubles to get the better of her, and she has had will enough to remain proof against all that has happened. At the trial the lawyers on both sides declared her to be a most remarkable woman, and people generally are coming to the same conclusion.

THE USELESS WOMAN.

SHE WAS NEVER SO DISTINCTLY AN ANACHRONISM AS TODAY.

Incapability and Elegance No Longer Go Hand In Hand—The Women Who Wear Well Must Know How to Meet Emergencies and Successfully Surmount Them.

Nowhere outside of an old fashioned romance is there a spot in the world where the incapable woman can today maintain a foothold. In the leisurely three volume novel, dear to our grandmothers, Amelia and Araminta—gentle, pallid, timid, submissive creatures—faltered and gasped and fainted gracefully in their chairs at the slightest excuse for such behavior. To swoon with ease was regarded as a proof of elegance and as a distinctive line marking the difference between the milkmaid and the lady born and bred. Possibly the tight lacing then in vogue aided the lady in her ability to perform this part of her role to the satisfaction of the spectators, who were usually within the receding vision of the fainting and fragile being, whose delicate nerves were proof against neither terrors by night nor shocks by day.

Frankly, we doubt whether the old novelists were quite fair in their portraiture of the current life of their times. We find Jeanie Deans able to undertake a long, difficult and every way arduous journey, reaching its end as fresh and hearty and full of purpose and courage as at the beginning, her beauty not marred by hardship and loss of rest. Mary, queen of Scots, was able to sit for hours in the saddle, to cavalier of her period riding harder or faster or more bravely than the bold and beautiful queen. The famous women who made the court of France splendid during successive changes and revolutions were not frail, die away creatures of ghostlike hues and willowy outlines. They were substantial flesh and blood women, equal to all the dangers and perilous adventures which were often their portion.

Recalling the much harder conditions of housekeeping of the times of our grandmothers and of their mothers before them, we are impressed with the fact that the women who surmounted successfully so many obstacles must have been made of really tough fiber. The modern appliances which give us everything for our tables in highly condensed and beautiful forms, ready for use, with the minimum of preparation, were then unknown. They pounded the pepper and pulverized the sugar and rolled the salt. So far from having electric lights to command at the touch of a mysterious knob, they had not even lucifer matches. The fire had to be kept by strenuous care, and sometimes one went to her neighbors to borrow a handful of fire with which to light her own. Nothing was easy. Everything required hard, persevering and unremitting labor, so that we may say that the women of that elder day were being incapable, time, was in the impression that the women of states were a languid, indopeople, seldom aroused to effort, ed to much personal service and expecting nor expected to fare on ing less dainty than the roses and of life. "They lie still and are fanned" would have been the phrases used to describe them by some of that outer world beyond the magnolia and the crape myrtle, the cotton blooms and the tasseled corn of the beautiful and mysterious southern land.

Elegant, fine patterns, and the quality guaranteed the very best that is made. They are not styles that are not going to be made any more, but are the most taking styles the mills are making right along. We secured from the recent great clearing sale at the mills, about 1500 yards of their choice patterns with borders to match, and will sell them as long as they last, for the above named price. They will not be duplicated. Buy them while you can, you may never have such an opportunity again. Come in and look at our new Carpets, Rugs, Portieres, Curtains, etc., whether you wish to buy or not.

EDSALL'S.

This impression has been demonstrated over and over to have been entirely and completely a mistake. Southern women seldom had the opportunity to be specially idle or luxurious. Their large households developed in them a rare talent for administration. They had to care for a crowd of grownup children in the persons of their servants—people improvident and irresponsible, who depended on the house mistress as on a mother, and when the war came and times had changed for them our southern friends displayed of what stuff they were made in the way of self help, wherever tried they have shown that they can take care of themselves admirably.

Incapable women may for the brief season of youth, while the smooth color rests the rounded cheek and the beaute de diable beams in the bright eyes, win a passing tribute from thoughtless men. But the women who wear well must know how to meet emergencies, how to order and to see their orders obeyed, how to hold themselves in calm composure, whatever tempests are abroad. The incapable woman was never so much an anachronism as today.—Harper's Bazar.

Appearances at Home.

Don't say that it doesn't matter how you look around the house, for it does matter a great deal. It matters for the general credit of the establishment, of which the feminine head is the creditable or questionable representative; it matters in its example to the children and to the help; it matters to the husband and father, who usually, if he is half a man, feels a sense of pride in the appearance of his family. It is poor encouragement to him to find confusion and carelessness in dress and waste and destruction running riot about his dwelling. It is one of the important duties of every woman to keep herself and her house in a condition as presentable as possible, considering her circumstances.—New York Evening World.

Women and Politics.

"The English woman is much better informed upon the political affairs of her country than is the American one," said a man who spends much time in London. "The difference is very marked." Undoubtedly this is true. Outside of Washington, where the very air exhales politics, few American women seem to know or care much about the political issues of the day. It is a significant fact that in most women's clubs politics, like religion, is a tabooed question, and thus a great opportunity for better information on the topic is lost. It is a pity. Men live through political arguments. Why shouldn't women?

All Work and No Play.

There was once a woman who was the despair of all the other women of her acquaintance. Her house was as pretty as possible and always in perfect order. She kept it on a very small income and kept it beautifully; she made all her own clothes and those of her child; she trimmed hats for herself and her sisters; she did fancy work; she painted chairs, thereby saving sometimes as much as 75 cents; she taught a class in a mission sewing school; she took lessons in cooking; she belonged to several charitable organizations, and to the end of that woman was nervous prostration and a sanitarium.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Go Housekeeping.

To the young couple who start out in married life we beg to say: "Don't board. Go to housekeeping if you have nothing but a stove, two chairs, a table and a bath tub."—Woman's Own.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS.

PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS AS TO HOW THE HOME MAY BE BEAUTIFIED.

Simple Receipts That Have Been in Use for Years by a Practical Housekeeper.

Decorations and Their Application to the Home.

Be very careful of your health—it's worth your while to try.

And eat and drink with caution and to keep clear of ambitions.

For, although this is a healthy town, diseases lurk about,

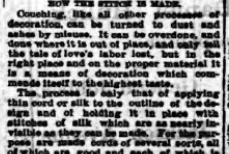
And the "awful grip" it got you if you don't watch out.

DECORATIVE NEEDLEWORK.

Couching is the Simplest—The Method Described.

Among the many really admirable things that result from the use of the needle in behalf of decorative effects couching deserves a hearty recognition. It is simple as regards the executing, showy enough in its effect, and, in this day of busy women, better than all, it demands but little time.

Beautiful as the Kensington work undoubtedly is, it requires a larger portion of time than every woman has to give, but couching is the work for all. With only a little effort it can be made to do a multitude of things, and to beautify a number of those delightful scarfs and dainty covers which are dear to every woman's heart.



HOW THE STITCH IS MADE.

Couching, like all other processes of decoration, can be turned to dust and ashes and poison. It can be overdone and done where it is out of place, and only tell the tale of love's labor lost, but in the right hands and with the proper material it is a means of decoration which commends itself to the highest taste.

The material to apply that of applying this cord or silk to the outline of the design and of holding it in place with stitches of silk which are so nearly invisible as they can be made. For the purpose are made cords of several sorts, all of which are good and each of which is designed to suit the needs of a different foundation. There are the Japanese gold cord, which is to be found in a number of grades and sizes; the various cords of linen cord and the cord of simple cotton. The gold is suited to silk and satin, to the beautiful guide that gives such good results, and to linen in certain limited ways. The silk can be used on any fine material where the decoration does not require the edge to be cut, and the linen and cotton are adapted to use upon fabrics woven of the same material as themselves.

The process is precisely the same in each case. The Spanish mackerel is one of the fastest of food fishes, and cuts the water like a yacht.—Industrial World.

BORDER WITH OUT EDGE.

cord is held over the line of the design and is sewn to it, as the illustration shows. The stitches employed are the same as are used in button-hole making with the difference that couching is done from left to right and that the stitches should not be close together. The silk employed should be fine and as close to the color of the cord as possible.

As the object in this particular sort of work is that they shall show as little as need be, the effect to be sought is that of a cord wrought upon the cloth, and the means employed is to be kept as nearly out of sight as is compatible with the strength and durability of the work.

FILLED WITH FANCY STITCHES.

The first suggestion for a couching design is intended for the ends of a scarf, and may be carried out in white or color to suit fancy. The cord of one of the best possible materials is heavy white butcher's linen, in which the couching should be done with a fine linen cord. The heavy sort, which is often used, is harsh, and at the first washing becomes stiff and unmanageable. If the work is to be done in color the couching requires fine linen thread and the sewing heavy linen floss. If, however, color is preferred, the floss that forms the couche and the thread that holds the cord in place must be selected of the same tone, but the cord itself is white in either case.

Four strands of the sewing and the scarf are complete the edges must all be neatly cut and the scarf will near the outline of the cord, as the illustration shows. The result is eminently satisfactory and the work so simple that it might be undertaken by a child with almost certain success. Still more decorative and for some purpo es better than the simple leaf border already given is a variation thereof. It consists of a cropped and cut edge but the leaves, in place of being veined only, are filled with fancy stitches. The simple specimen given above how the work is done and gives a suggestion for one point of stitch, but individual ingenuity must supply the rest. A border worked in this way adds the widest possible range of fancy, and each leaf may be made an intricate as the leisure of the maker renders advisable. The stitch given is an excellent one, as is the fish-scale, and it is familiar darned off-a and a border the leaves of which are filled with [illegible] quite so, may be trusted to give certain satisfaction.

NURSERY RHYMES.

Little Jack Horner sat in a corner,
Eating a blackberry pie;
He felt very merry,
Till out fell a berry,
Which much resembled a fly!

A HAPPY MEDIUM.

Jack Sprat could eat no fat,
His wife could eat no lean,
And as 'twas rude to scrape the dish,
They made a compromise on fish.

A PREDICAMENT.

One, two, three, four,
Jennie at the cottage door,
Five, six, seven, eight,
Bulling sitting by the gate;
Oh! Is she going to be a bride?
George won't dare to venture in.
—N. Y. Herald.

How Dust Flakes Swim.

Now that every effort is being made to increase the speed of ocean steamers it is interesting to know the speed with which different fish can pass through the water. For long distances swimming sharks may be said to hold the record, as he can outstrip the swiftest ships, apparently without effort, swimming and playing around them, and ever on the lookout for prey. Any human being falling overboard in shark frequented waters has very little chance to escape, so rapid is the action of the shark, the monster of the deep. The dolphin, another fast swimming fish, is credited with a speed of considerably over twenty miles an hour. For short distances the salmon can outstrip every other fish, accomplishing its twenty-five miles an hour with ease.

What He Had.

I had a little puppy
No bigger than my fist,
I put him in my pocket
And thought he'd not be missed;

But when his owner passed me,
And gave a signal low,
The naughty puppy spied him
And yelped out "Bow-wow-wow!"
—N. Y. World.

A Talking Clock.

A clever person in St. Petersburg has arranged and placed on exhibition a clock with a phonographic attachment that will repeat at an hour set, according to the possessor's desire, such orders for announcements as may be committed to it. A contemporary lightly calls this a boon to the tired housemother, and adds that in the nursery the solemn time-piece could be made to say, "Children, it is time to get up; dress quickly." In the kitchen, also an early hour, it would be ready with: "Breakfast at eight sharp, Mary; don't forget!" and in the boudoir: "Now you must start in ten minutes, or you will lose your train." The dial of this clock of the future is, we are told, a human face, from whose unmoving mouth come the announcement of the hours, as well as any directions that may be left with it.

What He Wanted.

Papa—I have a little time this morning, and we'll go down toys and get the bicycle I promised you for passing the school examination successfully.

Little Boy—I saw two or three girls on bicycles yesterday, and I don't want anything that girls can ride.

Papa—Well, what can we do about it?

Little Boy—I don't thinkin' you might get me a trick mule.

A Consolation.

When the favorite horse of a friend of ours went lame, he consoled himself by the thought: "Well, after all, it is better that it is not the horse of some man of consideration, like my friend Smith." This is the what Fenelon said when his library got on fire—he thanked God that it was not the house of a poor man.

BEE MAIDENS.

A Beautiful Custom in the Little Town of La Force, in France.

Near the little town of La Force, in France, there is an apple tree which bears only imperfect blossoms; and the soil having long been discovered, has given rise to a very beautiful custom observed among the maidens of the village.

When springtime comes, and the apple tree hails the glorious time with a glad burst of blossome, the girls of the place arm themselves with gay ribbons and perfect blossoms from their favorite trees, and go singing to the lonely tree which has produced only the imperfect blossoms. Each girl then kisses a cluster of the imperfect blossoms, and in so doing draws them with the pollen from the perfect blossoms. She then ties a distinguishing ribbon near to the cluster and has claimed it. The tree looks very gay when these decorated, with the pink blossoms smiling up to heaven, and the dainty ribbons fluttering in the perfume laden air; but the best of it is when the petals fall like "summer snow," and the little apples begin to shape. Then the maidens pluck off all but the best fruit, and that absorbs all the strength of the tree, so that the apples grow famously and come to perfection.

And now is seen the strange part of the affair; the apples, instead of being all of one kind, are as different as the maidens who kissed their blossoms, the best looking fruit like apple is exactly like the apple of the tree from which the pollen-bearing blossom was taken. So on this one tree will be seen round, rosy-cheeked apples, long yellow apples, fuzzy apples, mealy apples, dainty little apples, and "monstrous" big apples. Each maiden has the apple she liked the most.—Yankee Blade.

Pret-T-GOODS

For wise people, peculiarly appropriate for the season, can always be found in our repository.

We will not say that we have the best in the world, but we do say and know that the same money cannot purchase better Harness and Carriages than our patrons are rapidly making their own. It is sometimes expedient to forget what you know, but it is never the course of wisdom to forget our select consignment of fancy traps and trappings. Save time, temper and money by purchasing of us.

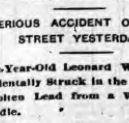
HOT LEAD IN HIS FACE.

A SERIOUS ACCIDENT ON FRONT STREET YESTERDAY.

Five-Year-Old Leonard Wright Accidentally Struck in the Face with Molten Lead from a Workman's Ladle.



PERSONS passing along West Front street just before five o'clock, yesterday afternoon, witnessed a serious accident, and one which came within an ace of blinding a small boy for life.

A man named Utzinger was soldering a part of the iron railing near the entrance to Music Hall, fast to the flagging. He had filled his ladle with hot lead, and was about to pour it around the post. He had to stoop down to do so.

Five-year old Leonard Wright, son of Mr. William Wright of West Front street, was walking by, intently looking at the showy posters of Gorton's Minstrels on the bill board in front of Music Hall. He ran against Mr. Utzinger, striking the arm that held the ladle of hot lead.

The contents of the ladle struck the boy full in the face, almost blinding him. The little fellow was carried by Mr. Goldman, proprietor of the Leader, to D. W. Randolph's drug store, where his wounds were temporarily dressed. His cheeks were both a mass of raw flesh. The lead struck about an inch below his eyes. Had it struck them his sight would have been ruined. As it is his eyelids were scorched.

The boy was accompanied by his mother. A carriage was called and Mr. Hodge, one of Mr. Randolph's most efficient clerks, assisted in getting the little fellow home, where Dr. Probasco attended him.

He will undoubtedly be scarred for life.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Nelson Runyon has returned from the World's Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Marckley of New street have returned from Richmondville, N. Y.

Mrs. Talmadge of First place and Crescent avenue has returned home from Portland, Me.

Mr. Mulford Estil of Grove street, North Plainfield, expects to start for the World's Fair next Saturday.

Mrs. J. F. Wiechers and family of corner Eighth street and Grant avenue have returned from a Summer outing.

Mrs. Wm. L. Sharkey of Vine street and Park place has just returned from a weeks visit with friends and relatives in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Cotrell of West Front street started on day for Trenton, where they will remain probably a month visiting friends and relatives.

Mr. Elderton, of the Courier reportorial staff, who recently wed a Southern lady, returned from Virginia last night. They will reside on Plainfield avenue.

Ex-Judge William R. Codington and wife are expected home from the World's Fair to-morrow. On their way home they will stop off at Washington.

Mr. William M. Stillman of this city has been appointed one of the committee of the Union County Citizens' League to meet at Mr. Lindabury's office at Elizabeth to-morrow.

Hon. Geo. Kyte, it is said, will make a strong candidate for Mayor, the coming Fall. His many friends are sure of his election and are already advocating his nomination.—Westfield Standard.

The following nominations have been made by a committee appointed for that purpose by the Board of Governors of the Park Club: President, S. Sk. McCutchen; Vice-President, B. A. Hegeman Jr.; Secretary, George D. Hallock; Treasurer, George P. Dupee; and Messrs. Morgan S. Taylor, George A. Evans-Charles A. Reed, Benjamin M. Day, George C. Hall.

Mr. Augustus Frazee of Watchung Avenue expects to start Thursday for the West. He will go first to the World's Fair, and later will visit a cousin, Miss Sarah C. Frazee, in central Illinois. He says he will probably be gone a month. On his way home Mr. Frazee expects to visit relatives in Pennsylvania, among them being his brother-in-law, Mr. Charles Rogers of Carbondale.

It is unlikely, by the present outlook, that either the Melopois or Choral Society will give concerts this Winter, on account of the insufficient subscriptions, so many of those whose subscriptions have maintained these societies in the past being compelled to decline because so seriously effected by the stringency in the money market. A change may come later on for the better. In order, however, that the more accomplished music lovers may not lose the opportunity to keep in good voice by weekly practice, Mr. Fitz Hugh is organizing a chorus choir for the First Baptist church.

A Worthy Object.

In the W. C. T. U. rooms, Wednesday morning and afternoon, the Dorcas Circle will have a cake, candy and apron sale for the benefit of the poor of Plainfield. Admission free. The following young ladies will have charge of the tables: Miss Mary Fritts, Miss Emma Vise, the Misses Breen, Miss Bowers, Miss Mary Brown, Miss Maltby, Miss Langdon, Miss Lowrie and Miss Stewart.

STOLE TO LIVE HIGH.

CASHIER COLLINS ARRESTED FOR THEFT.

He Lived at Scotch Plains.—He Bought a House and Fast Horses with His Peculations, Which, it is Said, Amount to $10,000.

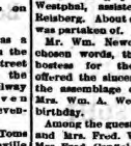
Cashier John F. Collins of the firm of Reinhard Seedenburg & Co., of New York, who lives at Scotch Plains has been arrested charged with robbing the company. His thefts it is thought will amount to $10,000.

He was in the habit of drawing checks on the Corn Exchange Bank to the order of C. E. Rich, a customer of the firm, and when these were signed by Mr. Seidenburg he would indorse them with the name of C. E. Rich and deposit them to his own credit at the Seaboard National Bank. When the checks were returned he generally destroyed them. Two of these checks, however, have been preserved, and they are now in the hands of the police. One was drawn on May 21 for $837.90, and the other on June 13 for $1,550.64. Both had been paid and the money placed to Collins' account. Collins also kept an account in the Seamen's Savings Bank. These thefts have been going on for three years.

Collins owns a handsome house in Scotch Plains, which he bought with the proceeds of his peculations. He also owns four valuable trotting horses and a stage line in Scotch Plains.

CRASHED INTO A WAGON.

Car No. 5 Wrecks a Vehicle on Somerset Street.



THERE was a smashup on the Somerset street branch of the Street Railway about seven o'clock last evening.

Farmer Toms of Warrenville was going home. He was riding in a covered wagon, accompanied by another man and a woman. The car was behind the wagon. Both going the same way.

The car crashed into the wagon, wrecking one wheel and considerably damaging the wagon otherwise. The car was in charge of Conductor Higgins and Motorman Dady. The latter claims that he rang the bell, but the occupants of the wagon say he did not.

The wrecked vehicle was left on the vacant lot across the street from the Stillman estate, while the cars went down to see Superintendent Adelmann about the matter. The farmer soon returned and securing another wagon from Proprietor Windham of the Arlington Hotel, he continued his journey home.

The "Illustrated Plainfield" Scheme.

The work of canvassing for "Illustrated Plainfield," which was begun nearly a year ago, still continues. The method, as explained by the canvasser, is to offer to insert a picture of the exterior of one's house for ten dollars, and for each other view—interior or otherwise—ten dollars. The plan was tried among the merchants at first, but apparently did not work. The canvasser claims to have enticed several prominent residents into the arrangement of this kind. He exhibits fine views of Mayor Gilbert's home —one of these being an exterior, and four being interiors—for which it is claimed that the Mayor has agreed to pay $50. If this is not true, it would seem to be the duty of the Mayor to take steps to prevent any one using his name in such a way. Evidently there are some who have been led into the scheme by the bait used, though those who know the Mayor, will not be likely to believe that he would give countenance to such a scheme. Ex Judge Wm. M. Stillman, it is said, was also requested to be one of the "notables to appear" but he declined. The solicitor wanted $50 from him.

Where people manifest repugnance or disinclination to being drawn into such a net, any scruples they may have are overcome by the statement that the person whose special surroundings are pictured, is furnished ten copies of the book, at one dollar per copy, for every illustration, and that the illustration is only put in incidentally.

It is claimed that Dr. Lewis is employed to write up the text. It is not likely that Dr. Lewis would have anything to do with a scheme which proposed to be an illustrated book of Plainfield, but was simply a book illustrating those who were willing to pay $10 or more for being illustrated in such a way.

The Camera Club was to get up a book that would faithfully picture the beauties of Plainfield regardless of the individual or money consideration.

The club has a fine collection of pictures, but seems to have abandoned the further prosecution of its most praiseworthy work.

Mr. Pidcock's Peach Farms Sold for $1 Each.

Sheriff Hunter yesterday sold the real estate of ex-Congressman J. N. Pidcock, consisting of seventy-three farm lots and houses, to Alvah A. Clarke of Somerville at $1 a tract or parcel. The property consists principally of peach farms, the richest in the county. Their yield this Fall reached 180,000 baskets.

Mr. Pidcock's failure was due to the money stringency.

A BIRTHDAY SURPRISE PARTY.

Tendered Mrs. William A. Westphal Last Evening.

DANCING was a feature last evening of a surprise party, tendered to Mrs. W. A. Westphal by Mrs. Frederick Canfield and the ladies and gentlemen of Iona Council, No. 14, D. of P., on the occasion of the celebration of her 36th birthday.

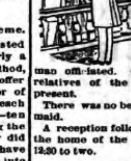
In spite of the inclemency of the weather a goodly number of guests assembled at the residence of Mrs. Canfield on West Fifth street and proceeded in a body to the house of Mrs. Westphal, on Fourth and Liberty streets, and took immediate possession of the premises. She was pleasantly surprised. The hosts proved themselves equal to the occasion and immediately proceeded to tear up the carpets, furnish refreshments, and procure music. The evening's amusement started with the game of pinning a tail on the donkey, which participated in by the entire company and elicited continual laughter. The first prize was won by Mr. Wm. Newcorn, who managed to pin the donkey's tail in the right position, and the lady's "booty" prize was won by Mrs. Chas. Halstein, who succeeded in pinning the tail the furthest from the donkey. Dancing was then enjoyed. Between the dances the guests were favored by songs from Mr. J. W. Kline, Mr. Chas. L. Holstein, and Mr. Wm. A. Westphal, a recitation by Mr. Wm. A. Westphal and fancy dancing by little five-year old Ada Westphal, assisted by Miss Amanda Reisberg. About one o'clock a collation was partaken of.

Mr. Wm. Newcorn, in a few well chosen words, thanked the host and hostess for their hospitality and offered the sincere congratulations of the assemblage on the celebration of Mrs. Wm. A. Westphal's twenty-fourth birthday.

Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Westphal, Sr., Mr. and Mrs. Fred. Canfield, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Newcorn, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Holstein, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Kline, Miss Bertha Dreier, Mr. Joseph Wright, the Misses Hannan and Amanda Reisberg, Mrs. Emma Weigman, Mrs. Eliza Radin, Mrs. Emily Cox, Mrs. B. Mattis, Mrs. H. Van Dorton, Mrs. Hangleman and Miss Mary Dreier.

NUPTIALS.

Baker—Hull.



THE marriage of Dr. Vincent W. Baker, of West Fifth street, son of Mr. Abram Baker of Asbury Park, to Miss Bessie Hull, of Norwood avenue, took place at noon today at the Grace Episcopal church, on East Seventh street. The Rev. E. M. Rodman officiated. Only the immediate relatives of the young couple were present.

There was no best man and no bridesmaid.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's mother, from 12:30 to two.

BREVITIES.

—The law will be off partridge October 1st.

—The Gorton Minstrels had a very slim audience at Music Hall last evening.

—Four million baskets is the estimate of the peach crop in New Jersey this year.

—Summons was issued to-day by Justice Nash in the landlord and tenant case of Grels vs. Craig.

—Justice Mosher has issued summons in the contract case of Linke vs. Sullivan, returnable October 2.

—The annual meeting and Fall social reunion of the Congregational church and society will occur to night.

—Judgment was rendered to-day by Justice Nash in the case of Hetfield vs. Shaw, demand for premises, in favor of the plaintiff.

—A dog belonging to Mr. Henry Windham, proprietor of the Arlington Hotel, was run over by car No. 1, on Somerset street, last Sunday.

—Dog catcher Frisbie caught an unmuzzled, innocent-looking and handsome spaniel in North Plainfield this morning, and brought it over to the Plainfield pound.

—In Phillipsburg owners of bicycles are taxed forty-five cents for their property under this year's rate. The wheels are rated at $25 apiece which is a low estimate of value, but this is a new idea of taxation that has not been heard of before.

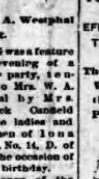
Opportunities of the Y. M. C. A.

An opportunity is again offered the young men of our city to join a class in shorthand at the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The association would remind all young men that the advantage to be derived from the study of this art is inestimable, and any who have the necessary foundation of a common school education and who are going to enter business or any of the professions, or who want to improve their minds, should seriously consider the opportunity that is so generously placed before them.

TO FIGHT THE GAMBLER.

EFFORTS OF THE CITIZENS' LEAGUE TO REDEEM THE LEGISLATURE.

The League Proposes "That all Voters Who do not Approve the Action of the Last Legislature Attend the Primaries to Which They Belong."



THE New Jersey State Citizens' League prepared a paper, to be read in all the churches of the State yesterday calling upon citizens to enlist in a campaign against race-track gambling and legislation. Comment is made upon the fact that last year, while the people slept, gamblers attended the party primaries and succeeded in foisting upon the State a Legislature whose record was the shame and humiliation of the whole people. The gamblers were busily counting upon winning again this Fall.

The league proposes "that all voters who do not approve the action of the last Legislature attend the primaries of the party to which they belong, to be called to elect delegates to the conventions for the nomination of candidates for the legislature and for the office of Sheriff in counties wherein these officers are to be chosen, and there make an earnest and honorable effort to secure the election of delegates who will support as candidates for the Legislature only such men as can be relied upon to vote for the repeal of the race-track statutes, and for Sheriff a man who will faithfully and fairly discharge the duties of the office.

"Second—That if practicable, even at personal sacrifice, they attend their party conventions, and by their presence and influence lend their aid to securing the nomination of candidates of sterling character upon whom they can depend to carry out their views, and that they demand the unconditional repeal of the disgraceful race-track laws at once.

"Third—In case, notwithstanding your best efforts to the contrary, candidates should be nominated by your party for the Legislature or for the office of Sheriff who cannot be trusted on the race-track issue, then we advise you to bolt such nominations forthwith, and to support with all your might the candidates of the opposite party if there is reason to believe they can be trusted in the matters above stated.

"Fourth—If the nominees of both parties seem to be unreliable, therefore unsatisfactory, we advise, you to call a meeting immediately of the law abiding voters of your district and unitedly nominate and support candidates of well-known ability and integrity whose position is clearly defined.

"In conclusion, we beg to suggest that there are no political issues to divide the people this Fall. The one sole and paramount issue is the redemption of the State from the infamy of last Winter, and under whatsoever political banner that issue can be best fought out, there should every citizen of New Jersey who regards the honor of his State and the best interests of the community and his home be found. In such a crisis indifference and apathy are little less than sinful, meek acquiescence to the dictation of professional politicians a bondage degrading to the manhood of every American citizen."

RAHWAY'S MURDER REVIVED.

A man Comes From Baltimore Who Says He Can Tell How the Girl Was Murdered.

[Newark News.]

When pressed to tell his business at police headquarters this morning Charles Theisen, a rosy whiskered German, who measured over six feet three inches in height, said he desired to talk with Detective Jaegers. He had been sent, he said, by Police Captain Freeberger, of Baltimore, to give to Mr. Jaegers information which he possessed regarding the murder of the girl who was found lying alongside the road at Central avenue and Jefferson street, Rahway, on Saturday morning, March 25, 1887.

He appeared to be greatly perturbed this morning at not finding Jaegers, and through an interpreter he related a part of his story. He declined to tell more of it, to any one except to Jaegers. In substance he said that the murdered girl was killed by a cane of trumps. One of the men, who was a member of the gang, is now an inmate of the Baltimore Insane Asylum. Theisner alleges, and he claims that he will tell all about the murder. Theisner denied that the man is insane, though. He declined to explain how he learned of the murder.

Fred. Willibald Arrested Again.

Chief Grant early last evening received a telegram from Somerville to arrest Frederick Willibald. A few minutes after the receipt of the telegram Willibald was arrested on North avenue, by Police Sergeant Daly. Later in the evening a Somerville constable came to Plainfield and after having his warrant indorsed by Justice Mosher, took Willibald back with him. Willibald is charged with breaking open his sister's bureau drawer and taking a pocket book with nine dollars in it.

For Possession of Premises.

The case of Mrs. Herleberg vs. Mrs. Barry for possession of premises, was tried before Justice Nodoue yesterday. Judge Coddington appeared for the plaintiff. Decision was rendered in favor of the plaintiff.

SOMERSET COURT OPENS.

The Borough Abduction Case the First Before the Grand Jury.

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Sept. 26, (Special.)—The Somerset county Grand Jury was sworn in to day, Judges Magie, Bartine, Ten Eyck, and Jamison on the bench. The members from North Plainfield are Messrs. Lewis R. Blackford, Jonathan Clawson and Lewis Buckalew.

The foreman of the Jury is Mr. James D. Vanderveer of Branchburg township.

The North Plainfield abduction case was the first before the Jury.

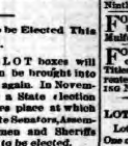
There was a large attendance when court opened.

A Novel Sight.

Sunday several Plainfielders were visiting in the neighborhood of Basking Ridge. During the afternoon two hawks were observed circling about overhead. In a few minutes another hawk joined them. The three continued the graceful circling so peculiar to this species of bird. Soon another hawk joined the trio, and, then, in rapid succession, from all directions, and one at a time, came more hawks, until seventeen were flying about in narrow circles. This was kept up for about ten minutes. Then they strung out in a long, broken line, and flew off towards the south.

During their stay overhead all the chickens in the neighborhood were under shelter.

Seven Councilmen to be Elected This Fall.



BALLOT boxes will soon be brought into use again. In November a State election takes place at which State Senators, Assemblymen and Sheriffs are to be elected.

Plainfield will be held in December. Among other officers to be elected are seven councilmen. Those whose terms will expire this Fall are Councilmen Bird, Erickson, Frazee, Frost, Johnson, Marsh and Weber.

Meeting of the Local Union.

Following the County convention will come a Local Union meeting, to be held Thursday evening of this week at the First Baptist church of all the local Christian Endeavor Societies. It is only necessary to mention the following names of the speakers to insure a good attendance: Miss Alice B. Spanenberg, District Secretary; Eugene M. Cabe, President of Local Union, and Andrew Wilson, Vice President of County Union. The subject chosen for the evening is "Christian Endeavor, its Past, Present and Future." The city election will commence at 7.30. There will be special music for the meeting, which will be followed by a short season devoted to introduction, and general sociability.

At the Salvation Army.

Special meetings were held at the Salvation Army hall, on West Second street, Saturday night and all day Sunday. The services were in charge of Col. Wm. Evans, chief of the international staff assisted by Staff Capt. Walton and Glenn, of the headquarters staff and Ensign John Longland, and Capt. Taylor. At the afternoon service the Col. dedicated Amanda Terry, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Terry to the Army, under the colors of the Salvation Army and the stars and stripes.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Some Political Economy.

Mr. Charles W. Shields laments that the popular mind is still in the shackles of the old fashioned political economy, the self same principles that were taught a hundred years ago. Social and economic conditions have changed so since then that a set of teachings is demanded to meet the needs of the present, Mr. Shields says. There is enough intelligence spread abroad among the people, but not enough training in right thinking. By "intelligence" Mr. Shields evidently means knowledge of political economy as taught in the old textbooks and elsewhere, but that is not intelligence, far from it.

He is right about the need of thinking. solid, hard level headed thinking on the great economic questions, aided by such knowledge as the conditions of the present can give us. Mr. Shields thinks that such principles as the following should now be discussed by students:

That the exports of any country will in the long run approximately balance the imports.

That no raising of wages is of permanent benefit to the masses unless accompanied by an increase in the production of things for the masses to eat, drink and wear.

That every increase in the production of those necessities of life which the masses find it hard to obtain makes their command easier to gain and places them within the reach of others, while every cause which has the effect of diminishing such production will compel some class to go with less of them than they would otherwise have had.

That the value of every industry is to be measured not by the employment it gives to labor, but by the usefulness of its product; in fact, that the employment shows the cost of the industry, not its utility.

That the employment of the unemployed at the public expense would be of no permanent benefit unless the result of their labor could be sold for at least its cost.

That there is plenty of employment for everybody if men only find the wages to pay them, so that what is called want of work really means want of money to pay for the work.

That the lower the wages demanded in any employment the greater the number of people who can find employment at those wages, and the higher the wages demanded the less the number.

That prices are determined, in the general average and the long run, by the quantity of any article produced and the demand of the public for it; that any attempt to artificially raise the price of any service, whatever above the limit thus fixed will result in a diminished consumption, and hence in a diminished production—in other words, that you cannot get the public to accept more than a certain quantity of service or goods at any definite price.

That there is no possibility of a general increase in the demand for labor except by measures which would speedily neutralize their own effects, and that attempts to promote employment by any class of industry by making it more necessary only result in an equal discouragement to other branches.

That a permanent increase of trade is of no benefit to us except through bringing to our shores the products of other nations which we wish to enjoy.

Concerning Microbes.

One would by no means be willing to set himself against science, but may it not be possible that the professors are getting the microbe question a little struck in on their brains, as it were? We ask as one desiring information. If they do not stop microbe seeing or creating microbes out of the thought ether, they will begin to drive the common mind to madness.

We are now told that every time we take a bite of bread and butter we eat a microbe population equal in number to that of the whole United States. The microbes are in the butter, we are told, and the pleasant information is added free of charge that they fall from the body of the cow during the process of milking, no matter though she is the sweetest Jersey that ever took a World's fair prize. If you eat a pinch of cheese, it is still worse. You dare not take a drink of unboiled water either without swallowing microbes enough, if they were dollars, to pay off the national debt and all the United States pensioners besides. Most maddening of all is the information that from the hands, nails and lips of our friends and some billions more, billions of fiendish, wriggling, horned monsters agape and ready to devour us night and day. Really, is life worth living any more?

Hereafter incoming vessels from European ports to New York will be signaled 24 hours earlier than they have been. This will be done by means of the marine telephone invented by Professor Lucius Blake of the Kansas state university. At the Pollock's Rip lighthouse in Vineyard sound the watchman will perceive incoming steamers before they can be observed from the mainland. By means of the Blake marine telephone he will give word under water to the mainland, whence the news can be telegraphed to New York.

In four different localities in the vicinity of New York city, also in several places in the city itself, people have recently died from eating the poisonous toadstools by mistake for mushrooms. Even if they had been the genuine mushroom, what would anybody want to eat them for? The mushroom itself is a fungus, the product of rottenness and of the fermentation of decay. Though we lose forever our reputation as a connoisseur of what is what gastronomically, we declare that the mushroom is not fit for a human being to eat.

There is one trade in one town that has not fallen off, at any rate, amid the wreck and ruin of so many. That is the shoe trade of Brockton, Mass., which has been greater this summer than for two years past. Really, "there's nothing like leather."

A state cannot have a trademark, though it may have a monopoly of the liquor business within its own borders.

STEWART VS. WEBSTER

The Nevada Senator Criticises the Great Lexicographer.

CLEVELAND BITTERLY ATTACKED.

Mr. Cameron Says Pennsylvania Is Not Injured by the Sherman Law—An Unexpected Session In the House—Minor Matters of Interest at Washington.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—President Cleveland was the object of a prolonged personal attack in the senate yesterday on the part of Senator Stewart, who spoke for nearly three hours on the resolution which he had offered last Saturday as to the relative independence of the three co-ordinate branches of the government. That independence he charged the president with disregarding in many ways, but particularly in not causing the silver purchase law and the Chinese expulsion law to be faithfully executed. But worse even than the nonexecution of these laws appeared to be, in Mr. Stewart's opinion, the contemptuous allusions to congress which he found in some of Mr. Cleveland's letters and interviews. He was particularly embittered at the president's allusion in one of his letters to "having congress on his hands." This was an indignity beyond endurance. Then, in the constitution, the Nevada senator confided at the president for his want of a collegiate or any other liberal education that would fit him for his high office and read the president's biography in the latest congressional directory, laying much stress on and seeking to attract humor from the points of Mr. Cleveland's career as assistant teacher of the Male clerk, sheriff, mayor and practicing lawyer.

A Slap at Noah Webster.

In criticising one of Mr. Cleveland's letters in which he spoke of the "intrinsic" value of gold and silver, Mr. Stewart said that the president did not know what he was talking about and that some public men ought to open a kindergarten school to learn how to use terms. Webster's dictionary defining "intrinsic" and giving as examples the phrase "intrinsic value of gold and silver" was quoted by Mr. Dolph, but Mr. Stewart swept it by contemptuously with the remark: "So much the worse for Webster's definition. I have no controversy with Webster. The man who pretends that value in a commercial sense is intrinsic has not learned the first kindergarten rules of finance."

Mr. Cockrell called attention to some of "the scare articles" in the New York newspapers and quoted from Philadelphia papers to the effect that the New York stock market had apprehensions that "some other object lessons might be needed to move the senate to action."

There was further criticism of the newspapers by various senators, and another batch of newspaper paragraphs was read by Mr. Stewart, to be embodied in the columns of The Congressional Record. It included the president's telegram to Representative Wilson, of West Virginia, congratulating him and his associates in the house on the passage of the repeal bill.

Mr. Cameron Against Repeal.

The jubilancy of such action on the part of the president was condemned by the Nevada senator and was taken by him as a proof that the president did not realize the importance of having the departments of the government kept distinct.

Speeches against the repeal bill were then made by Mr. Cameron and Mr. Bate. After the speeches, Mr. Stewart occupied the remainder of the day's session.

Mr. Cameron said in part: "How does this much abused Sherman act injure Pennsylvania? In no way whatever. Under this act the increase in the currency now about $36,000,000 a year—barely enough to meet the needs of the natural increase of population. In a few years this act will be a measure of absolute contraction. It will unduly restrict the coinage. The people of Pennsylvania want even now, and enjoy, a currency which is of greater value than this and ask for it in paper, but what advantage has paper over silver, which has at least an intrinsic value equal to 50 per cent of its nominal value in gold, and is also guaranteed by our gold reserve, whereas the paper would be guaranteed by the gold bugs?"

The session of the house was an uneventful one without a quorum. After the roll was called it attempted to consider the printing bill, but without final action on the measure, the house adjourned.

Capital Notes in Brief.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Vice President Stevenson left last night for Allentown, Pa., where he will spend the week as the guest of Governor Pattison.

Attorney General Olney has gone to Boston. In his absence, Solicitor General Maxwell is in charge of the department.

Mr. Lapham of Rhode Island introduced in the house a bill appropriating $300,000 for the purchase of a site and the erection of a postoffice at Providence.

At a conference between Solicitor Maxwell and special treasury agents it was decided to employ counsel to assist in prosecuting opium smuggling cases at Portland, Or.

The navy department is considering the advisability of sending the United States cruiser New York to Brazil for duty during the revolution.

Mr. Erdman of Pennsylvania introduced in the house a bill to impose a tax on succession to real estate and legacies.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

Connecticut—L. B. Brockway, Brookway.

New York—S. A. Hibbard, Bellona; H. Washington; G. M. Humphrey, Mount Upton; E. A. Waters, Mount Upton; G. Orchard, Sherburne; F. A. Sweet, Smyrna; R. S. Tuthill, Unionville.

Pennsylvania—E. H. Bisting, Brailsford; W. T. Smith, Buffalo; T. R. Huffman, Bunn; J. T. McMichael, Martinsville; W. S. Miller, Tannersville; Mathias Reeser, West Earl.

Twelve Hours a Day, 10 Cents an Hour.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 26.—The Carnegie Thirty-third street mill has shut down in all departments. Saturday the laborers were paid off in full. They were notified that their places would be open for them under different arrangements. The new rules are that 12 hours instead of 10 shall constitute a day's work, the rate of pay to be 10 cents per hour.

Fight Between Bears and Leopards.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—During the performance of a raised bear and leopards in the Midway plaisance the animals became unmanageable and began a desperate fight in the arena. Fritz Lenz, a lion tamer, was severely clawed and bitten. The building was crowded at the time, and the audience became greatly excited.

Opening of the Interstate Fair.

TRENTON, Sept. 26.—The interstate fair opened with a light attendance. The attractions were numerous, and the racing specially was good.

ALMOST A RIOT.

Catholics In St. Paul Incensed Over Ex-Priest Leyden's Utterances.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 26.—The action of Thomas A. Penebergast, city clerk, probably saved the city a bloody riot last evening. Thomas Leyden, the ex-priest of New Jersey, is making a tour through Minnesota under the auspices of the A. M. Protective League. Sunday night he spoke at Century hall in Minneapolis, and his address was of such a character that the Roman Catholics of St. Paul determined not to let him speak here. Lest night the streets around the market house, where he was billed to speak, were filled with an excited throng armed with clubs, stones, eggs and firearms. The excitement was perceptibly increased by the arrival of a patrol wagon containing the chief of police and a squad of patrolmen.

While the crowd was surging around one of the entrances the market master came out and read a letter from City Clerk Prendergast, by which he peremptorily refused to allow Leyden the use of the hall for last night, or any other night, on the ground that the public property, a part of the taxes on which were paid by Roman Catholic citizens. On learning this Leyden took a carriage at a side entrance and drove rapidly away, the crowd dispersing soon after.

REWARDING EMPLOYEES.

The American Express Company Offers Inducements For Robbers' Scalps.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—President Fargo of the American Express company has authorized the manager of the company at Chicago to pay $500 reward to the brakeman who shot one of the robbers who attempted to pillage the express car on the Chicago & Rock Island train at Cordville on Sept. 20, and to divide $1,000 among the conductor, engineer and fireman of the train as a reward for their courage in resisting the bandits, and to pay $100 for each man arrested proved to be connected with the attempt to rob.

President Fargo has further instructed that in be considered a standing rule of the company that hereafter similar amounts will be paid for similar service.

Bad Matrimonial Bargain.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—There is little else being talked about in society than the separation of Count and Countess Pappenheim and the divorce which is to follow. The Countess Pappenheim was Mary Wheeler previous to her marriage to the German nobleman. She is the daughter of the late William Wheeler, and a remarkably beautiful woman.

Almost Given Away.

FLEMINGTON, N. J., Sept. 26.—Sheriff Hunter sold the real estate of ex-Congressman J. N. Pidcock, consisting of 75 farm lots and houses, to Hon. Alvan A. Clarke of Somerville at $1 per tract or parcel. The property consists principally of peach farms—the richest in the county—their yield this fall reaching 100,000 baskets.

Train Robbers Nearly Trapped.

FRANCIS, Mo., Sept. 26.—The officials of the Council Bluffs road, hearing that train robbers intended to loot one of its trains last night, rigged up a dummy train and put a force of officers aboard. The plan worked admirably, and when the bandits made their appearance two were killed and four captured. They all lived here.

Arrested For Inciting the Czechs.

PRAGUE, Sept. 26.—The proprietor and editor of The Narodni Listi have been arrested and will be tried for inciting the Czechs to breach of the peace. The emperor is said to contemplate placing all Bohemia under military law to case the Czech demonstrations do not abate.

Tyler Won Many Prizes.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 26.—H. C. Tyler, the Springfield flyer, was the hero of the International circuit bicycle races held in this city. He won prizes valued at $700, a piano valued at $900 and a diamond valued at $150. In the one mile international he defeated Sanger by a foot.

Colonel King's Address to the Public.

MEMPHIS, Sept. 26.—Colonel H. Clay King, serving a 6 months' sentence for killing David H. Poston, has issued an address to the public, saying his conviction was the result of a conspiracy between Judge Dunlap and Poston's relatives.

Father and Daughter Dead.

PEEKSKILL, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Owen Crowell died here from the effects of a dose of carbolic acid, taken by mistake for whisky. His eldest daughter died later from typhoid fever, superinduced by the shock of her father's death.

Pennsylvania Democratic Socities.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 26.—One thousand prominent Democrats from all over the state have assembled here, and 1,000 more will arrive today to attend the fifth annual assembly of the Democratic societies of Pennsylvania.

Hillites to Have an Organ.

CORNING, N. Y., Sept. 26.—As a result of the Democratic factional fight in Yates county, the Hillites will start a redhot state machine organ, to be edited by Hon. Thomas Carmody and Eli McConnell.

Lien Filed Against the Vigilant.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—A lien for $500 was filed against the yacht Vigilant by John F'Hommedieu on a claim for services in preventing the Vigilant from going on the rocks at New Rochelle.

Sold For a Song.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The entire effects consisting in the municipal department of the village of Williamsbridge were sold for $18 on the execution of a judgment for $3,000.

The Wisconsin Lease Contested.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 26.—A decision canceling the lease of the Wisconsin Central to the Northern Pacific, was rendered by Judge Jenkins and Judge Seaman of the United States court.

Chicago's Army of Idle Men.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—The police census of the city completed today shows 30,000 men out of work in Chicago. About 14,000 iron and steel workmen are unemployed.

Report of the Naval Disaster Confirmed.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 26.—The report that the iron monitor Rossalka of the Russian navy had gone down, probably with all aboard, is confirmed.

Bismarck's Appetite Gone.

KISSINGEN, Sept. 26.—Prince Bismarck is reported to suffer from loss of appetite and may be obliged to remain in Kissingen through the winter.

Mr. Crokor Is Not Satisfied.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—It is said that Mr. Croker is not satisfied with some of his district lieutenants, and their heads are in peril.

BLACK DEFEATED WHITE

Dixon Fought Hard For Seven Rounds to Whip Smith.

ARREST OF THE VANQUISHED MAN.

The Sheriff of Roby, Ind., After Smith For Fighting In the Monster State—Released on Judge Newman's Surety—Dick Burge Beaten by Fred Morris.

CONEY ISLAND, N. Y., Sept. 26.—Despite the stormy evening the sporting fraternity came in droves to the Coney Island Athletic club to see the fight between George Dixon and Solly Smith. The fact of Smith having knocked out Johnny Griffin recently at Roby, Ind., gave him many supporters. This match attracted more interest than any fight that has been held at Coney Island since the Dixon-Nelson affair. Dixon was the favorite in the betting, but the sympathy of the crowd was with Smith.

The preliminary bout was between Jim Burge and Fred Morris, for a $600 purse—$600 to the winner and $100 to the loser. The fight was simply a brutal slugging match, no science being displayed, and at the end of the tenth round the referee gave the decision to Morris.

The referee had scarcely rendered his decision in the preliminary bout when George Dixon made his appearance in the ring, accompanied by his seconds. Solly Smith was a few minutes later in making his appearance.

GEORGE DIXON.

Dixon fought to a finish for a purse of $6,000, of which the winner got $6,000 and the loser $1,000. The bout was refereed by John P. Eckhart.

The Fight by Rounds.

Round One—Smith rushed in on Dixon and did some very vicious infighting. Dixon had some hard work during the round. Both men fought hard, and their work was clean cut.

Round Two—Dixon was short with his left, and Smith planted a stinging left on the nose and caught Dixon to the ropes. Dixon tried his left, but Smith crossed him. Dixon planted his right on Smith's ear, and a heavy fight ensued, when Dixon planted his right on Smith's jaw. Smith tottered and clinched, when the bell rang at what appeared to be the critical point for Smith.

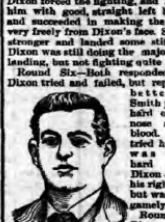
Round Three—Dixon followed up the advantage of the previous round and forced the fighting. He knocked Smith down three times in rapid succession and had him almost out. The fighting was of the most rapid character. Dixon kept swinging his left with great force into Smith's stomach until he had him very much exhausted.

Round Four—Good condition and handling sent Smith to the center looking fresher. Dixon led on the mark and clinched at. A sharp rally and hard infighting followed, of which Dixon had all the best. Dixon landed his left twice in succession. This was followed by a rush to the ropes.

Dixon Did the Most Landing.

Round Five—Smith came up strong. Dixon forced the fighting, and Smith met him with good, straight left hand blows and succeeded in making the blood flow very freely from Dixon's face. Smith grew stronger and landed some stiff punches. Dixon was still doing the majority of the landing, but not fighting quite so rapidly.

Round Six—Both responded quickly. Dixon tried and failed, but repeated with better success. Smith put his left hard on Dixon's nose and drew blood. Dixon tried his left and as a counterd hard by Solly. Dixon tried with his right and left, but was met very gamely.



SMITH.

Round Seven—Dixon landed a stiff left hander on Smith's jaw shortly after the round commenced, and as Smith staggered backward Dixon sprang upon him like a tiger and planted right and left with rapid succession. Smith sank to the floor under his punishment and took advantage of nine seconds. He rose to his feet only to be sent to the floor again.

Smith Knocked Out.

This time he came up very much weaker than before, but Dixon stood over him knowing full well the value of every second and so vital a stage of the game. Smith never got a chance to recover, as Dixon appeared him with tremendous force, sending him to the floor and time during the early part of the seventh round as though Smith might be able to last at least half a dozen more rounds, although his punishment about the body was very severe.

Hardly had the battle ended when Smith was put under arrest by a sheriff of Roby, Ind., who had a telegram from the governor recently with Johnny Griffin, which took place before the defunct Columbia club.

At Judge Newman's request he allowed Smith his liberty under promise that Newton would be responsible for the defeated fighter until today, when Solly would probably be taken into custody and brought to Roby to stand trial. The sheriff also had papers for Griffin, who was present at the fight, but the latter got the tip and evaded arrest.

Smith took his defeat very much to heart. For several minutes he remained seated on his couch in the dressing room, with his head buried in his hands.

Dixon said: "Now the only man I'm after is Pitzmore. I'll get a match with him or drive him out of the business."

Dixon's manager offers to back him against Pitzmore for $10,000.

Clausen Struck Out Ten Men.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Clausen made the strikeout record of the year yesterday, striking out 10 New Yorkers.

A CONFIDENCE WOMAN.

Mrs. Jessie McKenzie Is Quite an Adept In Getting Credits.

BOSTON, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Jessie McKenzie, who claims to hail from New York, is under arrest as a hotel beat. She is about 25, intelligent, of good appearance and apparently well educated. She staid at the United States hotel two weeks with a colored maid, and then suddenly left the hotel and the maid behind her, owing the hotel $105 and sums of $25 and $10 borrowed from different clerks, promising to pay back the amount on the arrival of her husband.

She then went to the Richwood House and staid some time without paying her board. Police Sergeant Sullivan, learning where she was, called upon her in company with an actress playing with Mansfield at the Globe theater, who had in New York let her have about $100 worth of clothing which she has never seen since, and placed her under arrest.

St. Joe's $1,000,000 Fire.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Sept. 26.—Several of the finest business houses of St. Joseph are in ruins, and $1,000,000 worth of property has been destroyed. The principal losers are the Townsend & Wyatt Dry Goods company, $250,000; Central block, $65,000; Hoagland block, $75,000; Regnier & Shoup Crockery company, $60,000; Commercial bank, $80,000; Carbrey block, $60,000; Insurance Agents' Bureau, $17,000, and 20 smaller institutions which represent a loss of $175,000.

Tortured an Innocent Negro.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26.—A negro supposed to be the escaped murderer Julien was arrested in Jefferson parish, and very his identity was revealed the regulators decided to torture him, with a view of compelling him to give information as to Julien's whereabouts. His feet were horribly burned, but he could give no information.

End of a Year's Shutdown.

CANAJOHARIE, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The Mohawk Silk Fabric Company's mills has resumed, after being closed for nearly 12 months. The employees signed the company's proposition to retain 10 per cent of the wages pending the unsettled condition of the tariff.

Savannah Quarantined.

SAVANNAH, Sept. 26.—The health board has decided, in view of the yellow fever epidemic at Brunswick, that no person be admitted within the city without a health certificate. Inspectors are stationed on all lines of railroads.

Capture of Counterfeiters.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Secret service agents have arrested Ingalo and Mary Delance at Hart Park, N. Y., for making counterfeit 100-peson treasury notes of the Argentine Republic, and also captured a number of plates.

The San Francisco Explosion.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 26.—The governor offers $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest of the perpetrators of the dynamite outrage. The seamen's union disclaims all connection with it.

Preparing For Train Robbers.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—In view of the recent train robberies the Canadian express companies have decided to arm their messengers with winchester rifles and to take other necessary precautions.

Killed His Eighth Man.

WELCH, W. Va., Sept. 26.—William Steff had an altercation with James Wilson, a negro, and shot him dead. Steff has a record as a killer, Wilson being his eighth man. He was arrested.

The Barcelona Anarchist.

BARCELONA, Sept. 26.—The police think the anarchist who threw the bomb at General De Campon has numerous confederates, but this is denied by the prisoner. The general is recovering.

Young Lady Scared to Death.

ADRIAN, Mich., Sept. 26.—Nelson Cuney repeatedly tried to kill his sweetheart, Miss Maud Brainerd, with a revolver, but failing, killed himself. The girl subsequently died of fright.

Identified as a Sneak Thief.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 26.—Ralph Hilton, under arrest on suspicion of being connected with the Kendrick-Ives (Jul.) train robbery, has been identified as Ralph Tefft, sneak thief.

General Hodenpyl Decorated.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—General T. F. Rodenbough has been decorated with the congress medal of honor for distinguished gallantry at Trevillian Station, Va., June 11, 1864.

Work For Five Hundred People.

SARATOGA, Sept. 26.—The two printcloth cotton mills of the Victoria Manufacturing company at Schuylerville have resumed work. They employ upward of 500 people.

Accepted the Reduction.

LAWRENCE, Mass., Sept. 26.—The Pacific mill mule spinners concluded to accept a reduction in wages and went back to work. The reduction averages 10 per cent.

The Company's Terms Accepted.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Sept. 26.—The New Castle Steel Mill company's scale has been signed. The reductions accepted by the men range from 30 to 40 per cent.

Smith Belongs In New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 26.—F. W. Smith, who has been at the head of the big insurance swindle which has victimized Chicago firms, is a New Havener.

Hugh Dempsey Ill In Prison.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 26.—Hugh Dempsey, imprisoned for complicity in the Homestead troubles, is ill and cannot eat prison food.

SLAIN BY HER HUSBAND

Horrible Death of a Woman In Perth Amboy.

JACK THE RIPPER WAS EMULATED.

A Fiend Wife Literally Torn to Pieces by a Brutal and Surly Husband—Jealous Because a Neighbor Assisted Her In Chopping Wood.

PERTH AMBOY, N. J., Sept. 26.—Jack the Ripper's horrible work was successfully emulated here last Friday night. A woman was the victim. Michael Fahey, who committed the crime, is a powerful man, while his wife, who was murdered, was frail and sickly, weighing less than 100 pounds.

Mrs. Fahey was chopping wood in her yard on Washington street, when a neighbor, who took compassion on her weak condition, offered his services. Mrs. Fahey, knowing the jealous disposition of her husband, at first refused the proffered aid, but the neighbor insisted upon cutting the wood, and she finally allowed him to do the work.

Upon Fahey's return from work that evening Mrs. Fahey informed him of what the neighbor had done. Fahey immediately became angry and accused his wife of infidelity and threatened her.

After eating his supper Fahey visited several saloons and drank freely. He returned to his home about 11 o'clock and lay down. His wife, who was in great fear, waited until she supposed he was asleep and then retired.

Awakened by a Demon.

She no sooner reached the bed than he pounced upon her with his bare hands, tearing and mutilating the poor, helpless creature in the most revolting manner. The woman's shrieks alarmed the neighbors, and upon their approach Fahey fled.

Dr. Brace was summoned, and upon examination discovered that she was badly torn. The woman, after telling some of the details of the crime, lapsed into unconsciousness, in which state she remained until Sunday morning, when she was relieved of her suffering by death.

Fahey wandered about the streets during Friday night regardless of the police, and was not arrested until Chief Burke was made aware of the facts Saturday morning. He was taken to the recorder's office, where he admitted his guilt. He was immediately handled at the county jail in New Brunswick, and so quietly did the chief work that the general public did not learn of the crime until Saturday night. Had Fahey been in the city when the facts became known nothing could have saved him from the wrath of the angry citizens.

The couple had been married five years, and Mrs. Fahey had always borne an excellent reputation. Fahey had uniformly treated her in an inhuman manner. The coroner's jury will meet today.

His Again Bombarded.

MONTEVIDEO, Sept. 25.—The insurgent squadron has renewed the bombardment of Rio de Janeiro. The forts opened fire upon the warships, which thereupon ceased shelling the city. Many persons were killed. The government of Brazil has appropriated $3,000,000, it is said, for the purchase of a cruiser from the United States.

BUENOS AYRES, Sept. 26.—The rebels in the province of Santa Fe have taken Rosario, and the national troops have retreated upon Santa Colas.

On the Track of the Negro Julien.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26.—The negro Julien, who killed Judge Estopinel, thereby causing all the lynchings in Jefferson parish, has been seen in the swamp near Pontchartoula. He was seen by two ladies, and by two negroes on the edge of the swamp. He had two guns—a shotgun and a rifle. He limped from the effects of young Estopinal's gunshot, and seemed worn out by his journey through the swamp. As soon as he was seen he darted into the swamp again.

Murder of a Miner.

HARTFORD, Sept. 26.—James McKeown, a feeble old man 80 years, who lives on Howard street in an old wooden building, was found bleeding and unconscious on the stone walk at the side of his house and died soon afterward. His death was the result of blows on the head that fractured his skull. Four arrests have been made, and it is believed that the murderer is among them. His had acquired a fortune by miserly habits.

Capture of a Noted Moonshiner.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 26.—Willard Morgan, one of the most noted moonshiners in the United States, was captured by Deputy United States Marshal Dan Hannon and a posse in Wyoming county. Morgan has been carrying on moonshining in the mountains of Wyoming and McDowell counties and on the Virginia side for nearly 20 years.

Mr. Solomon Rounds Bankrupt.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—David J. Solomon, recently liberated from an insane asylum, assumed charge of his Broadway store, and his brother secured a temporary injunction restraining him from interfering with the business. An application will be made for a dissolution of partnership.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 26.—The Republican convention of Tompkins county nominated for member of assembly Edwin C. Stewart; for sheriff, Charles S. Seaman, and for county treasurer, Charles Ingersoll, all of Ithaca.

One More Trolley Victim.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 26.—Gussie Somers, 9 years old, living at 909 Myrtle avenue, was probably fatally injured by being run over by a trolley car on the Myrtle avenue line.

Frank Ellison on Trial.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Seven jurors were selected for the trial of Frank Ellison, who is indicted for bribery in the gambling and kicking aged William H. Henriques.

Trouble Ahead For the Pugilists.

ALBANY, Sept. 26.—Governor Flower says the law against prize fighting in this state will be enforced in the matter of the proposed Corbett-Mitchell contest.

Receiver For the Garfield Park Club.

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—Henry Wilkinson, vice president of the Garfield Park club, has been appointed receiver of that institution in bonds of $50,000.

Gold Found In Connecticut.

NEW CANAAN, Conn., Sept. 26.—There is great excitement in this place over the discovery of gold in paying quantities on the farm of Seth C. Weed.

Pathfinding After the Victims.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—The Valkyrie has adopted a Yankee idea and will improve the set of her mainmast by using battens like the Vigilant's.

Women and Weather.

Did you ever notice how susceptible some women are to the changes of the weather? There are women who glory in a stormy day, and the wilder and more fierce the elements the greater the enjoyment, and there are others who wander about like lost souls and cannot become quiet till the sun shines again. Others have the "blues" just as soon as the storm approaches and immediately become morose or oppressed. One woman feels the approach of a cyclonic storm so strongly that she immediately becomes helpless and is put to bed and tenderly cared for until the storm has passed.

Another woman, at the first flash of lightning, settles herself on a feather bed, with her children gathered around, like chickens about an old hen, and there they shake and shiver with fear while the storm lasts. Atmospheric conditions undoubtedly do affect the human body. One woman, who is a nervous little body at most times, will watch a thunderstorm with the keenest enjoyment, and the more vivid and fantastic the flashes of lightning the better she likes it. "It does me good," she says, and no doubt an electric treatment from nature's own hand has its advantages over the manufactured sort.—Chicago Tribune.

How to Treat Dingiuss.

The dinginess that comes from poor washing is tedious. A week of solid perseverance is required to get it eradicated, but no soul with a fine feeling for clean linen will grudge it after contrasting the grime of what was with the sweetness and light of what is.

In careful hands a solution of chloride of lime is an excellent good help to the bleaching process, especially when the griminess is due in any measure to the use of rosin soaps.

In such cases dip the garments in suds and spread out. Then put into a gallon of soft water a tablespoonful of the liquid chloride solution and sprinkle the clothes with it until they are thoroughly saturated. Let them dry; then wash well in clear water, putting a little soap in suds. Wet and dry three or four times before giving another dose of chloride. Make only a single application of it if possible, and so you value whole garments never trust the process to the hands of a careless person, for it is a biting alkali—one that will eat holes in the fabric if injudiciously applied or else leave it so tender as to fail to please at the next wearing.—Exchange.

Starched Linen.

The manager of a big New York laundry says: Anything that needs to be stiffened and polished should be washed perfectly clean and allowed to dry thoroughly before it is starched. Let it soak before washing in lukewarm water long enough to thoroughly soften the old starch. Take care not to bend the stiff parts sharply back and forth until gentle rubbing has made them pliable, for stiff starched linen is almost as frangible as cardboard, even when new and sound of fiber. Especially is it so with the dandified used for dress shirts. When shirts are ready for the line, be sure to hang them on it properly—that is, with the shoulders lightly laid over it, the bosom hanging smooth and straight between. If a short bosom dries dragging slantwise, the several thicknesses pulling about, as the wind may effort will spoil the proper smoothness and solidity. With cuffs and collars it is much the same. Snap them out straight and hang them so that warp and woof pull true.

Woman as a Property Owner.

To the extent to which the ownership and control of property is passing into the hands of women it is well worthy of the attention which its importance justifies. In Boston alone women pay taxes on more than $130,000,000. They pay into the city and municipality its taxes, about $1,200,000, which is expended by the representatives of men, nine-tenths of whom pay only a poll tax of $1, and some not even that. The rapid and growing power in the business world as a landed proprietor, a stockholder, an employer of labor and as investor of funds, women has already acquired an influence in public affairs which ought to be represented by the ballot. The rapid transfer of property from the control of a feeble old man to guardians for the management to a sex but recently recognized is one of the most remarkable social changes ever witnessed.—Boston Woman's Journal

Walnuts and Quotations.

Select a number of familiar quotations, write them carefully on slips of white paper, cut each slip into two parts and mark each part with the same number.

Now select as many large English walnuts as there are quotations. Crack them with the nutcracker, taking apart in exact halves; then remove the meat and reserve it to be eaten during the evening. In each half shell place half of a quotation and fasten the two parts together together with a little mucilage. Lay them aside to dry until you are ready to use them. When your friends are with you, give each one a nut. Then the receiver must crack and then seek for a partner the person who happens to find the other half quotation in his or her shell.

This always creates a frolic and is a good idea for making an evening pass pleasantly.—Harper's Young People.

Why Japanese Women Look Happy.

"The secret perhaps," says a traveler, "of the sweet expression and habitual serenity of the Japanese women can be found in their freedom from small worries. The fashion of dress never varying saves the wear of mind on that subject, and the bare neatness of the simplicity of diet makes housekeeping a mere bagatelle.

"Everything is exquisitely clean and easily kept so. There is no paint, no drapery, no carpet or fluffy ornaments, no coming into the houses with the footgear worn in the dusty streets.

"And there is the peaceful feeling of living in rooms that can be turned into balconies and verandas at a moment's notice, of having walls that slide away as freely as do the scenes on the stage and let in sun and air, of doors and of the suited rooms to the shape and size that the whim of the day or the hour requires."

Baltimore's Railroad Princess.

One of the richest women in this country is Mary Garrett of Baltimore, daughter of the great railroad king and sister of the present head of the Baltimore & Ohio system. She is about 28 years of age and is worth perhaps $20,000,000, much of which she herself has made by judicious investments. She is of medium height, has a pale face and blue eyes much dependent on spectacles. She is said to be a walking "Poor's Manual" on railroads, and has inherited her father's love for the business and is acquainted with every detail of the railroad he founded. She gives a large share of her income to benevolence, and her charities are systematic, but very little to society. She is a great traveler and is a most entertaining conversationist, speaking in a peculiarly soft, low voice.—Baltimore Sun.

CHILDREN'S COLUMN.

Miss "Hoppity Skip."

Miss "Hoppity Skip" is the smallest of girls,
With the blouest of eyes and the sunniest of curls.
Whenever she goes with mamma on the street
She never walks straight on her wee little feet,
But goes with a hop, and a skip, and a run,
From the time of her start till her walk is quite done.

Miss "Hoppity Skip" has a big doll from France,
And she and Miss Dolly love dearly to dance
In the garden together, where each saucy breeze
Drives the leaves in a hurry quite off from the trees
To join in the dance with Miss "Hop-Skip" and Dolly,
While Doggie barks loudly and thinks it "real jolly."

Miss "Hoppity Skip" is a comfort to me,
For no matter, my dears, what the weather may be,
You'll always find sunbeams on her little face,
And never a sign of a cloud can you trace
In the sunny blue eyes which reflect from her heart
The brightness of which her wee self is a part.
And I love her, I love her, this smallest of girls,
With the blouest of eyes and the sunniest of curls.
Who hoppity skips in my heart all the day
And drives all my worries and troubles away.
—Mary D. Brine in Little Men and Women.

A Lucky Boy.

Some boys have a great deal of luck
Probably the luckiest boy the world ever knew was the little Maidstone (England boy, who had a very narrow escape while flying his kite some five or six years ago. Not looking where he was going, he stepped backward and fell into a quarry 40 feet deep, to the horror of some persons walking near. The string of the kite, however, being fastened round his wrist, the boy was lowered gently into the pit, the kite acting as a parachute, and instead of being dashed to pieces he escaped unhurt. Perhaps this means that he is destined to make his mark in the world. The great Lord Clive, when a youth, tried three times to shoot himself, but the pistol missed fire each time.—Harper's Young People.

An Ingenious Toy.

An ingenious homemade toy is made with a roll of cardboard covered with white linen on which a grotesque face has been drawn with India ink. A large marble is dropped inside after a loose body of red cloth has been glued to the lower end. Arms and legs are attached which are merely rolls of the cloth. A cap very peaked is for the upper part of the face. The marble is now secure and serves as a ballast when the wooden hop-o'-my-thumb is balanced at the top of an inclined board whence it rolls down at a lively pace.—Ex change.

Jessie's Way of Reading.

Jessie was learning to read and spell, but it was very hard to get her to remember what her teacher told her about pronouncing a double letter when she came to one She would say "s i" or "s e" or "s i" in the sunny blue eyes which reflect from her heart
The brightness of which her wee self is a part.
And I love her, I love her, this smallest of girls,
With the blouest of eyes and the sunniest of curls.
Who hoppity skips in my heart all the day
And drives all my worries and troubles away.

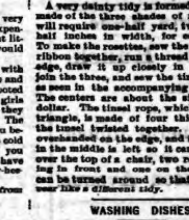
HOME HINTS AND HELPS.

SOME USEFUL SUGGESTIONS TO AID THE BUSY HOUSEKEEPER.

Things That Have Proved Their Value Through the Experience of Others. Ways to Increase the Comfort of the Home.

A lovely design for a sofa pillow is in bronze and shrimp pink plush, sewed together from corner to corner. Over the seam is placed an insertion of antique lace, three inches wide, that has been heavily gilded with gold paint, to a regular gold lace, stitched down with olive, old red, old blue, blue green, dull purple, citron yellow and old gold silks. For the back, use a square of velour, or embossed bronzed velvet. Around the edge sew antique lace (also heavily gilded) and place a large bow in the upper left hand corner, made of loops of ribbon to match the different shades of embroidery silk.

A Handsome Tidy.



A very dainty tidy is formed of rosettes made of the three shades of ribbon, and will require one-half yard, two and one-half inches in width, for each rosette. To make the rosettes, sew the ends of the ribbon together, run a thread around one edge, draw it up closely in the center, join the three, and sew the tinsel on each end. This is the accompanying engraving. The centers are about the size of a half dollar. The tinsel rope, which forms the triangle, is made of four thicknesses of the tinsel twisted together. The lace is overhanded on the edge, and the opening in the middle is left so it can be slipped over the top of a chair, two rosettes falling in front and one on the back, or it can be turned around so that it will appear like a different tidy.

WASHING DISHES.

A Method Suggested for Making the Task an Easy One.

I have an improved method for washing dishes which has been practiced in some households in the city, and which has been pronounced a great success, says a correspondent of the Detroit News.

First, have your water boiling hot. This is essential. Provide yourself with a common painter's brush, with a handle about ten inches long. If the bristles are not found convenient, tie a piece of soft rag at the end of a stick of the same length. Take the plates, and, after removing all the scraps, pile them on top of each other in the empty dish pan. Pour enough hot water on the topmost dish to fill the dish. Then tipping up one end of the dish with your finger, wash front and back with the brush. In Russian special brushes trimmed with thin tops about four inches long, instead of brushes, are used for this purpose.

Remember, it is not the heat of the plates but the hot water that pains the hands. When this is completed the water will be in the next dish. Lift the clean dish out and place it on the edge against the wall. Put in more hot water and perform the same operation on all the other dishes, and when the work is finished you will find that the dishes are dried the plates and that they do not require to be wiped. By this method you need not scald or wet your hands, and you also avoid the trouble of wiping, which is half the work.

An Egg Cabinet.

The egg cabinet is a novelty in the house-furnishing line. In order to have fresh eggs the greatest care must be exercised in keeping them in such a way that plenty of air circulates about them, and the cabinet in question seems to fill the bill to a nicety. It is made of wood, the front, back and sides consisting of small round sticks set an inch apart so as to give a perfect and thorough circulation of air on all sides. The interior is fitted with trays, pierced with round holes, into which the eggs fit securely. The top of the cabinet is fitted up with a beaded edge and ornamental centre piece, and, with the other portions painted and striped in various designs, proves not only useful, but rather ornamental.

Cabinet and China Closet.

Odd pieces of furniture for the dining-room are always in demand. A pretty cabinet for a cabinet and china closet together is shown in the illustration. It is of inlaid satin wood. The cabinet has four rows of shelves and a special arrangement of brass hooks upon which to hang the fancy cups. The panels of the door are glass. Below the china closet is a shelf upon which a bowl of flowers may stand. The upper shelf is for bric-a-brac and the rare old pieces of china dear to a woman's heart.

Egg Soup

Blue two white on one, fry brown in batter, add three pints of water, and let boil, sea on with salt, stir until the soup thickens, take from the fire, mix in gradually the beaten yolks of four eggs. Serve with siftpets of fried bread.

Throw a quantity of salt in the stove if the chimney is on fire and there is danger from sparks; if no coal, set it burn.

Use a strong lye solution to apply the blacking to stoves.

Tired from Head to Foot

FROM HEAD TO FOOT.

That's what's the matter with the most of us. What's the remedy. Four circulation or the blood. The quality of the blood is the life. We have known severe cases of so called rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, weak joints and muscles, no matter how long standing, to be entirely relieved by a few bottles. In a short time by the use of Anti-Tire Get up good circulation, healthy action of the quick and sluggish organs will result. One foot bath of Anti-Tire will do it. This also, the Pneumatic Shoe, all druggists will confirm. Send for pamphlet for trial package.

THE END OF SAN JOSE JOE.

A Monster Tiger Shark Known to all Shippers on the Pacific Coast.

There is on exhibition in a Stewart street saloon in San Francisco in the shape of a photograph "all that is mortal" of "San Jose Joe," San Jose Joe was in his lifetime a shark, and was better known along the coast from Guatemala to Panama than any skipper sailing the Pacific, and he was an object of general respect, too.

The first known to the man who tell the stories is that he was in the employment some about fourteen years ago by taking on a cargo of two natives, who were taying the luxury of a sea bath on the Guatemala coast, Lake "Old Beta," the grimily of the Sierras, his reputation as a monster increased rapidly, and he was given credit for the many wrought by all the sharks in the district he infested. "Joe" had a certain route which he "worked," and it was early noticed that his movements were always open for a choice morsel with a line attached to it. The expression on his countenance when the ship's cook would cast bait as well-loaded hook was edifying to behold. But he had a human contempt for people who gave donations "with a string to them."

But about four months ago as the United States steamer Ranger was lying in the harbor of San Jose de Guatemala, the noted shark came alongside and cast a hungry glance toward Reiter's house. Capt. Reiter armed himself with a harpoon and entered a dingy lying aft. By was an fortunate to get an opportunity for landing the harpoon in a vital spot; and, in short order, the old shark, who had terrorized the coast for so many years, was lying an inert mass on the calm waters. The carcass was hauled on board and photographed. Measurements were then taken, and "Joe" found to weighed. His weight was 3,800 pounds. He was 36 feet 8 inches in length, and was 9 feet 2 inches in circumference back of the gills. It was found that the old fellow had no teeth, probably owing to his great age. He was a tiger shark—that is, spotted like a tiger. The people on the coast have breathed easier since his timely taking off, and Capt. Reiter is a very popular man down there.

AS FICKLE AS HER MOTHER.

The Experience of a Man Who Married the Daughter of His Old Sweetheart.

Near Warwick, in Worth County, Ga., lives a prosperous farmer named Pleasant White, who had a wife a short time ago, but he now lives alone. Mr. White is about forty-five years of age, and owns a plantation of 1,500 acres.

When about twenty years of age he fell in love with a neighbor's daughter, Dora Lee. An engagement followed, and the marriage day was set. On the evening before he received a letter from the girl's father, telling him that Dora did not want to marry him; that she loved another, and hard as he had tried to expect her father's wish to marry White, she could not bring herself up to it. White gave up all idea of marriage, and turned his attention to business. For twenty years he avoided female society, only to have the flame aroused by the sight of a pretty face four or five years ago while attending a rural revival. The girl, he ascertained, was the daug ter of his old sweetheart Dora, as I was surprisingly like her mother. The letter favored the suit of her former lover for her daughter, and the pair were married.

So rapidly did White's business increase that he felt the necessity of an assistant. A young man named Miller, who lived in Albany, was secured and put in charge of the farm. From the first there was a tender feeling between the widower and the new superintendent. The neighbors began to talk. The woman's mother pleaded, but all to no purpose. So fond was her husband that he could find no fault with his pretty young wife. Recently some of the neighbors secured conclusive proof of the guilt of the couple, and flight was the only determined upon. The pair were at once pursued by the husband, who overtook them at Oakfield as they were going to Albany. When the train stopped at Oakfield White got aboard and found his wife and her youngest child, which she was taking away with her. White pleaded with her to return to her home and all would be forgiven, but, she refusing, he tore the child from her arms just as the train was moving off, and told her to go her way. While the wrangle between White and his wife was under way Miller found a more congenial atmosphere in another coach.

Faithful in Name Only.

Recently Miss Faithful Castle, a descendant of one of the pioneer families who settled the town of that name near the Ohio line, and John Hutchins were to be married according to the Quaker custom. The bloom of youth no longer blushed on Faithful's cheek, for she was forty years old on her last birthday. John Hutchins had spread along his head waters of the Mississinewa and made his suit pleasing to Faithful's parents. Faithful and John had been children together and had been looked on for years as one of those matches made in heaven. Twenty years ago, when both were young, John had courted Faithful, but finally was rejected by the fair maiden. "Perhaps thou knowest not thy heart, John," was always Faithful's sly answer when pressed to name a date, until the present summer, when he was gladdened by her saying: "I am ready if thou art."

A short time ago Cyril Lukens, the wayward son of the famous Indiana Quaker family by that name, came home after wandering up and down the country for years. His face was covered with a beard. He was a tall, straight man, and no one would take him for the Lukens boy whose youthful wickedness finally drove him from the town twenty years before. He said he had been around the world, and had finally gone to mining in Colorado. Cyril, of course, was invited to the wedding, being remembered by the older folks as John Hutchins's one-time rival.

When the guests were already at the preacher was in his place, some one remarked that Cyril Lukens had not come. "Then you will have to wait," said old Father Castle. At that instant Mother Castle, excited and holding up her hands in astonishment, swept into the presence of her husband and excitedly cried: "Declaring that Faithful was not in her room. The mother held a sheet of paper which she handed to Father Castle, who glanced at it and at the assembled guests and looked around him. He walked over to where John Hutchins sat, pale and frightened. John read the note and the two disappeared from the place. The guests solemnly departed.

Cyril and Faithful drove out to the country squire's and were married early in the evening. They then took the train at Winchester for the West. A letter was received by Mrs. Castle from Faithful announcing the fact.

At Elizabeth, N. J., Robert Hudspeth, 86 years old, was caught in his neighbors' icehoops stealing chickens. What an end of human hops and endeavor, to live and learn life's rich lessons of experience for 86 years and then know no better than to steal chickens and be caught at it! Robert was old enough to know better.

The best estimate of the character of the French chamber of deputies since the second elections is that the Moderate Republican party will have 313 members, the Conservatives only 63. This is almost too large a majority for the best results. It is not well for either a political party or an individual to have things too easy.

China has a half way protectorate over Siam. The commercial interests of England in the land of the white elephant are very great, and her political interest in keeping a buffer state between herself and other aggressive European nations in Asia is no less. If France should push Siam too hard, the natural thing will be an alliance, offensive and defensive, between England and China as against France.

Do not pin people down and tell them with the air of one who has discovered a great truth something they have known all their lives.

FARMER COLES' COW CUT UP AND A PORTION TAKEN AWAY.

The Police Believe a Starving Gang of Italians Committed the Act but Have No Clue.

One of the most brutal acts that has occurred in this vicinity was perpetrated within the city limits last night.

A cow belonging to farmer Lewis B. Coles was struck on the head and killed, its throat cut so that the head was almost severed from the body, and the left hind quarter cut off and carried away, leaving the balance of the bleeding carcass on the ground.

The animal had been tethered in a twelve acre field, near Terrill road, at six o'clock last evening. Two other cows, also belonging to Mr. Coles, were in the same field and uninjured, though there were evidences that one, a rather wild young heifer, had been chased about.

For sometime Mr. Coles had been fattening for beef the cow that was killed last night.

It is believed the act was committed by a gang of Italians who occupy shanties nearby, and that the missing portion of the animal was taken for food. The police authorities of the city and of Fanwood township have been notified.

BREVITIES.

—Swedish young men interested in the study of English Branches will meet at the Y. M. C. A. rooms this evening.

—A colored man named Hankerson was licensed Monday evening by the North Plainfield Board of Health to remove garbage.

—Summons was issued to day by Justice Nash in the case of Hunter vs. Esquire, landlord and tenant, returnable October 3d.

—The bowling alleys at the club house of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum have been put in good order for this season's bowling.

—The Plainfield Independent Fife and Drum Corps will hold a fair in Central Hall, corner of Park and North Avenues, some time next month.

—The New Jersey Central Railroad Company will, hereafter, destroy all coal "pinnacles" that require repairing exceeding a cost of $15.

—While North Plainfield is erecting an addition to its publice school, whereby there will be room to spare for several years to come, the Plainfield public schools are over-crowded.

—The October term of the Union County Court, which promises to be a short one, owing to the fact that no cases of magnitude are to be disposed of, will open one week from yesterday.

—More than one hundred scholars than ever before are receiving instruction at the High School. Sixty-six of them live beyond the limits of the school district and pay for the privilege of attending the school.

—On Saturday the Crescents of this city will play the E. A. C.'s of Elizabeth at that place. The E. A. C.'s expect to wipe out the defeat of Labor Day and they will have a very strong team. The game will be called at 3.30 p. m.

—The chain which supported a hanging lamb in the show-window of a dairy store on West Front street, broke between six and seven o'clock last evening and caused the lamb to fall. A small fire and lots of commotion followed. No damage was done.

—The Y. P. S. C. E. of the Park avenue Baptist church will hold their fifth anniversary Tuesday, Oct. 3d at eight p. m. in the church. The Rev. Palmer S. Hurlbert of New York City will address them on the subject of "Christian Endeavor, What it Can do and How it Can do It."

—Fruit trees that were set out last Spring, says the American Farmer, need some attention now and they will be much benefitted if a thick mulch is laid around the roots for a distance of four or five feet from the body. This keeps the soil from drying out and they continue to grow thriftily.

—Frank Warnicke of Westfield was accidentally stabbed Sunday morning by Chauncey Smith. The boys were going to Sunday-school and had a playful tussle over the possession of a rubber ring. While Smith was trying to cut the ring with a penknife, Warnicke rushed at him to seize it. The knife entered Warnicke's breast two inches below the heart and he is now in a critical condition.

Winfield Scott Post Gets a Sword.

A regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R. was held last evening.

Comrade George Moore presented to the Post a handsome parade sword given by Mrs. Darius Martin, who formerly resided on East Front street. The sword was formerly owned by Mrs. Martin's husband, who was the first Vice Commander the Post ever had. Mr. Martin, who formerly kept an iron foundry on Richmond street, died some seven or eight years ago.

Mr. Moore was taken toward the consolidation of the Major Anderson Post with the Winfield Scott Post, the committee having the matter in charge failing to report.

There is a stream whose narrow tide
The known and the unknown worlds divide,
Where all must go;
Its waveless waters, dark and deep,
Mid solemn silence downward sweep
With mysterious flow.

ANNUAL MEETINGS OF THE CONGREGATIONALISTS.

Most of the Business Postponed and a Special Meeting Called.

The annual meeting of the members of the Congregational church of West Seventh street was held last evening. Rev. Mr. Goodrich was elected moderator and Mr Joseph A. Robinson, clerk. Rev. Mr. Goodrich read the report of the official Board. Mr. Whiting moved that that the annual meeting of the church be changed from the last Tuesday in September to the last Tuesday in April and that the election of officers hold over till then. It was voted that the present officers hold over till their successors are elected, and a special meeting be called a week from next Tuesday to consider the changing of the time of annual meeting from September to April.

A motion to change the time of the special week of prayer from the first week in January to holy week, owing to the holidays being so near, was laid on the table to be brought before the next special meeting. The election of deaconesses was also held over for the special meeting.

The meeting then adjourned and was followed by the meeting of the society of the Congregational church. Mr. Whiting was elected chairman, and the usual parliamentary formalities were followed by the reading of the report of the trustees, which showed that about $1300 had been received during the year, and that financially the church was in better condition than it has been for five years.

It was then moved that the trustees hold office until their successors be elected, which would likely be at the special meeting.

After the two meetings refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

Plainfield well Represented at the World's Fair.

Persons considered good judges assert that more people have visited the World's Fair from Plainfield than from any other town in the county of its size. Some consider that the number from here would equal any other town even ten times its size. However this may be, it is known that a great many of our people have availed themselves of the splendid World's Fair service of the Pennsylvania Railroad and speak in terms of highest praise of its excellence.

Among those who have just returned from the Fair are Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh and wife, Dr. J. H. Cooley and wife, Mrs. Williams and daughter, Robert Rushmore and wife, Mrs. Joseph W. Gavett, and the Misses Ida B. Cook, Lillie Coward, Adams, Lizzie Maltby, Rushmore, Jennie Demarest and Ella Demarest. Florence Randolph, Mr. John E. Keely, Chas. Goepfert and many more are going, among them being Dr. J. A. Manning of Manning avenue, Mrs. Haberle of West Front street, ex-Councilman Ernest R. Ackerman and wife, Ralph Oyer, William Kelly and family of Oak Tree, I. W. Serrell and Miss Ella Serrell of West Front street.

The Melopois will Go On as Usual.

Musical Director W. R. Chapman informs a News reporter that so far as the Melopois is concerned it will give its concerts this season notwithstanding rumors to the contrary, and he hopes the same will be true respecting the Choral Society, since both can do much toward furnishing superior musical instruction and entertainment, each in its own peculiar way. Mr. Chapman incidentally remarked that he had just returned from Abbey for $500, guaranteed by such Plainfield men as Messrs. Fish and Runkle of the Melopois Musical Committee, the most celebrated tenor in this country from Europe. This, he thought, did not look much like giving up the concerts this season because of the rumored reasons, and the rehearsal next Tuesday evening would show that they were as full of zeal for work as ever.

PERSONALS.

Miss Kittie Coard of Stamford is visiting Rev. Mr. McCarthy of West Third street.

Mr. F. E. Miller, the genial proprietor of Hotel Netherwood, has gone to St. Louis for a few weeks.

Mr. Seely Edsall of Sandford avenue has gone to Redwood, Jefferson county, New York, for a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Clarke of West Front street, who have been spending about two weeks at the World's Fair, returned home yesterday.

An enjoyable birthday party was given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fordemeyer on Sandford avenue, in honor of their daughter, Miss Amelia. About thirty five guests were present and the evening was spent in dancing and playing games. Refreshments were served toward midnight. Music for the occasion was furnished by the Anscotia Orchestra.

Resolutions of Condolence.

Resolved, That the Board of Health of North Plainfield learn with deep regret of the death of one of their members, Robert V. Currie, and desire to express their great appreciation of his faithfulness, his kindly spirit, his regular attendance at meetings, and his solicitude for the welfare of others.

Resolved, That this Board extends to the bereaved family its deep sympathy in this hour of its affliction and sorrow.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be furnished to the family and also to the city press.

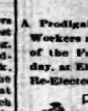
TEMPERANCE WORKERS

THE U. C. W. C. T. U. MEETS AND ELECTS OFFICERS.

A Prodigality, in Members and Workers as Well as in Initiate one of the Facts in Evidence Yesterday, at Elizabeth.—Mrs. Tomlinson Re-Elected President.



THE Ninth Annual Convention of the Union County Woman's Christian Temperance Union was held at Elizabeth yesterday. The white banner of the County Union was conspicuously displayed, and on the front of the pulpit, framed in white ribbon clover, hung a large portrait of the late Mrs. Downs, for a number of years the State President of the W. C. T. U.

The sessions began at 9.30 o'clock with devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. J. H. Underhill of Rahway. These followed the minutes and appointments of committees, after which Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson of this city, the County President, made her annual report, an interesting review of the work of the year. It was followed by the details and statistics given in the reports of the corresponding secretary, Miss C. B. Yates of this city, and the treasurer, Mrs. G. T. Underhill of Rahway.

The election of officers for the new year was held, Mrs. Hale presiding and offering prayer. Mrs. Tomlinson was re-elected president, and when she was escorted to the chair, the delegates rose and greeted her with a Chautauqua salute.

Mrs. Tomlinson thanked the delegates for their renewed confidence, and for the support and sympathy she had had in the past. She said she had not been satisfied with the work she had done, but hoped to be more helpful to the Union in the coming year. She asked for co-operation, and expressed the desire that Union county shall come up to a higher standard.

Miss C. B. Yates of this city was the only corresponding secretary. Mrs. D. D. Irving of Rahway, recording secretary, and Mrs. Noe of Elizabeth treasurer.

The following ladies from this city were re-elected: Mrs. J. H. Coard as superintendent of the Department of Hygiene; Mrs. S. H. Krom, superintendent of press; Miss Amey Green, superintendent of "Y" work. There are fourteen other departments of work.

Union County has five hundred members and is entitled to choose a delegate to the national convention of the W. C. T. U. to be held in Chicago beginning October 12. Mrs. M. J. Francis of Elizabeth, and Mrs. L. H. Noe for alternate, were elected by ballot.

Miss Starr of Westfield gave a Bible reading, her subject being "Faith," and the noontide prayer was offered by Mrs. Scriven.

At two o'clock the afternoon session began with a praise service, and three minute reports were made by the superintendents of various departments.

The evening address by Miss Henrietta Moore of Ohio on "Personal Responsibility" was exceptionally fine.

A Novel Entertainment.

One of the popular and most successful entertainments of the day, is the Mock Court Trial, given under the direction of an expert—Capt. W. V. Newton, Manager of the Newton Entertainment Bureau, of Worcester, Mass. Many of the cities and large towns in New England as well as many of the Middle States have been greatly excited over it as attested by the lengthy and favorable reports in the newspapers, and best of all by the great audience that have packed the largest halls and Opera Houses to the doors.

So great has been the interest that in many instances hundreds are said to have been turned away, unable even to obtain standing room.

It is a pleasure to announce that the Mock Court Trial will be given in the Stillman Music Hall, on Monday evening, October 16th, under the special direction of its originator, and for the benefit of the Y. M. C. A.

One of our prominent citizens will be tried for the larceny of a Plymouth Rock Rooster and it is safe to predict that there will be fun.

The entertainment is instructive, interesting and exciting as well as fun-provoking. All the rules of the regular Court of Justice will be observed. Let all remember the date of the great Mock Court Trial. Further notice will be given in an advertisement.

The Seventh Day Baptists' Handsome Home.

From its exterior appearance, the new Seventh Day Baptist church will undoubtedly be the finest church in the city, and has many peculiarities of construction which make it the only one of its kind in the world. The interior, which is receiving the finishing touches, is thoroughly in keeping with the outside effect, and the detail of workmanship is grand. The interior is so arranged that the Sunday-school and church may be united into one large room by means of sliding partitions, and the pulpit being at the dividing line the preacher can easily be heard in the furthermost corner. The Seventh Day Baptists, though fretting at the delay made in putting on the finishing touches, have every reason to be proud of their handsome piece of worship.

THE SCOTCHMAN WON.

"The Race is not Always to the Swift."

A young American athlete who was much given to boasting of his ability as a runner was recently taught a very good lesson by a stout old Scotchman who had listened with impatience to the young man's many tales of his swiftness of foot.

The hard headed old Scot told the young man that if all he said was true he was indeed a swift runner, "but" said the shrewd Scotchman, "if you will give me a yard handicap and choice of where the race shall be run, I'll wager ye even ye can't beat me, old as I am." His offer was quickly accepted by the youth, who, with a jeering sort of laugh, placed an amount of money in the hands of a stakeholder, the old man doing likewise.

When the matter was arranged so that there was no withdrawing, the young man asked where they would have the race, and the old man, without answering, at once procured a long ladder and then said "up that." The young man forfeited the money.

"Gone are the Gypsies and who can tell Where?"

The band of picturesque gypsies who several weeks ago came unannounced, and due or only father managed to catch the runaways by a bit of gypsy stratagem.

The women, old and young, the latter being most numerous, dressed in very gay colors when they come to town and all had a fondness for wide-brimmed black hats, trimmed with flaunting feathers and ribbons, and placed jauntily on their well curled and glossy black locks. Narrow waists, bright, laughing eyes, sun browned faces, and white, regular teeth made these, especially the younger women, objects of interest. The men of tribe seldom appeared in town. With their comfortable, well built wagons, they will encamp for a while at Bound Brook, and then proceed on their wanderings.

Crossed Wires Put Out Electric Lights.

Monday evening, as North Plainfield families who have electric lights in their homes, were gathering about their tables for the evening meal, the lights became suddenly extinguished and utter darkness prevailed until the discarded kerosene lamps were brought out.

It was half an hour before the electric lamps resumed business.

Inquiry as to the cause of this mishap did not give much satisfaction at first, since no one seemed to know more than the fact that the bells at the station were thrown off, and this was repeated until the trouble was discovered.

It appears that a wire of the Plainfield company became crossed with a North Plainfield wire, and the extra volume of electricity turned on to fuse at the station, not only breaking the connection, but also extinguishing the lights of all lamps on the circuit.

When the wires were separated, and a new fuse inserted, the lights were as bright as ever.

The mishap shows how safe electric lights are. No other means known may be considered as safe with the inventions which have been made to this end.

The wires have given trouble ever since the storm of Sunday night, which blew down trees, mixing and breaking wires in all directions.

Swindled Ninety-Seven of his Own Countrymen.

Louis Phillippi, an Italian, who until recently was boss of a gang constructing the electrical subway at Rahway, swindled a number of his countrymen Friday. He is now probably on his way to Italy with the proceeds. Phillippi is an old man. He had been out of work some time, and wished to return to Italy for the Winter, but had no money. He went to a padrone on Mulberry street, New York, and, representing himself as foreman of the work going on at Rahway, said he wanted 100 more hands. During the afternoon he succeeded in gathering in 97 of his countrymen, from whom he collected $1 each.

Finding he could hire no more, he took his colony to the Pennsylvania ferry. After buying ninety-seven trip tickets for them, and giving minute directions how to reach a boarding house two miles beyond the city line, run by one Zizzo, who is now in the city jail for passing counterfeit five dollar bills, Phillippi disappeared.

Climax Gun Club Incorporated.

The Climax Gun Club of this city yesterday filed articles of incorporation with the Clerk of Union county. The trustees of the club are Daniel R. Terry, John L. Darby, Thomas H. Keller, Thomas Darby, Jr., Winfield S. Terry and Charles Smith.

A New State Paper.

A new daily paper with the entire State for its field, is now being published every morning at Paterson. It is called the New Jersey Press, and has about twelve pages containing sixty columns of crisp, breezy news, well classified.

LATEST NEWS BY WIRE.

The Yachts to Start from the Sandy Hook Lightship.

New York, Sept. 27.—The International yacht races will start from the Sandy Hook lightship at 11 a. m. each day.

The start will be made from one gun, and not from two, as formerly.

In case the wind is unsuitable for a start from Sandy Hook lightship, the yachts will be taken out to sea for the start.

How far out they will go will depend on the wind.

All other minor details, such as delays in case of a fog or a postponed start, will be left the charge of the Regatta Committee.

A Tale of Horror.

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 27.—It is said that the Italian steamer "Vincenzo Florl," laden with immigrants, is lying helpless outside the port of Santos. The officials will not allow her in. An average of 30 deaths occur aboard her, from cholera. The victims are thrown overboard and drift ashore.

238 Japanese Drowned.

London, Sept. 27.—Reports of the damage done by the floods at Gifu, Japan, state that 682 houses were swept away, 14,035 houses were flooded, 238 people killed and 30,205 people rendered homeless.

An Ice Railway.

An ice railway has been built by the De La Vergne Refrigerating Machine Company, at Chicago, in the Midway Plaisance. This unique exhibit has been installed and shows that in addition to refrigerating and ice making, skating rinks and cold storage warehouses can be produced by this system—direct expansion.

Midsummer sleighing on real snow is delightful, refreshing and exhilarating. The ice railway furnishes all this, and is a most pleasing and attractive novelty. It is located in the Midway Plaisance directly South of the great Ferris Wheel.

Great Reduction in Rates to the World's Fair, via Pennsylvania R.R.

In order that a much wider circle of Eastern people may have the opportunity of visiting the great Columbian Exposition, the Pennsylvania Railroad Company has made a further reduction in its excursion rates. This applies especially to the excursions of September 28th, October 2d, and an additional excursion just arranged for October 6th. The round trip from New York, Brooklyn and Newark is $18, Elizabeth and New Brunswick $17.25, Trenton, $17.25, and proportionately low rates from other stations. The parties will be carried in special trains of vestibuled coaches, and will be composed of the standard passenger coaches of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

The special train leaving on the above dates will leave New York 9.00 a. m., Jersey City 9.15, Newark 9.35, Elizabeth 9.52, New Brunswick 9.58, Trenton 10.26, Philadelphia 11.30 a. m., and arrive at Chicago 10.15 next morning. Return coupons of the tickets will be valid for ten days, available only on trains leaving Chicago at 3.15 and 11.30 p. m.

These excursions place a visit to the Fair within the power of every one, and no person should fail to embrace the golden opportunity.

Valkyrie—1893—Vigilant.

The told by legend, tale and story,
The subject of ancient song and lay,
Where deeds of valor, love and glory,
Were loved by every one!

Valkyrie goddesses appeared,
To the bravest always they cheered,
"Choosing the slain," they nothing feared
In battle's dread array.

Although with dying closed the sprite
That in the valiant soul did soar,
Bears the dread name of fear and fright,
Of Nineteen-three now more.

We match the same with right good will,
A Vigilant to watch and fight,
And to the challenge of the '93 skill
Can put the myths to flight.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Theory of Periodicity.

It is within range of probability that scientists of the next generation will be able to arrive at definite conclusions in regard to the recurrence at stated periods of not only natural phenomena, but also of sociologic and economic conditions. The next step after that may be to connect these recurring economic and sociologic conditions with the periodically returning natural phenomena, such as perhaps violent and frequent sunstorms. Magnetic disturbances on the earth are already known to occur at the time of maximum sun spots.

Interesting indeed it will be for the Herbert Spencer of the twentieth century to discover that within a stated number of years given moral and physical conditions return upon the human race generally. He will find, for instance, that the years 1892 and 1893 were a time of terror in many parts of the earth. Now in 1893 cholera rages in Asia and to a less degree in Europe. In Great Britain a horrible mania for suicide seems to have taken possession of the people, a ghastly mania which seems spreading to America as well.

Labor disturbances and great strikes are trying the resources of the people to the utmost on both sides of the water. In America we have financial stringency such as has not been known in 20 years or more. The financial disturbances began with the collapse of Argentine and later of Australian credit two years ago and spread like circles in the water till they reached America.

The terrible grip that ravaged the earth two years ago has not ceased its work. The droughts of the present summer in Europe are almost unprecedented in history. Our own country in the past two years has been swept by storms of almost unparalleled fury. Such cyclones have not been known in a quarter of a century as those that occurred along the Atlantic coast this summer. Train robbery, highway robbery and burglary are so frequent as to have given rise to the remark that they are epidemic. Fires have devastated equally with storm. Murder, riot and deeds of violence make the reading of the daily newspaper a thing to be dreaded. If these horrors occur in regular cycles, let us hope that the present cycle is nearly ended and that more cheerful events are immediately before us. Till their coming, meantime, the best anybody can do is to keep his head level, his conscience clear, and wait.

The World's Wheat.

The wheat statisticians are promising the farmers higher prices for their grain next spring. That is poor consolation, however, when the farmer has between him and then the cold season with all its rigorous demands in the way of purchases. He will have to sell most of his grain now, and the promise of high prices next spring is rather hollow sounding to him.

The Hungarian minister of agriculture finds that the world's wheat crop is deficient by a million bushels compared with the average for the past 10 years. The total crop will be about 2,279,000,000 bushels. The countries that import wheat will need above their home supply 379,000,000 bushels. To meet this requirement the wheat selling countries have not enough by 336,000 bushels, according to the Hungarian minister's figuring. The deficit must be made up by Indian corn, rye and barley.

Russia has most wheat to spare, her surplus being not quite 98,000,000 bushels. Next comes the United States with 69,518,000 bushels to spare, while Hungary is third, with 45,400,000. The fourth wheat exporting country is India, with 42,362,000 bushels to sell.

There is some kind of a poison in large salted fish that occasionally operates fatally. It has thus operated so often in Russia that the czar's government has offered a prize amounting to $3,400 of our money to the person who shall write the best essay, giving information on the subject. The essays must be all in by Jan. 1, 1894. The writers must determine as far as may be the nature, chemically and otherwise, of this poison, the symptoms of the person affected by it, the remedy for the sickness, also the method of so treating the fish as to destroy the poison. It is not at present known which of "the large salted fish" contain the deadly substance, and determining this point will be part of the task of the essayist. The competition is open to all nations, but the essays must be written in one of five languages, Russian, Latin, French, German or English.

Canadian workingmen know on which side their bread is buttered, at any rate. This is shown in the resolution passed by the Dominion labor congress at Montreal memorializing their government to submit to popular vote the question whether the people of Canada preferred imperial federation or political union with the United States. There was not any doubt as to which that congress preferred, when afterward it passed an overwhelming vote for Canadian independence. The congress thus voted for independence and squinted with its off eye toward annexation to the United States.

If anybody wants you to buy goods and pay the bills before you get the goods, on promise that he will give you a gold watch, don't do it.

COLD LEAD FOR BANDITS

Express Companies Prepared to Meet Train Robbers.

MESSENGERS NOW FULLY ARMED.

One Express Official Favors a Federal Law to Punish Offenders, Saying It Is the Same Localities the Robber Is Bigger Than the Express Company.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—A reporter made the rounds of the express offices yesterday to see if, in view of the almost daily robberies in the west, the express companies were getting alarmed and were taking extra precautions to protect their interests, as the Canadian companies have done.

"Are you afraid of train robbers?" ex-Senator Thomas C. Platt, president of the United States Express company, was asked, just as he was leaving the office.

"No, sir, we are not afraid of them," replied Mr. Platt, "but we are ready for them, and we are taking extra precautions to protect ourselves. We are putting extra men on the trains through to the west on all trains wherever our interests may be. The men are thoroughly equipped, and are ready to look out for our interests and their own.

"And they are going to shoot, too," added Mr. Platt, nervously clutching his fingers as though he had hold of a winchester.

When asked if the other companies were doing the same thing, Mr. Platt said he supposed they were, although he did not know. There had been no conference of the companies to adopt uniform measures for protection.

Cold Lead For the Robbers.

When asked what he thought of the proposition to amend the interstate commerce act so as to give the federal courts jurisdiction in case of the robbery of an interstate train, he said it would have a salutary effect in checking the practice.

From another source it was learned that on a number of routes on which one man had been sent in the past two were now sent. One of the officials was asked what he thought of the proposed federal law.

"It hasn't thought much about it, but cold lead is the only thing that will stop them," the official replied.

General Manager H. S. Juller of the American company was asked, "Are you afraid of them?"

"No, sir," replied Mr. Juller.

When asked if special extra precautions had been taken, he replied, "No more than we have had the last two or three years."

When questioned further, Mr. Juller said, "We are all ready for them."

When asked a second time, he replied, "They'll find plenty of cold lead if they try to trouble us." Further than that, as to the number of winchesters, he didn't care to talk.

General Manager Dudley Evans of Wells Fargo & Co. was asked, "Are you afraid of the train robbers?"

"Well," said Mr. Evans diplomatically, "they've held us up more than they have any one else."

Mr. Evans Was Reticent.

When asked if special preparations had been taken, Mr. Evans said it wasn't a good idea to let the robbers know what the company was doing. When asked if special instructions had been sent to the agents in the west, he said none, except that to take care of themselves and their weapons, etc.

He thought that a federal law providing for hanging or imprisonment in cases where train robbing resulted in loss of life would have a salutary effect on the robbers. He said that under a United States law the men would be removed from the jurisdiction of the express company and tried in some court where the local prejudice would not act. Often in the west, he said, the local feeling was with the poor train robbers as against the greedy eastern corporations. He was very glad that the railroads in the west were co-operating with the express companies by arming their conductors and brakemen.

Superintendent William Hoey of the Adams company didn't say that he or his men were afraid of the robbers. When asked if special precautions were being taken, he said they did not care to say more than that they were taking such precautions as a prudent man would to protect his interests.

"You may say," he said, "that in common with the other companies we are protecting our interests."

Robbers Bigger Than Express Companies.

When asked if he would care to state the number of rounds of ammunition and the number of winchesters and colts the men had, he replied that he would not, and besides, they might prefer remingtons.

He was in favor of a federal law dealing with the train robbers. The trials, he said, would be freed from local prejudice, which was so strong in favor of the robbers. He remarked that in some parts of the west the train robber was bigger than the express companies, and the grand juries were afraid to indict the robbers because the jurors feared the robbers would shoot them or burn their property.

If train robbing was made an offense against the government, the work of catching the robbers would devolve upon United States marshals, who would do more effective work than the local sheriffs, and need not halt at state borders. Mr. Hoey let drop the statement:

"Our men are all prepared. We have men along the line and at the terminal points. We send out extra men."

Mr. Hoey said it was remarkable what a fascination the business had for the express agents. He said there seemed to be so strong an element of excitement in the life that agents who had been in the business often often did not want to give up their route for promotion in the service. They never seemed to fear dangerous routes.

News From the Alvo.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—News has at last been obtained of the missing Atlas line steamship Alvo. One of her lifeboats was picked up at sea empty by a passing steamer and taken to Montego Bay, Jamaica. This is the first definite tidings received of the Alvo since the day, now nearly six weeks ago, when she steamed out of New York harbor, bearing 48 persons. When she passed Sandy Hook that day, she disappeared as if swallowed up. So far as is known not a single human eye ever beheld her again.

Van Alen Denies the Report.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 27.—James J. Van Alen, nominated for minister to Italy, denies that he contributed $50,000 to the Democratic campaign fund upon condition of receiving the appointment.

Kill Chow Yaks.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27.—The deportation of three more Canadians has been ordered. Among these is Chee Yokz, the notorious highbinder.

ELMIRA INVESTIGATION.

The Committee Took a Look at the Prison Paddling Apparatus.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 27.—The committee appointed to conduct an inquiry into the administration of affairs at the state reformatory at Elmira convened yesterday.

The committee was conducted through out the prison by the superintendent and the managers on a tour of inspection. The bathroom, where the paddling is done, was visited. Superintendent Brockway was called on to show the paddle used. It was about 2 feet long, the handle being of wood, and the other end is a solid piece of leather. Six convicts who have been paddled lately were ordered for and stripped. Only two showed any signs of a beating.

One man, Vanness, who said he had been paddled 18 different times since he has been in prison here, stated that he thought two more paddlings would about end him up, and Mr. Brockway agreed with him. Another convict, Daniel Quinn, had been paddled three times. The paddling, in some instances, is on the small of the back. The skin is not broken, but two of the convicts examined showed backs black and blue and bruised.

The superintendent addressed the convicts, and then the novel experiment was tried of giving each prisoner an envelope and sheet of paper on which to make complaints or any statement desired. These are to be returned to the committee today.

DEFINING RELIGION.

Kinza Ringe Hira Says It Is a Belief In an Unknown Entity.

CHICAGO, Sept. 27.—At the parliament of religions Kinza Ringe Hira's subject was "Synthetic Religion." He defined religion as a belief in an unknown entity, which was both entertained by human beings and the lower animals. It had two forms and three stages. The first form was embryonic and the second developed. The stages of both forms were first ceremonious, second nonceremonious and third ceremonious again. Such was an entity utterly incomprehensible.

Rev. John Gemenler of St. Paul roused considerable enthusiasm by declaring his belief that the world was gradually approaching a magnificent reunion of all religions, and through which all would work in peace. Professor Emory W. Wilkinson of the Chicago university, said that Christianity was full of kindness and mercy to man, but it was unalterably opposed to other religions. There might be virtues in other religions, but all were condemned by Christianity. The speaker attacked the Buddhist religion, declaring that Christianity could have nothing but undying hostility for that faith.

Afraid of Governor Flower.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 27.—Edward Hahn, Jr., of New Orleans, was here yesterday and said that Dominick O'Malley, owner of the Columbian Athletic club at Hoboken, N. J., is negotiating for the purchase of the arena of the defunct Crescent City club of New Orleans. In the event of his getting it he is certain of taking the Corbett-Mitchell fight there, as eastern friends have hired him that the Coney Island people are afraid Governor Flower will stop the fight if an attempt is made to bring it off in their clubhouse. O'Malley promises $40,000 for the fight.

Women Arrested For Stealing Chickens.

VINELAND, N. J., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Sarah McCue and her daughter, Mrs. Noga, were arrested on the charge of being chicken thieves. Mrs. McCue's house was searched, and a large number of fowls were found and identified as the property of various parties. Mrs. McCue was held in bail for court and her daughter was discharged.

To Go Out of Business.

PITCHBURG, Mass., Sept. 27.—The directors of the Starr Wire company voted to stop manufacturing and divide their capital and surplus among the stockholders Jan. 1. The uncertainty of the tariff led the directors to close out the business.

AFFAIRS IN WASHINGTON

Important Resolution Introduced by Mr. Dubois.

A MAIDEN SPEECH BY MR. PERKINS.

The President to Give No More Public Receptions—Banking Committee to Give Hearings—Good Outlook For American Cows Abroad—Chairman Wilson at Work.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The Populist senator from Kansas met somewhat of a defeat in having a resolution of his laid on the table by a vote of 27 to 19. It was a call on the treasury department for information as to the anticipation of interest on bonds since March 4, 1861—information which Mr. Sherman said the senator could obtain for himself in any public library. Mr. Peffer intimated that the treasury department was trying to withhold information to which the people were entitled, but Mr. Sherman's view of the case was adopted by the senate.

A resolution intended to have an important bearing on the repeal bill was offered by Mr. Dubois of Idaho, proposing that no legislation be attempted at a federal election laws, the tariff or finance shall be considered until January, 1894, when the vacant seats from the states of Washington, Montana and Wyoming will be filled. The resolution went over until today, when Mr. Dubois is to speak upon it. After the regular bill was taken up Mr. Perkins of California was called upon against it, in which he declared himself a sincere believer in the use and coinage of both gold and silver.

Mr. Perkins Made a Good Impression.

It was Mr. Perkins' first speech in the senate, except a eulogy on his predecessor, Mr. Stanford, and the impression made by it was very favorable to the new senator.

The remainder of the day's session was occupied by Mr. Stewart in continuation of his remarks begun on the previous day. The session was closed with a personal explanation by Mr. Morgan, denying the imputation of unfriendliness between the president and himself, and a short speech by Mr. Voorhees, eulogistic of the president and explanatory of why the Democratic side of the chamber had not answered Mr. Stewart's attacks during his two days' speech.

The debate upon the federal election repeal bill in the house was not as exciting as was expected. Mr. Tucker of Virginia, who in Mr. Fitch's absence is in charge of the measure, delivered a carefully prepared and well considered speech upon the question, devoting himself principally to the constitutional points involved, although he took occasion to make some reference to John I. Davenport and his methods. Mr. Brosius of Pennsylvania replied, defending the election laws. Without transacting further business the house adjourned.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

Connecticut—M. L. Wilcox, East Lyme.

New York—J. T. Lee, Boston Corners; Robert Bryant, Churchtown; William Cleary, Comsocks; Edward F. P. Powell, Helderberg; P. J. Cleary, Newtown.

Pennsylvania—W. M. Fellabaum, Bell's Bridge; John Davis, Bluff; B. Scott, Bristoria; F. Bernarding, Carrick; A. P. Burson, Clarksville; A. V. Bonghner, Greensburg; H. E. McMahon, Hyde Park; E. F. Powell, Jeffersville; W. W. Meeks, Munhall; J. M. Bunard, Sturgeon.

Banking Committee to Give Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The house committee on banking and currency decided to inaugurate a series of hearings devoted to the subjects of the bills on the committee calendar. Representative Oates has been invited to appear Monday and speak for his bill to repeal the 10 per cent state bank tax, and Representative McLaurin to speak for his resolution authorizing an increase of the currency by an issue of $125,000,000 of greenbacks.

No More Public Receptions.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The president has determined to discontinue his public receptions. The custom of receiving the public in the east room Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays was inaugurated by President Cleveland in his first term, was practiced by Harrison during his term, and was renewed by President Cleveland up to the time he went to Gray Gables.

Market Abroad For Our Cows.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Consul General Edwards of Berlin reports that the German minister of war has ordered the military authorities to use Indian corn mixed with oats in making up the rations for the army horses. This will lead to heavy importations of American corn.

Chairman Wilson Already at Work.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Chairman Wilson had already commenced work on his tariff bill, and no announcement of the progress made will probably be given out until the completed bill is ready for presentation to the house.

Dachshunds For Mrs. Cleveland.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Three young dachshunds have arrived at the White House after a journey over land and sea of 4,000 miles. They were sent to Mrs. Cleveland by Mr. Merritt, the United States consul at Bremen.

Commissioner Has Promoted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—Mr. A. C. True of Connecticut, for many years employed in the office of experiment stations in the department of agriculture, has been promoted to be director of the office.

Resignation of Mr. Hyer.

STEVENSON CHEERED.

Warm Reception Tendered Him by the Pennsylvania Democratic Societies.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 27.—Vice President Adlai E. Stevenson stood on the stage of the Academy of Music here yesterday evening his thanks for the enthusiastic plaudits that greeted him. The occasion was the meeting of the general assembly of the Pennsylvania Democratic societies, and the vice president was cheered more heartily than was the name of Grover Cleveland.

The address of President Chauncey F. Black, made upon calling the meeting to order, was full of references to the times of Jefferson and Jackson, and closed with the prediction that the present Democratic administration would reduce expenditures and taxes and lop off all unconstitutional iniquities. Mayor Allison of Allentown followed in an address of welcome.

The platforms adopted endorses the administrations of President Cleveland and Governor Pattison, calls upon the Pennsylvania representatives in congress to use their efforts to secure the passage of the silver repeal bill and a revision of the tariff on constitutional grounds.

The banquet at night in Market hall was one of the biggest affairs of the kind ever seen here.

CROP PROSPECTS.

Report of the Weather Bureau For the Information of Farmers.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—The crop report of the weather bureau says:

New England—The ground is in fine condition for fall plowing, and more rain is needed to fill the springs before the ground freezes.

New York—Fall work is well up. Potatoes are rotting extensively in north position. Grapes are unusually abundant and good. Apple picking has begun, but there will be a light crop.

New Jersey—The weather conditions have been most favorable for the cutting of corn, plowing and gathering of fruits. The light rains were very beneficial to winter grain and grass, which are coming up well and growing fast.

Pennsylvania—The weather is entirely favorable, and great progress has been made in seeding and corn cutting. Much tobacco is still in field. The buckwheat harvest is over, but it is the poorest crop raised this season. There are few potatoes, but of fine quality.

Mrs. Halliday Is Very Ill.

MONTICELLO, N. Y., Sept. 27.—Mrs. Halliday is a very sick woman. For a week she has been lying on her cot, groaning and mumbling. Last Wednesday she was taken with a severe vomiting fit, and has been suffering from stomach troubles and chills. The jail physician has been attending her, and absolutely no hopes have been allowed to see her. It is probable the grand jury will finish their work and make known the result of their deliberations today. It is believed that a true bill has been found against her.

Bonds Represented as Cash.

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—A discrepancy has been discovered in the accounts of Treasurer John W. Washburn of the Old Colony. According to the treasurer's report, there was $66,000 in cash in the treasury, but it was found that securities, stocks and bonds, purchased with the company's money, represented a part of this cash. The treasurer has made an assignment of all his property for the benefit of the corporation.

Women Heeded the Priest.

CITY OF MEXICO, Sept. 27.—An American prestidigitateur named Balebreso and his wife have recently been obliged to discontinue their sleight of hand performances and illusions on account of a certain priest having stated from the pulpit that their works were "of the devil." As a consequence, the women in the place refused to attend the performances.

Some Strip Statistics.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Sept. 27.—Of the 200,000 people who entered the strip on the 16th, over half have left. The population of the new territory is now given as follows: Pawnee, 1,000; Kirk, 3,000; Kildare, 1,000; Ponca, 1,000; Enid, 5,000; Pond Creek, 2,000; Alva, 1,000; Woodward, 1,000; Perry, 12,000.

Robbers Battered Down a Door.

BUTLER, Pa., Sept. 27.—Five masked men, with a telegraph pole, battered down the door of the farmhouse on the Butler plank road. They then bound Mr. and Mrs. Diede, the keepers, who are 70 years of age, and ransacked their house, taking $200 in cash and other valuables.

Oldest Lutheran Church In America.

POTTSTOWN, Pa., Sept. 27.—The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Augustus Lutheran church at Trappe, this county, was celebrated yesterday. It is the oldest church of that denomination in America.

To Test the Ives Pool Law.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—John Nugent and George H. Brennan, arrested on a charge of selling pools, were held for trial in the Yorkville police court. The trial is to be a test case of the constitutionality of the Ives pool law.

Caught In the Machinery.

OSWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 27.—William J. Quirk was killed in a boiler shop here. The key to his shirt bosom got wedged tight in his collar, and before the machinery could be stopped he was strangled and his neck broken.

Reward Offered For Murderers.

ANXIETY FOR BISMARCK

An Intimate Friend Says He Is a Physical Wreck.

HIS SPLENDID FRAME SHRUNKEN.

Full Text of the Correspondence Between the Emperor and the Iron Chancellor. The Former's Invitation Gracefully Declined by the Prince.

BERLIN, Sept. 27.—Herr Allers, an artist, who is a close friend of the Bismarck family, has arrived here from Kissengen. He gives an unexpectedly discouraging report of the prince's condition. The most formidable of Bismarck's maladies, he says, has been acute pneumonia. The disease was not discovered by the physicians until Bismarck's condition had become critical. The physicians and family are exceedingly anxious and watch Bismarck constantly, as, although convalescing, he is very weak and quite liable to a relapse which must prove fatal. According to Herr Allers' report, the old man seems like a wreck. His splendid frame has shrunk, and his flesh has fallen off until his clothes hang in folds. He appears as if fully a head shorter than before his illness. The princess is opposed to removing him to Friedrichsruh. He, however, is anxious to go home.

A report from Dr. Schweninger says that Bismarck's first severe attack of illness occurred on Aug. 27, after the reception of the Frankfort excursionists. A diagnosis on Aug. 31 showed that his lungs were badly inflamed. Then came many sleepless nights and restless days, during which Bismarck passed much of the time reclining on a couch.

On Sept. 6 he was suffering keenly from insomnia. On the 10th he began to sleep intermittently. He also left the couch, sat in a great chair and occasionally walked a little. Since then he has been gaining steadily, but slowly. Just now he suffers considerable pain in his left shoulder, which was stung by an insect last Sunday, and is badly swollen.

The Emperor to the Prince.

It has just been made possible for the first time to obtain the text of Emperor William's correspondence with Prince Bismarck. The emperor sent on Sept. 19 the following message to Kissingen:

"I have, to my great regret, only just learned that your highness' has gone recently through a somewhat serious illness. At the same time I have received the news, thank God, that you now are making steady progress toward recovery. I therefore beg to express to you my great satisfaction with this encouraging development. Being anxious to assist in thoroughly completing your recovery and establishing your health, I beg your highness, in view of the unfavorable climate and location of Friedrichsruh as well as Varzin, to take up quarters for the winter in one of my castles in central Germany. After conferring with my court marshal I shall communicate to your highness the names of the castles which will be most suitable to your purpose."

Prince Bismarck's reply to this dispatch was: "With the deepest respect I thank your majesty for the gracious expression of your sympathy with me in my illness and of your satisfaction with the entire convalescence of my health. I thank your majesty no less for your gracious desire to assist in furthering my recovery by providing for me a residence under the most favorable climatic conditions.

Bismarck Gracefully Declines.

"My respectful gratitude for your majesty's gracious intentions is in no way diminished by the conviction that, should it be God's will that I regain my health, my recovery would be quickest in my family circle—in the surroundings to which I now have been so long accustomed. My complaint being of a nervous nature, I share the opinion of my doctor, that if I pass the winter in my wonted surroundings and occupations my mode of life will be the most likely means of promoting my recovery.

"I agree with my doctor also in the opinion that the disturbance of my nervous system which might result from a sojourn in strange surroundings and new associations such as would be necessitated by your majesty's gracious advice is, in view of my advanced age, to be avoided. Schweninger will take the earliest opportunity to put in writing these opinions, which I share with him."

The Neueste Vachrichten in Munich says that on Monday Bismarck sent 10 dispatches to the emperor and that the hopes of the German people for a reconciliation are likely to be fulfilled. Little else is discussed in the newspapers than the prospect of a meeting between the emperor and ex-chancellor. The report that Chancellor von Caprivi is trying to prevent the reconciliation is discredited by all well informed persons here.

Was the Queen's Son a Coward?

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The Radicals have brought out new evidence that the Duke of Connaught, third son of the queen, was guilty of gross cowardice in Egypt in 1884. An eyewitness says that when the troops were formed for an attack the duke was in the first line, but soon after, he took up his position in the rear. This statement is accepted generally as the bare truth. In the officers' corps the facts are said to have been known for years.

Barcelona's Anarchistic Scare.

BARCELONA, Sept. 27.—The police have searched the houses of 30 anarchists in the last 24 hours, and have seized many bombs and large quantities of explosives. Pallas, the anarchist who threw the bombs at General de Campos, made a full confession. Heasid he had been planning since May to kill the captain general, and had followed him day after day.

The Czar Regarded With Distrust.

PARIS, Sept. 27.—The cordiality with which the czar has received the Count of Paris and the Duke of Orleans in Copenhagen is regarded here with distrust. Several newspapers say that by his unusual attentions to the two arch royalists the czar is needlessly slighting the Republicans who are preparing to honor the Russian navy.

Anarchists Called Idiots.

VIENNA, Sept. 27.—At a socialist meeting held in this city last night Most denounced the anarchists as idiots. They hinted that the anarchists arrested here and at Brunn were in the pay of the police.

Bosses Willing to Compromise.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—The mine owners, at a private meeting, showed an inclination to compromise with the strikers. The rising price of coal renders them exceptionally eager for a settlement.

Says Kearick Was Not Deposed.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 27.—The Post-Dispatch prints a letter from Mgr. Satolli, saying that Archbishop Kearick has not been deposed.

She Could Run.

But He Didn't Know It Until After the Race Was Over.

The Rev. H. W. Pierson, D. D., was for many years a traveling agent of the American Bible society in the southwest. For a part of that time he rode a horse of which he was justly proud, and of which he speaks again and again, always in terms of eulogy, in his volume of reminiscences, "In the Regions Round." One night he arrived at a celebrated watering place. A four horse stagecoach drove up at the same time, and Dr. Pierson noticed the eyes of the driver and the passengers fixed admiringly upon his Jenny. The coupertent entered the hotel, registered his name—without prefix—and went to the washroom. As he finished his ablutions and stood wiping his face, the stage driver burst into the room in great excitement.

"Mr. Pierson," he said, "will you allow your horse to run? The money is up, and we'll have a race if you'll only say the word."

As he spoke he shook in the agent's face a mass of bank bills drawn through his fingers after the manner of gamblers in those parts.

Mr. Pierson was startled to hear his name pronounced in this way by a stranger, but bethought himself at once of the hotel register. Just then a servant appeared with his saddlebags, waiting to show him to his room, and with an abrupt, emphatic "No, sir!" he turned away.

In due time the supper bell rang, and Mr. Pierson stepped out of his room upon the piazza. There he encountered a gentleman who at once approached him pleasantly and said:

"I hope, sir, you will reconsider your decision, and allow your mare to run. I have made a bet that she can outrun anything here, and the money is up. Allow me to say that I am an old Virginian, and a judge of horses, and if you will let her run I am sure to win."

By this time the Bible society's agent had recovered his self possession. He bowed politely to his Virginia friend, and said:

"Do you think, sir, it will do for a Presbyterian clergyman to commence horse racing so soon after reaching the Springs?"

Now it was the other man's turn to be flustered. He did not say a word, and Dr. Pierson went in to supper. When he came out again the stranger made up to him in the most respectful manner.

"Allow me to speak to you again, sir. I wish to apologize. I beg your pardon, sir. I assure you, sir, that nothing would induce me knowingly to insult a clergyman."

Dr. Pierson made some good natured reply and thought nothing more about the matter.

The next winter, in passing through another part of the country, he stopped at a blacksmith's shop to get a shoe tightened.

"Wasn't you at the Springs last summer with this mare?" said the blacksmith.

The doctor answered in the affirmative.

"Well," said the blacksmith, patting the mare's neck and looking into vacancy with a pleased expression, as if he were living over again some pleasant scene, "they got her out, preacher, and run her anyway."

Then, as if to make the matter all right with the owner, he looked up into his face and added in an emphatic nod as he added, "And, preacher, she beat, she did. He won his money."—Youth's Companion.

Night Slave Pursuers.

The wet hair clung to her face and rendered more pronounced its ghastly pallor. The men and women who gathered about the body as it lay there lying there upon the beach looked with terror in their eyes and thought her dead. The long curving lashes rested upon the colorless cheek and not a breath fluttered the gentle bosom.

"Poor girl!"

Strong men repressed their tears with an effort and women wept aloud.

Two doctors were working over the prostrate figure.

"She will live!"

Not a one that heard the words but felt a sense of joy.

They carried her tenderly to a secluded place, far removed from the gaze of strangers.

"Wh-where am I?"

Her eyelids trembled a moment and opened. With a glance of terror at her unfamiliar surroundings she strove frantically to rise.

"Lie quiet, lie"

The doctors were endeavoring to soothe her.

——"quiet. You were almost drowned."

"Drowned?"

She stared in frightened incredulity.

"Heaven!"

The girl was looking in wild dismay at the damp garments that enveloped her. Suddenly her eyes filled and she sobbed piteously.

"Oh, that I had had the courage!"

Her anguish was one of the acute type.

——"to have had my bathing suit made of goods that would stand wetting. I might have known"——

She buried her face in her hands.

——"that I would be falling into the water with it."

After she had slept awhile she felt better.—Detroit Tribune.

Not Much of a "Lift."

Farmers, even those who are considered rather "in it" in their respective lines, are usually quite willing to give foot passengers a "lift," but they like to be asked politely. A native of Hillville was returning from the county seat to Brooky with an empty wagon when he overtook a smartly dressed young man who was plodding along with the disgusted air of one unused to country roads and dust. The statement is accepted generally as the bare truth. In the officers' corps the facts are said to have been known for years.

"Hullo, hayseed!" cried the foot passenger, turning around as he heard the rattle of wagon wheels and standing still until the farmer drove up. "Can a fellow get a lift to 'Sconset?" and without waiting for a reply he vaulted into the wagon. "I might as well ride with you as to walk, I guess. Now then start up your nag."

The farmer looked at the young man a little sharply, but said nothing beyond a "Git up," addressed to his horse.

After two or three miles had been traversed, the young man passed for a moment in his inconsequent chatter and remarked: "It's a matter of a distance to 'Sconset that I supposed."

"It is quite a distance," responded the farmer in a non committal tone.

Another silence of many minutes passed, and then the young man inquired:

"Say how far is it to 'Sconset?"

"Well," replied the farmer, "keepin straight ahead, as we're goin now, I sh'd say 'twould be a matter of 25,000 miles or so, but of so be you was favorable I'd guess as how you'd git on handily in back, it ain't much above eight miles."

The young man got out with great celerity and proceeded to "boot it" in the opposite direction.

"I cal'late," said the farmer, telling his wife the story afterward, "I cal'late his mode of addressin th' next man he meets will be some diff'rent."—Youth's Companion.

Science Progress.

SCIENTIFIC AMUSEMENT.

Two Pretty Experiments With Soap Bubbles and Carbonic Acid Gas.

Here is a way of preparing carbonic acid gas, which is at the disposal and within the power of everybody. Take a large, deep glass, a soda water glass say, and introduce therein the bank of a flask of seltzer water. Apply an intermittent pressure on the lever, which will cause a series of little jets or squirts of seltzer water to fall into the beaker. Suck up this water through a straw, leaving only at the bottom of the glass a layer of water about an inch deep.

By emptying the seltzer as described, you will find your glass soon full of carbonic acid gas disengaged from the sparkling water which, gradually but surely displacing the air in the glass, will continue at the bottom in virtue of its greater density, for it is well known that carbonic acid gas is twice as heavy as the atmosphere. Now cover your glass with a saucer to prevent the escape of the gas by diffusion in the air, and we are ready to execute the following experiments with soap bubbles:

With the aid of a straw split in four for about a couple of inches at its end and turned back on the body of the straw at right angles, blow a bubble, which you can now let fall in your beaker B of carbonic acid. As soon as the bubble begins to feel the cushion of gas, instead of falling farther, it will rebound into the outer air under the action of the elasticity that countervails its weight, while, on the other hand, another bubble, placed in the empty glass A, will sink to the bottom and remain there.

If you will slowly let your bubble sink upon the cushion of carbonic acid gas, it will rest upon it, and you will shortly witness quite a curious phenomenon. Your bubble will grow and grow in volume most mysteriously, meanwhile augmenting in weight and gradually sinking in the glass, as we put in C. till at last it breaks itself against the sides of the tumbler. The reason of this is because the carbonic acid gas introduced itself into the soap bubble by endosmose, thus enlarging and increasing the weight of the bubble originally full of air. If you can do so conveniently, procure a mixture of soapy water and glycerin for bubbles. If not, a bowl of ordinary soapy water will serve almost as well.

The Shot Process of Drilling.

In this method of drilling through rock steel shot are poured inside of the drill pipe, into a ring or channel made in the rock by a few revolutions of the pipe. The pipe bears on this ring of shot, and when the pipe is revolved it causes the shot to revolve also and cut the channel in the rock deeper. As boring large holes through hard rock by means of diamonds (which are now costing from three to four times as much as they did a few years ago) is very expensive work, the new process of drilling by means of shot will, it is expected, be used in many cases instead of the diamond drill. Popular Science News reports the putting down of a test boring 9 inches in diameter and 200 feet deep.

Fireproof Paper.

The adaptability of paper is regarded as likely to lead to a solution of the problem of rendering dwellings and business structures fireproof. The Industrial World says it is now found that paper can be made perfectly fireproof while remaining amenable to the same treatment in the matter of color, polishing and handling as most woods. Such a material offers all of the advantages as an ideal substance for floors, and it can be used equally well for the walls of buildings. Besides this, it can be used in the finish and furniture of houses and would unquestionably do much to reduce the peril of fire, against which insufficient provision is but too often taken.

The Best Way to Clean a Clock.

In washing a clock movement, a tolerably stiff brush should be used, and in washing the plates, if care is used in manipulating the brush, very little if any pegging out of pivot holes will be needed. Of course, any and all repairs must be done previous to the washing. The use of benzine for clock cleaning, except for removing gummy oil from the mainspring, is of questionable service. Let any person put warm water and soap and benzine both a fair, square trial, and according to The Horological Review there will be but one verdict, and that will be for the soap and water.

The Ice Railway at Chicago.

The ice railway and the inspiring jingle of sleighbells in summer time on genuine ice and snow represents one of the surprising features of the Midway plaisance. It may be mentioned that the powerful agent that reduces the temperature in the manufacture of ice and snow is anhydrous ammonia.

Notes in Passing.

A thing to meet "a long felt want" is a tackhammer with the handle full of tacks, newly introduced.

"Electrogravure," a process for reproducing high class works of art, resembles in its effects the photogravure which has done so much to displace handwork at the expense of engravers.

Diamonds lose about half their weight in cutting.

A luminous buoy is a recent French invention. The light is produced by phosphide of calcium and is visible for five miles.

In testing for arsenical poisoning, zinc is commonly used, which, however, generally contains arsenic as an impurity, thus giving false results, on which a supposed criminal's life may depend, says an exchange.

Electricity has been applied to the detection of metals or magnetic ore underground.

Photography catches stars which the telescope does not reveal. The greatest revelations to astronomers are now coming along the line of stellar and nebular photography.

OUR YOUNG FOLKS

THE PENGUINS.

The Peculiar Habits of These Queer Amphibious Birds.

These amphibious birds, found only in southern latitudes, present to the geometer a very singular problem on account of the fact that the legs, which are very short, are placed so far back that the bird sits in a perfectly erect position, while the wings (quite destitute of feathers) are modified into paddles, useless indeed for flight, but capable of being employed as an extra pair of legs when the creature is in haste to escape from pursuit. At such times so rapid are its movements that it might easily be mistaken for a quadruped. Its general mode of progression, however, is to shuffle along on the feet alone, the wings hanging down like broken arms, the body giving a half turn at every step and the feet moving each other.

Where penguins are found at all, they are found in prodigious numbers, as at the Falkland islands, where their deep, resonant cries add greatly to the dreary desolation of the place. While on land their habit of sitting together in long rows, with their bluish backs contrasted with the white breast, gives them a ludicrous resemblance to an infant school of white aproned children. The female bird lays only one egg, large and of a grayish white color. If disturbed during incubation she will shuffle away at a rapid rate, rolling the egg along between her feet till she reaches a place of safety.

The solitary young bird is covered with fluffy gray wool and is so abundantly fed by both parents that it soon becomes almost too fat to move. They feed on cuttle fish and various crustaceans. There are many species of this bird, the crested variety being really handsome, its bright golden topknot, which can be erected at pleasure, giving it a very conspicuous appearance. It abounds in dreary Patagonia and is, like all penguins, a very noisy bird.

A City of Dollmakers.

At Sonneberg, which is in the heart of Germany, all the inhabitants are in the business of doll making—12,000 people are all masters or low skilled workers—and among them they produce no fewer than 25,000,000 dozen doll babies every year. It is hard to realize what an enormous quantity that is.

After this it sounds odd to say that in Sonneberg it takes 80 persons to make a doll. Yet such is the fact. In Germany labor is such a drug as much as possible, or, in other words, a dollmaker does one little thing from year's end to year's end, and thus it comes about that it takes 80 people to make a doll.

Little boys, when they enter the Sonneberg factories, spend a long time in painting nails on dolls' fingers, for which they are paid about 25 cents a week. Some girls do nothing but fill bodies with chopped hay or straw. Men pass their lives in painting Dolly's lashes and brows, and others in putting rouge on her cheeks. So it is with other parts of a doll; each is done by one person. The dolls' wigs are made by girls at Munich, and their eyes come from a little town only a few miles from Sonneberg, and are made by men in their own homes.

Endless are the varieties of dolls. Every Sonneberg manufacturer has about 100 designs. Taste varies, and besides in exporting dolls many things have to be taken into consideration. A wax one cannot be sent to a very hot or a very cold country. In the former it would melt, in the latter crack. Then if a doll has rubber joints she cannot be sent a long sea voyage, for on arrival at her destination she would be armless and legless. A sea journey also takes the curl out of Dolly's hair and the starch out of her clothes. Fashion, moreover, is constantly changing. A doll which everybody buys one season is not looked at the next.

A Wee, Merry Baby.

All our young folks are, beyond a doubt, fond of holiday pictures, and we would not think their column very interesting unless there were pretty illustrations in it each week. Here is one of a dear, dimpled naughty baby, a baby who is not always crying, I am sure, nor a baby who is bad tempered, but a saucy, merry, mischievous, wee thing, old enough to toddle about, to creep under tables and pull heartily at table coverings, curtains, and all such offending articles for small mischief-makers thinks in the way. What a world of fun lurks in the dimpled face! Many of you have just such another little darling in your home and will think this very much like "our baby."

THE HOUSEHOLD

NEW GLASSWARE.

Attractive Fashions Prevailing in Handsome Articles For the Table.

There are fashions in glass as in all other matters. The handsome cut glass which was so long in favor (and which is still used) now has a heavier blank and correspondingly heavy to allow of depth for cutting. It has in consequence been somewhat pigeoned by finer and more fragile patterns, in which wine certainly looks more tempting.

The latest prevailing taste is not in favor of colored glasses, even for hocks white is often used, and citron and pale green have taken the place of the old ruby and deep green. A revolution in the shape of claret-jaune glasses has apparently arrived, a welcome one, for the wide, low glass is less often found among the newer patterns, being replaced by the old tall narrow shape. These look more graceful and are easier to lift than the others.

Sorbet glasses are coming into fashion. This is a welcome innovation, as that particular kind of ice has hitherto been served in ordinary custard glasses, which, to the foreigner at least, must seem rather anomalous.

Engraved glass is still used, and very graceful shapes are produced in faint or twisted lines. Elizabethan jugs and beakers are made in wave or threaded glass, and mounted in silver. Several other dainty novelties are made in the same style, such as small jugs for liqueurs (or for scent), large and small mugs for lager beer, etc. A handsome glass bowl would be a suitable dish for serving salad, for which it was originally intended. When used for the former purpose, it can be fitted with a wire netting. Glass spoons and forks, also mounted in silver, accompany the salad bowls. Claret jugs and champagne jugs are now in order. These are of cut glass silver mounted with a separate silver mounted glass bowl for ice.

Correct Masculine Attire.

Shirtings will be severely plain. The correct thing for evening dress will be plain white linen, with preferably two studs, although no objection is raised to wearing three. In collars there is little change, the turned over points being still most desirable. A new shape just put on the market is quite high, with the points slightly turned and but little space between. Its cuffs square ends only are permissible.

There has been a marked tendency of late years to discard the broadcloth for dress suits, and this is still noticeable, worsteds and vicunas being the most popular materials. But broadcloth will always be worn, especially by mature men. The dress coat will have slightly longer tails, the waistcoat will be cut more V shaped than formerly, and the trousers of course will be slightly straighter in fit than those worn during the day. Silk waistcoats will be popular.

Trousers will have a slight spring this season, but whether they will be well received remains to be seen. The authority on which these statements are made cooked, in the New York Herald, that individual tastes are likely to govern these matters to a great extent, and with regard to the size certainly a man's legs have something to do with it. But for the average well dressed man trousers will be 19 inches wide at the knee and 17½ at the bottom. For the pattern stripes are always in style, gray colors predominating, and a check, if it be very small, is not unsuitable.

Autumn Coats and Capes.

Tailors are making coats for the autumn of smooth or of fleecy cloth, single breasted and close fitted to the waist line, then extending half way to the knee, with ample fullness in the lower part of the back, says Harper's Bazar. By way of ornament many of these coats have the waist neatly trimmed with a sash, close Hungarian jacket of velvet, open in front without revers, but trimmed across with bendebourge or rows of braid. Brown, red, blue and black are the colors of such coats.

Capes will continue in favor and will be of varied lengths—short capes for young women, longer capes to the hips for the middle aged, with still longer circulars for the elderly.

HELPING HIM OUT.

A College Professor Gets a Practical Illustration of "Spooning."

"For the past three years," says Dr. de Guerville, "I have been professor of French literature in the Milwaukee college, where there are hundreds of young lady students. When I was first appointed I looked so young that the principal of the school seemed a little suspicious, and I often lectured in the presence of a large number of chaperons. However, nothing serious happened.

"I was calling one afternoon on a young lady who remarked that some one was a 'spoon.' That was a use of the word with which I was unfamiliar. I could not understand it, and said so.

"'You must get somebody to give you a practical illustration,' said the girl, who had just made her debut in society. Her mother entered the room at that moment, and after greeting her I turned to the daughter and asked, 'Won't you give me a prac'

"But the young lady interrupted me and peremptorily changed the subject.

"I went home pondering over the ambiguity of the word 'spoon,' and after dinner went into the college library to consult the dictionary. A number of young ladies from the Conservatory of Music were in the library and watched me with some curiosity. I studied the word in the dictionary, but, of course could not find the meaning I desired. At last I threw down the book in disgust.

"The girls inquired what was the matter, and when I told them they asked me whether I did not know what spooning meant. When I confessed my ignorance, they said, 'Oh, you must get some one to give you a practical illustration.' I asked how it was again; but when I asked them for a practical illustration they laughed, I thought, unnecessarily so.

"I went out, and later in the evening started for my study. The hall was dimly lighted, and I could see the figures of a young man and woman leaning against my door. I called twice, 'Who is there?' and receiving no answer, proceeded to inquire into the identity of the intruders.

"What was my astonishment to discover two pillows, one cased in a suit of my own clothes, the other wrapped up in my blanket to resemble a woman's costume. They were propped together in a loving attitude and above was a large placard with the words, 'A practical illustration of spooning.'"—San Francisco Call.

A Fancy Room.

A dainty room lately furnished for a young lady by her thoughtful mother and described by The Decorator and Furnisher is so truly artistic that many will be glad to copy it. It is a pansy room, and the prettiest one imaginable. The entire furnishings are in white, lavender, violet and purple, and here and there a dash of gold. The snowy curtains have pansies embroidered on them. The carpet is violet and white, and the exquisite bedspread is embroidered with pansies. On the pillow shams is the quotation, "Pansies For Thoughts."

The bed, dresser, chairs and toilet table were treated to two coats of ivory enamel paint, touched up with gilt. The canopy for the bed is of violet India silk. The articles for the dressing table are white decorated with pansies. The chair rails, mantel drape, etc., are all ornamented with the same lovely flower. In one corner is a rattan tea table, covered with a pansy embroidered cloth, and on it is placed the exquisite tete-a-tete set of china, exquisitely painted.

COLUMBIA LODGE, NO. 58.

INSTITUTED LAST NIGHT IN ODD FELLOWS HALL.

Supreme Representative Diefendorf was the Instituting Officer—The Installing Officers, and Those Elected in the New Lodge.

MESSRS. S. E. Flower and Henry Liefke of Central Lodge, No. 48, Ancient Order United Workmen, have recently been busy organizing a new lodge of this order.

The institution took place last night in Odd Fellows Hall, on West Second street.

The New Lodge is to be known as Columbia Lodge, No. 58. It was instituted by Supreme Representative John W. Diefendorf. He was assisted in the work of installation by the following gentlemen:

Thaddeus C. Smith, Grand Foreman.

William H. Brokaw, Grand Overseer.

Henry Liefke, Grand Receiver.

Lewis E. Blackford, Grand Recorder.

M. S. Drake, of Newark, Grand Guide.

E. Marsh, of Elizabeth, Grand Inside Guide.

E. F. Horton, of Newark, Grand Outside Guide.

P. M. W. McGinley, of Elizabeth, Grand Master Past Workman.

The officers of Columbia Lodge, who were installed are:

Past Master Workman—Henry Liefke.

Master Workman—Sidney E. Flower.

Foreman—Vincent W. Nash.

Overseer—William A. Woodruff.

Recorder—Robert H. Laughlin.

Financier—Eugene M. Laing.

Receiver—William H. Sebring.

Inside Guide—Michael Koller.

Outside Guide—Elmer E. Runyon.

Trustees—E. C. Pease, for three years; Joseph F. Shepard, for two years; Frank W. Hampton, for one year.

After the installation speeches were made by Supreme Representative Diefendorf and others.

The lodge has about 50 charter members, thirty-three of whom were present last night.

The Ancient Order of United Workmen is an insurance order and pays a death benefit of $2,000, and has a membership in the United States of 325,000.

RAN ACROSS THE RAILROAD TRACK.

An Exciting Runaway Yesterday Afternoon.

About four o'clock yesterday afternoon a horse belonging to Mr. G. Q. Packer, which had been left tied to a post on East Second street, broke loose and dashed down that thoroughfare at a mad gallop. Near Park avenue the wagon behind the runaway collided with a pole. The horse broke loose from the vehicle and continued running through West second street to Liberty street, where it ran up over the railroad bank across the tracks. As the animal reached the street, on the other side of the railroad, it was caught.

BREVITIES.

—At the Hotel Grenada, on Monday, October 2, the Union County Medical Association will hold its annual dinner.

—Mr. Theodore J. F. Zeller of North Plainfield was granted a wholesale liquor license by the Somerset county court Tuesday.

—To-night Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., will hold its regular meeting. Nomination and election of officers will also take place.

—Last night, at the regular meeting of Iona Council, D. of P., arrangements were completed for an entertainment to be held in the lodge's hall next month.

—The Y. M. C. A. Bicycle Club of New Brunswick completed arrangements for their annual dinner at Hotel Albion on Park avenue, this city, on Friday of next week.

—A week from to-morrow night all the New Jersey representatives to the Great Council of the Improved Order of Red Men will visit Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, of this city.

—John Stevens was arraigned before Judge Coddington, charged with using profanity to the proprietor of a Park avenue store. After reprimanding Mr. Stevens the Judge discharged him.

—When the Water Company laid its pipes on Park place, between Washington and Mercer avenues, a high ridge was left on the side of the street. Today this ridge is being rolled down.

—The State Council of the Jr. O. U. A. M. will meet in Trenton on the 26th of October. There are 264 Councils in the State, with a prospect of two more before the meeting of the State Council.

—Mr. A. G. Vogeler, the Front street butcher, says he finds the great reduction he has made in the price of meats is a great trade inducer and calls attention to his advertisement in another column.

—Residents of Somerset street, above Hudson street, say that the electric lights in that vicinity are only lighted about half the time. There are five lamps in the borough, from Hudson street up. These were not burning last night.

—The enterprising druggists of the city are alive to the fact that great interest is being manifested in the yacht races, and that many citizens are contemplating ventures on the uncertain sea. In many of the drug stores shell boat prominent signs to-day relate to sure cures for seasickness.

A USE FOR KRUPP'S GUN.

MR. A. M. POWELL OF THIS CITY ADDRESSES A GREAT AUDIENCE.

At the Parliament of Religions at Chicago—His Address Evokes Much Applause—He Describes Friends and Declares for Unity.

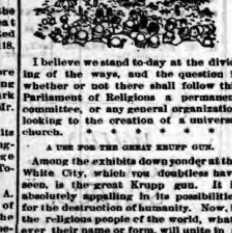
The Chicago Inter-Ocean of September 26 in its report of the Parliament of Religions gives an address by Mr. A. M. Powell of this city, in full, and also a picture of our townsman. Mr. Powell's subject was "The Grounds of Sympathy and Fraternity Among Religious Men." It is altogether natural and proper that in form and method and ritual there should be diversity, great diversity, among the peoples interested in religion throughout the world, but it is also possible, as it is extremely desirable, that there should be unity and fraternity and co-operation in the promulgation of a simple spiritual truth. To illustrate my thought I may say that not very long ago I went to one of the great Salvation Army meetings in New York. I met that gifted and eloquent queen of the Army, Mrs. Bullington Booth, to whom I had the pleasure of introducing two of my Quaker friends. Taking in the humor of the situation, she said, 'Tee, we have much in common; you and a little quiet and we add a little noise.' The much in common between these two very different peoples, the noisy Salvationists and the quiet Quakers, is in the application of admitted Christian truth to human needs.

When the most untutored have always been found to be amenable to the presentation of this fundamental Christian thought exemplified in a really Christian life. I may illustrate by the experience of William Penn among the Indians of North America.

FRIENDS AMONG THE INDIANS.

It is a matter of history that the relations between Penn and the Quakers and the Indians were exceptional and harmonious on the bases of this ideal brotherhood of man. Many years later another Friend was sent out under President Grant's administration to labor as a superintendent among the Indians, the noble hearted, true Quaker, Samuel M. Janney. He talked with those Indians in Nebraska about spiritual things. They could understand about the great spirit as they listened to him, and he told them of the great brotherhood, symbolized by Jesus of Nazareth, commending his teaching and the lesson of his life, and his death to them. They listened with regard to the son, as they had with reference to the father, but he could not impress them, in the face of their and experience with a so-called Christian nature, with the virtues of the son. Finally one old chief said to him: "We know about the father, but the son has not been along this way yet." * * * * * *

I want to say that the potential religious life—and it is a lesson which is being emphasized day by day by this wonderful parliament—is not a creed but character. * * * * * *



I believe we stand to-day at the dividing of the ways, and the question is whether or not there shall follow this Parliament of Religions a permanent committee, or any general organization looking to the creation of a universal church. * * * * * *

A USE FOR THE GREAT KRUPP GUN.

Among the exhibits down yonder at the White City, which you doubtless have seen, is the great Krupp gun. It is absolutely appalling in its possibilities for the destruction of humanity. Now, if the religious people of the world, with their many names or forms, will unite in a general league against war, and resolve to arbitrate all difficulties, I believe that that great Krupp gun will, if not preserved for some museum, be literally melted and recast into plow-shares and pruning-hooks. [Applause.]

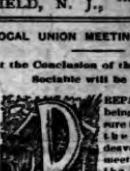
He told next of the duty of Americans. When his address closed the audience arose and sang, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

Held Court on the Train.

A novel proceeding took place Tuesday on a train coming from Somerville to this city. City Judge William A. Coddington and Borough Counsel Charles A. Reed argued a case on the train, before Judge Maple, and a decision was rendered before the train had reached the boundary of Somerset county. The case was a test one, involving a technicality in an estate, and, as a verdict for the plaintiff was rendered, it could receive, both sides were perfectly satisfied.

LOCAL UNION MEETING TO-NIGHT.

At the Conclusion of the Services a Sociable will be Held.



PREPARATIONS are being made to insure the success of the Christian Endeavor local Union meeting to-night at the First Baptist church. Already such singers as Miss Clara Means (formerly of Old Homestead Company) and E. T. Barnes have been engaged for the occasion. The speakers are Miss Alice B. Spasseguen, E. M. Cave and Andrew Wilson. The meeting will be opened by prayer by the Rev. D. J. Yerkes, at the expiration of the song service, which is to last fifteen minutes. 7.30 is time set for this meeting, and doubtless the seats will be well filled by that time. Mr. Howard Case, who played so acceptably in the place of Prof. Mc Clymont, last Sunday, at the church, will preside at the piano. At the conclusion of the services the meeting will be turned into a sociable, where all may become better acquainted with the work and with each other.

PREPARING TO FIGHT.

Meeting of Anti-Race Track League.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—Please announce that the members of the Plainfield Branch of the Anti-Race Track League are requested to meet at the Council Chamber on Park avenue Saturday evening of this week at 8 o'clock.

M. W. TYLER, Pres.

The Camp Meeting Paid.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE NEWS:—The treasurer's report of the camp meeting held in Valt's grove last month shows $208.58 were received. The expenses were $150, leaving a balance of $53.58.

T. A. V. HENRY, Manager.

THE MELOPOIA.

Two Concerts, Instead of Three, to be Given This Winter.

MELOPOIA'S Executive Committee announce that to meet the wishes of a number of the members of the Society, a change has been made in the plans for the approaching season.

Two concerts, instead of three, will be given. The chorus will continue to be under the direction of Mr. Wm. R. Chapman.

The concerts will take place at dates to be announced hereafter, and at each of them the Society will be assisted by artists of the highest reputation who have not been heard in Plainfield.

Doings at Westfield.

The Township Committee met last evening. Applications were presented for a license from a couple of patent medicine concerns that wish to run a free show in connection with selling their medicines. The licenses were granted. Township bills amounting to $600 were ordered paid. Committeeman Wells objected to paying Constable Koester for attendance at a circus, so the bill was not paid.

The No. 3 polling place this Fall will probably be in Grogan's unoccupied store, as members of the election board object to the engine-house, and threaten to resign from the board if the place of holding election is not changed.

Patrollers the streets Saturday evenings by the constables has been discontinued, as the Town Committee do not feel that they are warranted in continuing the expense.

New Bowling Leagues.

At a meeting at the club house of the Westfield A. C. Tuesday evening was organized the Central New Jersey Bowling League. The clubs represented and members of the new league are the Park Bowling Club of North Plainfield, Watchung Club of Fanwood, Westfield A. C. Roselle Casino, Elizabeth A. C., Newark Bays and Bayonne Bowling Athletic Association. E. J. Whitaker, of Westfield, was elected president; J. Conner Smith of the New Jerseys, vice president, J. P. Stevens, of the Watchungs, secretary and treasurer.

Another Suit as a Result of the Greenville Accident.

The suit of John T. Feindee against the New Jersey Central Railroad Company was begun, but not finished, at Somerville, yesterday. Feindee is a cripple as a result of a collision at Greenville, in December last. He wants $40,000 damages.

Several Plainfielders were in the above accident. Mr. Elmer Runyon received damages from the company, and another suit, that of Mrs. Vail for $10,000 damages will be tried at Elizabeth next month.

Against Race-Track Candidates.

The Citizens' Anti-Race Track League held a secret meeting at Elizabeth, Tuesday night at the office of Lawyer Richard T. Lindabury, and took steps to perfect an organization in every ward and township to fight race-track candidates for Senator, Sheriff, and Assemblymen.

Lists will be prepared, it is said, and a vigorous canvass made for signatures of people who will pledge themselves to vote against any candidate favored by the race-track magnates.

Picture Frame of Cigar Boxes.

Next Tuesday night at the regular meeting of Warren Engine Company, No. 1, a from Paterson will be present and in behalf of the Paterson Fire Department will present the North Plainfield Bremen company with a picture frame made entirely from cigar boxes. The gift will be used to frame a picture presented to the company recently.

Caught Riding on Coal Trains.

Four men were caught this morning by Policeman Coras riding on coal trains at "the tanks," in Middlesex county. The men were brought to this city and placed in the lockup. Mr. Coras then went to New Market to a Justice of the Peace to swear out warrants for the men.

The Weather.

The weather will probably be fair, with moderate northerly to westerly winds.

FIREMEN IN CONVENTION.

About 500 Delegates were Present, Representing 69 Societies.

The seventeenth annual convention of the Firemen's Relief Association of New Jersey met in Lambertville, yesterday. About 500 delegates were present, representing 69 societies. The convention met in the armory of Company C. Gen. Bird W. Spencer presided. He was presented with a gavel from the Lambertville fire department. There was a disposition on the part of many delegates to offer a resolution petitioning the next Legislature to so amend the law regulating the relief fund of the State that in small cities part of it could be used in purchasing equipments. Gen. Spencer said: "I hope the convention will put its foot upon the resolution to be presented, which would divert the relief fund to a fund for betterments." He was heartily applauded.

The resolution was withheld. The following are the officers elected for the ensuing year: President, Gen. Bird W. Spencer, Passaic; Treasurer, John McKernan, Paterson; Secretary, Horace H. Brown, Newark; Financial Secretary, George T. Everett, Hackettstown.

The convention will next be held at Atlantic City.

Those attending the convention from Plainfield were Chief Doane and Messrs. Saltzman and Rogers.

A Narrow Escape.

Mr. Lot Marshall of Park avenue narrowly escaped being killed on the railroad this afternoon. In attempting to get off the 2.07 train after it had started he slipped and was dragged to the Broadway bridge before he let go his hold, barely escaping a collision with the iron girders. His hands were painfully cut but otherwise he was uninjured.

A Little Boy Starts a Fire.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Writers Who Are Readable.

It will gratify newspaper writers and give them a deserved compliment be-sides to be told that the most entertaining volume of essays published this year is a collection of articles written by newspaper men. The essays were originally published in Lippincott's Magazine and have been collected and issued in book form. They treat of journalistic topics and experiences and are written by distinguished men of the profession in various parts of the country. The book is entitled "The Making of a Newspaper."

The feature that especially strikes the mind of one accustomed to getting at the contents of a book in a hurry is briefly this—the nonexistence of journalistic writing. If doctors, lawyers, preachers, economic reformers and scientific men would serve an apprenticeship in a live newspaper office before they ever penned a line for publication and be blue penciled by a first class editor until they learned to write, what a gain to the world's time and eyesight it would be!

The book is edited by Melville Phillips of the Philadelphia Press. Mr. Phillips contributes two of the sketches. Other writers are such newspaper men as Murat Halstead, John A. Cockerill, M. E. de Young, John Russell Young and A. K. McClure. Mr. Phillips informs us incidentally that more than 4,000,000,000 newspapers annually get into the homes of people in the United States and Canada. His story, "Getting Out the Paper," will give the public an idea of the awful nerve and brain strain required from day to day to lay before the reader each 24 hours the news up to date. News 19 hours old is in newspaper slang "ancient history." Of the slight number of the great morning journal Mr. Phillips says this: "His official life, of necessity brief, is lived at fever heat." It is brief because no man can endure for long the wear and tear of it.

Colonel A. K. McClure of the Philadelphia Press began his editorial career in the country at a time when subscribers paid for their paper in "wood, potatoes, turnips and cabbages." He rises to the estimation when he tells us he has been the hero of 28 libel suits. Mr. Julius Chambers of the New York Recorder says that "theoretically the afternoon paper is the American journal of the future."

Mr. J. B. McCormick ("Macon") writes from the standpoint of the sporting editor. He does not approve of reporters of races betting on the contending animals—four legged or two legged. With the best intentions it will be hard for them to give a fair report. "No man can chew meat and whistle at the same time," Mr. McCormick is emphasizing the necessity the racing reporter is under to give undivided attention to his business. The proverb is true of other things than reporting horse races. In strikingly picturesque English, George Alfred Townsend relates the story of one of his hairbreadth escapes in reconstruction times.

At the time Murat Halstead became connected with journalism the Cincinnati newspapers spent $7 a week each for telegraphic dispatches and considered themselves the victims of a grinding monopoly at that. The fourth page of each paper contained six times out of ten a bear story upon its first column. Mr. Halstead considers the suppression of this story as one of the mistakes of his journalistic career, for, he says, "about the bear story there hangs an eternal charm." In recalling, too, how indignant Henry Clay became at the impertinence of a young reporter, now known the country over as Deacon Richard Smith, who dared to listen to one of Clay's stump speeches and report it offhand, and not only that, but to send it away by telegraph without asking Clay's permission. Times change.

John A. Cockerill's idea is that perhaps in a time not far off great mountain passages may be pierced in New York and buried through pneumatic tubes to Boston, Buffalo, Baltimore and other places complete in its news, editorial and feature pages. The local name can be printed at the top and the local features added at the city of its destination, and thus one mammoth paper, the same in all but name and local news, be issued from all the offices at once.

Finally, Julius Chambers says of journalism as a profession that it is the most promising of all means of livelihood in youth and the least satisfactory and remunerative in the long run.

Nature's way of getting rid of surplus and undesirable population is shown in the awful record of cholera deaths among the pilgrims to Mecca. The majority of those who make these pilgrimages belong to an old and dying race, a race that has outlived its purposes apparently. Besides that, it is a race of hopeless heathen, so far as modern civilization is concerned, and certainly in its surroundings and belongings the most unhygienic race on the globe. The Turk may bathe himself often and often he may write and matter his prayers from morning till night; but, except Naples, Constantinople is the most unspeakably dirty large city known to man. Those whom cholera takes off will be saved from dying of famine at any rate.

A man with a fat stomach does not look well in a street parade.

THE VAN ALEN SCANDAL

A Letter From Mr. Whitney Denying Recent Charges.

NO BARGAIN WAS MADE, HE SAYS.

The Ex-Secretary's Communication to President Cleveland on the Subject—A Statement by Mr. Van Alen—The Senate Not to Act on the Matter This Week.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—William C. Whitney, who had been charged with promising the Italian mission to J. J. Van Alen in consideration of a $50,000 contribution to the Democratic campaign fund, gave out for publication the following letter to the editor of the New York World:

If I alone were concerned, I should pay no attention to the slanderous matter contained in paper headed "Van Alen's Bargain." But there is much more than my personality in this matter. Mr. Van Alen has been set upon and caricatured and libeled in every way. I propose to relieve him from blame so far as I have had relations with him.

The allegation is specific enough, and imputes to us a most dishonorable transaction. What is the truth? I have had nothing to do with Mr. Van Alen's candidacy, except what is contained in the following communication to the president. With the president personally I have never exchanged a word on the subject. The letter and the interview accompanying it contain a complete answer to the allegations.

Whitney's Letter to Cleveland.

NEW YORK, June 28.

DEAR MR. CLEVELAND—I inclose a clipping from the New York Sun, which proves what I purported to in an interview with me regarding the candidacy of Mr. Van Alen for the mission to Italy. The interview is substantially correct. I think, in justice to Mr. Van Alen, I ought to say more. With the main facts as stated in this interview you should be familiar. I made it clear to everybody in the campaign that I would assume no obligations, tacit or express, as to appointments or appointees, and you are quite aware that you have not been asked to perform any contracts of this nature so far as I know.

Mr. Van Alen is a gentleman and gave what he contributed to the campaign freely and from an interest in the success of the party. He had previously identified himself warmly with the party in Rhode Island, and his candidacy was urged by the supporters of the incumbent party man in his state. I have been called upon by three men to see that his warm friends in the city of New York are suitably cared for.

I therefore break the silence which I have hitherto maintained since the inauguration to say that I know Mr. Van Alen well, and that he is in my judgment in every way adapted to the position which he seeks, and that I sincerely hope that the malicious storm which have poured their way into print will not affect him adversely.

Eulogizing Mr. Van Alen.

There is no obligation upon you to appoint him to any office, and I make it the additional reason for appointing him that as the result of a very patriotic, generous and cordial support of my party in the late campaign, when friends were few and calls were great, he has been accused of disinterested bargaining.

This, as you know, is the first time you have been approached by me on the subject of appointments. Yours truly, WM. C. WHITNEY.

The interview referred to in the letter appeared in The Sun on June 9. It was, in substance, as follows:

Mr. Van Alen contributed to the campaign fund, but of course I am not at liberty to state the amount. I can say, though, that Mr. Van Alen did not contribute one of the amounts named in the dispatch. At the time he contributed there was no conversation whatever between Mr. Van Alen and myself to the effect that he was to have the place of minister to Italy or any other office. I will go further and make as strong a statement as is possible to make: I made no contract for office, express or implied, during the campaign, either to Mr. Cleveland's name or anybody else's name. I made no contracts with anybody. Can I make it plainer than that?

He Says No Contract Was Made.

I have not called upon Mr. Cleveland to fulfill any campaign contract for the simple reason that none was made by me. I have not asked him to appoint a man to office simply because I had said that when the campaign was over I was through with politics. I made no contracts of this sort with Mr. Van Alen or anybody else. There was no promise made even by inference. Concerning the alleged remark of Mr. Cleveland that he had "learned to distrust Mr. Whitney and his methods," the only say that I do not believe that Mr. Cleveland ever used that remark.

I have read the novel and interesting suggestion made by Mr. Horace White in such cases where offices have been promised for money the money should be returned to all cases. Although not especially pertinent at this time, as no such case existed, I take the occasion to differ from this opinion. I think the man should lose both office and money and be forever barred from society.

Such, I think, would be Mr. Van Alen's opinion if it can be gathered from a letter which he wrote at about the time spoken of by Mr. White and in which he takes what I consider the more correct view. The letter was as follows:

Mr. Van Alen's Letter.

DEAR—Many thanks for your letter. I am much surprised at the charges you say have been made against me, knowing of the pure element believes them my appointment to any position would be an insult.

I can only say that those charges that I stated I was to have a diplomatic position in exchange for money subscribed by me for political purposes are utterly false, and I don't say one to prove that I have written, spoken or hinted at one word indicating in any such an agreement. I should be a combination of knave, fool and liar to have made such a statement, for there was absolutely no understanding between myself and any one that I should have any office under the government.

What caused the subject was said after the election in November last and was merely an expression of a wish on my part as a matter of assistance in carrying out political views very truly.

J. J. VAN ALEN.

Mr. Van Alen had the support of his state for the appointment, was personally known to the president, and was selected as a gentleman deemed competent and fit for the post.

No Action by the Senate This Week.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28.—The nomination of J. J. Van Alen to be ambassador to Rome will not be reported to the senate this week. At the meeting of the committee on foreign relations the nomination was not considered nor mentioned, save in a casual reference. No protests of any kind have been made.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 28.—Mrs. Charles A. Darling, a prominent society lady of this village, had a desperate encounter with two highwaymen at the corner of Central and Beauchamp avenues.

Mrs. Darling, is the wife of Charles A. Darling, the receiving teller of the Murray Hill bank of New York city and a grandson of the president of the bank.

When Mr. Darling left home in the morning, he gave his wife $65 and a check for $25 more. As Mr. Darling was in a hurry to go to New York, he told his wife to go to the law office of C. C. Keene, on Main street, some time during the day and pay Mr. Keene 600 due on a bond.

About 5 o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Darling left her home on Castle place, Residence park, one of the most aristocratic neighborhoods in New Rochelle, to go down to the village and pay Mr. Keene the money.

She arrived at Mr. Keene's office at about 5:30 o'clock. She entered the office and offered the money and check in payment for interest due upon the bond. Mr. Keene refused to accept the check, owing to the bank's not accepting outside checks for collection. Mrs. Darling left the office and went to the drug store of Benjamin Robinson, the proprietor being a friend of her husband, and asked him to cash the check. She said she would return for the money later in the evening. She then started for home.

Her Clothes In Shreds.

Mrs. Darling walked along Main street until she arrived in front of the old Methodist church on Center avenue. Just as she reached the corner of Beauchamp she saw a man jumped out from behind a clump of bushes on the church property and grab her. He placed one hand over her mouth and the other back of her head. Mrs. Darling struggled to get away. Another man then stepped up and snatched her pocketbook, which hung on a chatelaine at her side.

In the struggle Mrs. Darling was thrown heavily to the ground against a heap of rocks. She became unconscious for a moment, but soon recovered to find herself nearly divested of all her clothing. In the struggle with the highwaymen they had pulled her glasses from her eyes, torn her dress completely off, and her cloak was ripped into shreds. She arranged her clothing as best she could and went home. Her husband arriving home a few minutes afterward, she told him of what had occurred. All night long Mrs. Darling was hysterical and is now suffering great pain from the injuries she received.

Mr. Darling reported the robbery to the police. The highwaymen have not been found. In his pocketbook which the highwaymen took from her was the $65 which her husband had given to her in the morning.

The Roanoke Verdict.

ROANOKE, Va., Sept. 28.—The coroner's jury rendered a verdict in the case of the deaths of the eight men who were shot down during the riot. Their finding is to the effect that the cause to their deaths was "by weapons in the hands of men or soldiers of the Roanoke Light infantry, under the command of Captain John Bird and other officers," and that the evidence showed that he was acting under instructions from Mayor Trout. The jurors think it best to recommend that the grand jury or other competent court of authority take charge of and investigate the legality of the acts of said officials.

Massachusetts Democratic Ticket.

BOSTON, Sept. 28.—The convention of Massachusetts Democrats nominated by acclamation this ticket: Governor, John E. Russell of Leicester; lieutenant governor, James B. Carroll of Springfield; secretary of state, James McDonald of Marlborough; treasurer and receiver general, Henry E. Stevens of Dudley; attorney general, C. S. Lilley of Lowell; auditor, John T. Wheelwright of Boston.

Pennsylvania Republicans.

READING, Pa., Sept. 28.—The meeting of the State League of Republican clubs was just as enthusiastic as that of the Democrats at Allentown. Two hundred clubs were represented. A platform was adopted reaffirming Republican principles. A resolution disapproving of the course of Senator Cameron was rejected by the platform committee.

Suicide of an Ex-Publisher.

ROME, N. Y., Sept. 28.—William M. Ireland of Buffalo committed suicide at a hotel in Camden by taking laudanum. Ireland was at one time publisher of The Temperance Patriot in Utica and was a clerk in legislature one year.

The Latest Trust.

CLINTON, Ia., Sept. 28.—The Missouri Lumber company, embracing every lumber and log magazine doing business on the Mississippi and its tributaries between St. Paul and St. Louis, has been organized; capital, $1,500,000.

Disappearance of a Merchant.

HOLSDALE, Pa., Sept. 28.—Frank Pethick, a merchant of Shickshinny county, who has been visiting a brother at Tylar Hill, has mysteriously disappeared.

DR. McGLYNN'S ADDRESS.

Sister Farmer Made by the Priest at Arch-bishop Corrigan.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The Rev. Dr. Edward McGlynn addressed 2,000 of his friends and admirers at Lenox Opera House last night. The occasion was a reception to celebrate his fifty-sixth birthday and was in the nature of a jubilation over his recent victory in being reinstated in the church through Dr. McGlynn's remarks were an undertone of bitterness. Although he did not mention Archbishop Corrigan by name his address can be frequently alluded to that dignitary. He said:

"Did you observe how quickly my business at Rome was transacted? It seemed to certain gentlemen high in the church, whose names it is not necessary to repeat, that there could be no change in my condition as an excommunicated priest. Therefore I could not be restored to office without several eminently respectable formalities.

"Probably, in anticipation of several sinecurely respectable funerals, the dignitaries referred to decided it the wisest course to desist from the virulence of their attacks, especially when so strongly backed by the apostolic delegate. Here I for a moment denied the principles I have always advocated at the meetings of the Antiposverty society and in the pulpits. No, Rather than that I would refuse to be again recognized by the church I would see all who asked me burning in a heap, with myself on top, before I would humiliate myself by unfitting those broad, liberal teachings that have characterized my utterances. I preached the doctrine of love."

HAWAIIAN ROYALTY.

News About Two Famous Ladies With Jaw Splitting Names.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—T. H. Davis of England and Hawaii, who accompanied the Princess Kaiulani to this country last spring in connection with the annexation of Hawaii to the United States, is in the city.

He said to a reporter: "I regret that the visit of the Princess Kaiulani to this country should have been misunderstood. The object was not to secure her elevation to the throne in place of Queen Liliukalani, but merely to protect against the abolition of the monarchy there and the annexation of the islands to the United States.

"Princess Kaiulani is well and as happy as her high position will allow. She will spend the winter in Germany, studying German and music. On Oct. 15 she will become of age and will be 18 years old. If the monarchy is not overthrown, she would have returned to Hawaii.

"Queen Liliukalani is living as quietly as possible. The provisional government has constituted her under the support of that of the Princess Kaiulani since January. They depend entirely on their private income."

WHAT WILL BE WORN.

The Tendency of Styles as Shown In the Latest French Importations.

Importations of dresses from all well known Paris houses show the changes of style that are taking place. Round waists will prevail for a time, but pointed waists will also be worn, and there is a tendency to increase the length of all waists. Basques have come back into favor, not only those with a circular addition to a round waist, but others with waist and basque in continuous outline. The sleeves of the new dresses are short on the hips and are sleashed in squares, usually six in number.

Ruffles set in the armholes are very stylish and are usually two or three in number each about 4 inches deep on top, tapering to nothing under the arm. Shoulder frills are not abandoned, but are varied, some having all their fullness in a box plaited at the shoulder, others in the shirting of a succession of bias folds rather than ruffles. Sleeves are pointed sharply and are very broad in Roberspierre fashion. Crossway bands of insertion of velvet, satin or passementerie are the trimmings for round waists. Of course such waists fasten invisibly on the left side and are alike in front and back. The collar and belt are "soft"—that is, a bias stock and girdle fastened at the back with meeting frills or shoux, precisely as they are now worn.

Short jacket effects are still used. Sleeves and skirts show little change. Harper's Bazar, from which the foregoing and resume of styles is gleaned, tells also that among the model gowns prepared by French couturieres for autumn the preference colors are those known in wool serges and henriettes, the new reds of magenta shades to topein mohair and black laced cloths combined with cream or white or black silk with magenta and jet trimmings.

A calling costume of English design that appeals to the desire for something unique out of stock gray cloth trimmed with gray astrakhan black satoe. The high pointed Mephistopholian collar, wide figaro lapels lined with black velvet and puffed sleeves of the same, let into deep puffs of the cloth, give distinction to this costume. A wide band of black velvet fastens the bottom of the skirt.

A FUTURE KAISER.

How the Young Crown Prince of Germany Spends His Time.

One of the most promising royal children of England is Frederick William, the eldest son of Emperor William II. of Germany, and therefore Crown Prince.

He is a most beautiful, sensitive, high-spirited boy, and looks in truth a royal child.

He was born in 1882, so he is now nearly ten years old, and he has five younger brothers.

Although their father puts them through the severest course of exercise, they have and enjoy everything that boys like.

But they do not know much about the luxuries that lazy boys enjoy, because Emperor William wants them to be hardy, rugged soldiers. Therefore these little German warriors of the future sleep in a plain bedroom with iron cots with hard mattresses and scant bed-clothing. The emperor thinks that men who are to be soldiers should not sleep too warm when they are boys.

At 7 o'clock the emperor enters their room and watches them while they take the cold bath which they have given to them every morning the year round.

After the bath they are rubbed vigorously and wrapped in blankets for a few minutes.

Then comes a brisk gymnastic exercise, after which their breakfast, which consists of the simplest of food, is served.

Everything is done to imbue them with a military spirit. Their lives are ordered with military precision and their toys are of a warlike character—as soldiers, miniature rifles, cannon and knapsacks.

Of course, the crown prince is the emperor's favorite and almost constant companion. He accompanies him everywhere, ridiing by his side on a small pony and dressed in uniform.

An Artist Old, but Ever New.

Of all human Art, the venerable sire
Is mine ancient friend, Jack Frost, Esquire.

For schools or ashiness naught cares he
Whose brush is the weird wind's witchery.

He sketched and drew pre the coming of Man,
He lived and breathed ere the World began.

And now, with a feeling akin to awe,
I study the thing he still doth draw.

What delicate imagery, Parian-white,
Hath he wrought on my window pane last night!

Piney mountains stretching away,
And the dreariest gloss in Norroway!

The frozen roar of an avalanche,
Whose white sprays o'er the landscape blanch;

Dashing waves on the other side,
And the furious whirls of the Maelstrom's tide;

Desolate waters, terrific heights,
Wild-eyed stars and Northern Lights;

And a poor, bent greyheard passing through
The worst unharmed, like the Wandering Jew

Such ghostly imagery, one might say,
Were wortny the skill of a great Dore.

Nor stops our painter, mighty art old,
In the death-like routine of utter cold.

Here, on the next pane, beguiles
With dreams of far-off Eden isles;

Golden Archipelagoes,
Where throng the Summer Ocean flows;

Abodes of bliss in crystal calms,
Savage groups among the palms;

A coral reef, an emerald turf,
And merry mermaids in the surf.

Well hast thou wrought, Jack Frost, Esquire,
Of human art the venerable sire!

Return to my pane each wintry night,
With thy perfect fancies, Parian-white.

For, in their vanishing scenes, one sees
Nature, and half her mysteries.

Out of the Mouths of Babes.

Grace goes to the kindergarten. One Sunday the teacher, whose name is Rogers, called and invited her to go to church with her.

"What was the text, Gracie?" asked papa at dinner.

"I cannot tell the Rogers (Ingersons, the correct reading is, but the minister have left Gracie with impaired hearing) but stamen to repentance, and I guess Miss Rogers was awfully stuck up cause the minister preached a text about her."

Daisy's father is a clergyman and never neglects the ceremony of grace before meat. One day Daisy assembled her three French and two rag dolls for a feast, and solemnly and with evident reverence was attired what she considered an appropriate grace: "O Lord, bless this food and make me good, for Jesus Christ's sake. Amen." Then it sat their plates the way they did at Julia's party, and make them good little girls, like mamma's children."

After a moment of thought Daisy added a postscript: "We pray thee, O Lord, to make both the rag dolls open and shut their eyes same's the others do."

WOMAN AND HOME.

WIVES SHOULD HAVE TACT, AND EVERMORE HAVE TACT.

Sensitiveness of Children—Sharing Domestic Problems—A Woman In a Hotel. Girls Need Care—A Woman's Cry—Always Dress For Dinner.

A wife may combine the personal appearance of the lamented Helen of Troy, the intellectual attainments of the extremely intellectual Minerva and the wifely devotion of the renowned Penelope, but unless she adds to these unfailing tact they will profit her nothing, or, as Mme. de Stael tersely put it, "It is the woman who possesses more tact than love who retains the devotion of a man." Fortunately tact can be acquired. One woman whose school was an unhappy, "nagging" first marriage, and who is putting what she learned there into practice in a gloriously successful second one, tells how she managed.

"First, above all things," she says, "I have interested myself in those things which interest my husband. That does not mean that I pry him with questions, but I have always been a good listener. I learned years ago that when a man wants to tell anything he will do so without questioning, and that nothing annoys him more than to be urged to tell when he doesn't want to. Another important thing is that I never contradict him. I simply consider and then afterward use my own judgment in the matter and do as I think best. Then I regard it as a positive duty to make myself as attractive to his eyes as I possibly can. It is a comparatively easy thing to catch a husband, but an entirely different matter to keep him, and nothing disgusts a man sooner than to learn that the girl who charmed him by her daintiness and attractiveness has developed into a wife who affects no such graces and arts. And lastly, I do not let a simple division of opinion increase to such proportions that a divorce looms up in the distance."

Tact is so strong in this woman that she can, although possessed of exquisite taste, smile approval upon her husband's curiously cut button rather than destroy the pleasure it takes in him. Her expression of fond pride would undergo no change should her spouse appear in an orange and pink tie. To keep him satisfied with himself is the first step toward making him satisfied with his wife, she has discovered.

There was as much tact as love in the method one little woman took to bring her clubman of a husband back to her. It was his cheerful custom to go off to his club, sending her a bunch of flowers and a note by way of peace offering. By and by this grew monotonous to her. One night she felt that, tears and reproaches having all proved fruitless, she would try another way. Impulsively she wrote on the back of his dear face, "All your flowers for a sight of your dear face," and sent it to him. That bit of sketching accomplished what all the tears of Niobe and all the curtain lectures of Mrs. Caudle would have failed to do.

Flattery is the oil of peace. The women who can show appreciation of their society, their judgment and their tastes, and who can be serenely obvious of their whims and proclivities, will succeed in "managing" their husbands.—New York World.

Sensitiveness of Children.

In our visits in many places and in many families we have perhaps observed nothing more often and with more regret than the want of appreciation which prevails toward the sensitiveness of little children. As a rule we find them, even in what would be termed well regulated homes, treated as though they had no feelings whatever, no tender little hearts and no trials and disappointments worth considering. Nor do many of the "little folk" of parents consider how surely they are leaving happy or unhappy impressions, by their conduct on the minds of the little ones, which will be in future years.

Few parents treat their children with the courtesy they deserve and would like. Children are ordered instead of asked to do all kinds of things, and "please" and "thank you" seldom thanked for their errands or rewarded by a kindly smile of appreciation. They are spoken to in harsh tones, and when they retort in the same way they are reproved for impoliteness.

There is nothing truer than this—that like begets like; that a pleasant smile and a kindly tone will develop a pleasant smile and kindly tone, that courteous, polite words and manner from mother and father will respond in courteous, polite words and manners in the children; that kindly consideration in the trials and disappointments of children, which to them are as great as those which their elders are bearing, is far better than a rude disregard of them and making light of them, as though they were of no account.

This objectionable manner toward children, which is so common, is oftentimes remembered by them through long lives and perhaps influences them in "managing" their husbands.—New York World.

Sensitiveness of Children.

In our visits in many places and in many families we have perhaps observed nothing more often and with more regret than the Sharing Domestic Problems.

A gradual and lonelier in a woman's college who has lately left the professor's chair for the smaller but equally busy sphere of home life has endeavored to assist in solving the vexed question of domestic service by carrying on a little experiment in her own household.

The plan is that of bringing together in closer harmony mistress and servants, of establishing common interest and of holding up an ideal of mutual helpfulness.

The basis of the system is household co-operation and the sharing of responsibilities. At the beginning of each month a certain sum of money is set aside for the table and kitchen expenses, exclusive of food, rent and wages. The amount of the sum is confided to the cook, an intelligent Irish girl. Once a week the mistress and the cook sit down together and plan the menu for the week as accurately as possible. After that the cook takes full charge of the marketing as well as the preparing of the food for the table. At the end of the month the mistress pays all the bills, and if any balance remains she divides it equally between the cook and herself. The more the cook is able to economize in making her purchases the larger will be her reward at the end of the month.

The success of the plan is almost a surprise to its originator, who has watched with pleasure the mental growth of the cook under the responsibility of her position. Although such a scheme would depend in a great measure upon the intelligence of the servant, its operation would certainly attract more intelligent girls to household service. Any confidence and any sharing of responsibility raises an occupation and makes it more attractive.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

A Woman In a Hotel.

A woman in a hotel may be in the nature of a live wire in that place: she may command more orders in 15 minutes than a man could think of in an hour; she may press the button for every nearable thing from a buttonhook to the marriage pot and the directory or a chair in the office and never tip the boy; she may get excited by small ones while she is under the pillow, and she is always in trouble over the wash list, but she doesn't cut the mercies fire smoking in bed, and she doesn't polish her boots while she is in the house, plaintiff upon, nor play football with the furniture in her gay moods.

Few women are all over the house, so much the better for that house. A pretty woman scribbling at the library table or reading in front of the fire is a vast sight more interesting than an empty chairs at night. And while she can set by the ears every boy and clerk with her mail, her cards and her callers—whom she is "in" to and whom she is "out" to—yet she manages so prettily one could but be glad she made the mistake.

She doesn't spend as much money as a man, and she makes the chambermaid mock her trunks, but she pays her bill—after a slight difference as to details. She is never so "dead broke" at the end of her visit but that she can order the bill without evincing security, and if you do succeed in pleasing her she will sing the praises of that hotel from here to the Golden Gate.

She is generally a rich girl, the idle, childless girl, or the girl with misdirected activity of mind and body, is constantly in danger.

Through her love of the sensational she makes the most commonplace hotel loud and louder manner and accepts the hundred and one doubtful attentions men pay to women they do not respect.

She accepts invitations to dinners, theaters, theater parties and balls of suspicious character, where she dances away the fever of unrest, together with her reputation, and does it because she has no love of real wrongdoing, but because she has no stability of character, and the craving for amusement against possible evil.

Such girls should be the special cares of all women with a spark of womanliness in them. A word in season, a kindly act, a few friendly inquiries, a bestowal of the fine gold bath of Anti-Tire will do it. Try it. Sold by all druggists. Send 15 cents in stamps for trial package.

A Woman's Cry.

There is a certain woman in this town, cynical, mocking, aggressive, independent. She prides herself on meeting the knocks and blows of fate with an undisturbed demeanor. She is strong and self reliant and seldom gives way to any emotion. Her pen brings her bread and butter. Well, this woman wrote a song, and another woman, a well known composer, set it to music. I heard the song played for the first time the other morning. It's a simple enough ballad, with a homely, old fashioned sentiment pervading it—a perfume of lilacs and clover fields, as it were—and the composer had caught the spirit of the woods in her lays of primitive melody.

As the player proceeded I looked at the woman who wrote the words. To my amazement I saw tears running down the cheeks of that cynical, worldly creature, and when the song was finished the room was perfectly still save for the terrible deep sobs that came from Miss Mockery, who had thrown herself face down in the sofa pillows and was giving vent to the repressed torrent of years. Do you know, I believe it was the best thing that could have happened to her, for women ought to cry once in awhile. It's the best escape valve I know, except profanity, and sometimes forbids us that vent yet.—Henry Sharpe in New York Recorder.

Always Dress For Dinner.

Take a bath before dinner; it will be appetizing, refreshing and "Wenning." Dress for dinner; it is a great example for the little folks and a compliment that is due the hostess. These are among the ameniti[es] that distinguish either the rich or well-to-do. Some husbands and brothers will not dress for dinner, and it is dangerous to try to coerce them.

Women make the rules and regulations of social life, and while it is not advisable to make the lords do what they don't wish to do it is very easy to make them uncomfortable. Refuse to go out of itself. Teach the children to dress for dinner. Watch the special sales and buy Charles a pair of 50 cent patent leathers and a $2.75 Elegant suit, with an extra pair of trousers. Sacrifice the train of a compadour silk and make Catharine a Josephine slip without sleeves. For one week make the blessed children tell tab and make a dinner toilet with speed and grace. Some evening daughter will startle her unconventional sire by exclaiming, "Mamma, you don't look nice!" That will be the wife's hour of triumph, and the next night papa will put on a fresh collar and another coat. In a week or so he will be tamed.—New York Herald.

The Modern Girl.

It is universally certain that whatever may be the character of the young woman of the future, whether she devote herself to politics or cooking, spend her surplus energies upon base ball or molecules, one quality she will not possess. She will not like to be helpless. Perhaps it is a charm that she already lacks, for certainly in the days when the gentle Sophia carried poor, broken arm of Tom Jones to support her sinking but uninjured form and wait until her feminine emotions were calmed before she could do or be known by we not as they are now. The modern girl prides herself upon being equal to an emergency, upon her wrist and strength; she can pull a boat and walk her 10 or 15 miles; she finds her own sex entertaining, and she can bear discomforts equably; accordingly in her summer vacation it is not surprising that she should camp out—it is a sign of the times.—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Rule of Domestic Economy.

The first point of all to be decided definitely is how much of the family income should be spent for shelter. It is not unusual to leave the question of the important point to chance, to a pretty house suddenly found or to the location of friends. No one wants the remembrance of his and her first home to be clouded with bitter or sad memories of financial disaster, and the first step to prevent this is carefully to gauge the income to be spent. It would not be possible to say definitely how many dollars ought to be spent, but a rule that is safe is not to use more than one-fourth of

How do you pronounce "tomato?" The dictionary says you may call it either to-may-to or to-mah-to. One lady writes that she will call it to-mah-to to the end of her days, because "all the refined people" she knows call it that with one exception. That one lady sturdily insists that to-may-to is right. So it is, unless you broaden the "a" also in potato, for they are just the same kind of words. Would you say po-tar-to? If not, then don't say to-mar-to

"I don't want to give the impression that I believe in discarding skirts entirely, but I would like to have public opinion reach such a point that a woman could discard skirts when they are out of place," says Mrs. Lizzie Cheney Ward, teacher of gymnastics, who wears Turkish knickerbockers without any skirt when she goes bicycling.

In some parts of England in the coal mines iron props and steel girders have been substituted for the wooden timbers that heretofore have sustained the walls and roofs of underground passages. The first cost of the iron and steel is three times as great as that of wooden timbering, but the metal last six times as long as the timber and needs no repairs.

NATHAN HARPER DEAD.

HE WAS ONLY SICK ABOUT TWO WEEKS.

He was Mayor of Plainfield from 1879 to 1881, and Served as a Member of the Common Council for a Number of Years.

X-MAYOR Nathan Harper died at his home on Central avenue this morning, after an illness of about two weeks. He had been as well as usual up to last June, with the exception of a short time last August, when he was taken with an attack of acute indigestion from which he soon recovered. He died from heart trouble.

Deceased was for four years a member of the Common Council, and was elected Mayor in 1879. In politics he was a staunch Democrat and was the only Democratic member of the Council for two years. In 1874 he was elected President of the Common Council, by the Republicans, he being the only Democrat in that body at the time.

He was born at Frankfort, Pa., now a part of Philadelphia, and came to Plainfield in 1865, residing here ever since. He was connected with the Long Island Transfer company's office in New York at the time of his sickness.

He was by judge at Elizabeth for a number of years. He was one of the directors of the Dime Savings Bank, and Secretary of the Plainfield Building and Loan Association.

TWENTY-SIX INDICTMENTS.

Found by the Somerset County Grand Jury.

The Somerset County Grand Jury brought in 26 bills of indictment and were discharged last evening with the thanks of the court.

Randolph and Stutts, the abductors, were indicted and will be tried Tuesday, before Judge Bartine.

BREVITIES.

—This afternoon Justice Mosher issued summons in the contract case of Moore vs. Taylor, returnable Oct. 9.

—Summons was issued to-day by Justice Mosher in the contract case of Fogate vs. Nightengale, returnable Oct. 6.

—The firm of S. R. Proud and Company have bought Mr. Powelson's second hand furniture business on Somerset street.

—This chilly weather makes heavier underwear almost a necessity. Mr. Edward White's new announcement, elsewhere, is, therefore, timely.

—Yesterday as a man was riding horseback down Ninth street the animal became unmanageable and threw him off. He was uninjured and soon caught his unruly steed again.

—As a farmer was driving along Fourth street yesterday afternoon with a load of potatoes his horse balked. He had to dump his load into the street before he could persuade his steed to proceed.

—The kitchen will open Monday, Oct. 2d, at four p. m., in the W. C. T. U. rooms, No. 347 Watchung avenue. The "Wide Awake Circle" will meet Wednesday, Oct. 4th, at the same time and place.

—Constable Mattox to-day arrested Fritz Boustelaller for using profane and offensive language to a resident of Fanwood township, and he will be tried to-morrow afternoon before Justice Nash.

—The Crescents will wind up the season tomorrow with their game with the E. A. C's at Elizabeth. The grounds are two blocks from the Union depot. The game will be called at 3.30 o'clock.

—John Newman was arrested this morning by Sergeant Kiely, charged with being one of the "growler gang" that infests the boulevard. He was sentenced to pay a $5 fine or spend thirty days in the county jail.

—Beginning with October the Methodist Episcopal church will make a change in the time of service. The Sunday-school will meet at 2.30 p. m. instead of in the morning. The hours of public worship will be 10.30 a. m., and 7.30 p. m. The Epworth devotional meeting will commence at 6.45 p. m.

—An alarm of fire was sounded this morning caused by smoke belching from the doors and windows of a house occupied by Mrs. Mead, corner of Washington and Third streets. There was no fire, the house being filled with smoke from the stove, in which an attempt had been made to start a fire.

—Despite losses through the big wind storms, Delaware's peach crop this year was the biggest in the history of the peninsula. The various estimates place it at from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000 baskets. The railroad alone carried 3,000 car loads of peaches, and over a third of the crop is usually shipped by water.

Lawyers Agree to Settle a $5 Dispute.

In the case of Kendall vs. Chase, which was to have been tried before Justice Nash, a settlement was reached between the lawyers, Mr. Cyrus Miller for the plaintiff and Mr. Foster M. Voorhees for the defendant. The suit was over the small amount of $5.

BUYING A RIGHT OF WAY

REPRESENTATIVES OF A RAILWAY SYNDICATE IN TOWN.

More About that Proposed Railway Between Paterson and New Brunswick.—It May Not be Run by Electricity.

A SYNDICATE of capitalists who are to build the electric road from Paterson to New Brunswick, by way of Plainfield, were represented by three gentlemen, who came to Plainfield Wednesday in the interest of the road. They ascertained the prices of the property over which it is proposed to build the road, but did no buying.

It is understood that right of way has already been bought this side of Newark. It is said it is the intention to eventually extend the road to Philadelphia.

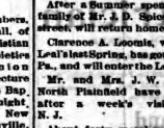
The motive power may not be electricity, but may be compressed air, as it is understood that it will be cheaper and less dangerous. It is not likely that if electricity is used, it will be the overhead wire system.

If the railroad is built it is proposed to carry freight as well as passengers. The passenger traffic will be mostly during the day and early in the evening. The freight will be run during the night, after the passenger traffic stops.

It is thought by many that the New Jersey Traction Company is behind the scheme. This company already owns most of the railways in Newark and Jersey City. This company has already applied to the Union County Board of Freeholders for permission to lay its tracks from Newark to Elizabeth.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVORS.

Local Union Meeting in the First Baptist Church.



SOME of the members, at least, if not all, of the local Christian Endeavor Societies attended a union meeting in the lecture room of the first Baptist church last night. Members were present also from New Market, Dunellen and Washingtonville. The meeting was opened with a 15 minute song service, led by Mr. Edward Pease, the Rev. Dr. Yerkes then led in prayer, and Mr. Andrew Wilson followed with an address on "Christian Endeavor, Its Past." Next Miss Mears rendered a solo. She was followed by Miss Spangenberg, who spoke on "Christian Endeavor; Its Present." Her address was followed by one by Mrs. Hamilton which was very instructive. Mr. E. M. Cave also made an address on "Christian Endeavor; Its Future." The meeting closed with a general social time in which all became better acquainted with each other.

For a Pythian's Home.

A large and enthusiastic Pythian meeting was held in Volunteer Lodge room, Library Hall, Elizabeth, last evening for the purpose of establishing a Pythian home for the aged and indigent Pythians of New Jersey. Every lodge in the district and from the Ladies Pythian Temple were represented. A committee of 50 was elected to constitute the General Pythian Home Committee, which will meet in Plainfield on Oct. 27th next. The promoters feel sanguine that it will be a success, and that it will be located in this vicinity.

Rahway's Carriage Works Closed.

Three Supreme Court executions were issued in Elizabeth yesterday against D. S. Dunham & Son, the carriage builders of Rahway. Deputy Sheriff Clark went to Rahway and levied on all the stock and machinery in the carriage works.

Mr. Dunham's failure is ascribed to his inability to collect his outstanding bills. He has notes to the amount of $50,000 on hand, but was unable to collect the money. The amount of the liabilities is not known.

O'Brien Divorce Suit Adjourned.

The divorce suit of Thomas O'Brien against Margaret O'Brien of Passaic, in which the Rev. Dr. Lyle Belsie, formerly a Catholic priest in Passaic, and William Sullivan of this city, are co-respondents came up for final argument before Vice-Chancellor Green in Jersey City yester day, but the hearing was adjourned until Nov. 2 because of the absence of Senator Griggs, counsel for the defendant.

A Chase After a Tramp.

Policeman Hope had a long chase after a tramp, who was begging on La Grande avenue this morning. When he saw the policeman approach, he started off on a run. 'Twas nip and tuck for several blocks, but the tramp spurted when near the railroad bank, caught a passing coal train and escaped.

The Frost Wheat Collapsed.

About ten o'clock this morning as a team belonging to Mr. Samuel Taynor were being driven along Park avenue, attached to a stone wagon, one of the front wheels of the wagon suddenly collapsed. The driver was compelled to unload the stone and procure new front wheels.

NUPTIALS.

Walsh—Murphy.

THERE was a pretty home wedding at South Plains at five o'clock yesterday afternoon. The contracting parties were Miss Mamie Murphy of Scotch Plains and Mr. Thomas Walsh of Brooklyn.

The wedding took place at the beautiful home of the bride's parents, which is situated on the side of the Watchung mountains and overlooks the villages in the valley below.

The best man was Mr. David E. Morgan of Brooklyn. Miss Mary Murphy, a sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

The Rev. Bernard O'Hanlon, pastor of the Stony Hill Catholic church, performed the ceremony.

The bridegroom is a member of the firm of James Walsh & Son, brokers and bankers, New York.

Among the guests present were: Mr. and Mrs. James Walsh, Mrs. Rose Walsh, Mr. Harry Smith, Mr. William Mace, the Misses Murphy, of Brooklyn; Detective Lyman, of Inspector McLoughlin's staff, New York; Mr. Johnston, of the firm of Johnston & Johnston, New York; Mrs. Hollingsworth and daughter, Mrs. Mann, of Scotch Plains; Mrs. Murphy, Miss Mamie Walsh, of Brooklyn; Miss Lillian Nicholl, of Scotch Plains; Miss Harriet Squiers, of Rahway; and Miss Louie Murphy, of East Third street, Plainfield; Mr. Dupckinck, Miss Carter, Mr. and Mrs. James B. Carter, Scotch Plains.

An elaborate wedding supper was served after the ceremony. The happy couple left at about seven o'clock for a wedding trip to Chicago. They will reside at Scotch Plains on their return.

PERSONAL.

Mr. S. A. Wallace, of Grove street, is expected home Sunday from the World's Fair.

Mrs. James Cahill, of New York City is the guest of Mrs. Louis Weigel of Duer street.

Clarence E. Bowman, only son of Mr. Edward T. Bowman, of corner of Front street and Watchung avenue died this morning of croup. He was eight years old. The funeral will be private.

The friends, and they are many, of genial Mr. George W. Cornwell and Mrs. Cornwell of Washington street are congratulating them. To day is Mrs. Cornwell's birthday and Monday is the 31st anniversary of their wedding.

Mrs. Mary Stone has issued invitations to the marriage of her daughter, Miss Mary E., of North Plainfield, to John E. Riley, to take place in St. Joseph's church, High Bridge, Thursday morning, Oct. 5. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's mother, Arcadia.

Bishop John H. Vincent, of the Methodist Episcopal church, formerly a resident of this city, has recently been appointed a member of the Board of University Preachers at Harvard. Bishop Vincent is best known through his work in Sunday-schools and Chautauqua section with the Chautauqua movement, of which he was the originator. He is sixty-one years old, and has been a preacher ever since his eighteenth year.

Messrs. George W. Eastcott, M. D., Elias R. Pope and Cortlandt A. Mason, have received notice of their appointment by the Chancellor as Commissioners to inquire into the alleged lunacy of a Plainfield lady, who is possessed of considerable means. The Commissioners as yet know nothing of the case beyond the fact of their appointment. Their duty is to preside at the inquisition to be held before them and a jury summoned by the Sheriff of the county.

TAFFY OR EPITAPHY.

"THE VISITOR'S" REVENGE ON THE REV. DR. HURLBUT.

It Wishes the Doctor and His Family Prosperity in Their New Home, and Invites Them to Come Back when They Tire of City Walls.

IN THE September number of The Visitor, the Methodist Episcopal church paper, of which the Rev. Dr. Barnes and Mr. James H. Joy are editors, is the following comment on the removal of the Rev. Dr. J. L. Hurlbut:

"It is with no ordinary regret that we contemplate the removal of Dr. Hurlbut from this city to New York. In the Spring of 1876, Dr. Hurlbut became pastor of our church, having declined an invitation the year previous, thinking it his duty to remain at Trinity, Staten Island. While pastor here, he married the following relatives with Dr. (now Bishop) Vincent, and became more closely identified with Sunday-school work than ever before. In 1877 he left Plainfield to become pastor in Hoboken, but in the Spring of 1879 was induced by Dr. Vincent to give up the pastorate and devote himself to Sunday-school work with him.

"He then took up his residence here, and has lived in Plainfield ever since. Dr. Hurlbut has been deeply interested in our church, and has contributed by counsel and labor to its welfare. In him the pastor loses a wise friend, a friend and co-laborer. His prominent position before the denomination did not make him any the less approachable and willing to lend his aid to the local church. Both himself and Mrs. Hurlbut have been valuable members in the Sunday-school.

"While greatly attached to Methodism, Dr. Hurlbut is a true churchman, delighting in the welfare of all Christian organizations. He was welcome to any of the pulpits of the city, and endeared himself to members of all denominations.

"The Doctor was a member of the Board of Education from 1880 to 1890, and Superintendent of Schools from 1880 to 1885.

Scholarly by nature and training, kind in heart and deep, Dr. Hurlbut attracted to him very many of his town's people, who consider his removal a personal loss.

Were the Visitor autocrat, it would seriously ponder an edict forbidding his removal, but being ordinary folk it is compelled to acquiesce. We can enjoy a sweet revenge, however, and wish the Doctor and his family prosperity in their new home. When they weary of the contentment of city walls, and long again for nearer communion with Nature, that dear Mother of all, Plainfield will forgive the prodigal, and welcome them back again with the old love and friendship.

"P. S. This is neither Taffy nor Epitaphy."

$15,000 FOR FEINDEE.

A Hotly-Fought Damage Suit Goes Against the Central Railroad.

The jury in the suit of John T. Feindee against the Central Railroad, for $40,000 damages for injuries received in the Somerville collision last December, which has been in progress at Somerville the last two days, brought in a verdict of $15,000 damages for the plaintiff yesterday. Early in the morning the crews of both trains which were in the collision were examined, and all of them stuck to the story that it was foggy and the accident could not be helped.

Andrew Hubert, the brakeman who stopped the High Bridge train by pulling the bell cord, said he did so because he saw the woman lying on the track and also a signal to do so from a man on the other train. Oscar Freeman, the conductor, said that under the same circumstances he would not have stopped the train, as he knew the express was following closely, but would have gone on to Elizabeth, and then reported to the Superintendent the facts of its having run over a woman and also of cutting off the local train standing at the depot.

Oscar Durand, engineer of the Long Branch train, testified that he ran by the red signal because he could not see it on account of the fog, and that on a foggy day the signals were useless.

Alvah A. Clark, in summing up for the defense, accused Engineer Durand's mistake in going past the red signal on account of the fog; but Judge Magie stopped him, saying: "The engineer should have approached the red signal with his train under such control that he could have stopped it as soon as he did see the signal. The railroad has a right to run its trains negligently in order to do business."

ATTACHED HER OWN HOUSE.

Miss Dunn Began a Suit Yesterday Against Her Attorney, Mr. Wilson.

Miss Frances E. Dunn of Elizabeth stands in the unique position of having attached her own property and what makes her feel worse is the fact that she brought a suit against her attorney, William K. Wilson, in the Superior Court, supposing he had purchased the property with her money and had the deed made in his name. The whole difficulty arose because the deed to her had not been recorded, but is still among her other papers in her attorney's hand.

A Make Shift Chimney Causes a Fire.

A house owned and occupied by Ida Coon, on the base of the mountain, near Smalley's stone quarry, caught fire yesterday afternoon. The fire started between the ceiling and the roof from a stove pipe which serves in place of a chimney and runs through the roof. The flames were extinguished by men who were working nearby before any damage was done.

A bushel of corn makes four gallons of whisky, which retails for $16. Out of this the Government gets $8, railroads $1, the manufacturer $4, the vender $2, the farmer forty cents, and the drinker gets the delirium tremens.

A brilliant man of genius, when he recovered from a debauch, wrote with his diamond ring on his wine cup:

"Within this cup destruction writhes,
And in its depths does ruin swim,
Around its foam perdition glides,
And death is dancing on the brim."

Burning Grease—Almost Causes a Fire.

Yesterday, while Mrs. Billing of Harrison street was trying some grease in a pan on the stove it took fire and for a time it looked as though the whole room was on fire. An alarm was given, but it was found that no damage was done beyond scorching some things near the stove. Mrs. Billing narrowly escaped a severe burning.

The Weather.

The indications pointed to fair weather, with trifling changes of temperature and northerly to westerly winds, shifting to southerly and easterly, with increased cloudiness.

The weather to morrow promises to be cloudy, threatening and slightly cooler, with, perhaps, rain.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Teaching Morality In School.

The question whether morality can be adequately taught in school is one that that puzzled various American educators. Notably some public school principals have been inclined to answer it in the negative.

A triumphant affirmative has, however, been uttered from a quarter whence one would perhaps least look for it—France. Eleven years ago a law was passed in France making public education entirely unsectarian and taking away from the clergy the right to supervise instruction. At the same time a compulsory law for school attendance was passed, and the making it part of the teacher's duty to give the pupils training in morals. With the thoroughness that characterizes the French educated classes the teachers set about their task.

They report that lying is less common than formerly, and that "bullying, scribbling on the walls and tortoring birds and animals are all decreasing." Moreover, politeness and neatness are on the increase.

Anything more gratifying than this government or more hopeful for France could not be recorded. On one occasion 80 public school children were asked what they would do if they found a purse containing money in the road if they were on their way to a fair and had no money of their own. Out of the 30, 26 knew that it would be stealing to keep the money and use it for their own. If some more decided and persevering effort in the direction of teaching morals is undertaken in our schools, perhaps our criminal population would not increase so fast.

"Rejected With Laughter."

When the British house of lords voted down Gladstone's home rule bill, they were not satisfied with simply casting the vote and letting it go. They had to accompany the act with taunts and derision, and the report made of the scene was summed up in the three words, "Rejected with laughter."

In that laughter the British house of lords sealed its own doom. In England a generation ago unpleasant questionings began among the common people as to whether the Almighty had really ordained that a country should be loaded down with a hereditary nobility that had the privilege of making laws for it. A little time ago there came together in London a great body of the people called the National Liberal Federation. Before the assemblage in London this organization issued a manifesto to the British public hinting that the house of commons might need to "mend or end" the house of lords before attending even to necessary legislation on other lines.

That was a sufficiently significant hint. The resolution unanimously adopted at the convention declared in so many words that the class of hereditary legislators should be abolished. As truly as the earth swings onward in its orbit, just so truly is the day not far off when the British house of lords itself will be by the people of Great Britain "rejected with laughter."

It is some kind of a comment—we hardly know what, but some kind anyhow—that the parliament of religions attracted to its meetings a greater number of mock thieves than any two of the other parliaments had done. Why was this thus? The fellows robbed people while they knelt in prayer and while they listened spellbound to pulpit eloquence. A whole army of crooks invaded the mystic deliberations of our friends the theosophists and reaped rich harvest while the faithful were for the time resting in Nirvana. One rascal, so the record, actually stole the diamond ornaments from a lady's ears. It must have been while she was temporarily out of her body, floating around in her astral shape.

Among the many amendments offered to the Wilson-Voorhees silver repeal bill in the senate is one proposed by Senator Stewart, which provides for extending annexation to Mexico, the Central and South American republics and Hayti and San Domingo to join us within four months in a conference on the silver question. The object of the conference is to have the countries named settle on a common and mutual silver dollar which shall be legal tender for all debts, public and private.

One more step toward extending the white man's government over the Indian territory has been made. A law will probably soon be passed extending the jurisdiction of the United States courts over cases in that territory, in which it is believed justice cannot be had from the native tribunals on account of local prejudice.

Dr. J. D. Ballard of Cloud Chief, O. T., is endeavoring to get reading matter for the colonists there. Spare books, magazines and newspapers will be appreciated. Ship such to Dr. Ballard, per express to Minco, I. T., via Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway, and prepay the expressage.

The New York Sun says of Claus Spreckels' opposition to Hawaiian annexation: "Mr. Spreckels seems to have set to work to make public opinion just as the world sugar."

BY FAIR MEANS OR FOUL

A Crank So Proposes to Occupy the Presidential Chair.

HAD CLEVELAND WAS HIS FATHER

He Called From Pennsylvania and Is Now Locked Up—Mr. Hoar Forgot His Dignity of Manner In the Senate—Affairs In the House.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. — Yesterday a white man about 25 years of age in an unexplained manner found his way into the lower regions of the White House, and meeting the colored cook said to her:

"I want to see father."

"Who is your father?" the cook asked him.

"Mr. Cleveland of course," was his response.

Just then Policeman Heller appeared upon the scene and saw at a glance that the man was not altogether right, and so he dealt with him accordingly.

"Where is father is in the garden," he told the mysterious visitor. "Come with me, and we'll find him."

Arm in arm they started toward the door, the intruder thinking he was going to meet the president, but the officer knew that he would land him at the watchbox.

On their way to the box the officer asked the man, "What did you want in the White House?"

Wanted the Presidential Chair.

"I wanted that chair," was his response. "What chair?"

"The president's chair."

"Don't you think the president fills it satisfactorily?"

"No, I don't," was his reply, "and I intend to get it by fair means or foul. Give me such a pistol, and I'll show you who will get it. — — quick."

When they got to the watchbox, they found Policeman Hibbe on duty. Before that officer knew what was going on the prisoner grabbed the policeman's black jack from his pocket, evidently thinking he was going to get a pistol.

He tried to use the club on the officer, but both officers seized him, and the struggle lasted but a few minutes before the man was overpowered.

The crank was conveyed to the police station, where he gave the name of Joseph Washington and said he came from Pennsylvania. A charge of being a suspicious character was filed against him.

Proceedings of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The senate was in a calm and acquiescent mood, very different from its condition the day before. There was only one instance in which there was a ripple on the surface of its proceedings, and that was over a matter of ancient history, which Mr. Hoar brought up in the way of personal explanation on behalf of a former colleague of his in the house of representatives, now long dead—Mr. Hooper. This senator was chairman of the committee on banking and currency at the time of the passage of what is commonly known as the silver demonization act of 1873. A story has been in circulation to the effect that Mr. Ernest Seyd, a French writer on finance, had had much to do with the passage of that act by the use of a corruption fund of $500,000 contributed by foreign capitalists. The absurdity and falsity of the story have often been exposed, but it always comes up again. A recent letter from Mr. Seyd's son, asserting that his father had not been in the United States since 1866 was supposed to have given the slander its deathblow, but it seems that even that statement failed of its purpose.

In order to construct it an extract from one of Mr. Hooper's speeches was published a few days since in the Peoria Journal and a copy sent to Mr. Hoar, in which a reference to Mr. Seyd was made in which the words "now here" were fraudulently interpreted.

Mr. Hoar Forgot Himself.

In denouncing the fraud Mr. Hoar forgot his usual benignity of manner and language, and characterized its author as being longing to the species of the bedbug or the squashbug.

Mr. Call was came to the defense of the editor of the Peoria Journal as a man who would knowingly commit such a fraud and forgery, and it appeared, after much discussion, that the extract from Mr. Hooper's speech has been floating about thus falsified for the last 13 or 20 years.

The only speech made on the silver purchasing repeal bill was by Mr. Peffer. He declared that if the administration senator would accept his amendment (the restoration of the law to free coinage of gold and silver) the repeal bill could be passed in 20 minutes and senators could shake hands around the bloody chasm and go home for a week or two. But no compromise less than that would be offered or accepted by himself or the people of Kansas.

The debate in the house on the federal election repeal bill was productive of but little excitement. Mr. Brecknridge of Kentucky and Mr. Johnson of Indiana became involved in a personal controversy, which at one time promised to become exciting, but finally lapsed into insignificance. Prior to this time there had been a colloquy between Mr. Moore of Massachusetts and Mr. Fithian of Illinois, where in the epithet "falsehood" was passed, but this also ended amicably.

Bill and Murphy May Disagree.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The New York Herald correspondent sends the following to his paper:

"There is a good deal of feeling against Mr. Van Alen, and a big fight will be made when his name comes up for confirmation. Senator Hill will oppose Van Alen's confirmation, and has been looking into his record pretty thoroughly. The case is likely to make trouble between the New York senators. I understand Senator Murphy will support Mr. Van Alen. It will be a curious spectacle to see Mr. Murphy and Mr. Hill on different sides of any question."

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

New Jersey—H. A. Connolly, Nutley.

Pennsylvania—W. H. Avery, Forest House; J. D. Love, Fort Palmer; S. L. Clark, Galeton; W. H. Wagner, Ripple; G. H. Long, Somerville; J. H. McCreary, Newberrytown; W. H. Wilson, Oak Hill; W. H. Steere, Ringgold.

Chairman Springer Begins His Hearings.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. — Chairman Springer of the committee on banking and currency began this morning a series of hearings which he has planned to determine the causes and remedy of the present financial depression.

Many Incendiary Fires.

EMPORIA, KAN., Sept. 29.—Seven fires of incendiary origin have occurred in this city within two weeks.

Attendance at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—Paid admissions at the World's Fair yesterday were 17,,734.

DEFAULTER FOR $30,000.

Stock Broking Lad In the Employ of a Syracuse Cashier.

SYRACUSE, Sept. 29.—Frank B. Kendrick, assistant cashier in the Citizens' Bank, is a defaulter in the sum of $30,000. The discrepancy was discovered when Bank Examiner R. S. W. Clark counted the cash, which was found to be short. Whereupon Cashier Anthony Lamb, Kendrick is said to have broken down and confessed.

Charles Nesbitt of the Fidelity and Casualty company of New York city came here in response to information that Kendrick was short in his accounts. The company bonded Kendrick's bond, and yesterday Nesbitt swore out a warrant for Kendrick's arrest. The defaulter gave himself up, appeared before County Judge A. J. Northrup and gave bail in the sum of $10,000 to appear before the grand jury, pleading not guilty and waiving examination.

Kendrick is said to have been dealing extensively in stocks, and is thought to be the cause of his defalcation. He is a native of this city and has always borne an enviable reputation. The announcement of his defalcation was a great surprise, as he has been prominently identified with several banks in this city, always holding positions of trust.

FELL NINETY FEET.

Frightful Accident to a Tight Rope Performer at the Trenton Fair.

TRENTON, Sept. 29.—The Interstate fair grounds never held a denser mass of people than yesterday. They came from all sections of the state and Pennsylvania and New York, and the turnstiles showed that nearly 30,000 passed the paying gates. It being politicians' day, Governor Werts and the leading men of both parties were in attendance. Clifford M. Clavercly, the famous tight rope performer, fell off a pedestal, 90 feet from the ground and sustained fatal injuries. He met his balance while adjusting his gearing and tumbled headlong to the ground. Men cried out in horror as the sight, and women shrieked and fainted. Clavercly is now in St. Francis hospital, and it is scarcely expected that he will live. Both his arms were broken, as were several ribs. His most serious injury was concussion of the brain. He was picked up unconscious and removed to a tent.

A boy jockey named Stewart was thrown from his horse in consequence of an accidental collision with a mounted track policeman. The boy sustained serious if not fatal injuries.

Situation and Protectionists.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—A number of Philadelphia manufacturers have determined to make an effort to protect their own interests by making an alliance with the friends of silver. To that end they have indorsed an open letter to the senate which proposes a basis for the settlement of the silver question by which silver may be coined as a money metal on condition that the tariff laws be left intact.

The Roosalka Was Unseaworthy.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 29.—The ironclad Roosalka was unseworthy when she left on her last sea voyage. She had been repaired in haste, and was generally unfit for heavy weather. The total number of lives lost was 179. The first news of the accident came to the czar from a foreign source. This fact has greatly irritated him.

Failed to Keep Their Word.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 29.—The switchmen and engineers in the main yards of the Louisville and Nashville railroad quit work again last night. This action came as a complete surprise, as the switchmen and engineers had promised to abide by the decision of their chiefs at the time the reduction in wages was accepted.

Yachtsmen Learned Nothing.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—The Valkyrie went out for her first trip in American waters under racing rig yesterday, and those who watched her are no wiser than they were before. There was not a thing to be learned about the British champion from her performance.

The Trotter's Latest Victim.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 29.—Little Charley Simmons, 6 years old, was run over and killed in Prospect park driveway yesterday. The little fellow had kissed and bade his mother and sisters goodby just before that hour and trotted off to school.

Saladin to Race Manuel.

WILMINGTON, Del., Sept. 29.—James B. Green, owner of the pacer Saladin (2:03¾), telegraphed W. P. Taylor of Buffalo that he would accept his challenge to race Manuel (2:04) at Cleveland for $2,500 a side.

Lost a Satchelful of Diamonds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—William H. Slingerland, a diamond jewelry dealer, left a satchel filled with diamonds and jewelry in a Sixth avenue elevated train and now is mourning the loss of the jewelry.

Racing a Landslady.

NEW HAVEN, Sept. 29.—Some Yale students who pulled, as they supposed, a freshman out of his room by a surprise found that they had by mistake got hold of the landlady of the boarding house.

Billy Deutsche Dying.

DENVER, Sept. 29.—Billy Deutsche, well known in all sporting circles of this country and Europe, lies in St. Luke's hospital dying of consumption. He was born in New York city 38 years ago.

Three Robbers Worked Methodically.

HALSTEAD, N. D., Sept. 29.—Robbers came to town, procured a livery team, went to the bank, locked the cashier in a room, leisurely helped themselves to the cash and rode off in safety.

Chicago Day at the Fair.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—On Oct. 9 Chicago day—the exposition will be free from debt, excepting stock subscriptions, and the day will be celebrated by the payment of bonds and floating debts.

Deadlock at Auburn.

AUBURN, N. Y., Sept. 29.—The Republican senatorial convention took 85 ballots for senator this morning, and then adjourned until Oct. 3, without nominating a candidate.

Spiritualists In Session.

CHICAGO, Sept. 29.—The first delegate convention of Spiritualists ever held met here yesterday and elected H. H. Barrett of New York permanent chairman.

Work to Be Resumed at Lower Wages.

FITCHBURG, Mass., Sept. 29.—The Park Mill gingham mills will start up Oct. 2. Reductions in wages will be made varying from 5 to 15 per cent.

Wesleyan University Opened.

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., Sept. 29.—Wesleyan university has opened its sixty-third year. The freshman class numbers 73.

TAMMANY'S BIG VICTORY

He Romped Home the Easiest Kind of a Winner.

TARAL'S WHIP WAS INEFFECTIVE.

Fifteen Thousand People Saw the Run of Speedthrift and Torchlight Vanquished by Marcus Daly's Colt—Asset or Base Between the Same Horses.

GUTTENBURG RACE TRACK, Sept. 29.—The match race between Marcus Daly's chestnut colt Tammany and G. Walbaum's brown colt Lamplighter took place in the presence of 15,000 persons. Tammany easily vanquished the son of Speedthrift and Torchlight in as true a running race as ever occurred in the history of the turf.

The winner was ably ridden by Sumpter Garrison. He was followed by Fred Taral, who had the mount on Lamplighter, to make the pace to the head of the stretch—and a fast clip it was, too—where he let out a link on Tammany, and a mere wave over. The chestnut passed his rival in three jumps and romped home the easiest kind of a winner in the fast time of 2:06½. This time establishes a track record for the distance—1¼ miles. Lamplighter, spurred and urged to his utmost, finished three lengths behind the winner.

The match was for $5,000 a side, to which the Hudson County Jockey club added a purse of $5,000, thus making the total value of the stake $10,000.

A Crush of Tammany Money.

The crowd scarcely noticed Tammany as he received his warming up gallop, but his friends were making themselves felt in the betting ring. Lamplighter warmed up in his colors and received an ovation. In the betting ring the crush of Tammany money forced the price of that horse down and down until at post time 7 to 10 was the best price obtainable on his chances, while as good as 11 to 10 could be obtained all around the ring on Lamplighter. Marcus Daly, the friends of silver. The last and they have indorsed an open letter to the senate which proposes a basis for the settlement of the silver question by which silver may be coined as a money metal on condition that the tariff laws be left intact.

At the post Taral immediately sent Lamplighter in front, evidently having instructions to make a hot pace.

Passing the quarter Lamplighter was going easily, a length and a half in front, but Tammany loped along behind in that long, easy stride so peculiar to him. Around the turn they swung, with no perceptible difference in the distance between them.

Lamplighter's adherents were shouting as they went down the back stretch, but Garrison made no move with Tammany until the far turn was reached, where he moved up to within a length of the brown son of Speedthrift.

Taral's Cruel Whip Ineffective.

Then they swept into the stretch. Here Garrison went to work on Tammany. In a twinkling Taral was using the whip on Lamplighter. Up went Taral's whip, and then it descended with cruel force on Lamplighter's haunches. High, low, it fell.

"Lamplighter's beaten!" roared 15,000 throats. Again and again the whip descended on Lamplighter, raising cruel welts on his glossy hide. Taral's spurs were driven with the energy born of despair.

His efforts were futile, however. Tammany drew further and further way, and half a length from the wire, won by three lengths in the fast time of 2:06½.

The crowd cheered frantically for Tammany as he made his grand rush through the stretch, and when Garrison returned to the judge's stand after the finish they broke through the rails, dragged Garrison from his horse and carried him to the weighing scales. He was then placed in a huge floral horseshoe and triumphantly paraded before the grand stand.

Mr. Walbaum was naturally disappointed at the result of the race and asked Mr. Daly if he would make another match in the same stake, the distance to be 1¼ miles. Mr. Daly had decided to retire his horse to the stud in the event of his winning the match, but he generously gave up his decision at a time at least, and agreed to give Mr. Walbaum another chance at his horse. Tammany will concede Lamplighter five pounds in the new match.

Trying to Find Her Husband.

NORTH WILTON, Conn., Sept. 29.—Mrs. William A. Olmsted of this place requests the aid of the press in her endeavors to discover the whereabouts of her husband, who disappeared on June 30. On that day Mr. Olmsted secured for New York on a pass. It is thought that his mind may have become effected and that he may now be in some asylum. He was about 45 years old, 5 feet 8 inches high, weighed about 150 pounds, had full beard and light blue eyes, had a scar on the center of his forehead and a finger missing. Liberal reward will be paid.

Sale of Ex-Senator Cochrane's Property.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29.—The sale of the personal property of Henry S. Cochran, the gold bullion embezzler, which property he made over to the government in order to settle the $1,000,000 shortage, has been begun. Three hundred and fifty-six articles are scheduled in the catalogue to be sold.

Commended by the Pope.

RECEIVERS APPOINTED.

The Jarvis-Conklin Mortgage Trust Company In Financial Straits.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—Judge Lacombe, in the United States circuit court for the southern district of New York, has appointed Samuel M. Jarvis of Kansas City and Roland H. Conklin of New York city receivers of the Jarvis-Conklin Mortgage Trust company. The application for receivers was made by Benjamin N. Fowler and J. G. Schonberger, principal officers and a large portion of the company's property are in the state of New York. It was organized to receive money on trust to accommodate all interest and to loan money on real estate. Its capital, issued and outstanding, is $5,750,000.

The bill of complaint states that the Jarvis-Conklin company is indebted to various banks, individuals and corporations upon demand and time loans, secured and unsecured, aggregating $691,044.98, for which it has given promissory notes, some of which are payable on demand and the others about to mature.

The company holds property in the states of New York, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Indiana, Washington, Ohio, Arkansas, Maryland, Louisiana, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and also in Great Britain.

President Samuel M. Jarvis said that the general financial condition of the country was the cause of the application for receivers.

TWO DAYS FOR AN OPERA

Wager That One Can Be Composed In That Time.

OSCAR HAMMERSTEIN'S HARD JOB.

One Hundred Dollars Put Up by Gustave Kerker That the Theatrical Manager Could Not Write an Acceptable Opera In Forty-eight Hours.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Baron Oscar Hammerstein, the theatrical manager, is endeavoring to compose a one act operetta, which he has wagered to complete against time.

The baron had an argument with Gus Kerker, the musical director, in which he maintained that a composer of real genius could sit down and reel off an opera in a day.

"I'll tell you what I will do. I'll bet $100 that I can write an operetta in 48 hours that will be worthy of production in any New York theater." And the baron supplemented his remark with the flash of a brand new $100 bill.

"I'll take you," said Kerker, producing another $100."

Articles of agreement were regularly drawn up, and the baron found himself bound to "conceive the plot, design the scenery and costumes, write the words and music of a one act operetta to be named by Mr. Kerker and to accomplish the whole within 48 hours."

Yesterday afternoon was the time appointed for the baron to begin composing, and at 3 o'clock a party of theatrical men gathered in the Gilsey House to start him off.

The Title Will Be "Koh-I-Noor."

The baron agreed to be locked up in a room with a piano and all the materials for composition, including cigarettes. Rooms were engaged, and a committee started on a hunt for a piano.

Kerker proposed the title should be "The Koh-I-Noor," and the baron accepted it with a confident smile. He entered the room, and when satisfied that everything was provided for his comfort said he was ready.

He was thoroughly searched, and at 2:30 o'clock George Lederer turned the key of the baron's room. Hirsh was placed in an adjoining room to keep the baron under surveillance and to attend to any of his needs.

It was stipulated that he should not have any communication with anybody there after save through Hirsh. The baron had scarcely got to work when John Russell and Abel Barney were noticed walking up Broadway with an organ grinder in tow.

They walked quietly into the hotel, leaving the grinder under the baron's window. He had his trial upon changing for an hotel one. The committee arrived with a piano, and the baron and his watcher moved into other rooms.

Work For the Baron Hard at Work.

At 5 o'clock the baron stopped for dinner, and Watcher Hirsh said he wore a troubled look. The floor was littered with paper, and the "Koh-I-Noor" was headed.

At 11 o'clock Hirsh, who would not be seen by the reporters, said that there were all sorts of noises in the baron's room, but he was assured that the baron's health was not failing.

The baron will have the assistance of a musician when the operetta is completed, and then it is to be submitted to a committee consisting of A. M. Palmer, Leander Richardson, Jesse Williams and J. C. Clarke, who will decide whether it is worthy of production in any first class New York theater. If they decide that it is not, then the baron loses his $100, so it all depends on his getting the money.

Just after midnight the baron said he had already evolved half a dozen schemes for his operation.

The scene of it was to be in the Kaffir diamond fields in South Africa, a place he knew nothing about. Whenever he was confronted by a situation, he would introduce a ballet.

"I have already committed three murders," he said, "and I don't know how many more I may have to commit before morning, but it looks to me now as if the pleasantest thing I could do would be to drown myself in the bathtub."

Stallions Fought to the Death.

HADDONFIELD, N. J., Sept. 29.—Two valuable stallions owned by Dr. C. L. Thudium fought a duel to the death yesterday. They got into the same field by accident and at once went at each other. Their hoofs struck terrible blows, and the horses bit as effectively as zebras. Finally the more valuable stallion, worth $1,000, fell. The other soon trampled over him. Then, to make sure of a finish, the victor seized his rival by the throat and dragged him about the field.

FASHIONS

Fall Hats For Well Dressed Men.

As the well dressed man emerges from his butterfly existence of summer to the more sober tints of fall, one of the important questions that meets him is that of the hat. And just at this point must be noted a growing divergence between American and English fashions. Anglomania is on the wane, according to the opinions expressed in the New York Herald by an authority on men's dress, and this year perhaps the fact will be more evident in the hat than in anything else.

The English derby is small. The American derby this year, as illustrated by the authority referred to, is full at the crown and more rounded. The pointed hat of a few years ago was one extreme. The pendulum of fashion swings back and forth, and each season marks a different stage in its progress. Now we have the full, rounded outline.

This style is observed by leading hatters, but there is also the usual variety, so really there is no excuse for a man wearing an unbecoming hat. The silk hat will have even a more decided ball than last year, and a man with slim legs not wearing an overcoat will present a somewhat top heavy appearance—that is, if he desires to go to the extreme. But the well dressed man never goes to extremes.

Becoming to the Tall, Fair Woman.

A striking dress recently seen was of black crepon, with a bodice of rose colored silk, which was entirely covered with black lines accordion plaiting. This was worn by a tall, slim, fair woman and looked extremely well. A skirt of one color and bodice of another do not suit short, stout people. They are only successful on tall women who can stand the cut in half appearance so fatal to their less favored sisters.

Fashion's Fancies.

With the very chic small white dress bonnets are worn white tulle veils dotted with black.

In dress silks small spots, in marked contrast to a diagonal ground of two shades, have found favor. Peacock and a new sapphire tone are among the accepted tints.

Among the new hair ornaments for evening wear are small, bright, fancy wings. A pair of them are fixed on top of the knot, and with a pleasant hair they go very well.

Foulard, lace, oriental crape and crepon make the most elegant blouses for dinner, theater or gay other dressy occasion.

Large silver bracelets are worn. They have a linked rope effect, but are not weighty.

"Oh, for the wings of a" bird of some sort seems to be the prayer of the milliner at the present moment. The bird trimming for hats and bonnets are farcical little bright colored wings. Some hats are flanked with a couple on each side.

Where to Put the Pocket.

It entirely depends on the cut of the skirt where a pocket can be placed, but certainly it is useless when it becomes a mere neighbor to the pocket hole. Most of the gowns now, which come from Paris, are a little fuller in front, in which case the pocket can be put in the seam or even from the front, or should there be but few seams it is certainly better to cut a hole in the material than endure the discomfort of a pocket in the wrong place. Some women get over the difficulty by having a reticule made of the same material as the gown, slung from the belt. Some of these reticules are of the sack shape and have a wide beading above the drawing string.

Fashion Notes.

A coarse make of net, which looks something like the Russian net of two or three seasons ago, is in vogue again for trimming. For use in cue muslins, and a tan gown lately made was draped with it. In this case the net was white, so the effect was rather striking.

Though stripes of lace insertion or footing little in use for fashionable adornment, many perfectly plain skirts are being made by first rate modistes. Fashion doesn't get in all her own way, as she did once upon a time.

It's a wonder that alpaca doesn't become fashionable for outdoor dresses. If women knew what was good for them they would certainly wear it more than they do at present. There are few stuffs that hold less dust.

Large sprays of flowers for the front of the bodice are the thing at smart teas this season.

English modistes are making skirts narrower every day. They are scarcely more than half the width they were at the beginning of the season, and the best dressmakers are no longer using stiff materials for lining.

Crepon for this time of year is a comfortable fabric.

Velvet dog collars set with diamonds represent a Parisian fancy.

Short basques promise soon to be fashionable again.

THE ONE HOLD HOUSEHOLD

HOT BREADS.

Recipes For Delicious Tea Muffins and a "Sunday Morning Loaf."

There are few meals, apart from dinner, that are not improved by some form of hot bread or biscuit. Some people realize this and use them to an extent unknown to the northern housekeeper. The latter, with that dread enemy dyspepsia always before her eyes, carefully keeps her freshly baked bread until the following day in order to certainly have it stale, while the southern woman serves up hot yeast bread always once and often twice a day.

In spite of this a Good Housekeeping correspondent painstakingly asks for a northern bread and a southern biscuit, and that there are many recipes for muffins, gems, &c., which either housekeeper can use to her satisfaction and which add greatly to a breakfast or tea. The following for tea muffins she recommends as particularly choice. It has never been known to fail, and the muffins made from it are extremely delicious. These are really more like gems than muffins and are always baked in the little gem tins and not in muffin rings.

Two scant measuring cupfuls of flour, 2 teaspoonfuls of baking powder, salt, and a tablespoonful of sugar. Stir these together and add a full cup of milk, stirring round and round. Lastly add 2 tablespoonfuls of melted lard and butter. About 1 rounding tablespoonful will make 2 when melted. Put into an even hot tin at first and increase the heat as they bake. Bake about 25 minutes.

"Sunday morning loaf" is prepared on Saturday and simply put into the oven for half an hour before breakfast on Sunday morning. Two cupfuls of graham flour, a cupful of white flour, a cupful of Indian meal, 2 scant teaspoonfuls of salt. Put the dry ingredients into a milk pan and add a cupful of molasses, 2 scant teaspoonfuls of soda dissolved in a cupful cold water, a cupful of sour milk or buttermilk and 1½ cupfuls of sweet milk.

This is the best way, but if it is preferred to use water instead of sweet milk use the same amount and add a tablespoonful of melted lard or drippings. Steam for three hours and be sure to see that the steamer does not stop work during that time. The above quantity makes two medium sized loaves. The coarse, yellow Indian meal which is best for these loaves is not so good for corn bread as the fine granulated yellow, or the white meal. Southern people use the white meal universally.

An Old Fashioned Bedroom.

It is sometimes a difficult problem to decorate a bedroom in an old fashioned country house, where the ceilings are low and where economy must be carefully considered. Artistic Interiors and Furnishing Monthly says that in an old house in a New England town the matter was satisfactorily solved by painting all the woodwork a flat white, and papering in a floral style, as all the colonial woodwork was. The walls were hung with a paper of an ivory white background, upon which small and dainty floral patterns of the type seen upon Dresden china were scattered at irregular intervals.

The effect in this room was pleasing, just a half inch below the ceiling and gave the effect of a cornice without distracting any

What Randolph's Glycerole of Arnica IS

and What It Will Do

GLYCEROLE OF ARNICA is a liquid preparation scientifically prepared, a boon to the human family. IT IS NOT A WHITEWASH OR A GREASY PASTE. It is eminently healing and completely impenetrable, leaving a delicate frankness and youthfulness which it imparts to the skin.

GLYCEROLE OF ARNICA will remove TAN and SUNBURN, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, and make your hands and face smooth and soft as a baby's.

Invaluable in the Nursery and for gentlemen when yachting, bicycling, after shaving. Put up in Sprinkler Top Bottles. Delightfully perfumed. Prepared exclusively by from which the heavy volume must be lifted down and carried to a table upon which it can be opened.

The small dictionary stand, here illustrated from an original design in Country Gentleman, tells its own story. The dictionary is always ready for reference, while below are receptacles for papers and magazines that are so commonly found littering the tops of library tables.

In the Laundry.

Wash and rinse flannels in water of even temperature, be it hot or cold.

Iron stockings, underskirts, etc., wrong side out for convenience in mending.

Fold clothes smoothly. "A wrinkle in has to be got out."

Rub irons on a piece of emery paper to make them smooth.

Keep plenty of clean ironholders.

To remove iron rust apply lemon juice and salt and expose clothes to the sun.

A little vinegar in the rinse water will prevent delicate colors from fading.

Baked Pears With Sweet Cream.

Take larger pears than are used in stewing, selecting those of nearly uniform size. Arrange them in a deep baking dish into which pour a half a pint of water, in which has been stirred half a cupful of sugar. Cover with a lid or inverted dish and bake slowly, frequently basting them with the syrup till they are tender. They are delicious when served with good sweet cream.

Sweet Pickle For Plums, Peaches, Etc.

Four quarts cider vinegar, 5 pounds of sugar, quarter pound of cinnamon, 2 ounces of cloves and 2 pounds of fruit. Scald the vinegar and sugar together and skim, add spices, boil up once and pour it over the fruit. Pour off and scald the vinegar twice again at intervals of three days, and then cover all closely.

Something New for Dinner Dishes.

Something new in luncheon dishes is plattered eggs, whose golden yolks are set in a red brown semifield of tomato puree and shredded anchovies.

ETHICS OF SUFFRAGE

THE EVOLUTION INVOLVED IN WOMAN'S USE OF THE BALLOT.

Its Effect on Government, Society, Civilization, Health and Happiness and Its Mission of Light and Sunshine, Mercy, Peace and Morality.

The basic idea of a republic is the right of self government, the right of every citizen to choose his own representatives and to make the laws under which he lives. And as this right can be secured only by the exercise of the right of suffrage the ballot, in the hand of every qualified person, constitutes the true political status of a citizen in a republic.

The right of suffrage is simply the right to govern one's self. Every human being is born into the world with this right, and the desire to exercise it comes naturally with the responsibilities of life. "The highest earthly desire of a ripened mind," says Bancroft, "is a full, free, healthful play of active shares in the great work of government." Those only who are capable of appreciating this dignity can measure the extent to which women are debarred as citizens of this great republic; neitheran they measure the loss to the councils of the nation of the wisdom of representative women.

When men say that women do not desire the right of suffrage, but prefer masculine domination to self government, they falsify every page of history, every fact of human nature.

The chronic condition of rebellion, even of children against the control of nurses, governesses, governors, parents and teachers, is a protest in favor of the right of self government.

The general unrest of the subjects of kings, emperors and czars, in secret plottings or open defiance against self constituted authorities, shows the hatred of all people for governments to which they have never consented.

But it is said that on this point women are peculiar; that they differ from all other classes that, being dependent, they naturally prefer being governed by others. The facts of history contradict the assertion; they show that women have always been in a state of half concealed resistance to fathers, husbands and all self constituted authorities as far as they dared—as far as good policy permitted (when being dependents) to manifest their real feelings. It has taken the whole power of the civil and canon law to hold women in the subordinate position which it is said she willingly accepts. If woman had no will, no self assertion, no opinions of her own to begin with, what means all the terrible persecutions of the sex in the past?

So powerful and merciless has been the struggle to dominate the feminine element in humanity that we may well wonder at the steadily, persistent resistance maintained by woman through the centuries. She has shown all along her love of individual freedom and desire for self government, which her achievements in practical affairs and her courage in the emergencies of life have vindicated, her capacity to exercise the right.

These, one and all, are so many protests against absolute authority and so many testimonials in favor of self government, and yet this is the only form of government that has never yet been fairly tried.

The few experiments that have been made here and there in some exceptional homes, schools and territories have only been partially successful because the surrounding influences have been adverse. When we awake to the fact that our schools are places for training citizens of a republic, the rights and duties involved in self government will fill a larger place in the curriculum of our universities.

Woman suffrage means a complete revolution in our governments and social life—a revision of our constitutions. It means an expurgated edition of our statute laws and codes, civil and criminal. It means equal representation in the halls of legislation and the courts of justice; that woman may be tried by her own peers—judges and advocates of her own choosing. It means light and sunshine, mercy and peace, in our dungeons, jails and prisons, when the barbarous idea of punishment shall give place to the diviner idea of reformation. It means police matrons in all our station houses, that young girls arrested during the night when intoxicated and otherwise helpless may be under the watchful eyes of some judicious women and not left wholly at the mercy of a male police.

And what does woman suffrage mean in social life? Health and happiness for women and children, the code of morals for men and women; love and liberty, peace and purity in the home; cleanliness and order in the streets and public places; and last and not least, it means in the home of the poor, morals and manners taught in the schools.

We cannot estimate the loss to the world in this repression of individual freedom and development through childhood and youth. Woman suffrage means a new and nobler type of men and women, with mutual love and respect for each other. It means equal authority in the home, an equal place in the trades and professions and equal honors and wealth in the world of work.

Our civilization today is strictly masculine. Everything is carried by force and violence and war and will be until the feminine element is fully recognized and has equal power in the organization of human affairs. Then will be instituted co-operation for competition, persuasion for coercion.

If woman suffrage means all this, surely it is the greatest question ever before any nation for consideration and imperatively demands the prompt attention of the leading minds of our land. Women themselves must make this the primal question in their estimation.

The enfranchisement of women in England and America would give new dignity, self respect and hope to the women of every nation in the uttermost isles of the sea.

The protracted struggle through which we have passed and our labors not yet crowned with victory seem to me sometimes like a painful dream, in which one strives to run and yet stands still, incapable alike of escaping or meeting the impending danger.

But I would not pain my readers' ears with a rehearsal of the hopes oftimes deferred and shadowed with fear, of the brightest anticipations again and again dimmed with disappointment. I will leave it to your imagination to picture to your selves how you would feel if any of you had had a case in court, or a bill before some legislative body, or a political aspirant, for nearly half a century, with a continued succession of adverse decisions, and yet the future is as full of bright promise for us that we still hope and labor while we wait.—Elizabeth Cady Stanton in New York Sun.

The Circus.

Loud ring the shrill cries of mirth,
The gates are open. Pray, walk in!
The price is but a single pin.
And this is the greatest show on earth.

Upon the sofa back astride
Rides she the famous pinkpone Dick.
He gives his fiery steed a kick
And straight is off. A reckless ride!

Then landing with a sudden thump
Upon the ground, the lithe signor
Gives, over 20 hooks or more,
His celebrated running jump.

Next comes fair mademoiselle, And in
With outspread arms and balance trim.
Upon the beast's dizzy rim
She walks the tight rope to and fro.

Together then the two perform
A hundred feats of skill and strength.
Until mild loud applause, at length,
Calls them to rest and very warm.

They bow and smile and bow again
Before an audience spent with mirth.
Long live the greatest show on earth.
Fair mademoiselle and all her train.

Always Be Civil.

Civility is a quality that is never wasted. Its effect upon a little street boy who was not used to it is cleverly shown in the following story from over the sea: It seems that one evening a young lady abruptly turned a street corner and ran against a boy who was small and ragged and freckled. Stopping as soon as she could, she turned to him and said: "I beg your pardon. Indeed I am very sorry." The small, ragged and freckled boy looked up in blank amazement for an instant. Then taking off about three-fourths of a cap, all he had, he bowed very low, smiled until his face beamed as in the smiles and answered, "You can lay my pardint and welcome, miss, and yer may run ag'in me and knock me clean down, an I won't say a word." After the young lady passed on he turned to a comrade and said, half apologetically, "I never had any one ask my pardint before, and it kind o' took me off my feet."—New York World.

A Game Played by City Girls.

An amusing game is played by four girls who stand opposite each other in pairs, each pair clapping hands so that a cross is formed in the center. They sing:

Lower a bucket of water,
A lady and her daughter.
She used to wash in beauty,
She forgot to be called a dandy.
One in a rush, two in a rush,
Come under my mulberry bush.

One of the players gets within the network formed by the crossed arms, and the song is repeated until all four players are within a mesh of arms. Then they sing:

Buy a bunch of roses,
Buy a bunch of roses,
Buy a bunch of roses,
Cheap, cheap, cheap!

The four players dance to the music and display especial vivacity at their bounding movement emphasizes the last three words.—New York Advertiser

Naming Family Pets.

Every boy and girl has at some time had a pet for which a name had to be found, and all enjoy the pleasure of teaching the pet to answer to his name. But have you ever stopped to notice how few pets are nicely named?

Suppose you have a little Scotch terrier. Do you not think it would be pretty to name him Sandy or Andy or Bruce or Wally or Campbell or Donald or Mac? And if you had a water spaniel, do you not think he might be called Lake or Puddle or Plunge or Dip? And Paddy, Rory, Moore, Shannon and Tyrone are all good names for an Irish setter, and for the cat Smiley, Grey or even such names as Felina, Catnap, Malta, Softpaws and Fleece.

In the city of New York there is a man who makes a business of finding pretty names for valuable dogs, and in no one does he ever give the same name twice.—New York Ledger.

The Dog and the Monkeys.

Once upon a time a number of monkeys went to a great forest to pick up nuts. Their way led them past a woodsman's house, near which lay a large dog sunning by a stump. The dog was a fox and asked him if the dog could tell if the woodsman's house were really alive, "because," they said, "it never seems to move."

The fox said, "I would advise you to let him alone, or you will pay dearly for your experiment."

But the monkeys would not listen to him. So the next time they were going to the forest to pick nuts one of them went up to the dog and scratched his nose, which made him spring up immediately and run after the monkeys and bite all those whom he could catch. After this they were always obliged to go to the forest by another way for fear of the dog.—New York Mail and Express.

It is a little odd that Ernest Renan, the famous French academician, should have become a free thinker through studying for the priesthood at a theological seminary. Outside of learned men among the Jewish race he was the greatest Hebrew scholar of his time. He seemed somehow born with a love of the study of oriental languages and literature, particularly the Hebrew. He was always careful to state in the midst of the bitter contest over his "Life of Jesus," that he was a "moral disciple of Jesus," while denying his divinity. This detail cost him his chair as professor of Hebrew in the college of France. Strangest of all the contradictions in the character of this gifted, erratic man was that while he was an extreme radical in theology, to the point of agnosticism, yet in politics he was a bigoted Monarchist and hated universal suffrage intemperately. If any agnostic wishes to store up a fine sentence to quote in his dying hours, he may mention the last utterance of Ernest Renan, "We perish, we disappear; but heaven and earth remain, and the march of time goes on forever."

FIRE ON FRONT STREET.

IN A BUILDING OWNED BY POSTMASTER POPE.

And Occupied by Lazardi & Co., and David Moderwink, as a Fruit Store and Barber Shop.

For the first time in a long while there was a fire in the heart of the city last night which promised to prove disastrous but for the prompt action of the firemen. There was a slight wind blowing and had the flames a chance to spread considerable damage might have resulted as the building in which the fire started was a frame one, and adjoins another frame structure.

The building in which the fire started is known as 211 and 213 West Front street, and is occupied by a fruit store and a barber shop.

The fire was first noticed in the barber shop by Patterson Bros. who have a telegraph station there. When discovered, smoke was issuing from the crevices around the door and window.

An alarm was sent in from box 12, corner of Front and Somerset street. When the firemen arrived the flames had worked their way between the walls. The ceiling had to be chopped away to get at the blaze, which finally burned through the weather boards of the Patterson Bros. store.

Five streams of water were thrown upon the flames, four from a hydrant on Front street and one from a Madison avenue hydrant. The flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

Considerable damage was done to the barber shop and the fruit store. Patterson Bros. were damaged some by water. They have an insurance of $4,000 on the building and stock. Their loss will be slight.

Barber Moderwink carried an insurance of $800. He is unable to state what his loss will amount to.

Lazardi & Co. had their goods insured for $800.

The building in which the fire originated is owned by Postmaster E. S. Pope, and is insured for $1,000.

How the fire started is unknown. Some of the firemen are of the opinion that it caught from a fire in a stove in a little room, back of the barber shop, occupied by Barber Moderwink. Moderwink was away when the fire started.

While several firemen were liberally and gratuitously supplied with cigars by the tobacconist.

A "CHALK TALK."

Sociable of Grace M. E. Church Epworth League.

The Epworth League of the Grace M. E. church, in Park place, held a sociable and "chalk talk" in the chapel last night.

There was a solo by Miss Alice Carroll, and singing by a quartette. The feature of the evening was the "chalk talk" by Mr. and Miss Meisinger. Refreshments were served and a social time followed.

BREVITIES.

—To night there will be a song service in the W. C. T. U. rooms.

—A regular communication of Jerusalem Lodge, F. & A. M., will be held Tuesday night.

—Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, worked the Orient Degree on ten candidates last night.

—Mr. A. D. Thompson of this city recently exchanged 18 lots at Lorraine for the Sunnyside Mill property at Clinton.

—At a meeting of the Catholic Young Men's Lyceum, Thursday night, Mr. J. J. Lynch of the club was elected captain of the bowling team.

—A meeting of the Journal Bowling League representatives was held at Elizabeth Thursday night. Treasurer Hallock of this city presented his report, which was received and filed.

—The recent cyclones shook enormous quantities of apples from the trees in orchards that were not in a condition for market. The farmers have since been busy gathering this fruit and rushing it to the distilleries. The result will be an unusually large crop of applejack.

—Last night at the meeting of Manitonomo Tribe, 118, I. O. R. M., four candidates were adopted. The anniversary committee, comprising Messrs. Richard Benson, William A. Wedgwood and William Newcorn, met and decided to hold the tribe's anniversary meeting on October 9th.

—An exchange says:—Noisy shoes murder the grace of the wearer and anatomy the nerves of the sensitive public. It is a very easy matter to remedy the creaking. Put a ounce or so of linseed oil or melted lard in a shallow dish, place the shoes in it and allow the soles to become saturated.

The Choral Society.

For the season of 1893-94, the Choral Society will pursue a course of musical study similar to that of last year. It is proposed to give for the first concert, Gaul's "Holy City," and for the third, "Elijah," or, perhaps a new work not heretofore produced in Plainfield. The programme for the second concert will contain selections of part songs, unaccompanied choruses, and short numbers of a lighter class of music.

THE BOYS' CLUB.

THE ANNUAL REPORT OF THE WORK OF THAT ORGANIZATION.

The Total Membership is 326, and Aggregate Attendance 18,212—It is Desired to Introduce Manual Training.

SECRETARY Dexter O. Tiffany of the Boys' Club makes the following report of the work of that organization for the past year:

During the past year, the third of its existence, the work of the club has been conducted on about the same lines as during the preceding two years:

Even if the Club had done nothing more than to furnish amusement and pleasant evening quarters, thus keeping the boys off the streets and from places of temptation, the return would be ample for all past outlay and trouble; but those interested in the club have all along been striving to enlarge the scope and usefulness of its work beyond these limits.

The object of this Club is not simply to amuse, but to develop character and arouse a desire for something that shall lift its members above their present condition of life.

The Executive Committee desires to introduce Manual Training as one of the means to that end; but it fears that the Club's income may be diminished by the present hard times. We begin the Winter with practically no money in the treasury, except $288.00 which is set aside for Manual Training, and to establish which, we shall need as much more, besides providing for the regular running expenses of the Club.

The Committee heartily thanks those who have so kindly supported it up to this time, and asks them to continue their subscriptions during the present year.

DEXTER O. TIFFANY, Secretary.

The following is a summary of the treasury's report for the year ending August 31st, 1893:

RECEIPTS.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Fair and the Railroads.

The railroads are making money out of the World's fair—there is no doubt of that. Only a few such trains as one that went to Chicago recently from the Atlantic seaboard would pay them handsome dividends against the next quarter. This train was made up of tourists from the vicinity of New York and Boston, and the number of passengers it carried was nearly 10,000. There were 120 cars, and they traveled in 10 sections of 12 cars each.

But the disagreeable part of it was that the passengers on the mammoth train were mostly of the class that at once deserves the best of everything earth affords and least often gets it—working people. They were too poor to pay more than the mere passenger fare and could not indulge in the luxury of a sleeping car. That meant sitting up two nights upon the train. When they reached the fair, too many of them were in the condition graphically described in the American language as "played out." They could not see the fair at their best. This is a thousand pities, for the mechanics and artisans of a country are exactly the ones to whom such expositions do the most good in the way of improvement to a nation's industry. Through these working people, if at all, must come the elaboration of new and finer ideas in the industrial arts.

In view of the money they make, also for way of showing a patriotic willingness to help the fair and their country, the railway companies ought to combine and make excursion rates cover as much comfort as possible to those who avail themselves of them. They ought to have done so from the start. In emigrant trains of the west certain sleeping accommodations are provided that are not at all bad. If even these were made to accompany the excursion ticket to the fair, it would bring comfort to hundreds of thousands of the best people in America. It would give thousands courage to visit the great show who are otherwise daunted by the hardships of the journey. In that way it would really pay the companies. A truly enlightened policy is that which furnishes the most to people for their money.

A sensible person never feels his poverty so much as when he goes to buy a railway ticket and has not money enough to take a sleeping car. From the ticket seller to the black porter, all seem to frown upon him from lofty heights of affluence and to openly despise him for poor trash.

The Mole Again.

Minister Fred Douglass had no success at all in his effort to secure from the Haytian government the concession of Mole St. Nicholas for a coaling station for United States naval vessels. It is to be hoped that the effort which will be renewed through Minister and Consul General Henry M. Smythe will result better. The promontory Mole St. Nicholas, resting as it does on the northwest flip of Hayti, commands the Windward Passage between Cuba and Hayti against approach in all directions by water.

The Windward Passage is one of the main entrances from Europe and the north to the Caribbean sea and the gulf of Mexico. A few miles across from the Mole lies fair Cuba, the pearl of the Antilles, the most ardent hope of some of the intelligent and patriotic of whose inhabitants is that it will at no distant day become a part of the United States. Knowing this, the whole influence of Spain has hitherto thrown against the acquisition of Mole St. Nicholas as a coaling station by the United States. But we must, and or some other station in the West Indies. The commercial interests of the United States are too important, the stability of the governments of the English-American republics, and even of the governments of Europe, is too uncertain, for us to neglect that precaution.

The most remarkable news item in some time has been that little story of how the engineer, fireman, conductor and express messenger stampeded a train on the Illinois Central road, threw off through their sheer pluck and right, at risk of their own lives, a band of highwaymen who attacked them. That is not less than heroic, the engineer, fireman fighting till they fell, and the conductor and express messenger standing in the express car and banging away at the desperadoes who were killed and the others fled. There are times in which death is more precious than life, and one of these is when a railway employee lays down his life guarding the lives and property of those who trust themselves to his care. Not the least splendid part of the story either is that the highwaymen, after worsting the robbers, cared for the wounded, captured but did not let the passengers know. Some testimonial should be given to the men of that train.

It is to be known that the fastest express train in the world is the New York to Detroit. Foreign engineers will examine her record. Her contract called for an hour, but she can travel 30 miles an hour, and a fast wire for her makes the hours of $150,000.

A writer says that no less than 70,000,000 pounds of Europe wear wooden shoes. What of it?

ANOTHER MINE HORROR

Twenty-eight Men Meet Death by a Rush of Waters.

THE ACCIDENT LONG LOOKED FOR.

Eighteen of the Men Managed to Escape.

Pitiful Scenes Among Relatives of the Unfortunates Hitherto—Hope to Be Brought Against the Operators—List of the Dead.

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., Sept. 30.—With a terrific rush the water of the Michigamme river broke through a bed, weakened by mining, into the Mansfield mine Thursday night, drowning 28 men who were at work in the lower levels, and there were 30 men in the mine when the accident occurred, but 18 of them, who were working in the upper levels, managed to escape.

None of the bodies have been recovered, and it is believed it will be necessary to divert the channel of the river before they can be secured. It is believed to have been the worst disaster that ever occurred in the Lake Superior iron region. When the night shift went on duty, it was noticed that more water was coming into the mine than usual, but no alarm was felt by the men at the pumps, as they managed to keep the drifts free. The miners pursued their work as on every night when they started in to pass the 12 hours under the ground earning bread for their families. Suddenly there was a loud report and an overpowering rush of water, and the men felt themselves being overwhelmed by an avalanche of mud, ore and water.

Trapped and Drowned Like Rats.

So fast came the flood that it is doubtful whether the men on the upper levels had time to drop their tools and run for their lives to the old shaft. If any of them reached the perpendicular opening, however, it would have availed them nothing, for the shaft known as Old No. 1 collapsed as soon as the water reached and undermined its base. This occurred at precisely 9:30, and it was then known to those in charge of the mine that the men in the upper level had been trapped and drowned like rats by an accident which had long been expected. Had there been time, the men might have descended by some means to the lower levels and crossed over to No. 2 shaft, but the inrushing flood came too fast, and it is thought that most of them met death within five minutes after the break occurred. The men at work in the lower levels were warned in time to escape. A few minutes after 9 they heard the ominous roar, and at once suspecting the cause dropped their picks and fled for their lives. The water, pursuing as it did the devious course necessary in running from one level to another, was already ankle deep in the lower levels when the men reached the shaft and were drawn up from what seemed certain death.

A Cry of Horror Went Up.

The news of the disaster sped on swift wings throughout the little hamlet, and a cry of alarm was voiced by the inhabitants as they rushed from their homes, gathering about the shaft just as the last one of the 18 men was brought to the surface. The story of the accident was explained to the anxious inquirers, a cry of horror went up, as they realized that the long expected and much dreaded accident had taken place at last and brought with it the results so long feared by the wives and mothers.

There was a call for volunteers, which was at once answered, to descend the only available shaft and succor if possible any miners who might possibly be found alive. But the courage and strong intent of the hardy miners was of no avail, and the waters had already reached the lower level shaft, and the angry rent which rended the mine would be as much as they peered over into the dark channel at once precluded all hope of rescue, and the 28 men were given up.

All night the water poured into its new found bed, and not until 9 o'clock in the morning did it resume its natural course, after having effectually filled every cavity and crevice of the mine.

End of the Mansfield Mine.

The death of these 28 men marks the end of the Mansfield mine, for unless the river can be forced to seek another channel the bodies cannot be secured, nor can this rich deposit of iron ore be worked again.

The Mansfield mine is situated on the banks of the Michigamme river about six miles east of Crystal Falls, the county seat of Iron county. It has been worked between three and four years and has shipped about 600,000 tons of bessemer ore.

The depression in the iron trade has closed practically all the mines in the Crystal Falls district, and the Mansfield was almost the only one from which any ore was being raised, the fine quality of its product enabling it to do good working. The ore bosses dipped rapidly beneath the stream, and for more than two years the chief workings have been directly under the bed of the river. There has been much trouble with water, and predictions have not been wanting that the river would some day break through the roof of the mine. No measures looking to a rescue of the bodies of the dead have yet been determined. A careful survey of the ground by competent engineers will have to be made, and the first step toward getting into the flooded workings must be to divert temporarily or permanently the course of the Michigamme river and then pump out the mine.

List of the Dead.

The names of the drowned miners are:

Sam Peters, married; James Strongman, married; W. H. Pierce, married; Charles Pohl, married; Ole Carlson, married; Joe Kokla, married; Sean Johnson, Mike Harrington, Frank Rocko, Al Torresani, Frank Johnson, Sam Johnson, Gullina Zadra, Peter Terry, Nicola Fontani, John Regula, John Holmstrum, Jora Rinche, John Warner, John Arenagnie, August Ellagren, Virgil Zanders, John Bandala, Oscar Lundquist, Anto Steffano, O. Constanti, Celesti Negri and Rom Fortimato.

Already talk of suits for damages against the operators by relatives of the dead men is being heard. The mine was being operated by the receiver of Corrigan, Ives & Co. of Cleveland. The money loss will be $600,000.

Twin Sisters Lost.

HINGHAM, Mass., Sept. 30.—The twin daughters of W. H. Clark are lost. They are 11 years old and pretty. They were last seen going in the direction of a wood. Of late many tramps have infested this neighborhood, and it is feared the girls have been kidnaped by them.

Shot the Colored Mistress.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 30.—Fitz A. C. Clarke, a private in Battery L, United States artillery, fatally shot Julia Storey, colored, with whom he had been living, and tried to kill himself.

Striking Employees at Work Again.

LOUISVILLE, Sept. 30.—A number of the striking switchmen and firemen on the Louisville and Nashville railroad went back to work yesterday.

POLITICIANS AT ODDS.

Free Fight Between Cleveland and Hill Men at Jamestown, N. Y.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 30.—The Democratic city caucus to elect delegates to the county convention was called to order by Frank F. Sherman, chairman of the Democratic city and county committees, who announced that the city committee had selected Frank E. Sherman, George C. Vandusen and Edward L. Darry as inspectors of the caucus. The inspectors had organized by electing F. E. Sherman chairman and the other two tellers, and they were ready to receive ballots. They were all Cleveland men. Immediately the Hill men perfected another organization by electing Conrad A. Hull as chairman and John J. Mahoney, John Monahan and S. B. Lewis as inspectors. By the time this was done the Cleveland officers had received about 25 ballots, when the Hill officers demanded control of the ballot box. This was refused, when a free fight occurred between the two factions to obtain control of it.

The hall was crowded, and the ballot box played the part of a football in the best of an exciting game. During the melee Sherman declared the caucus adjourned because it was impossible to proceed with business. Officers were called, and the quarrel was quelled, when the ballot was found to be in possession of the Hill men. The secretary's tables had been overturned in the fight, and the records of the caucus so far as it had proceeded were trampled under foot and rolled almost beyond recognition by the ink which had been spilled. The records, however, were kept in the possession of the Hill men, who went to work another hall, and both sides elected delegates to the county convention, which will be held at May'ille today.

Warrants have been issued for the arrest of Mahoney, Monahan, M. C. Martin and Thomas Ferrin, charging them with stealing the ballot boxes.

MORE MOB LAW.

One Negro Lynched, Another Will Be, and a Third Assaulted.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 30.—Some days ago a negro prisoner named Dansey, with one aid of a white man, persuaded Deputy Sheriff Bankston to allow him to dig for gold which he had buried in the woods. The negro by strategy possessed himself of the deputy's pistol and shot him. A special from Ocala says that Bankston died yesterday of blood poisoning. The woods are being scoured by bodies of armed men for the escaped prisoner. He was also heard of surrounded in Weekahooty hammock, but he eluded his searchers and escaped.

One More Negro Lynched.

SUMMERVILLE, La., Sept. 30.—Henry Coleman, Jr., who is charged with attempted assassinate Captain Thomas Lyles, was taken from the jail at Benton by 80 men and lynched. Before the mob took him he was baptized by a colored preacher. He confessed his crime and said he was ready for the fate awaiting him. Captain Lyles was shot in the back, and hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Shot Down at His Home.

ARLINGTON, Ga., Sept. 30.—Enoch Smiley, a negro living about five miles south of here, was shot and killed at his home last night. As yet no clew to the guilty parties has been obtained.

Progress of the Great Cricket Match.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—The cricket match between the Australians, who have been playing in England all summer, and the All Philadelphia team, made up of players from the principal clubs of this city, began on the grounds of the Belmont Cricket club at Elmwood. When stumps were drawn, the Philadelphias had made a total score of 209 runs for the loss of 4 wickets. The game will continue today.

This May Be the Ticket.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 30.—A local statesmaker says the Democrats will nominate this ticket: Secretary of state, Thomas B. Postsail of Kings; treasurer, William P. Kirk of Onondaga; attorney general, Simon W. Rosendale of Albany; comptroller, Frank Campbell of Steuben; state engineer, Martin Schenck of Rensselaer.

Powerful Turbine Wheels.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 30.—Three of the immense turbine waterwheels which were built in this city, at a cost of $280,000 each, for the purpose of utilizing the stupendous power of Niagara falls for industrial purposes, will shortly be placed in position. Each wheel is expected to develop 5,000 horsepower.

Visited by a Fierce Hailstorm.

GREENPOINT, N. Y., Sept. 30.—This place was visited by a fierce thunder storm yesterday. Hailstones three-quarters of an inch in diameter fell. Windows were broken, horses were frightened into running away, and many persons were hurt by the cloud sent missiles.

New London's Largest Transfer.

NEW LONDON, Conn., Sept. 30.—The largest transfer of real estate made in this city in years was consummated when the Pequot House and cottage was sold by John J. Haley of Newton, Mass., to Joseph G. Hall of Dover, N. H., for $85,000.

Runaway Pa Lies With Cleveland.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Tammany's general committee met last night for the first time since spring and transacted routine business. Chairman Smith declared the action of Mayor Gaynor in line with Cleveland's administration.

Anti-Catholics in New Britain.

NEW BRITAIN, Conn., Sept. 30.—The American Protective association has just been organized to do away with so called Catholic rule in politics. Among its members are the most prominent people in the city.

Special Officers For New Rochelle.

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., Sept. 30.—Since the daring highway robbery on Tuesday night the authorities have appointed special officers. No clew to the identity of Mrs. Darling's assailants has been found.

New York State's Death Rate.

ALBANY, Sept. 30.—The bulletin of the state board of health for the month of August shows that the 11,687 deaths during that month represent an estimated death rate of 21.20 for the entire state.

To Assist Immigration Southward.

TRENTON, Sept. 30.—The Western and Southern Immigration company has been incorporated for the purpose of transferring immigrants to the south and west and build up southern seaport towns.

Juniors Defeated Seniors.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 30.—The juniors defeated the seniors at football by a score of 7 to 4, thus winning the championship of the college.

MR. MORGAN STIRRED UP

He Slashed Things Right and Left Indiscriminately.

THE PRESS ROUNDLY DENOUNCED.

Interest in the Federal Election Law Repeal Bill Said to Be Dying Out—Compromise Talk Becoming More Pronounced. The White House Crank.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Two of the most distinguished mentors on the Democratic side of the chamber, Messrs. Harris of Tennessee and Morgan of Alabama, made vigorous attacks in the senate on the silver purchase repeal bill. Mr. Harris asserted that the repeal of the Sherman act would be the last recognition of silver as money, and would oppose any measure that might be presented to utilize silver in any way or to any extent.

Mr. Harris expressed his readiness to accept any fair and reasonable compromise and his determination to vote against unconditional repeal.

Senator Morgan ridiculed the proposed international agreement as "an idle dream, only to be realized by the fervid imagination of every enthusiastic statesman" (meaning Mr. Allison).

He also characterized it as "a tubthrown to the whale," and spoke eloquently of the failure of the struggle for American independence if the country could not establish its own financial system without the consent of Great Britain. He opposed the bill and argued for the constitutional right of the free coinage of silver.

A Slap at Mr. McPherson.

Having gone on to argue upon the right of free coinage of gold and silver, Mr. Morgan was asked by Mr. McPherson of New Jersey what right the government had to take the gold of the senator from Alabama and have it coined, paying back to him the coin in gold or any metal that that senator from Alabama might send them to him for $1 per cent in value. "There is no such right as that," said Mr. McPherson, "and nobody ever pretended that there was. Nobody ever proposed it. The senator is hallucinating his conception of his brilliant mind, and is frequently found guilty of such weakness in love with their own brilliant conceptions that it was impossible for them to see the sun when he was in the zenith." [Laughter.]

In the further course of his argument Mr. Morgan complained of the pressure sought to be exercised upon the senate by the metropolitan press. He stigmatized it as "a licentious and hireling press, scarcely able to string together enough viperous epithets to express the contempt of senators." Its penny a liners, he added contemptuously, who would be glad to get a crust and dry herring, gave out of their mouldy garbers and deshabomedes paid for by the line.

He went on to argue that the American citizen had, under the constitution, the right to have coined his silver at the mint of the United States into money.

"Let Not Shylock Interfere."

God Almighty had, he said, established a bond of union between gold and silver in the very bowels of the earth. "And let not," he said impressively, "the Jew Shylock forfeit the bonns or dissolve the contract. [Applause.] The last man in Alabama, the poorest nigger in Alabama, is entitled to the coinage of his silver at any hands as much as the president of the United States is, and he will have it if I know how to give it."

At the close of his speech he developed a good deal of animosity against President Cleveland, and intimated that the Democrats "would not love him for the friends he had made."

Senator Cameron presented a petition, bearing the signatures of Mr. Wharton Barker, formerly of this city, but a leading business man and firms of Philadelphia, asking the senate to preserve the protective character of the tariff and the integrity of silver as a money metal.

Instead of the interest in the discussion of the federal election repeal bill increasing, it is rapidly diminishing. The time in the house after the bill was taken up were there more than 100 members present, and the average attendance throughout the day was not more than 75.

Gillett of Massachusetts was the chief speaker. He spoke against the bill, as did Lacey of Iowa, and Blair of New Hampshire talks in favor of it. Mississippi and Wheeler of Alabama advocated the repeal. But the surroundings were depressing, and those of the gentlemen could do themselves justice.

Pronounced Compromise Talk.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The compromise talk is more pronounced than it has been at any time this session. It is hard to find any tangible ground for it, but that fact is very apparent. It is believed that the abandonment by the managers of the repeal bill of their secretly concealed intention to force an immediate vote may be the basis for a great deal of this talk, but a prominent Democratic senator confidently expressed the opinion that an early date, probably some time next week, a compromise will be reached, by the terms of which the silver bullion now in the treasury will be coined during a period of about four years; that a sufficient amount of silver will then be purchased from time to time to bring the total silver circulation up to $300,000,000, the amount which is deemed sufficient to bring the gold reserve up to $300,000,000, and that the bank circulation is to be extended to the par value of bonds deposited to secure their circulation.

That White House Crank.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Joseph Washington, who was arrested at the White House while trying to get an audience with the president, set fire to some bedding in the workhouse, but no damage of consequence was done. When he entered the workhouse, he offered a guard $5 for the best room in the house. The authorities think he may be an escaped inmate of the Norristown (Pa.) asylum.

Fourth Class Postmasters.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—The following fourth class postmasters were appointed:

Massachusetts—Daniel Comey, West Newbury.

New York—J. J. Schoonmaker, Accord; Myron Bunce, Berkshire; F. S. Potter, Chesterfield; Jay Gould, Delaware; Mary M. Doyle, Morris; James Cushing, Van's Corners.

Pennsylvania—M. S. Rinehart, Mountain Home.

Two Pennsylvanians Appointed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Attorney General Olney has appointed Samuel B. Griffith of Mercer, Pa., and George W. Wurzell of Pittsburg to be assistant United States district attorneys.

CHINATOWN'S WEDDING.

the Hearts of Chu Fong and Miss Lum Sun, Toy Now Head as One.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—Mott street society circles are in a flutter over the marriage of Chu Fong and Miss Lum Sun Toy, members of the Mongolian Four Hundred. The wedding took place in the Chinese theater.

Miss Lum was attired in a costume of rich Chinese silk embroidered with gold. Her glossy black hair was close to her head in braids, and over all she wore a red veil of an oriental fabric, resembling tarletan in its transparency.

Chu Fong's red dress was gorgeous, and every one of the five suits of clothes beneath it vied with the outer robes in splendor. His marriage hat was gorgeously embroidered, was in shape like an inverted poundcake pan, and had a tail golden cornucopia upon it and peacock feathers that were so tall that the groom had to bow low to pass through a door or to go under the chandelier.

Both Chu Fong and Lum Sun Toy were several times pecked up and borne around the room, which is one of the ceremonies. As Chu Fong weighs 198 pounds this was an arduous task for the bearers. The high priest of the big Joss house officiated, and the incantations to keep devils away included the burning of much punk and incense. The marriage contract was sent to the office of the Chinese paper where it was filed. The twain drank a cup of wine and pledged their best endeavors for mutual conjugal felicity.

The groom was arrested after the ceremony for being connected with the smuggling of Chinese into this country. He gave bond.

TO BATTLE WITH OUTLAWS.

Twenty-five United States Marshals Invited to Commence Hostilities.

WAGONER, I. T., Sept. 30.—Dill Dalton, Frank Cheney and Bill Doolan, the noted train robbers, are now camped near this place. They have been making nightly visits to this town, returning to their camp after spending a few hours among their old friends.

Last Sunday one of the gang, Alfred Cheney, was arrested by Hack Bruner, deputy United States marshal, while parading the streets here. Since that time they have sent word to the deputy United States marshals they would be ready at any time to stand and make a fight. There are now 25 United States marshals in town waiting to make a raid on their camp. It is expected there will soon be a fight to the death between the outlaws and United States marshals.

Government Towns Sighted.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—Complaints are being received at the interior department that the railroads running through the Cherokee outlet are discriminating against the town sites located by the government and in favor of sites established by themselves. This discrimination, it is reported, has gone so far that mail trains do not stop at Enid, where the land office is located and where there is a town of 20,000, but run their mail trains through the town to their own town site, nearly three miles beyond, and send back the mails by wagon. Discrimination is also reported against the town of Perry. Secretary Hoke Smith is determined that the settlers on the government town sites shall have every mail facility that is needed.

Defaulted Interest on Its Bonds.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—It was definitely announced here last night that the Northern Pacific railroad will default the interest on its $19,328,000 worth of second mortgage bonds due Oct. 1. The bonds bear 6 per cent interest, payable semi-annually. Mr. Cromwell, counsel for the receivers, said: "The receivers have not funds sufficient to warrant them in paying the interest on the second mortgage bonds due Oct. 1. Just when they will be able to pay on the second mortgage issue will be determined by the earnings of the road and the requirements in its operations.

One Man Killed in a Collision.

STREATOR, Ills., Sept. 30.—A collision occurred four miles north of this city on the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and resulted in the death of Engineer Gribbell and the injuries of many people. Two freight trains came together head on. The caboose of one of the trains contained several passengers, and they were more or less hurt.

HAS VAN ALEN RETIRED?

A Rumor to That Effect From Two Newspapers.

HE HAS WRITTEN THE PRESIDENT.

Said to Be Tired of the Attacks Made Upon Him by the Papers—What a Business Acquaintance Says—He Refused to Affirm or Deny the Rumor.

NEW YORK, Sept. 30.—The Press this morning says:

"A business associate of Mr. John J. Van Alen, Mr. Cleveland's chosen ambassador to Italy, said last night that Mr. Van Alen had written to the president declining the mission to Rome. No explanation was given. But the refusal, it was said, was positive and final, and would relieve the president of the embarrassment, and scandal of Mr. Van Alen's nomination."

A dispatch from Washington to the same paper is as follows: "Van Alen has written a letter never saying he has no wish to embarrass the president, and that he is still willing that his name should be withdrawn, but denying that his contributions to the Democratic campaign fund had any connection with his nomination. It is believed here that his name will not be withdrawn until his defeat in the senate seems probable. The senate committee on foreign affairs will investigate his fitness and will ignore the $50,000 campaign contribution. Mr. Whitney has written to almost every Democratic senator, making personal appeal for Van Alen's confirmation."

The correspondent of The Press called at Mr. Van Alen's residence in Newport, R. I., at 11 o'clock last night and sent him word that there was a rumor in New York that he had withdrawn from the Italian mission and asked if he would confirm or deny the rumor. He sent word by a servant refusing to confirm or deny the report. Mr. Van Alen's friends do not believe he will back out. He has been in earnest in his pursuit of the mission since last March.

What The Tribune Says.

The Tribune says on the same subject: "A private letter received in this city yesterday from James J. Van Alen, now at Newport, R. I., may mean that the man whom Mr. Cleveland sought to make American ambassador at Rome has tired of the combat and requested the president to take him out of the way. The letter referred to was addressed by Mr. Van Alen to the manager of a press clipping agency in this city, to whom Mr. Cleveland's appointee had given an order, after his nomination, for newspaper extracts bearing upon his appointment.

"He then desired to know all that the press of the country had to say about him. Mr. Van Alen's curiosity on that subject must be fully satisfied, for he has countermanded the order and desired that no more clippings be sent to him, adding, as is positively asserted at the bureau of press clippings, that he had written the president declining the place of ambassador to Italy and asking that his name be withdrawn from the senate.

"No additional information concerning Mr. Van Alen's alleged sudden retirement from the fight had been secured up to a late hour last night. Some persons who heard of the matter thought that, being a man of delicate sensibility, he did not care to engage in an unseemly struggle to be confirmed."

Is This Paul Boynton?

WASHINGTON, Sept. 30.—A man believed to be Paul Boynton has been arrested by Captain Picking of the United States cruiser Charleston in the harbor of Rio Janeiro. The dispatch announcing the arrest reads: "Boynton, a United States citizen, commanding a tug, illegally flooting British flag, arrested by British man-of-war and delivered to me. Had torpedo on board, presumably to attack insurgent ship. Shall I send him home?" Secretary Herbert replied, "Hold Boynton until further orders."

An Interesting Fountain.

ALBANY, Sept. 30.—The King memorial fountain, erected in Washington park at an expense of over $20,000, was unveiled yesterday and presented to the city, General Horace Porter of New York delivering the presentation oration. The fountain is interesting from the fact that it is believed to be the first time when the subject of "Moses at the Rock In Horeb" was ever used for this purpose.

Complete Anarchistic Outfit Seized.

BARCELONA, Sept. 30.—The efforts of the police to unearth the hiding places of anarchists resulted in a timely discovery of material for the manufacture of bombs. The place turned out to be a full fledged chemical laboratory, filled with crucibles, retorts and all the paraphernalia for the manufacture of high explosives. Quantities of dangerous material were found in various parts of the house. Molds for the casting of bombs and a latbe were discovered in an upper room. Piles of inflammatory literature were found, as were also several fonts of type and a small printing press.

Like His Mother.

"I was born in Indiany," says a stranger back and others in the restaurant was kind o' queer to him.

And Uncle Jake was eatin him another pan'kin pie.

And an extra cup o' coffee, with a twinkle in his eye—

"I was born in Indiany—more'n forty years ago,
And I hain't been back in twenty—and I'm workin back'ard slow;
But I've et in every restaurant 'twixt here and Santa Fe,
And I want to state this coffee tastes like all in heaps to me!

"Pour us out another, daddy," says the feller, warmin up,
A-speakin 'cross a cancerful, as uncle took his cup.

"When I need your sign out yonder," he went on to Uncle Jake—
"I'm comin in and get some coffee like your mother used to make"—

"I thought of my old mother and the Posey county farm,
And saw a little kid a-hangin on her arm
As she set the pot a-billin—broke the eggs and poured 'em in"—
And the feller kind o' halted, with a trouble in his chin.

And Uncle Jake he fetched the feller's coffee back and stood
An ardent for a minute as an undertaker would;
Then he went o' turned and tiptoed to'rd the kitchen door, and next
Here comes his old wife out with him, a-rubbin of her specs;

And she rushes for the stranger, and she hol lers out: "It's him!
Thank God, we've met him comin! Don't you know your mother, Jim?"

And the fellow as he grabbed her, says, "You bet I hain't forgot"—
But, wipin of his eyes, says he, "Your coffee's mighty hot."

A Pin Is Need In a Prized Indeed.

Fashion declares in more precautions, and the purely masculine fashions are many of them truly unique. If you wish to present a souvenir or have lost a pellucidum, you need look no further than the following described in the New York Herald: The proper form—which this time is a good form—is circular for the permanent cushion of the dressing room, and is to be just right it must be free of feminine frills and must be made to hang upon the wall. Man dislike fussy things, and they post-

MODELS FOR MASCULINE USE.

tively hate cushions and other things that are easily shoved about and tufbled on the floor, but a hanging cushion, which is never in the way and is never out of place, is a very delight.

The lower design in the drawing is an excellent hanging cushion of soft olive silk worked in gold and heavy stitching, to which latter fact, by the way, is due much of its success and the admiration it excites in masculine minds.

The next cushion is intended for pocket use and has the advantage of being far better than many dainties things. To make one like it similar to it select two squares from any good pack. Bind all the edges with deep gold colored satin ribbon, the stitches with black embroidery silk. Make eight corners in gold colored satin and paste one to each corner of the two cards. Place one card upon the other and overhand them together with as many invisible stitches as you can. You will find that the cushion, besides being unusual and novel, is really excellent for its purpose as well. It has a distinctively masculine look and is suggestive of bachelor parties and all sorts of fun.

Science Progress.

A DEVICE FOR THE MICROSCOPE.

A Satisfactory Eye Protector For Use With the Ordinary Instrument.

How often have we heard persons exclaim upon looking into a binocular microscope for the first time, "Oh, how much easier it is to see with this instrument, and how much plainer everything appears!"

When one eye is looking through an instrument like the microscope, and the other, being open, is receiving the objects outside the tube, an image is formed upon each retina, and the normal action of the mind is to blend them into a single picture. A strong mental effort is required to disregard the impression in one eye and fix the attention upon the other only. Again, when we close one eye by the contraction of the orbicular muscle or by pressure, as with the hand, we cause contraction of the accommodating muscles also and that of the open, occupied eye as well.

When anything is placed far within the focus of an eye, no image of it is formed upon the retina, and it becomes invisible. If, then, it should be opaque and large enough to cover the whole field of vision, it is not only invisible, but shuts off the sight of all other objects as well, leaving the mind free to attend to the images on the retina of its fellow. On this principle quite a number of devices have been proposed.

The form which Dr. L. B. Hall, authority for the foregoing, has found most satisfactorily is here illustrated after a cut in Science. It consists of a small disk of blackened brass about the size and shape of a spectacle glass, and supported near the eye by a wire extending from the outer margin obliquely downward to a point on the tube low enough to be out of the way of the nose, then bent upward parallel to the tube for a short distance and attached to a cut ring which clasps the top of the draw tube beneath the ocular. It can be easily swung around before their eye.

Tidal Forces.

In all parts of the seaboard the world over where the tides rise high the conversion of tidal force into electricity for power will some day be realized on a scale which may make manufacturers to a great extent independent of coal, ordinary fuel, Electric Exchange, which further says: The solar heat gives us the rainfall which forms the great lakes and renders Niagara an unharnessed giant of power. Niagara has partially been utilized and will be to a much greater extent. Solar and lunar gravitation, quite independent of heat, give us the tides, and these rise in places to 20, 40 and even 70 feet.

World's Fair Exhibit on Flower Pots

OVER FOUR TONS—8,400 pounds—18 large crates—5 truck loads.

The patterns and decorations are numerous and exquisite in design. Prices range from 1½ cents for the Sip Pot to $1.25 for the double Calla Lily, the popular ones being the 3c., 6c., 8c. and 12c. sizes in the common, though we have the largest made, at 60c. Decorated Pots and Hanging Baskets range from 7c. to 25c. We are prepared to sell all, and our prices are guaranteed the lowest and quality without a fault. The wide rim and the oak leaf on the common Pots add strength and beauty, and are easily decorated. Order early, as some will have to wait.

J. C. Allen, 28 West Front St., Plainfield, N. J

To make the tremendous force available for turbines and conversion into electricity, all that is necessary is to form huge reservoirs of thousands of acres. The tide would fill these at high water and at low water the reservoirs could be run off at strong pressure and made to operate turbines. Power thus obtained could be transmitted great distances. The advantage of this power would lie in cheapness and constancy.

Plants and Changes of the Weather.

They have a notion of several common plants when the barometer indicates a change of weather have been noted by a French observer. He found that if heads of clover and other leguminous plants stand upright there will be rain. If the leaves of sorrel turn up, it was a sure sign of storm, which is also foretold by the leaves of yellow grass slowly standing up. The closing of the flowers of convolvulus indicates rain, which, as is so generally believed, may be said of the flowers of the pimpernel and also of the lilies of the field. When the flowers of sorrel open, it is said to be a sure sign of fine weather, but if they close it will rain. If the flower of the carline thistle closes, there will be a storm. The expanding flowers of cinquefoil suggest rain, but their closing means fine weather. The African marigold flowers close before rain, while the scales of the teasel pressing close together pretty surely mean rain.

A Pretty Experiment.

Here is an experiment by which you may make some use of a bottle whose neck is broken. Pour oil into the bottle until it reaches the point at which you wish it to be cut clean through. Then place it horizontally upon a table and plunge suddenly into the oil a redhot poker. You will hear a snap, and then perceive that your bottle is cut regularly through, level with the liquid which it contains.

THE BROKEN BOTTLE.

You will thus transform a broken bottle into a presentable vessel. A notched glass may thus be transformed into a new one by removing each time a part of the oil and by cutting the bottle every time in the manner shown, you will get a series of glass rings curious to behold.

About a Popular Impression.

It is a popular impression that live fish may be frozen stiff and readily revived by carefully thawing them. The Industrial World tells that to test the accuracy of this impression a New Haven ice manufacturing company recently placed five live perch in water and froze the water solid. The freezing process took 60 hours. In order that the water congealed from the outside inwardly, the fish continued to swim about as long as they had room to move. The cake of ice containing the perch was left in a solid state for a day or two, and then cut open and the fish taken out and placed in water to thaw. They were carefully watched for a long time, but none of them exhibited any sign of life to the observant watchers.

THE CURIOSITY SHOP

ARCTIC EXPEDITIONS.

From the First American Expedition to the Greely Expedition of 1881.

The first great American expedition to the Arctic regions was made in 1850, when the ships Advance and Rescue started in search of the lost explorer Sir John Franklin and his party of 129 officers and men. Captain Penny followed in the following year, after an absence of 19 months, they returned, having discovered only supposed traces of the object of their search and leaving in entire uncertainty their actual fate.

The second American expedition, having for its object the same humane purpose, was due in a great measure to Dr. Kane and was made under the Geographical Society of New York, the American Philosophical society and other scientific associations. The ship Advance left New York May 30, 1853, on her second expedition, and reached Smith sound in the Arctic regions by this party, who reached latitude 80 degrees 56 minutes north, but their efforts were entirely fruitless so far as ascertaining any information regarding the fate of Franklin.

In 1855 the Vincennes, Commander John Rodgers, reached latitude 79 degrees 3 minutes north. In 1860 the George Henry, Commander Charles F. Hall, reached Frobisher bay, latitude 62 degrees north, and in the same year a party from the ship United States, Commander L. I. Hayes, reached by sledge latitude 81 degrees 35 minutes north. During 1866-9 the Monticello, Commander Charles F. Hall, reached King William's Land, and in 1871 the Polaris, under the same commander, reached latitude 82 degrees 16 minutes north.

The next expedition of particular importance was that of the Jeannette, Commander Lieutenant de Long, 1879-81. This unfortunate vessel was crushed June 13, 1881, in latitude 77 degrees 14 minutes 37 seconds north. In 1880 the Corwin, Commander Captain C. L. Hooper, who had sailed for the relief of the Jeannette, reached Wrangell Land, and in the same year the Rodgers, Commander Lieutenant F. E. Berry, reached latitude 73 degrees 38 minutes north. The Greely expedition of 1881 reached 83 degrees 24½ minutes north, and the island there found was named Lockwood island, in honor of Lieutenant Lockwood, who was in charge of the exploring party.

Wedding Anniversaries.

The custom of celebrating wedding anniversaries with peculiar gifts dates back to the mediæval Germans, among whom, if a married couple lived to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of their wedding, the wife was presented by her friends and neighbors with a silver rose, partly in congratulation of the good fortune that had prolonged the lives of the couple for so many years and partly in recognition of the fact that they must have known a fairly harmonious existence, otherwise one or the other would long ago have been worried into the grave. On the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary the wife received a wreath of gold. Thus these anniversaries came to be known as the silver wedding day and the golden wedding day.

This custom has been enlarged upon until we now have the cotton wedding, which is the first anniversary; the paper wedding, second anniversary; the leather wedding, third anniversary; the wooden wedding, fifth anniversary; the woolen wedding, seventh anniversary; the tin wedding, tenth anniversary; the silk and fine linen wedding, twelfth anniversary; the crystal wedding, fifteenth anniversary; the china wedding, twentieth anniversary; the silver wedding, twenty-fifth anniversary; the pearl wedding, thirtieth anniversary; the ruby wedding, fortieth anniversary; the golden wedding, fiftieth anniversary, and the diamond wedding on the seventy-fifth anniversary.

Antiquity of the Thermometer.

Hero of Alexandria, who lived about 130 B. C., is usually given the credit of having been the original inventor of an instrument for measuring the heat and cold of the atmosphere. This early thermometer continued in use until about the close of the sixteenth century. It was then reduced to a more convenient form by one Sanctorius, an Italian. During the following century it was improved upon by several different persons, especially Fahrenheit. In 1720 this man Fahrenheit, who, by the way, lived at Dantzig, on the shores of the Baltic sea, affixed the graduated scale and added other details which chiefly render the thermometer which bears his name the best instrument of practical utility which it is at the present time.

Quaint Old English Epitaphs.

The following is refreshing in these days of deceit on account of its candor:

Here lie the man Richard and Mary his wife;
Their surname was Prichard, and they lived without strife.
The reason was plain—they abounded in riches;
They had no crow nor pain, and the wife wore the breeches.

The owner of this inscription was probably a democrat and had some little pain-ful to relate:

This humble monument will show
Here lies an honest man;
You know, what trades are now as low,
Rise higher if you can!

Origin of "Cut a Dido."

Dido, queen of Tyre, about seven centuries before Christ, after her husband had been put to death by her brother, fled from that city and established a colony on the north coast of Africa. Having bargained with the natives for as much land as could be surrounded with a bull's hide, she cut the hide into narrow strips, tied them together and claimed the land that could be surrounded with the line thus made. She was allowed to have her way. And now when one plays a sharp trick he is said to "cut a dido."

Woman's Breaking Down.

Women, says a well known physician, are breaking down more rapidly than men. The reason of this is that they allow themselves to take less real rest. When a man drops business, he drops it. When a woman lets go of any work she may have on her mind, she tries it to her apron strings, as it were. She has been taught through long years of training that it is high crime and misdemeanor to let anything escape her mind. So, when she is supposed to be at rest, she is constantly pinching herself to see if she hasn't forgotten something. To this way she carries her burden into her resting hours and sits down among the roses of relaxation, with her foot on the treadle that turns the grindstone of drudgery.

If men kept their noses to the grindstone as persistently as women, they would be nervous and irritable "beyond compare." If women would get their own consent to rest, they would have better complexions, better stomachs and a happier life.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Renovation of a House.

The silk blouse of today has almost as many uses as the ordinary cat—that is, it is capable of appearing again and again, even after one is sure that its existence is at an end. A black silk waist which had been worn on all summer that lost its appearance this fall seemed impossible surprised every one the other evening at a musicale, all arrayed in lace. In order that it might be presentable the neck was cut square back and front; then a yoke of pale green silk was inserted. This was covered with Venetian lace, which also fell in a berthe and was arranged in frills over the shoulders. In place of the canvas belt one of pale green velvet was worn. At the side it tied in a bow. The full sleeves were finished with a frill of cream tinted lace. The waist looked like new, even if it had been worn all summer, and the improvements were homemade.—New York World.

Preservation of Rings.

"Don't wear your rings under gloves unless you remember to have them thoroughly examined twice a year," is the advice given by a jeweler. The constant friction wears out the tiny gold points that hold the stones in their settings, and much attention is paid to them they become loose in a very short time. Small purses of suede leather are made on purpose for this, or any soft pouch of skin or chamois may be used to place the rings in when desiring to carry them around with one. They should never be put into the ordinary pocketbook, as the rubbing against coins is also bad for them. Diamonds can be cleaned at home to look as well as when done by a jeweler if only a little trouble is taken. They should be thoroughly cleaned in alcohol and then dried in boxwood sawdust. Pine sawdust is too oily for this purpose.

Screens In Fashion.

Screens, so long out of fashion, are again in high vogue, and French women amuse themselves with hanging from old chests and drawers old pieces of old silk and having frames made to fit them, from which results new forms in screens, by which handsomest means, however, are likely to be discovered no new form of beauty. It is the latest amusement. Japanese lacquered and embroidered screens are in much favor here, but the Japanese gilded leather screens, to which the English are partial, seem to be not to French taste. Cheap Japanese screens are sold, as a rule, desirable, as they are apt to be so raw in color that they disorganize the whole color scheme of a room. More desirable are bamboo screens, with panels of Zanzibar matting.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Mrs. Paget's Swan Boats.

In Boston in the public garden swan boats sail over the pond. And the owner and manager of the Boston swan boats is a woman. Mrs. Paget, for that is the name of the woman whose fortune consists of these remarkable vessels, does not herself stand at the landing and solicit "fares," but leaves that practical part of her business to a man. She goes very frequently to the landing, however, and studies the interests of the swan boat industry. She makes a very comfortable living from her novel income, which she has managed for 14 years.—Exchange.

Tea and Coffee.

Charles Delmonico, who will be acknowledged an undisputed authority, says that tea and coffee of the best brands are often ruined by the water with which they are made. In order to make good coffee or tea the water must not only boil, but it must be freshly drawn and heated in a clean kettle free from deposits, which should be frequently cleaned with soda and sand. The water should be boiled quickly and used at once. For water to steam or simmer and evaporate, he declares, improves the air, but it is itself spoiled for fine cooking purposes.

Woman Writers Live Long.

The longevity of literary men and women is above the average. Amelia Opie, Miss Edgeworth, Caroline Herschel, Mary Somerville, Maria Mitchell, George Eliot, George Sand, Harriet Martineau, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Frances Power Cobbe, Charlotte Cushman, Fanny Kemble, Mrs. Emma Willard, Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and many other noted writers and thinkers have lived and worked far up into the sixties, seventies and eighties.

Bright Eyes.

Fashionable women unwisely try to enhance the brilliancy of their eyes by exposing them to an air slightly impregnated with a powerful acid or rub over each eye a tiny quantity of belladonna ointment. This artificial dilation has ere now and again been the means of injuring beyond repair the sight. Plenty of sleep and good digestion will make any woman's eyes as bright as need be.—Exchange.

Cheap Pillowshams.

A young housekeeper says: "I save all my scraps, however small, of white lace and embroidery, and I beg from my friends what bits I can. Then when I get enough to sew on when thrown together as you would make a crazy quilt and finish off the edge with lace ruffles. The result is the richest, most effective pillowshams for the least money that ever I have seen."

Bath Sandals.

A fastidious woman with a slender purse fashions her bath sandals from the Turkish toweling matching her bath robe. A pasteboard sole is modeled after that of an ordinary slipper and covered. The high tongue, cut from wigan, are covered to a side and o st and adorned with a natty red bow.

How Egyptian Women Ride.

An Egyptian woman takes a man's saddle, shortens the stirrups until the feathers are only a couple of inches long, sits on the saddle as far forward as she can, throws her feet to the near and rides solely from balance. Syrian women ride as men do.

In their protest against the Chinese exclusion law the Chinese Civil Rights league of New York declare that law to be "monstrous, inhuman and unconstitutional." It was a curious gathering, the meeting of the league members. It was attended by a hundred Chinese in American dress. The president of the meeting was Dr. Thoms, a Chinese physician who has an honorable reputation for medical attainments in Brooklyn, where he lives. White people call him also to attend them sometimes. He said in his introductory speech that the Chinese were victims, and had been treated in the United States with an inhumanity not equaled by that received by the Jew in Russia, yet the people of the United States were among the first to protest against the czar's treatment of his Hebrew subjects. Wong Chin Foo, the learned Chinese who writes and reports in the English language for the New York Sun, said: "You have never known the Chinese to kick till now. Show me a Chinaman willing to work for as low wages or live in such hovels as the Italian or Polish Jew."

The original telephone patent covered all methods for transmitting speech electrically or by wire, and was issued to Professor A. Graham Bell. The patent expires March 7.
